Jaycee-Sponsored Teen-Age Road-e-o To Be Held May 24

National Winners
Offered Scholarships
Totaling $4,500

Again this year, as in the past three years, the Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold their annual Teen-Age Safe Driving Road-e-o, Saturday, May 24.

The Safe-driving Road-e-o is being held jointly by all local Jaycee organizations throughout the United States. Purpose of the event is to foster safe-driving among the teen-agers of the country and also to give them a chance to prove their driving skills and attitude to the nation. Results of these Road-e-os, in so many cases, reveal the very capable driver-training program being carried out in the high schools today.

The Road-e-o is held on three levels—the local level where a written test on driving knowledge and four part obstacle driving test is given. The winner then goes to the state Road-e-o where a written test is given and a four-part obstacle driving test is again given to all contestants. The winner of all state Road-e-os are then sent to Washington, D. C. in August for the national finals.

The safe-driving Road-e-o will offer the national winners three scholarships totaling $4,500 and an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D. C.

The Road-e-o is open, in the Chelsea area, to any teen-age boy or girl who will not have reached his or her 20th birthday by Aug. 15, has a driver's license or permit, and has a clean record of no moving traffic violations in the last six months.

Application blanks may be obtained from Robert Taylor, driver-training instructor at the high school.

The written test will be given by Taylor at the high school and the obstacle driving test will be given at Chandler street, Saturday, May 24 at 1 p.m. The public is invited.

Donna Walz Wins Band's Sousa Award

Last Friday night at the Chelsea School Bands' Spring Concert six awards were presented before an audience which more than filled the gym.

Supt. Charles Cameron presented the Sousa award to Donna Walz as best exemplifying the traits which instrumental music strives to teach.

The award is given annually in honor of the world-famous band director, John Philip Sousa, to the junior or senior who has contributed the most to the band, in addition to possessing a good academic and school citizenship record.

Mrs. Thomas Harris, president of the Band Boosters, presented the award to Donna Walz, who is a member of the band.

James Daniels, president of the Chelsea Kiwanis club, awarded the Kiwanis Interlochen scholarship to Sherry Frisinger.

All the Interlochen scholarship winners were selected on the basis of success in the solo and ensemble contests, band participation, academic success and school citizenship.

Donna Walz is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walz and has been a cornetist in the Senior Band for six years. This year she was elected vice-president of the band and also acted as librarian.

She also put in considerable time doing mimeographing and other office work for the Band department. She has also appeared numerous times as a featured member of ensembles, while at the same time maintaining a fine academic rating.

In addition to receiving a desk set, certificate, and a gold Sousa pin, she will have her name engraved on the permanent Sousa Memorial plaque which will be kept in the school treasury case.

The band's six graduating seniors were also honored at the concert. Byron Pearson, Donna Walz, Matthew Brown, William Sorenson, James Buck and Delores Schmitz comprised this group.

This group will be awarded sweaters by the Band Boosters for having been in the band for four consecutive years.

Histoplasmin Test Offered At Schools

The Washtenaw County Health Department, in co-operation with the Board of Education, is now affording an opportunity for all children to have a tuberculin test and a histoplasmin test in school.

In Chelsea, the tests will be offered to all elementary school children and will be given Tuesday, May 20, at South Elementary school.

These tests are simple skin tests on the forearm which show whether or not a person has or has had living tuberculosis germs and histoplasmosis germs in his body. The place on the skin where the tests are made will be read two or three days later to determine the reaction.

The tests will be read here Thursday, May 22.

A positive reaction does not mean that the child is ill with tuberculosis or histoplasmosis, but it does mean that he has been exposed to the disease at some time during his life. It is most important, then, to find out whether the germs have caused active disease.

For those whose tuberculin tests are positive, the health department will conduct an X-ray examination of the child and adult members of the family. This service will be rendered without cost to parents. In the event parents wish to have the examination done by their family physician, at their own expense, the Health Department will make the necessary arrangements to be made to have the report of the examination sent to the office of the health department.

Tuberculosis is difficult to detect in its early stages; therefore, it is important to test children and adults in an effort to discover them before the development of outward symptoms.

All persons having a positive reaction will be contacted by the health department within two weeks. If a report from the test indicates that the child has been exposed to the disease, it may be assumed that both were normal. It will not be necessary to call the doctor, the health department or the schools.

Mothers who will help throughout the tests are Mrs. Harold Carr, Mrs. Arthur Lindauer, Mrs. Wilbur Werner, Mrs. Paul Morley, Mrs. James Allan and Mrs. W. J. Howes.

Miss Gertrude Young is the registered nurse who will be assisting.

BOY SCOUTS OF Chelsea's Troop 25, as a "do a good turn" project, planted 3,000 evergreen trees for Carroll Ordway on Portage road near Peach Mountain. Proceeds of the project will be used for the Boy Scouts' summer camp at Brault Lake. Scouts, assisted by a number of fathers, worked Saturday, May 8, and again last Saturday, operating on a "production line" basis—digging the holes, planting and watering—on contour plowed hillsides prepared by Ordway. Scouts who participated included Donald Dickelman, Louis

Ordway, James Schneider, David Runciman, Douglas Soper, Thomas Tuttle, Robert Downie, Curtis Farley, Victor Parks, Roy Lange, Don Wilson, Warren Porath, Jr., Jeffrey Flintoft, Max Steger, John Toppel and David Geer. Adults who assisted are Vernon Parks, Curtis Farley, Warren Porath, A. C. Downie, William Hitchingham, Douglas Lange, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Ordway and Scoutmaster Robert Geer. The Ordways' daughter, Louise, and Curtis Farley's brother, Artie, also assisted. Mrs. Ordway treated the workers with heaps of homemade doughnuts.

