Chelsea High School
Class of 1958

CLASS OF 1958—68 seniors completed graduation week activities at the commencement exercises held last night in the gymnasium at Chelsea High school. Diplomas were presented to the graduates by Leon R. Marsh of the Chelsea School Board, and School Superintendent Charles S. Cameron. Mrs. John Brooks was present to accept the diploma awarded her daughter, Karen McAlister, who has been ill the past four weeks. Dr. Jack

Petoskey, director of orientation in the department of registration and records at the University of Michigan, was the commencement speaker. He told graduates of the values of scholarship and parental influence in terms of modern education and also of his observations in the area of work with which he has become familiar in his position—orientation of students entering the University. He mentioned that he will be meeting some of the Chelsea graduates who will enroll at the U. of M. Graduation activities began Sunday evening with baccalaureate services at the Methodist church. The Rev. Richard Cockrell, vicar of St. Barnabas Episcopal church, delivered the sermon. Awards were presented at the Class Night program held Tuesday evening. The complete awards list is printed on page 12.

Fair Board Plans Chicken Barbecue

Chelsea Community Fair Board members, under the chairmanship of Thomas Bust, are making plans for a chicken barbecue, July 27, to raise money for equipment for the new building now under construction at the Fairgrounds. The barbecue equipment from Michigan State University will be set up on the grounds. In case of inclement weather, it will be possible to move inside, it was pointed out. The committee is extending an invitation to all organizations in the county to assist with the project.

Babe Ruth Ball Teams To Organize

Chelsea Recreation Director Alan Conklin announced this week that the Chelsea Recreation program will sponsor two teams in this year's county Babe Ruth League. Other area teams include Manchester, Dexter, Pinckney, Clinton, Saline, Milan and Willow Run. The league is divided into two divisions—the American and National. Present plans call for each team to play other teams in its division twice each week in the other division once. Chelsea plans to have two teams, one in each division. The league is for boys 13, 14, and 15 years of age. Each team carries 15 players, five of whom must be 13 years old. In addition, a team may not consist of more than two 15-year-olds. All players selected for the two teams must provide birth certificates which will be registered with the league president. Following the regular schedule of games to be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings, the top teams in each division will have a league play-off. Following this play-off an all-star team will be selected in each division and these two all-star teams will represent the county in a state-wide Babe Ruth League tournament. The state winner goes on to National competition. Present plans call for the league schedule to begin on June 16. Try-outs for the two Chelsea teams will be held Monday and Tuesday evenings, June 9 and 10 at 6:30 p.m., at the South Elementary school playground. Any boy 13, 14 or 15 who is interested should be there for try-outs. Any boy unable to attend these two try-outs should contact Alan Conklin if he is interested in playing.

Any qualified elector can vote in the annual school election Monday, June 9. Qualifications of school electors are as follows: Must be 21 years of age; citizen of the United States; resident of the state 6 months; resident of the Chelsea School District at least 30 days. (Property ownership is not a requirement for this election.)

Dr. J. V. Fisher, now concluding his second three-year term, has served as president of the board.

Dr. J. V. Fisher
In a statement to The Standard Dr. Fisher said: "It has been an honor and a privilege to serve the Chelsea School District for the past six years. These have been years of rapid growth and solid accomplishment. Physical growth has been evidenced by the completion of the South Elementary school, by approval of bond issues by an understanding and generous electorate for the building of the North Elementary school, the erection of a new senior high school and for an addition of eight rooms to the North Elementary school."

"The North School addition will be ready for occupancy by this coming September and it is anticipated that by January, 1959, the new high school will be completed. Current plans of the school board envision the use of the present high school building to house junior high students. As desirable and as urgent as this physical development has (Continued on page 12)

Earl Beeman
Beeman, who has been a member of the Chelsea school board since consolidation of the school took place 11 years ago, has resided in the vicinity of Waterloo all his life. He has had extensive experience as a school board member, having served continuously since he was 21 years old, first on the board of the former McIntee district and then on the Chelsea board. His aim throughout the years, according to a statement made this week, is "to do the most good to the largest number of people at the least expense."

Gerald Carr
Gerald Carr, president of the Chelsea PTA the past year and elected for the 1958-59 school year, has lived in this vicinity since 1945 when he came to Casady Lake Technical school as maintenance superintendent of buildings and grounds. The work includes maintenance and repair of all boilers and electrical and sewer systems, as well as the buildings. Born in Lake City in 1912, he lived at Remus until coming to the Chelsea area. He spent six months in the U. S. Marine Corps engineering battalion. Arrived in 1941, he has eight children, six of whom are attending Chelsea schools. He stated that he believes his "ability and knowledge of construction could well be utilized by a community that will probably be building new and adding to old school for some time to come." That he "has a desire to see the type of climate in Chelsea schools in which children can grow, learn and use their abilities," and "feels that his wide contact with parents can make him sort of a liaison between people of the community and the school board for a better mutual understanding and perhaps, effective co-operation."

Water Safety

New Ideas on Artificial Respiration

By Ears F. Zeiger
(Water Safety Committees of the American Red Cross)

Would you be ready if you were suddenly called upon to give artificial respiration? If you can't say "yes" to this question you should acquire this skill as soon as possible. Your Red Cross stands willing to help you learn this and other first aid measures.

