Next Sunday Named Civil Defense Day

Sunday, Dec. 7, the 17th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, which precipitated World War II, has been designated by President Eisenhower as National Civil Defense Day.

At 8 p.m. the customary "alert" signal will be followed by one minute of silence and then the "take cover" signal will be sounded.

The "alert" signal is a steady five-minute blast, while the "take cover" signal is a three-minute wailing blast.

W. J. Grossman, who has been appointed Zone VI Civil Defense director, succeeding Martin E. Miller who recently resigned, said Chelsea signals will be the same as those used throughout the county.

It is emphasized that the sounding of the sirens is merely a part of the observance of Civil Defense Day and not to be construed as an actual warning or as a Civil Defense exercise.

The public is not expected to take any action other than to note the difference between the two, and what each signal means. It is recommended that citizens view the siren signals as a reminder to examine their home and community preparedness to survive a possible enemy attack. The slogan for the day is "Peace Through Preparedness."

Throughout the United States and its territories, Americans are asked by Leo A. Hoogh, Director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, to analyze what they have done toward building an effective civil defense.

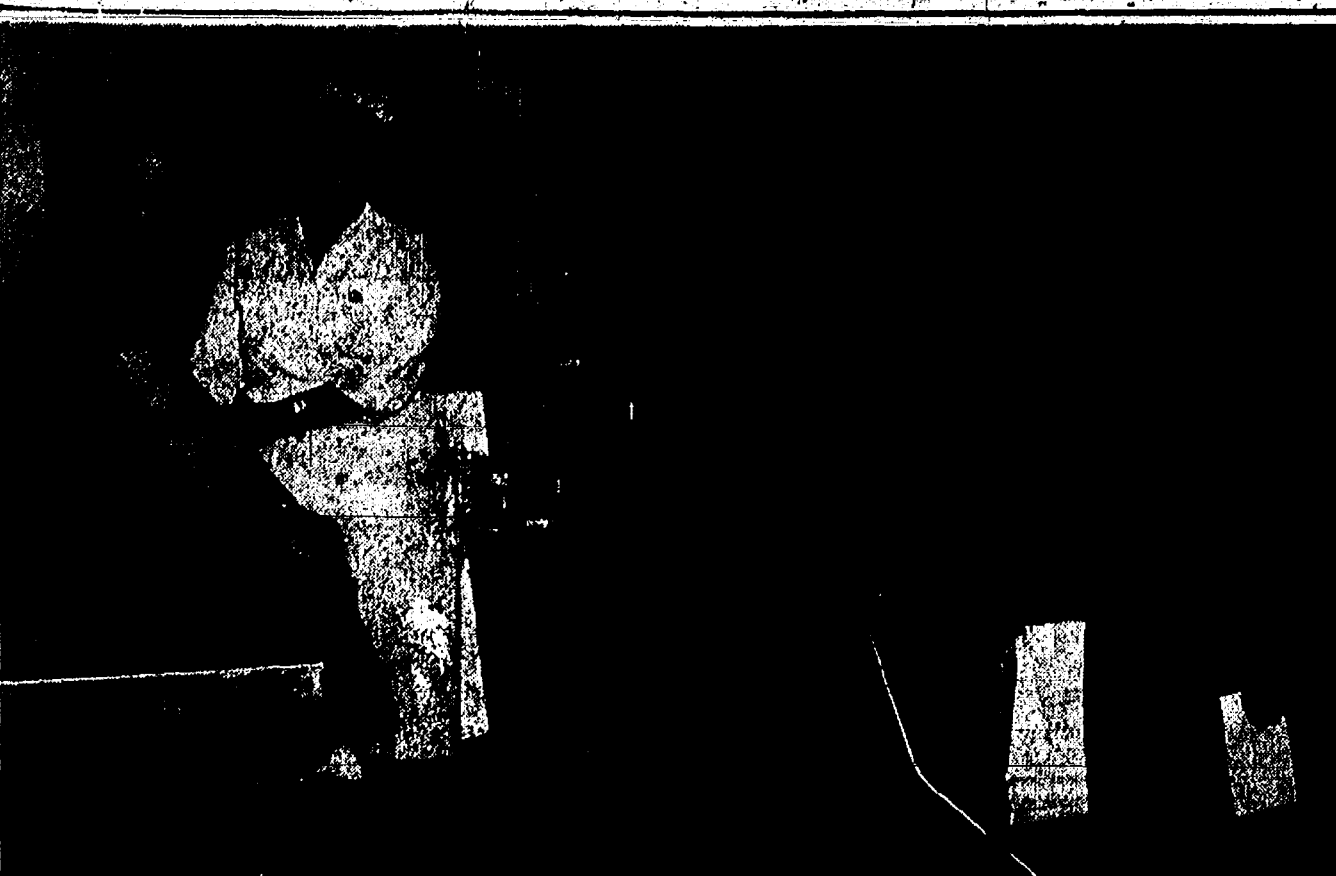

Hoogh said Americans' first step toward being informed on civil defense actions is to obtain and carry the ODDM preparedness card. It is available from any Civil Defense office or from ODDM at Battle Creek.

The card urges Americans to take these basic steps toward protection and survival in event of attack: Prepare a family shelter and equip it with a two-week supply of food and water, plus such essentials as a first aid kit and battery-operated radio.

Learn warning signals and what they mean, the community plan for emergency action, protection from radioactive fallout, fire, and home emergency preparedness, and the use of CONELRAD for emergency radio information (640 and 1240 on the dial).

'GALLON CLUB' MEMBERS—Three Chelsea men in the above photograph are now among the "Gallon Club" group of Chelsea Community Blood Bank donors, having given their eighth pint of blood at the clinic held here Monday, Nov. 24. The clinic, held in the basement of the Congregational church yielded a total of 81 pints with local volunteers assisting personnel of the Detroit Regional American Red Cross Unit in charge.

One of the Detroit nurses appears in the photograph with the three Chelsea men, Franklin Gea at left, Edward Blacklaw, right, and Robert MacMinder lying on the cot beside him. Mrs. Dudley Holmes, Chelsea Community Blood Bank chairman, and Harold Jones, co-chairman, are in charge of releasing blood when needed.

Members of the Chelsea Senior Band will travel to Dexter Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. to rehearse with the Dexter High and Manchester High bands. After the rehearsal all three bands will eat dinner together in the Dexter High cafeteria.

At 7 p.m. the bands will present a massed concert and each band will present two numbers alone. There will be no admission charge, and all interested friends in the Chelsea area are invited to attend.

The Chelsea Band will present for its two numbers "Handel's Overture to the Messiah" and the sprightly "Winter Wonderland." Hubert Beards of Dexter, Robert Sorter of Manchester, and Gayle Playing host to Milan for the first league basketball game of the season Friday evening, Chelsea High's Bulldogs lost, 48-44.

The score at the end of the first quarter in the closely contested game was 10-7 in favor of Milan. At half time Milan had increased the lead to 24-18 but at the end of the third quarter Chelsea had narrowed the gap to 35-32.

Midway through the fourth quarter Chelsea pushed ahead to a score of 44 to Milan's 39 when Milan retaliated with a full court press which appeared to confuse the Bulldogs. Milan, taking advantage of the situation, forged ahead gaining nine more points to bring their winning score to 48 with Chelsea remaining at 44.

High scorers for Chelsea were George Mayer, 18, and Frank Fredericks, 12. Others who scored are Homer Nixon, six; Alton Nixon and Loren Keezer, each with five; and Bob Weiss, three.

Milan's high scorers were Joe O'Donnell, 14, and Dick Schmenk, 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rowe, accompanied by Herman Benter and Mrs. Ella Hamill of Grass Lake and Miss Augusta Benter of the Methodist Home were in Detroit Sunday for a family Thanksgiving dinner at the home of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Benter.

Wine this year will depend chiefly on the players' ability to rebound consistently. Members of the squad this year, with their grade, height and number of previous letters won, in that order, are: Loren Keezer, 12, 6'0", 2; Frank Fredericks, 12, 6'5", 3; George Mayer, 12, 6'0", 2; Bob Weiss, 12, 6'3", 0; Charles Cameron, 11, 6'1", 0; Jack Patrick, 11, 5'10", 0; George Wilson, 11, 5'8", 0; Fred Patterson, 11, 6'2", 0; Matt Murphy, 11, 5'0", 0; Dalice Ferris, 11, 5'11", 0; Alton Nixon, 10, 6'0", 1; Homer Nixon, 10, 6'0", 0.

Dr. L. J. Paul Named MUCC District Director

Dr. L. J. Paul, a member and past president of the Chelsea Rod and Gun club, was elected a director for District No. 11, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, at a district meeting held at Ann Arbor, Tuesday evening. His election is a recognition of his years of interest in and promotion of conservation projects of various kinds.

Dr. Paul was named to succeed Louis Engles who recently resigned. As one of three directors of District II, he will represent conservation clubs of Washtenaw, Monroe and Lenawee counties at state meetings. The other two directors are John Gehrig of the Huron Sportsman's club of New Baltimore, and Danny Robbins of the Tri-County Sportsman's club of Saline.

Dr. Paul was one of three Chelsea Rod and Gun club members who attended the district meeting Tuesday evening at the Legion Post No. 46 Hunting and Fishing club at Ann Arbor. The others from Chelsea were Calvin Summers and Calvin Summers, Jr.

Every child who visits him is given a ticket for the prize drawing to take place Dec. 20. The cards should be filled out with the child's name and deposited in Santa Claus' special mail box in front of the Post Office steps.

