SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSING RAPIDLY
A 10-ton truck carrying a 12-ton load of ready-mix concrete drove off undamaged Monday after a left rear wheel passing near a manhole sewer opening, hit a soft spot in the road and dropped into a deep hole, tilting the truck to a 45-degree angle as shown in the top photograph. The mishap occurred at the site of the new high school construction project. Two winches on bulldozers, in addition to the crane, got the truck out of its predicament and the badly shaken driver went on his way.
In the lower photograph is shown the skeleton steel work on the new high school gymnasium looking east from Flanders street. Welders are at work on the steel frame and bricklayers are laying up the wall for the gymnasium. The new high school auditorium is located at the left behind the gymnasium.

Raging Windstorm Uproots Trees, Downs Utility Lines

A sudden electrical and wind storm which struck the Chelsea area shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday darkened the southwest part of Chelsea, the north side of East Middle street and the Freer road neighborhood for several hours and cut off telephone service for more than 200 homes as the result of trees and limbs falling on wires and because of lightning. Electrical power was restored in the southwest part of the village by 9 p.m. Freer road residents had electricity turned on again at 1 a.m. and service on Middle street, from the Congregational church east to the end of the street, was restored by 3 a.m. Monday.

A huge elm tree in front of the residence of Mrs. Amanda Schiller, 222 South street, was uprooted, tearing up the cement sidewalk and taking down a telephone cable as it crashed directly across the street.

Village eddies, under the direction of Kellie Allen, went to work at once, sawing up the tree and clearing the street in order that telephone crews could repair the damage to the cable.

Cavanaugh Lake Little Theatre Presents Plays

After two weeks of preparation and rehearsal, the curtains opened Saturday evening, Aug. 2, on the first major production of the "Cavanaugh Lake Little Theatre."

Members of the little theater group were children from the West Shore Subdivision and their theater was a vacant lot located behind the cottages. Blankets hung on a rope between trees formed the stage. Wreaths of drop cloth, lights and music were also provided.

During the weeks preceding the production, signs were posted in the neighborhood and hand printed tickets were sold the afternoon of the final day.

Two plays were enacted for the capacity audiences of 25 adults and children. The first, a stick puppet presentation of the well-known fairy tale "Cinderella," was produced by Carolyn Mahaffey of 1488 Cavanaugh Lake and Toledo, O., and Phyllis Brady of 1488 Cavanaugh Lake. The second was an original three-act play entitled "The Leaky Boat," written and directed by Sandy Young of 1492 Cavanaugh Lake and Van Wert, O.

Taking part in this play were Robert Brady of 1488 Cavanaugh Lake as the judge of a dog show, David Brady, of the same address, as Chief of a black cocker spaniel, Phyllis Brady as Scamp, a red cocker spaniel and Carolyn Mahaffey as Scout, a honey colored cocker spaniel.

Kool-ade, fudge and souvenirs (ash trays and jewelry made by the children out of shells collected from the lake) were sold during the intermission between the two plays.

Reduction in Traffic Deaths Continues In Seventh Month

July was the seventh consecutive month this year to show a reduction in traffic deaths under the same month of last year, according to provisional figures reported by the State Police.

There were 112 fatalities, a reduction of 16 or 12.5 per cent under 128 in July of 1957.

For the first seven months of the year, the total now stands at 687 deaths as compared with 831 in the same period of 1957, a saving of 144 lives, or 17.3 per cent.

There have been reductions in deaths in 26 of the last 28 months on the same comparative basis. Previously reported as the sixth consecutive month in which deaths were below 100, June lost that position when delayed figures brought the total to 110, which was eight per cent below June last year. The provisional report was 99 deaths.

Final figures for June also show 4,778 persons injured in 13,114 accidents, reductions of 13 per cent in both injuries and accidents.

For the first six months of the year, the latest figures available, there were 24,962 persons injured in 80,173 accidents, reductions of nine and 16 per cent respectively. Estimated mileage traveled for the first five months, also the latest information, was 11.6 billion, a reduction of less than one per cent under the same period a year ago. The death rate of four per 100 million miles of travel was down 20 per cent.

However, that August will offer a real challenge to drivers. It has the highest travel mileage of any month, and is one of the highest death months, with a total last year of 161, second only to December with 187. Each was ended in August last year averaged more than 20 deaths.

"Despite the increased hazards, we know deaths can be reduced, but it means that drivers must be on the alert and take no chances," said Commissioner Joseph Childs. "The one chance that is taken may be the last one. Travel will be heavy with greater exposure to accidents. It's up to the driver to keep out of trouble by following the rules of the road and watching out for what the other driver may do."

