Summer Recreation Program Will Start Activities Monday

Dances, Girl's Softball To Be Added Features Of Six-Week Program

Chelsea's Summer Recreation Program will begin Monday, June 16, and operate Monday through Friday for the next six weeks. The program will feature dances, girl's softball, and other activities. The program is being conducted by the Chelsea Recreation Committee.

In addition, the morning, at the South Elementary athletic field there will be a sports and athletic program geared to boys 8 years old and up. This program in previous years was held at the old athletic field but due to space limitation it is being held at the South Elementary athletic field. Youngsters of the community, along with Alan Copkin and Robert Taylor, have constructed a new baseball field at the South school.

Again this year the afternoon program will consist of free swimming at Grooms Beach on Whitmore Lake. Children must be at least 7 years old and present a permission slip signed by a parent or guardian in order to go swimming. In addition to recreation swimming, swimming instruction will be offered by the staff this year. Buses will leave the high school at 12:45 p.m. and return at 4:40 p.m.

The evening program, to be held at the South Elementary athletic field, will be similar to that of the morning athletic program. It is open to both boys and girls. There will be five baseball games operated by the Recreation Committee this year. The recreation survey conducted this spring indicated a desire for girls' softball. Thus, a girls' softball league will be organized. All girls interested in softball are to report to Miss Audrey Haab at the South Elementary athletic field Monday, June 23 at 6:30 p.m. If interest is sufficient, a girls' softball league will be organized.

The Babe Ruth League for boys 15-16 has already been organized and games to be played every Monday and Wednesday evenings. Chelsea Recreation will sponsor two Babe Ruth teams this summer. In addition there will be a high school age baseball team competing in the Tri-County League with teams from Stockbridge, Grass Lake, Brooklyn, Leslie and Spring Arbor. The day for these games has not yet been determined.

The recreation staff again this year will be directed by Al Conklin. Miss Audrey Haab, who has one more year to work on her elementary teaching degree, will direct one of the morning programs and in addition work with the evening program.

Fair Board Moves To Wire Building Before Show Time

Chelsea Community Fair Board held a meeting Monday evening at the new building being constructed on the fairgrounds. The group acted on plans for bringing in adequate electrical power for the new building, itself, and for the entire fairground in time for the 1958 Community Fair.

The July 27 chicken barbecue, planned as a means of raising funds for the installation of electrical work and other equipment for the buildings, was discussed. Progress of plans was reported by Thomas Dues, general chairman, who also stated that he is selecting sub-committee chairmen to assist with the project.

A steering committee named includes Everett Van Riper, J. V. Burg, II, Roland Spaulding, John Brooks, P. G. Schaible, Jr., and Alfred D. Mayer. Roland Spaulding is to be the general ticket chairman for the barbecue and it is planned to have tickets available throughout Washtenaw county and in more distant points, including Detroit, Jackson and Toledo.

Chelsea High school alumni banquet, held Saturday evening in the high school gymnasium, was attended by 207 alumni and guests. It was the 62nd Chelsea Alumni Association banquet.

Lawrence Dietle, chairman of the decorating committee, and members of the committee were commended for the attractive appearance of the gymnasium where the banquet was held. Travel posters lined the walls and balloons with baskets attached, simulating passenger balloons, were suspended from the ceiling.

The meal was served by candlelight with Olive Chapter No. 108, OES, in charge of the meal's preparation and serving.

The speakers' table had place cards to which were attached tiny flags of various countries. During the meal accordion music was played by Joe Caruso of Lincoln Park.

The Rev. Fr. Les Laige of St. Mary's Catholic church, gave the invocation. The 50th anniversary class of 1908 was seated at a table centered with a bouquet of flowers furnished by the class itself. Each place at the table was marked with an address book with the names and addresses of members of the class. In addition, each of the ladies in the anniversary class had a gold colored corsage and wore a gold belt.

Members of the class of 1908 present for the banquet included Mrs. Carrie Brenner-Fahrner of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Koebe of Columbus, Neb.; Mrs. Mabel Canfield-McViney and Mrs. Helen McGinness-Russ of Detroit; Miss Ethel Moran of Charlotte; Carlton Runciman of Lowell; Mrs. Minola Kalmbach Runtan of Jackson; Miss Elizabeth Kusterer of Ypsilanti; Mrs. Margaret Eder of Grosse Pointe Park; Mrs. Nina Hunter Heeson of Tecumseh; and Mrs. Alma Barton Merkel, Mrs. Alice Chandler Thierman, Mrs. Lena Forner Helntiger, Miss Nina Greening, Mrs. Winifred McKune Ulrich, Mrs. Anna Walsh Dvorak and Mrs. Mabel White Holmes, all of this vicinity.

Rep. Warner Addresses Businessmen

Dr. Michael Pope and Dr. James Botsford who plan to open joint offices here early in July for the practice of medicine, were guests at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday. The two physicians are completing their internship at St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, following graduation from the University of Michigan Medical School. Their offices will be located on the ground floor at 109 North Main street.

Guest speaker at the meeting, introduced by Paul Mann, program chairman, was State Representative James Warner of Ypsilanti. Stating that "unless Mr. and Mrs. John Public take more interest in elections and government at all levels, Democracy, as we know it, will soon cease to exist," he charged that bureaucracy and civil service have already "taken over the government."

Warner cited the controversy over the location of the Boys Vocational School at Whitmore Lake as an example. In spite of protests of people in the area, he said, the Bureau of Social Aid and Welfare has decided that is to be the location and the Bureau has the complete power to say where it will be located.

Touching on the state's mental health program, Warner charged that the Mental Health Department is returning $1,200,000 of unspent appropriated money this year and has every year returned (Continued on page 12)