Letters to Santa Claus should also be deposited in the special box and each letter will be answered. Cards for the prize drawing will be included in each answer.

The visits to Santa and the letters are the only means by which cards for the prize drawing may be obtained. None are available in any of the stores.

This week Friday and Saturday Chelsea merchants will feature bargains for Christmas shoppers in a "Santa Sale."

Advertisements in this issue of The Standard list the many items which are being offered as inducements to shop early.

A feature of the following week-end, Dec. 12 and 13, will be the annual "Window Shoppers' event and on Saturday, Dec. 13, the children's party sponsored by the Community Chest and the Chelsea area shop unions. Shows for children through the eighth grade will be held at the Elvyn Beach theatre at 12 p.m., 1 p.m. and 2 p.m.

Following last Saturday's storm, deer were "on the move" throughout this area and one young buck in a herd of five crossing Cavanaugh Lake on the ice Sunday got into trouble when he began slipping and sliding and finally fell, unable to go on.

Area residents, noticing his plight and his frantic efforts to get on his feet, called Conservation officer Donley Boyer.

Boyer and Lee Guzikski, fire officer at Brighton, who happened to be with him, responded and watched the deer through binoculars. They advised leaving the animal alone for a time and when the excitement caused by having a crowd of people around died down, the deer would probably stop his frantic thrashing and be able to help himself. Boyer promised to return in an hour.

In the meantime, however, as other residents noticed the deer on the ice, numerous calls were received by State Police and sheriff's officers and when Boyer returned, he found the deer had been rescued.

Truck Driver Uninjured as Tanker Flips

Merritt Honbaum, 35, escaped injury during Friday afternoon's snowstorm when the loaded milk-truck he was driving overturned and slid down a hill on its top.

He took to the ditch to avoid striking two youngsters coasting on the hill. The tank truck, owned by Thomas Merkel, is believed to be a total loss.

According to reports of the mishap, Honbaum came upon the two youngsters as he reached the top of a hill on Nixon road, near Plymouth road, east of Ann Arbor. As he swerved the truck toward the ditch, it turned completely over, breaking off both of the tank lids and spilling the entire load of milk. The truck slid down the hill backwards and when it came to a halt, Honbaum found himself lying face down in the overturned cab. Both doors were jammed and he was forced to break the glass in order to get out.

Kiwanis Club Christmas Party Set for Monday

At the regular Kiwanis club meeting Monday announcement was made that the annual Kiwanis Christmas party and Ladies' Night will take place next Monday, Dec. 8.

A new Kiwanis club project, planned for the first time this year, is a "Kid's Night" to be held Dec. 15. Children of Kiwanis club members will be entertained with a special program arranged for their pleasure.

Guests at Monday's meeting, held in the social center of the Methodist church, were N. J. Frank of Ann Arbor, Paul Lancaster and Mike Daniels.

Don Turner showed colored movies of wildlife taken in the vicinity of Chelsea, principally at Pierce Lake. The pictures were made throughout the year and show flowers, animals and birds as they appear in their natural habitat during the various seasons.

Mrs. Ernest Fitzmiller is now making her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Satterthwaite.

Wintery Blast Stalls Autos, Freezes Pipes

Saturday's zero weather caught many motorists unprepared after the unusually mild fall weather and garages and service stations were swamped with calls for help in starting stalled motors.

There was also a rush to purchase snow tires and have them put on.

Water pipes were reported frozen in several homes and frozen pipes in an unoccupied apartment over Kusterer's store burst some time Saturday night or early Sunday and did considerable damage in the store before being discovered at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Water from the broken pipes leaked through the ceiling and into the basement of the building.

Chelsea Jaycees entertained their employers Tuesday evening at the group's annual "Bosses Night," a feature of Jaycees activities throughout the nation. The observance is dedicated to "bosses" who support the Jaycees and recognize the value of the organization.

Fourteen guests were present for the dinner at the restaurant of Schuman's restaurant, and James Beamer, trust officer at Ann Arbor Bank, was the guest speaker. He explained about the administration of estates and the need for making a will.

Merle Leach, acting Jaycees president, announced at the meeting that Robert Vanderkelen had been elected district Jaycees vice-president.

Reports included a resume of past and present projects of the Chelsea Jaycees, given by J. V. Burg, II.

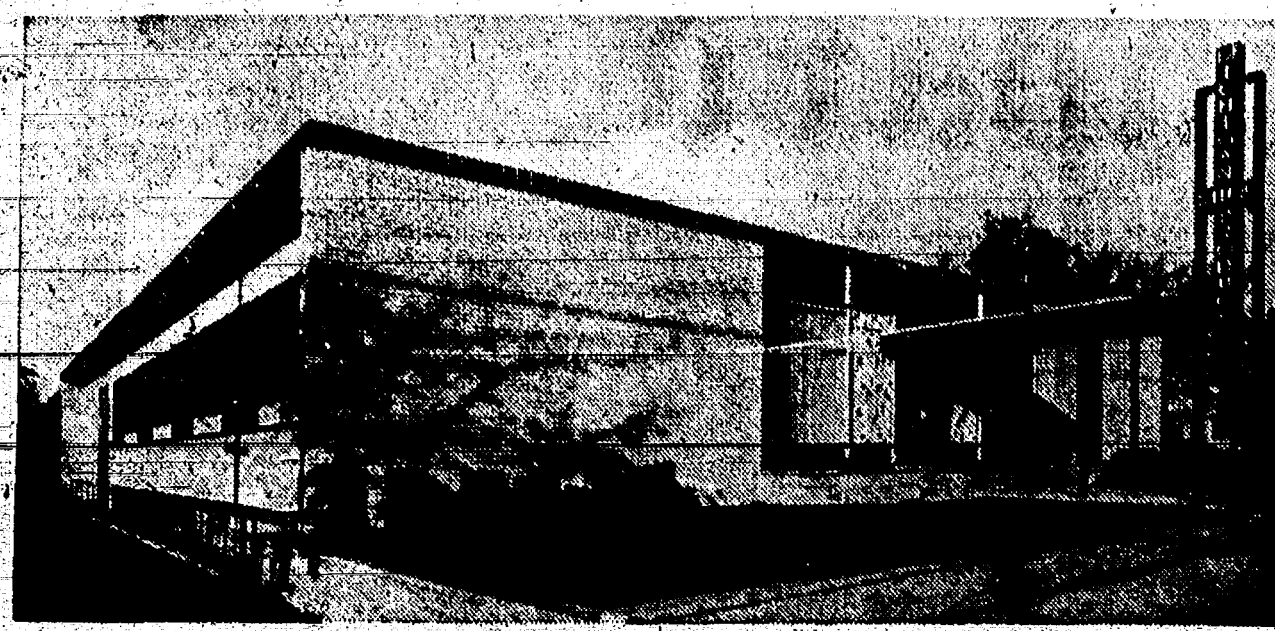

Following the meeting announcement was made that Marilyn Waite, director of the Jaycees-sponsored Chelsea Youth Center, had met in the recreation center Tuesday afternoon with Lyle Christwell of the Jaycees and three high school representatives to discuss plans to get a program of activities started. Another meeting of the group is scheduled for

* Trip to the Post Office

At this season of the year, Mails are heavy now that Santa is preparing to appear. It's the time when postal workers are having aches in their heads. Get so weary and exhausted. They require feather beds.

Mail 'em early, cards and parcels. And relieve the Christmas rush. When we're sending gifts from diamonds. To a bit of frozen mush. And to wrap 'em securely. Is a most important thing.

So there's more to be delivered. Than the paper and the string. Let's address our sendings securely. Being careful how we write. So that clerks must decipher. Don't impair their precious sight.

If we, as the days are passing. Don't procrastinate or stall. Christmas Time will have less tension. And be merrier for all.

One Man's Hen is Another Man's Rooster

My last column was about Whitley Fisher and his chicken farm—and now Whitley has made news again. Whitley entertained some folks from the city last week-end and they toured his modern barn. The visitors asked all sorts of questions. The best was: "How do you tell if the two-day-old chicks are hens or roosters?"

"Easy," answered Whitley. "Just take the chicks one at a time. Place some corn meal in front of it. If she eats it, she's a hen. If he eats it, he's a rooster."

From where I sit, some answers that sound like they make sense turn out to be the silliest of all. For instance, a friend recently objected to my choice of a glass of beer with supper. When I asked him why, he replied: "I've had only coffee with my dinner for the last twenty years." Now that's not only silly—it's intolerant too. Neighbors ought to tend to the Cost of the building was about $285,000.

Glenn Lake, North Branch, president of the association, stated that "We are looking forward to a large number of our members attending the open house Dec. 13 and 14. Most farmers have a pride of ownership and dairy farmers who belong to the association have every right to be doubly proud of this, their own headquarters building. Its location is such that it will be more convenient for most of them coming in from out-state and we know they will appreciate the facilities to be utilized by headquarters staff."

CUB SCOUT NEWS

CUB SCOUT PACK 125
Cub Scout Pack No. 125 held a monthly meeting at South Elementary school Thursday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. It was opened with the flag ceremony by Mrs. Harry Burnett.

All Cub Scouts, including three new ones, were advised they could now wear their bobcat pins in the center of the left pocket of their uniforms.

The evening's program included skits by Mrs. Erle Brady's den and Mrs. Paul Morley's den and John Foster and Allan Boyce led games in which parents and Cub Scouts participated.

Also on display were exhibits prepared by Mrs. Brady's, Mrs. Morley's and Mrs. Laurence Boyce's dens.

