More Than 3,000 Students Enroll In Annual Event

Ten Chelsea Junior and Senior High band students received the top rating of "highly superior" last Friday and Saturday in the annual Southeastern Michigan Solo and Ensemble festival held at Thornton High School in Redford township. They were among the more than 3,000 students who took part in the huge event this year. Each soloist and ensemble was rated in one of five divisions: highly superior, excellent, good, fair, and poor.

The following Chelsea students received ratings of highly superior: Gordon Beeman, cornet; Kathy White and Judy Grove, clarinet; Ronnie Papadour, baritone; Judy Grove, clarinet; Nancy Huelsberg, clarinet; Linda Kephart, clarinet; Carol Lawson, flute; Cheryl Lehmann, flute; Carol Cameron, bass clarinet; and John Widmayer, clarinet. These students are entitled to receive gold medals with blue ribbons. This is a big improvement over last year when three students received the coveted rating. Carol Cameron is the only repeater, winning the highly superior rating both years.

Basketball Team Defeats Saline, 51-43

Overcoming a first half deficit Chelsea defeated Saline, 51-43, last Friday in the new Chelsea High gym.

The two teams played on even terms for the first quarter as the score was tied 12-12. Chelsea was able to score only six points, all on foul shots, during the second quarter, as Saline scored 12 to lead, 24-18, at the half.

The Bulldogs came out in the third quarter and employed a zone press and gradually pulled away from Saline. They outscored Saline 21-9 in the third quarter to lead, 45-27, at the three-quarter mark.

Game with Lincoln Postponed to Saturday

Chelsea High's basketball game with the Lincoln Consolidated team will be played Saturday night at Bowen field house, Eastern Michigan College, Ypsilanti. Those who plan to attend should take notice that the game is being played Saturday, Feb. 14, instead of tomorrow.

Chelsea used a semi-staff in the fourth quarter, taking only the good shots and making the defense come out after them. This worked as Chelsea outscored Saline, 12-10, to win, 51-43.

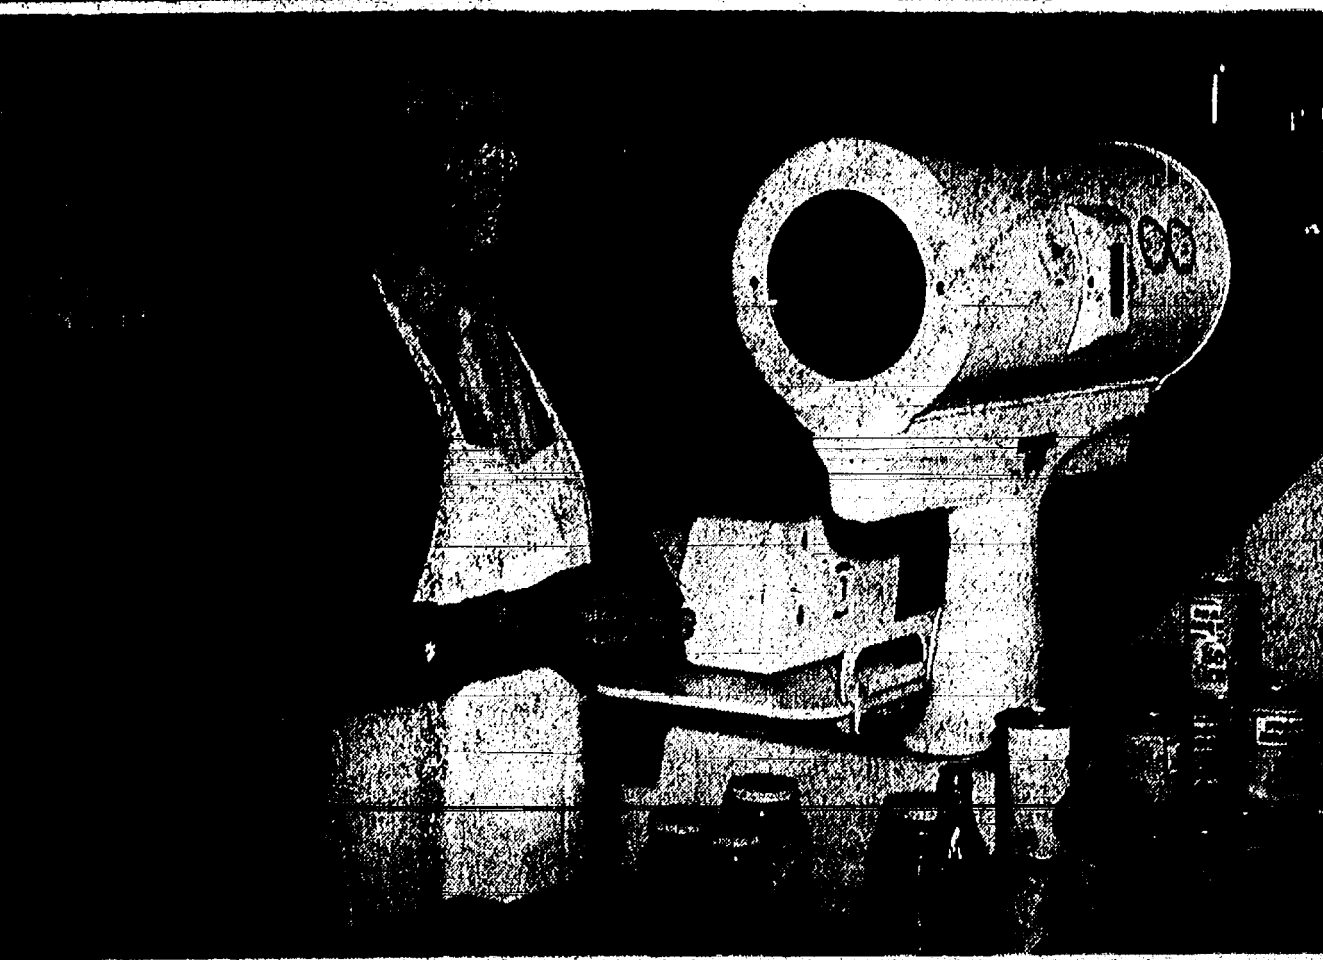

George Mayer topped the Bulldogs with 15 points. Nine of these were scored on foul shots. Loren Keizer was next with 12, Alton and Homer Nixon each had nine, Frank Fredrick had three, Matt Murphy two and Bob Weiss one. Bill Bracey was high for Saline with 10.

The JV's won their game 30-20. They also had to come from behind. Daryl Keizer was high with 10 points.

The next home game will be Tuesday night, Feb. 17, with Dundee providing the opposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman O'Connor and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. O'Connor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider.

Hurshel O'Dell is a patient at St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, having entered the hospital last Friday.

WILBUR HINDERER has become a familiar figure to people of the community, many of whom have been customers at his food store at 108 North Main street throughout the 39 years he has been in business at that same location. He and his brother, Otto, opened the store March 1, 1920, and were in business together until the latter's retirement five years ago. Wilbur has operated the store himself since then but by the end of this week expects to have completed disposal of his remaining stocks of goods as well as most of the fixtures and will close the store. He plans to take a short vacation before "looking for a job," he said yesterday.

Lenten Service Next Week Set at St. Paul's Church

The first Union Lenten service of the present season was scheduled for last night at the Methodist church.

The Rev. Edwin J. Weiss, administrator at the Methodist Home, was the speaker.

The next service of the series will be held at St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Philip Rusten, pastor of the Congregational church, will deliver the sermon.

World Day of Prayer Service Scheduled Friday Afternoon

At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon women of the Protestant churches of Chelsea will meet at the Methodist church for a World Day of Prayer service. Mrs. Robert Daniels of the Methodist church is general chairman.

Missionary work of the Christian churches of the world will be stressed in the program material and women of the various churches will give readings pertaining to the subject. The offering will be sent to general headquarters to be allocated for the mission projects designated for special emphasis this year.

In addition to Mrs. Daniels, those who will participate in the service are Mrs. Gayle Grove, cellist; Mrs. Frederick Belser, soloist; Mrs. James Gaunt, organist; Mrs. Leigh Palmer, Mrs. Allan Reed and Mrs. Thomas Bust.

Mrs. Bust represents St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church.

Fishing Derby Planned This Week-End

A "fishing derby," something new in this area, is being sponsored at Cavanaugh Lake this week-end as a joint project of the Cavanaugh Lake Ski club and the Chelsea Rod and Gun club.

As a courtesy to contestants, holes will be dug in the ice at points selected by the contestants themselves.

The derby will be held Saturday and Sunday. Hours both days will be from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

A registration booth will be located on the ice just off the County Park shore and all contestants must be registered. A nominal registration fee is planned.

Prizes are being offered for the heaviest fish, the longest fish and the nicest mess of fish.

