Barbecue Ticket Sale Underway

Proceeds Will Finance Electrical Installations In New Fair Building

General Chairman Thomas Bust and his committee are looking after every detail which will help make the July 27 chicken barbecue a most successful operation, not only for the sponsors, the Chelsea Community Fair Board, but for the thousands of people expected to attend from many points in Michigan and nearby states.

Table Chairman Jack Merkel and Serving Table Chairman James Daniels, are co-operating in planning two serving lines, with men working at maximum efficiency for speedy service.

Under the chairmanship of Roland Spaulding, advance ticket sales for the chicken barbecue are already being made. All Fair Board members and most businessmen have tickets for sale, main headquarters in Chelsea being the three hardware stores, Chelsea Hardware, Gamble's and Merkel's.

Committee chairmen for the chicken barbecue include M. J. Anderson, publicity; H. T. Moore, cashier; Ferd Merkel, chicken take-outs; Charles Lancaster, supplies; H. E. Gribbling, barbecue pits; Everett R. Roper, pit installation; Harvey Fischer, electrical; and George Heydlauff, equipment.

Mrs. Jack Bradbury is general chairman of the menu committee. Assisting her as sub-chairmen are Mrs. Paul Seitz, in charge of rolls; Mrs. Walter Wolfgang, salads; Mrs. William Van Riper, coffee; and Mrs. Anton Nielsen, potato chips.

Leo Bishop is to be in charge as coffee maker; Roland Spaulding as "trouble shooter"; and Anton Nielsen is responsible for the ice cream.

Howard North of Radio Station WPAG will be in charge of the audio system and Mrs. Kathleen Hatt is hostess chairman.

Serving will begin at 12 o'clock noon and will continue all afternoon and evening.

The barbecue pits will be set up outdoors and there will be outdoor tables as well as tables inside the newly constructed building on the grounds. In case of rain, all the serving can be done inside of the building.

Part of the barbecue project are to be used for installation of electrical work in the new building and on the fairgrounds and for equipment in the new building.

Former St. Barnabas Lay Vicar Ordained at Alpena

John E. Lee, lay vicar at St. Barnabas Episcopal church for two years prior to June 1, 1957 when he became full-time Director of the Department of Boys' Work for the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, was ordained to the diaconate of the Church at ordination ceremonies held in Trinity Episcopal church at Alpena, Monday evening.

Attending the ceremony from St. Barnabas church were Mrs. and Mrs. Paul J. Niehaus and daughter who are spending the summer at the U. of M. Biological Station at Douglas Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eaton.

The Rev. Lee was ordained by the Rev. Archie H. Crowley, suffragan bishop of Michigan.

In addition to his work for the Department of Boys' Work, the Rev. Lee was elected assistant executive secretary of the Diocese by the Executive Council at an April meeting.

A native of Jackson, the newly-ordained deacon had served as lay reader at Episcopal churches in New York and Connecticut and as parsonial and diocesan lay reader under Archbishop Leonard R. Hager, the Rev. Canon Charles L. Ramsay, the Rev. Hadley Stacey, the Rev. Allen L. Matthews before being appointed to St. Barnabas church here in 1955.

The Rev. Lee has studied for Holy Orders while filling a full-time job in the diocesan office; directing the Boys' Work Department and the church's Camp Chikagami; and filling his duties as a member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew National Council and chairman of the National Committee for Junior Brotherhood Work.

While in Chelsea, he also served as chaplain at Casady Lake Technical School.

The Rev. Lee will continue in his present capacity in the Diocese as well as the St. Andrew National Council and the National Committee for Junior Brotherhood Work.

Methodist Junior Group Of Sunday School Changes Meeting Time

The Commission on Education of the Methodist Church has voted to change the Sunday school time for Junior children (boys and girls age 9-12) to 11:10-12:00 starting Sunday, July 6.