Non-Skid Coating Will Be Applied To M-92 South

Lansing — Low bids totaled $14,004.251 for 220 miles of state trunkline construction and resurfacing at the second largest bid letting in Michigan State Highway Department history, held May 7 in Lansing, Commissioner John C. Mackie announces.

Included in the letting were bids for 176 miles of non-skid surfacing work on various trunklines, one of which is the 20 miles of M-92 from the south limits of Chelsea to the north limits of Clinton.

Contractor for the project is Northwest Materials, Inc., of Bryan, O., whose low bid was $68,896.

The non-skid surfacing consists of a thin layer of oil and finely ground rock which, when hardened, provides a safer topping for gravel or other hard surfaced roads.

There were 34 road jobs in the May 7 letting, 18 of which are additions to the Department's regular five-year program, part of a $7 million emergency construction program drawn up by Mackie at the request of Governor Williams to ease unemployment in the state during the current recession.

The all-time high in dollar volume for a single letting was set Dec. 11, 1957, when contracts totaling $18,916,336 were let.

Nation-Wide Test Civil Defense Alert Set for Wednesday

Area Townships Place High in Tax Collections

Sylvan and Ann Arbor townships tied for fifth place in percentage of 1957 taxes collected by local treasurers. Both townships' paid-up taxes are listed at 96.3 per cent of the totals levied.

Lima township was second high on the list with 97.6 per cent collected, while Saline township headed the townships with 98.5 per cent.

Total collections in Washtenaw county amount to $2,272,482.36 or 96 per cent of the $2,366,708.09 levy. This figure includes the 20 townships and the cities of Ann Arbor, Saline and Ypsilanti.

Freedom township's collections of $29,828.11 are 95.7 per cent of the $31,169.44 levy; Lyndon township's collections, amounting to $11,068.18 are 90.9 per cent of the $12,181.48 levy; and Sharon township, with $12,145.50 of the $12,945.07 levy collected has 93.8 per cent paid.

While there are variations in paid-up percentages of townships and cities, the total paid in the entire county averages the same figure for 1957 payments as it did for 1956. The percentage both years was 96.0.

Start To Be Signalled By Series of Short Blasts of Fire Siren

Next Wednesday, May 21, Chelsea will participate in the nation-wide Civil Defense alert scheduled to be signalled at an unannounced time between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. by a series of short blasts of the fire siren for a period of three minutes.

The signal will indicate the start of an imagined enemy air attack and it is to be regarded as a warning to take cover at once. People driving cars at the time are to stop the cars and get into stores or other nearby buildings at once.

People who are at home should remain there, staying inside and keeping as quiet as possible, according to directions by Zone VI Civil Defense Director Martin E. Miller, in charge of the project here.

Last-minute details were explained to Civil Defense personnel and representatives of participating communities at a meeting held at Ann Arbor Monday afternoon. Present at the meeting from Chelsea were Zone Director Miller, Village President Donald Alber and George Atkinson as a representative of the Chelsea Fire Department.

It was explained that the purpose of the alert is to examine the readiness of the nation to meet nuclear attack and to provide training for everyone as a means of preparedness. Emphasis is to be placed on local Civil Defense units and the ability of county and city governmental agencies to function during extreme emergencies.

Beginning with the general public whose principal duty in the alert is to co-operate by taking cover, the exercise is expected to provide valuable information as to availability and resources of defense. These include monitoring the Board of Supervisors; full test of all signal communication services; maximum availability, according to plan, of county and city police for traffic and other control; and availability of resources and personnel of health and welfare departments, engineering and transportation agencies of the County Road Commission, and the county administrator's office.

Control and co-ordination of all operations are the responsibility of the Civil Defense office.

It has been announced by Civil Defense Director Miller that Chelsea people are being asked for full co-operation in remaining indoors for only 10 minutes after the alert is sounded for this practice air-raid exercise. This short period is believed to cause a minimum of inconvenience. Residents will not be asked to wait until the all-clear is sounded before they resume their normal activities. The all-clear signal may not be given for as much as an hour or two after the warning alert begins.

Exact time of the alert and the all-clear signal (a two-minute continuous blast of the fire siren) will remain secret in order to more nearly simulate conditions of a surprise air-raid attack.

Civil Defense Director Miller explained the procedure for meeting the simulated threat of air attack as follows:

At the sounding of the alert signal auxiliary police and firemen will be alerted to be vulnerable

Recreation Study Report To Be Given

John H. Nordlinger, a student at the University of Michigan, who has been directing a survey of recreation needs in the Chelsea area, is preparing to make a report of his findings at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Recreation Council next Tuesday, May 20.

Under the title "Leisure Time Interest Survey," questionnaires were distributed to elementary and high school age students in Chelsea schools Thursday and Friday. The answers given are being checked and evaluated and findings will be summarized by Nordlinger at the May 20 meeting here. He expects to be able to determine from answers given on the questionnaires the types of activities most popular with various age groups; the periods during the summer when interest in recreation program is greatest; and whether there should be additions to the present program or eliminations of some parts of the overall program.

Nordlinger has been studying the recreation activities situation for several weeks, making the survey in addition to gaining material for a University thesis he is preparing.

The Serviceman's CornerMarine Pfc. Ralph Owings Participates in Maneuvers

Camp Pendleton, Calif.—Marine Pfc. Ralph L. Owings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Owings of 604 S. Main street, Chelsea, Mich., took part in the 1st Marine Division's Operation Drybeach, a full-scale air-ground exercise held April 21-25 at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The reservation was assumed to be a segment of a friendly nation that had been occupied by enemy forces.