Fishing gear and items of hunting equipment are being offered as prizes.

The sponsoring clubs look for good attendance at this week-end fishing event, providing the weather remains suitable for fishing through the ice. They expect not only contestants but many on-lookers as well, since this type of event has created much interest in many Michigan communities.

Consumption Of Electricity Sets Record

Homer Nixon, Chelsea Electric and Water Department superintendent, said this week that January, 1959, set an all-time record for consumption of electric power in Chelsea with a total of 692,000 kilowatt hours registered.

Nixon said this amount is 16.7 per cent more than the consumption of January, 1958, and more than twice the amount used 10 years ago.

It was explained by Superintendent Nixon that some of this increase is accounted for by new business here but the greater part is the result of the trend for more and more appliances such as freezers, clothes dryers, coffee makers and many other modern conveniences which are considered necessities in most homes of today.

Only a small portion of the increase may be credited to industrial usage here since most factories purchase current direct from Consumers Power Co. Among the exceptions are Longworth Plating Service, Production Machining and Central Fibre Products, Inc.

BOOKKEEPER'S DREAM COME TRUE: Chelsea Bank Installs County's First Electronic Posting Machine

Chelsea State Bank has installed a new electronic accounting machine to handle checking account bookkeeping. This machine, the first delivered in Washtenaw county, will be an important addition to the institution's installation of modern equipment. "The purchase is a further step in keeping abreast of up-to-date banking practice," bank officials said.

"The electronic bank posting machine will greatly increase the operating efficiency of our bank and provide quicker and more satisfactory service to our customers," said Paul Mann, executive vice-president.

"There is no doubt that the electronic equipment will streamline our operation," he continued. "It will produce the bank's and customer's records with an unprecedented degree of accuracy and speed."

"Even though the equipment will operate with the speed of electronics, the bank will preserve all the time-tested advantages of standard printed records," Mann concluded. "Customers will not have to learn anything new. Accounting forms posted by the machine are identical in appearance with those printed by conventional machines."

Manufactured by the National Cash Register Co. and released for sale about two years ago, almost 4,000 Post-Tronics in 880 banks now handle nearly ten million of the 54 million checking accounts in the country. The new machine makes possible the automatic pickup-up of old account balances on conventional bank forms, as well as several other major innovations. The "Post-Tronic" is equipped with an electronic reading and recording mechanism that automatically stores a depositor's checking account balance on conventional-type monthly statements in the form of invisible magnetic symbols. As a result, an operator of a depositor's balance, eliminating a frequent source of error. Bank officials pointed out that in handling the thousands of transactions which take place every day, (Continued on page 8)

Committees Named for Style Show

Chelsea Child Study club committees for the style show to be held in the new Chelsea High school auditorium March 3, have been announced by the club president, Mrs. John Stoffer.

General chairman of the style show, which is an annual event on the club calendar, is Mrs. Frederick Belser.

Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Charles Lane, publicity and tickets; Mrs. Robert Daniels and Mrs. William Blaess, fashions; Mrs. Eldon Gorton, house; and Mrs. Theodore Paist, refreshments.

Anderson's store is again supplying the styles to be modeled at the show by club members and guest models.

A special surprise feature is being planned as a highlight of the evening's entertainment. (Last year the highlight was the chemise theme.)

Tickets for the style show are being made available at Anderson's store as well as from all club members.

The style show will be the first public affair to be held in the new auditorium.

The regular club meeting Tuesday evening was cancelled because of icy road conditions and a called meeting is to be held the week of Feb. 16. Members will be notified about the time and place of the meeting.

Circuit Judge Is Speaker at Kiwanis Meet

Circuit Judge James R. Breaker, Jr., was the guest speaker at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis club, held Monday evening in the social center of the Methodist church. He was introduced by the evening's program chairman, Lowell Davison.

Speaking of the work of the Court and matters which have a bearing on it, he mentioned the crowded conditions at the County Jail. Because of the crowded conditions and the high cost for prisoner care (from $1,500 to $2,000 per year) the judge explained, he is issuing a high percentage of probationary sentences. He said average number of probationary sentences in his court is 80 per cent for first offenders as compared to 60 per cent in most other courts.

Approximately 300 persons are now on probation in Washtenaw county, he said, and these are in charge of seven probation officers.

In order to facilitate handling of short cases and divorce proceedings, Judge Breaker stated, he has held a total of 40 Saturday sessions during the past year. The Saturday sessions are scheduled whenever the day is agreeable to both the attorney and the principals involved, the judge said.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

BY RALPH BOBEY

★ The President's Economic Report

President Eisenhower's annual economic report, prepared with the help of the Council of Economic Advisers, and required by the Employment Act of 1946, is a good analysis of what happened over the past year. Including the statistical tables, it runs to 226 pages and some of it is not easy reading. Numerous legislative proposals are included, although for the most part they are not given in detailed terms. More about these will be heard as the suggestions are sent to the Congress in the form of actual bills.

Every President's economic report is a political document. As a result, the report will be rather generous in the claims it makes for the wisdom of the Administration and its policies. In this regard the current analysis is no exception, but its contention of the part Government played in bringing about the recovery is more modest than many in the past.

Most of the credit for the upswing in business is given to non-governmental action—to the "inherent features of our economy," to our free competitive institutions, to the stability of our institutions of savings, banking and finance, and the character of our people, notably their industry and resourcefulness and their capacity to take a confident and balanced view of the nation's economic prospects.

"Our objective," in the words of the report, "now must be to establish a firm foundation for extending this economic advance and price stability into the months and years ahead." To accomplish this it said:

1. "We must zealously safeguard and improve the institutions of our free and competitive economy."

2. We must "wage a relentless battle against impediments to the full and most effective use of our human and technological resources."

3. "We must continue to enlarge and improve the plant and equipment that supplant human effort and make it increasingly productive."

4. There must be "firm confidence that the value of the dollar will be reasonably stable in the years ahead."

In other words, we must maintain competition, improve output per man-hour, encourage private capital investment, and protect the value of our currency. That is the recurring theme of the report, but most emphasis is placed upon preventing inflation. Over and over there are statements to the effect that we must have growth at a sustainable rate without inflation.

Every segment of our nation must cooperate if we are to have growth with stable prices. Government must hold spending within reasonable bounds and below the level of the current fiscal year. Our tax system must be reformed to eliminate the present stifling effect upon savings and investment. The Federal debt must be managed with superb skill. And Congress must stop coming to the aid of every industry or line of activity which runs into economic troubles.

The banking system must limit expansion of credit and the money supply to a non-inflationary growth rate. The Federal Reserve Board of Governors will be intimately involved in such limitation.

Management must have the courage and foresight to invest in labor-saving machinery and other capital improvements to resist unwarranted wage demands, and to develop new products which appeal to the public.

Labor leaders must forget the idea that there should be a wage increase for their members every year, regardless of the profitability of the employers.

Business men and local public officials must stop running to Washington for financial aid for everything they think might be to their benefit.

And, the public at large must exercise care in its buying, and show its disapproval of increasing prices.

Obviously this is a trying program. But it is not a program of austerity. It merely means that others must be given at least equal weight to selfish interests. That is not asking too much when one bears in mind that the alternative is erosion of the value of the dollar, recession, unemployment, and a general weakening of the nation.

The Boy Scout's National Court of Honor made 199 awards for heroism or meritorious service in 1957.

EXPRESSWAY PROGRESS REPORT:

Michigan's Five-Year Highway Construction Program Off to Good Start with 150 Miles of Dual Roads Opened

Lansing—During 1958 Michigan's five-year highway program, first announced by Commissioner John C. Mackie in November of 1957, began to unfold. New construction reached an all-time high as an estimated $190 million in road work was placed under contract.

Included were nearly 200 projects. Approximately 150 miles of new dual highways, including 101 miles of expressways, were opened to traffic.

Expressway progress was as follows:

Detroit-to-Chicago (US-12) Expressway
A total of 80 miles of this expressway are now open to traffic and another 33 miles are under construction. The remaining 112 miles will be let for construction starting in February with completion targeted for late 1960 or early 1961.

Detroit-to-Muskegon (US-16) Expressway
More than one-third of this 166-mile expressway is now open to traffic. Another 13.8-mile section will be ready for opening in 1959. Still to be let for construction are six sections totaling 45.4 miles.

Included in the 23.6-mile Brighton-Farmington expressway, a 11-mile section between Coopersville and Marne in Ottawa county; 3.8 miles from M-100 west to Portland; and the latest section to be opened, 16.5 miles from Portland road, west of the city of Portland, to Hastings road, near the west-Ionia county line, for a total of 58.7 miles.

