

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Turnabout a la Tony

"Have you met Tony yet? He's from Europe—and rents the old Whalen farm."

Tony's a good worker and has that farm running pretty slick. Funny though—on days off—Tony hangs around the barbershop listening to the political discussions. But he never says a word.

Last Thursday, though, Tony was there and was speaking his mind. When I asked him about the sudden change, he smiled and showed a brand-new set of citizenship papers. "Now I talk up like an American should," he said.

From where I sit, every citizen has a right to speak his mind—on all subjects. For instance, I happen to feel that beer is just about the best refreshment beverage there is. Nobody has to agree with my choice—but there's no arguing my right to "sound off" about it.

April 25—Track meet at U. High.

April 26—Freshman and Sophomore dance.

April 28—Track meet.

The busy workers on the yearbook staff have been typing names under the pictures identifying the students in different organizations.

They are not on a selling campaign. Anyone wishing one of the yearbooks full of memories of the events of 1958 may purchase one from any annual staff member. For the first time in the history of the school, the annual will be distributed during the early months of autumn rather than during commencement week.

Art students are continuing their work in the third dimension; this time with balloons, wheat paste, and string. It will be interesting to watch the shapes of animals emerge from their different type of endeavor.

First-hour home economics class has been studying cooking techniques from textbooks. Third-hour class started their simple blouses, which are going along very nicely now. Second- and third-year classes are finishing their dresses and skirts. April 18 was the last day to get in the home projects for this six weeks. They were all very good.

The hottest news around Journalism Club lately has been the pins and charms being given as rewards to the journalists for working on the school papers.

Unfortunately, some members have not yet paid their dues and others have not turned in their last year's pins. A dinner for journalists was held Tuesday evening.

Interest centers about the possibility of being elected editor of next year's papers. The lucky winners get some training in Chelsea, and then go to Michigan State University for a two-week training stint. Major nominations and elections have as yet been held.

Student assistants in library are as important in grades as in high school. Starting April 16, Gail Kuhl, Pat Wireman, Billy Hughes, and Linda Kuhl have been acting librarians from Mrs. S. Smith's fourth grade, at South Elementary school. Their duties have been to put books away in order; straighten the books on the shelves; check lists of books to be returned to the State Library; pack and seal boxes for mailing to the State Library; search for selected titles of books at the request of borrowers; check signatures of fellow students as they sign out books; stamp book cards; pass out book cards in the room; library days; on the library business, and go to room to collect books.

Spring vacation interrupted the rapid planning that was being done by the junior class members for the prom that will be held May 24. They will hold another meeting soon to decide on more details. A theme has been chosen, which all committees are working with. An orchestra is under contract, and menus and decorations are being planned. The banquet will be held in the high school gym as it has been in the past. This is keeping the juniors so busy that they are not taking on any other activities at the present time.

In math the seventh graders are finishing work in percentage problems. English has become participles and gerunds for 7A, 7B and C are studying sentences.

In home economics, 7C has been busy baking cookies. Reading has been very interesting to 7B as well as helpful. They are learning how to study properly. In shop, 7A has been learning how to work board foot and square foot problems.

The high school band is practicing for their spring concert which will be held May 9, and the mayor's day parade which will be held May 5.

Solos are being issued to all eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh graders. The solos are to be played in a recital at the end of May, to which the student body is invited. They will be held during noon hours.

The band will also be marching in the Memorial Day parade.

The junior high band is working extremely hard for their next concert May 9.

First chair members are as follows: Sandra Sharrard, flute; Judy Grove, clarinet; Loreta Wahl, saxophone; Wendy Gilbert, French horn; Eric Knisely, cornet; Don Wilson, baritone; John Widemayer, baritone saxophone; Bill Light, drums; Bob Riemen-schneider, alto clarinet; and Jim Fite, bass horn.

The speech class is now working on a play entitled "The Curious Savage," a comedy by John Patrick.

