Health Dept. Chest X-Ray Program Is as Safe as Science Can Provide

Lansing—The state health department's program of detecting tuberculosis is as safe and effective as science can make it, the state health commissioner said today.

This evening, at 7 o'clock, Chelsea Cub Scouts will have a bicycle road-race at the South Elementary school grounds.

Each Cub Scout who participates must be accompanied by at least one parent.

Prizes will be presented in each of three age groups—5-9 years; 9-10½ years; and the Webelos, 10½-11 years.

Many golf players play a fair game—if you watch them closely.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, after evaluating the policy in light of safety information on radiation, said the health department's policy results in detecting the maximum number of TB cases with the greatest protection of the public.

"To keep the protection at the maximum," Dr. Heustis explained, "we use our mobile X-ray units only in population groups known to have a high TB rate. We have for some time advised against use of chest X-rays on an unselective basis because the yield of cases from certain population groups is so small that the use of X-ray equipment cannot be justified.

"Also, for several years we have followed a policy of using the tuberculin skin test as the initial screening device in all persons under 18. About two to four per cent of these youngsters react to the test, showing they have been exposed to TB some time in their lives. Only those who react are then given chest X-rays to determine if they are or were tuberculous."

He said this procedure has made it possible to find the TB cases among children and young adults, while at the same time cutting down on the exposure to unnecessary radiation.

"As far as we know, there are no compulsory X-ray programs for school children in Michigan," the commissioner added.

"We take further precautions," Dr. Heustis said, "by checking our X-ray equipment continually to make sure that when we X-ray a person's chest, we subject him only to the minimum amount of radiation required for the picture."

"To keep the exposure as small as possible, we use filters, cones, high speed film and all known safeguards," the commissioner explained.

He said in the six calendar years 1952-57 inclusive, the state health department's mobile X-ray units took 1,747,511 chest pictures and found 23,198 suspected cases of tuberculosis. The tuberculin skin test was given to approximately 100,000 children in the last two years.

"To present the state health department is operating six mobile chest X-ray units. These units are used in local detection drives conducted by the state health department in co-operation with local health departments and the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. Last year 48 such drives were held."

"TB detection continues to be necessary because tuberculosis continues to be a major personal and public health problem in Michigan," Dr. Heustis said. "TB can remain hidden in a patient for some time before the patient realizes he is ill. In the meantime, he can spread in highly contagious disease to other members of his family, his friends and acquaintances."

"Most TB cases can be treated successfully if they are found in their early stages, and if they are found early they also will cost less to cure. This is a major concern to the state, because treatment of TB patients is costing Michigan taxpayers $17,000,000 this year. More emphasis on early detection is needed to reduce this outlay or at least keep it from going higher."

The commissioner added that the chest X-ray is the only way of finding TB early. After symptoms appear, the disease already is in its later stages.

"The chest X-ray," Dr. Heustis said, "when properly used, and I emphasize the word 'properly,' is still one of our best medical tools."

Campgrounds Overflow At Most State Parks

Lansing—Campgrounds are reported full in nearly all state parks throughout the lower peninsula.

Camping has increased more than 21 per cent this year from the record-breaking 1957 season.

"We don't know where to put campers that keep coming," said Arthur C. Elmer, chief of the Conservation Department's parks division.

"Park managers keep in contact by radio, and then tell surplus campers where vacancies exist in nearby parks. But the camper has to take his chances wherever he goes. It's first-come, first-served, and space is limited."

About 45,000 camp permits have been issued, compared with 36,000 during the period last year. Day-use attendance at parks, meanwhile, is about eight per cent below last year. About 7,500,000 have visited state parks to date.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 14 was easily recognized by many readers last week as the dairy farm of Richard Powers on Peckens road. The huge, modern barn, built in 1949 by Wilbur Klingler, was a positive clue to anyone who has seen it as it is probably the largest in the state.

Mystery Farm No. 14 of the current series of aerial photographs of farms in this vicinity is the Richard Powers farm at 4995 Peckens road.

Many people recognized it at once because of the widely-publicized modern dairy barn which has been called the largest Michigan barn under one roof. Powers is not certain the title still is applicable. Total length of the barn is 400 feet and it can house 180 cattle.

Aug. 20 of last year the annual state farm management tour included a visit to the Powers farm, principally because of the unusual barn facilities.

The dairy section, at right, has 96 stalls with automatic gutter cleaning. A chain which is part of the cleaning apparatus was recently replaced at a cost of $1,400. The farm is operated by Powers with the assistance of his 19-year-old son, Earl, and a 19-year-old helper, Karl Ziemann of near Milan.

In addition to the home farm of 180 acres, they are raising corn and silage on a neighboring 115 acres.

An automatic silo unloader throws down silage for feeding. This is a recent installation to add to the barn facilities. Future plans include possible installation of automatic feeding equipment. The Powers family includes, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Powers and the son, Earl, a daughter, Barbara, who is in the eighth grade at Chelsea High school.

The family formerly lived at Leslie where they still own an 80-acre farm. They moved to the present farm Dec. 1, 1956.

Originally known as the Killam farm, it is Section 31 in the southwest corner of Lima township. It was in the Killam family for more than 100 years before 1936 when Wilbur Klingler bought the place.

At the time Klingler bought the place, the only building of any consequence on the place was the house which he completely remodeled and modernized, making it a fine farm residence. It was the Klingler family's home for 22 years—Mrs. Klingler is the former Ruth Lindemann.

Klingler built the modern dairy barn, beginning with the first section in 1937. This is 36 feet wide and 96 feet long.

In 1949 he built the dairy barn, 40x200 feet in size. In 1953 he added the four large silos and in 1955 he put up the 40x90-foot pole barn.