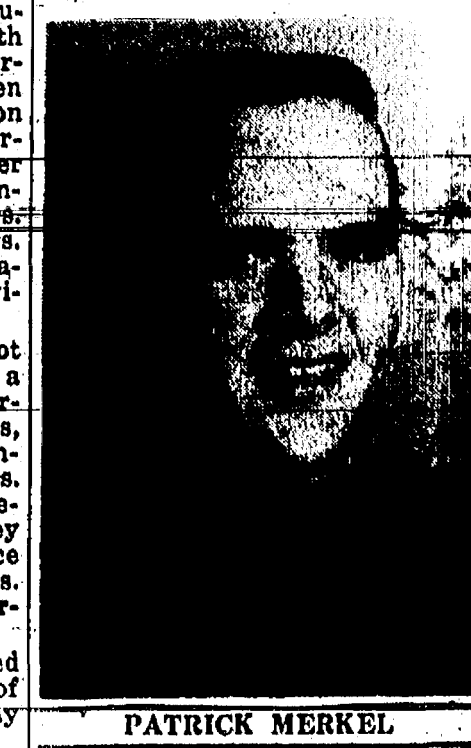

CHELSEA RESIDENTS who take part in tours of public utilities during tonight's open house will see the sewage disposal facility shown in the above photograph. In the upper left of the photo appears Leon D. Fox, who has been in charge of the plant operations since June 16, 1946. He will explain to visitors details of the equipment which he states is now operating on a basis of 100 per cent overload. The plant was put into operation in October, 1937. Specifications and recommendations of sanitation engineers are for doubling the capacity by means of new installations. The two 24"x24" tanks at the rear are 18 feet deep and are described as the aeration tanks (air inserted by blowers to keep bacteria alive for the work of clarification of the sewage). At the front are two 10-foot deep tanks, the one at the right known as the primary tank, where sewage enters the system, and the one at the left being the final accumulation which has the appearance of clear water after processing through the aeration tanks. From this final tank the contents are carried out into the creek. The sewage plant is reached from a McKinley street entrance near the bridge, north of Elm street.

ELLEN KEUSCH

EARL HELLER

Ellen Keusch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Keusch, is attending Wolverine Girls' State on the University of Michigan campus at Ann Arbor this week as a representative of Horner J. McKenna Unit No. 31 American Legion Auxiliary, and Earl Heller and Patrick Merkel leave today to attend Boys' State on the Michigan State University campus, East Lansing.

Earl Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heller, and Patrick Merkel, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Merkel. All three will be seniors at Chelsea High school next year. Miss Keusch is an all "A" student and maintained her outstanding scholarship record in spite of the fact that during most of her sophomore year she was confined at home because of corrective treatment. She kept up her school work by means of telephone classes carried out through Chelsea High school.

During her junior year she was on the Senior Annual staff; was a member of the Girls Athletic Association (GAA); served as treasurer of the Future Teachers of America club and president of the Journalism club; and was a member of the high school chorus. She served on the general junior prom committee and was also the refreshment committee chairman. She attended St. Mary's school through the eighth grade.

Girls' State began Tuesday, with 860 girls from the entire state congregated at Stockwell Hall for nine days of intensive study of the fundamental principles of American government through actual practice "to stimulate a desire to protect the privileges and responsibilities of our form of government."

Personnel at Girls State includes members of the University of Michigan staff, representatives of the University's political science department and representatives of the American Legion Auxiliary, Girls' State sponsor.

Qualifications considered in selecting girls to attend are listed as follows: leadership, character, courage, honesty, scholarship, cooperativeness and physical fitness. Aims of the project are to prove the advantages of citizenship; create an active interest in government; develop a responsibility of leadership; and provide educational guidance.

The girls will use voting machines for their election of "local and state" officials Sunday afternoon. Nominations were scheduled for yesterday. Gov. G. Mennen Williams is expected to speak at the inauguration ceremonies scheduled for Sunday evening. Before the Girls' State program is concluded June 26, two girls are to be selected to attend Girls' National convention at Washington.

LAI-D-OFF WORKERS CALLED BACK:

Federal Screw Purchases Customer List of Ohio Firm

Acquisition by Federal Screw Works here of the goodwill and all engineering and manufacturing industries. Making these parts at the Chelsea plant where automotive industries have been the chief customers through the years, will supplement local production and should result in increased employment with lower lay-off, according to Booker.

Some of the technical staff of the Couch-Utho company have joined the staff at Federal Screw Works. The Elyria plant was approximately half the size of the Chelsea plant of Federal Screw Works, both as to amount of work and shipments of finished products. The firm specialized in non-ferrous metals whereas the Chelsea plant manufactures hardened steel parts.

No screw machines were moved from Elyria to the Chelsea plant, only equipment moved here being needed for the production.

Junior Chamber of Commerce members will serve coffee and doughnuts on the third floor of the Municipal building at the conclusion of the tours and a grand finale will be a band concert by the Chelsea High school band at 9 o'clock. Following the Court of Awards a coffee hour was held at the church and parents of the girls were invited to be guests. Mrs. Ruth Howe of Ann Arbor, camp director and a member of the executive board of the Girl Scout organization, was the guest speaker at the awards ceremony and also took part in making the awards.

"MYSTERY FARM" NO. 9 has a familiar look but might prove more difficult to identify than some of the others which have already appeared in the series. If you think you know where farm this is and where it is located, call The Standard office at once, GR 6-3551. You may earn the distinction of being the first one to call in the correct identification. The owner will receive, as a gift, a mounted photograph of the farm if he claims it at The Chelsea Standard by Saturday, June 21.

Health Dept. Tells Results of Recent Histoplasmin Test

Results of the recently completed tuberculin-histoplasmin skin testing program were released today by Dr. Otto K. Engleke, Washington County Health Department. The completed tabulations show that 8,488 children were tested for the two infections, and that 1,485 showed reactions to the histoplasmin while only 130 showed reactions to the tuberculin.

2,754 Ann Arbor school children were tested, and 218 reacted to histoplasmin as compared to 41 reacting to tuberculin. Ypsilanti children averaged a very similar reaction rate with 2,035 children receiving tests and 207 reacting to histoplasmin, but only 32 reacting to tuberculin. Willow Run school followed a similar pattern with 1,267 tests revealing 123 histoplasmin reactors and 25 tuberculin reactors. Chelsea had 607 children tests; 15 histoplasmin reactors and 5 tuberculin reactors. A slight variation was found in Lincoln-Belmont where 1,407 children were tested and where 73 reacted to histoplasmin and 16 to tuberculin.

The highest reaction rate by far, was observed in Milan where of the 1,329 children tested, 817 reacted to histoplasmin and 16 to tuberculin.

Dr. Engleke explained that while a reaction does indicate that the child has been in contact with the disease at some time, it does not mean that the individual has the active disease.

The Health Department is in the process of taking large hospital type X-rays of all tuberculin reactors and contacts of the tuberculin reactors. All histoplasmin reactors in Milan were X-rayed as part of an intensive study to learn more about the disease and its mode of spread in Washington county.

According to the doctor, histoplasmosis is a fungus infection of the lungs, which is rarely serious, but which gives an image on x-rays that is almost identical to that given by tuberculosis. Because of this, it is easily confused with tuberculosis, and may result in a delay in diagnosing a case of tuberculosis.

Participating in the study were the Michigan Department of Health, schools in the several areas, the Southeastern Michigan Detection Project and the Washington County Health Department.