Plans and parents were reminded of the Christmas tree sale beginning Dec. 6 at Hilltop Plumbing and Mohrlock's used car lot.

The theme for December is "Golden Rule" and in keeping with this the Cub Scouts are going Christmas caroling Thursday evening, Dec. 18 and they are to meet at the Municipal building at 6:30 p.m.

Plans were announced for the "Pinewood Derby" to be held in January.

The meeting was brought to a close by the Scoutmaster reminding the boys of the advancement they can achieve by "doing their best," and then everyone joined in the song "Goodnight Cub Scouts."

DEN VI
Alan Boyce served refreshments at the meeting. The Cub Scouts are also led the group in a fun period during which each one told a joke.

Plans were made to bring usable small toys to the next meeting to be given to needy children. The boys finished making their poster advertising the Cub Scouts Christmas tree sale and started the project of making Christmas gifts for their parents. The gifts are to be finished at the next den meeting.

Plans were also made to go Christmas caroling with the Cub Scout Pack on Dec. 18.

NEW COMMUNITY NUCLEI—The map shows the interchange (interlocking points) marked as the "nuclei of future economic development" according to Dr. Frank W. Suggitt in a preliminary report to the Michigan Good Roads Federation. These interchanges, which will result from Michigan's five-year expressway construction program, will usher in not only new volumes of traffic, but new communities as well, Suggitt reported. The interchange created by the intersection of expressway with expressway, especially in rural areas, will be the most strategic centers for new development, Suggitt predicted. The interchanges created by the intersecting of an expressway with a regular trunkline highway will also see growth beyond general expectation. Evidence is on hand, he said, which shows that areas adjacent to interchanges of those sections of expressways now completed are sites of the most vigorous real estate acquisition and developments that are occurring in Michigan.

Pilgrims Picked Wild Cranberries For Thanksgiving

Ann Arbor—In addition to turkey, the Pilgrims had wild cranberries at their first Thanksgiving dinner in 1621, according to Warren Chase, chairman of the Department of Wildlife Management at the University of Michigan.

"No doubt the early settlers felt more at home with the use of cranberries because bog cranberries were also well known in northern Europe and in the British Isles where they had been used for sauce for centuries," he says. The Pilgrims got their turkey trimmings from the marshy areas and bogs of the New England coast.

"The wild cranberries of those days that are still picked in the marshes from Maine to Minnesota are known also as moss berries, as fox berries, and as partridge berries."

"The name of the cranberry comes from the slender, curved stalk that holds the bright red berry. The stalk resembles the neck of a crane, so this well known Thanksgiving delicacy is known as 'cranberry,'" Professor Chase reports.

"Although there are two major kinds of cranberries in Michigan, the high-bush cranberry, which is sometimes used as jelly, is not so common one that we find on the market. The low-bush cranberry is now grown commercially in many of the New England states and particularly in Wisconsin where hundreds of thousands of bushels are marketed each year. At the present time, almost all the cranberries on the market are raised commercially."

"However, many people in the northeastern part of the U. S. and Michigan, gather cranberries in the wild from marshes and bogs in their home vicinities and use these for their Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners."

"In the early days in Michigan, the berries were used raw or cooked by the Chippewa Indians. They were gathered by the Indians and put on the market in Detroit in the early 1700's and sold with venison and turkey for Thanksgiving, Indians, as well as early settlers used cranberries and many other fruits and berries as part of their living from the land."

"The heaviest cranberry crops were harvested from the Thumb area and the areas along Lake Michigan," Professor Chase says. "The berries were, of course, found and harvested in many parts of the Upper Peninsula."

RECORD OF 135.4 BELOW

A temperature of 135.4 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, believed to be the lowest ever recorded, was registered thirteen miles above the South Pole last July 16, according to a recent disclosure of the United States Department of Commerce.

Auto License Sales Ahead of Last Year

A hopeful sign that the economy may be improving is reflected in higher sales of Michigan automobile license plates.

According to James M. Hare, Secretary of State, 50 per cent more people bought car plates during the first three weeks of November than purchased them during the same period in 1957. Official tallies show an average sale of 18,621 plates per day compared to last year's 8,978. Branch offices in many cities reported as many as 75 people waiting for the doors to open on the first day of sale, Nov. 1.

"The improvement of business conditions seems to be responsible for this welcome increase in sales," Hare said. "Not only are new car sales better than last year, but fuller employment in the automobile and related industries seems to be bringing even more people into the used car market."

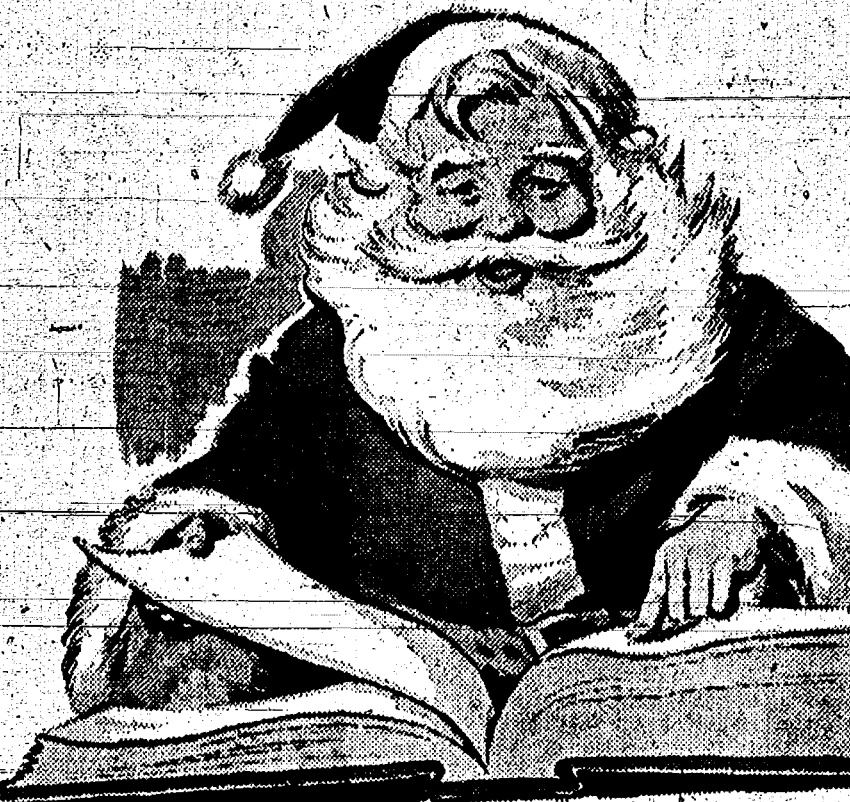

CRADLE TO COURT

Houghton, Mich.—Although puzzled when a man telephoned him from Chicago to ask his help in getting a divorce, Bert M. Heideman, attorney, told him to come. When the man arrived after a 400-mile trip from Chicago, he explained that he had been baptized by Heideman's father, the late Rev. A. J. Heideman, and married by Heideman's brother, the Rev. Paul A. Heideman. So, he said, he considered it fitting that a Heideman should handle his divorce.

DIVER'S SHEARS BANNED

Norfolk—Some anglers thought they felt a slight tug. Others didn't, but also lost their hooks. A $10 fine was suspended by Judge S. E. Amato when an 18-year-old skin diver, with a pair of scissors promised that the next time he went down to the sea in slippers it would be in a secluded spot.

Most of us have turned in our money. We urge those who haven't to please remember we had to cancel our hike planned for Nov. 15 because of the hard rain.

During the month of November we brought packaged food from home, and with money from the treasury, we helped a needy family have a better Thanksgiving.

We have started our Christmas project. We are planning to go sailing before Christmas.

State Marks 50th Year of Metal Auto License Plate

In 1909, Michigan celebrates its 50th year of metal automobile plates.

According to James M. Hare, Secretary of State, the law requiring vehicle licenses was passed in 1904. During the first full year, 2,199 intrepid pioneers registered their gasoline buggies. This compares with almost three million passenger cars registered last year.

The first standard plates, which were black on white, were manufactured in Jackson Prison in 1910. Today, Michigan's license plates are still being manufactured by the Michigan State Industries Branch of the Corrections Department.

In 1905, before plates were issued, the motorist received a metal disk which he affixed to the dashboard of his automobile.

However, motorists were urged to put bronze registration numbers on a leather strip and to hang it on the car axle.

In 1905, the total revenue for vehicle and chauffeur's licenses was less than $7,000. Last year the total income from motor vehicles, operators, and chauffeurs' licenses was more than $70,000,000.

In 1905 the vehicle fee for autos was $2.00 but a chauffeur's license selling for $1.00 was also sold in a package deal at the same time.

A display of each metal plate used for the past 50 years as well as examples of the brass disk and the leather plates are on exhibit on the ground floor of the State Capitol in Lansing. It is a favorite stop for the thousands of youngsters who visit the Capitol on school trips each year.

CARD OF THANKS

To all our friends and neighbors who so graciously helped during our recent bereavement, we wish to express our deepest heartfelt thanks.

Safety Hints Given To Assure Happy Holiday for All

There is nothing more enticing than the fragrant and enveloping warmth of a busy kitchen during the holidays.

But a busy kitchen is often a hazardous one, warn specialists in home economics at Michigan State University.

They point out that haste makes waste, and hurried mothers in the kitchen are headed down the road of careless and costly accidents.

Here are some things to watch for on the big day:

Falls are one of the major hazards for adults. Specialists say to protect yourself and others by cleaning up slippery substances at once—spilled water, grease, or foods. Have a safe step stool handy; don't climb chairs, boxes, and other makeshifts when reaching for high shelves.