This has been necessitated by the rapid steady growth of all departments of the church school, and will be in effect as an emergency measure until the new educational wing has been built. The juniors will meet at the new time in the social center of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quinlan of Detroit spent Tuesday here as guests of the Misses Margaret and Anne Miller.

New Attendance Records Set in Recreation Program

Total attendance was 1,554 for the first week of the recreation program. This is one of the largest weeks in the history of the Recreation Council program.

The attendance total is even more startling when one realizes that last Wednesday's program was completely wiped out because of rain.

Because of attendance increase seem to be the new arts and crafts play-ground at the North school, the large number of boys in the various baseball leagues and a large number of swimmers considering the cold weather.

Attendance figures show the following break down: 3 arts and crafts programs, 532; South athletic field (morning), 344; swimming, 448; South athletic field (evening) 130; and Friday dance, 100.

Boys 8-12 have been organized into six teams with from 15-18 boys on each team. These Midget League teams will play one game a week. Games will be played on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays.

Each game is five innings long, and every player on a specific team must play two innings.

On Thursday last week in the opening game, the Cubs defeated the Tigers, 5-4. Richard Houston and Gary White formed the battery for the Cubs and also led their team at the plate. For the Tigers, Francis Smyser led his team with three straight hits.

Last Friday the Gobe-felders downed the Sluggers, 8-4. Mike Tarasow and Mike Hitchingham formed the batteries for the Gobe-felders, striking out eight men. Hitchingham also contributed a home run to the attack.

For the Sluggers, Lee Satterthwaite, Bob Shackleton and Tom Paige shared the pitching duties. Satterthwaite, Shackleton and Billy Altonberndt paced their team at the plate.

In Babe Ruth play the Americans went down twice, 12-10 by the Willow Run Americans and 5-2 by Milan.

In the Milan game Ken Larson allowed but three hits in a losing cause. Rick Wood drove in both the runs with a line single to center.

The Nationals went down for the first time as they lost to Pinckney, 10-4. Mike Marsh and Dave McLaughlin paced the Nationals at the plate with two hits each.

The Chelsea Nationals had their other game with the Willow Run Nationals postponed because of rain.

In the High School league Chelsea lost to Grass Lake, 10-1. George Mayer held Grass Lake to two hits in the four innings he pitched. Alton Nixon had two hits for Chelsea.

Nancy Mayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mayer, is spending the summer at Indian Beach Camp at Northport as a junior counselor.

Girl's Softball League Open To All Ages

As an addition to this year's recreation program a girls' softball league has been formed.

The league is new, no age limits have been set.

At the organizational meeting held June 23, 38 girls signed up. They have been organized into three teams and will play their games on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

Any girls who would like to play softball and who have not signed up are urged to come to the South school field and report to Audrey Haab, according to an announcement by Alan Conklin, recreation program director.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Regner of Sarasota, Fla., have arrived for a few days' stay here before going to Chippewa Lake for the summer.

Plenty of Water-but Pressure Too Low For Fire Protection

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the Village Council, action was taken to limit the use of village water for lawn sprinkling.

The curtailment is a precaution for the protection of residents and industry in case of emergency and to assure sufficient water pressure throughout the day.

Effective immediately and until further notice the following plan will be in effect: Residents who have water meters ending in even numbers such as 2, 4, 6, 8 and 0, will be permitted to sprinkle on the corresponding "even" days of the month (July 6, 8, 10, 12, etc.).

On alternate days (July 5, 7, 9, 11, etc.) those residents having house numbers ending in 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 will be permitted to use water for sprinkling.

The Chelsea Water Department is currently drilling for additional wells and installing additional equipment to augment the village water supply. Chelsea residents are completed. It is anticipated that there will be an adequate supply for Chelsea's needs.

At present, however, the unlimited use of water for sprinkling purposes is taxing the capacity of the village water pumps.

Water meters ending Monday and Tuesday, the first really hot days of the summer, was dangerously low.

The Village Council is requesting the co-operation of all concerned in order to avert a critical water shortage.