Not only drowning stops breathing; it may be brought on by excessive electric shock, an overdose of drugs, freezing, and hanging, to name just a few. When you notice that a person has stopped breathing, artificial respiration must be started at once. Body cells can't store precious oxygen, which means that every second counts.

What type of artificial respiration should you use? Scientific investigation has given us new ideas on this important subject. The Bible speaks about breathing in the nostrils to restore life? We have heard how people were rocked on a sea-saw, or rolled across a barrel. For many years the Shafer-Prone-Pressure Method was considered the best, but this was replaced recently by the Holger-Nielsen Method. With this newer approach you kneel over the victim's head, clear his throat of any obstructions, place your hands on his shoulder blades, swing your weight forward with straight arms, rock back again and remove your hands, grasp his arms above the elbows and raise them toward you, and release while taking a short pause. This should take about five seconds and should be done about twelve times a minute.

If you don't feel that you could attempt this from this description, there is another method which is perhaps simpler and has been recommended most recently. It may seem a bit unhygienic, but it can save life most effectively. You simply breathe life back into the victim's lungs. Place him on his back. Kneel close to his head and to his left. Reach over his shoulder with your thumb and forefinger. Take his jaw in your left hand with your forefinger under the jaw bone and your thumb over the lower teeth. Place your mouth over his and fill his lungs with your breath every three seconds. If you fill them with air, they will empty themselves. It sounds simple, but it works. Don't forget it!

For further information on first aid and water safety, see your chapter of the American Red Cross.

250,000 Deer Born in State This Spring

Ann Arbor—Almost a quarter of a million fawns are born each spring in Michigan in late May or early June, says Warren Chase, chairman of the Department of Wildlife Management at The University of Michigan.

"So 'explosive' is the increase that the deer population will be stepped up by approximately one-third within a period of a few weeks," he says. "Because of predators, accidents and diseases about 40 per cent will not survive their first summer. Even so, each year there is a surplus of more than 100,000 deer that can be hunted."

The fawn's early life consists of quiet resting, waiting for the next meal and brushing off insects. It will get up on its feet within one hour after its birth. Often it will remain standing for about five minutes, take a few steps and lie down again. This process may be repeated several times during the first few hours.

"Generally, within an hour it will start to nurse while the mother is lying down. When the fawn is about 12 hours old it will nurse while its mother is standing. Two fawns, nearly always raised at the same time, the milk, which is very rich, most closely resembles that of the reindeer."

"The fawn seldom lies close to the mother but she always seems to know where she is. The animal appears to be a small mouse spotted by sunlight. It will remain still even though a man or a dog may pass within a few yards. For the first few days of life the fawn appears not to have any scent that will give its hiding place away."

"The rapidly with which a fawn grows out of its awkward insecure condition into its agile, graceful strength is a remarkable thing," says Professor Chase. "Its high tension springlike muscles are under perfect control. So quick is the woodland creature that when occasionally one must be taken for research purposes, it takes several men to capture it, and the work is very difficult if it isn't taken within the first week."

"A fawn has a complete covering of hair from birth. The hair is white spots—as many as 250 to 300 of them—are crowded against a bright reddish-tan background. In September the animal loses these spots and takes on its grey fall coat."

"To avoid danger, the fawn lies close to the ground and depends on protective coloration. When hiding, it appears to be a small mouse spotted by sunlight. It will remain still even though a man or a dog may pass within a few yards. For the first few days of life the fawn appears not to have any scent that will give its hiding place away."

Summer Band Program Announced

Judith Woolley and Carol Dancer were selected last week by members of the Senior Band as the two new baton twirlers for next year. The selection of these two girls now completes the roster of four twirlers which is normally carried by the Senior Marching Band. The other two who are returning from this year are Lynn Slusser and Lynne Fahrner. Judith, who is the daughter of Mrs. Annabelle Woolley, is a sophomore and plays the tenor saxophone in the Senior Concert Band. Carol is an eighth grader, plays first chair alto saxophone in the Senior Concert Band and is a member of the National Twirling Camp at Smith-Waibridge Camp, Inc., Syracuse, Ind., from June 29 until July 4.

Jon Harris will go to the same camp in July to attend Drum Major Camp on a Band Boosters scholarship.

The summer band program will begin June 8. A fee of $5.00 is being charged for the course of 16 band rehearsals and eight semi-private lessons. Students who are seventh graders and above may attend the eight evening rehearsals without charge if they do not take the semi-private lessons. Parents, students and beginners from the fourth grade on up will also be accepted. Students may register by contacting Gayle Grove or Superintendent Charles Cameron at the high school. The fee will be payable during the first week of the program.

All classes and rehearsals will be held in the band room at the high school. The semi-private classes will be individually assigned this week. Fourth and fifth graders and beginners will meet as a band on Monday and Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. until 11:15 a.m. Sixth graders will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 until 11:15 a.m. The Senior Band will meet Wednesday evenings from 7:30 until 8:45 p.m.

All band alumni and adults who play band instruments are invited to attend the evening rehearsals. Three local concerts are being planned.