Take care with sharp knives. Store them separately, wash them individually, and never leave knives in the dishwasher. Put them away immediately after washing. However, home economists point out that when properly used, sharp knives are actually safer than dull ones.

Burns are another cause of serious injuries. Keep potholders near the range, and insist on their use. Tongas are also handy and safe for handling hot foods.

Especially important watch small children in the kitchen. Warn them of the dangers of the hot stove and explain why they must not touch hot things. Take time to be careful beforehand.

Then try to keep traffic in the kitchen to a minimum. Plan your schedule early, and you will enjoy the turkey to the fullest.

In choosing a fabric, a firm, woven fabric that won't travel easily is the thing to look for, advise leading home economists.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

★ 1960 Presidential Possibilities

It is much too early to draw any final conclusions as to 1960 Presidential candidates. However, so much discussion is taking place that it is interesting and worthwhile to survey the possibilities.

On the Republican side only two names appear to need consideration. First is Vice President Richard Nixon of California. He is well known to the public, is well liked by the majority of party workers, is an excellent campaigner, and is a strong contender in the control of the California delegation at the 1960 Republican convention. Also he wants the nomination, and has been working in that direction for a long time.

The second possibility on the Republican side is Nelson Rockefeller. In defeating Harriman for the New York governorship Rockefeller showed himself to be a more capable leader than Nixon and Tom Dewey. It is assumed Dewey will attempt to stop Nixon with Rockefeller at the convention, a threat not to be taken lightly because Dewey has a superb machine and is an expert in its use. In addition, there are a lot of persons, especially in the South, who do not like Nixon and here you have the makings of a relatively hard fight for the nomination.

On the Democratic side there are several possibilities. The one most frequently mentioned is Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts. He won re-election to an astounding majority, and is actively campaigning for the Presidential nomination. If he is nominated it will be the second time in our history that a Catholic ran for the Presidency—the first being Al Smith. This probably is not so much a handicap as it was when Smith was the candidate, but a lot of political leaders think it still would cost votes. Even some Catholics would be opposed to the nomination on the grounds that no minority group should be put in the position of having one of their members thus forced into the limelight. Also it should be remembered that Kennedy was given quite a two-way endorsement in his drive for the Vice Presidency.

Another Democrat potential is Adlai Stevenson. He had the nomination twice and lost, but obviously is available again. He is known by all the Democratic party workers and it is possible that they might decide that, with victory better than an even chance, he should be given the opportunity to become President. If he is nominated official labor will support him, and the South would not take a walk over his nomination.

Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson also must be considered. He is generally regarded as having done extraordinarily well in holding his party together in the past session of the Congress. On the debit side is a heart attack of a few years ago. However he has learned to pace himself and appears in the best of health. On the credit side, his nomination would assure that the South would not put another candidate in the field. This is not because the South likes Johnson so much, but because he is a Southerner and it would be unthinkable that they should turn against him to that extent.

Those are the three leading contenders at the moment, but there are two other men who definitely are in the offing.

First of these is Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri. He was formerly Secretary of the Air Force and won re-election as Senator this year by a handsome majority. He has widespread support among business, and long has had eyes on the White House.

Second is Governor Warren of New Jersey. He is a possibility because his hand-picked candidate for the Senate, Harrison Williams, won this year, and because the Governor has shown he is popular with the voters.

As stated earlier, it is too soon to draw conclusions. But at the moment, in my judgment, the Republican candidate will be Nixon and the Democratic candidate will be Stevenson. This means that Dewey, in spite of his machine, will not be able to put Rockefeller across, and that when the cards are down it will be decided that Stevenson, having waged two unsuccessful campaigns, is entitled to another opportunity to become President.

Of course a thousand things can and will happen between now and the political conventions of 1960. These may be of a character which will eliminate all of those listed, but that is for the future.

Overnight First Class Mail Delivery Promised in Detroit Metropolitan Area

Sweeping service improvements aimed at providing next day first class letter service for more than four million people throughout the 7,000 square mile Detroit Metropolitan Area, embracing nine Michigan counties, were announced today by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield in a press conference.

Postal patrons in the area were advised that the service improvement program was started Oct. 20.

After a short shake down period, postal patrons of the Detroit Metropolitan Area will be guaranteed that, barring occasional human errors, letter mail deposited before 5 p.m. on a weekday would be delivered to their destinations within the area on the first delivery trips of the following weekday.

In addition to Detroit City, the Detroit Metropolitan Area includes the following nine counties: Genesee, Lapeer, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw, and Wayne.

The "Thumb" area, which will also receive substantial service improvements includes the three counties of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola—plus the Saginaw-Bay City-Midland Area. Lansing, with its state mail, also is being tied into the improved mailing program.

The improvements in the Detroit Metropolitan Area's first class letter mail service pattern are the result of intensive study and planning. Personnel, headed by Robert R. Justus, Operational Director of the Chicago Postal Region, and Detroit Area postal officials, have worked as a team to develop a comprehensive service program and put it into effect, Summerfield reported.

Next day delivery of most of the first class mail in the Detroit Metropolitan Area is now possible because of a closely integrated timetable which governs the work of the Area's postal units and the transportation linking them together. Hard-working postal employees race against time throughout the night in order to make possible next day delivery of hundreds of thousands of letters to people in the Detroit Metropolitan Area, Summerfield said.

Within the nine counties of the Detroit Metropolitan Area are 156 post offices of various types and sizes. The total pieces of letter mail handled on an average day between the post offices in the Detroit Metropolitan Area approximates 14 million.

The revised service pattern hinges primarily upon the establishment of special mail exchanges between Detroit, Royal Oak, and East Detroit, and the setting up of a mail "concentration center" at each of these three post offices which assures the exchange of mail for the entire area by passing the over-loaded Detroit Post Office.

A second basic element in the revised service is the designation of area "sectional center" post offices at Port Huron, Flint, Pontiac, Ann Arbor, and Monroe which assures mail being processed close to origin, held to the shortest line of travel to addressees, and by-passing congested large centers. Daily dispatches of mail between county seats and all post offices in each county are assured.

The improvement of mail transportation services in the Detroit Metropolitan Area has required changes in practically every highway mail transportation route in the area, to give each office a mail dispatch after 5 p.m. and a receipt in time for morning delivery. Thirty-three highway mail route changes were made on Oct. 20.

A new highway post office route has been established between Saginaw and Toledo in order to provide good mail exchanges between the offices along the west side of the metropolitan area—namely, Saginaw, Flint, Ann Arbor and Toledo and an ideal outlet for mail going beyond this area. The Highway Post Office service between Saginaw and Detroit has been rescheduled and some of its route changed. This provides all post offices in this area and particularly in the "Thumb" with overnight mail exchanges throughout the metropolitan area and particularly with Detroit.

Hours of duty have been increased in many post offices and later mail collections established in order to guarantee that letters posted by 5 p.m. would be delivered the next day.

Some typical service improvements include the offices of Clifton, North Branch and Lum in Lapeer county. Those post offices are on a direct highway route to Detroit. Before the service improvements of Oct. 20, they could not send mail to Detroit or to the Metropolitan area south of Inlay City in time for next day delivery. Now their mail will be delivered overnight throughout the area.

The offices of New Baltimore, New Haven and Richmond in Macomb county will have a new evening highway service which will provide a dispatch for all of the day's letter mail. Prior service did not give these offices a late dispatch, so considerable mail failed to make next day delivery in the area.

In Monroe county, most post offices had no overnight exchange with Detroit or the Metropolitan area. These service improvements will give all of Monroe county overnight service to the Metropolitan area, while maintaining present service channels with Toledo.

The Detroit Post Office will be completely relieved of much transit mail processing, allowing an earlier dispatch of letters mailed in the city. The changed mail transportation pattern in the area will guarantee that all letters mailed in Detroit during the evening will be delivered by the next morning's first mail at any post office in the Metropolitan area.

LITTERBUGS TAUGHT LESSON

Ogden, Utah—Highway Patrolman Arthur Spendlove decided against issuing a ticket when he saw a beer can sail from the window of a passing car.

Instead, he ordered the four adults inside to clear-refuse from a 2-mile section of the highway. It said they drove off with the floorboards covered with bottles and cans.

The litterbugs were lucky, at that. Utah's anti-littering law classified the offense as a misdemeanor subject to a fine of up to $200.

License Application Must Be Prepared By Each Auto Owner

Last year the Michigan Department of State mailed out three million license plate applications to all persons on record as having automobiles registered in Michigan. These applications contained the name, address, car type and other information required to obtain new license plates.

This year, due to sharp budget cuts made by the legislature in an attempt to bring governmental costs down toward anticipated state income, this long-established service will not be offered.

Each person applying for 1959 plates must fill out his own license application.

Michigan Department of State officials stress that these applications must be printed in black ink or typewritten on black ribbon. By following this request, car owners can help the state save money and do a more efficient job. Moreover, each license will be neater and easier to read, and the efficient automated processing machines used by the Department of State will operate with fewer errors and at a higher work capacity per machine.

Application blanks are available in all branch offices of the Secretary of State.

Retain Lamb Sale Records for Wool Payments

Producers who are marketing lambs this fall should obtain and save adequate records of their sales in order that they can make proper application for payment under the wool incentive program.

Max M. Kalmbach, chairman, Washtenaw County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today. Sales records of lamb producers selling lambs this fall must include the name of the buyer, his address, and the number of live weight lambs sold, with the description "unshorn" showing. Payments are made only on lambs that have never been shorn.