Monday Is Final Date for Registration

Monday, July 7, is the final date for voters to register for the general primary election and for the special village election on the proposal of city government, both scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 5, at Sylvan Town Hall.

Registration for the special village election must be made with the village clerk, Robert Devine, who may be contacted at the New York Central depot. He will be at the depot from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. Monday, the final day to receive registrations.

Registration for the Aug. 5 primary election must be made with Richard Kern who is at Chelsea State Bank.

It is emphasized that registration with both the village clerk and the township clerk is required. Anyone in doubt as to his registration status may call Devine and Kern at their places of business.

Reporter Feels U. S. Leads Russia in Brussels Exhibit

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the second in a series of articles by Edward H. Sims, who is in Europe as a reporter for the Associated Press. He is making a survey of defense forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. In this article, Mr. Sims gives his impression of the Brussels International Exposition.

By Edward H. Sims
(Chelsea Standard Foreign Correspondent)

Brussels—The two biggest attractions at the International Exposition at Brussels are, of course, the United States and the Soviet Union Pavilions. American visitors have disagreed violently on the merits of the U. S. approach to this competition in recent weeks, and the reader probably wonders whether we are winning accolades or losing out in the propaganda and prestige battle.

In the opinion of this writer, after several days of hard-walking and talking with each of the top U. S. officials at the International Exposition, and after seeing and listening to Benny Goodman charm a mostly European audience, it is apparent that Europeans are most impressed by the American Pavilion.

The top attraction being offered by the United States is Circarama —which is a motion picture shown on a screen which travels around the walls of the entire theater, for the full 360 degrees. The theater is small, and all guests must stand, so that they can turn about and see the view from all directions.

For example, if you are riding downhill on a San Francisco streetcar, as you will do when you see Circarama in Brussels, you can look in front and see the bottom of the hill and your progress as you go down it, and you can also turn around and look up the hill and see everything you are leaving behind. The moving pictures show what is passing on both sides.

It is in the Pavilion itself that the American exhibit excels. The Russians have gone in for massive and heavy industrial equipment to a depressing degree. One feels that he is entering a tomb, or a museum, when he enters the Russian Pavilion. These Pavilions are huge structures, and the reader who is not familiar with them will be interested to know that the Russian Pavilion covers an area roughly the size of a city block, with several stories and many huge fixtures enclosed in it.

The American exhibit is a circular building with a flat-top protruding roof, beautifully designed with metal and glass, and inside it grows trees which are quite tall, and which were not uprooted. There is a pond, and the entire scene is one of relaxed, comfortable living. Our achievements in the field of housing, modern living, with all its appliances, and the better things of life are stressed.

To see the Brussels "Universal Exhibition" as it is called here, one should spend at least 10 days or two weeks. Remaining only two or three days, the visitor cannot possibly see all of the Pavilions, and both the Swiss and British Pavilions are outstanding as are many others.

CURIOSITY SAVES LIVES

Chicago—The curiosity of Warren Mills saved the lives of two men whose boat upset half a mile out in Lake Michigan.

Mills was using binoculars to watch a passing freighter when he saw the men struggling in the water. He called the coast guard, which sent a boat that picked up the weary swimmers.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 10, now owned and operated as a general crops farm by the Fred Patterson family, was known for many years as the Hardscrabble Fruit Farm, on Bush road. The Patterson family, who had lived there since June 7, 1952, Mr. Patterson is employed as an engineer at Ford Motor Co., at Dearborn and he and the boys work the fields together.

Fred Patterson Family Now Owns Mystery Farm No. 10

Mystery Farm No. 10, published in the June 26 issue of The Standard, has been identified as the Fred Patterson farm at 18839 Bush road.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson and their two sons, Fred, Jr., 16 years old, and James, 11 years old, have lived there since June 7, 1952. Mr. Patterson is employed as an engineer at Ford Motor Co., at Dearborn and he and the boys work the fields together.