The aggressor forces did not follow a script of pre-determined troop movement, thereby affording a more realistic challenge to the attacking elements.

All division units, as well as the 3rd Marine Air Wing from El Toro, Calif., took part in the maneuver. Both friendly and enemy forces theoretically possessed atomic weapons.

Fisherman's Delight

Michigan's 36,000 miles of streams attract thousands of trout fishermen who claim this sport is top-notch enjoyment. Trout angling continues to grow in popularity and more than 225,000 trout fishermen are expected to best their skills during the state's April 24-September 14 season this year.

Trout Fishing in Michigan Has Had Tremendous Boom in Recent Years

Lansing—Ambitious trout planting and habitat improvement programs are helping Michigan to maintain its position as one of the nation's top trout fishing states.

The exciting sport of trout angling has enjoyed a tremendous boom in popularity in recent years, adding about 10,000 new enthusiasts each year.

In 1951, Michigan had approximately 186,000 licensed trout fishermen; today the total is in the 225,000-240,000 range. To meet the demands of these fishermen, the Michigan Conservation Department releases more than 2,000,000 hatchery-reared trout in public fishing waters annually. In 1957, plantings included 2,560,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout.

In addition, the Department's lake and stream improvement program handles the task of making fish habitat more suitable for natural reproduction. Work under this program includes stabilization of eroding stream-banks, and installation of structures in streams to regulate water flow.

Some oldtimers recall the "good old days" and look with dismay at "artificial" trout fishing, but modern day conditions mean nature often needs an assist from science to meet demands on fish and wildlife resources.

Michigan's population has nearly doubled in 30 years and probably will continue this rapid increase. In addition, shorter work weeks and more leisure time mean added pressure on natural resources.

Meanwhile, trout waters in the state are faced with the advance of civilization and industry, and cannot be expected to produce more and more fish to keep ahead of the growing army of anglers.

The trout planting and stream rehabilitation programs promise to play a big part in Michigan's trout fishing future.

New officers for the 1958-59 student council are David Rowe, president, and Jane McLaughlin, vice-president. Both are from the sophomore class. David received 229 votes, while Jane received 222. The excellent campaign speeches given at an assembly, May 8, helped the winners very much.

Earl Heller and Bob Eder did a fine job with this year's student council and we know that Dave and Jane will do an equally fine job next year.

Congratulations Sophomores!!!!

The band practiced very hard for their spring concert, which was held May 9. The concert was enjoyed by all who attended, as the band did an excellent job.

They are planning on marching in the Memorial Day parade, and playing at graduation.

At the Journalism meeting of May 8 an election of editors was held by the members present. Loren Keizer, Karen Munro and Donna Moore were elected.

There was a point made that the junior high had very few representatives in Journalism, and how to encourage more to join the club.

A count was taken of how many of this year's journalists would be willing to join the club next year. If every reporter for the Hi-Lite and the Building Barks would get in and work it is felt that Chelsea High School could have one of the finest papers in the area.

The Latin club had its Roman Banquet on May 6 at 6:00 in the gymnasium. With the able assistance of Mrs. Smith, everyone including the guests, donned a Roman toga which was in reality a sheet and the members of Latin club and all of the guests reclined on the floor to eat in the candle light. For the banquet, shrimp served as the appetizer followed by the main course of ham, macaroni and cheese, corn, string beans, salad, money, relishes, deviled eggs, dessert. After the banquet a few songs were sung and the evening was climaxed with the play, "Hercules the Lion", given by the Latin club, complete with sound effects and lighting. An enjoyable time was had by everyone.

Last week-end's vacation found the Juniors NOT taking life easy. With prom expenses coming up, money-raising projects are essential. Well, the funds were raised Friday evening with a bake sale held at Chelsea Hardware.

The next day, ambition still fired up, everyone enjoyed working at the car wash which took place at the Hankard gas station. Hope your activities brought you some profits, Juniors!

Benson Ford Answers Today's Critics Of Auto Makers' Policies, Practices

Benson Ford, of the Ford Motor Company, spoke a piece in Victoria, British Columbia, recently. Quite naturally, he spoke in defense of the auto makers who have been taking a beating around the head and ears for some time now.

Working men and their union representatives have, also quite naturally, been doing a considerable amount of grumbling about layoffs and short hours.

The man in the street, including a lot of these same laid-off working men, have been grumbling about the style, size and price of the 1958 models.

Congressmen, seizing upon a good thing in an election year, have been threatening anti-trust investigations into a whole series of automotive industry practices or alleged practices. Legislation to force manufacturers' suggested price tags onto new cars seems to have a fair chance of passing.

Since the automotive areas of Michigan have been hard hit, with our community no exception, the words of the No. 2 Ford bear examining. He takes particular exception to charges that the industry is jamming super-deluxe, over-powered, fin- and chrome-trimmed gas-eaters on an unwilling public that after all just wants economical transportation. Neither has the industry been the cause—or even one of the causes—of the current business recession, he says. His explanation:

The automobile industry was a victim of—not the cause of—the current recession; the lag in automotive sales actually followed the downturn by several months.

Increasing European small-car sales are not a material factor in the decline in U. S. car sales.

The facts of the market place do not support the contention that the average new-car buyer wants a cheap, unadorned small car. Sales figures prove that current cars fit the tastes and general requirements of the majority of U. S. auto buyers.

Ford noted that today's low-priced automobile still costs an average factory worker less—in terms of hours worked—than a comparable car cost him in 1940 or 1941. He said too, that during the past decade, increases in wages and other costs in the auto industry have regularly and substantially outstripped increases in car prices.