Last week the Senior Band journeyed to Mercywood Sanatorium near Ann Arbor to present a concert for an appreciative audience of about 150 patients and nurses. Featured soloists were Byron Pearson, who played a cornet solo and conducted the band in their final number, and flutists Ruth, Frances, Carolyn, Bart, Lynn, Slusser, and Charlotte Harris. Matthew Brown announced the program numbers.

Experiences of the past should pave the highway to the future, rather than creating a road block.

June 6-Junior High picnic at Silver Lake.

Teachers are apparently as happy as students at the closing of school. Questioned as to their activities, some replied "Try to avoid a nervous breakdown." "Build up strength for another year, and so on, but we know they were kidding. They will be happy to have a change of routine, and will welcome the rest, but several are doing worth-while things during the summer.

Miss Potter will tour Oklahoma, Texas, and Arkansas, after which she will visit her family. Mr. Poulson will work for the Conservation Department. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Conklin will work on the Chelsea Summer Recreation Program. Mrs. Barbara Smith will work at Fisherman's Paradise Resort.

Attending the U. of Michigan will be Mr. Alfred Smith, Mr. Alan Conklin, Mr. Robert Taylor, Mrs. Waultraud Bald, Mrs. Gwen LaGoe.

As usual, Miss Fox will attend the delegate convention of the National Education Association this time as representative and guest of Michigan State Teachers Club, of which she is president. This is the 12th consecutive year that Miss Fox has attended the annual session, which this year will meet in Cleveland.

During the last meeting of the Senior Librarians, Elena Romero spoke to the club on the library in her native country, Honduras. She was made an honorary member of the club.

South Elementary Library had the help of several students during the final weeks of school. Mrs. Smyser's fourth grade supplied Linda Keaser, Ann David, Richard Green and David Kruse. Other helpers included Preston Grossman, Ronnie Koch, and Judy Wiseman.

Adult help was also volunteered. Mrs. Curtis Farley and a committee of six room mothers put in a great deal of time and were very helpful. Their efforts were much appreciated.

This week the Juniors are still enjoying that inner pleasure that comes from the success and beauty of a prom. Everything seems to be over, even exams. Tomorrow, when they receive their report cards, most will officially reach the top of the high school ladder. May this new group of "seniors" have the best of school years. In the midst of prom confusion, Student Council representatives were elected. Bob Smith, Earl Heller, and Don Ferguson are the privileged three.

A large variety of music was presented a week ago Tuesday in which the seventh and eighth graders helped. At their Spring Concert, May 27, the girls of both classes sang, "April Showers," "Tea For Two," "Where Are You Walk," "The Boys Song," "Cassion Song," "Gobber Feet," and "Talk of the Sailors." The eighth grade as a whole sang "Roll On." They presented a fine concert which took much work.

The 7th graders have been hurrying and scurrying around CHS, busy with the load of exams. As everyone around school knows, exams are coming up and the 7th graders are working hard studying.

The picnic for the 7th and 8th graders is taking place at Silver Lake, today, June 5.

Five people have not as yet paid their dues and the treasurer, Jean Pajot, said there is $24.20 in the treasury. The class hopes that these few students will soon pay so the class will have a perfect treasury.

The seventh graders wish to thank their class sponsors, Mrs. Papsdorf, Mr. Prinzing, and Mr. Sanborn, for helping the class get started and getting them through their first year in junior high.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

BY RALPH ROBEY

★ President's Views on the Business Outlook

Seldom have so many top Administration officials expressed opinions on the business outlook as in the past few days. At the top of the list was President Eisenhower. Others have been Vice-President Nixon, the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Labor, and the Secretary of Defense.

The President, Vice-President, and Secretary Weeks spoke at the Economic Mobilization Conference in New York City last week. Of most interest on an overall basis was the President's comments. To appraise Mr. Eisenhower's opinions it is necessary to bear in mind that he opened with the comment that "For some months now, we in the Government have spent a large part of our waking hours acting on proposals by private citizens on what the Government could do about the business downturn." He then pointed out that it was a "welcome turning of the tables" to suggest to businessmen that they could do to help recovery.

His general viewpoint was expressed in these words: "Reports from the country strongly indicate that the economic decline of recent months is slowing down. Not by any means. But there is a change in the making. That it will prove to be a change for the better, I have no doubt." He further said: "One salient fact should be clear. We can never pep-talk our way out of a recession."

In his advice to business the most pointed comment was: "The American people believe in good wages, both in private and public employment. Good wages reward effort and build markets. But the American people are going to be looking over the shoulders of those sitting at every bargaining table to see whether the wage settlement and subsequent price decisions are consistent with a stable dollar, or whether they mean an increase about as much as the rising costs and prices." This is especially pertinent in view of the automobile wage negotiations, now going on, and in view of the fact that on the basis of present evidence it appears wages will increase about as much this year as they did in 1957.

Of course the President reviewed what the Administration has done up to date to encourage recovery. That is an old story. The particular point everyone was making was that the new measures on taxes. He did not commit himself on this way or the other. It is still a matter of appraising current developments. Vice President Nixon, however, said he would prefer income tax reform to public works spending, and there is reason to believe this is the view of the President also. This is indicated by the statement of Mr. Eisenhower: "I am determined not to get bogged down in a slow-starting emergency public works program, which would provide a minimum of jobs now and a maximum of budgetary headaches in the years ahead."

