Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Senator Margaret Chase Smith says she's as mad as a hornet about some Idaho potatoes showing up at a Air Force base in the state of Maine. She's doubly mad because she says, because she is the second time it happened and because the base is located in Aroostook County, center of the Maine potato industry.
If she'll look into it she'll probably find that all the potatoes from Idaho come from the Government she ought to know this is standard procedure in our armed forces. Our military bases in Italy get their spaghetti in cans from New York and in Alaska they probably get their Eskimo pies from Hoboken, New Jersey. The boys in the Pentagon like to keep things moving, Margaret.

Cub Scouts of Chelsea will conduct their kite-flying contest Saturday, beginning at 1:30 p.m., providing weather and wind conditions are favorable.
The contest, sponsored by the VFW Auxiliary, was originally scheduled for March 29 but was postponed because of insufficient wind for successful kite flying. Saturday's flying will take place on the Marvin Salyer property, north of Cavanaugh Lake road, across from the Methodist Home. Prizes will be given for the kite that flies the highest and steadily.
The contest scheduled two weeks ago was on the Downer farm but that field is no longer available because it is being fitted for planting.

Firemen Fight 6 Grass Fires This Week

Of the eight calls received by the Chelsea Fire Department from Thursday until Tuesday, six were because of grass fires.
The grass fires included one which started on the Frederick Henss farm, 5975 Dexter-Pinckney road, and spread over 550 acres before it was extinguished by fire departments from Chelsea, Pinckney and Dexter, assisted by Civil Defense Auxiliary Police units.
The fire started Saturday, at about 11 a.m., and raged for several hours before it was brought under control.
The other grass fires were listed by the Chelsea Fire Department as follows: Thursday, 4:10 p.m., on the Raney Arnett property 18488 M-92; Friday, 2:20 p.m., on state land on Hankland road near Hair Moon Lake; and 5:05 p.m., on the Floyd Gentner farm, 3451 Waltrous road; Monday, 1:30 p.m., on the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club property on Lingane road (started when youngsters built a fire); and Tuesday, 5:20 p.m., on the Floyd Fowler farm, 2350 Dan-car road, reportedly started by sparks from a train on the New York Central tracks.
At 11:35 p.m. Sunday, Chelsea firemen were called to the Schooley motel on Fletcher road where the office building roof was damaged by fire started from a shorted wire on a neon sign. A power transformer was also burned out.

Gasoline Thefts Reported in Area Monday Night

Sheriff's officers are investigating two thefts of gasoline in this area and one in the Pittsfield Village area Monday night and Tuesday morning.
At 2 a.m. Tuesday it was discovered that an undetermined amount of gasoline had been siphoned from a tractor-trailer truck parked at the Truckers' Restaurant at US-12 and M-92. A one-gallon glass jug was found near the truck which is owned by the Mack Auto Transport Co., officers said.
At 4 a.m., a four-foot length of rubber hose was found sticking out of the gas tank of a car parked near the Chelsea Milling Co. It is believed someone who may have been siphoning gasoline from the tank were frightened away, leaving the hose behind.
At Pittsfield Village, Monday, a 13-foot length of hose and a three-gallon can were found near a car. There was gasoline in the can and about five gallons of gas had been spilled on the ground nearby. Neighbors in the area said they saw an old model car pull away from the parked car and race down the street without lights.

Water Rates Revised To Help Pay For Improvements To Facilities

The new water rate schedule for Chelsea went into effect Tuesday, April 1. The new rate structure will increase rates for smaller users almost double the former rate but will still be less than the rate in other nearby towns.
Large quantity users, such as area industries, which long have been paying water rates comparable to those in other cities, while the smaller users have paid very little, will be approximately on their former schedule.
The rates, fixed after extensive study of the water situation by engineers and extensive adjusting by the water committee of the Village Council, with the assistance of all Council members, are based on amount of usage.
Meters of the size known as 1/2-inch will serve users whose minimum usage is 6,000 gallons or less, the minimum quarterly rate being $3.50 which includes a service charge of $1.50.
When a meter shows that a maximum of 60,000 gallons is being used, it will be necessary to change the meter to the next larger size, a 3/4-inch, and for these users the service charge rate will be $3.00, included in a minimum quarterly charge of $6.00. Meters will be replaced at the user's expense.
The schedule increases as follows: 1-inch meter, $5.50 service charge for a minimum of 24,000 gallons at $12.70; 1 1/4-inch meter, $7.50 service charge included in the minimum charge of $17.70; 2-inch meter, $14.50 service charge, included in the minimum charge of $47.50 for 150,000 gallons; 3-inch meter, $23.50 service charge in the minimum quarterly charge of $80.50 for 270,000 gallons; and 4-inch meter, $45.50 service charge, included in the minimum of $152.50 for 540,000 gallons.
Compared with the old rates, those who will pay the highest increase in charges, in addition to the smaller users, are those using water for air conditioning systems and similar purposes.
Former water rates for domestic and commercial users was 20 cents per thousand gallons for the first 15,000 gallons and 10 cents per thousand gallons for all water used over that amount. Minimum rate was $1.50 quarterly.
Industry and schools paid 20 cents per thousand gallons for the first million gallons and 10 cents per thousand and per month for all water over that amount.
Under the new rate structure, private sprinkler systems, installed in industrial plants, etc., for emergency use in case of fire, are to be subject to a surcharge of $25.00 per year or fraction thereof, to cover cost of monitoring and periodic flow tests.
The new rate structure was decided upon as a means of providing the money needed to help provide new mains, new wells which are in the process of testing, new 200,000-gallon ground storage tank and new pumps and pump house to double the present filtration capacity.
It was pointed out by the water committee of the Village Council that last summer pumps were working 24 hours a day and the storage supply was steadily diminished.