Kalmbach says, "Get these fall sales records together now and keep them at home in a safe place until the time with the county ASC office. The final date to apply for payments on 1958-59 marketing is April 30, 1959. Producers may submit payment applications to our county ASC office anytime between now and then."

The chairman warned again that lamb feeders, particularly, should keep accurate records of the length of time they have owned a specific lot of lambs. Lamb payments are made only to producers who have owned lambs 30 days. These factors are important because under the Wool Act payment is based on the weight gain of the lambs during ownership of the seller.

Recent figures show that payment on 1957-58 unshorn lambs in Washtenaw county came to $2,722.84. Shorn wool payments amounted to $13,101.81. National figures as of Sept. 30 showed wool sales of $18 million and lamb payments of more than $3 million.

Disabled Veterans Entitled To Receive Special Parking Sticker

More than 2,500 special parking stickers have been issued to honorably discharged veterans with service connected disabilities.

Under the law the Michigan Secretary of State is authorized to issue to veterans who "possess material incapacity for ambulation" specially numbered certificates for the personal use of the handicapped person.

This sticker permits special parking privileges in Michigan with such exceptions as not allowing parking in fire lanes or on main thoroughfares where there is heavy traffic and afternoon traffic.

In 1957 this veterans' law was amended to accommodate non-veterans who were incapacitated for ambulation.

According to James M. Hare, quartermaster and others may write to the Special License Section of the Michigan Department of State for information and application forms. "However, misuse of this privilege by persons other than those to whom the sticker is issued is a misdemeanor," Hare warned.

Detroit Trucking Firm Executive Named To Head National Group

Miami Beach, Fla.—J. Robert Cooper of Detroit, has been elected to the national presidency of the American Trucking Association.

The choice of Cooper as head of the national association of the trucking industry was made here in the closing sessions of the ATA's 25th annual convention at the Hotel Fontainebleau.

The silver-anniversary convention of the American Trucking Association's national spokesman came in conjunction with his own 25th anniversary year in the trucking business.

The accolade which came with the unanimous election of Cooper was, he said, "a far cry from the first order I ever got on the first day I joined the industry." That order, he said, was "You'd better get yourself a pair of overalls."

Cooper is president of the Red Star Transit Co., Inc., a regular route common carrier of Detroit, which he joined, with overalls, in 1933. He was employed as a terminal manager in Canton, Ohio, then a job which required massive activities as a dock worker, clerk, dispatcher, truck driver and a freight solicitor, he said.

The wide range of his duties as the terminal manager and the effectiveness with which he performed them, boosted him to the vice-presidency of the Red Star Transit Co. in only seven years. Fifteen years later, he was president of the company.

The rise of Cooper and the firm for which he worked came together from the 1930s beginning, when the company had 85 truck units and their Canton terminal manager had only two pairs of overalls. The Red Star Transit Co. has grown into one of America's largest, with 700 units of equipment. Cooper has been elected to the position of spokesman for the far-flung American trucking industry.

He was born in Clifton, N. J., in 1902, one of 13 children of Holland-born Garret and Gertrude Cooper, who had come to America before the turn of the century. He was educated in New Jersey, and has always been active in church work as a deacon, Sunday-school superintendent, choir singer and leader, and as president of the Christian Endeavor Society. He now attends Bushnell Congregational Church in Lathrup Village, a Detroit suburb, where he makes his home, at 17016 Avilla Blvd.

Ann Arbor—"Good venison should be just as sweet and tasty as good beef," says Warren Cooper, chairman of the University of Michigan Department of Wildlife Management.

"Gamey flavor is often a result of poor handling of the meat in the field, and often later," he says. "It is almost inevitable that a hunter, after purchasing license, supplies and equipment, would neglect the necessary means to bring the game home from the field in proper condition."

He warns, "Make sure the animal is really dead. Many a deer has risen up at the center of the knife, not so dead as you thought he was. Best place for sticking is at the base of the neck where it joins the chest. Insert the knife four or five inches. Make sure that the arteries near the heart and lower neck are cut so the blood can drain out easily."

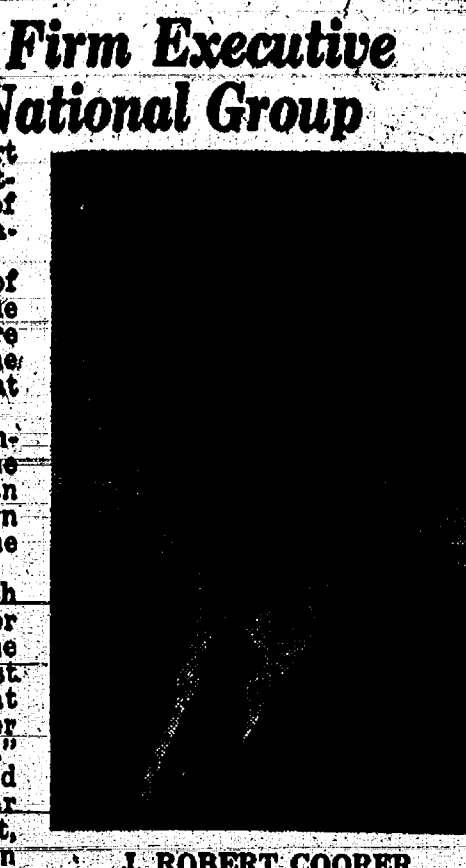

"After the flow has stopped, place the animal head down and work the rear legs back and forth. This results in a more complete drainage. Then the body cavity should be opened and the entrails removed. Great care should be taken that the meat is not contaminated by material from ruptured parts," he advises.

"Allow the carcass to cool as rapidly as possible and transport it to a meat packing plant or locker plant within a few hours unless the air temperature is low enough to allow it to hang at the camp. If the temperature is about 40 degrees, the animal should be taken to a locker plant as soon as possible.

"The curing process is very important in insuring that venison will be as fresh and tender as possible. The average hunter is not a butcher and should have the services of a trained meat packer and his equipment. Any good meat packer or butcher will hang the animal, after it has been skinned, for a period of about a week at about 30 degrees.

"Most processors will cut, package and quick-freeze the meat in the size packages you want. The general cost of processing is about $12 per animal. The average size animal should give about 50 to 70 pounds of meat. With proper care, the venison should be as good as the highest quality beef."

Most poor venison comes from animals that are in poor condition or is the result of poor handling, he explains. "The deer that are killed are generally under four years of age so the age of the animal has little to do with toughness or poor taste," he says.

"Good cooking is important in making venison appetizing. It should be as good as the best prime beef from the butcher. The characteristic flavor seems to be in the fat and trimming away excess fat about the neck and shoulders is important.

"Standard methods of meat cooking for beef and lamb work best for venison. Unless you are using up the tougher portions in stew, venison should never be more than medium rare. Over-cooking venison makes it tough. This doesn't mean that the center of the chops or steak should be red, but it should be pink and juicy."

INCOMPLETE SALE
Holly, Mich.—Farmer Peter Bover sold six of his seven goats when he found them nibbling on the electrical wiring in the barn. Then a fire destroyed the barn and its contents. Damages were estimated at $8,000.

Bover surmised the seventh goat probably started the blaze by chewing on the wires. The goat died in the fire.

CAB'S RECOMMENDATION
The Civil Aeronautics Board says air traffic control regulations must be extended up to 35,000 feet and encompass additional American routes. At present, such control applies only to certain transcontinental routes between 17,000 and 22,000 feet.

The CAB's recommendation was contained in a report on the collision of a commercial airliner and a military plane April 21 near Las Vegas, Nev. Forty-nine persons were killed.

Cody, Wyo.—The horse is losing out in its last domain—pack trips into the wilderness.

The Wyoming Game and Fish Department wanted to move a warden patrol station from an area west of Meeteetse to a new site high in the hills on Jack Creek. The department estimated it would take 100 pack horses four days to move its store and other equipment.

A helicopter made 27 aerial sweeps and moved it in one day.

Betty Leggett, Larry DeJonghe Exchange Vows

The marriage of Betty Leggett and Larry DeJonghe was solemnized at 11 a.m. Saturday in St. Elizabeth Catholic church at Tecumseh. The Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Collins officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the presence of 100 guests.

Mrs. Ben Hammack of Tecumseh, was the soloist. She sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Leggett of 1210 Kernwood Drive, Chelsea, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris DeJonghe of Ridgeway.

Chantilly lace and nylon net was used to fashion the bride's floor-length gown. The fitted, long-sleeved bodice with its sheer neckline, and the upper portion of the bouffant skirt was of the lace. At the back the lace extended in tapered outline over the tiered ruffles of pleated net which formed the skirt. Her chapel-length veil was held in place with a white crown of lace and sequins. Her ensemble was completed with a single strand pearl necklace and her bouquet of white roses and snow pompons.

Mrs. Lyle DeJonghe of Britton, a sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, wearing for the occasion a royal blue chiffon street-length dress. Her accessories included a white band headpiece with a tiny veil and her bouquet of yellow carnations and yellow mums.

Mrs. Carolyn Witt of St. Johns, a sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaid for the ceremony. She wore a pink chiffon dress with white headpieces and veils and carried bouquets of blue tined carnations and mums.

Assisting the bridegroom as best man was Lyle DeJonghe of Britton, and Leverett and Leroy DeJonghe of Ridgeway. All are brothers of the bridegroom.

For the wedding, the bride's mother wore a navy blue two-piece costume with pink accessories, while the bridegroom's mother wore an aqua colored sheath dress with black and white accessories.