Secretary Anderson, who was speaking at the Governors Conference also touched on the problem of taxes. He said certain decisions will be made in the near future and added: "they will not be a matter of party competition but will be reached only after continuing consultation with Congressional leaders. They will have to be made in light of the specifics of our improving economic situation." This decision has now been made and the President, in a letter to Vice President Nixon and House Speaker Rayburn, said there should be no general tax cut at this time.

Secretary Weeks talked in terms of the longer outlook. He said we should have a total value of goods and services at the end of the next ten years of $600 billion, as compared with the present $424 billion. Secretary Mitchell, testifying before the House Labor Committee, said we must expect an increase in unemployment figures in coming weeks as students get out of school. He gave no aggregate figure, but the percentage of increased unemployment would mean unemployment of at least six million. June always is the high month of unemployment for purely seasonal reasons.

Putting all these views together what do they mean? They mean that the Administration is firmly convinced that the recession is losing its steam. No one yet is willing to date the upturn, and there is no agreement as to whether recovery will be rapid or slow when it starts. But it is not to be expected that the Government will move vigorously for anti-recession action, and if the Congress passes legislation of that character there is the likelihood that it will be vetoed unless there is an unexpected and sharp turn for the worse.

Lower, Longer Cars Reported for '59

Despite all the talk about smaller cars, partly brought on by the success of some small European models in the United States, the word from Detroit is that 1959 model automobiles will be lower and longer.

This is the standard trend which has been continuing in the United States for many years. The 1959 model automobile is to be a big, glamorous automobile—but without radical automotive changes, it is reported.

In some circles it is said that emphasis on horsepower will definitely be decreased, and that gasoline mileage will be one of the major advertising themes. The current recession, and the need for economy, is probably one reason why horsepower is to be de-emphasized and operational economy emphasized.

However, it should be kept in mind that final plans and a final decision on the 1959 automobiles was made some 18 months ago. The automobile industry must operate about two years in advance to allow time for tooling, etc., and much of the sentiment and trend toward a smaller car, or a smaller second car, has developed in the last year or year and one-half—after approval had already been given for a larger 1959 automobile.

From Detroit it is said that the American buying public still prefers the rather large American car. While it is admitted that the small car has made inroads in the market in recent years, and while there is a possibility that several major auto makers will actively push a smaller automobile, the fact remains that Detroit still furnishes the vast majority of cars for the American buyer.

Respect Pedestrians' Rights

Every driver of a motor vehicle has a tender regard for the rights of the pedestrian when he happens to be the pedestrian. On such occasions, they are in a position to understand that approximately 65 per cent of all persons injured or killed in automobile accidents are pedestrians.

After a narrow escape from being killed by some careless driver, they are willing to believe that a pedestrian is entitled to safety and that, whether he is in the right or wrong, the driver should protect him.

We would like to hope that every driver in the area who reads this will make up his mind to drive carefully, but we are sure that won't happen. However, if only one person will be a bit more cautious and courteous as a result of something we have said, possibly an injury will be prevented and we will feel satisfied.

Let's all give a thought to the children, particularly. They furnish one-third of all the fatalities resulting from auto accidents. They are entitled to safety and, if drivers do not give it to them, it is time for the State to step in and make laws which will be strictly enforced, to assure children as nearly absolute protection from careless drivers as can be obtained.

Be particularly on the look-out for children in the streets or darting out from between parked cars near school or playground locations. Children all have a natural tendency to ignore danger of which they are not fully aware. It's up to you, the driver, to help keep them safe.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Smaller parties in Michigan's political arena are stirring to get on the 1958 state election ballot.

Only the most fervent of the faithful dream that any one of their candidates will win in November, but there is a principle to be pursued.

They campaign on their beliefs every two years, select partial slates for the ballot and stay alive only by devotion to a cause, however unpopular.

The latest party organization, the "Tax Cut Party," fell short of the needed 15,000 valid signatures to go on the November ballot but other, more familiar names made it.

They are the Socialist Workers Party, the Socialist Labor Party and the Prohibition Party.

State Law requires them to get three per cent of the total vote to automatically stay on the ballot.

In the past few years none has, so they return by petition.

One state election official mused on a mystery last week.

"Why is it that these minority parties can obtain so many more signatures to place their slates on the ballot than they get votes in the election?" he asked.

The answer, of course, has to do with the nature of the man.

By signing the petitions and working for their own beliefs, some go on record and fulfill their own philosophies, but as citizens, they are strong in tendency to cast a vote for the candidate who has a better chance of winning.

Others sign petitions as the line of least resistance at the time; forget or ignore the action at voting time.

Michigan has never discouraged minority parties, but rather, has encouraged them. The same election officials had an explanation:

"Even the majority parties were once minority factions."

The Hire Now! campaign, launched earlier this month by the Michigan Employment Security Commission, cannot help but have value to the state's economy. Aim of the program is to remind employers that there is now an unusually good source of skilled workers, and to encourage them to hire as many as they can use.

Obvious benefit, of course, is a job for an unemployed person. In plan to let out school next year without any commencement speakers.