The cast is as follows: Mrs. Savage, Peggy Miller; Titus, Quentin Smith; Samuel, Bob Wells; Lily Belle, Polly Willis; Florence, Lily Schramm; Hannibal, Charles Cameron; Fanny May, Kathy Stevens; Jeffery, Matthew Brown; Mrs. Patty, Judy Welch; Miss Wilhelmina, Shirley Dyer; Dr. Emmett, George Clark.

No date has been set at present for the play to be given.

April 18 proved very enjoyable for everyone attending the Sponge Dance, sponsored by G.A.A. All dances were girls choice. Even though it was fun, the girls think that once a year is enough!

Members of the Student Council have been working on the numerous things of the agenda. One of the most important matters is the substitution for teachers.

They are also working very hard on suggestions made by the students as to what the council should spend their extra money on. Many suggestions have been submitted, but none are definite as yet.

The Girls Athletic Association went swimming with the F.H.A. April 15, at Ann Arbor High. They left at 6 p.m. and returned at 9:30 p.m.

At the last meeting of the G.A.A. they planned sponge week and the Sponge Dance, and totaled up the points that everybody has earned so far.

The play, "Horace, The Lion," which the Latin club will use for its Roman Banquet, has finally come, and at the meeting last week all of the parts were filled. The characters in Act I practiced on Saturday, April 19, in order to be ready when the great day comes.

The Senior class has been busy trying to think of money-raising projects so they can obtain the money they need for their trip to New York City.

A car wash was held Saturday, April 19, at Hankerd's Service station, in which some money was raised. They are planning a bake sale at Hilltop Plumbing on April 26. A two-hour movie, "The Champion," will be presented to the student body, April 28. The seniors are also sponsoring an all-high dance, May 2, and are making plans for a Snorg-a-sport supper, May 7, which will be open to the public.

The boys Physical Education class is now holding basketball tournaments. One has already been played and the team with Alton Nixon as captain, won. The parking lot for the buses has been cleared for softball and other outdoor activities.

What Are You Reading?

In a recent speech, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover declared that an aroused public opinion is needed to combat "muck merchants," who peddle obscenity to children and adults.

Hoover launched an all-out attack on off-color photographs and publications after calling for more united family life to curb delinquency. He echoed the sentiments of a Maryland law enforcement official who stated that the "tripe" available as reading matter on many newsstands today is responsible for the record-high number of rape, molesting and assault cases in his particular area.

Both officials agree that the peddler of obscene pictures and the writing trash have so flooded the market within the last few years that to find a newsrack without samples of it is the rare exception. And "to the mentally weak individual, this type of reading serves to whet his appetite all the more."

"Stiffer legal penalties, particularly in local and state courts, are needed to replace the frequent 'wrist slap' given those convicted of this vile trade," Hoover said. "Not until longer sentences and heavier fines remove the financial advantages of this traffic will the producers, distributors and dealers of filth be driven out of this sickening business."

Hoover continued, saying: "The activities of the muck merchants are national in scope and are closely organized. These moral degenerates draw no line or age distinction when it comes to customers. Your child can easily become one of their victims. An aroused public is necessary—one that will not countenance the placing of this trash on public display."

Agreeing with what FBI Director Hoover said, we ask, what are you reading? And, probably even more important, what are your children reading?

Kite Flying Can Be Dangerous

With the kite-flying season upon us it is well for us to speak a word of caution to bring to mind some of the chances for accidents if safety practices are not remembered.

It is well to warn youngsters to stay away from electric power lines and highways. Do not use wire for a kite string, or a cord with tinsel or wire in it. Be sure the cord isn't wet. If your kite breaks loose and the cord falls across electric wires, leave it alone.

Of course, we know that very few of the youngsters who are doing most of the kite-flying will read this reminder. However, the retired order of ancient kite fliers, remembering the days of their youth, might be reminded to caution their youngsters. A word of warning sometimes saves the life of a boy or girl.

A trade journal says hit tunes are not determined by the public's taste in music but are forced to the top by planned "plugging." The public could hardly have been paid a nicer compliment.

Pondering The Question

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Political signs of 1958 point toward the voter as the man of the year.

Both major parties are busy trying to put down rebellions. A change of philosophy might be in the making for Republicans, but Democrats envision their brightest hour in Michigan.