Formerly known as "Hardscrabble Fruit Farm," the fruit trees have now been cut down and the Pattersons raise general farm crops.

The two boys have been interested in B-1 club work and are members of Lima-Up and Down Saddle club, led by Carroll Ordway and Lee Wells. Each has his own riding horse and one of the horses has a colt. Fred, Jr., also has a Black Angus cow which was a former 4-H project.

The Pattersons bought the farm from the Walter Zebs who had lived there and operated it as a fruit farm for 16 years. One of the Zebs' sons, Charles, is now an ordained priest and another, Walter, Jr., is with Chrysler Greengroceries.

The farm had also been the home of another prominent Chelsea family, the Philip Broesamles, who lived there from 1901 until 1918. Their son, now a captain in the United States Navy and stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, was born while they lived there.

Mrs. Broesamle, an accomplished musician, began her long years of service as organist of the Methodist church while she was living on the farm. In 1918 they moved to a home on Orchard street and later to the present home on East Middle street. Mr. Broesamle is now deceased.

Before the Broesamles came into possession of the property it was known as the Sumner Estate farm. The Broesamles sold the farm in 1918 to the late George English, who gave it the name of Hardscrabble Fruit Farm. He set out fruit trees and berries and operated the farm until it was bought by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zebs. He never lived on the farm, himself, renting the house to tenants.

Since the above picture of the farm was taken, the garage directly across from the house has been torn down.

People who called in correct identifications of the Patterson farm are Floyd Rowe, Bill Altenberndt, Fred Klink, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eschelbach, Allen Broesamle, Bernadine Visal, Joan Wahl, Mrs. John Myers, Roger Hiltz, Armin Kuhl, Dianne Scrippler, James Patterson, Mrs. Ronald Lentz, Tom McClear, Mrs. Donovan Sweeney, Douglas Rowe, Mrs. Wesley Ellenwood, Mrs. John Schneider, Mrs. Walter Trinkle, Elaine Eder, David Geer, Mrs. Gottlieb Bollinger, Judy Carr and Mrs. Bernard Herrst.

ANTIBIOTIC TESTED
Saskatoon, Sask.—An antibiotic developed at the Prairie Regional Laboratory of the National Research Council near Saskatoon may be useful in treating both plant and human diseases.

Named amidomycin, the antibiotic has been found effective in test tube experiments against two human diseases, and also is capable of inhibiting the germination of spores of wheat stem rust.

Officials emphasize that the drug has not yet been tested in actual treatment of animals or humans, but has been sent to other institutions for further research.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

STRADDLING the Arctic Circle like a waking giant, Alaska watches and waits as her fate is decided in the United States Congress. Running 100-to-1 in favor of statehood, an avalanche of Alaskan mail is pouring in from Michigan.

A Detroit engineer writes that Alaskan statehood will improve American defenses and enhance our prestige abroad. A Utica resident, who served two years as an Army medic in Alaska, demands to know why "we can give money to England, France and Spain," but deny statehood to a territory which has enriched us. A Flat Rock school girl favors statehood because "my boy friend lives in Alaska in the summer."

All told, the letters reveal a warm regard for the spectacular land of timber, salmon and ore which canny William H. Seward, Andrew Johnson's Secretary of State, picked up some ninety years ago for $7,200,000, the price of a modern bomber. Add four other reasons presented by the Senate Interior Committee and the scales plummet heavily on the side of statehood. It would fulfill a long-standing legal and moral obligation to 200,000 Americans, it would benefit Alaska, it would strengthen the U. S. internally and it would prove our adherence to the principles that guide the free world.

FIRST HURDLE for the powerful new "Federal Aviation Agency" proposed by President Eisenhower was successfully leaped last week when the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee okayed the plan. As a member of that group, I can assure the millions of Americans who have been shocked by the rising toll of air tragedies involving civil and military aircraft, that we gave this matter first priority. We acted within days of the President's message to set up an over-all federal agency with full powers to control and direct the movement of every military and commercial plane in the sky.