I see by the papers where England is having another dollar shortage and a couple of Englishmen are heading for Washington to discuss it. Now, I ain't bragging, but I've had as much experience with dollar shortage as anybody living. There ain't been a time in my recollection when I wasn't having a dollar shortage in some form or other. It's a funny thing, but it don't seem to make no difference if times is good or bad, busting or booming, I still am short on dollars. If them Englishmen get any relief over here, I'm heading for Washington myself. If everybody in the world was short on dollars, how leads for Washington, the place is liable to cave in.

I was reading last night where a doctor told a bunch of business men at a meeting in New York that the reason so many business men was stooping down how leads for Washington, the place is liable to cave in.

★ Little Boy Inside

Dr. Hugh Missillidine is writing a new book in which he suggests that each of us carries around inside his personality the little boy (or girl) he used to be.

And the good doctor says he thinks we ought to be kind to the little boy inside.

If you have a little boy in your family now, I hope you don't expect him to be perfect. You make allowances for his immaturity if he spills his soup or yells too loud. You keep on loving him even if he doesn't get all A's on his report card.

So, says Dr. Missillidine, you ought not to expect perfection of yourself, because you are still something like the little boy you used to be. Some of us adults make ourselves unhappy most of the time because things don't always go exactly right. But since adults are just grown-up children, we shouldn't expect ourselves to be perfect.

If you have a little boy in your home, you don't expect him to be hard at work every minute. You let him have some time for fun, and some time for just fooling around.

You're a wise parent if you can arrange his chores for a certain time of day, and if you keep after him until he does them—and then leave him alone as much as possible the rest of the day!

Well, don't nag yourself all the time, either. You can do only so much in a day, and if you feel like fooling around part of the time, it's just a sign that you still are partly a little boy.

On a wedding day, there are really four people being married: a man, and the little boy he used to be; a woman, and the little girl she used to be.

Now the man and the woman can become accustomed to each other, for they are going to live in the same house. But the house the little girl once lived in will never be the same as the house in which the little boy grew up.

Maybe the little boy was used to a big family that gathered around the table at breakfast time for family prayers and then downed a hearty meal of ham and eggs, pancakes and fried potatoes. The little girl may have grown up in a family where everyone rose at a different hour, grabbed a cup of coffee, and dashed off in all directions.

Now his problem will be that he thinks a person who loves you will cook you a big breakfast. When his bride refuses to do this, he will think she doesn't love him. It will add to the happiness of

The American History Pageant, given for the second time Monday by the kindergarten and first eight grades, has been pronounced as the best program ever produced by the Chelsea public school. More than 200 children, historically costumed, took part. The house was filled to capacity and the Kiyuan club showed its appreciation by attending in a body.

Local traffic can use soil-cement the same day it's laid. No costly delays.

For Shiawassee County...

Soil-cement is the low-cost road that grows stronger year by year!

County road crews can all but forget about the roads paved with soil-cement. They hold up like no other low-cost pavement ever laid.

Soil-cement is strong right from the start, ready for traffic fast. And it keeps getting stronger! Tests on roads everywhere show it often doubles in strength after years of use.

Soil-cement is a precision-built road—stronger inch for inch than any other pavement short of concrete. No softening, no break-up after a hard winter. It's the 20-year-plus pavement. Maintenance costs stay low.

Initial cost? That's low, too, because roadbuilders work with native soils. Paving is quick and easy. Soil, cement and water are mixed on the ground and rolled solid. Local contractors are building as much as two miles a day.

That's why engineers all over Michigan are converting more mileage to soil-cement every year. Ask your road commission for the figures on your county.

Greater Number Of Resorts Display Health Dept. OK

Lansing—More Michigan resorts will display the HDA sign this summer than ever before, the Michigan Department of Health announced today. "HDA" stands for "health department approved."

About 2,200 of the approximately 5,000 resorts eligible for the signs have voluntarily qualified to display them. This number represents an increase of about 200 over the places displaying the sign a year ago.

This is the sixth year that the state and local health departments have offered the HDA sign to motels, tourist cabins and summer resort hotels that conform with state health standards. In a few counties restaurants also voluntarily participate in the program.

To the tourist the HDA sign signifies that the resort has a safe water supply, good sanitary facilities, clean and safe buildings, and adequate facilities for handling food and milk if they are served.

The sign also means that if there are swimming facilities they are reasonably safe, and that insects, poison ivy and other nuisances are controlled.

The HDA sign is 22 inches wide and 16 inches high with the distinctive HDA emblem painted in a green and gold color combination. The letters "HDA" are reflectorized so they can be seen at night. Resorts usually display the sign near the highway alongside their name sign.

Resort owners can still qualify to display the sign this season by applying to their local health department for details.

PROVING MORE DIFFICULT for most readers than the previous photos, Mystery Farm No. 6, above, published in last week's Standard has been identified as the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder on Ivey road a mile and one-half northwest of Chelsea.

Mystery Farm No. 6 Is Identified as Home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder

Mystery Farm No. 6, published May 29, proved to be more of a "mystery" than those which preceded it in the weeks since the pictures of unidentified farms in the Chelsea area have been appearing in The Standard.