Local Woman's Nephew Drowned Saturday At Wampler's Lake

Richard Beemer of Tecumseh, formerly of Grass Lake, and a nephew of Mrs. Julius Beemer of Chelsea, was drowned Saturday night when he and a companion were thrown from a boat at Wampler's Lake. The other man, Kenneth Herlick of Wampler's Lake, told officers the boat was running wild in circles when he came to the surface. He swam to shore and called for help when he was unsuccessful in attempts to keep Beemer afloat.

Beemer is survived by his wife, Sheila, and six young children, Dennis, David, Ricky, Sharon, Cynthia and Susan. Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Beemer, and two brothers, Everett and Robert, of Grass Lake.

Beemer had been manager of the Tecumseh office of Consumer Power Co. since 1956. He was 32 years old.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and burial took place at Grass Lake.

The man who is his own worst enemy has a mighty one-sided fight on his hands.

Honor Michigan Newspapers For Public Service Functions

The press of the state was cited for public service in three separate instances during May. Awards were made by the Michigan Newspaper Association and the State Bar of Michigan through the Michigan Press Association.

Newspapers were honored by the Michigan Press Association for their outstanding contribution to the public in East Lansing. In accepting the award in East Lansing, the Michigan Press Association stated that "newspapers go far beyond their reporting duties in reporting the Michigan United Press Association."

REPORT FROM GERMANY:

School for Seeing-Eye Dogs

By Norman Lindhurst
(Foreign Correspondent)

PART I

Oftersheim, West Germany — What has been called the world's best "seeing eye" dog school is located on the outskirts of Oftersheim, a village near Schwetzingen, Germany.

The school is not large, but it is outstanding for the quality of the animals it sends into the world as auxiliary eyes for the blind.

The establishment is operated by Hans Schmitt, who was blind for a year after being wounded in World War II.

Immediately after the war, Schmitt went to work as a therapist, aiding those handicapped by war wounds.

In June 1948 Schmitt set out to build up a guide-dog school. Because of his period of blindness, he had unusual insight into what was desired in dogs for the sightless.

From almost a year of study, Schmitt developed his own plan of dog training. Six months later, his first dog was ready to take over as a guide.

Schmitt's standard of quality is so high that 60 to 70 per cent of the canine pupils fail to make the grade and are returned to their original owners or sold as pets.

The high standard means one other thing—Schmitt is able to give a 100 per cent guarantee on every dog sent out.

Not one of the more than 350 animals trained at the school has ever failed in a single test. Nor has any owner ever been injured as a result of failure on the part of a dog.

Schmitt has three trainers, each trainer having up to five student animals.

Kindness and patience are the watchwords in dog training. The dogs are never struck, nor are they forced to work beyond their capabilities.

Schmitt purchases dogs when they are between 18 months and 3 years of age. By this time, the animals have lost much of their puppy playfulness and are more ready for serious training.

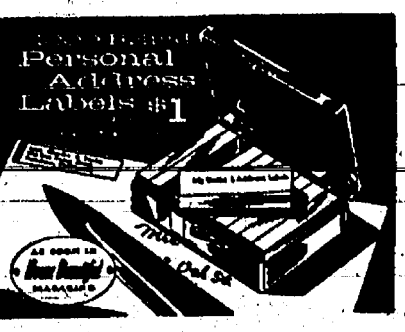

When new dogs come to the school, they are put into a kennel and not asked to work until they have become accustomed to the place. Then a trainer takes over, and the dogs are put on a regular school schedule.

Normally, only female German Shepherds are used for guide training by Schmitt. He feels that the female is more docile, more dependable, and easier to train.

Only when a customer specifically requests a male does he undertake to purchase and train one.

The dogs quickly learn to avoid obstacles that may be a threat to their master. For instance, trainers teach dogs never to guide anyone under ladders.

This is accomplished by collapsing the ladder every time the animal tries to walk under it. Similarly, if a dog approaches a bar across a path, the bar is moved up and down so that the animal learns to go around it.

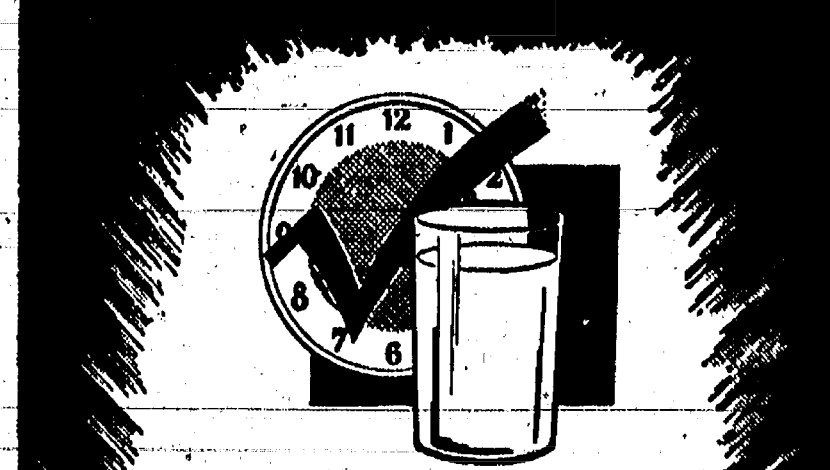

You've been asking for them!

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Turkey Trot—Without Music

Swiftly Fisher has a new way to move his turkeys to a fresh feeding place, twice a week.

He constructed a "rolling" fence by welding wheels to his fence posts. Each wheel has a sturdy braking device to keep the fence from moving once a suitable range is found.

Swiftly explains, "this solves the problem of taking down woven wire, pulling up posts and re-setting them again." Now, he just hooks his tractors to both ends of the fence, and rolls it away.

From where I sit, progress never happens when you "close your eyes" to new methods or ideas. That's true in a community, too. All of us should be open-minded about our neighbors' opinions even if they differ from our own. For instance, I like a cold glass of beer on a summer evening, my neighbor always chooses iced-tea. But we respect each other's preferences and don't "fence in" each other's ideas.

General De Gaulle Making Drastic Moves, Trying To Strengthen France

General Charles De Gaulle's announcement that there will be a referendum three months hence in Algeria is a major development in the crisis which has surrounded France and threatened the peace of the world in recent weeks. It means that there is a hope that De Gaulle may make progress toward solving the Algerian dilemma.

While the announcement that a referendum will be held, and that integration of Moslems and Europeans in Algeria may be carried out completely was a surprise to many, it is thought by some to be the only solution which will enable France to retain Algeria as an integral part of France. It is a last chance, so to speak, and General De Gaulle obviously recognizes it as such.