The barn section farthest to the left is used for heifers and dry cows; the center section basement, on a level with the dairy barn is the maternity section. Powers now has all registered Holstein cows in his herd.

Inquiry about the Killam family brought to light the information that the farm was secured by the Killams from the U. S. Government in the 1890's. Mr. and Mrs. James Killam, Sr., who died in the early 1930's were well known in the area. According to available information, one of their sons, Edgar, was a Methodist minister and was also a dairy farmer at Lake Geneva, Wis. He reportedly visited here in 1949.

Another son, James, and a daughter, Florence, were last known to be living in California; while a third son, Oliver Killam, is living in Turner, Mont., and keeps in touch with old friends here. He has lived in the western part of the country for many years.

Lois, a second daughter of the Killams, died more than 35 years ago.

First to call in the correct identification of the farm was Mrs. Henry Huelsberg.

Others who telephoned the Standard office to identify the farm included Anton Nielsen, Alton Brösamle, Mrs. Bernard Herrst, Helen Rothfuss, Jackie Hoover, Ruth Ann Trinkle, Mrs. Walter Beutler, Janet Bollinger, Mrs. Donald Bauer, David Pastor, David Young, Lou Stark, Billy Dettling, Carl Loggler, Mrs. Loren Hinderer and Julius Blass.

Also correct in their identification of the farm were Pamela Kushmaul, Grace Kushmaul, Mary Ann Horning, Richard Powers (of course), Mrs. Earl Kuhl, Danny Eder, Cynthia Klingler and Gregory Kuhl of this vicinity and Ruth Wild of Ann Arbor.

It will probably pay some Michigan wheat growers to plan to store their wheat for about six months, believes a Michigan State University farm economist.

Economist John Ferris reports that the state's wheat crop will be about 10 to 12 per cent larger than last year. Twelve per cent more acres were planted to wheat in the state. Nationally the soft wheat crop is expected to be 30 to 40 per cent larger than a year ago.

This expected larger supply has already influenced contract prices. Contracting prices for July and August wheat are about 15 to 20 cents below supports now. Support prices are averaging about $1.32 per bushel in the southern part of the state.

Ferris says that if wheat prices drop more than 15 cents below support rates at harvest, storing should be profitable on many farms.

On the average, it'll cost about 12 cents per bushel to store wheat for six months. This charge includes extra handling, interest, damage and insurance. Costs for providing bin space would be additional. However, if bins are already available and would not be used, bin costs can be disregarded.

Wheat prices will probably advance to, but not much above support levels later this year, Ferris thinks. One reason is that many farmers who have loans pay them off when market prices move up to about 10 cents above support levels.

Government loans and purchase agreements will again be available from harvest time through Jan. 31, 1959. Loans will mature on March 31, 1959.

Support prices on the 1959 crop will be about $1.81 per bushel.

Aircraft Pilot Becoming Obsolete

The Air Force announced recently that a new rocket plane will contain a pilot, but that the pilot will have little to do as the plane races along on its flight, because of the development of an inertial-instrument system.

The plane involved is designated the X-15, a research craft which is expected to fly in 1959 for the first time. When it flies it is expected to be an amazing performer. It will be capable of an altitude of some 500,000 feet, and at a speed of some 3,600 miles per hour. This is far in excess of anything that has yet been put into the air.

The interesting thing about this announcement concerns the role of the pilot. The X-15 will be flying at such tremendous speed the pilot will hardly have time, or the mental capacity, to make decisions involving its flight in enough time to do what is required of him. Therefore, the inertial-instrument system will do most of the work and some of the thinking. The pilot will not attempt to analyze the information provided by all these instruments. This work will be done by a lightweight mechanical computer, which will not only digest the information, but also interpret it. The main purpose of the new system is to solve guidance problems pilots and missiles will face when they are in areas of weightlessness—far from the surface of the earth. One of the necessary requirements of such a system is to enable the pilot to control his craft enough to prevent it from burning up by re-entering the denser lower atmosphere too steeply, or too quickly.

All of this seems to indicate that the day of the pilot, as the man who completely controls the behavior of his craft is coming to an end. And it was only a few short years ago that the pilot was flying his machine "by the seat of his pants" or the feel of it. How time marches on!