TB Association To Observe 35th Year at Annual Meeting

The 35th anniversary of the organization of the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Association will be observed at the annual association meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. April 15, in the community room at Ann Arbor High school.
All remaining past presidents and founders of the county association are to receive special recognition at the meeting. Included among these is Mrs. Warren Daniels of Chelsea, who was president during the 1955-56 year. The past presidents will be introduced by the executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, J. Irvin Nichols.
Everyone interested in the work of the tuberculosis association is invited to attend the annual meeting which is open to the public. Parent-Teacher Association groups from the 15 schools in the eastern part of the county are being especially invited to attend because the schools they represent are those selected for a new tuberculin and histoplasmin testing program.
Histoplasmosis, a fungus disease with symptoms similar to those of tuberculosis can be ruled out as tuberculosis by means of the tuberculin test and an explanation of the program will be given for the benefit of the PTA groups of the 15 schools they represent.
Included are five schools in Ann Arbor: Ford in Ypsilanti; and schools at Milan and Willow Run. Lincoln Consolidated school is also included in the test program.
Lyndon voters approve Consumers Power Co. franchise extension.
Lyndon township electors confirmed the action taken Feb. 17 by the township board when they approved a new 30-year franchise for Consumers Power Co. by a vote of 38 "yes" and 4 "no," Wednesday, April 2.
Thirty-eight votes were cast, two being void.
The new franchise for supplying electrical power in the township succeeds a previous franchise dated Feb. 21, 1928.
Sharon township was to vote on a similar franchise yesterday.

Midshipman David Bertke Named on Honor List At Naval Academy

Annapolis, Md. — Midshipman David E. Bertke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Bertke of 717 S. Main street, Chelsea, Mich., class of 1958, has been appointed to the Superintendent's List at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., for his accomplishments during the first term of the academic year 1957-58, it was announced today.

The list is similar in many ways to the Dean's List at many colleges and universities. In order for a midshipman to be so honored, he had to meet a minimum academic average of 3.3 (82.5 per cent) in his studies, have a mark no lower than 3.2 (80 per cent) in aptitude, and possess a conduct standing satisfactory to the Commandant of Midshipmen.

Those who achieve the distinction of making the Superintendent's List are granted special privileges commensurate with their class for the succeeding term. This also creates among the midshipmen an increased interest in doing well and taking deeper pride in their work.

Getting Along with People Is Problem of Adolescents

(This is the fourth in a short series of articles written especially for Michigan weekly newspapers on the problems of young people between childhood and adolescence. The author is associate professor of vocational education at Michigan State University.)

By Dr. Mary Lee Hurt
East Lansing—Young adolescents need help from their parents and friends in learning to control their tempers, and to overcome shyness and bashfulness. They want to be considered and appreciated by others and they are beginning to realize the importance of being helpful, cooperative and always pleasant.

The "betweeners" have many problems in learning how to make and keep friends and in getting along with their families—especially their brothers and sisters.

Dating becomes a new experience, complete with problems. As young people between the ages of 11 and 14 begin to "cut the apron strings" they also begin to have worries about the inevitable conflicts which arise with parents.

They still do enjoy doing things with their families, especially picnics and family celebrations such as birthdays and holidays.

These young adolescents need help and understanding. They need to have the opportunity to talk over "why" if parents say "no." They have questions that should be answered.

How to ask for and accept dates, what to do for fun without spending much money, and how to carry on a conversation—these are some of the questions that need answers. "Betweeners" need someone older to help with their problems and in gaining an understanding of why people behave as they do. Most of all they need patience and understanding as they begin the trounguous times of adolescent years.

The Future Nurses' club made a field trip to Foote hospital and Foote Nursing school on March 28. The girls left Wednesday noon by car and reached Chelsea again at approximately 4:30.

Following their arrival at the hospital there was a question-and-answer period held in one of the class rooms at the Nursing school. Then followed a tour of the hospital during which the girls saw the diet kitchen, physical therapy department, X-ray department, the operating rooms, the pediatric floor, the surgery annex, the medical floor, the orthopedic floor, and the laboratory. There was then a tour of the nurses home, after which refreshments were served.

The Golf club meets every Wednesday morning during activity period. Jon Harris and Quentin Smith are the student advisors and coaches. Averages have recently been figured, but are not available for publication.

The club is very glad that spring is finally here to stay, they hope. Many of the members golf now, after school and week-ends. Many more will be playing during spring vacation.

The evening choir practiced long and hard and sang very well at the Methodist church. The evening choir joins the day choir in all the concerts, and they are now planning and practicing for a spring concert.

Art classes are working hard on tooth-pick sculpture and abstractions, which they find very interesting and challenging.

Things are almost back to normal again for all Juniors. Their play is over and all are proud of its success. Everyone is busy buying and trading pictures of the always-to-be-remembered occasion. Of course, such an event wouldn't go by without some merry-making. Sharon Slane entertained the cast and crew Friday night at her home, while open house was declared by George Mayer and Pat Merkel at the former's residence. Saturday evening, dancing, games, excited "Ten O'Clock Scholar" talk, and food blended together and came out as two evenings of first class fun.