No doubt, a decision by General De Gaulle to establish a free and independent Algeria would have strongly disappointed his Army supporters in Algeria who were responsible for his march to power.

At least, however, one can say that the General is doing something. The Algerian war has continued for four years and has drained France both in manpower and money. Some solution must be found to this dilemma or the French nation will continue to be wasted away and will not be able to maintain a strong and proper position in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It is no secret that France's conduct and contribution to NATO has disappointed many of the Allied nations for several years.

What General De Gaulle will do if the plebiscite in North Africa shows that the majority does not favor integration is not known. It is suspected, however, that the majority will favor integration and that then General De Gaulle will feel his hand has been considerably strengthened to deal with the rebels in negotiations which will probably follow if they do not come even before.

The fact that General De Gaulle was welcomed so warmly in Algeria, and that his popularity is now at a new high, means that if any Frenchman can resolve the crisis concerning Algeria, General De Gaulle has a good chance to do so. It is to be hoped the General can bring order and stability to the French nation. Nevertheless, we must admit to some doubts as to De Gaulle's ability to resolve the Algerian crisis by integration and continued continuity with France.

Children at Play Need Supervision

We thought the old silent movie theme of tying a pretty girl or the hero to the railroad tracks to await death from an approaching train was dead. However, it was revived in a near-tragedy in California recently, which gives us something to think about.

The harrowing experience occurred near Norwalk, Calif., when two older boys tied a younger lad to the railroad tracks only a short time before a train was due to pass over the tracks at that point.

As Michael Richard Evans, 7, lay on the tracks, he faced certain death. However, two of the youngsters who had been playing with him when he was "captured" by two older boys, were wise enough to flee to Michael's father and inform him of the capture.

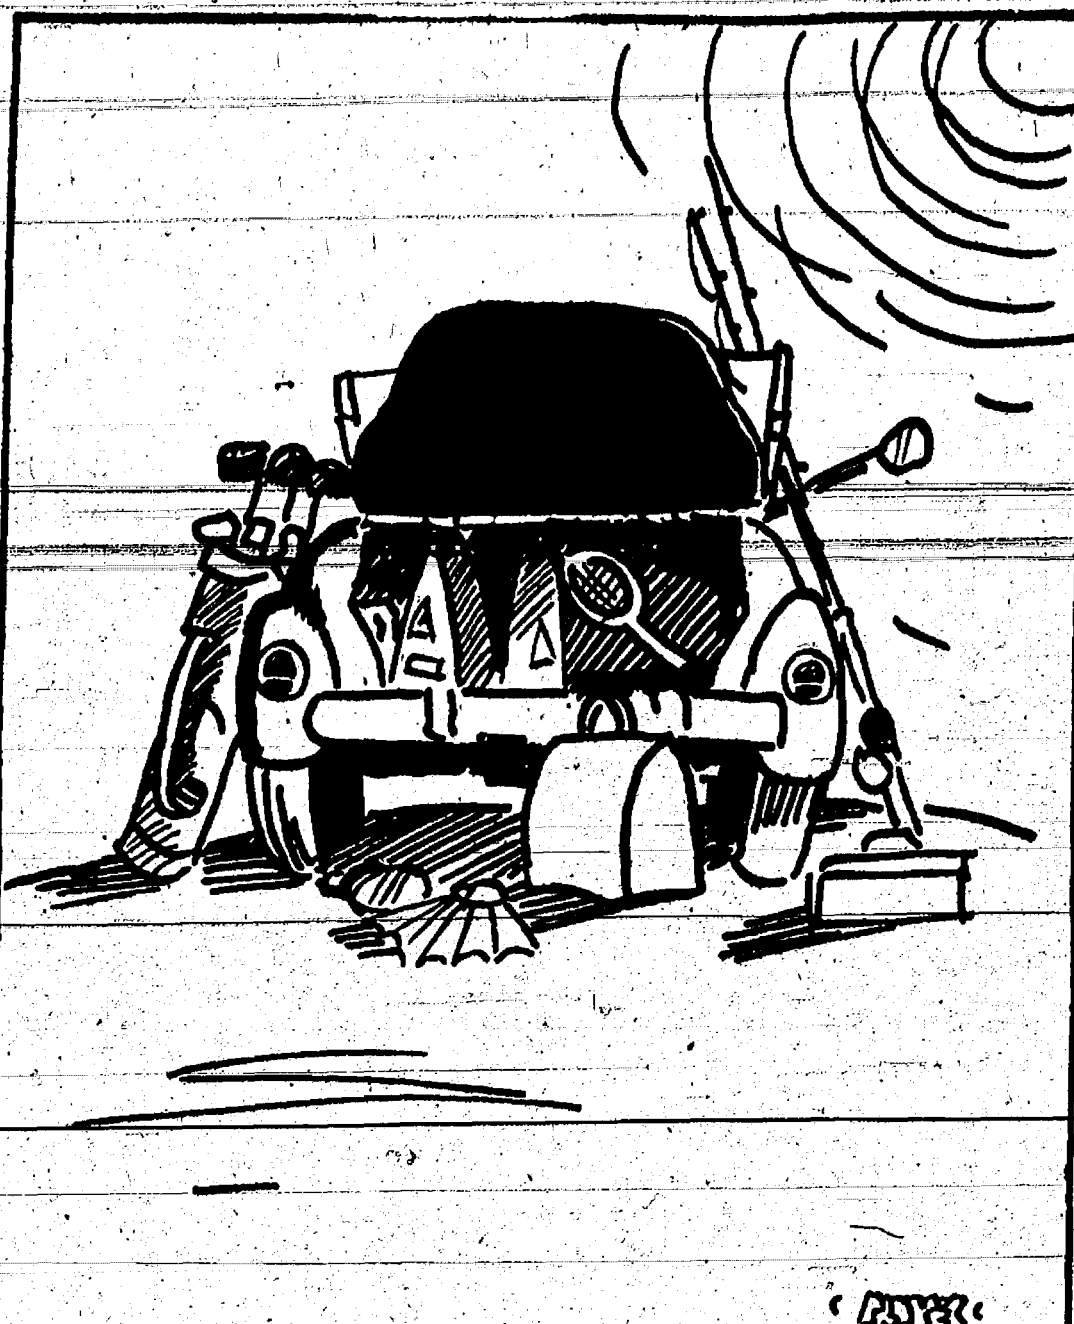

The father, alarmed at his son's predicament, sprinted to the scene and arrived just in time—as the train was approaching. Apparently the older boys were near the tracks, because the father approached one as he ran to the aid of his son. Before he could dispense the justice called for in this case, however, he caught sight of the approaching train and dashed to his son's side.