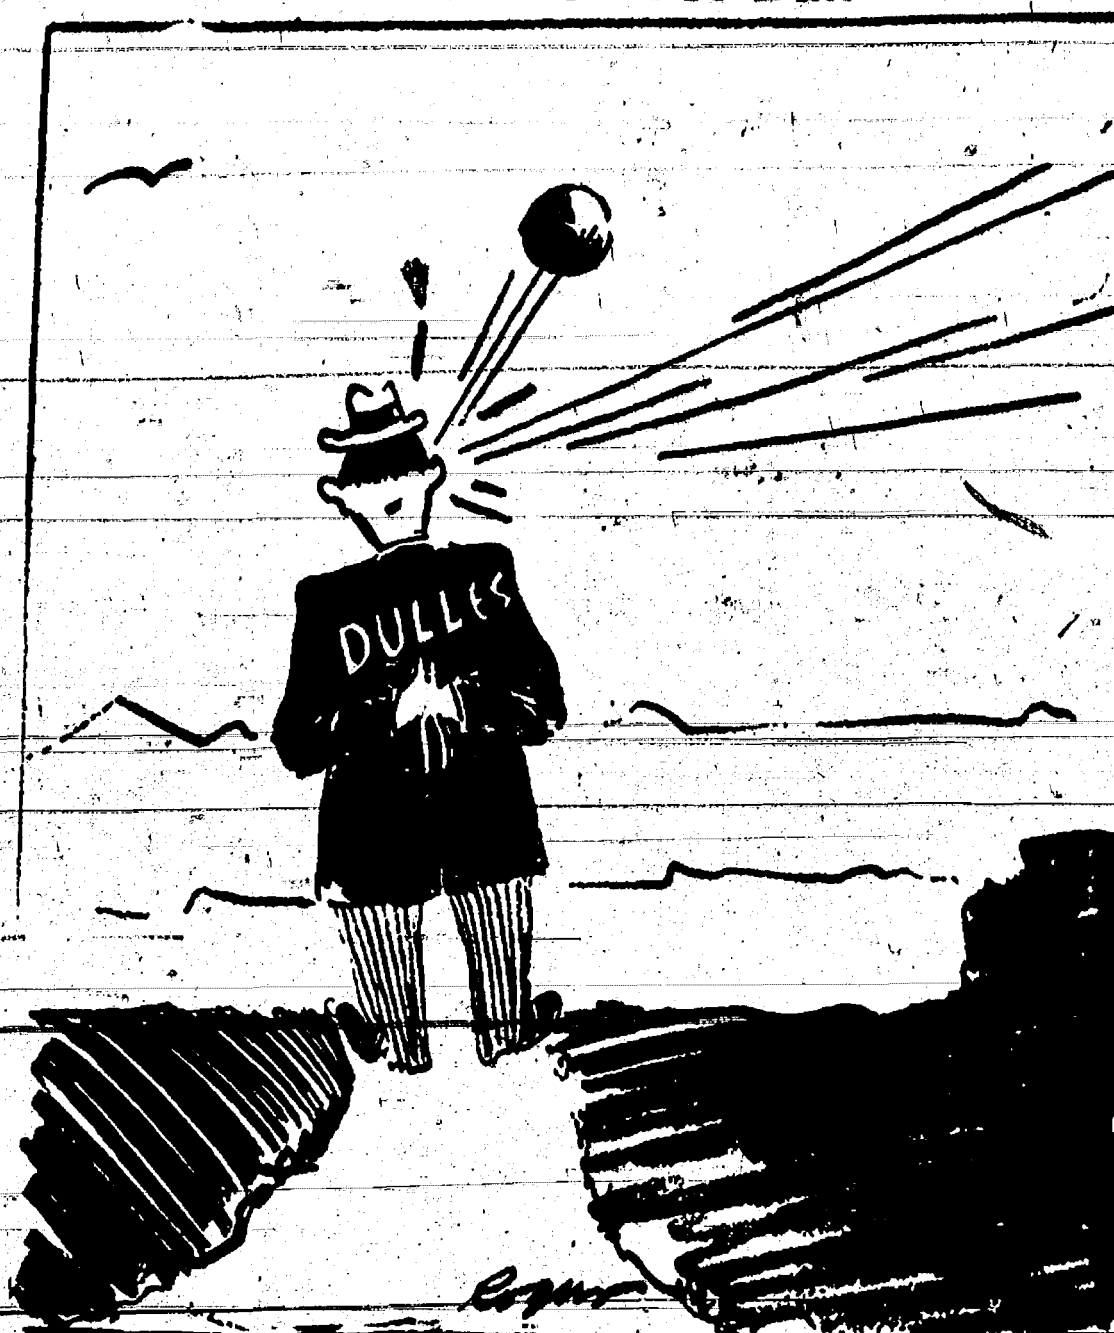

Mental Health Is No. 1 Problem

If someone should ask you what the country's number one health problem is, what answer would you give? If you gave "mental health," you would be absolutely right, since mental health is the nation's top health problem today, according to most public health authorities. It is a greatly misunderstood problem, one which we in this community should stop and think about.

One in every ten persons in the country is in need of some sort of treatment for an emotional or mental disorder, and one in twenty will spend part of his life in a mental institution. Didn't know the problem was that close to home, did you? Though we sometimes seek to dodge the issue, and hide the facts, being reluctant to talk about friends or relatives mentally ill, the issue is the very same one as that posed by physical sickness.

There is no disgrace when one becomes mentally ill. The only difference in this form of sickness and other forms is that science has only just begun its studies into cures for mental illness, and therefore it is widely misunderstood. But about half the cases of mental illness can be cured, and the people afflicted restored to completely normal life again, if proper treatment is provided. And no stigma should be attached to the treatment.

Nasser's Fast Ball

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Republicans have an energetic candidate running for governor at a time when voters have become used to energy, sparkle and action.

He is Paul D. Bagwell, who won one national election, wears hats and flashy vests and slogans.

Bagwell learned the technique worked when he was elected national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce a few years ago.

He proved it again in the years in which he served as state March of Dimes chairman. Bagwell has some professional in his camp, and they are growing with the job.

Campaigners have been tacking up small signs in every cranny. "Bagwell was here," on the chance he will become as well known as Roosevelt.

They paid $1,700 for a 1908 Oldsmobile to carry him on his campaign, to dramatize the age of the 1908 state constitution and hint that Democrats have held the office since the dawn of time.

Bagwell's speeches are full of the old college zip, but laced with tough facts dug up by dedicated researchers.

Brashness comes unnaturally to Bagwell, who lived the polite life of a college professor and, though never a snob, counted top business executives among his friends.

One report quoted an aide as saying "Bagwell had to talk himself into coming uninvited" to a legislative party at Cheboygan where he went on a handshaking tour of the hall.

Though he was eyed with misgivings by some Republicans when he tackled Williams, Bagwell has been advised to avoid mistakes of his unsuccessful predecessors.

So now, he will seek out legislators in their districts and ask their advice—which he can use, and offer his help—which most legislators can use.

Other Republican candidates have encountered wide skepticism in the party, which he hopes to circumvent.

The contrast of the Bagwell effort with the highly-tuned Democratic machine is startling.

From Gov. Williams down to the newest precinct worker, the party is organized. It is the workmanship of State Chairman Nell Staebler and the result of dedication to a cause.