To refute charges that American car makers are ignoring demands for cars that are less plush, he pointed to Ford's 1958 sales records showing that 61 per cent of Ford line sales are accounted for by the higher-priced Fairlane and station wagon series—and noted also that much the same is true of other car lines.

Admitting that the average buyer's outlay for a new car far exceeds the basic increase in car prices, he insisted: "The great bulk of this added expenditure directly reflects upgrading by the consumer—his insistence on buying more luxurious body styles and extra-cost equipment."

The auto maker unveiled his company's own projection of foreign car sales—accounted for in part by sales by several lines of British Ford's—saying that the best information now available is that 1958 foreign-car sales will top last year's record by some 50,000 and then level off at an annual rate of 300,000 to 350,000.

In a normal year, he pointed out, this would represent roughly five per cent of the total U. S. car market and now reflects both a reaction to "the present economic and psychological climate" and novelty buying. He presented an interesting thesis in expansion of the latter point—a theory of "keeping up with the Joneses, only with reverse English."

It works this way, he said: The small-car buyer, generally college-educated, may just be economy-minded. But if he is reluctant or unable to buy a new U. S. car this year and unwilling—for reasons of prestige—to buy a used car, the small imported car gives him an out. Both this buyer and others are not seriously concerned about economy are "significantly motivated" by the fact that a small car is considered "smart" in their own circle.

His parting shot on the foreign-car subject was to point out that the surge in small car sales started during a period of high prosperity and full employment, several years in advance of today's recession. This hardly supports the economy thesis as a major factor, he indicated.

Noting that auto makers must constantly work several years into the future in planning new models, Ford said: "We attempt to rationalize a great many variables, predict a greta attempt to rationalize a great many variables and ponder imponderables."

But, he says, it's not all done with wild shots in the dark. Three broad guides to planning are kept in mind: (1) Facts—nothing what people have bought in the past and what they are buying now. (2) Surveys of the customer market based on scientific sampling. (3) "Hunch, guess and judgment, based on long experience."

He asserted that on this last point, there is only one major difference between the automobile makers and their critics. The car builders have the experience, not normally shared by those who are questioning the industry today.

Actually, none of Ford's remarks are either new or startling. They have all been said before—but Ford says them with a pungent clarity at a time when most of the industry's leaders seem content to spar with Congressional committees, stare glumly at the latest sales charts, snarl at Walter Reuther, or try to blend all three.—Romeo Observer Press.

Doctor! Doctor!

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Government economy has lost a few skirmishes but has won a major battle in Michigan.

When the dust cleared following the 1958 legislative session which struck reduced spending programs the lawmakers who hold the purse strings seemed to have come out on top.

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, was the first to announce revised plans for operation.

He made it clear that the more than $1,000,000 cut from the 1957-58 budget crimped programs at the university; that the going would be tougher next year. He also showed continued concern over inability to prepare properly for increased student loads expected in the near future.

But we still can operate a good university without major damage to our programs," he said.

Hannah predicted that less important programs and some of the services that are valuable but not basic can be dropped or reduced in scope to fit the budget cuts.

More agreement came from Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, whose budget cuts hurt his agency as much or more than they did some others.

Even programs as small ($10,000) but important as the fight against "swimmer's itch" were abolished.

Dr. Heustis called for all people to reconsider the impact of the taxpayer before condemning less money to spend in state government.

"We should all do some soul-searching before throwing up our hands," he said.

Heustis' statements are important. He is an appointee of Gov. Williams who has argued for years that the state should expand its services and levy taxes to finance them.

Gov. Williams' reasons for trying for his sixth consecutive term as chief executive made more news than the announcement of his candidacy.

No one was surprised when he said he would run. Anyone who didn't know it just hasn't been paying attention.

The stage was set months ago when Williams said that he and Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart would run for senator and governor, but refrained from saying who would do what.

Hart then announced for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Senator Charles E. Potter, Republican. Senator John B. Swainson (D-Detroit) announced for lieutenant governor.

That left Williams. Two years ago, he broke his traditionally long silence to announce he would go for his fifth term "to finish the job."

Now, pointing directly at Republican hunters, Williams said he wants a sixth term to prevent "Republicans from making a shambles" of state government.

Republicans, in a needling mood, said the line suggested Williams believes he has already "finished the job." Now he wants to protect the result, they say, which is the "shambles" and the unbalanced budget.

Republicans, sharpening their weapons for the campaign ahead, retorted that Michigan is broke and is running a deficit after 10 years of Williams' regime.

They criticized the governor's nation-wide trips, his 10-day absence following the 1958 session and threatened to make the "governor's symbol: the empty chair" a campaign issue.

Investigators sent by the House to check on reports of mistreatment of mental hospital patients pulled a surprise night-time visit at Northville State Hospital. They found a 50-bed unit had been idle for months.

Hospital authorities said they lacked money to staff the unit, despite a finding that staff positions had not been filled from authorized money.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron) said the other major mental hospitals in the state would get surprise visits. "We don't want them to do the place up just for us," he said.

Of course this is not the first sign of controversy. The President has vetoed the rivers and harbors bill, and signed two other bills (housing and road building) with grave misgivings. But this is the (Continued on page 9)

★ Unemployment Compensation

With the recession which started last August and this being an election year—it was inevitable that sooner or later this session of the Congress would cease to be all peace and harmony. That time has now come.

Currently the keynote of the Congress is controversy, controversy over the reorganization of the Defense Department, over the proposed bill to regulate welfare funds (which many are afraid will be the only labor bill considered this year), over the extension of the reciprocal trade act, over foreign aid, over postal rates and postal wages, over whether we should have either tax reform or tax reduction, and over unemployment compensation.