The developments make the voter a king whose decision next Nov. 4 will decide the kind of government the state will have for at least two more years.

Gov. Williams, at the crest of a decade of power, is seeking his sixth consecutive term. Republicans have two candidates ready for the primary with another said to be ready in the wings.

Democrats were the first to run into trouble. A group of rebels headed by former Congressman Frank E. Hook, of Iron River, charged that Williams and labor bosses are "leading the state down the road to socialism."

They argue the loyal, old-time Democrat is being read out of the party, with Williams and "the crew-cut" of a latter-day liberal wing taking command and running the show.

State Chairman Neil Staebler immediately denounced the rebels. Republicans hope the group will help them. It has already moved a slate in the Democratic primary for the first time since Williams became the party choice for governor in 1948. The campaign can show how much opposition there is to the governor within his party.

Williams was going into the election with Senator John B. Swainson (D-Detroit) as his running mate. Democrats are already guessing whether they will win by 500,000 or 600,000 votes. Disension among Republicans is on a more idealistic plane.

The active 14th district organization in Detroit has repudiated "modern Republicanism," charging it is a "me-too" approach doomed to defeat from the better-organized Democrats.

They call for a return to traditional conservative Republicanism. GOP leaders are fearful that the split-off will cause trouble when all are asked to back the candidate after the primary.

Considerable support for the conservative approach has developed among legislators, who are pressuring Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Pennville) to carry their banner.

The most likely Republican candidate is Paul D. Bagwell, professor of communications at Michigan State University, who has a leave of absence without pay. His salary runs to $1,400 a month at the University.

Another candidate is little-known Richard I. Moore, a Wayne automobile salesman. His present position, however, is reminiscent of 1948 when the politicians asked, "Who's Williams?"

Bagwell is 44, three years younger than Williams, and is nationally known as an educator.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By RALPH ROBEY

★ Sentiment on Taxes Changes Again

There will be a tax bill in this session of Congress, otherwise the corporation tax drops from 52 per cent to 47 per cent and various of the war time excise tax rates decline. There is not a chance that this will be permitted. The question is whether tax action will be limited to these extensions or include some other badly needed changes and rate reforms.

The Administration, or at least certain important members, have cooled off substantially on tax reform in the past two or three weeks. Members of Congress, while home for Easter recess, found less public demand for tax action than not mean that there can not be tax rate reform in this session of Congress, but it does mean that such reform can no longer be taken for granted.

Cooling off by members of the Administration results from the hope and belief that the current recession is beginning to "bottom out," plus the insistence that more time is needed to see results of action already taken. Evidence of a "bottoming out" is hard to come by and not too conclusive. It includes:

1. Unemployment in March increased only 25,000, and employment was up by 325,000. To the optimists these were encouraging figures. To the pessimists, however, they revealed further trouble, since March normally shows not only an increase in employment but also a decrease in unemployment.

2. Retail sales declined but the decline was not as large as many had feared. Specifically March sales were only one per cent below February, which is a smaller decline than that from January to February. Department store sales for the week ending April 5 were 11 per cent above the comparable week a year earlier.

3. Personal incomes, on an annual basis, fell $300 million in March, which is smaller than the $1.0 billion drop for the month before.

4. Government spending is on the way up and the increase will be substantial in terms of dollars. The effects of this have not yet worked their way into the business trend and it is felt to be the better state of wisdom to give them time. Also there are two large pending bills on the President's desk—a Rivers and Harbors bill and an increased Road and Bridge bill. Put all this on top of a rising trend in state and local spending and it is felt that if government spending will turn the economy around this should be sufficient.

Whether these facts, and various other less important ones, justify holding back on positive action on the tax front is a matter for debate. The AFL-CIO, Senator Paul Douglas, the National Planning Association, and various others are firmly of the opinion that the economy still is on the downgrade and that there should be a tax reduction limited to increasing the buying power of those in lower income brackets.

President Eisenhower, in contrast, sees "no need for emergency action now." In this view he is joined by Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Secretary of Treasury Anderson. Members of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors are inclined to take somewhat the same position, but members of the President's Council of Economic Advisors are a bit more inclined to look with favor upon early tax action, on the ground that the danger of inflation is too small.