Staebler enjoys phenomenal success in keeping the party interested and fighting during the dull off-years between campaigns.

He has organized contests, coffee hours, style shows. No one who ever worked for the Democrats has ever been forgotten—unless he strays from party principles.

Another maneuver is the "promotion appointment" system Williams uses.

When an important vacancy occurs, Williams names a worker in a lesser post to fill it. This creates two appointments where only one vacancy existed.

It has the tendency to keep young men working in state government, and for the party.

Williams chooses his appointees carefully. Few have fallen short of the intelligence, diligence and stamina demanded of important public jobs.

It is safe to assume that none will vote for Bagwell and, maybe, they will even distribute Williams' bumper stickers and help fill a hall occasionally for one of his speeches.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
The other day, while I was out checking my pasture fences, I got to thinking about the argument some Congressmen got in last summer about the typical farmer. I wasn't thinking too deep on the subject, in fact, I wasn't checking the pasture fences any too careful. My old lady was putting out the wash, and I learned a long time ago that it's a good time to check the pasture fences—when the old lady starts talking about getting out the wash. But the Department of Agriculture said last summer that the average farmer has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn. Some Congressmen took it up and one of them argued that it was a insult to the American farmer, and another Congressman argued that it was true, and that it only proved that the farmer needed more help and more relief.

It ain't exactly proper, I think, to say that the typical farmer has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn anymore than it's proper to say that a certain banker who happens to be in the penitentiary is a typical banker. That's like saying, "I learned a long time ago that it's a good time to check the pasture fences—when the old lady starts talking about getting out the wash. But the Department of Agriculture said last summer that the average farmer has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn. Some Congressmen took it up and one of them argued that it was a insult to the American farmer, and another Congressman argued that it was true, and that it only proved that the farmer needed more help and more relief."

I got more confidence in the American farmer than to say he has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn. I ain't offering no apology for my farm because it suits me, and if it don't, it ain't nothing for Congress to worry about. But I think Congress would do a lot better just to keep giving the farmers more relief and quit talking out the mice in their kitchen and the rats in their barn. It's embarrassing for us farmers to have all that stuff in the papers. Last summer when I was reading all that stuff in the papers, I felt

One observer put it cynically: "For a Republican candidate to win now, he has to beat a popular Williams, and most of state government, in addition to getting his own people behind him."

Officials are worried about a new threat to the state's safety record: the 100 mile-an-hour speeders.

Secretary of State James M. Hare predicted his driver record files would have more than 400 cases by the end of the summer.

He has asked for a combined radio network to link State Police and Sheriff's cars to trap speeders who can outrun even the fastest law enforcement vehicles.

"None of our police cars can go 100 miles an hour and we're being outclassed," he said.

★ Field of Wheat

There's nothing prettier than a field of wheat," said Roland Nelson one day. "I like it any time of year. When it's first coming up it makes as pretty a lawn as you'll find on any golf course. And then the soft green deepens into gold, and on a breezy day in July you get the amber waves of grain it talks about in the song."

I didn't interrupt him, because it isn't very often that a farmer puts his poetic feelings into words. He'll tell you about how many acres are in his wheat allotment, or how much fertilizer he uses per acre, or what his average yield has been for the past five years. It seldom will he say that he enjoys the appearance of a field of wheat.

I have no doubt that the beauty of the crops, although it is seldom mentioned, is one of the worthwhile compensations of a farmer.

It's really quite a statement for a man who has such a good-looking wife as Alberta and two lovely daughters like Theda and Ellen to say that he can't think of anything prettier than a field of wheat.

I suspect that the women in Roland's family spend a considerable amount of time and imagination experimenting with hair styles and hemlines and color schemes. Fields of wheat, like lilies of long ago, "toll not, neither do they spin." The artless elegance of the changing color and texture of the wheat was contrived by the Creator. And the attractiveness of a pretty girl depends much more upon her natural bloom than it does upon her artful embellishments.

There are only a few days a year when I don't care much for the color of a wheat field—the two or three days when it is changing from green to gold, and is a kind of bilious chartreuse. On those days I prefer the cool gray green of a field of oats. But at every other time it is perfect. Each day it is different, and every year it is the same.

The mounds of golden grain at harvest time, and the cascade of wheat pouring into the reeling bin at the elevator, give pleasure to the artist in every man, as well as the treasurer in him. And then the crusty loaf of bread or the crisp flakes of breakfast cereal are a delight to the eye as well as to the taste.

SAVINGS INCREASE
The Government has confirmed what many business men have believed all along—people saved more of their cash in the first quarter of this year.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported that savings of the cash-type savings accounts, Government savings bonds and life insurance, were at a record rate in the first quarter, higher than even the war-time peak reached in 1944.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The other day, while I was out checking my pasture fences, I got to thinking about the argument some Congressmen got in last summer about the typical farmer. I wasn't thinking too deep on the subject, in fact, I wasn't checking the pasture fences any too careful. My old lady was putting out the wash, and I learned a long time ago that it's a good time to check the pasture fences—when the old lady starts talking about getting out the wash. But the Department of Agriculture said last summer that the average farmer has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn. Some Congressmen took it up and one of them argued that it was a insult to the American farmer, and another Congressman argued that it was true, and that it only proved that the farmer needed more help and more relief.

It ain't exactly proper, I think, to say that the typical farmer has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn anymore than it's proper to say that a certain banker who happens to be in the penitentiary is a typical banker. That's like saying, "I learned a long time ago that it's a good time to check the pasture fences—when the old lady starts talking about getting out the wash. But the Department of Agriculture said last summer that the average farmer has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn. Some Congressmen took it up and one of them argued that it was a insult to the American farmer, and another Congressman argued that it was true, and that it only proved that the farmer needed more help and more relief."