Wilbert Koch Farm on Fletcher Road Proves Difficult for Many To Identify

Mystery Farm No. 15, published in the July 31 issue of The Chelsea Standard, is the Wilbert Koch farm at 885 Fletcher road. It has been his home all his life and has been in the Koch family since his grandfather, Jacob Koch, purchased it after coming to the United States from his native Germany approximately 90 years ago. At that time it was owned by Dolly and Alva Freer.

Wilbert's father, Christian J. Koch, came into possession of the farm in 1900. Since his death in 1942, Wilbert had operated the farm for his mother, Mrs. Tama Koch, until he purchased the 116-acre homestead in 1957. His mother still makes her home with him and his family.

The Wilbert Koch family includes his wife, the former Helen Neyer, and two sons and a daughter, Gary, 18, Ronald, 10, and Lynda, who is eight years old. They are members of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church.

Gary has a registered Holstein heifer which is his 4-H club project this year.

Wilbert does general farming and keeps a herd of 15 cows; a flock of 35 sheep; a few hogs; and approximately 150 chickens. The chickens are White Rocks and some of them are visible in the photograph of the farm.

Wilbert has twin brothers, Leon and Lawrence, who served on the same ship in the U. S. Navy during World War II. Both are now married and Leon is affiliated with Chelsea Associated Builders.

Lawrence is employed at the Ford Garage in Dexter. Both live in Chelsea.

There are also two sisters, Hilda, who is now Mrs. Erwin Horning, and Rubena, who is Mrs. Albert Gross.

Others in the family are the other grandchildren, Diane, Leonard and Charles Koch, who are Leon's children; Dale, who is Lawrence's son; Roger, Allen and Raymond Gross; and Kathryn, Luther and Mark Horning.

More incorrect identifications were received on the Koch farm than on any of the mystery farms published in the current series.

Those who correctly identified it are Mrs. Grant Schooley, Robert Kuhn, David, Pastor, Duane Bollinger, Armin Kuhl, Arlene Zahn, Robert Schneider, Ray Quigley, Tom Merkel, Mrs. Tama Koch and Mrs. Wilbert Koch.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

SECURE AND HAPPY older citizens are a dynamic national asset. Our system of old age insurance benefits, financed jointly by employees, employers and the Federal government, has paid off handsomely in self-respect and productivity of our people.

Two years ago, the provisions of my bill to expand social security benefits were enacted into law. I am continuing this effort and before the week is out will speak on the Senate floor in favor of expanding benefits to conform with increased living costs. Right now the Senate Finance Committee is studying a House-passed bill raising benefits 7 per cent and boosting payroll taxes. I am confident that Senate approval will be given our proposals to strengthen the program.

FARMERS TOOK A GIANT STEP toward increased prosperity last week when the Senate unanimously passed my bill to develop new industrial uses for surpluses through research. The Federal government spends millions each year teaching farmers how to increase production—in fact, has triggered a technological explosion on the land. Now we must give proper attention to developing new outlets for the bounty pouring from our vast agricultural areas.

All of us are familiar with what research did for the dying citrus industry. The quick-freezing process, perfected in part through research conducted in the Agriculture Department, reversed an economic trend. Also through imaginative research, the lowly soybean has become one of today's big-money crops. Recognizing this, the Senate gave approval to spending a few millions on research which in turn will open billions in new markets for our farmers.

If the House passes the measure, and prospects seem good, I predict that the President will sign the bill. We wrote the legislation, in fact, on the basis of a Presidential Commission's recommendations outlining 106 broad fields of research and development holding promise for farmers. They include cereal grains, cotton, oilseeds, meat and animal by-products, sugar, fruit, vegetables, edible tree nuts, white potatoes, poultry and eggs, crop residues, forest products and new crops.

HUMANE SOCIETIES term present slaughtering methods of livestock and poultry "barbaric and immoral." Last week I voted for a bill providing kinder, quicker slaughtering methods. I also supported amendments permitting ritual handling in accordance with religious faith. Under this legislation, meat packers must render animals mercifully and quickly unconscious before the kill is made. This reform is long overdue.

QUANICASSIE, Indian for "one tree," at one time lay at the end of an important Indian trail which followed the shore of Saginaw Bay to the edge of an impassable swamp. Back in the early days, it was one of the favorite hunting and fishing grounds along the shores of Lake Huron.