★ He Went Early

One of my unknown readers wrote to say he had been intending to tell me that he enjoyed the Sketches, but that he had just neglected to do it earlier. He suggested that a good subject for a column would be "Procrastination."

Yes, I could write plenty about procrastination. It's one of my favorite pastimes. In fact, if I hadn't promised myself that I would write this column every Wednesday morning, I'm sure I'd never get around to doing it.

One time I asked Dr. Hugh Missilline, the psychiatrist, why it is that I read all the junk mail that comes to my desk, but lay the important magazines aside to be read when I have more time—even though I know that time never does accumulate.

"It might be," said the doctor, "that you grew up in a family where you had to do your work before you could have any pleasure, where you had to eat your noodles before you could eat your fruit. Such habits are hard to break."

A sense of duty that is not wedded to a sense of what is important may make us slaves of the trivial.

I suppose a psychiatrist could tell us interesting things about why it is that some people are usually early for a meeting, others aim to arrive right on the dot, and others seem always to be late.

Clair Ross told me one time that he liked to go to church early. "I like to sit there in the quiet church and watch the people come in. Some old friends will probably smile when they see me. Maybe there'll be a father and mother with three or four little ones sitting with them, and it just makes me feel good to see them there."

"And then there is the quiet music of the organ, and the sunlight coming through the colored glass. I like to be there early."

I think it quite probable that the hours we spend in the presence of the Almighty are the best hours of our lives.

A few days ago Clair went early to be in the presence of the Father. I like to think he is enjoying old friendships and quietly waiting to recognize kindred souls he never had the privilege of meeting before.

KNOW YOUR PTA

Now that most of our school parents have had the opportunity to hear a discussion on the value of a testing program within a neighboring public school, we feel that you may be very interested in what our elementary program involves.

We do group testing each year, using tests accepted throughout the United States as being accurate measurements of ability. Each year we give Metropolitan Achievement Tests to aid us in the following ways:

1. Useful data for parent-teacher conferences.
2. Aid in grouping within class according to general achievement and mental ability.
3. Gives a comparative growth measurement from year to year.
4. May indicate a need for greater emphasis on specific areas of the school program.

Once every three years mental ability tests are given to correlate the child's mental ability with his rate of achievement. Many parents feel that the specific results of these tests should be passed on to them; however, it is the opinion of school authorities throughout the United States that this should not be done. The school needs a record of continuous growth of the child, and an accurate record of his areas of strength and weakness. These records follow the child into any school in the nation that he may attend so that his placement can be handled quickly, and he does not waste weeks of time while the new teacher seeks his level of ability. We now have transient children who are in their third school for the current year. We are presently testing every child enrolled in kindergarten through sixth grade. Kindergarten children are being given the test and all other grades are taking the Metropolitan Achievement test for their specific grade level.

Metropolitan Reading Readiness

The information gathered becomes a part of the child's permanent school record which is continuous until graduation from high school.

Two important dates to school parents are being prepared. A schedule of parent-teacher conferences will start May 7. You will be called by a room mother to arrange an appointment with the teacher of your child. Make every possible effort to keep this date because interviews are scheduled for every 20 minute period of the teacher's day. The second date is Kindergarten Roundup for those who begin school in the fall. We are planning this meeting for May 28 at the South Elementary school. Parents and children from the rural area will meet from 9 to 11 a.m. and those from the city will meet from 1 to 3 p.m. The discussion period will be carried on by the present kindergarten teachers and each parent will be provided with an entirely new guide book for preschoolers. Present kindergarten children will not attend school on this date, May 23.

Janet Widmayer Wins Campbell Award in Home Ec. at MSU

Janet Widmayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Widmayer, received the Campbell award of $75 at the seventh annual Home Economics Honors Night program Thursday at Michigan State University, East Lansing. She was one of ten students receiving honor awards presented by Dr. Thelma Porter, dean of the College of Home Economics.

The Campbell award is presented each year to the 4-H club or rural student in home economics, with the highest scholastic standing at the close of her junior year.