The next big project is the prom. Committees have already been organized with members of the original prom committee as chairmen under the general supervision of Earl Heller. Sandra Karner and Sharon Slane are co-chairmen in charge of decorations. Lynn McManis and Sue Patrick will take responsibility of the banquet. Ellen Keusch must solve the refreshment problem while Carole Bary will take over the decorations. Don Wood takes care of programs, and Robert Steger will recruit service for the banquet. Lois Stark will oversee the cleaning up project. Anita Eiseaman heads the entertainment committee. Credit will be given to the members of these committees at a later date. The theme of the prom will be announced later. The date is May 24. Good Luck, Juniors!!!

The annual staff has sent in 60 pages for printing and they are now working on the final stages of the yearbook. Next week the selling campaign begins and orders will be taken for the annual.

The girls in FHA sold fudge in the main hall of CHS on Thursday, April 3.

They have the opportunity of going swimming at the Ann Arbor pool. This will take place on Tuesday, April 15. Have fun, girls!!!

The seniors are busy trying to raise money for their trip to New York City. At a class meeting March 20 it was decided to take Mr. and Mrs. James LaGoe and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bald on the trip as chaperons. All class dues are to be paid by April 15.

During the hurry and scurry of planning for the trip the seniors have not forgotten graduation day. They have ordered their announcements and were measured for their caps and gowns April 2.

Llewellyn Lehman, a 1956 graduate of Chelsea and a sophomore at Michigan State University, talked to the senior class on March 27 about going to college. On April 4, two Marine recruiters from the Ypsilanti post, presented a assembly to the seniors on the life of a marine.

Seventh grade shop has been working on several different units such as woodworking, cold metal, sheet metal, plaster of paris, electrical, plumbing, leather. T.A. has made several very good ones and all agree that they like shop. They also learned the names of many tools.

The advanced shop classes have been making model garages. Several wood chests have also been made.

Home Economics classes are beginning to make blouses. They have just finished reading about sewing from their books.

The Future Teachers' Club held a meeting on April 2. The touring of a college was discussed at this meeting but further arrangements must be made with the school board before plans may be completed.

James Weir, an alumnus of Chelsea High spoke to the club about the advantages of a small college. Jim is now a freshman at Olivet College.

Members of the GAA (Girls Athletic Association) at a recent meeting received a mimeographed sheet telling the number of points earned by each girl. Many girls are near the 200-point mark and are working for a school letter. Those wishing a GAA pin must earn 300 points.

Plans for the Sponge Dance were discussed and committees chosen.

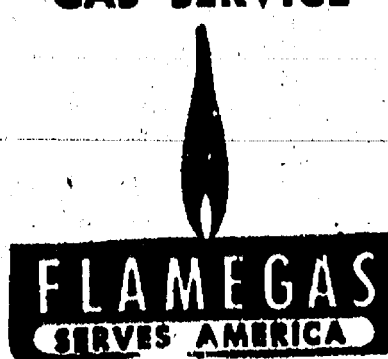

The Sophomore-English class has been reading and doing lots of things in their literature books. In geometry they have been learning about circles. In typing they have been having timed tests and typing out letters and receipts.

Student Council approved plans for the Seniors to hold a dance on May 4, the proceeds going to a charity. A committee of Donna Klink, Donna Moore, and Mary Ann Steger will make finishing plans for the Student Council election to be held the second school Wednesday of May. Any sophomore or junior who is planning to run for either president or vice-president must have 20 per cent of the student body sign their petition. The present officers will present a plan to the Student Council at their next meeting to help substitute teachers with any questions they might have.

Eight grade students are now pouring over requirements for college, puzzling over what they want to make of themselves, and hurriedly counting credits. Some have been heard to say, "Good Heavens, I've never even heard of that course." But never fear they will make it!

MISSILE RACE
London, England—Authoritative sources in Britain have announced that a missile is now being perfected whose range will exceed that of either the Thor or the Jupiter missiles now in production in the United States.
This missile will be fired from underground sites, these sources said. British military scientists regard this as a step beyond the United States missiles designed to be fired from ground level and hence as vulnerable to attack as bombers on an airfield.

FTC Studies Filter Tip Effectiveness

The Federal Trade Commission recently invited representatives of the leading cigarette manufacturing companies to attend a conference on the development of standard specifications for testing cigarette smoke for tar and nicotine content.

This came at the time when the FTC was accusing the cigarette industry of misleading advertising concerning filter cigarettes. The FTC says the industry introduced filters as a health guard, because of widespread fear of a connection between cigarette smoking and cancer, and that when the public found taste reduced, the filters were changed.

Yet the advertising campaign, leading the public to believe the filters were effective, continued, it is said.

First the filters were loosened, to let more smoke and other elements through, and then heavier, stronger tobacco was used—which upset the tobacco market to a disturbing degree.

But—more important—the use of heavier, stronger tobacco increased greatly the consumption of tar and nicotine in many cigarettes and the result is that many filter smokers today are getting alarmingly larger doses of tar and nicotine from their more expensive filter (which costs about the same to produce) than they were getting in that same filter cigarette a year or two ago.

This means that the public has been led to believe filters are safer when today they actually are not. The FTC says today's smoker gets as much of the undesirable elements (or elements thought to be undesirable) in many filters as he did in non-filters a year or two back. That means the public is paying more for filters, which have been used to change smoking habits, and have been used as an excuse to raise prices.