Of course this is not the first sign of controversy. The President has vetoed the rivers and harbors bill, and signed two other bills (housing and road building) with grave misgivings. But this is the

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Last night my old lady sets down at the kitchen table and proceeds to give me the benefit of some of her confided and cotton-picking advice. It's a few minutes, she allows, for me to always be worrying and complaining about Congress and them folks arguing in Washington. For instance, she says, folks has got to put up with the cackles of the hen if they aim to get any eggs. I thought that was a pretty good one but I didn't let on I thought so. Give her a little encouragement and she'll be wanting to write this column instead of me.

She says this world is set in the ways and that nothing is complain or worry about going to change it. According to her, the younger generation is going to the dogs and the older generation has done gone. Taxes, she informs me, ain't gonna be no more due next year than this, and once you're delinquent what's a few more years. She figures that if you ain't got no cotton you won't have no boll weevils, and farmers ought to look on corn as being in their weeds instead of weeds being in their corn. She allows as how the country has been heading down hill since folks started wearing their Sunday clothes on week days. She says things ain't gonna get any better till folks start asking if someone is right instead of asking if it's legal. That ain't gonna happen in our generation.

she figures, and I just as well quit complaining. I just set there, Mister Editor, and let her rave. But all the time I was thinking what wimmen don't know don't hurt 'em, but it's a pain in the neck when you listen to 'em talk about it. And all the time she was talking I was thinking about a heap of things to complain about.

Fer instance, I just got me another degree from the College of Hard Knocks. That's the only kind of schooling I ever got but there ain't none finer for a real education. I paid a $50 note I signed for a feller three years ago, so you might, after a manner of speaking, call this a $50 degree I just got. I was thinking what wimmen don't know don't hurt 'em, but it's a pain in the neck when you listen to 'em talk about it. And all the time she was talking I was thinking about a heap of things to complain about.

Well, I see by the papers where some scientist says the Big Dipper is coming apart. I'll pass that along to my old lady and see if she's got a answer for that one. Yours truly, Uncle Lew.

★ Magnetic Cows

Long ago I heard that cows ought to be contented, but it was only this week that I learned cows can be magnetic. I noticed in one of the papers that several hundred cows in Utah and Idaho are carrying three-inch magnets in their stomachs. The magnets are inserted with a balling gun (the same instrument used to give capsules to animals), and are lodged in the forward end of the paunch.

The purpose is to collect and hold any wires, nails, or other metal objects which might accidentally appear in chopped or baled hay, and which could pierce the stomach wall, causing severe pain and loss of appetite.

That sounds like a good idea—to side-track dangerous sharp objects before they have a chance to injure the vital organs.

Several years ago someone began to make a magnetic drain plug for automobile oil pans, with a similar purpose: to attract metallic filings which would scratch the smooth surfaces of engine parts if allowed to circulate in the motor oil.

Wouldn't it be great if somebody could invent a device to prevent dangerous thoughts from circulating through the human mind? What we need is a magnet that would side-track the little insults, the snide remarks, and the unintentional slights which can upset our equanimity and destroy our peace of mind if we allow their barbs to dig into our vital parts.

I don't know just how you could eliminate such irritants from your mind entirely. It seems to be one of the sad facts of life that everything we hear or see or experience is retained forever, either in our conscious memory or in our subconscious mind. (That is why I am so perturbed at the thought of little children watching terror shows on TV—or in the movies—absorbing terrifying thoughts which they will always retain either consciously or unconsciously.)

Here's a hint to take away the barb of a sharp criticism. If the criticism is true, be thankful it was spoken, and try to correct the condition that called it forth. If the criticism is undeserved, remind yourself that many insulting remarks tell more about the person who makes them than they do about the person to whom they are made.

If your dairy cows have been troubled with bloat, you may want to feed them penicillin during the pasture season, suggest dairy researchers at Michigan State University.

Investigators sent by the House to check on reports of mistreatment of mental hospital patients pulled a surprise night-time visit at Northville State Hospital. They found a 50-bed unit had been idle for months.

Hospital authorities said they lacked money to staff the unit, despite a finding that staff positions had not been filled from authorized money.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron) said the other major mental hospitals in the state would get surprise visits. "We don't want them to do the place up just for us," he said.

Of course this is not the first sign of controversy. The President has vetoed the rivers and harbors bill, and signed two other bills (housing and road building) with grave misgivings. But this is the

JAMES F. WARNER

Rep. 'Jim' Warner Is Candidate For Re-Election

James F. Warner of Ypsilanti, incumbent Second District Representative for Washtenaw county, announced today he will seek re-election to the State Legislature with a pledge to work for cutting "waste and inefficiency in state government."

Warner, only the second "freshman" legislator in the state's history to serve on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, will seek the Republican nomination for the Second District post in the Aug. 6 county primary election. First elected two years ago, Warner replaced in the House his late father, Joseph E. Warner, who died in 1956 at the end of his 30th year in the State Legislature.

Warner is the first to announce he will seek his party's nomination for Second District representative in the August primary.

Two years ago Warner defeated four GOP candidates in the primary balloting and received 60 per cent (28,586) of the votes cast in the November election. Factions to nominate the incumbent were placed in circulation this week.

The Second District includes Ypsilanti, Saline, Milan, Willis, Bridgewater, Manchester, and Chelsea, plus the townships of Ypsilanti, York, August, Pittsfield, Bridgewater, Manchester, Lyndon, Lima, Dexter, Sylvan, Saline, Freedom, Lodi and Sharon. It also includes Pittsfield Park, Pittsfield Village and the former East Ann Arbor which is now part of Ann Arbor.