At the reception, held in the church hall following the ceremony, Mrs. Alva Waldeich of Lansing, and Mrs. E. Upell of Liberty Center, O., cut the wedding cake.

Mrs. Ned Bennett of Lansing, poured coffee; Janice Waldeich, also of Lansing, served ice cream; Eloise Upell of Liberty Center, O., poured punch; and Linda DeJonghe was in charge of the guest book.

When they return from a week's stay in northern Michigan, the couple will be at home at 111 West Middle street. For going away the bride wore a black wool suit with red accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Chelsea High school and is employed as a receptionist in the office of Chelsea Products.

The bridegroom, who is a graduate of Tecumseh High school, is in business with his father.

Short skirts tend to make women taller, since more of the leg area shows. The short woman can use this to advantage, point out home economists. The tall woman might find a modified version of the short skirt more becoming to her.

If your child plays hard or watches an exciting program on television just before bedtime, he may have trouble settling down to sleep, point out extension specialists in parent education and child development. A quiet, before-bedtime activity like a story can do a lot for getting children "in the mood" for sleeping.

Extension Folders Give Tips on Weight Control

Have you got those "waistline blues" when it comes to holiday dinners? Does the sight of steaming turkey only remind you of the bathroom scales?

Well, extension specialists in home economics at Michigan State University can't help you resist turkey and trimmings on festive occasions. But they can remind you of two handy leaflets that will help for the week after.

These are "Live Lean and Like It" (Extension Folder R-208) and "Counting Calories" (Extension Folder R-113).

In "Live Lean and Like It" Dr. Margaret A. Ohlson reminds that controlling body weight is the most common headache that the healthy adult faces.

The fact of "misery is company" is no help, however. She also reminds that, in our present society, adult underweights are rare and extra pounds place a strain on the heart, arteries and knee joints. The real problem in weight control, she says, is to decide how much extra fat has been stored away.

"Counting Calories" adds to this information with a calory list for most foods within the five basic nutrition groups. The leaflet also contains a chart showing daily caloric needs of various persons and includes low and high calory menus for the family.

Both publications are available from the Bulletin office, Department of Information Services, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

LeRoy Hellers Honored Sunday On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Heller observed their 25th wedding anniversary at a reception held at their home on Waters road Sunday afternoon with approximately 60 guests present. The observance was arranged by their son, Robert.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Arthur Wacker of Manchester and Miss Della Schiller, sisters of Mrs. Heller, who cut the anniversary cake, while Mrs. Leon Eschelbach of Ann Arbor, another sister of Mrs. Heller, and Mrs. Lawrence Koch, sister of Mr. Heller, poured.

The table from which the refreshments were served was centered with a bouquet of pink roses, an anniversary gift to Mrs. Heller from her husband.

The anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Edward Visel, also featured pink roses, together with silver leaves and a heart-shaped "25" in silver on the white icing.

Mrs. Heller is the former Clara Schiller, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schiller. She and Mr. Heller were married at the Schiller homestead on Fletcher road, Nov. 28, 1933, and have lived at their present home since that time.

Mr. Heller's brother, Carl, and Mrs. Heller's sister, Miss Della Schiller, were their attendants. Both were present for Sunday's reception.

One of Mrs. Heller's sisters, Mrs. Arthur Wacker and her husband of Manchester, were observing their 50th wedding anniversary on the same day as the Hellers' 25th anniversary.

Christmas Fantasy Show Opens in Ford Rotunda

The annual Ford Rotunda Christmas Fantasy, one of the most popular yuletide shows in America, opened a 25-day "run" Saturday morning.

Scores of new exhibits, including a 15,000-piece miniature circus and animated characters from fiction and folklore, will be on display to entrance young and old alike.

A 40-foot Christmas tree with 18,000 lights will dominate the Rotunda front entrance, and Santa Claus will be enthroned in his hill-top castle to hear the wishes of youngsters.

As in the past, the Rotunda center court will be occupied entirely by a huge Nativity scene, with life-size figures of the Holy Family and the three Wise Men. Rotunda hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Sunday. The Christmas Fantasy will close at 3 p.m. Christmas Eve.

The Fantasy last year attracted 735,296 visitors, between Nov. 30 and Dec. 24.

NEW CAR TITLES INCREASE
New car title certificates issued by the Michigan Department of State increased sharply from less than 4,000 per week in early October to more than 6,000 per week at the close of the month.

MEMBERS OF THE CHOIR of Sharon Evangelical United Brethren church at Rowe Corners were dressed in their new choir robes for a celebration known as "Lighting of the Advent Wreath," held at the church at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

The choir sang advent carols from many lands as an introduction to the Christmas season. Members of the choir, appearing in the above photograph are, back row, from left—Earl Huehl, Richard Knouase, Clyde Gleake, Lynn Voegeding and Clarence Voegeding; middle row—Mrs. Chester Turner, Mrs. Vernon Dresselhouse, Mrs. Lynn Voegeding, Mrs. Willis Uphaus, Mrs. Wilber Maurer and Mrs. Clyde Teske; and front row—Mrs. Richard Knouase, Mrs. Robert Pratt and Mrs. Harold Steinway. Pastor of the church is the Rev. C. R. Turner.

Sharon EUB Church Begins Holiday Season by Lighting Advent Wreath

"Lighting of the Advent Wreath," a ceremony which originated in the Old World churches of Europe, is now increasingly becoming a part of the observance of Advent, the four weeks preceding Christmas, in churches throughout the United States. One of several churches in this area which observed the custom is the Sharon Evangelical United Brethren church at Rowe Corners, of which the Rev. C. R. Turner is pastor.

Advent actually begins the church year but did not become a part of the church calendar until the Festival of Christmas itself had been established, late in the fourth century. Its present form of starting the fourth Sunday before Christmas dates back to the seventh century, according to the explanation given at the impressive service of the Advent Wreath lighting.

The advent wreath, hung above the altar at the Rowe Corners church, had the first of its four candles lighted last Sunday. Each succeeding Sunday until Christmas an additional one (each a different color) will be lighted. The final candle, pure white, is symbolic of the Christ.

For Sunday's service the choir members wore their new robes and sang advent carols of many lands.

It was voted to send $5.00 to the VFW National Home Christmas fund.

Deer Rescue

turned to the scene the shore was lined with spectators and four other conservation officers had responded.

The deer was finally hauled to shore by Boyer and Guzikowski, used Boyer's aluminum boat as a "scooter" on the ice, propelling it by placing one foot in the boat and using the other for "foot power."

Crossing the animal's front legs and fastening them to his head, they chained his hind legs together and placed him in the boat just as the ice began to crackle and pop ominously. Before reaching shore the deer's struggles had loosened the chain but the men fastened it again and then carried him into a field between Cavanaugh and Crooked lakes and freed him. He had hurt his front leg but was able to make off by himself.

About an hour later a call was received that a deer with a bad front leg was floundering on the ice at Crooked Lake and it was thought to be the same animal. Investigation, however, proved it to be a different one. Left alone it managed to cross the ice safely.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cox of Ponton, spent Thanksgiving Day here as guests of Miss Nina Bels Wurster and her aunt Miss Nina Crowell.

Now Do You Understand?

It's time again to do your homework on Public Law 199 so you can get those Christmas packages in the mail.

Since no ordinary mortal—who is neither a traffic manager nor a postal official—can remember the ins and outs of mailing a Christmas package to Aunt Mary, our duty to our readers and our sympathy for the long-suffering souls in the post office demand that we try to point out the pitfalls of that confusing parcel post law.

If Aunt Mary lives on a rural or star route, or in a town with a second, third or fourth class post office, or if you intend to mail the package from a rural or star route or in a second, third or fourth class post office, you are in luck. You can then send her a package weighing up to 70 pounds, so long as the girth plus length is no more than 100 inches. But, if your bundle weighs more than 40 pounds, or the combined length and girth is more than 72 inches, and you and Aunt Mary are both served by first class post offices, you'd better drive to a smaller town to mail it. Or, if Aunt Mary lives more than two postal zones away (more than 150 miles), your package must not weigh more than 20 pounds if it is to be mailed. If it weighs more, you'll have to deliver it yourself, hire a truckman, see if you can persuade the Railway Express people to take an interest in the problem, divide your Christmas gift offering into two parcels each weighing 20 pounds or less—or forget the whole thing.

Still, that's not quite right either. If your gift package includes "baby fowl, live plants, trees, shrubs or agricultural commodities," or consists of books, it can weigh up to 70 pounds, measure up to 100 inches in length and girth, no matter whether either of you lives.

There! Now that this is all clear, you can go back to your wrapping. But when you write your Christmas card to your Congressman you might also tell him you'd like to have him cut out this Public Law 199 foolishness when he goes back to Washington next year.

If men behaved after marriage as they do during their engagements there wouldn't be half as many divorces—but there would be twice as many bankruptcies.

Annual Surprise

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Special session jitters have attacked the Michigan politicians who fear chaos in 1960.

With the House evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats, 65 to 65, groups with immediate problems are predicting a squabble that will last until spring. They worry that a continued instability will prevent constructive legislation which can solve their problems.

Technically, the legislature for 1959 will convene at 12 noon Jan. 14.

If tradition holds, most of the controversial and important decisions—the budget, taxes and major policy matters—will be passed until the jam-up in the dying days of the session.

Agencies and special interest groups are afraid that their causes will be lost in the bickering of the early parts of the session and disregarded in the log-jam at the end.

There are problems that need immediate action, some of them urgent.