To predict rapid action on the House side also, when the agency becomes operative, we expect it to face up first to the problem of reorganizing the air control system. Next step, which is bound to take longer, will be the technical modernization of the airways with provision for better signals and other safety measures for airplanes.

Welcome Aboard!

Landing a good-sized black bass is a pleasing event for any fisherman and this scene will be repeated thousands of times this year in Michigan. Bass fishing season opened June 21 and runs through September 14 in designated trout lakes and streams and through December 31 in all other waters. Minimum size limit is 10 inches.

Black Bass Provide Fighting Sport for Many Fishermen

Lansing—The fighting black bass provides some of Michigan's finest fishing during summer and fall months for thousands of anglers.
Both largemouth and smallmouth varieties are found throughout most of the state in inland lakes and along Great Lakes shorelines.
The largemouth gets its name because in adult fish the upper jaw extends for a considerable distance beyond the eye—not so in the smallmouth. Another characteristic of the largemouth is the deep notch between the dorsal (back) fin. The color pattern usually is greenish with a broad black band running the length of the body, this band tending to fade out in bigger fish.
The smallmouth is distinguished by the small size of the mouth; of course, the lack of a deep notch between the two parts of the dorsal fin; and a marked difference in color. A brown to greenish-brown color is characteristic of the smallmouth and the fish often has a series of dark, vertical bars along the side.
Both varieties normally reach legal size of 10 inches in three to four years, but the largemouth usually runs a little heavier, with size up to two to five pounds. The size of smallmouths most commonly taken by anglers is one to three pounds.
Bass fishing season is June 21 to Sept. 14 in designated trout waters and June 21 to Dec. 31 in all other waters. Daily creel limit is five black bass, either largemouth or smallmouth singly or combined.
In the Great Lakes and connecting waters, including Lake St. Clair, fishermen may take five black bass or five northern pike per day, or any combination of the two species not exceeding a total of five.

position included Republicans as well as Democrats, but the majority were Democrats.
3. Labor's influence in Congress is extraordinarily strong. This is true in both Houses. Top labor leaders were in favor of this bill, although they will not say this publicly. They would have been vigorously opposed to a strong bill. The reason for favoring this particular measure is that, granting some legislation was inevitable, it is as mild as could be hoped for.
4. The argument was used repeatedly that if any bill was to be passed it must not include controversial issues. Senator McClellan expressed this thesis in these words: "We can load the bill down with many things which I favor, and for which I shall continue to fight. We can load the bill down with provisions which our senators want, and the result will be that we shall have no legislation at all, in my judgment, in this session of the Congress."
5. There is widespread belief that labor is almost all-powerful at the polls, and that it is practically political suicide to do anything which the union leaders oppose. This is not true, but it is true that the union bosses have done an outstanding job at the political level.

Whether the House will pass a bill this session, and if so what kind of a bill it will be, is still an open question. Politically the tendency will be to pass something to which union bosses will not take exception.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK
BY RALPH ROBEY

★ Where We Stand on Labor Legislation

The Senate has passed a labor bill. It was sponsored and handled on the floor by Senator Kennedy (D-Mass.), and Senator Ives (R-N.Y.). This led to an obvious comment that the measure is bipartisan. It also is said to be moderate, middle-of-the-road, best obtainable, and a step in the right direction.

Actually the bill reflects a purely political approach. It will do at least as much harm as good, perhaps more so. The reason for this is, first, it does not touch any of the basic problems in the labor field; second, in various respects it appreciably weakens the Taft-Hartley Act; and third, if it becomes law it will be difficult, perhaps almost impossible, to bring labor legislation to the point of serious consideration for years ahead. In other words this bill, if it becomes law, will serve as a whitewash of the labor problem.