The first identification came about 10 a.m. Thursday when Roland Eder correctly stated it was the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder, at 10980 Ivey road.

Julius Blaess who has been among the first to identify all the previous farm pictures, called Thursday afternoon, admitting that he "had to have a little help" before identifying the picture this week.

Others who identified the farm are Mrs. Gerald Luck, Mrs. Elmer Lindow, Allen Alber, Mrs. Bernard Herst, Mrs. Paul Bollinger, David Rowe, Duane Weiss, Tom Johnson (17 years old), David Haas, Joseph Merkel, III, Joyce Mahar, Frank—Viel, Norman Hiltz, Harold Wahl, Stanley Schiller (13 years old), and Bill Robbins. Formerly the Roy Ives farm, it has been owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder the past 16 years.

Eder farm was originally owned by Robert Foster, great-grandfather of the present Robert Foster of Foster's Mens' Wear. The senior Robert Foster was one of Chelsea's "grand old men" and was honored at several public observances of his birthday as he neared the century mark. He died only a few months before he would have celebrated his 100th birthday. One of his sons, Schuyler, was well known as a rural school teacher and later, a rural mail carrier. He now lives in Dexter with a daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Walling.

A daughter of the original Robert Foster, Miss Lillian Foster, is living at the Chelsea Methodist Home.

Successively, the farm was owned by a son, Clarence Foster, another son, Charles Foster, O. C. Burkhardt, Mrs. Clara Speer and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ives. The Eders bought the farm from Mr. and Mrs. Ives after the latter's son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ives had lived there for about four years.

The present house is about 27 years old, having been erected after the original house burned in 1931 while Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ives lived there.

The Eders bought the farm in 1944 and went into the sheep-raising business. They discontinued this project after three years because of increasing losses caused by dogs who annually killed and injured many of the animals.

Eder now utilizes the 62-acre farm as a pasture for feeding beef cattle and to raise hay for his feeding program. He also operates a lime and fertilizer spreading business.

The Eders have three sons—Roland, who is married to the former Betty Bradbury and has an 11-month-old son, Timmy, Robert who is a junior at Chelsea High school, and Danny a fifth grader.

Members of the Eder family belong to the Congregational church and Mrs. Eder is also affiliated with Lima Center Extension club.

DOGS

By Farley Manning
National Dog Welfare Guild

Shaggy Dog Stories
Why shaggy dog stories get that name no one seems to know. Many of them have nothing to do with dogs—shaggy or otherwise.

However some of them do, and a little booklet is currently being circulated that includes some of the best. For instance:

A man and a dog came into a bar and the man ordered two martinis. When they came he handed one to the dog who promptly drank the cocktail, ate the glass until only the base and stem remained, walked to the door and left.

The bartender viewed this with amazement and announced that this was the craziest thing he had ever seen.

"Yeah," the man said, "he's a dumb dog. The stem is the best part."

Or another:
Two pointer owners were arguing as to the relative merits of their dogs.

"I got mad as heck at my dog last week," one of them said. "He kept hunting along the edge of the road and refused to go into the field. I finally rode over to use my stick on him and he went into a point. I looked where he was pointing and he was showing me a no hunting sign."

"Yes," said the other, "dogs know more than we think they do. My old Bessie and I met another hunter in a field a couple of weeks ago and Bessie immediately pointed him. I thought she was nuts until the fellow told me his name was Partridge."

identified as the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder on Ivey road a mile and one-half northwest of Chelsea.

Veterans Delinquent in Home Loans Being Fleeced by Sharp Operators

Veterans who are delinquent in payments on their GI home loans are warned to check carefully any offers by strangers to pay delinquent payments if they, the veterans, will "sign on the dotted line."

This warning was sounded today by the Veterans Administration, which has guaranteed home loans for more than 200,000 World War I and Korean Service veterans in Michigan.

VA said such veterans should check with an attorney of their choice, the holder of the mortgage or with the loan guaranty division of the Regional Office, 310 East Jefferson Avenue, Detroit 31, to determine whether or not the offer is legitimate and sound.

A revival of the practice sometimes called "milking" or "equity skinning," has occurred, VA reported. In one form of this racket, the veteran, who is behind in his GI loan payments, is approached by individuals offering to pay the delinquent installments if the veteran will "sign on the dotted line."

The veteran subsequently learns that he has signed a deed and can get his property back only by signing a land sales contract at a much higher price.

When the veteran finds he is unable to meet the frequently excessive terms of the land sales contract, legal action is taken to obtain possession of the veteran's home.

In other instances, a low cost subdivision will be canvassed to learn whether veterans are having trouble meeting their GI loan payments.

If the veterans are having trouble, these individuals offer each veteran a nominal amount for his equity, plus the privilege of purchasing another home in a lower cost area on a land sales contract.

The veteran agrees to give possession in 60 days and "signs on the dotted line," unaware that he is signing a deed.

When the 60 days are up, the veteran is advised that no listings are available in the lower cost development. The veteran is then evicted from his home.

A third variation of these practices is used in Michigan where there is a long mortgage redemption period. A veteran, falling behind in home loan payments, is offered a nominal sum for a quit claim deed to the property with a verbal promise that all back payments will be made up.