But, except in a few cases, there is substantially no more protection, or even less. This is a serious indictment of the companies affected. The FTC conference on standard specifications for testing the amount of tar and nicotine was a sound suggestion and such standards should be set up, if necessary, by law.

What is more, advertising of tobacco manufacturers, toothpaste people, and drug-and-remedy producers should be at all times carefully checked. While the FTC should not be empowered to persecute any free enterprise, neither should any business organization be allowed to perpetrate a fraud on the American people, or mislead them in any way on matters which affect their health and welfare.

That Tiny Typographical Error

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly. You can hunt until you are dizzy, but somehow it gets by. Till the forms are off the presses, it is strange how still it keeps.

It shrinks down in a corner, and it never stirs or peeps—That typographical error, too small for human eyes, Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.

The boss just stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans; The copy reader drops his head upon his hands and moans;

The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be, But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

Acting more ignorant than you actually are usually has its advantages.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan will sing its own praises to the rest of the world May 4-10.

This year Michigan Week takes on an added seriousness in the quest for new industry and more jobs to counter an economic situation which hit with harder impact here than in other states.

It is the week each year set aside for the state to assess its progress in all phases of life.

Working committees have been appointed in industry, business, the arts, education and government among many others.

On May 6, the mayors and village presidents of more than 380 municipalities will change places for a day, to pick up new ideas and observe how the other fellow lives.

The program was started five years ago by the state Department of Economic Development with the slogan, "Michigan is a Great Place to Live."

The department has figured prominently in the controversy over whether taxes are driving industry out of Michigan and discouraging existing firms from expanding.

But once a year, the department organizes the week-long observance on the theory that it is hard to ignore a place where everyone is so proud.

Republican leaders of the more conservative bent are trying to disprove the old theory that "Nothing Succeeds Like Success." For 10 years, Democrats have held the governor's office and have later gained control of all other executive posts.

Republicans have brought themselves up short, charging that their party has been trying to emulate the formula of success of Gov. Williams and the Democrats.

Senator John W. Smeekeens (R-Coldwater) said the party should come up with its own ideas and techniques, basing its appeal on the conservatism which made it great in the past.

The idea is not new. It was sounded by the late Senator Robert Taft, Ohio, and others.

On a national scale, it was repeated by Senator Knowland of California, who campaigned for governor on a platform containing the "right-to-work" proposal.

This idea, that a worker may not be forced to join a union to keep his job or obtain one, had been called political suicide.

"It wouldn't be possible to pass the bill in Michigan right now, but it would be a good campaign issue," said one leading Republican.

Senator Smeekeens' idea: "I believe the voter should have his choice as between two parties, not a me and me-too choice."

Airplane passengers cannot demand that the pilot stop and let them off at the next corner. That's why Michigan, in its "Guest Passenger Act" imposed severe liabilities on the pilot—until the 1938 legislature made the changes.

The bill, which legislators considered a mistake after any chance of reserving themselves was gone, gives the pilot of an airplane a better break than the driver of a car.

The driver can be held liable for damages if he carries guest passengers. The pilot can be held responsible only for negligence.

Voters will write the final chapter for the 1938 legislature next November—long after the lawmakers have gone home to campaign for re-election.

They have made the issue clear for the man who steps into the booth and pulls the curtains next Nov. 4.

The question is whether he wants more economy and less government or expanded services from state government and expects to pay for them in taxes. Republicans in the legislature have gone through the mental torture of self-examination and are pinning their hopes next Nov. 4 on economy.

The Republicans who head the committees who will determine state spending for next year have taken heart.

They make their decisions from behind stacks of telegrams and letters encouraging them to cut "some of the frills" in state government and keep taxes at the present level.

"You've got a lot of courage and we're for you in your campaign for economy," said one letter to a GOP finance leader.

The other side of the coin shows the increased pressure for services. Universities and colleges claim that their academic programs will be damaged if the proposed reductions from current appropriations stand.

How can a man stand up for his own beliefs, in a democracy?

If we are on a committee, we have the right to file a "minority report," in which we set forth the reasons for our beliefs.

We may use our powers of persuasion to try to influence the majority, so they will be willing to approve the course of action we think is right.

But what if we can't persuade the majority that our views are best?

We may forget our "peculiar" beliefs, and tell ourselves that the majority is probably right. The danger here is that we may violate our own integrity.

We may secretly disobey any law that seems unjust to us. But if every citizen felt at liberty to disobey any law he didn't like, our country would be on the verge of anarchy.

Perhaps the best thing to do is openly to disobey any law that seems unjust to us. This should give us the privilege of being arrested and of having a fair trial, with the possibility that the law be changed.

If we are on a committee, we have the right to file a "minority report," in which we set forth the reasons for our beliefs.

We may use our powers of persuasion to try to influence the majority, so they will be willing to approve the course of action we think is right.

But what if we can't persuade the majority that our views are best?

We may forget our "peculiar" beliefs, and tell ourselves that the majority is probably right. The danger here is that we may violate our own integrity.

We may secretly disobey any law that seems unjust to us. But if every citizen felt at liberty to disobey any law he didn't like, our country would be on the verge of anarchy.

Perhaps the best thing to do is openly to disobey any law that seems unjust to us. This should give us the privilege of being arrested and of having a fair trial, with the possibility that the law be changed.