Speaker for the banquet was Dr. Stanley Izderda, director of the Michigan State University Honors College, on the role of the women college graduates.

Diane Dailey, Orchard Lake, vice-president of Omicron Nu, gave recognition to all those students in the College of Home Economics who were in the upper 10 per cent of their respective classes.

FOUND—A new, economical way to solve costly spring break-up of county roads

Thrifty planning brings Michigan long-lasting soil-cement roads at lower cost than ever!

Tired of rutted, muddy county roads which become impassable during the spring breakup or in bad weather? There's a new low-cost remedy which produces durable light-traffic roads that resist breakup and help reduce costly road repairs.

Soil-cement base roads are quickly and economically built, using native roadbed soils mixed with small amounts of portland cement and water. Hauling of materials is often eliminated. Scientific construction methods assure high quality yet are so simple that up to two miles of roadway can be built and opened to traffic in a single day!

Soil-cement hardens to form a smooth, rigid, weather-proof road base. It actually gains strength with age! The base and surface usually costs no more than $11,500 to $13,000 per mile—based on Michigan construction experiences—yet produces a longer lasting, superior road for light traffic use.

It will be to your advantage to investigate soil-cement base construction for county road improvements.

at least at the moment, to justify my delay.
My personal view is that the Council of Economic Advisors is most nearly correct in its appraisal. If it will take the final step and say that what we need is income tax rate reform it will be on completely firm ground. By this we mean that while there is some evidence the rate of business decline is slowing down, there still is so much evidence of an unfavorable character, and income tax rate reform is so badly needed, that there can be no real justification for delay. Further, what we need is action, not to increase buying power, but to increase savings and the incentive to invest.

The only argument against such a program is that we have been on a capital expenditure boom and have carried our productive capacity to the point where in almost all our major industries today there is the ability to turn out more goods than can be sold at current prices. The trouble with that argument is that the principal reason we have unused capacity today is that, as a result of wages having been increased so much faster than productivity, costs of production have been driven so high that prices have to be above what the public wants to pay.

The cure for this situation is more investment, for the fact is that, in spite of the enormous amounts which have been invested in plant and equipment, we have scarcely made a start on what can be done through machinery to bring down costs. By income tax rate reform, and holding wages, we can turn the economy around and get back to a sustainable upward trend, and we can do this without inflation.

January to June is the cattle grub or warble control period in Michigan. Michigan State University entomologists say to rub rotenone dust of at least one and one-half per cent into the grub opening.

Church work and Women's Guild work of that future day were shown in the speeded-up tempo expected in the age of space travel. Costumes worn by the participants carried out the space-travel theme.

Small talk as the women gathered from the far corners of the earth (by space travel) for the "meeting," included reminiscences of "the hardships endured by women back in the days of 1968—including doing their own washing; driving their own cars; spending three hours in their kitchens every day, etc."

The hostess church group was in charge of a noon luncheon served in the church dining room.

How To Figure Wool Payment Told by Ag. Agent

Many farmers are wondering how the wool payments are figured, according to Don Johnson, Washtenaw county agricultural agent. Some believe they automatically receive up to the national support price of 62 cents. Some will receive more and some less depending upon the quality and price received by the farmer. Johnson suggests farmers use the following method in figuring their payments.

The national average price for wool will be determined and announced by Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation the latter part of May.

Suppose the national average comes out as 35 cents per pound. 62 cents (national support price) minus 35 cents (national average) equals 27 cents (difference).

Reference (27 cents) divided by national average (35 cents) equals 77 or 77 percent. 35 cents (national average) times 77 percent equals 26.95 cents or 27 cents which will be the incentive payment. 27 cents plus 35 cents equals 62 cents national support price level.

Suppose Mr. Farmer sold his wool for 30 cents per pound 30 cents times 77 percent equals 23.1 cents incentive payment. 30 cents plus 23.1 cents equals 53.1 cents total price he would receive.

Suppose Mr. Farmer sold his wool for 40 cents per pound 40 times 77 percent equals 30.8 cents plus 40 cents equals 70.8 cents per lbs. total price received.