I got more confidence in the American farmer than to say he has mice in his kitchen and rats in his barn. I ain't offering no apology for my farm because it suits me, and if it don't, it ain't nothing for Congress to worry about. But I think Congress would do a lot better just to keep giving the farmers more relief and quit talking out the mice in their kitchen and the rats in their barn. It's embarrassing for us farmers to have all that stuff in the papers. Last summer when I was reading all that stuff in the papers, I felt

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

Favorable Business News Expands

It would be an understatement to say that almost every week we are now getting more favorable business news. Scarcely a day passes without at least one encouraging item. Some examples:

1. The Federal Reserve Board index of production for June rose two percentage points, and the figure for May was revised up a figure which means that it also rose up two percentage points. This index is in physical terms—rice changes do not affect it—and uses 1947-49 as equal to 100. The current figure is 130, which compares with 126 two months ago, and the pre-recession high of 145 last August. The most amazing fact is that every durable goods sector has now moved up. In the non-durable category the total is up, but details for many individual industries are not yet available. It should be borne in mind, however, that it is the durable, not the non-durable, industries which have been the main recession worry.

2. On the basis of new and more complete data—the Department of Commerce has just revised the figures for Gross National Product, which is the total of all goods and services produced in the nation. The revision lifts the total for the third quarter of last year, which was the high, to $446 billion. This is a rise of $6 billion from an earlier estimate. For the first quarter of 1968 the figure also was revised upward, from $422 to $428 billion. Preliminary guessing on the second quarter is that it will at least match the first quarter, and may actually rise a little.

3. Personal income in June was $28 billion higher than in June 1967, seasonally adjusted basis. The figure was $352 billion, a small percent below the pre-recession high. The June increase was all caused by higher wage and salary disbursements, which were about equally divided between manufacturing, other private industry, and government. Transfer payments, which three months ago resulted in a larger total personal income, were down slightly in June. This is the second consecutive month revealing an upward trend in manufacturing, and the change this time was the result of both a longer work-week and more employment. Most manufacturing groups participated in the gain.

4. Housing starts rose to the highest level in about two years to 1,125,000. This is private housing starts on an annual basis. The recent low was in March when there were only 880,000. There is now little reason to doubt that we may have over a million housing starts this year, and the total may be 100,000 above that figure. Total construction, of course, continues to make new highs.

5. Retail sales continue firm. In June the total was at the April-May level, with allowance for seasonal factors. During the second quarter the total was 3 percent above the February-March level, and 3 percent below the peak of last summer. With continued stability—and perhaps growth—of personal income, it may be expected that retail sales will drop from here on.

6. In spite of the disturbance in the Middle East the stock market made new highs. The market sold off sharply on the day of the crisis, recovered with the landing of the Marines and continued to rise for the rest of the week. Volume was heavy. This all added another chapter to the recent rather strange behavior of the market in the face of continued bad profit reports and the business downturn. The explanation presumably is continued heavy institutional buying, the presence of large uninvested funds, and the belief that further inflation is ahead.

All of these developments took place in the span of one week, and are merely the more noteworthy of events on the economic front. For such a short period it is an imposing list and makes it easy to understand why so many persons both in and out of the Administration are convinced we have passed the bottom of the recession and are on our way to recovery. These optimistic may be right. Only time will tell. In my judgment, however, it's still too early to positively say that an upturn is under way. Certainly the number of sections of the country, which still are suffering from recession is getting smaller and smaller. The major question now is whether this improvement will broaden and intensify. If it does, there will be no disputing our being on the road to recovery.

State Peach Crop

Harvest Peak

May Be Earlier

Because earlier and better colored varieties of peaches have replaced once popular late maturing varieties in Michigan, the state's peach harvest could reach its peak just before Labor Day this year. Usually the peak comes after Labor Day.

Michigan is expected to have a peach crop totaling 2,900,000 bushels, the Michigan Department of Agriculture says. This is just slightly under the 1957 volume. The national peach crop, according to most recent estimates, will be about 75 million bushels, about 12½ million bushels more than last year.

Weather can change both the expected peak date of the harvest and also the size of this year's yields. But a crop of nearly 3 million bushels in Michigan should go a long way toward satisfying the appetite for peaches and cream, peach pie, peach cobbler or peaches for home canning or freezing.

The initial home-grown peaches should appear in markets around Aug. 6. The harvest should continue until about Sept. 25 with receipts dropping off sharply after the peak is reached because today there are more trees bearing early varieties than there are trees bearing late sorts.

An old-time favorite peach variety, the Elberta, no longer is the principal Michigan peach. It has given way to earlier peach varieties propagated in Michigan at the South Haven experiment station that mature from a week to two weeks earlier than Elberta. These varieties have better color and are rich in flavor.

For nearly a half century the Elberta reigned supreme in Michigan, as it still does in most peach producing states. Recent estimates indicate the earlier Redhaven variety makes up a third of the state's crop with the dark Halo-haven second with 28 per cent. Elberta is estimated to have only 18 per cent in Michigan.

Veterans Urged To Get Release from VA Before Selling Home, GI Mortgage

A veteran selling his home and GI mortgage should first get the Veterans' Administration to release him from his GI loan.

Such a release protects the veteran in the event the new purchaser defaults in payments, Lloyd H. Jameson, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Detroit, said today.

Jameson explained that a 1956 law allows veterans to be released from liability to the government, provided the new purchaser meets credit requirements and assumes the veteran's obligations to the government on the GI loan.

The new purchaser need not be a veteran, Jameson pointed out, and the government's guaranty of the loan is not affected by releasing the veteran from his liability.

In most states the only cost of obtaining the release is a small fee, usually not more than $5, for a credit report on the proposed buyer, he said.