US-23 (Ohio-to-Stratford of Mackinac) Expressway
This 330-mile expressway will carry traffic from near Sylvania, northerly to Mackinaw City and the Soo. Completed sections include the 84-mile section between the 10 1/2-mile Ann Arbor-Whitmore Lake section. Near completion is a 17-mile long portion from the Ohio line north to Dundee.

City-to-Midland Expressway
The 13-mile expressway replacing M-20 between these two cities was opened to traffic last October.

Grand Rapids Expressway (US-181)
Approximately 17 1/2 miles from 28th street, near the south city limits of Grand Rapids south to Wayland, are open to traffic. The portion from Wayland south to M-118 in Allegan county is under construction and scheduled for opening in 1959.

Detroit-to-Toledo Expressway
Twenty-four miles of this expressway are open to traffic from a connection with US-24 southwest of Detroit south to the Ohio line. A southerly extension to the Ohio line is completed but cannot be opened to traffic until an Ohio connection (presently under contract and expected to be ready for traffic about Feb. 1) is completed.

Detroit Metropolitan Area
The John C. Lodge expressway has been completed to downtown Detroit except for a half-mile section between Third street and Griswold, scheduled for completion in 1959, which will complete the downtown expressway loop at the Detroit Civic Center and connect to the future Walter P. Chrysler expressway.

First project on the Walter P.

Chrysler expressway, generally paralleling Woodward avenue on the east, was let Dec. 10.

Major expressway news in Detroit was the opening of a three-mile section of the Edsel Ford expressway from Mt. Elliott to Woodward street at Chandler Park, scheduled for completion in December. This expressway is scheduled for completion to the east city limits in 1959. Twenty miles of urban expressways are currently open to traffic.

Cows in Area Herds
Pass 100,000-lb. Mark
In Milk Production

Registered Holstein cows owned by George Macomber of Park road and Lowell Spike of Milan, formerly of Chelsea, are included in a list compiled by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America giving the names of cows that have completed official records totaling to more than 100,000 pounds of milk.

Macomber's cows listed are Rustic Ideal Lena Okemos 3074311 (GP), with 110,271 lbs. of milk and 3,692 lbs. of butterfat in 2,393 days and Velte Lea Triune Ormsby Rose 2808855, 103,144 lbs. of milk and 3,791 lbs. of butterfat in 2,320 days on official test.

Lowell Spike's cow listed is Green Ace Pabst Burke Empress 3374125 (GP) with a record of 104,066 lbs. of milk and 3,814 lbs. of butterfat in 1,745 days on official test.

This volume of production represents approximately five times the lifetime total of the average dairy cow—can be attributed to the registered Holstein's unparalleled longevity coupled with recent advances in breeding, feeding, and management.

The color change of the snowshoe hare's fur is caused by molting; the brown coat being shed and a white coat growing in autumn, and the reverse in spring.

January Traffic

Death Toll Sets

New Safety Records

With an assist from the frigid temperatures, the new year began auspiciously trafficwise in Michigan with a reduction of 81 per cent in highway deaths in January as compared with the same month a year ago, according to the State Police provisional report.

There were 65 fatalities in 60 accidents, or 29 fewer than 84 deaths in 84 accidents in January of 1958.

It was the lowest death toll of any month since the war year of 1943 when there were 89 fatalities, also in January, and this was a period of gas rationing and restricted travel. Likewise, it is the lowest monthly toll since records were first computed in 1933.

There were two "firsts" in January with three out of four Sundays without a death and three successive days, January 24 to 27, with no deaths.

The cold weather and snow and icy conditions were largely credited for the sharp reduction in the monthly toll. Travel was not only cut down, but drivers were much more careful.

Despite Michigan's continuing reduction in deaths, however, there were warnings of rougher times ahead.

CHEVY'S NEW HI-THRIFT 6

More miles are back in a gallon of regular-grade gas—up to 10% more—and Chevy's new Hi-Thrift 6 engine puts them there. It also gives you more "giz" in the speeds you drive the most.

Here's an engine that always seems able to coax extra miles out of a tank of regular-grade gas. In fact, if you're one of those drivers who keep tab on things like gas mileage, you'll soon see for yourself that this new Hi-Thrift 6 gets up to 10% more miles a gallon.

Another thing you'll like about this 135-h.p. 6 is the extra pep it gives you for passing and climbing hills. This is due to higher torque at normal speeds.

It may be hard to believe anything that looks and moves like this '59 Chevy can be such a stickler for economy. But—whether you pick the Hi-Thrift 6 or a vim-packed V8—this is just one more reason—Chevy's the car that's wanted for all its worth. Stop-by your dealer's and see.

ON CAPITOL HILL

By Congressman George Meader

Feb. 6, 1959

In the 86th Congress, I have been assigned to two House committees, Government Operations and Judiciary.

On Government Operations, where I have served since my election to Congress, I am one of two Republicans on the six-man Subcommittee on International Operations. That subcommittee, as you may know, is responsible for studying efficiency and economy in the Department of State, its foreign relations, the United States Information Agency, and the International Co-operation Administration which spend $4 billion a year in foreign aid.

On the Judiciary Committee, which handles more than one-half the bills introduced in the House, I have been assigned to the Antitrust Subcommittee and also to a special subcommittee to study the World Court.

The latter is an international clearing house for information on such offenses as smuggling, narcotics traffic, and counterfeiting. The United States joined INTERPOL last September. Since 1946, the World Court has handed down decisions in eight disputed cases, decided it lacked jurisdiction in seven others and has three cases now pending. It has issued 11 advisory opinions.

The Judiciary Committee is interested in United States participation in the World Court, the character of its powers, the observance of its judgments, the extent of its operations and its function in developing international law and order.

The subcommittee will visit London, The Hague, and Paris between Feb. 4 and 17. In addition to the main inquiry, we will study the British legal and judicial system and the manner in which the British Parliament deals with problems similar to those we face on the House Judiciary Committee, such as the adequacy of the courts to provide speedy disposition of court cases, the protection of individual civil rights, and the improvement of the administration of justice. This comparison should be helpful.

A Half Million Dollars, All In Shiny Sports Cars

Seldom is an assemblage of costly sports cars brought together in one place as shown above. The scene is the current "Sports Cars in Review" at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, Mich. On display in the museum's main exhibition hall are more than 50 models, all high performance cars designed for competitive driving, with a value of more than half a million dollars. All present-day sports cars over the years is shown by several vintage vehicles, such as the American 1908 Locomobile in the center and the English Rolls Royce Speedster of 1912 at right foreground. The exhibit, which runs through February 22, is the only one of its kind in this country devoted entirely to this type of vehicle.

Michigan Week Slogan, Jaunty Robin Emblem Undergo Revision for 1959

Michigan's proud and cheery robin, the state's official bird, has gone to sea.

Having stood astride the huge towers of the Mackinac bridge in 1958 when he proclaimed "It's Great to Live in Michigan," the jaunty, red-breasted bird, has taken up a new position and adopted a new slogan which he will sing this year.

As central figure of the official Michigan Week emblem, the robin for 1959 wears a sailor cap as he proudly points to Michigan and the St. Lawrence Seaway as it stands out on the globe of the world.

The robin's new look was recommended by the Michigan Week promotional materials committee of which Paul Penfield, advertising manager of The Detroit Edison company, is chairman.

Before the year ends, and especially during the sixth annual Michigan Week, May 17-23, the proud robin will proclaim the new slogan "We're Proud of Michigan" before millions of people in his own state and throughout the nation and foreign lands.

He will be pictured in newspapers and magazines, on television screens, in all types of advertising, on such promotional materials as posters, placards, decals, stamps, place mats, book matches, counter cards, retail store streamers, etc.

Materials are now in production and will be made available to all local and county Michigan Week committees at cost.

FOOD DONATION SYSTEM

Future Government donations of corn meal and flour to the needy in this country will come from private rather than Government surpluses of corn and wheat.

This change is designed to divert the grains into relief uses before they ever reach Government surpluses stocks. Costs are expected to be lower.

Keweenaw Peninsula Is Top Sight

Ann Arbor—Keweenaw Peninsula's upper peninsula gets its English name from the Chippewa Indian word "Kakiwayonaning" meaning "place where a portage is made," says Indian place name expert Ivan H. Walton, professor of English at the University of Michigan.

The futting, copper-rich peninsula has been selected as one of Michigan's top ten attractions in a survey of U-M faculty and staff. It is the sixth UP area to be named in the top ten. Others include the Mackinac Bridge, Soo Locks, Tahquamenon Falls, Porcupine Mountains, and Mackinac Island.

The "place where a portage is made" is located near the base of the peninsula. It takes shape in the form of a canal stretching from Lake Superior on the west past Houghton and Hancock into Portage Lake and hence into Keweenaw Bay and back to Lake Superior.

Traveling north on US-41, the tourist will see the waters of Keweenaw Bay and Portage Lake for the 30 miles between Baraga and Houghton.