The veteran moves out believing the loan will be brought up to date. Instead, the individual holding the quit claim deed rents the house without making any attempt to make up back payments.

Most of the money received as rent is profit until foreclosure is final and the veteran, unaware of what has happened, still owes the lender and quite possibly the U. S. Government if VA pays a claim on the loan.

VA has been advised by U. S. District Attorney Fred W. Kaess

Hearing Set on Livestock Sale Bond

Unpaid livestock owners in the area who sold animals through the now defunct Crenshaw Livestock Sales at Jackson will be interested in announcement of the date set for a hearing on claims against the bond covering that sales outlet.

Director G. S. McIntyre, of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, has set the hearing for June 18 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the basement auditorium of the Jackson County Building at 812 South Jackson street, Jackson.

He says that claims submitted must include proof of claim form and such other documents as will provide evidence of sale or consignment through the Crenshaw Livestock Sales. No claims will be received after 8 p.m. of June 18.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

FAMILIES of those brave Americans who gave their lives in World War II and were laid to rest in military cemeteries abroad will receive a measure of comfort from a program newly announced by the American Battle Monuments Commission.

The Commission will provide 13"x17" color photographs of the cemetery with a corner insert of the individual grave and headstone. In cases where the body was not recovered, the corner insert will show a portion of the "wall of the missing" where names of the dead heroes are inscribed in marble.

It is a personal satisfaction to be able to assure the American people that our military cemeteries abroad are as beautiful as the hand and heart of man can make them. The valiant dead of World War II have been laid to rest in 14 cemeteries scattered throughout the world.

Requests for pictures should be made by the next of kin directly to the American Battle Monuments Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Photographs are ready for eight cemeteries: Cambridge (England); St. Laurent (Belgium); Epinal (France); Draguignan (Rhône, France); Margraten (Holland); Nettuno-Anzio (Italy); Carthage (Tunisia, North Africa). Requests for the remaining six cemeteries should be deferred until about September when the Commission expects to have the mammoth photographing job completed.

The project does not include the Korean war dead, who were returned to the United States for interment.

Situated on land provided by the governments of those nations where fighting occurred, the cemeteries have been designed by America's most eminent artists, sculptors and architects. Individual arrangements differ but each has three essential features: a small nondenominational chapel for use of visitors; permanent inscriptions of the names of those buried; and a permanent record—often a handsome wall mosaic or mural of the achievements of our Armed Forces in the region.

If our thoughts and words can reach those brave ones who lie beneath the timeless green, let us tell them that the concept of freedom for which they gave their lives is eternally valid. It is eternally worthy of the best that each of us can give to it. No one of us is truly free until all are free.

The answer came the next night. Someone broke into the church through a rear window and ransacked several cabinets and boxes. The pastor ended up checking to determine what was stolen.

The Woodchuck Wouldn't "Chuck"

Lady called up our newspaper and asked how to get a woodchuck out of her garage. I referred her to young Chip Wilkins, our Field and Wildlife Editor.

"That's easy," says Chip. "Just roll some bread into pellets, and make a trail of them leading out of the garage."

Next day she called Chip again. "You sure are smart," she cooed, "to know a woodchuck will follow a trail of breadcrumbs. Now I've got two woodchucks in the garage!"

From where I sit, sometimes "expert advice" turns out to be not so expert. Reminds me of those who are always ready to advise us how to relax...how to work...whether or not to prefer coffee (for instance) to a glass of beer. I think a lot of us ought to think twice before advising people to do this thing or that thing. In the long run, it will make us all better neighbors.

Use Caution with Mercurial-Treated Field Seeds

Many lots of field seeds that have been treated with various poisonous compounds do not bear adequate warnings so that seedsmen, farmers and the general public take proper precautions in handling, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture's seed testing laboratory at Lansing.

Mercurial-treated seed grains must bear a "poison treated" label and be stained with a color contrasting with the natural color of the seed. This makes the treated seed easy to recognize should it become mixed with untreated seed entering food or animal feed channels. Even so there is a hazard because of the fumes given off by mercurials which are volatile.

In the opinion of the chief seed analyst, John Garver, unusual care should be used in handling treated seed, particularly mercurials that can be absorbed through skin contact or breathed into the lungs through vapors in a poorly ventilated place.

Many seeds like hybrid corn, vegetable seed and small seeded legumes and lawn seeding mixtures are often treated with certain sulphur compounds. Although these are not toxic like mercurials and organic phosphates, Sulphur compounds are irritants to many persons, and some persons are highly allergic to them. Better labeling of treated seed to inform persons of the dangers is Garver's suggestion.

"We are actually not toxic like mercurials and organic phosphates," says Garver, "but many seedmen are failing to fully inform the user to take adequate precaution when using treated seed. Some individuals could suffer a bad reaction from seeds treated with these compounds."

'Built-ins' Help With Problem of Needed Storage

How's the storage in your home? Most homes have two big problems—not enough space and waste space in the storage areas that are available, says Eunice Pardee, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University.

To take care of "not enough space" you may be able to build in or add movable storage units to your home. Clothing closets can be added in the bedroom through the use of "built-ins" on one wall. "Built-ins" might be used in a wall between two bedrooms making storage in both rooms. Or you can close in one corner by using the new accordion doors.