These examples emphasize the importance of farmers producing the highest quality wool possible which will result in the highest price possible. The farmer who produces the highest quality product and sells for more than National average receives the highest total price for his wool.

Lima Barm Bureau Group Discusses State Tax Policies

Fifteen families were present for the April 17 meeting of the Entrepreneurs Farm Bureau group held Thursday evening at the Lima Center Community hall. Host and hostess for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Schneider.

With Harold Gross, chairman of the group, presiding, the meeting was opened with the Pledge of Allegiance and the Farm Bureau Creed.

In his report as minutes man of the group, Raymond Schirer stated that the legislative bill commonly referred to as the school bus issue had been passed. (The bill requires drivers from both directions to stop when school buses stop for loading and discharge of passengers.)

Schirer also reported that another bill in which Farm Bureau members were interested had been vetoed. This was the bill providing for two-dollar stickers for cars using state park facilities. Revenue from the sale of the stickers was to be used for state park upkeep.

In her report of the Farm Bureau Women's Committee meeting at Saline, Mrs. Harold Trinkle mentioned that Easter baskets were made up for hospitalized children, that guest speakers on Farm Bureau topics were of the afternoon program; that Farm Bureau Women's Committee members are engaged in a money-making project to provide a coffee maker for the group; and that a "volunteer friendship" gathering is scheduled for next month's Farm Bureau Women's Committee meeting.

Group business at Thursday's meeting included setting 8:30 p.m. as the hour for Farm Bureau meetings for the summer with the next meeting on May 15 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Trinkle to start at that hour.

Raymond Schirer was chosen as the month's nominee to write a Congressional note on his ideas on an issue which he is interested in.

In response to a request from the county Farm Bureau group for additional donations toward the construction of a Farm Bureau office building, the Entrepreneurs group voted to wait until a definite plan for a building is decided before voting on making a contribution.

Leigh Beach was discussion leader, the topic being the Michigan tax situation.

In response to the Farm Bureau tax questionnaire asking an opinion on steps the state should take to bring about balanced budgets in coming years, the group suggested that the state "slow down in spending." The group also suggested that part of the fees paid to unions be used for government taxes to help liquidate the national debt.

Response to the question "How could Michigan set its tax program so as to encourage industry to expand or choose Michigan for new industries?" resulted in two opinions: (1) cut taxes; and (2) taxation is not the problem but labor is.

The group's summing up of where the tax load should fall stated that those with highest incomes should be taxed in proportion to their income.

At the close of the business discussion period, cards were the entertainment and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Elba Gage spent the weekend at St. Haven as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Barden. The Barden recently returned to South Haven after spending a month at Tucson, Ariz.

Dr. Lloyd Pond of Farmington, N. M., is a guest this week at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and family.

Last Week's Mystery Farm Identified By Many as Home of Elmer Mayers

"Mystery Farm No. 1" first of the series of farm pictures being printed in The Chelsea Standard for identification by readers, was correctly identified as the Elmer Mayers farm on Chelsea-Manchester road.

First of the numerous calls received was at 9 a.m. Thursday when Albert Woods called The Standard office.

Included in the many calls received was one Monday morning from Lowell, Mrs. Glendon Bovee, the former Janet Hesselwerdt, daughter of Lewis Hesselwerdt, called from Lowell to identify the farm as that of her "uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mayers."

Mrs. Bovee said that she is still a subscriber to The Standard and looks forward to receiving it each week. She was pleased that the first farm picture of the series should be one she could identify.

Elmer Mayers, supervisor of Sharon township and his wife, the former Erma Gage, have lived on the farm the past 37 years.

The farm was first settled in about 1840 and was known as the Chadwick place until about 65 years ago when Mayers' father, Joseph Mayers purchased it. When the elder Mayers came to Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mayers moved to the farm and have remained there since.

Mayers raises cattle, sheep and hogs, with the flock of 100 sheep as his principal (and favorite) livestock. Three fine flowing wells on the farm are an asset for stock-raising as well as for providing running water piped directly to the house.