Probate judges want something done quickly about the juveniles in trouble because of mental illnesses and who cannot receive treatment because state institutions are overcrowded.

Schoolmen are worried that the education provided by financially distressed local schools will fall far below minimum standards. They want money problems settled now.

There is pressure to get started early on a program to obtain new sources of revenue, possibly a state income tax.

With the state heading for a deficit estimated up to $100,000,000 and state agencies running in to new pools of red ink every day, it is understandable that the worried ones want early action.

The most recent request for a special session in December came from Rep. James Goulette (R-Ironwood), who was defeated and will not be back for the regular session starting Jan. 14.

He wants the $5,000 pay of legislators raised to $7,500.

Gov. Williams has informally rejected all attempts to get the legislature back before 1959.

Most of the items suggested were before the 1958 legislature.

and he can see little point in a repeat performance in which the same men who failed to get in three or four months will be asked to settle everything in three or four days.

Then, too, a special session would bring back the Republican majority in the House; the 1959 session will give him a better chance to get the Democratic version of the solutions.

Another factor is that at least 16 members of the 1958 legislature will not be in the same status in the 1959 session begins. Six Republican House members will not be back in 1959, five Senators will have retired or moved to other arenas.

One question in Williams' political future is already settled.

The governor, whose vote was third in the Democratic races this year, was considered an even-money bet to try for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Patrick V. McNamara in 1960.

It was assumed by observers that his relatively poor showing would hurt his chances for the presidential nomination.

But Williams announced he would support McNamara in the 1960 primary. This leaves the same observers guessing what he does plan. When they recall the background picture, they can find no real indication what the governor has in his mind.

McNamara was almost an interloper in 1952 when he entered the primary against Blair Moody, the choice of Williams, for the Senate seat then held by Homer E. Ferguson.

Williams had appointed Moody, a Detroit newspaperman, to the seat in the Senate vacated by the death of Senator Arthur E. Vandenberg. Moody was later defeated by Republican Charles E. Potter.

This was to be the comeback of Moody with Williams' blessing and vote-getting power.

Here's a sewing tip from clothing specialists. Pockets on adult garments should be placed near the wrist when the arm is slightly bent. A slightly higher position is better for children.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where they had to turn out a country school in Georgia last week on account of some feller had stole the kids.

Science has put out a heap of fancy gadgets for heating a house but America was raised up on the pot-bellied stove and when a feller steals the one that is keeping the kids warm in a country school he has committed a crime that is equal to burning the American flag or spitting in the President's eye.

A feller that would do a trick like that ain't above starting a fire with the original copy of the Declaration of Independence.

There ain't never been nothing invented that beats a pot-bellied stove for warming cold hands and drying wet feet. All along the road in American history they is more hardy builders of this nation that has thawed themselves out at a pot-bellied stove than has sung the Star Spangled Banner.

More history has been made in the circle of men around a pot-bellied stove than has been made around them fancy heating contraptions in Congress. And they might be a few folks left in this nation like me who can't get warm from something they call a heater.

When the final history of this country is wrote I think they ought to have a chapter on the pot-bellied stove. And in it they ought to have a picture of this feller that stole one from a country school—alongside a picture of a pot-bellied stove.

I was mighty upset too, Mister Editor, about them Federal agents in Washington pumping out a man's stomach looking for drug capsules. It seems to me that this is not only trial by ordeal but was also a invasion of a man's privacy. A man's stomach is about as private as he can get. And the Constitution don't allow nothing like this. It shows the trend things is taking in this country.

More and more folks is losing their personal freedom on account of ever Congress and ever legislature passing more and more laws. It won't be long till officers will be going around carrying a pistol, a blackjack, and a stomach pump.

Our laws is getting too many and too complicated. I was reading in the papers not long ago where the U. S. Supreme Court voted 5 to 4 on 84 cases in the last five years. If a fellow on the Supreme Court don't know what the law is in 84 cases, how are us common folks going to know what it is in the 8,444 cases we run into every day?

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

★ Why Should I?

Jack Kellogg has had a long career in advertising, and for a while it was his assignment to compose the letters that publishers send out to sell books by mail.

He tells me that he learned in advertising classes that a resultful sales letter or an advertisement is an organic unit of appeal, built to create and hold interest from the first to the last. There should be no breaks in the thought content of the letter, nothing to detract attention from the message being delivered.

The hardest lesson he ever learned, says Kellogg, came as the result of a failure. A letter had been sent out, and it brought practically no results. The office sent Jack out to find out what was wrong with the letter, and this is the story he tells about his experience:

The first customer was a stolid Swede.

"Why didn't you answer that letter we sent you last week?" I asked.

"Why should I?" he replied. When I got back to the office and read that letter again, I saw the point. There was no reason why anybody should have answered it. There was no inducement. From that day to this, no sales or collection letter has ever passed my desk without being given the test of that acid phrase: "Why should I?"

"Why should a man buy my product? What reason is there why he should pass up all other similar products and buy my product?" This question must be considered by every human being who has a product to sell or a service to render. It would seem that nearly every one of us is dealing in some phase of salesmanship in connection with his very existence.

I certainly agree with Kellogg that any decision we make is based on one or more reasons that seem adequate to us at the time. There are of course various kinds of reasons. A high school girl may buy a sundae because she is hungry and needs food. Or she may buy it because she is lonely and needs something to sip. Or she may decide not to buy it for fear it will make her fat. Or she might refrain from buying it because she is saving her money to send a CARE package to a pen pal in Europe.

Whether her reason is selfish or generous, temporary or long-range, she answers the question: "Why should I?"

About 1000 A.D., the Chinese made their coins in the shape of the things they wanted to buy.

Editor
Chelsea Standard
Chelsea, Michigan

Dear Sir:
After reading "The Letter Box" in the November 13th edition of The Standard I feel that I would like to express my moral responsibility to a community and to a school system, by not commenting on several statements contained therein. After having spent five very gratifying years in a community, I realize that one cannot speak with complete objectivity, but to borrow a phrase from Chelsea's kids greatest ally, I would like to take this opportunity to "stand and be counted."

Since the advent of Sputnik, many "educational authorities" have appeared as saviors to lead American school systems out of the wilderness of "basket-weaving" and "life-adjustment" to the milk and honey of faster guided missiles and bigger atomic bombs. Highly representative of this philosophy are individuals such as Professor Bester of the University of Illinois and Admiral Rickover, controversial developer of the atomic submarine.

However, in our anxiety to produce more and better scientists and mathematicians let us not overlook one of the basic precepts of American education. This is the responsibility of educating each individual to the ultimate capacity of his native ability and to give him the opportunity to develop his talents. This again does not mean the educational opportunity of developing scientifically talented students, but should also make us aware that education in America (and Chelsea) is not only for the "chosen few" with scientific and mathematical aptitudes. If we look back into the patterns of the rise and decay of all our preceding civilizations we are inevitably forced to concede that the eventual destruction of each society was not due to the lack of scientifically skilled technicians, but instead due to the lack of basic human understanding in the skills of the Social Sciences and the Humanities.

It is very tempting to look at the European educational systems and marvel at the highly intensive course offerings at the high school level. Before we accept this program as a panacea for all our educational ills however, it might be of interest to note that of every 100 French children who start first grade, less than 80 finish high school. England's percentage is only slightly higher. To pattern after Russia would include among other things, an educational officer assigning your child a course of study and, in turn, a life occupation on the basis of standardized intelligence and aptitude tests, regardless of the child's or parent's desires.

As a currently participating member of the North Central Association Study Group for Advanced Pupil Placement, this writer has no quarrel with advocates of higher standards of education. However, it is that we need the highest standards possible, relative to each individual student's capacity, not a fixed standard for all, whether intellectually capable or not.

An aspect that we sometimes forget is that for the currently revered superior 3 per cent of our students, we also have in our communities a mentally retarded group of the same number and an overwhelming majority of dull, average, and bright children. To all of these children we are certainly morally, if not legally, obligated to educate them to the limit of their capacities.

It has been said that governments and schools will efficiently function, directly in proportion to the people's interest in these institutions. I earnestly feel that honest and constructive criticism of school problems will be well received, if not welcomed, by school officials of the caliber that Chelsea has been fortunate to retain. Nevertheless, let's be intellectually honest and give sincere and informed assistance rather than push the educational "panic button" in the Chelsea school system.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 32 was quickly identified by many people as the Darwin Downer place on Chelsea-Dexter road, just outside the Chelsea village limits. The farm has been in the Downer family for 126 years of continuous operation by five successive generations, believed to be a record for the Chelsea area and probably for Washtenaw county.

Darwin Downer Farm Has Been Owned by Family for Five Generations Since 1832

The Darwin Downer farm on Chelsea-Dexter road, just east of Chelsea, was identified as "Mystery Farm No. 32" in the present series of farm photographs being published in The Standard.

It is believed to be the only farm, not only in this immediate vicinity but in all of Washtenaw county, that has been owned and operated continuously by five generations of the same family.

Original owner of the present farm and additional land in the area was George Huxford who secured the property from the U. S. Government Jan. 1, 1832. The present owner's great-grandfather, Joshua Downer of Manchester, N. Y., became the owner in 1832 and since then it has continued in the family until the present time.

The big, square cement block house was built about 45 years ago after the former residence was destroyed by fire. Darwin Downer and his father, the late Charles J. Downer, were born in the house that later burned down and was the second house built on the place. The first home on the farm was probably a log house such as most settlers built when they "took up land" from the government.