Michigan Birth Rate Sets New Record in 1957

Lansing—Live births in Michigan totaled a record 208,063 in 1957 at the same time the state's marriage rate was declining to the lowest level since 1938, the Michigan Department of Health reported today.

Births last year exceeded the old record set in 1956 by about 2,000. It was the 10th straight year that Michigan births increased over the previous year.

Although the number of births increased over 1956, the birth rate in 1957 dropped below the 1956 rate—from 27.4 births per 1,000 population in 1956 to 26.7 in 1957.

The decline in birth rate in face of an increase in number of births was caused by a population gain of 287,000 during 1957. The U. S. Census Bureau estimates Michigan's population as of last July 1 was 7,803,000.

The marriage rate declined last year to 4.1 persons married per 1,000 population. The corresponding rate in 1956 was 4.6 and in 1955 was 4.8.

Other developments revealed by the state health department provisional statistics for 1957 included:

The rate of deaths to population in 1957 was the lowest since modern reporting methods were adopted in 1898. Last year's death rate was 8.5 deaths per 1,000 population although deaths rose to a record 86,944. The highest death rate in Michigan for any year since 1898 was 15.8 in 1918. Since 1918, the rate has been dropping gradually.

The rate in 1956 was 8.6. The decline in the over-all death rate in 1957 was spearheaded by 24.4 deaths per 1,000 live births.

State Conservation Department Shipping 14 Million Young Trees

Lansing—Shipment of young trees to Michigan landowners is underway from the Conservation Department's three state forest nurseries.

The Department expects to sell and distribute some 14,000,000 of these trees for spring planting this year.

Meanwhile, the Department's forestry division plans to accept orders for trees through the first three weeks of May. Nursery workers said plenty of three-year-old red pine seedlings are still available, along with good supplies of four-year-old red pine transplants and two-year-old jack pine seedlings.

Interested landowners can obtain order blanks and price lists by contacting Michigan Conservation Department, Forestry Division, Lansing 25.

Red Cross Trains

Group of Water

Safety Instructors

More than 60 persons began training Monday evening to complete the final part of a Water Safety Instructors training course, conducted by the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross. The sessions are being held at the Intramural pool of the University of Michigan from 7 until 10 p.m. each night this week. All of the candidates have completed Senior Life Saving courses and also Part 1 of an instructor training course completed in April.

The courses at the I-M pool will be conducted by Daniel Stango, first aid and water safety representative for the Red Cross in Michigan, with the co-operation of Miss Gertrude Montgomery of Eastern Michigan College and Jerry Greenlick, acting director of water safety for the Washtenaw County Chapter.

The training of this group will facilitate swimming instruction in camps and in the lakes throughout our own county and neighboring areas. E. C. Laetz, chapter chairman said today. Through this program and other programs of water safety, the Red Cross is for the fun and enjoyment of our people in and on the water with little or no risk to themselves. Laetz said.

Civil Defense

Films Available

For Club Showing

Civil Defense Director Martin Miller has announced that there are a total of 70 Civil Defense films now available for showing and clubs and other organizations desiring to use them may make arrangements with him. Miller pointed out that when a film is desired, a definite date should be given him as well in advance and he will then arrange for the film and equipment for showing, if necessary.

Several films on the list were especially recommended by Miller for showing in this area, as follows:

"Atomic Power," black and white, sound, 19 minutes; documenting the history of the first atomic bomb. It includes newsreel excerpts of the manufacture and use of the bomb, the lieutenant and Baruch reports, Einstein's part as well as that of many leading scientists who participated in the program, and the testing of the bomb on the New Mexican desert. (Somewhat technical.)

"Communications for Civil Defense," black and white, sound, 28 minutes; showing use of telephone and amateur radio in Civil Defense operations, as well as the work of fire, police and rescue services.

"Concrete Plan for Civil Defense," black and white, sound, 12 minutes; showing how ready-mix concrete trucks can be used for emergency water supply and fire fighting use.

"Crisis," black and white, sound, 14 minutes; narrated by Bob Condis, International News Service correspondent, on the subject of floods and the work done by co-operating dairies who distributed pure water from distant areas in sealed 2-quart containers.

"The Day Called X," black and white, sound, 28 minutes; narrated by Glenn Ford and showing the preparations made at Portland, Ore., for its defense against a nuclear attack.

"Facts about Fall-out," black and white, sound, 12 minutes; playing the danger of radioactive fall-out to people, livestock, crops, water and food supplies and shows precautions which may be taken to minimize the danger.

A complete list of films available may be seen by contacting Civil Defense Director Miller.

New Law Requires Autos from Either

Direction To Stop for School Bus

The Washtenaw county Sheriff's Department has been notified that an amendment to the school bus law, signed by Governor Williams as Act No. 160 on April 18, requires motorists to stop from either direction before passing a school bus which has stopped to receive or discharge passengers. The measure will become effective 90 days after the State Legislature adjourns. Adjournment is scheduled for May 16. Accordingly, the measure will become effective Aug. 16.

The Act also requires that school bus drivers shall not stop for the purpose of receiving or discharging passengers unless the bus, when stopped, will be visible to approaching or overtaking drivers of vehicles for a distance of at least 500 feet. Other requirements include the provision that passengers crossing the road upon being discharged from a school bus shall cross in front of the stopped school bus and traffic on highways may not proceed after stopping until signaled to do so by the bus driver.

Lt. Gov. Hart Hits 'Hoover Hesitancy' In County Address

Hoover hesitancy of the present Republican administration is hampering U. S. recovery from the current business slump, Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, candidate for the Democratic U. S. Senate nomination, told Washtenaw county audience Tuesday during a day-long tour of the area.