The Republicans who head the committees who will determine state spending for next year have taken heart.

They make their decisions from behind stacks of telegrams and letters encouraging them to cut "some of the frills" in state government and keep taxes at the present level.

"You've got a lot of courage and we're for you in your campaign for economy," said one letter to a GOP finance leader.

The other side of the coin shows the increased pressure for services. Universities and colleges claim that their academic programs will be damaged if the proposed reductions from current appropriations stand.

How can a man stand up for his own beliefs, in a democracy?

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

SHOULD TEXTILES BE TAGGED? A colorful skein of pros and cons has been unraveling in recent weeks before the Senate Commerce Committee, as we hear testimony on the Textile Fiber Products Identification Act. Senators have been treated to a short course in the properties of cotton, rayon and nylon—indeed, on all natural and man-made fibers—by a parade of expert witnesses.

Already approved by the House, the bill before us would require textile products to carry a stamp, tag or label showing the percentage of various fiber contents in the item. At present, wool is just about the only fiber required by law to be clearly marked.

In shopping for father's shirts, mother's dresses, or items for the family linen chest, it is important that the buyer be protected from fraud. Those who favor the bill point out that rayon, cheapest but weakest textile fiber, frequently is blended with cotton to produce a fabric which in appearance is almost indistinguishable from 100 per cent cotton.

Nylon, famous for durability, often is blended with other fibers to give strength, but the proportion of nylon must be at least 80 per cent if its benefits are to be realized. Many articles are marked and promoted as nylon products when the actual content is as low as one per cent. This practice, of course, hurts everyone along the line—nylon producers, honest textile manufacturers, retailers and consumers.

Certainly the consumer has the right to know the fiber content of a textile product he purchases, and producers of quality merchandise are entitled to protection from deceptive quality-cutting practices. But what of the manufacturer who produces large basic products, using small amounts of textiles for secondary purposes only?

I am thinking of the furniture makers who use upholstery stuffing, furniture coverings, linings, stiffeners, trimmings and the like. In this instance, the textile fabric is chosen more for decorative appeal and texture than for the qualities one requires in wearing apparel. It would certainly seem that furniture makers should be exempted from the law. To them a labeling requirement would be more nuisance than protection, and it would mean little to the ultimate purchaser.

In the meantime, the hearings proceed and Senators are inspecting, sampling, neckties, and giving their socks the stretch-test in a new mood of textile-consciousness. From the ancient days when sandals and togged lawnmowers strode through the Roman forum, to modern times when a Congressman encooses himself in a pinstripe model, a man's attire may well determine the world's opinion of him. And that, if nothing else, may swing Senatorial sympathy behind the textiles tagging law.

Guests for a few days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Douglas and Mrs. Charles Messner were the former's sister, Mrs. her husband Mr. and Mrs. M. Jameson of Royal Oak, and Mrs. Julia Richards of East Ann Arbor.

Elk in Northern Michigan

This member of northern Michigan's elk herd stopped a moment for the Conservation Department cameraman before trotting back into his Pigeon River state forest home. The herd is located northeast of Atlanta and numbers 600-700 animals.

PROTECTED ANIMALS:

Michigan's Elk Herd Continues To Increase

Lansing—Michigan's elk herd, which now numbers 600-700 animals, continues to grow in numbers, but seems to be having trouble expanding its range.

The bulk of the herd lives in Pigeon River state forest, northeast of Gaylord.

The herd started in Michigan in 1918, when seven animals were trapped at Jackson Hole, Wyo., and released near Vanderbilt.

Since then, the herd has grown and thrived at various times, but in recent years has been developing strongly.

At present, 90 per cent of the herd is enclosed in the area from Gaylord to Atlanta to Onaway to Indian River and back to Gaylord.

Also, a concentration may be found west of Black Lake, another near the Hardwood nursery at Boyne Falls, and east of Gaylord.

Several years ago, blindness began to show up in some of the elk; also some lost their fear of humans and others seemed generally dopey.

Whether the salt turned the trick or whether the blindness and disease died out by itself is unknown, but in recent years very infrequent cases of disease have appeared.

At present, the Department distributes salt each year throughout the elk range.

Grass Called County's Most Valuable Crop

Hay and pasture are Washtenaw county's most valuable crops according to Don Johnson, Washtenaw County Agricultural Agent. According to 1955 census of agriculture—the county had 120,088 acres of hay and pasture. The next largest crop acreage was corn with 50,581 acres.

At a recent county forage meeting, Johnson had an opportunity to visit with farmers about hay and pasture. Most farmers believe that pastures are the most neglected single crop grown.

At the forage meeting, specialists from Michigan State University made recommendations on how to improve hay and pasture. Don Murray, dairy specialist, stated we have good quality cattle and they deserve the best quality of feed if they are to produce to their maximum. They cited research which proves high production is achieved in part through feeding high quality hay and pasture.

Milk Erdman, farm crops specialist, stated the value of forage varies with the species of plant grown. Grow the best, preferably legumes and make it alfalfa if possible. Buy the best seed—because it's the cheapest in the long run.

Stage of maturity at harvest is the most important management factor. Harvesting at proper stage of maturity produces highest quality forage and most palatable.

Paul Road, soils specialist, asked the question, "Is your soil in the best possible condition and level of fertility to do the best job of growing the best possible crop? Do you test your soil to know what the level of fertility is?" It only costs 50 cents at the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory.