In some homes rearranging existing closets with special places for things stored will stretch storage space to hold more. Try adding shelves that are spaced to fit items you store—a long narrow slot for guns, long poles for children's coats leave plenty of room for higher poles for short adult garments or out-of-season clothing.

Boots and rubbers call for storage near the entrance. Direct traffic of family members to the back entrance and have a rack with slats on top and a sliding tray underneath near the door. Boots are set on the slats and dirt and moisture fall through to the tray which is easy to pull out for cleaning.

A single 16"x16" file drawer takes very little space and can be a great helper for keeping business papers in order. With the many types of information you get on care of appliances and clothing these days you probably need a place for them too. Have folders for care of appliances, guarantees for appliances, care of clothing tags or other information that has to be kept but is now cluttering up valuable drawer space—usually so disorganized you can't find what you want.

Supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Leach Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDonald and sons, James and Douglas, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reed and son, James.

Consumers Like Food Packages With 'Windows'

Consumers seem to like packages that allow them to look over the contents easily.

This appeared to be the case in tests made using packaged chickens. Research workers at the Michigan State University Agricultural Experiment Station had asked a group of Detroit consumers to choose between differently packaged fryers.

In the test, the appearance of the fryers themselves seemed to carry a lot of weight with the consumers. Many persons apparently liked a plain wrapper so they could see the fryer and judge its quality. Two types of plain wrappers, cellophane and polyethylene, were compared to red colored and printed wrappers of the same materials.

Neither did a particular inspection, grade or processing tag have much influence on the consumers' choices. Quality was still uppermost. Tags used included U. S. Inspected, Actionized, U. S. Inspected and graded "A", and Michigan Inspected.

The influence of appearance carried over into a test of the effect of different colors of wicker basket containers. There was some increase in the number of first choices for the bird that was shifted from a yellow to a blue basket from one test to next. For the bird that remained in the yellow basket, first choices dropped. There were fewer first choices of the bird that was moved to a white basket, too.

The research team conducting the test included J. H. MacNeil and H. E. Larriere, agricultural economics and L. E. Dawson, poultry.

In an address to be given at the convention by Joseph E. Lamb of New Haven, Conn., supreme secretary of the Knights of Columbus. The convention is being held in the Grand Hotel.

Missionary to Africa Will Speak Sunday At Assembly of God

The Rev. James E. Barnard, newly appointed missionary to Liberia, Africa, will be the guest speaker at the Chelsea Assembly of God on Sunday, June 8 at 7:30 p.m., according to the Rev. H. J. Meppelink. The Rev. Barnard will speak on the subject, "The Supreme Task of the Church."

In Liberia, the Rev. Barnard will minister in the world's largest rubber plantation at Harbel. In the mission station at Owensgrove, he will teach in a Bible school to train the Liberian to teach his own people the gospel. The school in which he will teach is one of the 60 Bible schools the Assembly of God Denomination supports around the world. These schools have trained 8,000 national ministers.

Because the Liberian government makes it mandatory to have elementary schools wherever a Bible school exists, the Rev. Barnard will have the task of opening an elementary school and supervising it.

The station on which the Barnards will live is located 45 miles in the interior from the capital city of Monrovia.

The Rev. and Mrs. Barnard and their two daughters, Bethany and Evelyn, expect to sail for Africa some time in the fall.

Intelligent community group, bring these urgent matters to the attention of all members of our community. By working together, school board members, school officials, teachers, parents, and businessmen, we should be able to complete our building program and open and operate the additional facilities without an additional bond issue.

"If I am elected I will do my utmost to represent all of the people."

Reith, a veteran of World War II, has four children. Three are in school. He has lived at 810 Island Lake road the past 12 years and is in business as a manufacturer's agent with offices in Detroit and Ypsilanti.

Fisher's Statement . . .

been, other accomplishments of perhaps less tangible but of an equally vital nature have taken place. A code of policies to guide and govern the functioning of the school district has been formulated and is subject to annual revision by the school trustees.

"The high school curriculum was subjected to exhaustive study by a group of concerned citizens. Certain changes were recommended and adopted by the board to make the curriculum more realistic and robust. These changes occurred before the impact of Sputnik's launching was felt on the educational world."

"Salaries of teachers and administrators have been increased almost annually, even beyond that called for in the salary schedule. This has enabled the administrative staff to attract an even better caliber of teacher to our community, and served to improve teacher morale."

"At the present time the curriculum study committee has the junior high school course of studies under consideration. They will recommend revisions to the school board to be made when the junior and senior high schools will be housed in separate buildings. This separation is considered by all to be most desirable."

"These accomplishments are a matter of record and justifiable pride. It would be the grossest kind of presumption for the school board or any member of it to claim sole credit for such achievements. They have occurred through the beneficence of an informed electorate, the selfless labor of our citizen groups who have advised us in matters of finance, building, curriculum and future growth."

"The honest needs of our children have always been paramount in our deliberations, economy of operation has never been relegated to a minor position."

"The present incumbents solicit your vote as a mark of confidence in this program and as evidence of a desire to continue and develop it further."

Dr. Fisher, a physician here the past 17 years, served in World War I from 1942 until 1946. He has four children, attending Chelsea schools.