Community Development Requires Careful Planning

Editor's Note: From time to time the Washtenaw County Planning Commission plans to present articles which can help in community betterment. This is the first of such articles.

Community growth is a natural process. Growth in population brings an increased demand for more places to live, shop and work. Growth often means a demand for public services—schools, police and fire protection, refuse collection and other services provided by governments. These services cost the community money.

A number of recent economic studies indicate that residential areas cost more to service than is received from them in the form of taxes. In many cases, communities are finding that their residential growth is costing the community more than it pays in taxes. The increased demands for public services in these areas often put the government machinery into a financial "hole" with no apparent way out. Intelligent foresight can help prevent a community from falling into a poor financial situation. Community planning is needed in order to guide such a way that finances will be available to provide the necessary services expected in an urban environment.

Smokestack chasing has become a major occupation among mayors, village presidents, chamber of commerce officials, school board members, and many others in public life. A city, village or school district may go its way for many years, raising and spending the public moneys, without any serious problems arising. Then, quite suddenly, it is found that it will take 20 years to bring the highways up to present needs, schools are too small, water and sewer systems obsolete, and the whole community is suffering from a variety of maladies which have but one cure—more money.

At this point it is discovered that the community is already overloaded with taxation. Perhaps it may even be difficult to raise as many taxes as before. Neighborhood deterioration has lowered property valuations. Some are out in the community a voice is raised. "We need more Tax Base!" With no more ado, the race is on. Committees are formed, brochures are printed, prospects are winnowed and lined—and something is even signed. But for each prospect who signs, and locates his plant in the community which has sought him, there are many others who don't. Industrial location is based on the needs of the industry and not on those of the community seeking it. While there are good sites available, second best will be ignored. Many of our communities are in situations where they can't compete for industry. For them, the solution does not lie in growth.

Three types of land use are recognized as paying more in taxes than is demanded in services from the community. These are industry, commerce, and agriculture. Residential land receives more in services than it pays in taxes, perhaps as much as 25 percent more. The economic health of a community rests not with growth, but with maintaining a balance between tax surplus and tax deficit types of land use. A city which cannot bring in new commerce and industry to bolster its tax base, is courting economic ruin if it continues to annex residences or potential residential sites.

A community which must face a lack of industrial or commercial tax base can do much to protect itself. It can provide for stronger commercial areas by eliminating strip commercial development. It can limit high density, urban residential land use to areas which can be provided economically with urban services. It can require dispersal of population in non-urban areas to hold school and service costs to a minimum. It can require that owners in these dispersed areas provide their own services, and that any site which is unsuitable to self-contained water and sewer development shall not be developed for residence. In addition to unilateral action on the part of a single community, two or more communities may join and pool their tax base to meet the costs of public services. All of these are common-sense measures which are well within the power of the community to undertake.

Such action on the part of a community requires a basic understanding of the area and its problems. Is the growth in our area a balanced growth? Is your tax base adequate to sustain growth, or should you prepare to live with your tax income? Growth within your region is certain. In some areas it is desirable, in others it is not. Choose the role of your community wisely, and in the light of a well considered plan.

State Fire Marshal Arnold Renner Will Retire Aug. 22

Arnold C. Renner, chief of the fire marshal division of the State Police, will retire Aug. 22, after a quarter of a century of service to the state in the field of fire investigation and prevention.

Renner entered state service June 1, 1933, as deputy fire marshal, the division then being part of the state insurance department. He was advanced to assistant state fire marshal and on Sept. 22, 1939, was named chief of the fire marshal division when it was transferred to the State Police.

Renner began his career at age 22 as a fireman in the Monroe fire department, of which his father was chief. Previously he had served a two-year tour of duty with the U. S. Navy during World War I.

He left fire fighting for a nine-year period from 1922 to 1931, entering the automobile business, but returned in 1933 when he joined state service.

Renner received many honors, one of the most recent being his selection for the career service award given annually by the Michigan chapter of the American Society for Public Administration for outstanding service in state government.

Mr. and Mrs. Renner plan to spend the winters at a home they are building in Florida and their summers at their cottage at Otsego lake.

Lebanese Native Calls for Change in Mid-East Policy

East Lansing—The West still may salvage the Middle East situation, but must show "imagination and courage," asserted a native of Lebanon who is a professor at Michigan State University.

Dr. Fauzi M. Najjar, now an American citizen and a specialist in social science, declared that "Arab nationalist resentment against the West does not mean that the Arabs are communists or pro-communists."