The measure is composed of six sections or titles. The first five are concerned with internal operations of unions. Most of these are fairly non-controversial. Secretary of Labor Mitchell objected to some of them, on the grounds that they imposed a responsibility upon his office without the necessary authority to enforce the provisions. Several changes were made in the Senate to meet these objections. These first five titles may be regarded as a mild step forward. Through setting standards for union elections, the handling of union finances, the terms of union officials, and so forth, the internal affairs of unions should show some improvement.

Title VI is of a different character. It consists of a series of amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act. Senator McClellan supported the first five titles, but made it clear in his discussion on the floor that he had reservations in so far as Title VI was concerned. It is important because Senator McClellan carries enormous weight on labor matters as a result of his excellent job as chairman of the Select Committee which has been investigating union affairs.

The bill aroused vigorous controversy in the Senate. Many efforts were made to strengthen it by way of amendments. These proposals were voted down one after the other, usually by a substantial majority.
Why did this happen? Why was it not possible to get a stronger bill? Among many reasons, perhaps the following are the more important:

1. This is an election year and traditionally we do not get substantial labor legislation just ahead of an election. Both the Wagner Act and the Taft-Hartley Act were passed in non-election years.
2. Opposition to a strong bill was effectively handled by the Democrat leadership. The op-

Mrs. John L. Rugg

Shirley Ann Kolb, John L. Rugg Speak

Wedding Vows Saturday at Jackson

Shirley Ann Kolb of 1995 Kibby road, Jackson, and John L. Rugg, son of Mrs. D. H. Rugg of 580 15th street, Jackson, and the late Mr. Rugg, were married at 1 p.m. Saturday in Queen of the Miraculous Medal Catholic church, Jackson, with the Rev. Fr. Francis Kolb of Adrian, uncle of the bride, officiating.

Also on the altar for the rites were the Rev. Fr. Lee Laige of St. Mary's church here, pastor of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Kolb; the Rev. Fr. Keena, pastor of Queen's parish, and two other priests.

The traditional wedding music at the ceremony included the "Ave Maria" sung as a solo by Thomas Riley of Jackson.

The bride's gown, fashioned on princess lines, was of white satin with re-embroidered Chantilly lace forming the sleeves and a yoke finished with a sabrina neckline.

The skirt was styled at the back with a bustle and a chapel sweep train while the front was shortened to mid-calf length in order to show silver and rhinestone buckles on her shoes. The buckles had been worn by her mother when she was married.

A tiara of pearls and rhinestones held her veil of imported silk illusion, and her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Eucharist lilies, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. James Walker of Jackson, was matron of honor. Her gown was a pastel blue silk taffeta sheath with an off-shoulder neckline and cap sleeves. A tunic at the back of the skirt formed a bell bottom. A cascade of glimmies and tropical foliage and a head-dress of silk taffeta matching her gown, completed her ensemble.

The head-dress, made by the bride, was designed with a large, stiff bow fastened to a band of matching material.

Mrs. Gordon Leatherman of Battle Creek, and Mrs. Laurence Telford and Mrs. Ben Orlovski, of Jackson, served as bridesmaids, wearing outfits identical to that of the matron of honor. Their bouquets were also of glimmies and tropical foliage.

The bride's mother wore for the wedding a sheath dress of willow green and white silk shantung styled with a chemise back, ending in a bow. A flowered head-band, white accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart roses and stephanotis completed her outfit.

The bridegroom's mother, in a blue eylet gown with matching accessories, pinned a corsage of pink daisies to her clutch bag.

John Job of Jackson, served as best man and Douglas Kolb, brother of the bride, and Ben Orlovski and Laurence Telford, both of Jackson, were the ushers.

Decorations at the church included baskets and vases of white gladioli, carnations and snapdragons on the altar, with white ribbon bows and streamers marking the aisle.

This was announced today by Mrs. Joseph M. Cox, chairman of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The fellowship will finance extra-curricular study for eight weeks for Mayer at the Medical School and at the Washtenaw County Health Department. Mayer was nominated by Dr. Albert Furberg, Dean of the Medical School.