Release of the veteran from liability to the government does not automatically release him from liability to the lender.

However, Jameson emphasized, VA will furnish the prospective buyer's credit report to the lender, and otherwise assist any veteran who wishes to seek his lender's release. VA makes no charge for this service, Jameson said, although the lender may require the payment of a nominal fee for the processing of his release.

California Band
Termed Top Feature
At Brussels Fair

In a letter from the office of the United States Commissioner General at the 1958 Universal and International Exhibition at Brussels, the University of California band was highly praised for "great musical talent and marching."

John Capren, a former member of the Chelsea school band, now living in San Francisco, Calif., is a member of the U. of C. band. He returned home with the band early this month.

The letter stated, in part, "The University of California band proved to be the most outstanding popular event we have presented at the Brussels World's Fair, to date. Fairgoers from all nations immediately loved the band and the bandstand and we saw frequent examples of 'person-to-person' goodwill ambassadorship at work."

The band conducted a week-long "playathon" in San Francisco to raise $20,000 of the $70,000 needed for the airplane trip to Brussels and return with a quick tour of Europe included. The band traveled around the city in a cable car, playing all the while and continued playing throughout each night at Fisherman's Wharf.

SHERIFF BOB LILLIE
Appointed To Clean Up A Bad Situation!
HE HAS DONE IT WELL!

Let's Keep An Able Sheriff on the Job!

The Ann Arbor News called it a "deplorable situation existing in the Sheriff's department," in an editorial on Feb. 6, and cited inquiries into gas thefts, receipt of stolen property, and hiring of personnel with criminal records.

Bob Lillie was subsequently appointed, according to state law, by the Prosecuting Attorney, Probate Judge, and County Clerk, at the death of the former Sheriff. Neither of Lillie's present opponents was considered qualified for the appointment.

In a public statement on July 16, Prosecutor DeVine said, "Lillie has materially advanced the cause of law enforcement in the county," and that the Department is now "well organized and Sheriff Lillie is making increased use of modern investigative and administrative techniques."

Bob Lillie has doubled the protection, at no increased cost. He has weeded out the men with police records. He is saving the county thousands of dollars a year. He hires only on merit. He is training the officers to be good officers, and to know the laws they enforce. He has installed a business system which accounts for every penny.

Thoroughly experienced in criminal investigation and juvenile work . . . a family man, and a Washtenaw County taxpayer for 9 years . . . U. of M. graduate . . . an active church worker . . . member of the Virginia Consistory . . . and a retired Lt. Col. of the U. S. Marines.

Bauer-Butler
Wedding Held at Methodist Church

Sally M. Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bauer of 13820 Island Lake road, and Harold J. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Butler of Adrian, were married at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at the Methodist church. The Rev. S. D. Kinde, pastor of the church, officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The couple's attendants were Betty Jane Bauer, a sister of the bride, and Earl J. Campbell of Adrian.

For her wedding, the bride wore a white gown with a design of blue flowers and a blue cummerbund which was finished at the back with a large blue bow. She wore a shoulder length veil attached to a pearl trimmed headpiece and completed her ensemble with a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

The maid of honor wore a pink dotted white gown styled like that of the bride and carried a bouquet of white mums and pink carnations. She also wore a headpiece of matching flowers.

A reception followed in the church social center with approximately 80 guests attending.

The bride and bridegroom are making their home in Adrian.

New Law Makes Many Widowed
Persons Eligible for Pensions

Passage by Congress of a bill now makes eligible for pensions approximately 28,000 older people who, because of former military service, have never received the pensions they should have been receiving for many years. They are the widows or widowers of men and women who at the time of death (prior to Feb. 28, 1949) had worked for the U. S. Government.

Eligible persons include, for a period of 10 years or more, and at the time of death having worked where retirement deductions were being taken from their salaries.

The National Association of Retired Civil Employees, Local 304, of which Miss Mary Purcell of Ann Arbor, is secretary-treasurer, is concerned with the task of locating the people who are eligible and helping them to make application for the pension. (Mail carriers are not included since they have their own pension system.)

If application forms have been completed and returned to Washington, D. C., before the end of August, eligible applicants will receive the pension from the effective date, Aug. 1, 1958, according to information released by the NARCE organization which has been promoting passage of the bill for some time.

Miss Purcell has offered to advise men or women who believe they are eligible for this pension if they will contact her by mail or telephone. Her complete address is Mary Purcell, Sec.-Treas., Local No. 7 304 NARCE, 419 East Kingsley Street, Ann Arbor.

Information may also be obtained by writing a brief letter directly to Retirement Division, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Bureau of Departmental Operations, Washington, 25, D. C.

Water Safety
Misconceptions
About Drowning

By Earle F. Zeigler
University of Michigan
(Water Safety Committee of the American Red Cross)

Down through the years we have heard so many stories about drownings and rescues that it is almost impossible to separate fact from fiction. Here are just a few of these false ideas.

Don't jump into the water immediately to save a friend from drowning. The old Red Cross slogan "Row, Throw, Go" still holds. This means that you should take a rowboat first, if one is immediately available. Failing this, you should throw some auxiliary aid as a ring buoy, a torpedo buoy, or something else that floats well. Reaching assist with a shirt or a long pole may be a fine idea. Only jump in yourself as a last resort, if you are a strong swimmer.

A drowning person doesn't necessarily go down three times. Try not to lose sight of the exact spot where he goes down, as you may never see him on the surface again. Take note of a prevailing current when diving for a body.

Never approach a victim from the front (unless you do a surface dive under the water before you get too close).

Many times a drowning person will not call for help; that is why the lifeguard should be seated at a "good" point of vantage, and should not be distracted while on duty.

You don't calm a frantic swimmer by punching him on the jaw. Save your energy and try to "talk him in" to shore instead.