"What Washington most needs now are men of leadership with broad vision and confidence in America's future who can courageously attack present domestic and foreign problems and spend less time worrying about bank interest rates, the corporation profits, or the condition of the highways at Augusta," Hart said.

"Most U. S. citizens are disillusioned by performance of the Eisenhower administration as contrasted with the rosy promises of 1952 and 1956. Business recovery is being delayed by indecision over tax cuts, public works, and a dozen other positive anti-recession measures."

"This apparent inability to offer any constructive leadership reminds me of the Hoover hesitancy of the 1930's," Hart said.

Hart spoke at Democratic meetings in Ann Arbor during the day and in the evening addressed a party rally in Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Philip A. Hart attended a series of Democratic teas arranged in Washtenaw county by the women's division of the Hart-for-Senate committee. Miss Alicia Dwyer, Ann Arbor, was general chairman of arrangements.

Upper Peninsula Farmers Expand Beef Industry

The beef business is beginning to boom in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Currently, there are more than 350 cow-herds on UP farms with more than 10,000 head, according to Bill Finley, extension beef specialist at Michigan State University. More than 100 new herds have appeared in the last five years.

Upper Peninsula farmers are finding beef here a good business that is well suited to the climate and cropping possibilities in their area. There's plenty of good quality pasture, and forage production for winter feeding is tops, Finley notes.

Cows are usually bred to freshen in February to April and calves are weaned at about six to seven months. Calves which aren't kept as herd replacements are sold as feeder animals late in October.

Last year, the first co-operative feeder-cattle sale ever held in the UP was staged at Bruce Crossing in Ontonagon county. Total of 250 animals were sold. Southern Michigan and Wisconsin beef feeders paid the UP farmers more than $25,000 for the calves.

Most of the upper Michigan farmers have built their cow herds from animals purchased from commercial and purebred beef breeders in Wisconsin, Minnesota and southern Michigan.

Herefords are the most popular breed among the UP farmers. More than 80 per cent of the animals are of this breed. About an equal number of Aberdeen Angus and Shorthorn beef cattle make up the total.

Prescription: Get A Dog

Excess weight and boredom rank one, two on the list of what worries the average man about his health. According to experts on the subject.

Doctors' offices are filled with people wanting to know how to keep from adding extra pounds and to relays a "gray" feeling that seems to have taken over their life. The fannies—or, possibly, lardies—want their doctor to prescribe something simple and fast to "knock off a few pounds" without the bother of a diet or unusual exercise. The bored ones want him to prescribe something that will give them a new "kick" out of life.

One doctor, faced with increasing numbers of both complaints, has come up with a panacea that answers both. His solution would make any drug company rich, not tie up hospital space, nor sell any exercise machines or weights, but it seems to make his patients happy and does wonders for their figures and feelings.

His prescription? Three words: "Get a dog."

Once equipped with a dog, this doctor's patients are advised to take their pet on long, brisk walks. For those with a few extra pounds, these walks—coupled with balance their food intake and even improve their general health as the blood starts circulating.

For the "bored to death" complainers, the walks with their dog tend to end the loneliness that has most often been the reason for their state of mind. Taking a dog on a regular, continuing walk is the quickest way to make friends with an animal. Few people can resist the affection of a dog who idolizes his master or mistress, and even the most sophisticated person loses himself in the pleasure of pure friendship.

This doctor's prescription is certainly not new, but it has proven as effective as any wonder drug among those patients who have been fortunate enough to take his advice, advice that might be followed by anyone who cares to try it.

There's no known cure for bronchitis and few animals ever recover from it, point out Michigan State University dairy specialists. You can rid your herd of the disease by blood-testing your cattle and disposing of the reactors.

ABOUT YOUR HOME
Noted decorators tell us that color creates the strong first impression in a home. Today colors are bolder than in recent seasons, but not blinding. They are used in stronger doses against walls that are still off-white or light beige. A good idea is to concentrate color at eye-level, and on down, in a room. The lamps and their shades, upholstery and carpets tend to match. Bedrooms in orange are becoming as popular as the standard pink bedroom. Patterns are large in scale and are used sparingly but importantly. They can make one appearance in a room in a boldly scrolled Spanish rug for the floor, or the covering for an important item of furniture in a room—such as the sofa. Textures are even newer looking than the patterns. They include soft surfaces of suede, cloth and velvet, and deep, fur-like naps of nylon carpeting. The fabric used for seatcovers and upholstery is often very rough in texture, but soft to the touch. By making use of all the synthetic fibers, new lifts have been given to all fabrics used in decorating a home. Window treatments are simple. The trend is to blend the window into the background. Blinds and shades are, for the most part, a thing of the past; with draw drapes very much on favor. Modern and traditional pieces are used together with great success. In finish, the favorite seems to be a warm medium brown that softens even the most tailored modern designs. Pieces of furniture that can lead a double life are receiving more attention than ever before. It is not unusual to see a desk that can double as a dining table. The very latest idea in glamorous home entertainment is provided by a swimming pool in the basement. The Better Basement Institute says that it is possible to have an indoor, basement swimming pool, measuring twelve by twelve by eighteen feet at a cost of about $68. The developer of this novel idea states that the construction can be carried out in a basement with usually only minor changes. The pool is most often placed between three regular foundation walls. Only the addition of one wall is needed to complete the pool enclosure. In one Long Island development it has been reported that the pool can be made up to eighteen feet deep by increasing the depth of the house foundation. Many interesting extras are possible, such as filtering systems, mirrored walls, and a series of overhead sun lamps. The pool is filled by the regular cold water supplied to the house. It is suggested that a good number of windows be included in the basement of a home where a pool is to be constructed. The Better Basement Institute says this will provide needed ventilation and