Joshua Downer, who bought the farm in 1832, had four sons, Elkanah P. Darwin, DeWitt and James, Elkanah and Darwin remained on the farm but, in 1848, James and DeWitt took off for California in the wake of the "gold rush."

Successive generations of the family who lived on the farm began with the original Joshua Downer, were his sons, Elkanah and Darwin, his grandsons, Charles E. and Duane Downer, both of whom now live on the farm and the three Downer daughters, Mrs. Paul Boyce (Marion) of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Earl Taylor (Doris) of Ypsilanti who teaches in Ann Arbor; and Mrs. Tom Merkel (Jane) who lives on US-12. The Merkels' six children are the sixth generation of the family.

Darwin Downer remembers hearing his grandfather tell about the trip when the family came to the new homestead from New York state in 1832. Going first from Manchester, N. Y. to Buffalo, they boarded a boat there for the trip across Lake Erie and down the Detroit river to Detroit. From there they made the trip here with a team of oxen.

Washington—The Cleveland Indians are taking a big gamble on Billy Martin, just as the Detroit Tigers did a year ago, and the guess here is that Trader Frank Lane slipped up when he let both Ray Narleski and Don Moss go for only Martin and some second line players.

The Tigers have a great second baseman in Frank Bolling. The Indians needed to plug the gap at second badly. And it's true the Indians have "Mud" Grant, a re-covered Harb Score and tough Cal McElath for pitching. But can you give up a Moss and a Narleski, who could be the difference in twenty games, for any infielder?

That one will be answered in 1959, but from the way it looks here the Tigers and General Manager McElath got the better of the swap. For years the Bengals have needed one reliever. Not a power team, the Tigers nevertheless have fine young pitching. Larry Hunsinger, Footack and sometimes Hoelt, but these fellows need a helping hand along about inning seven, eight or nine quite often.

They haven't been getting it. With Moss and Narleski the Tigers will have a much sounder pitching staff, a very tough gang of throwers, in fact. Detroit lost a gamble this year when they counted on Jim Hegan to come through behind the plate. The Indians got the best of the transaction that brought Hegan to Detroit last season. But this time they probably got the short end.

Detroit gave up Frank House, Duke Madison and the Yankees, and other players to land Gus Zernial, Martin and others last year. Big Gus did a fine pinch hitting job for the Tigers and gave them some bench, but Martin, while performing creditably, didn't do big things for the Tigers.

Yet when they were right, the Tigers could whip anyone in the league. They were the only club to edge New York, and took the Yankees seven straight in one stretch, shutting them out twice in New York in one sizzling double bill. But the stickability the Bengals did not have.

Cleveland is coming on, with Joe Gordon at the helm and Lane at the controls. It may be that the Indians have plenty of pitching or that Moss and Narleski have passed their peaks. But unless they have, Trader Lane paid too highly for Billy.

Dec. 5—Bulldogs play at Saline.
Dec. 13—Lincoln plays here.
Dec. 1—Chorus dance.

Mrs. Wanda Finch was guest speaker at the last meeting of the Future Teachers of America Club. She talked about many of her experiences which have occurred during this, her first year of teaching. One of her most surprising experiences is teaching speech, a college minor which was taken more with the idea of bettering herself than of teaching others. She also spoke a little about the college she attended, Central Michigan College. Following this, she encouraged a question and answer period. The club thoroughly enjoyed her.

Roger Herman, George Wilson, Charles Koenigter, Delores Scripter, and Elaine Walker took over Miss Fox's government and history classes on Nov. 20, and each discussed his experience.

The club wishes to visit a neighboring college in January, but hasn't decided which one.

Future Homemakers of America are discussing a money-making project to help send girls to State FFA convention this spring. Also they are considering a coat-check for dances. Girls are working on their merit points.

Band members are working very hard on their upcoming band folios, in which the band will play a few selections; and there are to be 21 acts of singing, dancing, and solos, including Byron Pearson Ray, Miller, The Sky-larks, and the Kitcher Band.

All band members are receiving and practicing solos this week to be played at the annual contest in Ypsilanti. Last year only two people received first ratings; this year Mr. Grove is hoping for many more.

Songs are being practiced for the Christmas concert on Dec. 16. The band and chorus are combining in a beautiful arrangement of "Winter Wonderland." The band is traveling to Dexter on Dec. 7 to participate in a mass band concert with the Dexter and Manchester Bands. Each group will have two events, a love and sports, but emphasizes tennis, volleyball, and swimming.

The Varsity club has set up committees to sell programs during the basketball season and to form a swimming team at the Y in Ann Arbor. The club also agreed to surrender its date of Dec. 13 when they had planned to have a dance at the school, as the chorus was already deep in plans for the annual mid-winter formal, but had neglected to have their plans approved by the Student Council.

Athletic Board has appointed some of its members to watch all of the entrances to the gym during the basketball season. A committee of Jane McLaughlin and Mike Stager was appointed to investigate paying for Richard Wood's glasses broken during the football season.

The French club will meet at Charlotte Harris' house on Dec. 15. The refreshment committee is chairman Darlene Moyers, Charlotte Harris, Carolyn Miller, and Sharon Allen. The entertainment includes Sue Eisenbeiser (chairman), Mary Ann Sorensen, Ellen Fisher, and Kathy Gordon. A French club dance will be given April 4. A general committee was set up to get other committees for refreshments, decorations, etc. This committee includes Ruth Prentice, chairman, Carolyn Miller, Mary Ann Sorensen, Sandy Abel.

Future Homemakers of America will go Christmas caroling with the GAA on Dec. 10. They hope to help with a community service project soon.

The "birdies" are flying high in the high school girls' physical education class this week. A movie was shown, and rules were explained about the game of badminton, which was undertaken after three weeks of square dancing. The girls took turns calling the square dances during the last week.

The boys are now learning the fine points of playing volleyball, coached by Mr. Conklin. They are also planning and staging a tournament, with high (ex?) grades promised to the winners. Squad one is at present in the lead.

The Elementary Libraries are being helped by Chelsea mothers Mrs. Schumm, Mrs. Sharard, and Mrs. Mitchell Picklesimer, who have recently donated three half-days of service each in such labor as dusting shelves, arranging books in order, minor mending, etc. This course makes the library much more useful as the material is easier to find. The ladies are to be commended for their interest in the project.

Miss Joanna Weiss has for five years been Chelsea school librarian. She was assigned the task of establishing the North Elementary School library, and building up and maintaining the libraries in the South Elementary and High Schools. Now she is working on a library for the Junior High School when the upper grades move to the new building.

Miss Weiss has a Master's Degree from the University of Michigan, she belongs to Alpha-Delta Pi. She worked in University of Michigan library, and also worked with Henry Ford Jr. as librarian for an industrial research project. She graduated from Ann Arbor High School at the age of fifteen, where she was interested in athletics winning awards in tennis, basketball, and volleyball, and sports, but emphasizes tennis, volleyball, and swimming.

Miss Weiss believes "Youth will read in competition with other activities only if reading fills some basic need—whether for information, for enjoyment, for escape, or for answers to deep-laid anxieties." She also believes that reading develops the full fundamentals of life in arithmetic, English, science, and history. Reading also supplies just plain pleasure.

Miss Weiss is a Chelsea native, pleasant town and enjoys working in it. She describes the people as co-operative and friendly, and is fond of the children in both elementary and high school.

Miss Weiss is a nice person to know; she has a wonderful way with children of all ages and grades. She has helped a lot of children emotionally and physically. She is a great help.

The Junior High Chorus are practicing vigorously for the coming Christmas Concert on Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. in the school gym. The eighth grade will present "Carol of the Shepherds" and "The Wastell Song."

The seventh grade will present a scene depicting a Christmas celebration in Yugoslavia. They will sing "Silent Night," "O'Clock is Striking," which is an ancient Croatian carol, and "What Light Is That?" which is an ancient Yugoslav carol.

The Junior High Select Chorus will present three selections from Handel's Oratorio "The Messiah": "Blind Men," "He Shall Feed His Flock" by the altos, and "Come Unto Him" by the sopranos.

The three choruses and the band will combine to present "Cesar Franck's 'Panis Angelicus'."

Freshman English classes are deeply absorbed in Readers Digests. Biologists are dissecting grasshoppers, worms, and crayfish. If the sophomores don't hurry and give the annual Freshman-Sophomore dance, the freshmen will break the ritual and give it first.

Sophomore English students have just turned in their book reports and are reading stories in their literature books. Geometry students have been working on construction and will go on to a chapter on polygons. World History students have been making maps regularly, and are studying about the British people. They plan to hold a class meeting very soon to discuss the formation of a proposed trip club.

The Juniors are in a rosy glow about the annual sale of Christmas cards and stationery. While final figures are not available, it is rumored that between $1000 and $2000 worth were sold. Cards are now being distributed.

Shop I students are doing classroom work due to the fact that the shop has been closed down for repairs. They are working on the memorizing and knowledge of wood joints and how to figure board feet. Square feet. Shop II boys use their period for a study period because the condition of the shop room also affects them.

Seventh grade historians have been working on farming in different lands, doing projects and making group reports on different crops, etc. In science, they have been studying about static electricity, neutrons, protons, electrons, and the 92 elements. In English they have been working with the career of person, pronouns and working very hard to get an A in spelling sentences. Select choir members are preparing for the Christmas Concert Dec. 16. In physical education the girls are square dancing and the boys have been playing volleyball. Plans are being made for the second six weeks' exams, and celebrating when they were over.

Bible Verse To Study

It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

1. Who spoke these words?
2. To whom were they addressed?
3. Where did the conversation occur?
4. Where is it found in the Bible?