Cramps don't mean that you will sink; learn how to relieve them by massage and stretching of the muscle group involved. If a cramp persists, try to relax and swim slowly not using the affected part.

NEW FIREPROOFING?
Washington—Houses may be fireproof one day because someone in Louisville, Ky., was curious as to why the city dump would not accept banana stalks for burning. As a result, scientists at the United States Forest Service's laboratory at Madison, Wis., are hot on the trail of a possible new fire retardant. They found that a mineral ingredient in stalks, largely potassium carbonate, acted as a natural retardant.

The Forest Products Laboratory is conducting new tests in the hope of developing the chemical compound as a commercial fireproofing agent.

Farm Council Barbecue Set For Aug. 17

"No waiting-in-line at the Farm Council Barbecue," say committee members. "We feel we can promise that for sure!"

And they can. That barbecue, scheduled Aug. 17 at the Farm Council property on Saline-Ann Arbor road, is being put on by a flock of seasoned experts who have been through the mill. Nothing short of a full-size hurricane can surpass the obstacles that almost—but not quite—licked them the first time they staged a barbecue, two years ago.

The near disaster occurred at the Farm Council barbecue two years ago (there was none last year) at Delhi Park near Dexter. It was the morning of the great event; upwards of 3,000 hungry guests were expected. The fires were hot; succulent chicken was browning over the coals. Potato chip packages were stacked all about, rolls were cut, buttered, and set-out-on-tables; cabbage was being chopped for coleslaw.

Then came the "roller." A roller, the old-timers tell us, is a sort of horizontal tornado, not quite as destructive but covering a bigger area. You can survive one, and the barbecuers did; but there are a lot of pieces to collect afterward.

It was the worst storm Mac Moore, MSU's barbecue expert, had ever seen. Giant trees crashed down, all along the Huron River. The 50 members of the Farm Council barbecue committee huddled together under a little open picnic shelter, trying to hold onto the potato chips and the white rolls were flying, mothers sought frantically for children and horizontal rain drenched everything in sight and put out the fires. "A common storm wouldn't put out the charcoal fires," observed a barbecuer this week. But the roller did.

When the storm ended, the damage was assessed; nobody was hurt and all children were located. But the charcoal pits were cold and wet; the rolls were soaked; and the coleslaw was full of water; the chicken was washed clean-of-butter-and-several fallen trees had caved the main road into Dexter. The staff couldn't get to Dexter to get the coffee, to replenish the roll supply, or get more help.

Many couldn't get to the barbecue until the Road Commission had cleared away trees.

In spite of all this, the pits were fired again; the chicken was re-buttered; more rolls were obtained and finally customers came and were fed—less than an hour later.

This year with plenty of tables, with cooking facilities set up inside the Farm Council permanent building, and with at least four and perhaps six serving lines planned to be operating at full speed, the barbecue committee feels safe in promising no waiting in line.

Mrs. Carl Lesser and Mrs. Jack Bradbury, both of Dexter, are serving as co-chairman of the affair. The committee plan to serve 5,000 dinners, with 2 tons of chicken butter heated over two tons of charcoal. Floyd Hicks of MSU will supervise the cooking. Tickets may be purchased ahead of time or at the site.

A Dedication Service for the Farm Council Grounds and buildings will take place at 2:30 p.m. All proceeds will benefit the Farm Council building and grounds.

Neighbors Post 'It's a Boy' Sign for Hopeful Father

When Richard Rogers returned home after his wife gave birth to their fourth child and the first son in the family, he found a sign across the front door—stating, "It's a Boy!" The baby, who was born Monday morning at Mercy Hospital, Jackson.

Neighbors, knowing of the family's wish that the new baby be a boy, hurriedly painted the sign and fastened it to the door to greet Rogers when he arrived home.

The other children in the family are Susan, Gwendolyn and Lee Ann.

Rogers is a Chelsea Milling company employee.

Exchange Farm Youth Writes From Austria

EDITOR'S NOTE: James Gleason, a Washington, D.C., member from Whitmore Lake, is in Austria for the summer taking part in the International Youth Exchange program. The following letter, is the first information received from him since his arrival.

Greetings to everybody back home!

I've finally arrived in Austria and I've lived for two weeks with my first host family, the Josef Kleinschke here at Taggenbrunn in St. Veit a.d. Glan. Taggenbrunn is the name of the farm and comes from the ruins of an old castle just about 150 feet above the house. The farm itself is here on a mountain top with the ruins just above it. St. Veit is the name of the community and it is on a small river—or a Glan.

The first thing I noticed when I arrived was that people no longer speak English. It is quite a shock especially when you know as little German as I do. However, you find as days pass and you have to listen closely, and try to make yourself understood you learn a lot of German.

I was very lucky as both the son, Heinz, and the daughter, Gundl, can speak English quite well. Still, whenever I speak to the parents I must attempt to speak German.

Heinz is about 25, and operates the farm. He is also the local Landjugend president and is active in community affairs. The Landjugend is comparable to the Junior Farm Bureau.

Gundl, his sister, is 17, and has one more year, more school and will then go to the university.

One more thing I should mention before I close this letter is that St. Veit a.d. Glan is in the Province of State of Carinthia, or what is better known as Carinthia among English speaking people.

Next time I'll try and tell you something about the farming here at Taggenbrunn.

Two other comments I have, and that is the people are wonderful and the country is beautiful.

Mrs. George W. Hart, accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Hafner of Chelsea, Miss Margaret Kleckamp of Ypsilanti and Mrs. George Voelker of Ann Arbor, returned Tuesday, July 22, after spending a week in the Upper Peninsula. They visited Tahquamenon Falls, the Soo Locks, the new Mackinac Bridge and other points of interest.