The other main route north—M-26—splits the peninsula until it hits Eagle River on the western shore of Lake Superior. From there it points northeast to Eagle Harbor where ferry service between Michigan and Isle Royale National Park is maintained. Then it proceeds to historic Ft. Wilkins and Copper Harbor where it ends at Michigan's northernmost point.

Keweenaw Peninsula, as with most UP attractions, contains "wilderness" country at its finest. At Houghton, center of peninsula activity, is the Michigan College of Mining and Technology—nationally known for its curriculum in engineering. The "portage" required to travel further north is well worth making.

3,068 Dogs Vaccinated at Clinic Series

The largest attendance on record, 3,068, for the rabies vaccination clinics was announced this week by Dr. George Bowler, public health veterinarian on the staff of the Washtenaw County Health Department.

This number included 241 vaccinated at the Chelsea clinic in Sylvan Town Hall, Jan. 29; 84 at Lyndon Town Hall, Jan. 16; 139 at Manchester, Jan. 28; and 302 at Dexter, Jan. 17.

Clinics offer rabies vaccinations for dogs at a reduced rate of $1.50 to help dog owners comply with a 1948 County Ordinance requiring all dogs to be vaccinated prior to issuance of a license for that dog each year. The measure has virtually eliminated rabies among dogs in the county.

The clinics are sponsored by the Washtenaw County Health Department and the Washtenaw County Veterinary Medical Society. Members of the Veterinary Medical Society staff the clinics, said Dr. Bowler. The veterinarians make a charge of $1.50 to cover cost of vaccine and time required to administer the vaccinations.

The 3,068 dogs vaccinated at the clinics represent only a fraction of the dogs vaccinated each year in Washtenaw county, Dr. Bowler said. The vast majority of dogs are vaccinated by the private veterinarian in his own office. These vaccinations are available at any time for the regular fee charged by the individual veterinarians.

This year there were a total of 15 clinics held in the county.

In the Junior American Bowling League at Sylvan Lanes, Charles Koenigter set the highest series ever bowled by a Junior leaguer—a nice 645 series. His games were 243, 202, and 200. In the 243 game he started with six strikes in a row. Koenigter, who is only 16 years old and has been bowling four years, is now averaging 181.

Farm Council Elects R. Mast New President

At a recent annual meeting of Washtenaw Farm Council, President Carl Foster reviewed the 1958 improvements in the new Farm Council Activities Center located on S. Main Ave. Ann Arbor. These improvements included: completed concrete floor in main building; kitchen and sanitation facilities installed; the outside walls of main building painted; a portion of the swine barn floor cemented; flag pole erected; board fence around the show arena; fenced the property; horse barn stalls built and erected; pens for sheep and swine barn built.

One acre of land located on the south west corner of the property was sold to Washtenaw County Farm Bureau. Farm Bureau built their new office building on this site and it is now in use. Having Farm Bureau offices located adjacent to Farm Council is undoubtedly an asset to Farm Council.

Lesser stated all the above improvements were made possible by the generous contributions of many organizations and individuals throughout Washtenaw county.

The Council Board of Directors for 1959 met recently and elected Robert Mast of Dexter, president; Raymond Girbach of Saline, vice-president; and Lauran Gieser, secretary-treasurer. Other members of the 1959 Board of Directors are Erwin Frederick, Ann Arbor; Albert Amrhein, Ypsilanti; Leroy Heller, Chelsea; Allen Alber, Manchester; George Frysing, Chelsea; and Ezra Besser, Dexter.

Mountain Lion Tracks in Area Add Interest to Archers Bobcat Hunt

Reports of mountain lion tracks in the area has added interest in Michigan's first organized "archers only" bobcat hunt to be held by the Michigan Bow Hunters in the Les Cheneaux area of the Upper Peninsula the week-end of Feb. 28-March 1.

Guides and trained bobcat dogs will be furnished by the Michigan Bow Hunters with W. F. "Ham" Sheveline of Central Lake, the Bow Hunters bobcat expert, in charge.

Headquarters will be at the Northland Manor Hotel at Cedarville. Reservations should be sent to the Les Cheneaux Chamber of Commerce at Cedarville, which is co-operating with the Bow Hunters to furnish accommodations and entertainment for more than 100 bow hunters. Registration fee will be $3.00 for non-Bow Hunter members.

Conservation Department bobcat expert Elsworth Harger has scouted the area and reports many bobcat signs, but no trace of the mountain lion that Upper Peninsula residents swear they have seen from time to time.

The Michigan Bow Hunters have offered $25 reward for proof of a mountain lion in Michigan and their president Carl T. Johnson of Cadillac will be on hand to check any new evidence found by the bow hunters or others.

The hunts will start at 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Hunters should bring snowshoes if possible and plan to arrive Friday evening to hunt on Saturday. Rooms will be approximately $3.00 per hunter and be on a first come, first served basis, cash with reservation, so make your reservation as soon as possible.

Immunization Clinic Date Set in March

A completed schedule for spring immunization clinics was released this week by Dr. Darrell A. Campbell, president of the Washtenaw County Medical Society. The schedule shows that a total of 43 clinics will be conducted by the Medical Society throughout Washtenaw county. The clinics began Tuesday, Feb. 10.

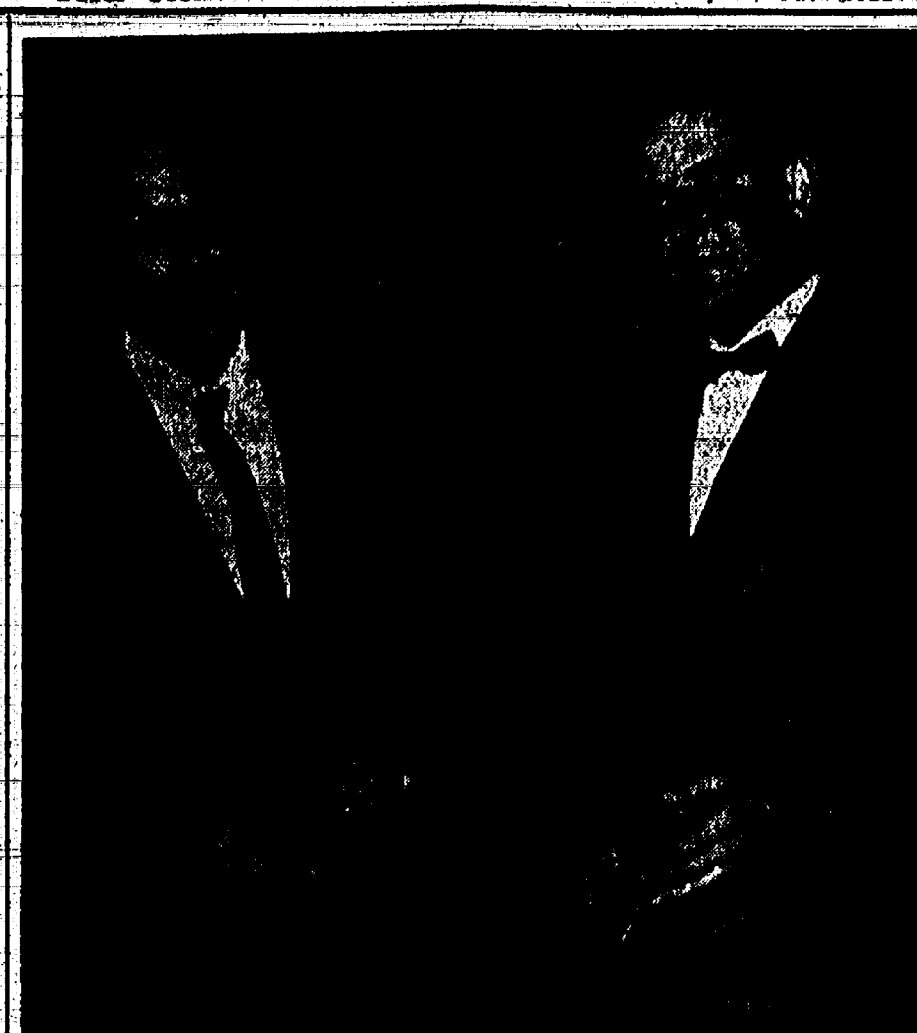

The clinic for Chelsea is scheduled for Tuesday, March 20, with North and South Elementary and St. Mary's schools included.

The Manchester clinic will take place March 24 and the one at Dexter is scheduled for March 17. "Conducting the clinics will be more than 50 practicing physicians from all over the county who will serve in the clinics without pay," Dr. Campbell said.

A major revision of the schedule for injections for children was voted by the Society after intensive study of the immunization level of children revealed that booster injections at six-year intervals were sufficient to protect a child from diphtheria and tetanus and smallpox. The revision called for the clinic services to be offered only to kindergarten and sixth grades beginning this year. No pre-school children will be given immunizations at the clinics as in the past.