On the 150-acre property, operated as a general farm, Mayers raises corn, wheat, oats and hay. The barns and other buildings, except the house, were built by Mayers' father. The house has had few architectural changes through the years, the general appearance remaining the same. Mayers' father made several small additions to the house and Mayers, himself, changed the overall appearance of the property to some extent two years ago by moving the sturdy woodshed from the Everett school grounds to the farm. Improvements and modernization inside the home did not change the outer appearance.

The farm has been Elmer Mayers' home most of his life. With the exception of his older brother, the late Otto Mayers, and a sister, Mrs. Elmer Lehman, Elmer Mayers and the other members of the family were born there.

They include Chelsea Postmaster Carl Mayers, Alfred Mayers, Mrs. Howard Farley (Anna), of Chasell, Mich., the late William and Edgar Mayers and two younger children who died at an early age.

At a meeting of the Huron River Watershed Inter-Governmental Committee Wednesday evening, April 23, a set of by-laws was adopted.

The group also fixed May 15, 1958, as the time limit for the work it is attempting to accomplish.

Purpose of the committee is to sponsor studies on problems of water control, water supply, pollution, waste disposal, recreation, irrigation and drainage in the Huron River watershed.

It is believed the committee's undertaking is one of the largest in the country.

According to the by-laws, the committee will have the authority to determine the time limit to the amount of funds needed to carry out its program and the proportion of the total amount of funds to be provided by each member and the dates on which such contributions shall be made.

At present, cities, villages and townships pay 8 cents per capita based on the 1950 census, and counties pay a flat rate. The committee is empowered to accept gifts and grants from the federal, state, and local governments, private individuals, foundations or agencies.

A total of 22 counties, cities, villages and townships have already joined the committee and pledged financial support of its work. There are 45 such governmental units in the watershed.

Washtenaw government units, which have yet to join are Lyndon, Dexter, Sharon, Freedom and Lodi townships and Ypsilanti city.

Officers of the committee will be elected at the organization's next meeting on May 14. William Hayes of York township, chairman of the Washtenaw County Planning Commission, is temporary chairman of the watershed committee.

Mayer, Fred Kennedy, Mrs. Elba Gage, David Haas, Mrs. Joseph Merkel, Jr., Mrs. Erwin Hinder, Bert Foster of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Paul Matone, Mrs. William Quigley, Helen Rothfuss, Elmer Lehman, James Grissom, Richard Hoesler, Marilyn Pajot, John Otto, Mrs. Laurence Noah, Lewis Hesselwerdt and Mrs. Glendon Bovee, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mayers, who called from her home in Lowell.

At the 35th annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Association on Tuesday evening, April 15, Ralph V. Wright of Ypsilanti, was re-elected president.

Jack Grimston was chosen as vice-president, and Mrs. Clarence E. Crook was re-elected to the post of treasurer. Both are from Ann Arbor.

Robert Ellis of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Albert C. Johnson of Willow Run, were named members at large of the executive committee, which includes the above-named officers.

Elected to three-year terms on the Board of Directors are Ellis, Mrs. Eric T. Telsow, Stanley G. Thayer and Dr. Walter M. Whitehouse of Ann Arbor; Lawrence Husse, J. D. Renton and Dr. Olga Sirola of Ypsilanti; Mrs. Merle Barr, Jr., and Mrs. Maxwell Sweet, of Chelsea; Mrs. Stanton G. Roesch of Manchester; Ernest Girbach of Saline; Mrs. Elmer A. Wolter of Dexter; and Mrs. Peter E. Mike of Willow Run.

Following a brief historical sketch of the Association's work in the county during the past 35 years, recognition was given to those volunteers who have served as presidents. Representing past presidents at the meeting were Dr. George E. Bowler, Mrs. Warren R. Daniels and Dr. S. W. Donaldson.

An address by J. Irvin Nichols, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, paid tribute and offered a new challenge to volunteers in the fight against tuberculosis.

The tuberculosis history project in the county was in progress in 14 schools in Washtenaw county, beginning April 28, was the subject of remarks by Dr. W. F. Fidler, director of Michigan State Sanatorium at Howell and Dr. Otto K. Engleke, county health director.