Fortunately, he managed to untie the boy who scrambled from the track, just as the train thundered past.

There is a serious lesson for us here in the reminder that our young people need proper parental training and proper parental supervision during their recreational hours. The incident related here is only a dramatic example of what is seen so often throughout the nation these days. It is a direct reflection of parental neglect, or a lack of proper parental supervision, and indoctrination. This neglect has helped bring on the serious wave of juvenile delinquency which has swept over America in recent years. Parents must learn this first lesson in child care if we are to eliminate the great harm and suffering caused by careless play which inevitably gets out of hand if not properly controlled and supervised.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan is running out of land. No one expects a panic in the lifetime of people now on the premises, but early signs of a space shortage have brought new wrinkles to the brows of farm experts and highway builders.

Experts report the problem is fanning out from southeastern Michigan which has developed from one large city, Detroit, into a massed metropolitan area.

Michigan State University and state government both are tackling the problem.

Agriculturalists winced every time a new industry or residential subdivision takes over chunks of rich farm land.

State officials are worried that industry, which now provides more leisure for the working man, will create problems by using land that should be devoted to state parks.

With the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway, fears are expressed that the resulting development of commerce and industry will crowd out major recreational and farm areas.

"Then, we might as well pave the entire state," said one state official.

The major problem in the next five years will be the land required for a 900-mile network of superhighways.

The right-of-way for the new routes is 300 feet wide. The length of a football field. Highway officials are getting the land.

Highway officials negotiated for years over the route of the Edsel Ford Expressway in Detroit and its extension into Macomb county enroute to Port Huron.

"We cannot allow the voice of small neighborhoods to overpower the voiceless thousands of motorists waiting impatiently for new and more efficient roads," said Highway Commissioner John C. Miley.

Property owners whose businesses and private property interests will be disrupted have their side of the story, too.

In addition to using part of their property—for which they will be reimbursed fairly—relocated trunks will bypass the businesses which depended upon traffic.

All of this property used for public purposes—highways, and state parks, will be taken off local tax assessment rolls, threatening financial crises for local governments.

These are the problems faced by future generations in Michigan.

Extension of probation theory to another troublesome area of delinquency is under study in Michigan.

The system of allowing a convicted defendant his freedom under strict rules and surveillance of probation officers is now restricted to circuit courts.

The fact that it has worked is emphasized by its records.

Now, the experts are proposing probationary powers and officers for probate courts—where delinquents under 17 are handled.

Present, probation officers send youngsters to Boys Vocational School or Girls Training School or select a local foster home.

In extreme cases, the court waives its jurisdiction and allows the boys to have committed crimes to be tried and convicted in circuit court, to be imprisoned with adults.

The probation for probate courts is under study by a special legislative committee.

Thousands of citizens will travel to the Mackinac Straits Bridge to celebrate Michigan's $98,000,000 engineering achievement June 28-29.

The bridge was opened to traffic last Nov. 1, but state officials decided to wait for spring weather for the dedication.

Every phase of Michigan's own life will be represented. The farmer will have his day with a giant display of his contributions, the factory worker and the politician will have places on the program.

Queens from each of the state's 83 counties will be featured and a concessionaire will sell food and drink from a stand in the middle of the five-mile bridge.

Republican legislators, who authorized the original bridge and made laws for its financing, will be on hand—and have a special committee to make sure Democrats don't steal the whole show.

★ The Plight of the Nation's Railroads

No industry as a whole has been hurt worse during the current recession than the railroads. All lines have suffered a sharp decline in earnings; some have gone into a deficit position and many dividends have been either reduced or passed entirely. This has not been limited to small roads. The Pennsylvania, for example, which has paid a dividend each year since 1949, made a declaration since its payment of last December.

For the railroads to be in trouble is nothing new. There are few roads which have not been through bankruptcy at least once. Usually this has been because of unwise financing—building up to a large bond indebtedness with fixed charges which could not be met when earnings declined. This is not the trouble today. The difficulty, however, must not be credited solely to the recession. The real causes of the present situation are of long standing, and the solution will not be easy. Principal among the basic causes are:

1. Out of date regulations. Railroads in this nation, well over a century old, for a long time had what amounted to a virtual monopoly on the movement of freight. In this position they began to indulge in practices, such as excessive free passes, freight rebates, and so forth, which the public and Congress decided was unfair to the general welfare. The result was passage of the Interstate Commerce Act in 1887. Since then other legislation has been adopted at both federal and state level. This legislation was, under the then prevailing conditions, allegedly necessary. The net effect, however, was to prevent railroad management from making independent decisions as to how their companies should be operated. At first this was not too serious, but with substantial growth of other forms of transportation it left railroads in a generally untenable position.

2. Growth of competition has now attained a position where it poses a real threat to the railroads. This is especially true in the case of air lines and trucking. Many of the railroads maintain that they would be better off if they could eliminate all passenger traffic, and the Baltimore and Ohio, to cite one major road, has now stopped all of its passenger service between Washington and New York City.

Trucking is another kind of problem. It relates solely to the movement of freight and the railroads maintain that trucks, in effect, are subsidized by Government through the public highway system. Trucking companies, of course deny this and insist that they pay their just share of maintaining the highways. This is an argument which may never be resolved.

3. Railway labor unions are now so powerful that it is no longer possible to reduce manpower costs (Continued on page 5)

★ Where You Find It

I suddenly realized one day what my wife had been trying to tell me for weeks, that David's long pants were beginning to look like shorts pants, and that Don had outgrown his suit, too. Well with a wedding coming up in the family, I had to get into action right away. We took a tour of the local stores and discovered that both boys were too lean to fit very well into a suit that was cut to ordinary dimensions, so we decided to try the stores in the city.

First we went to a store that specializes in clothing, only to find that they carried "regulars" and "hushies," but no "slims." Another large clothing store couldn't fit us either. Next we tried a department store where I didn't expect to find much in the clothing line, but it just happened that they had a suit that looked quite good on Donnie, so we bought it. Still nothing the shape of David.

Then we went to a store which I had always thought of as being a little too expensive for a family man, and found to our surprise that a sale was in progress, and that just the suit we wanted was marked down to a lower price than any we had seen all afternoon.

I hated to spend all that time in shopping, but it was an illustration of the fact that a bargain is where you find it.