Dr. Campbell reminded parents that a signed request must be presented to the clinic manager before a child may be given an immunization in the clinics.

These request forms are sent home by the teacher about a week prior to the date of the clinic.

Five judges, representing farm, business, church and civic organizations, selected Hopkins for the award.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON:President Reported Always Polite at Press Conferences

By Edward H. Sims
(Special Writer for The Standard)

Part I
Washington—The press conferences of the President of the United States are unique—and they have become rather rare. Since the Nov. 4 elections President Eisenhower has held only one press conference per month, on an average and since he, by his own admission, is not running for anything, newsmen do not expect any return to the regular, weekly ritual until a new President is elected.

A White House press conference is unique in several ways. It allows the representatives of even the most insignificant newspapers to ask the highest executive in the country any question he wishes to ask. The question need not be submitted in advance, as is the case in many countries and the President is often caught completely off guard by questions which sometimes are loaded.

Nevertheless, from several standpoints Mr. Eisenhower's press conferences are not completely satisfactory, although the President is willing to accommodate newsmen in his way.

The first handicap is that the President meets the press only once in a while. If he met the press each week, the 30-minute period allowed for press conferences would be ample to cover the topics which reporters wanted to discuss.

However, in averaging only one press conference a month, Mr. Eisenhower encounters the inevitable results. Most reporters seeking to ask the President a question never get the opportunity. And promptly at 11:00 a.m., the senior wire service reporter ends the conference with: "Thank you, Mr. President."

Mr. Eisenhower is, and should be, careful to answer many of the questions rather completely, and some at length. Therefore, the president has time to answer only about 20 questions, or slightly more, in a normal press conference. Considering the fact that there are several hundred reporters and associated newsmen in attendance, with perhaps somewhere between 5 to 100 with questions they seek to put to the President, one can readily see that most of them are caught with their lower jaw hanging open when the conference is closed with the traditional "Thank you."

Presidential press conferences have come a long way. Franklin D. Roosevelt met reporters in the small oval office in the White House, and Harry S. Truman followed the same practice for a time. Then the press conferences were moved across the street to the old State Department Building, to a room which could accommodate more reporters, equipped with both seats and microphones for the reporters and the President. Only a few short years ago any reporter with a White House press card could scurry down to the press conference 15 minutes ahead of the time and find a seat. Today, however, it is an ordeal.

To get a seat on one of the front rows in the press conference room, one must arrive an hour ahead of the starting time of the conference—which is usually 10:30 a.m. If he does this, he must compete with at least 20 reporters in seeking the President's attention each time the Chief Executive completes an answer—and there is always a chorus of "Mr. President!" from about 10 to 20 reporters. And then, should the President not answer one's question, three hours will have been spent in vain.

Whitmore Lake Man Heads Red Cross Campaign

Richard J. Caley of Whitmore Lake, has accepted the chairmanship of the 1959 Red Cross Campaign for Members and Funds. It was announced by E. C. Laetz, chapter chairman. "As the Washtenaw County Chapter joins in United Campaigns throughout the county," Laetz said, "Caley will carry on the fund drive in Whitmore Lake, in Northfield and Salem townships and part of Pittsfield township only."

"Red Cross service is provided to all areas of the county, Laetz continued, and we are especially pleased that Caley will carry the Red Cross message and enlist the support of members in the out-county areas."

Caley is supervisor of personnel, Argus Cameras Division of Sylvania Products in Ann Arbor. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Detroit Industrial Relations Association, Vice-President of the Society for the Advancement of Management, a member of Ann Arbor Kiwanis club and of the Chamber of Commerce. He has been active in United Fund drives in the Ann Arbor area and was co-chairman of the campaign in industry during the past year. He was also an active leader in the organization and development of the Ann Arbor Industrial Blood Bank, a Red Cross service.

Chairman Laetz said, "We are very fortunate to have a man with experience and civic interests. Mr. Caley to co-ordinate the efforts to raise funds."

Research in Soils Seeks Efficiency in Use of Fertilizers

There's more to clay, the smallest of soil particles, than meets the eye.

But tiny plant roots worming their way through the soil particles in search of nutrients notice the difference.

Plants do better in some soils and poorer in others depending upon how fast nutrients are made available to them by the soil.

Studies at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station on using fertilizers more profitably, show that clays from some types of soils fix a high percentage of potassium into forms the plants can't use. Clays from other soils actually release potassium when treated similarly. Potassium is one nutrient applied as fertilizer.

Soil Scientist Max Mortland is using X-ray and other special equipment in the project to characterize the clay minerals. The information will be used in making recommendations regarding rate and method of applying fertilizer. The aim of the studies is to dig out information needed by Michigan farmers so that they can use fertilizers more efficiently, thus cutting the cost of growing their crops.

Michigan farmers spend some $40 million a year on fertilizer.

MOONSHOT IN FEBRUARY?

Another United States moonshot is in the works for the latter part of February.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Army hope to blast off an Army Juno rocket from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and send its payload past the moon into orbit around the sun some time during a six or seven-day period beginning around February 28. At that time the moon is in its monthly swing around the earth, and will be at its closest point for a period of about six days.

Increased Social Security Checks in Mail for January

Increased social security checks to more than 12½ million people have gone into the mails this month according to Anna M. Ruman, manager of the Ann Arbor District office.

The payments amount to about $6 million dollars more than those for the previous month which totaled about $80 million.

More than 7,000 beneficiaries live in Washtenaw county and receive more than $400,000 every month in social security benefits. Many of these people live in the Chelsea area.

The current checks, for January, are the first to include the increased benefit amounts for old-age, survivors, and disability insurance provided by the 1958 amendments to the social security law. The general increase in benefit amounts is about 7 per cent.

Prior to January, monthly payments to a retired worker, aged 65, ranged from $30 to $108.50. The January checks to workers who retired at 65 or over range from $33 to $116. The maximum monthly payment to a family, which was $200 in December, is $254 on the January checks.

About 7 million of the beneficiaries are aged retired workers. 2 million are wives or dependent aged husbands of retired workers; more than 4.3 million are widows; dependent widowers; and dependent aged parents of deceased workers; and more than 2 million are widowed mothers and minor children. More than 800,000 disabled workers and their dependents are receiving disability insurance payments.

Miss Ruman took this opportunity to state that benefits may now be payable to dependents of disabled workers who are receiving disability checks. If any disabled worker receiving checks has a child under 18 years of age or a wife over 62, he should contact the Social Security District Office located at 114 South Fourth Avenue, Ann Arbor.

McELROY'S DOUBTS

Secretary of Defense McElroy has gone on record, as saying he does not believe Russia has an inter-continental ballistic missile capable of use against the United States.

And he says there is no proof Russia is ahead of us in combat-ready ICBM's. Reports that Russia will have 300 ICBM's by 1960 are exaggerated, according to the Defense Secretary.

While McElroy admits Russia is ahead of the United States in the thrust of rocket engines used in weapons and space vehicles, he says we have engines with enough thrust to "propel a large warhead to the point we want it to reach."

COMMENT on SPORTS

★ Baseball . . .

Washington, D. C.—It's nice to read about the stars like Stan Musial and Ted Williams. They sing their own terms, so to speak. Musial can name his salary and Williams reportedly can do just about that. Williams gets more money—he's a more controversial character—a bigger draw, one might say.

Stan just plays the game to perfection. No huffing and puffing and grappling with the press. And that's not to say that Ted Williams has been wrong. One must give the guy credit. He did two hitches in the Marines, for one thing, and that's far more he's done for his country than most of the guys riding him, year in and year out.

And, certainly, Ted should have won some player-of-the-year awards which haven't come his way, because of petty envy or petty personalities, and partly because of his personality. Musial is just a different personality, that's all. He's not so vitriolic and may be not as much of a draw.

But Musial is not outshined by any player in the Major Leagues. He does all his jobs well and lives up to the finest tradition of pro baseball in handling himself on and off the field. He is a real credit to the game. So is Ted. And every year about this time we find ourselves writing about them, and fellows like Enos Slaughter.

Won't be long before they're gone. Williams is proud, as is Musial. They won't hang around after their time, after they've obviously become winded. Slaughter can still earn his keep, on his salary too, and is a hustler. But some day Father Time will catch this threesome—we hope it's a long time into the future.

We like to see old-timers like Murray Dickson, Virgil Trucks, Sal Maglie, etc., hanging around. It makes us all feel as young—to know that the word "forty" doesn't frighten any of these veterans. A number of them have seen forty come and are still carrying on.