He explained that Arabs "have dissociated themselves from Western policies but not from Western ideas."

Dr. Najjar, who studied and taught political science at the American University in Beirut, Lebanon, believes "the creation of the State of Israel, more than anything else, has been responsible for the alienation of the Arabs from the West."

"To the Arab the creation of Israel by the forcible dismemberment of Arab Palestine has been the culmination of Western folly. By what right, according to what principles, the Arab asks, do you force people out of their land and homes and give them to somebody else?"

American policy can be changed and the lines for future policy already are drawn, Dr. Najjar said.

He contends the U. S. must convince Israel to go back to the United Nations boundaries, repatriate the refugees and "most important," give up the idea of building a Jewish commonwealth in the Middle East.

CARD OF THANKS

Our heartfelt thanks and appreciation are extended to relatives, friends and neighbors who so thoughtfully expressed sympathy and condolence by means of cards, flowers and many acts of kindness during our recent bereavement.

Stand Back!

A Canada goose warns Conservation Department photographer Robert Harrington not to come any closer to this nest of newly-hatched goslings at a southeastern Michigan recreation area. The young birds had just emerged from their eggs when the photo was taken. Canada geese are raised at the Department's game farm and released in suitable areas in order to establish resident breeding populations.

Canada Goose Being Revived as Michigan Resident

Lansing—The Canada goose, top trophy for waterfowl hunters, is making a comeback as a resident of Michigan.

The principal breeding range for this impressive bird is in the western Canadian provinces, but it is probable that many wild geese nested in Michigan before extensive settlement.

Under a stocking program conducted by the Michigan Conservation Department, Canadas once more breed and nest in the state. Geese hatched at the Department's game farm at Mason are released in suitable habitat areas and these birds establish nesting colonies which attract migrating members of the species.

The release program is one form of game management, aimed at increasing the breeding range and population of the species. Many of these liberated geese become year-round residents of the state, while others spend the winter in warmer climates — returning to Michigan in the spring.

Game biologists point out that successful release programs for any species can be accomplished only when habitat conditions are suitable. The Department also conducts habitat improvement projects, such as floodings and vegetation control, to create favorable conditions for migratory waterfowl.

CARD OF THANKS

Our thanks and appreciation are extended for the kindness of friends and neighbors who helped in so many ways during our recent bereavement; the staff at Colonial Manor for kindness to our loved one and courtesies extended to the family; the Rev. Louis Calster for his words of comfort; all who sent flowers; and special thanks to those who contributed to the Multiple Sclerosis fund.

LIMA-SCIO COOKS

Lima-Scio Cooks 4-H club members gave a demonstration tea Tuesday evening at the home of Louise Ordway and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Ordway. Only ladies and girls were present for the tea, the men in the family being excluded for the evening; however, affording some amusement, it turned out there was "a man in the house" after all—the infant son of one of the mothers who were invited as guests, Mrs. LeRoy Feldkamp.

In addition to the mothers of the club members, Mrs. Lewis Heselwerdt was invited to attend. Summer flowers, attractively arranged, served as a centerpiece for the tea table where the club girls served punch, coffee, fancy party sandwiches, fancy cookies, cream puffs, mints and salted nuts. Leader of the Lima-Scio Cooks 4-H club is Mrs. LaVerne Coy. Marjorie Bradbury is the co-leader.

Space Age In Michigan 100 Years Old

Ann Arbor—Michigan got off the ground and snatched into the Space Age just a century ago, according to material in the University of Michigan Historical Collections.

Charles M. Cleveland, a young clerk in his father's general store in Adrian, then a town of 7,000, recorded in his diary a lively account of a balloon ascension by a resident, W. D. Banister, on Sept. 16, 1868. Banister used a balloon belonging to Ira Thurston, veteran balloonist from Lima, N. Y.

With 500 Sunday school picknickers from Jonesville watching, Banister climbed into the car suspended below the gas bag. Partially released, the balloon showed so much buoyancy that Banister invited Thurston to accompany him on the flight.

When the ropes were released, the balloon rose rapidly and floated off in a northeasterly direction. The open valve permitted enough gas to escape so that the balloon gradually descended and landed in Riga township.

With the aid of volunteers, the aeronauts removed the netting from the bag and detached the car. To expedite deflation Thurston sat on the valve block, a circular board one inch thick and 15 inches in diameter, resting on the ground. Holding the collapsed top of the bag with his arms and legs he directed Banister and two others to raise the mouth of the balloon so that gas might flow out more rapidly.