Some time you may need help in solving a personal problem. You may need additional information, or you may need advice, or you may find that if somebody will listen while you put your problem into words, you can solve it yourself. Where are you going to find the kind of help or counsel that you need?

Well, you may have to shop for it.

The first place to turn would be to somebody who specializes in counseling: a teacher, a clergyman, a doctor, a welfare worker, a county agricultural agent.

But if none of these seems to fit your need, you may want to sit down by yourself and do a little mental shopping.

Perhaps you can think of someone who has been through the kind of experience that is now troubling you. A woman who has just lost her husband could visit with someone else who has been widowed and has learned to live a satisfactory life afterward. If you wonder about your child, talk with an experienced parent. Think about our public servants: the probate judge, the prosecuting attorney, maybe your mayor. These must be wise and friendly people, or they wouldn't hold office very long.

Help is where you find it. Of course you don't have to accept any advice that doesn't make sense to you. The wise counselor will help you solve your own problem. But even the best counselor can't help you unless you let him know you want help.

Moreau Will Head Red Cross Water Safety Program

The appointment of Alfred S. Moreau as director of the Red Cross Summer Water Safety Program was announced by the Chairman, E. C. Laetz, today.

Each year the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross has assisted communities in various parts of the county to plan their water safety program for children during the summer. Moreau will co-operate with recreation departments and school authorities in this field. Courses in swimming and water safety will be given at the various camps.

Moreau said today, "We are pleased that Moreau has joined us. Laetz said today, 'Our communities are fortunate to have the advice of a man with 10 years experience in the field.'"

Moreau directed the safety service program at the Detroit and Wayne County Chapter of the American Red Cross from 1957 until April of this year, at which time he retired. Moreau also served as National Field Representative in safety services of the Western Area. He is responsible for the organization of one of the first life saving corps in the United States.

In 1957 Red Cross assisted in the summer water safety program for Chelsea, Dexter, Milan, Whitewater, Portage Lake and Tolland State Hospital.

Requests for assistance in the water safety program should be made to the American Red Cross Chapter Headquarters in Ann Arbor.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 8 was apparently easy for many people to identify as the former Houck Mayer's home farm which fronts on Manchester Brothers farm, now owned and operated by Elmer Mayer.

Elmer Mayer Owns Mystery Farm No. 8, Popularly Known as Houck Brothers Farm

The photograph of the farm, published in the June 12 issue of The Standard as "Mystery Farm No. 8," is the Lehman road property since 1880 and now owned by Elmer Mayer.

Purchased in 1880 by Jacob and Christine Houck, they and most of the members of their family remained on the place until their death. Only surviving member is a daughter, Martha, now hospitalized. She is 79 years old.

Two sons, Charles and John, worked the farm their entire life time and after their parents' death the place became known as the Houck Brothers farm. They had the reputation of being good farmers and the well-kept fields and buildings attest the fact.

Included in the Houck family were four sons and three daughters—Fred, who was in the hardware business at Manchester; Adam, who did truck farming elsewhere in the Chelsea area; Charles, John, Lizzie, Katie and Martha.

When the farm was purchased by the Houcks in 1880 the living quarters were in an old log cabin that probably was erected by the original owners, George C. and Mary Elizabeth Lathrop, to whom the government deeded the land Oct. 5, 1835. The barn was an old shed covered with marsh grass for a roof.

Through the years, all the present buildings on the place were built by the Houck family.

The Lathrops deeded the farm after a few years to William H. Parker and his wife and it was from the Parkers that the Houcks acquired the place that was to be their home so many years.

Elmer Mayer, whose home farm adjoins the Houck place, works both farms. He bought the Houck farm in 1956.

The home on the Lehman road farm is rented to the Harry Knight family. Mr. Knight is a mechanic at Chrysler Proving Ground and Mrs. Knight is employed as a sales representative for a household and cosmetic products organization.

People who recognized the farm and called The Standard office are A. D. Mayer, Mrs. Erwin Hais, Mrs. Elmer Mayer, Mrs. Floyd Brand, Mrs. Martin Slane, Mrs. Arthur Grau, George Knickerbocker, Leonard Eder, Mrs. Erwin Hinderer, Fred Haxley, Mary Ann Horning, Mrs. Michael Frey, Joseph Merkel, III, Harold Wall, George Sweeney of Ann Arbor, Allan Alber, Elmer Lehman, David Paetor, seven-year-old Deborah Kuhl, and Mrs. Philip Stoll of Torrance, Calif.

JOHN H. FLOOK

Flook Will Seek Re-Election as Drain Official

With a promise to "continue to urge water conservation" and "economize where it counts but not where it hurts," Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner John H. Flook today announced his intention to run for re-election of the Republican ballot, to a third term in office.

"It is my sincere belief that the drainage and water problems of Washtenaw county are only being 'ginned,'" Flook said. "Unwise treatment of these problems could result in exceptionally high cost and perhaps much suffering to the property owner. I believe that many of these future problems can be handled economically through water conservation. Within the limits of my office, I will—if re-elected—continue to work toward a water conservation program that will economize where it counts but not where it hurts."

Flook, 36, was elected Drain Commissioner in 1954, after serving as deputy in the office for three years previous to his election. A veteran of eight years' Navy service as a fighter pilot, he was born and raised in Washtenaw county. He is a graduate of University High School in Ann Arbor, attended University of Michigan, and graduated from the United States Naval Line School in Monterey, Calif. He lives with his wife and three children at 3805 Waterworks road, Lodi township.

"It has been a pleasure to serve the people of Washtenaw county in the Drain Commissioner office over the past seven years, having started at the bottom and worked my way up," Flook said in his announcement. "As has been my past policy, all petitions for drainage work have received prompt attention and all work is current. If nominated and re-elected, I shall continue that policy of attending to all requests promptly."

"My office is always open to persons or groups who seek information or wish to discuss drainage problems. I shall dedicate myself to protecting county drains from misuse by special interest groups. I have fought in the past and will continue to fight to remove from county drains sewage and other pollutants that may jeopardize public health and safety, or that might destroy the beauty of this fine county. I am also aware of the need for proper drainage to retain and improve the value of this fine farmland, which is some of the best in Michigan, and have never hesitated to seek solutions to the county's drain problems from any state or federal agency."

Flook is a member of the VFW, Erwin Preskott Post, Ann Arbor; Disabled American Veterans Chapter 13, Washtenaw county; Saline Lodge No. 133, F&AM; and the Retired Officers Association.

A man cannot expect to make a place in the sun for himself without acquiring some painful blisters. Too many people seem to be taking advantage of the admitted fact that it isn't human to be perfect.