That's one of the best things about baseball—although Sugar Ray Robinson and Archie Moore are threatening to make the same thing true in boxing, though it cannot be—that the great stars can play on—into the forties, in some cases. But it's a rugged game. For every regular who stays around until he sees forty, a thousand have bitten the dust. It's a thousand-to-one shot, then.

Human Snowplow

Scenes like this are being repeated daily on slopes and hills throughout Michigan's Winter Wonderland. Thousands of enthusiastic skiers invade the state's 69 skiing areas each year. State supervised areas, equipped with ski-tows and other special facilities, are found at Holly, Highland and Pinckney recreation areas and Porcupine Mountains state park.

Increasing Popularity of Skiing Creates Year-Round Use for Parks

Lansing—The year-round versatility and use of Michigan's state parks and recreation areas is convincingly dramatized during wintertime by the increasing popularity of skiing.

During the 1957-58 season, some 54,500 skiers slalomd, snowplowed or sitmarked on hills, slopes and trails at Holly, Highland and Pinckney recreation areas and Porcupine Mountains state park.

This figure represents, roughly, one-third of the total skiers predicted to use some 69 ski areas throughout the state this season.

The Porcupine Mountains ski area is highlighted by a double T-bar lift which, when installed in 1957, was acclaimed by a national sports magazine as "the most exciting ski news in the Midwest."

Transporting skiers at a rate of 700 feet per minute up a 2,800-foot slope, the lift has a carrying capacity of 1,200 riders per hour. Also servicing the open slope are three rope-tows with a capacity of 1,400 riders per hour.

An enlarged warming lodge marks the latest improvement to the ski scene at the Porcupine this year. The lodge boasts new sanitary facilities and expanded first aid, ski shop, repair and storage rooms.

Night skiing is a major attraction at Mt. Holly where eight rope-tows are in operation. The ski area is also equipped with a snow-making machine.

The Highland ski site features four rope-tows and a warming shelter. At Pinckney, two towes are employed.

Many other state parks and recreation areas are suitable for skiing, although towing facilities are not available.

ASC Office Has New List Of Practices

Farmers are invited to call for a copy of the complete 1959 Washington county list of ACP practices and further information at the county ASC office in the Washington County Building in Ann Arbor.

The cost-sharing fund allocated to Washington county for cost-sharing under the 1959 ACP is $65,154.00, compared to $60,895.00 for the 1958 program. Max Kalmbach, ASC chairman, expects that participation in the 1959 ACP will be about the same or slightly larger than it was in 1958, when 224 farmers used ACP cost-sharing.

There are approximately 3,000 farms in the county, according to latest figures. ACP farms in 1958 comprised 14 per cent of the county's farm land. Of the 3,000 farms only 224 farmers availed themselves of the ACP cost-share plan. The average cost-share received per farm was $228.00. 121 farmers were paid on the limestone practice. 43 farmers were paid on the tile drainage practice. Five farmers were paid on the Open Drainage Practice. Three farmers were paid on the pond for livestock practice and 34 farmers were paid for the cover crop practice.

It is an observation that farmers who receive the greatest and most lasting benefits from ACP cost-sharing are those who have a definite, fairly long-time conservation plan in mind and use ACP to help them carry out that plan," Kalmbach remarked.

Co-operators in the local Soil Conservation District frequently use their farm conservation plans, prepared with the help of the Soil Conservation Service, in making requests for ACP assistance to carry out parts of their plan. Any conservation plan for the farm which shows careful thinking about the farm's individual needs, is evidence that the ACP cost-sharing will be used toward a definite goal, the chairman pointed out.

"If I had to recommend a simple piece of reading to all Americans who want to improve their schools, I would ask them to read this report." So wrote John W. Gardner, president of the Carnegie Corporation, in a foreword to Dr. James B. Conant's report on "The American High School Today."

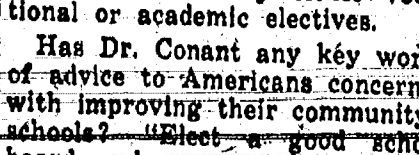

One can obtain the McGraw-Hill published report for $1.00 in a paperback or $2.75 in a hard cover. Dr. Conant himself is seeing to it that school boards, school superintendents, and other people influential in the education world receive the report. He is sending out 100,000 copies of it.

Dr. Conant is well qualified for the task. He is an educator of great ability whose position as head of Harvard University gave him perspective on American education and his post in the capital of Germany gave him opportunity to observe European systems. For the purpose of his report, Dr. Conant visited more than 50 high schools in 18 states. Ann Arbor High School was one of the comprehensive high schools included in this study.

The general conclusion of this educational survey is that the United States system of locally controlled public high schools, is capable of meeting the educational needs of the nation's young people, but that renewed efforts are needed to make average schools good schools and good schools excellent.

"There is no such thing as the typical American high school," states the report. They vary according to geographical location, size and social make-up of each community. And, too, youngsters vary. There is no gain in insisting all students take mathematics, languages and the sciences. Dr. Conant suggests a basic program for all students in high school to be supplemented by either vocational or academic electives.

Has Dr. Conant any key words of advice to Americans concerned with improving their community schools? "Select a good school board, and support the efforts of the board to improve the schools."

Porcupine Mountains State Park Rated One of State's Top Attractions

Ann Arbor—The Porcupine Mountains State Park, until a few weeks ago the center of state and national controversy, has been selected one of Michigan's top 10 travel attractions in a survey of University of Michigan faculty and staff.

The 58,097-acre site, acquired by the Department of Conservation about 1 year ago, placed eighth in the survey.

Located in the western end of the Upper Peninsula along Lake Superior, the Porcupines were recently the object of a six-month controversy between commercial interests and U.P. residents on one side and conservationists and sportsmen on the other. The former called for allowing mining in a small area of the park and offshore in Lake Superior. The latter maintained that the park should remain untouched.

The problem was resolved when the Bear Creek Mining Co., withdrew its request for a lease from the Department of Conservation, which would have allowed exploration (miles) and M-28. Stay on M-28 right into the park.

In addition to the scenic beauty of the mountains, the park also contains many trails and fishing and camping sites. In its center is beautiful Lake of the Clouds—reportedly excellent for fishing and water sports.

Winter sports—skiing, tobogganing and ice fishing in the park's many streams—also add to the year-round features of the park.

Lower Peninsula residents and visitors may select several routes to the park. Their trip would include crossing the Straits of Mackinac on the new $100,000,000 suspension bridge which ranked as Michigan's top attraction in the survey.

Once in the Upper Peninsula, several routes might be desirable. One would be to take US-2 west to Rapid River, turning north at the junction of US-41. Take US-41 until it connects with M-64 north. At Gull Point on Lake Superior, M-64 meets M-107 which takes you which would have allowed exploration (miles) and M-28. Stay on M-28 right into the park.

Organize Your Washday To Make Job Easier for You

Does hanging up clothes get you down? Here are a few tips that can make the job easier for you. They're offered by Ruth Kettunen, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University.

You can begin making the job easier even before you get to the clothes-line by sorting clothes as you take them from the washer. For instance, if you like to hang all your towels together on the line, take these from the washer at the same time. Things that must be starched can be kept together, too.

"Smooth and straight"—this is the way to hang clothes. Although it takes a little extra time, it will cut down on ironing later. Remember to put clothespins at the longest part of the garment, counting Mrs. Kettunen. To keep clothespins handy, put them in a dishpan upon or in a bag that can be pushed along as the clothes are being hung.

Fold and sort your clothes as you take them from the line. You can also save time by slipping clothes that need sprinkling into a large plastic bag. Later, you can simply add water to the bag and your "sprinkling" is all done for you!

You can save a lot of bending by raising your clothes basket. If you don't have one of the new clothes baskets on wheels, put yours on a wheelbarrow, an old baby buggy, or borrow Junior's wagon.

Your clothes-line should be taut—non-stretch plastic lines work very well. Keep your line as low as possible when you're hanging clothes. It can be raised by clothes poles after you've finished.

If you're drying clothes inside, create your own breeze with an electric fan. This can save from two to four hours of drying time.

If you find it necessary to clean a cut of meat, wipe it with a damp cloth. By holding it under running water, you will lose both flavor and nutritive value because these nutritive substances are dissolved by water.

Something new in evening hats is a crown of hackle feathers to wear sweeping low, or reversed upward into a soft flare.

Rod and Gun Club Asks Open Season For Quail Hunting

Because of bad driving conditions, attendance at the regular meeting of the Chelsea Rod and Gun club Tuesday evening was approximately half the usual number. Twenty-five members were present for the meeting which was held at the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake.

Business at the meeting included a report of the recent District II meeting by Calvin Summers, Jr., and a report of the club's nominating committee, read by John Keusch.

Club members went on record as being in favor of open season on quail and mourning doves; however, they stated their preference for no change in the deer hunting season.