They obeyed and Thurston told them to let go. Banister and one other did, but the third, a farmer, Westerner, retained his hold. Released of half its human ballast, the balloon bounded into the air. When it was 10 feet from the ground, Westerner dropped off but Thurston, sitting on the valve block, grasping the collapsed part of the bag, held on.

"Follow me across the field," Thurston called. "It will be all right."

But he had underestimated the buoyancy of the remaining gas, and the balloon rose rapidly into the air.

Rooted to the spot with horror, the spectators watched the upside-down bag veer away toward the northeast with Thurston clinging for his life to his precarious perch.

According to F. Clever Bald, assistant director of the Michigan Historical Collections, "News of the runaway balloon was quickly spread about the town. The huge deflated bag was found in Ontario on the farm of Joseph Marks, 80 miles from Windsor. There was no trace of Thurston."

In spite of a prolonged search, his body was never found. It is likely that he lost his grip and fell from his seat on the valve block either into Lake Erie or Lake St. Clair."

THANK YOU

My sincere thanks to the local VFW Post and Auxiliary, the local American Legion Post, the Sixth District VFW and Auxiliary, the Department of Michigan VFW and Auxiliary, and the Washtenaw County Council of Veterans for their kind remembrances; the many people who gave of their time to visit me and send me cards; the people of various parts of the state, connected with the VFW, who were so kind and thoughtful; and especially my good neighbors, fellow workers at Chrysler Proving Ground and members of the VFW Post who got together and invited me home while I was in the hospital. Thanks also to the women who served the painters a noon lunch. I shall always remember these wonderful kindnesses.

Sincerely, Ren Hutzel.

May I add my thanks, also, for the heartwarming kindnesses to Ren as well as the many things that were done by friends, relatives and neighbors to make things easier for me.

Janet Hutzel.

Brisk Rubdown Will Help Prevent Swimmer's Itch

Lansing—A brisk rubdown with a dry towel immediately after coming out of the water is the best preventive for "swimmer's itch," according to the Michigan Department of Health.

Drying with a towel will remove the conditions that can lead to the minor skin irritation that sometimes follows a dip in inland waters.

"Swimmer's itch" is caused by a tiny flatworm that is able to penetrate human skin when the skin is covered by a film of water and when the water is evaporating. The worm is not known to penetrate while a person is in the water.

Man usually is not a part of the life cycle of this flatworm. The usual course is for the flatworm to enter small aquatic snails, then to be taken into waterfowl when the snails are eaten, finally passing through the fowl and starting the cycle again by entering snails.

When the flatworm bores into man, an annoying skin irritation is set up for two or three days. The itching can be reduced with calamine but can be avoided entirely, according to the state health department, by using the towel rubdown method.

The flatworms can be eliminated from water sites either by killing the snails with chemicals or by keeping aquatic birds away from the sites.

State Fair Seeks Crochet Champion

Michigan women, age 60 and over, will have a special chance to demonstrate their crocheting skill in brand new contest scheduled for the 1968 Michigan State Fair, Donald L. Swanson, general manager, announces.

It will be a "Nimble Sixties" contest to be held on Old Times' Day, Thursday, Sept. 4.

Contestants will be given a half-hour to crochet on a simple, scalloped edging and five prizes will be awarded to the winners who have completed the most number of scallops.

The ladies just bring their own No. 8 hook and ball of No. 50 mercerized thread. Entry blanks may be secured by writing to the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 8, attention Harry Webberman, director of Old Times' Day.

A copy of the pattern to be used will be sent along with each entry blank so that contestants can do a little practicing at home.

Polly Leurs, director of the State Fair home arts department, is making up the pattern and members of her department will assist in running off the contest.

The State Fair dates are Aug. 29 through Sept. 7.

NEWS

John Wayne and Howard Hawks had such a grand time working together on "Rio Bravo" that they have already planned another, a story of early days, entitled "Klondike".

It is based on a true yarn, and starts in California as a Western and ends up in the Alaskan gold rush. Howard says it will be made in a new process and will take at least a year.

Harry Belafonte has asked Shelley Winters if she would co-star with him in a picture he personally produces entitled "Odds Against Tomorrow," to be made in New York City. She could do it the same time she's doing her play there.

Sessue Hayakawa goes into "Green Mansions" with Audrey Hepburn. He will play the tribal leader of South American savages who is torn between loyalty to his people and regard for the young man played by Tony Perkins.