Mrs. Robert M. Hodesh of Ann Arbor, has announced that she will run for the Democratic nomination for State Representative from the First District of Washtenaw county, in the Aug. 5 primary.

In announcing her candidacy, Mrs. Hodesh said, "For close to a decade, and my interest in the legislative process has led me to seek the nomination for Representative from the First District of Washtenaw county, on the Democratic ticket."

If nominated and elected, I would work consistently to translate the liberal feelings of the voters of this district into liberal action."

Mr. and Mrs. Hodesh and their two sons, Robert aged 9, and Mark, 13, live at 1281 Baldwin street, Ann Arbor. Hodesh is editor of the Ford Motor Company's magazine "Ford Times."

Before this, he was connected with several newspapers in western Massachusetts, including the Springfield "Republican," which he left when he came to Ann Arbor in 1949.

Mrs. Hodesh was born in Northampton, Mass., and attended Smith College there. She has just completed a term as President of the Democratic Women's Club of Ann Arbor, and is at present the chairman of the Women's Affairs sub-committee of the Washtenaw County Democratic Committee.

Garvin Brasseur Seeks Democratic Nomination For County Treasurer

Garvin J. Brasseur, 980 West Cross street, Ypsilanti, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for County Treasurer and filed $100 in lieu of petitions.

Manager of the Ypsilanti Branch Office of the Secretary of State since 1955, Brasseur also has an insurance agency in Ypsilanti. He is 38.

The candidate is a graduate of Onaway High School and Michigan State University. He attended Eastern Michigan College before taking his degree at Michigan State. He has served in the U.S. Army, U.S. Air Force, and U.S. Navy. His war service includes three years in the Field Artillery in the Pacific Theater, including Guadalcanal and the Philippines. SORRY, WRONG FAMILY

Syracuse, N. Y.—While Palmer Burbridge and his family were eating breakfast in their home, officers entered the house and evicted the family over the protests of Burbridge. Later, the red-faced officers admitted the eviction notice was meant for the family living next door.

John Copren of San Francisco, formerly of Chelsea where he was a member of the Chelsea High school band, left Saturday, June 14, with the California band for Europe to play at the World's Fair at Brussels. The band will play at the fair a week, giving three concerts a day, then tour Europe, giving concerts until July 6.

Grandson of Local Woman To Play in Band at Brussels

The California Marching Band, a 110-member organization, was invited to be one of two University bands to represent the United States at the World's Fair. According to reports, a big Marching Band is a rarity in Europe.

Although invited by the State Department to make the tour the band members had to raise the $20,000 needed to fly the band to Brussels and back and pay living expenses during the three weeks of the excursion.

To do this, two concerts were presented to the public—one at Hillsborough, a suburb of San Francisco, where the Countess Lillian Dandini opened her palatial home for a fund-raising concert, followed by a reception for the guests. The following Sunday at the Greek Theater on the Berkeley campus, the band presented a preview of the program to be played three to five days at the Brussels Fair.

Also, the band put on a week-long "Playathon" changing players at regular intervals so the music never stopped all week night and day. They rode the cable cars to Fisherman's Wharf tooting all the way, and got on and off without missing a note. Other fund-raising ventures were made, and, as a final gesture to raise the transportation fee to New York Ralph Edwards came to the rescue on his TV program, thereby insuring free transportation via the Continental Trailways.