Homemaking Hints

Vegetables other than potatoes can be scalloped, says Anita Dean, foods specialist at Michigan State University. Just put alternate layers of vegetable and medium white sauce in a casserole and bake in a moderate oven until tender. Children can be taught to use both hands when working, says Coral Morris, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University. Using both hands for a job like dusting isn't hard for a child. And if you can learn to use both hands you'll find your dusting job gets done quicker, too.

will prevent the penetration of excess moisture to the first floor. A perfect situation for an indoor basement pool would be in a basement with one completely exposed wall and two partially exposed walls. The fourth wall could be covered with mirror, or some other attractive material. The two partially exposed walls should feature windows, the completely exposed wall should feature sliding glass walls that could be closed during the summer. These doors could best open onto a terrace. It would be wise to make arrangements during construction for the installation of a device to cut down on the moisture content of the basement room.

Legion Auxiliary Mother-Daughter Banquet Held

Herbert J. McKune Unit No. 31, American Legion Auxiliary, held a Mother-Daughter banquet at the Legion Home Thursday evening. There were 55 present for the planned pot-luck meal served at tables decorated with plants and appropriate favors. The brief program included a toast to the mothers by Debbie Gorton, and a toast to the daughters by Mrs. Charles Spencer. Plants were presented to Mrs. Charles Smith, Jr., the mother with the youngest daughter present; Mrs. Susie Tulce, the oldest mother present; Mrs. Kenneth Livingston, present with the most daughters; and Mrs. Charles Popovich, Jr., the youngest mother attending. A social hour concluded the evening's program.

For a Dutch crumb cake, mix 1/2 cup butter with 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs and brown lightly, according to Anita Dean, foods specialist at Michigan State University. Use Dutch crumbs to garnish vegetables. That golden brown color and good butter flavor make vegetables "tickle the taste buds" of most every member of your family.

Bids Accepted for New Post Office In Ann Arbor

Announcement has been made by U. S. Representative George Meador of Ann Arbor, that the Postal Department has accepted the bid of an Ohio firm for the construction of a new $900,000 Post Office building in Ann Arbor.

Rep. Meador said the Knowlton Construction Co. of Bellefontaine, O., one of nine companies which bid on the project, has been awarded the contract.

The actual start of work on the new Post Office building is the climax of an uphill battle fought by Ann Arbor Postmaster Oswald J. Koch over the past 14 years. Koch, who was appointed postmaster here on June 1, 1949, wrote the first letter to Washington officials requesting a new postal building on July 20, 1944.

To be situated on a 3.6-acre site on the southwest side of West Stadium Blvd., between West Liberty street and Pauline Blvd., the new building, in functional-type style, will have a total of 48,000 square feet of working space on the main floor with the basement containing 4,500 square feet and loading platforms consisting of 5,670 square feet.

Construction on the long-sought postal building is expected to start this month with the contract calling for full occupancy not later than June 1, 1959. The Knowlton firm will own the building when it is completed and will lease it to the Post Office Department.

The government will sign a 20-year lease with the Knowlton Co. with an annual rental rate of $68,500. The present Post Office at 220 North Main street, will continue to be used as a substation of the new main Post Office. Services also will be continued at the postal substation on East University avenue and in the Nichols Arcade, according to present plans.

Ann Arbor Post Office receipts for 1957 amounted to a total of $1,321,000.

CD Test Alert . . .

Installations such as the electrical switch breaker stations, the water plant pumping station, the sewage disposal plant, the water tower and the Comstock power transmission banks. The fan-out network by telephone, to all factories, convalescent homes, etc., as would be done in an actual air raid will be made as a test to show what actually would be done if such an air raid actually did occur. Two pieces of fire department equipment will also be sent to outlying locations with one piece held in town for fire protection purposes. This same method of warning will also be used in the future in case of a hit by a tornado seems inevitable.

Miller emphasized that Wednesday's operation is only a test and for that reason should cause no alarm.

The test in this area, known as Civil Defense Zone VI, is being held in co-operation with the Chelsea Village Council, Village President Donald Alber and Supervisors George Bauer, Jr., of Lyndon township, Leigh Beach of Lima township and Maurice Hoffman of Sylvan township. State Highway Dept. Hears Objections to US-12 Planning

Read into the record at the Michigan State Highway Department hearing on the proposed relocation of US-12 were objections on certain features of the plans as they affect the Ann Arbor area. The meeting was held Tuesday, April 29, in the County Building at Ann Arbor.

City and county officials, as well as private interests, testified at the hearing at which Joseph Wilbur, hearings engineer for the State Highway Department presided.

The proposed relocation in Washtenaw county calls for a 17 1/2 mile limited access expressway to be built roughly parallel to the present three-lane US-12. It would extend from the county's western boundary to just east of Wagner road, near Ann Arbor, where it would link up with the US-12 Southbelt.

The relocation is part of a nation-wide program of improvement aimed at "modernizing" the interstate highway system to meet anticipated future demands for cross-country travel as well as to more adequately serve present needs.

Most of the objections at Tuesday's meeting concerned the plans for overpasses at Wagner road and a proposal to make Jackson road a one-way access road.

Jackson road, from Lakewood subdivision to Wagner road would be one-way going east while from Ann Arbor to Wagner road, Jackson road would be a one-way route for west-bound traffic.

Howard G. Minier, superintendent-manager of the Washtenaw County Road Commission, repeated