Road presented research data which showed fertilizing hay and pasture is a very profitable practice.

Robert White, agricultural engineering specialist, believes many good hay and pasture crops are not harvested and stored in such a way as to maintain highest quality. If it is put up as grass silage out at right stage of maturity, early bloom. Use a preservative, especially if it's a little wet. Grass silage should have a pH of 4.2.

Your County Agent will test your silage—PH free of charge. Handle dry hay in such a way as to get highest quality, hold the leaves. Seventy per cent of feed value is in the leaves. There are many excellent farm tools which help to insure good quality. He stated a farmer should know his machinery capacity. Before expanding the farm business know all the machinery and storage requirements. Local county agricultural agents can help farmers secure this information. Buy the machine because it is part of the system. Would it pay to own the machine? Know your system.

Ban on Training Dogs Is Designed To Protect Young Animals, Birds

Lansing—The annual ban on dog training in Michigan—designed to protect young game animals and nesting birds from over-eager hunting dogs—is in effect from April 15 to July 15.

During this period, it is unlawful to train or run dogs. From July 15 through Aug. 14, dogs may be trained between sunrise and sunset on such birds and animals as may be lawfully hunted with dogs. From Aug. 15 through the opening of raccoon season, dogs may be trained at any time.

The night-time training after Aug. 15 allows sportsmen to ready dogs for fox and raccoon hunting.

County Conservation Worker Explains Soil Testing Procedures, Benefits To Be Gained

John Trustdorf, soil conservationist with the Washtenaw County Agricultural Extension Office, appearing on behalf of Don Johnson, extension agent, gave a talk on "The Why and How of Soil Testing" at the meeting of the Washtenaw Organic Farm and Garden Club Monday, March 17.

Trustdorf told of the glacial origin of the soils in Michigan which explains the great variety of soils to be found in the state. He said that in one field alone as many as six kinds of soil may be found. He explained the different attributes of soil: the texture, structure and fertility problems on hillides, gullies, etc. but can occur in a level field by force of rain and wind beating on the uncovered soil.

A legume crop can grow on one field for three years, Trustdorf explained, and keep building up nitrogen but after that will need added nutrients. In long-range practice in soil science, the soil should be tested a full year ahead and crop plans made accordingly.

Through the practice of good soil science and the knowledge of soil conservation the sandy, barren land of the northern part of Michigan will be built into good producing farms, Trustdorf predicted, and told of his own experience in raising fine garden produce in that area by using sawdust for humus and nitrogen to support its decomposition.

County School Children Will Receive Test for Tuberculosis, Histoplasmosis

Announcement was made today by Dr. Otto Engleke, Washtenaw county health officer, of a limited testing program to begin April 28, in the eastern section of the county to determine the percentage of children experiencing infections with either or both tuberculosis and histoplasmosis.

The two diseases which are easily confused on the basis of X-ray findings are suspected of being relatively common in Washtenaw county. Histoplasmosis, while not as serious as tuberculosis, produces the same type of shadows on an X-ray as does tuberculosis.

"Recently diagnosed cases of histoplasmosis and the findings of our mass X-ray surveys have led us to believe that histoplasmosis is present in Washtenaw county, although the disease is commonly found farther south," said Dr. Engleke.

The testing program will be conducted in several selected school systems in Washtenaw county by the Health Department in co-operation with the Washtenaw county Tuberculosis Association, the Southeastern Michigan Tuberculosis Detection Project and the Michigan Department of Health.

"It is anticipated that about 12,000 children will be offered a chance to participate in the tests. The consent of the parents is required before the child is tested. Both tests will be given at the same time," said Dr. Engleke.

The tests simply involve putting a drop of clear fluid under the skin of the forearm. This fluid has been used in these tests for years and gives a very accurate indication as to whether the child has had any previous infection with either the tuberculosis or histoplasmosis germs. After 72 hours, the results of the tests will be "read" by the same teams who gave them and the parents will be notified of the results of the tests.

"It should be borne in mind, however, that a reaction of these tests does not mean that an active case of tuberculosis or histoplasmosis actually exists," said Dr. Engleke. "It does mean, however, that the child has had at one time or another, some contact with tuberculosis germs and should have a further and a more complete examination, including an X-ray."

The Health Department plans to secure the services of a portable X-ray unit which can take the large, 14x17 X-rays to give the X-rays to those children who show an abnormal reaction to the tests.

The program will begin April 28 and continue through May 23. Testing and reading will be done in the child's own school.

"The co-operation and participation of every parent is requested in order to make this study as successful as possible, both from the standpoint of protection of the children and the community," Dr. Engleke said.

NEWS * HOLLYWOOD

Rosemary Clooney and her husband, Jose Ferrer, are expecting their fourth child in October.

Rosemary plans to take a year off from television when her current show ends in June.

Ann Kashfi Brando, invited to a shower a year ago, didn't know what it was. To her a shower was in the bathroom. So Pier-Angeli gave her a baby shower recently, and she got enough gifts to care for twins.

Just as Russ Tamblyn was leaving London where he played "Tom Thumk" on film, he learned he couldn't exchange the $1,600 he had in pounds into dollars. So he bought silver trays, candelabra and other sumptuous stuff. On arrival home he learned he was due to leave for the Army. Wonder if he is in the chow line these days complete with silver tray and service?