Sam Goldwyn has his crew working around the clock re-building the sets of "Catfish Row," hoping to have it ready by Aug. 27. Sam's birthday, at which time he will be 78.

Lisa Kirk, well-known actress turns business-woman. Lisa plans to start her own producing company in New York; it is her firm.

MARRIAGE, BIRTH LAG—The slackening off of marriages and births—blamed on the recession—continued through March, the public Health Service reported recently.

The 90,000 weddings estimated for the month were 9.1 per cent below the 99,000 reported for March last year. That's a rate of 8.1 per thousand population, and the lowest March figure since 1950. Marriages have been on a downward trend since last September.

March births were estimated at 345,000, down 1.1 per cent below the 349,000 in March of 1957. This was the third consecutive month in which births dropped slightly lower than the corresponding totals for last year.

The youngsters are housed in any of 14 camps mostly located in southern Michigan state parks. The camps range in size from a 25-camper minimum to a 142-camper maximum. Some have only one or two buildings, including dormitories and kitchen-dining hall, while others include craft shops, recreation rooms and various other structures.

Co-operation by students and schools who use the Conservation Department administered camps, has been excellent throughout the program since its inception in 1948.

Students in particular enjoy the week or two of "school away from school" and participate in all the enjoyment and chores of keeping the camps running. Supervision is provided mainly by the school that uses the camp, though Department personnel and other resource workers are frequently invited to the field.

Cost of the program is shared by the students and the state, and

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A City-Ditty

"Took a back road home last week and stopped for gas at Hopkins Crossing — a village with three or four stores, a few houses and a Post Office.

While I was there another fellow drove up to the gas station, with Big City written all over him—from his clothes to his block-long car, to his attitude. "Nothing like the real country for peace and quiet, is there?" he remarked to the attendant.

"Why, I wouldn't know," the attendant said. "I lived all my life right here in town!"

From where I sit, opinions are sometimes like fingerprints, never two exactly the same. The idea is not that you have to think like the next fellow—but to understand his point of view. (For instance, your preference for tea, may liking for an occasional glass of beer.) It makes neighbors more like neighbors.

Swine Day Will Feature Special Talks

Integration and the swine industry, planning modern hog raising facilities and a sale of superior tested boars will highlight the third annual Michigan Swine Day.

Swine Day is Aug. 14 on the Michigan State University campus at East Lansing.

According to Ed Miller, extension avineman at Michigan State, this year's program is designed to answer questions that are troubling nearly every swine producer in the state. They want to know about integration and how it will affect them.

And if they are planning to stay in the swine business, they want to know what kind of modern facilities they'll need to be competitive and to make a profit, Miller says.

Boars certified at the Swine Evaluation Station will be sold at an afternoon sale. They will be rated as to feed efficiency, rate of gain and meatiness.

Another feature of the Swine Day program will be a comparison of swine raising in Russia and the United States. J. M. Steddom, president of the Iowa Swine Breeders' Association, who recently made a trip to Russia, will relate his observations.

Visitors will see several hog raising experiments in progress on a tour of the swine farms on the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. Tests showing pelleted vs. meal type rations, 4 weeks vs. 6 weeks weaning of pigs, using injectable iron dextran for control of anemia, and the use of trace minerals will be seen.

A pork lunch will be available in Anthony Hall, site of the morning program.

Larry Policht is spending this week in the northern part of the state.

He is spending the summer at the home of an uncle, Wayne Walbrook, of Munith.

Several Area Persons Make Inquiries Regarding Pensions Under New Law

Miss Mary L. Purcell of Ann Arbor, secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Retired Civil Employees (NARCE), Local 804, said that following last week's story in The Standard, she had heard from people in this area who might be eligible for pensions under a new law passed by Congress benefitting widows or widowers of government employees who died prior to Feb. 28, 1948.

Miss Purcell said there are approximately 28,000 eligible people throughout the United States who might benefit under the new law, providing they make the proper application.

Persons eligible are widows or widowers of men and women employed in any civil department of the government for 10 years or more (military service time included), and at the time of death (prior to Feb. 28, 1948) employed where retirement deductions were taken from their salaries.

The pension becomes effective Aug. 1 and eligible persons who send in the proper application form before the end of the month will receive the pension from the effective date.

Eligible widows and widowers of employees of any civil department of the government, such as the treasury, agricultural department, state department, postal clerks, carriers (city and rural), and others, may contact Miss Purcell, 419 East Kingsley street, Ann Arbor, by mail or telephone for advice on making applications.