Entertainment during the program period was furnished by Donley Boyer who showed slide pictures pertaining to conservation.

CHARLES LANE, left, principal of Chelsea High school, is being nominated as one of five young men in the state for the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award for the State of Michigan. Lane is shown here as he was presented the DSA award for the Chelsea area by the Chelsea Jaycees. The presentation was made by the 1958 DSA winner, Elmer Kiel. Lane was selected for the honor, among other things, for "his excellent work in youth and adult programs," and for being "a good example for the youth of the community." The award was made at the Jaycees' February dinner-meeting and ladies' night held at Schumm's restaurant, Tuesday, Feb. 3.

Karl E. Vogel Dies Monday In Nebraska

Karl E. Vogel of Omaha, Neb., who was elected last November to a seventh term as Nebraska state senator, died early Monday following a long illness.

He had suffered a stroke following the election and resigned before his seventh term would have begun Jan. 1.

Senator Vogel was born in Chelsea, May 3, 1883, a son of Israel and Fredericka Wagner Vogel. He was a brother of the late Lewis P. Vogel, Mrs. Clarence Maroney and Mrs. A. K. Marriott.

He graduated from Chelsea High school in 1901 and from the U. of M. College of Engineering in 1906, earning his way by working as a U. S. railroad mail clerk on the Detroit-Chicago run.

Following his graduation he went to Ambridge, Pa., where he was employed by the American Bridge Co. for about five years and then transferred to Detroit.

From Detroit he went to Omaha as general manager of the newly formed Omaha Steel Works, a position he held until he was elected to the Nebraska state legislature. During his sixth term in office he served as chairman of the budget committee.

Senator Vogel was a life member of Chelsea Lodge No. 158, F&AM and was a past high potentate of the Shrine in Nebraska.

Survivors are the widow, Mary; a son, John P. Vogel; and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Tremont (Ann). All are of Omaha. Several grandchildren also survive, as well as a number of nieces and nephews, including Paul Maroney, Clarence and Philip Vogel and Mrs. Ralph Osterle of Chelsea.

Funeral services and burial took place yesterday in Omaha.

Place Maroney and Clarence Vogel left by train Tuesday morning to attend the funeral.

It was stated that a professional act will be presented between halves at the game.

accuracy is always the primary consideration. All systems are designed to check and double check every record made of a transaction. Electronics simplifies the task.

By making unnecessary many manual operations now required, the machine also frees the operator from fatiguing detail work and greatly simplifies the problem of training new employees. County Democrats Set Convention Thursday Night

W. K. "Sam" McNally, Chairman of the Board of the National Bank of Jackson, and a recently announced candidate for the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, has been named to make the keynote address at the Washtenaw County Democratic Convention. The convention will be held at the County Building in Ann Arbor, tonight at 8 p.m.

McNally, a Jackson attorney, has served as Chairman of the Board of the Jackson bank since 1955. Prior to that, he was the bank's president from 1952 to 1955. A graduate of Eastern Michigan College and the Detroit College of Law, McNally is married and the father of two daughters; the younger at present a student at the University of Michigan. He is a member of the Governor's Small Business Advisory Study committee and the Governor's Study Commission for Metropolitan Problems. In 1956, he served as vice-chairman of the Citizens for Stevenson Committee. McNally is a former president and campaign chairman of the Jackson Community Fund.

Twenty-three delegates from the county convention will be chosen to serve in the county delegation to the state Democratic Convention, to be held in Grand Rapids on Feb. 20-21. At that convention, Democratic candidates will be nominated for two places each on the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan and the State Board of Agriculture, governing board of Michigan State University.

★ How Many Grads?

Just about two years ago—on Feb. 19, 1957—James Bryant Conant finished his work as U. S. ambassador to Germany. Ten days later he had embarked on a survey of the work being accomplished in American high schools. Having earlier distinguished himself as a chemist and as president of Harvard University, he was well qualified to investigate and evaluate high school education.

The information he gathered and the recommendations he makes for improving our American educational system are contained in a small book, "The American High School Today." It is intended to be helpful to school board members and other interested citizens, as well as to professional educators. If you have anything to do with public education, you will be wise to buy a copy of the $1 edition. Your superintendent can tell you where to buy one, or you might even be able to borrow his copy for a day or two, as I did.

One thought that Conant emphasizes was mentioned in this column last year. He agrees with me that a high school ought to have a graduating class of at least 100 members. About three-fourths of the high schools in Michigan have an enrollment of less than 100 in their twelfth grade.

Conant says that the elimination of the small high school is "a top priority."

The typical American high school is "comprehensive," that is, it is trying to provide for the needs of every young person. Our schools are trying to do three different things: (1) to prepare all young people for life in a democracy, (2) to prepare those who are academically talented for advanced work in college or university, and (3) to develop "marketable skills."

for those who will need to earn a living without going to college. About a fourth of the average class will be college bound. So if the class consists of, say, 50 pupils, only a dozen, at best, will be taking advanced science and math and language. But it is prohibitively expensive to teach all these advanced courses for 12 pupils or less.

Next week I'll have something to say about those who do not go to college, but this week I am saying that we are short-changing our brighter boys and girls if we let them graduate from a high school with less than 100 graduates. If you disagree, get Conant's book, and see what he found out in the past two years.

U. S. GRANTS SUDAN AID
The United States has made its first foreign aid agreement with the Sudan.

Under the agreement, which will be announced shortly in Khartoum, the United States will grant the young Middle Eastern republic slightly more than $15,000,000. Of this $15,000,000 will be to help the Sudanese Government overcome its balance-of-payments difficulties occasioned by a sharp decline in exports of long staple cotton. The remainder will be for technical assistance.

4-H Service Club Officers Elected For Coming Year

Robert Breuninger, president of the Washtenaw county 4-H Service Club, turned the gavel over to Paul Geiger of South Lyon for the 1959 activities of the 4-H Service Club program. Along with Paul Geiger, Peter Spike of Milan, was elected vice-president; Janice Harwood of Ann Arbor, was elected secretary, and Mary Graden of Ann Arbor, was elected treasurer.

The Service Club is comprised of 4-H members, leaders and friends of 4-H who are interested in helping promote the 4-H Club program in Washtenaw county. Each month a meeting is held with emphasis on fun, relaxation and entertainment. Picnics in the summer and skating parties in the winter are some of the highlights of the year's events. The main purpose of the 4-H Service Club is to help sponsor some of the 4-H activities and of course serve in any way that they can to help promote the 4-H Club program.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 43, with its 11-room, 1800-sq.-ft. house, originally published in the Feb. 5 issue of The Standard in the current series of "mystery farm" photos is the Dave Pastor farm at 13660 Jerusalem road. The Pastors, themselves, verified the identification soon after the picture appeared in the paper. They have owned the farm since 1952.

Dave Pastor Family Engages in General Dairy Farming on Jerusalem Road Farm

Dave Pastor and his wife, Julia, are the owners of Mystery Farm No. 43. The photograph of the property, published in the Feb. 5 issue of The Standard in the current series of "mystery farm" pictures, was quickly identified by a number of area residents, including the Pastors' son, David, who has "placed high on the list of people who have accurately identified the farms which have been published each week during the past year. He is now a freshman at Eastern Michigan College, Ypsilanti.

The Pastors also have a daughter, Patty, who is a freshman at Chelsea High school.

A fifth member of the family group is Mr. Pastor's mother, Mrs. Anna Pastor, formerly of Detroit, who makes her home with them. The Pastors, who had lived in Selma, bought the farm April 1, 1952.

Located at 13660 Jerusalem road, the attractive stone house is a familiar landmark. According to available information it was built in 1888. There are 11 rooms and bath. The Pastors have modernized the kitchen since they have owned the place.

The original barn on the farm burned in 1928 and the present barn was built that same year. The milk house was added in 1949. The Pastors carry on general dairy farming on the 127-acre farm and own registered Holsteins as well as grade cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Pastor bought the farm from Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Van Riper who had owned it for four years. Van Riper said it when he decided to continue his education for a teaching career. He and his family now live at Lincoln, Neb., where he is an instructor at the University of Nebraska.

The Gordon Van Ripers had bought the farm from the Mrs. Charles Whitaker estate in 1947 and Mrs. Christina Bristle and her son Paul, who were living there, moved to Clinton.

Mrs. Bristle had lived there since 1910. Her husband, Emanuel, and their brother-in-law, Fred Hinderer, operated the farm in partnership until 1912 and then the Bristles operated it for the owner, Mrs. Whitaker. All of the Bristle children were born on the farm. They included Clarence, Elmer, Paul, Carl, Leroy, Lawrence and Ruth Bristle. The latter died in 1947. Mr. Bristle died in 1959.

The farm is believed to have been in the Whitaker family for more than 70 years.