BOB BOSHOVEN, former end of the University of Michigan football team, is not only a good football player but might also be classed as quite a fisherman. He is shown in the above photograph as he weighed a large-mouthed bass he had caught Wednesday afternoon on Green Lake, north of Chelsea. The 20½-inch beauty weighed five and one-half pounds. Boshoven and Gene Snider, former U. of M. football team center, decided to "do a little fishing" when they found themselves with a half-hour of free time from their temporary jobs. Both are employed for the summer with the Ann Arbor Construction Co., on blacktopping work in this vicinity. Boshoven's bait was a night crawler on a spinning rod. It took a full 30 minutes of maneuvering to land the big fish after he was hooked, since he streaked for cover among the lily pads at the edge of the lake. Boshoven and Snider graduated in June and both are signed up as high school coaches in the fall—Boshoven at Lansing Sexton and Snider at Mt. Clemens.

McKune House

whose function and purpose is the operation of a public library in the Chelsea community; also, that no other use, governmental or otherwise, is to be made of the premises, other than the one incidental to the conduct of a public library and that there shall be no cessation or interruption of regular library service for longer than six months.

In the event of non-compliance with conditions of the will, the property would revert to the heirs and nephews of Mrs. McKune; however, if the non-compliance should occur more than 40 years after her death the title to the premises should be vested in the Archbishop of the Archdiocese of Detroit for the use of the aged of the Archdiocese.

The McKune House had been the home of Mrs. McKune and her late husband, J. Edward McKune, and for many years before that the home of the latter's family. It is ideally located near the business district and especially suited for use as a library.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jedele and family, of near Saline, were Sunday afternoon visitors of Edwin Beutler.

Two Chelsea Girls Will Graduate at Nursing School

Jane Smith and Judith Doe, both graduates of Chelsea High school, are among the 188 students of the Mercy School of Nursing who will graduate at commencement exercises in Ford Auditorium, Detroit, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The two Chelsea graduates are included in the Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital Unit of Detroit, one of five Mercy Hospital units represented by the 188 graduates.

Miss Smith, daughter of Mrs. Sallie E. Smith, 119 East street, plans to work at Mercywood Sanatorium, Ann Arbor, after graduation. During her student training, she was a member of the Sodality, Student Organization and Glee Club. During her senior year, she was president of the Student Organization governing group.

Miss Doe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Doe of Detroit, was a member of the Athletic Association and was on the basketball team, as well as a member of the Detroit District Student Nurses Association. She also was a member of the junior year Variety Show, and this past year worked on the yearbook staff. For several years before entering Mercy School of Nursing, she had made her home with her grandparents here, Mr. and Mrs. George Doe.

Presiding at the Commencement Exercises in Ford Auditorium will be the Rev. Clement J. Esper, chaplain of Mt. Carmel. Honors will be conferred by the Most Reverend Alexander M. Zaleski, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Detroit, and the presentation of candidates will be by Sister Mary Janice, R.S.M., executive director of the Mercy School of Nursing of Detroit. The Commencement address will be given by the Rev. John Trese, M.S.W., the Cardinal's representative for Catholic hospitals.

Mineral content of farm grains may some day be an important pre-fertilizer, believe agricultural scientists at Michigan State University. The mineral content of grains varies and can be changed by certain fertilization practices.

County Bar Association Committee Endorses Medical Examiner Plan

The Judicial and Legislative Committee of the Washtenaw County Bar Association endorsed the proposed medical examiner system to replace the present coronor system in Washtenaw county, and "strongly" urged a "yes" vote on the issue Aug. 5 according to John S. Dobson, chairman of the committee.

"The committee has given very careful consideration to the proposed medical examiner system," said Dobson in commenting on the action, "and we strongly urge its adoption by a favorable 'yes' vote on Aug. 5. The committee gave its endorsement because it felt that the proposed medical examiner system offered four distinct advantages over the present system used in Washtenaw county."

Dobson then explained that the four advantages referred to included: first, better medical diagnostic assistance in those cases requiring examinations to determine the cause of death; second, greater and more immediate service of this type due to the large number of deputy examiners and their wide distribution; third, better medical-legal understanding and relationships and fourth, an improvement in the county government.

"All four of these points are of prime importance to the Bar Association," said Dobson, "and they are of equal importance to the individual citizen of Washtenaw county."

The Bar Association, by taking the action at their regular meeting Friday afternoon, joined the Washtenaw County Medical Society, the 13th District Funeral Directors Association, several other professional societies and a host of individuals in endorsing the proposed system.

The medical examiner system is already in operation in Chippewa county, Genesee county and in Oakland and Wayne counties.

New FILTER-AGITATOR

Maximum Lint Removal
Positive Detergent Distribution
Greater Washing Effectiveness

The exclusive new Maytag Filter-Agitator is the most revolutionary change in agitator design since it was invented by Maytag. It provides increased washing action, positive distribution of detergent, and maximum lint filtration. It's a real breakthrough, and it's available only in Maytag.

MAYTAG AUTOMATIC

Now all time Maytag is in the heart of the new Filter-Agitator, under water when the lint is removed by Maytag's famous Lint Remover Tub. Surface lint as well as lint suspended in water is drawn into the agitator, and there is no pause or delay to interfere with loading or unloading.

Detergent dispenser in agitator prevents deterioration and damage to fabrics from heavy concentrations of undissolved detergent. Simply pour detergent in agitator cavity; circulating water dissolves it completely before it comes in contact with clothes. Big two cup capacity permits addition of water softener.

Famous Maytag Agitator Action has been amplified by the pumping action of the new Filter-Agitator. Wash water circulated through the agitator is forced out through specially designed channels in the bottom, in swirling jet streams. Loosens even deep down dirt in seconds.