These student fellowships are awarded to a limited number of candidates from each approved medical school of the nation who have completed at least two years of their medical course and can devote two to three months' full time to the study of public health and preventive medicine under the supervision of leaders in this field.

THE LETTER BOX

Dear Editor:

I have been a resident of Lima Township all my life and a taxpayer for many years. I am astounded at what is going on within the county.

Thursday evening there was a sign placed on my property in behalf of a candidate for public office. Within 48 hours this sign was torn down, broken up and thrown into my driveway.

The sign, which was destroyed was in behalf of a candidate for Sheriff of Washtenaw county. It is obvious that the destroyers of this sign are opposed to this candidate.

It is my understanding that many signs of the kind which was destroyed on my property have been destroyed elsewhere in the county.

As a public service, I believe it would warrant some investigation by your newspaper of the acts in this matter.

As a resident of Washtenaw county and a good loyal citizen, I wonder what would happen to our country, if this type of vandalism continued.

Funeral Directors Okay Medical Examiner System

Members of the 13th District Funeral Directors Association, meeting in Ypsilanti Wednesday, June 25, endorsed the proposed medical examiner system to replace the present coroner system in Washtenaw county, and urged a "yes" vote on the issue when it appears on the ballot, Aug. 5, according to Gerald O. Bahmiller, president of the association.

Membership of the association is composed of those persons engaged in the funeral profession in all of Washtenaw county and parts of adjacent counties.

Approval of the group came after hearing a discussion by Dr. Otto K. Engleke, Washtenaw County Health Officer, discussing the advantages of the system. Earlier during the day, Dr. Engleke and the Health Committee of the Board of Supervisors had visited Genesee and Oakland counties to study the medical examiner system in operation there.

The plan, if passed by the voters, will be initiated immediately after the vote is canvassed, presumably about Aug. 7 or 8. Present plans are to have deputy examiners appointed in all areas of the county. These deputy examiners will be available for immediate medical examinations of victims in cases where no one was in attendance at the time of death, or where strange and suspicious circumstances exist.

It is felt by the proponents of the plan that a medical examination is necessary to accurately determine the cause of death in any case where death is unexpected. In some instances only a detailed medical examination, using laboratory facilities, can discover the true cause of death.

The movement for the adoption of the medical examiner system was started by the county medical society earlier this year, and has been gaining the support of numerous organizations and individuals since. The system is already in use in several nearby counties.

The first of the summer series of meetings was held June 11, on the Ferdinand Niemann farm near Moreville, where main points of interest were waterway structure and diversion and not waterway.

New State Law Requires Report On Boat Accidents

Valuable information for the improvement of water safety is expected to be obtained under the terms of the new state law which requires persons involved in water craft accidents to submit a report if there is death or injury or damage exceeds $50.

The report may be made to any law enforcement officer and, in turn, must then be sent to State Police headquarters in East Lansing, where the data will be compiled and made available for research and study into the cause of such accidents and possible preventive measures.

The operator of a watercraft also must give his name and other identification to the person struck or occupants of a boat that is struck, and provide reasonable assistance to the injured. Powered craft must be registered with the sheriff or other agents as may be designated by the Secretary of State.

Failure to comply with the provisions is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine or jail sentence or both.

In addition, the law provides that any person who operates a watercraft or steers or controls it while on skis, water skis, surfboards or similar contrivances in disregard of the safety of others also is guilty of a misdemeanor.

State Police, who have been working closely with the Water Safety Commission, look upon the new measure as a definite step in providing greater safety on the water and in the future on state and streams. The law does not apply to the Great Lakes and connecting waters.

Mrs. K. B. Rowe and son, Kenneth, of Wayne, were Friday visitors at the home of Mrs. Lina Whitaker and Mr. and Mrs. Dorr Whitaker. Sunday guests were Burling Rowe and family, also of Wayne.