Dennis Crosby figures on an April marriage, and his brother Gary will be home from Germany.

Paul Douglas and Jan Sterling have always wanted to make a picture together, and this summer they might get around to it. They have in view "All in a Day," written by Gary H. Richardson.

Lauren Bacall got herself in a bind over the announcement that she and Frank Sinatra will be wed. Frank didn't help any when his comment was: "I've always believed that an actor's personal life is his own business. I see no reason to alter my thinking on this at this time."

Whether this merger comes off or not, only time will tell.

Shepherd Arizow is producing Tennessee Williams' "Orpheus Descending" on the screen, and hopes to get Anna Magnani, Tony Franciosa and Carroll Baker for it.

Paulette Goddard flipped her lid over Erich Remarque's performance in "A Time to Love." She said, "I thought I married an actor, but I've married another actor." She's so proud of him she's showing the picture to sixty or so pals in New York before it is generally released.

Clark Gable and Doris Day are teamed for the first time in Paramount's "Teacher's Pet," a romantic comedy with a newspaper theme.

Treat Gasoline With Respect, Fire Chief Urges

"Gasoline is a friend," says Fire Chief Ed Balmer in a Spring Clean-Up reminder. "We could hardly move without it."

But it needs to be treated with healthy respect, he warned. Just a small amount of this fuel can cause enough fiery destruction to result even in injury and death.

People today are using more and more gasoline-powered equipment like lawnmowers, outboard motors and garden tractors, the chief pointed out. When you are handling gasoline, use caution, he urged.

Put out cigarettes before pouring gasoline. Don't attempt to refuel a tank when the motor is running or hot—stop it and let it cool off.

Do your fueling outdoors. It's asking for trouble to do it indoors, in closed garages and especially in below-grade basements.

Store gasoline in a standard red safety can (look for the UL label). Glass jugs break easily, old oil cans leak and spill.

"Above all," urges the Chief, "keep in mind you're dealing with a potentially dangerous fluid, so be especially careful. That accident can happen to you as well as the other fellow."

Ann Arbor-Talented teen-age musicians from southern Michigan in the Michigan Youth Symphony will present a concert at 2 p.m., Saturday, April 12, at the Rackham Auditorium, Detroit. Included in the group is Byron Pearson of Chelsea, who plays the cornet.

Sponsored by the University of Michigan Extension Service in cooperation with the U-M School of Music, the Youth Symphony is composed of select students between the ages of 12 and 22 from communities within a 150 mile radius of Ann Arbor.

Michigan Youth Symphony, now in its eighth season, was organized for the purpose of providing an opportunity for ambitious young musicians to work together in the study and performance of great orchestral music.

Orien Daley, director of the Youth Symphony, is lecturer in music for the School of Music and director of music for the U-M Extension Service and Broadcasting Service.

The group rehearses on alternate Saturday mornings throughout the academic year at Tappan School, Ann Arbor. The only expense for members is a $2.50 fee for rehearsal expenses, and in cases where students do not have the opportunity of private instruction in their local community, they may arrange to study with faculty members of the U-M School of Music.

Six tuition scholarships to the National Music Camp are provided each year by the James Foster Foundation of Ann Arbor to members of the symphony who are consistent in their musical growth and show future promise in the field of music. Names of this year's winners will be announced at the Detroit concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin Lanning and family, of Cleveland, O., spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Lanning's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Burg. ### Plan To Sell Crops by Cwt. May Be Postponed

A plan to use hundredweight (cwt.) rather than bushel as the unit of measurement for marketing farm grains may not go into effect as originally scheduled.

U. S. Department of Agriculture officials had set July 1 as the change-over date. But pressure from grain trade organizations not wanting to make the change has caused the officials to reconsider.

Many vegetables and some fruits were switched to the hundredweight on July 1, 1957.

Lester V. Manderscheid, farm economist at Michigan State University, explains that the battle is over grain marketing problems that may arise as a result of the change. The proposed system has several advantages as well as some disadvantages.

On the advantage side, the economist lists a standardized system. Now both hundredweight and bushel units are used.

Another advantage listed is simplifying buying and selling transactions. Most sales are now made on the basis of weight with the price quoted in dollars per bushel. Under the hundredweight system this conversion would be eliminated.

The weight system would also make the job of figuring ration costs for farmers easier. A farmer wouldn't have to convert the price of various grains from a per bushel to a per pound basis to see whether the relative price exceeds the relative feeding value.

On the disadvantage side, Manderscheid first lists the confusion resulting in the first few months after the change. This, however, would only be temporary.

A second disadvantage would be retreating to the old terms of new unit. For instance, at a 400 million ton corn crop larger or smaller than a three billion bushel crop?

One further disadvantage of the hundredweight system would be measuring storage space. There wouldn't be a 50,000 hundredweight elevator. "Equal weights of different grains would require different amounts of storage space."

Storage space would have to be measured in terms of cubic feet or some other volume which did not have relation to a particular commodity. This would require elevator operators to convert from a weight to a volume basis to figure available storage space and storage fees.

S. R. Booker Named to United Fund Committee

On April 14 and 15, the people of Michigan, through representatives of every major community in the state, gather in East Lansing to determine how much money will go to support state and national health and welfare agencies serving their communities.

Robert P. Briggs, executive vice-president of Consumers Power Co., and president of the Michigan United Fund, announced today the appointment of Stuart R. Booker to the Admissions and Budget Committee of the Michigan United Fund, who will represent the Chelsea Community Chest at the Admissions and Budget Sessions, Kellogg Center, MSU.