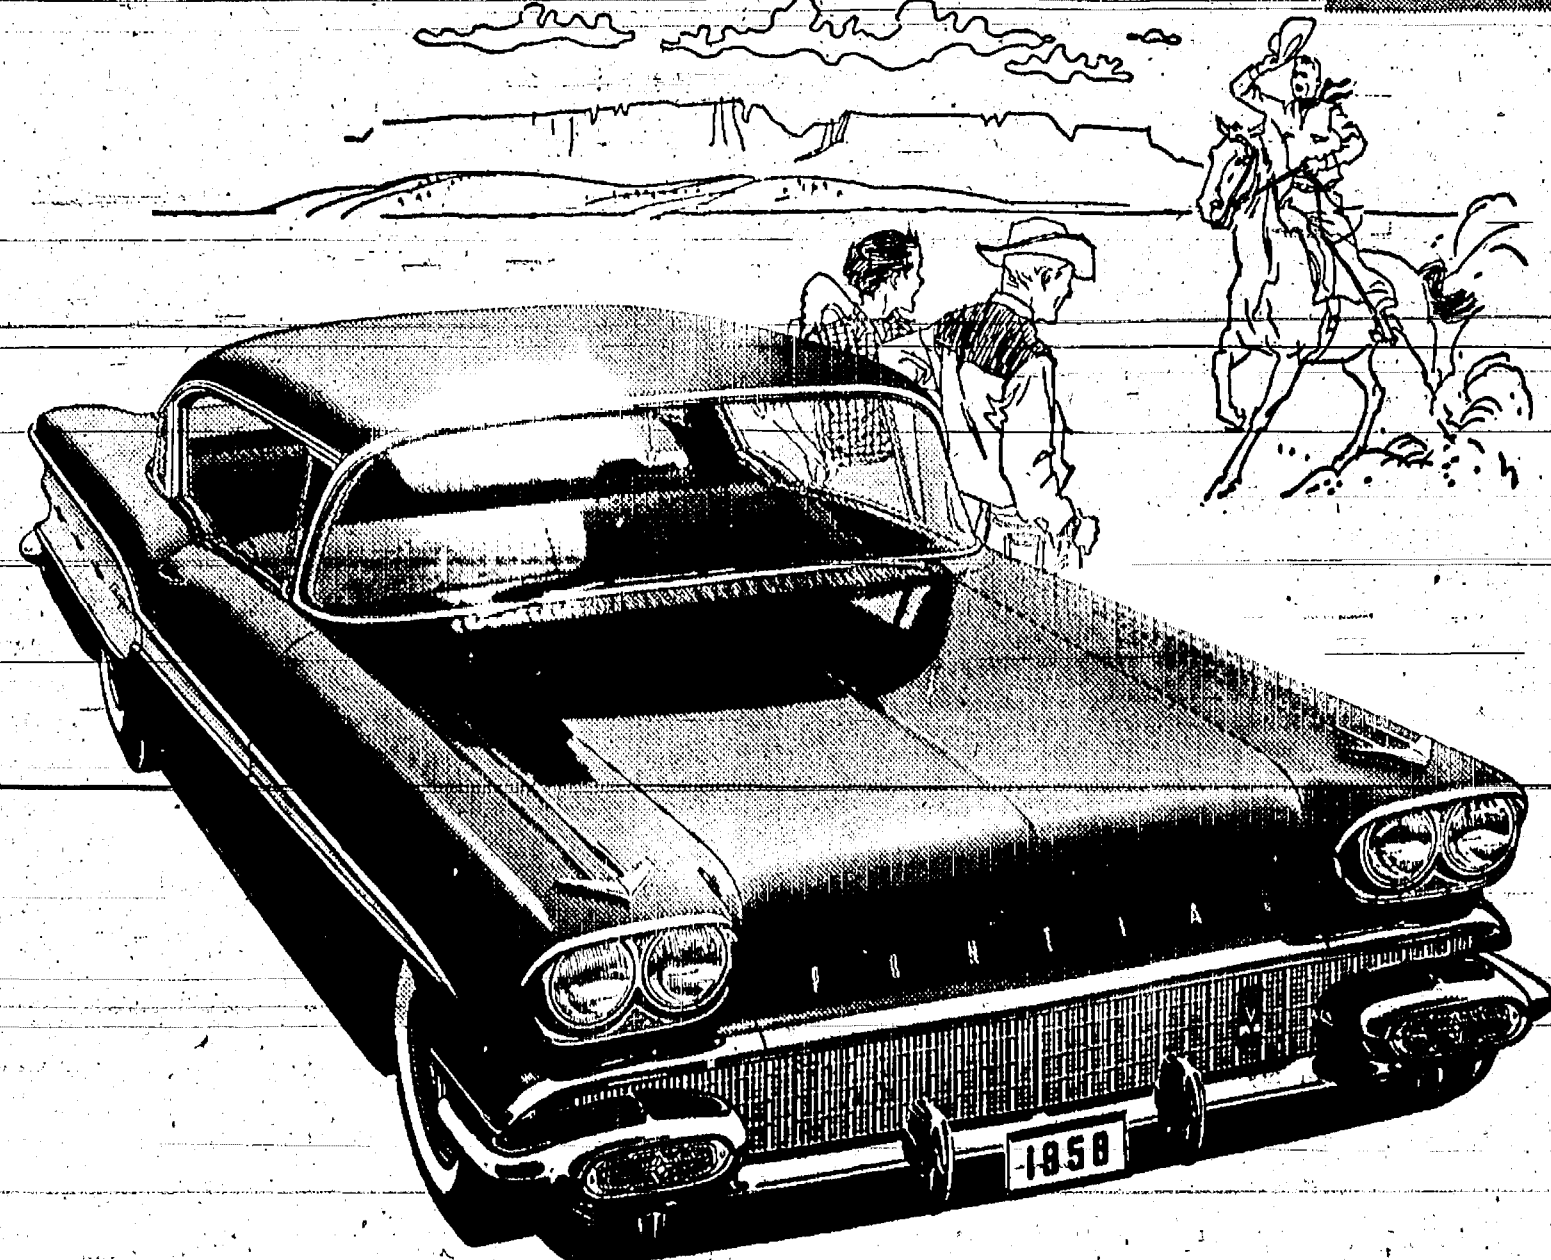

Ernesto, the band will play at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Washington D. C. Copren is a grandson of Mrs. Faye Palmer of Chelsea.

Control Measures Recommended for Pine Tree Insects

The time has come to give some consideration to the insect that is number one on the list of pests for Christmas tree growers in southern Michigan. The European Pine Shootmoth has been plaguing pine plantations in Michigan since 1930, and these rugged insects have caused untold thousands of dollars damage during that time.

The shootmoth will attack Norway White Jack and Scotch Pine, particularly young trees from two to ten feet tall. The larvae or worms, which live in the buds of the pines, killing the buds and new shoots, resulting in deforming of the trees.

"Control of this insect is difficult because the larvae are out of the buds only twice during the entire year, and each time is only of very short duration," says District Forester Victor Horvath of Ann Arbor. The larvae turn into pupae during the early part of June and the adult stage is in the form of the moth. "If insecticide can be applied to the trees at the time the mottled orange moth is seen hovering over the pine trees," advises District Forester Horvath, "the worms from the hatching eggs will come in contact with the poison." Another spray application should be given about ten days later to catch the later hatching larvae.

The only other time that the shootmoth is vulnerable to insecticide is in early spring when the tiny larvae crawl out of the bud, in which it had spent the winter.

National Outlook...

appreciably through technological improvements. For example, whenever an improvement, such as a faster engine, is added, the total labor bill remains just about the same. This is accomplished by under such circumstances, not by the number of hours they work, but by train mileage traveled. This can mean that an engineer or conductor, for instance, may receive two or three days wages for an eight hour run.

4. Add to these three factors the decline of traffic resulting from the recession and it is easy to understand why railroads are in difficulty. For months car loadings have been running from fifteen to well over thirty per cent behind a year earlier. Passenger traffic also has fallen off sharply.

Fortunately the railroads entered this period in a relatively good financial condition. It is not anticipated, therefore, that we shall have a large crop of railroad bankruptcies. Further, there is a bill before Congress designed to help the roads. It makes some changes in the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

provides for Federal Government loans to the railroads for specified purposes. The bill, granting it passes, will not solve the railroads' problem. Neither would the complete elimination of Federal regulation. This means it is going to take time and hard work to get out of the present situation. Some roads will make it without too much trouble, others may not. It is unfortunate that we have such a problem at this particular time, but if it teaches us the lesson of too much bad regulation, it may be worth the price.

ter, and crawls into its summer home, another bud. If insecticide can be applied to the plantation before April 15th there is a good chance of controlling the shootmoth.

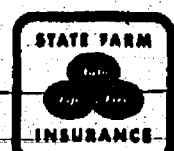

The recommended spray is 50 per cent wettable DDT powder at the rate of 8 pounds of DDT to 100 gallons of water, or 8 level tablespoons of DDT to a gallon of water. Additional information on control programs may be obtained from the local Cooperative Extension Service Office in the County or from District Forester Victor Horvath, County Building, Ann Arbor.

The gala night will be Sunday night when the Governor of Boys' State will be inaugurated and sworn into office by a prominent state official.

The caucus and convention system will be used throughout Boys' State in the nomination of candidates for city, county and state offices.

Boys selected to attend Boys' State are chosen on the basis of the following qualifications: good character; mentally alert and physically clean; vigorous and enthusiastic; of good personality; honest and thrifty; able to get along with others; good sportsman; a leader type.

The 1958 Boys' State enrollment has been limited to 1,000 boys.