This committee hears the budget requests of 33 state and national health and welfare agencies which will be supported through contributions to the United Campaigns in their communities next fall.

The budget committee determines how much each agency will need to continue its program of service, education and research during the following year.

The admissions committee also reviews the records of agencies wishing to join the United movement, and determines whether present member agencies still meet the rigid requirements of quality, efficiency, and fulfillment of a definite need, that must be maintained for an agency to continue to receive United campaign support.

The Michigan United Fund Admissions and Budget Committee is comprised of more than 200 community leaders who volunteer their time and effort to maintain the high standard of United fundraising organizations on both a local and state-wide level.

During the business session, a report of the club's Easter flower sale was given by the chairman, George Palmer. Net proceeds of the sale, approximately $1800, will be used for the club's community service projects. Plans were also announced for selling flowers for Mother's Day.

The evening's program was in charge of Dr. Charles Miller who presented a slide picture lecture on the history and development of chiropractic.

Kiwanis Club Nets $180 on Flower Sale

New Water Rate Schedule To Provide Better Facilities

minishing during the hot weather to a point where limited sprinkling should have been the law.

Under the improved water program a new main feeder line from the pump to the storage tower will be installed to supplement the one now in existence. This new line will branch off into the new Sorenson subdivision water main to be installed this summer as required by the State Health Department for both fire and sanitary precautions.

The Michigan Health Department has banned any further major housing until both water supply and distribution systems have been enlarged and improved here.

Village crews will be installing the Sorenson main and as much of all new installation work as they can handle in order to benefit community workers as well as the village and to save money over the price of outside contractors.

The new rate structure, now in force, is the result of extensive study on the part of the present Village Council as well as the past three or four village administrations. The rates finally decided upon are still only about half of the amount recommended by consulting engineers.

To help finance the plans for the water expansion program, a revenue bond issue will be prepared and marketed, but it will be about a year before such a bond issue will be ready.

Members of the Village Council water committee who completed the study of the water program are Maple Barr, chairman, Harvey Lixey and Claude Spiegelberg.

Tranquillizers Helpful But Need Control

East Lansing—Tranquillizers are beneficial, but people who need them should be under a physician's care, contends the assistant director of the Michigan State University health center.

That is why tranquillizers require a prescription, Dr. R. R. Rummikoff said, "although they do not have the side effects of their predecessors."

"We have had barbiturates and similar drugs for many years and they still have their place," he said. "But the modern drugs are the first to tranquilize without putting a patient to sleep or producing a similar side effect that may be undesirable."

Some tranquillizers, he warned, may cause sleepiness or liver disorders.

Dr. Rummikoff termed tranquillizers a "crutch" to help people over periods of mental stress, but warned that "some people find it easier to continue using the crutch than to cure the condition that makes it necessary."

Conservation Officers Plead For Care with Open Fires

Karl Brushaber and Donley Boyer, conservation officers in this area, join in cautioning residents that they must contact Fire Chief Ted Balmer for a "permit to burn" before starting brush or grass fires.

Conditions of the permit clearly state that in accordance with Act 145, P. A. 1928, as amended: "You must have a permit to have an open fire except when the ground is snow-covered, or for domestic purposes, or to protect persons or property in case of fire."

Any person who willfully, negligently, or carelessly sets a fire which injures or endangers the property of another, may, upon conviction, be assessed a fine of not more than $100.00 and costs of prosecution or imprisonment for 60 days or both such fine and imprisonment.

Any person who maliciously sets a fire which endangers human life or destroys the property of another may, upon conviction, be assessed a fine of not less than $100.00 nor over $500.00 or imprisonment for a term of not over 10 years or both such fine and imprisonment.

Any person who negligently allows a fire to escape is liable for all expenses incurred by the State of Michigan in the suppression of such fire except for Department of Conservation personnel and equipment.

Any permit issued may be revoked if conditions are such that burning may not be done safely. No fire shall be set after the expiration of the permit and no fire shall be set at a time when a high wind is blowing.

An adequate fire line shall be made around the area to be burned and a force of men sufficient to control the fire, shall be on hand at the time of burning.

Even though a permit has been issued, the permittee shall be liable for all damage to property which may result from burning of the fire and shall be liable to the fire department for the cost of damage to a minimum, it was pointed out.

Conservation Officer Boyer said it has been found that improper rubbish incinerators have been the cause of a number of disastrous grass fires. He said it is important to use only the type of incinerator that will adequately contain the blaze and prevent flying embers.

April and May are especially bad for grass and brush fires since it is nesting time for birds and small game and many are destroyed when a fire burns over an area which provides cover for the young.

Conservationists state that if you are a confirmed spring burner try leaving a patch of unburned land in your yard and compare the grass stand on this area with that of a burned area of the same size. Illinois agricultural research workers did this on measured plots and found that burning reduced grass production by half in a single year.

No farm is a real farm without wild birds and animals. Birds are not only pleasant to have around, but they are valuable allies in the ceaseless war against insects and weeds. Moreover, fur animals may supplement your income during winter months if you or your sons care to run a trapline.

Game animals and birds will provide you with sport, meat, and recreation between chores.

"Think on these things" if you are planning to burn grass or brush and then get a permit to burn from your fire chief or conservation officer and take his advice on how and when to do the job.