Other families known to have lived on the farm prior to 1910 include the Daniel Wackers and the Godfrey Fitzmeiers.

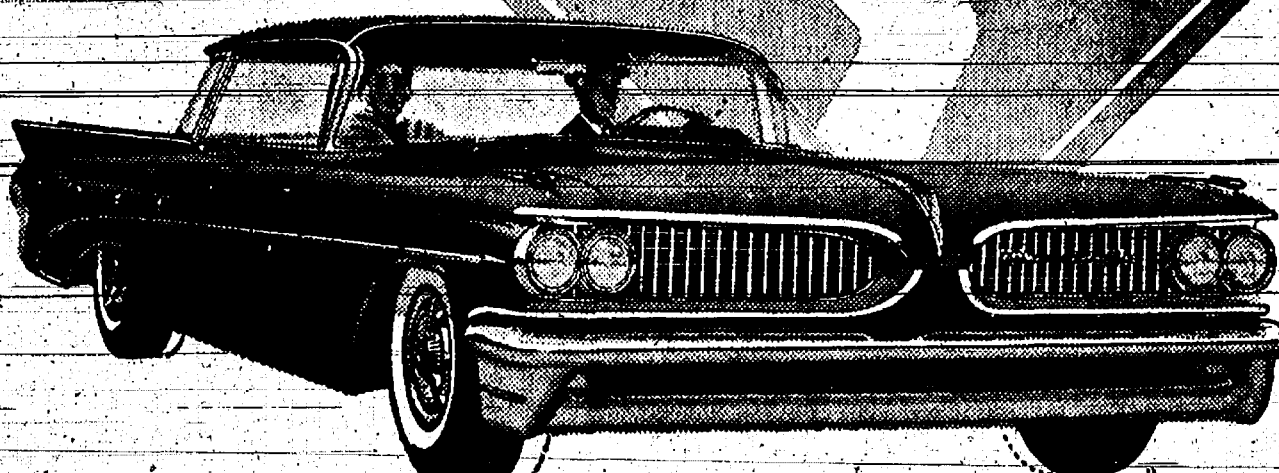

Those who called The Standard office to identify the Pastor farm are Allen Brosamle, Anton Nielsen, David Pastor, Charles and Lottie Curtis, Mrs. Walter Eschbach, Mrs. Dave Pastor, Don Keiser, Walter Beutler, Mrs. Walter Trinkle, Judy Woolley, Paul Rothfus, Harley Hart, Grace Kushmaul, Leroy Bristle and Mrs. William Quigley.

G. O. P. SCORED

The AFL-CIO said recently that a faction within the Republican "right-to-work" laws was the same group that "forced" the resignation of Sherman Adams.

The AFL-CIO News, the union's newspaper, said in an editorial that the same "dominant elements" in the G. O. P. have pegged their election hopes in November "on an irresponsible attack on organized labor."

Healthy Local Industry Is What Makes Job Opportunities for Young People

The youth of today are the leaders of tomorrow. But will the youth who live in our town today be around tomorrow to assume the responsibilities of leadership? Will your sons and daughters and those of your neighbor stay to enjoy what we have built for them?

Unfortunately, many of our young men and women will leave us forever when they go off to college and service, returning only to visit.

They will settle elsewhere unless there are opportunities—job opportunities—for them here at home.

Too often we hear such things as "he's gone away to get a job" or "she's working in the city."

Why? Because those who left town felt they had a better chance to get a job elsewhere. And in many cases the boys and girls who left for opportunity in another city or town had no other choice to make. There were not any attractive job opportunities for them.

This might not have been the case if everyone in town had worked together to create new job opportunities as the town's population increased.

The problem of young men and women having to look elsewhere for opportunity will increase in the years immediately ahead as the "war babies" leave school and enter the job market.

One answer to the problem might be for all of us to start a business or manufacturing operation so our sons and daughters will have work. But it's not a very practical solution.

Something can be done, though, if all of us join in an all-out effort to attract new industry and encourage our present industry to expand locally.

We should all let our present industry know we appreciate it and tell others about the advantages our town offers to new industry.

The problem of young men and women leaving our town for opportunity elsewhere is the theme of an advertisement entitled "Is This Trip Necessary?" which appears today in The Standard. It is one of a series of industrial advertisements sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department in an effort to stimulate local industrial development programs. Participating newspapers throughout the state are voluntarily contributing space to publish these ads free of charge. If all of this space were purchased at prevailing rates it would require an expenditure of more than $250,000.

Here, as elsewhere in America, Boy Scout Week is being observed Feb. 7-13. It marks the 49th anniversary of the organization that has touched the lives of more than 29,500,000 Americans since 1910. There is hardly an American family that has not felt its influence.

Today there are more than 4,780,000 boys and leaders playing the "game of scouting." Although one of every four boys 8 to 16 years old is enrolled, leaders of the movement want to serve at least a majority of the boys in America.

The next five years will see a large increase in the number of boys in those ages which the Boy Scout movement serves. Today there are 5,088 boys in Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting, and Exploring within the Portage Trails Council which administers scouting in this area. Within five years, local leaders expect to find 6,000 enrolled.

"Looking head for the next five years," says Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive, "we must recognize that never has it been so important or imperative that the youth of our nation be trained to high idealism, acquired through unselfish service, by self-reliance, and co-operative effort."

He says that although scouting's ideals and objectives have remained constant since 1910, "the program, organization methods, and operating techniques have changed as the result of study and understanding of changing conditions and as necessary to meet the needs of a rapidly growing organization."

To bring scouting to more of the boys who want it will require more trained leadership and more facilities, including camps.

We are confident that the Boy Scouts of America will meet the challenge. Happy birthday, Boy Scouts!

The only time some people are even suspected of any manners at all is when they are accused of having bad ones.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan's newspapers produce results for the state in ways which are most always obvious to the casual observer. Some of these were apparent at the annual convention of the Michigan Press Association held last week at East Lansing.

Weekly newspapers were on the receiving end of a hat tipping from Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who appeared briefly on the program. He urged all newspapers to devote their efforts to informing the public of facts and factors in the crisis in state finances. He added it would be "nice" if his ideas were supported in the press, but much more important that newspapermen see to it that the public is fully, fairly and impartially informed.

Then he remarked: "The weekly newspapers, everywhere I went during the last campaign, seemed to be more alert in covering the local political news than I have ever experienced before. They covered Democratic meetings with full stories and frequently with pictures. I'm sure they did the same for Republican meetings, and this is as it should be. The campaign coverage by many weekly newspapers in 1958 certainly deserves public commendations, and I am glad to give it to them."

Promotion of the state's farm products by Michigan newspapers was accomplished at a gala affair called the "All Michigan Dinner."

Only food produced in Michigan is served, except for coffee. Many agricultural groups co-operate by sending the finest possible samples of their products.

In addition to the meal, each table setting included a supply of what has come to be called "loot." These are samples made available by ag groups and food processors.

Here's the menu for this year's dinner: tomato juice, cole slaw, green beans, baked potatoes, cherry pie with ice cream. Sounds simple, but it's a lot of work to put together.

Mr. Baruch is an adviser to Presidents, and I'm wondering where he gets all them un-American ideas. Certainly, well-avoided inflation if everybody works harder, and if everybody goes to jail there won't be no crime on the outside. What Mr. Baruch is advising is about like telling us we ought to burn down the Capitol to get rid of some of them Congressmen that got to Washington by mistake.

We're getting entirely too many strange ideas in this country. If Mr. Baruch wants to work harder, let him do it. It's a free country, and I'm all for him. But I got better ideas on how to cure inflation. For instance, some of them folks in Government could get out of the public trough and do half a day's honest work at someone else. We got about four million folks on the Federal payroll and there ain't more'n half of 'em that does a honest day's work once a week. They been lapping up the but there are very few states which can boast agriculture activity to match it.

 Entree was called "Billionaire's Beef." This meat already available to the public, was developed by MSU over the years to be exceptionally tender and tasty.
 "Loot" included some brand new products. A cherry sauce made and canned in Traverse City shows promise as an improvement over sauces already on the market, especially those served with fowl.
 A new powdered drink, orange in color and promoted for breakfast, is entirely produced in Battle Creek. Pre-cooked beans, which if accepted by the housewife, will help set an important Michigan product, was given as samples. New cereals, baby food, sausage and crackers were also present. Excellent samples of familiar products demonstrate clearly that when it comes to apples, mushrooms, potatoes, sugar, honey, skimmed milk, "Jiffy" chocolate fudge frosting mix, from Chelsea Milling Co., and even baby evergreen trees, Michigan can meet or beat similar products from any state.
 The "All Michigan Dinner" is presented with co-operation of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. This year's banquet was the 18th. During the last 18 years, virtually every new food product in this state has taken its place one time or another on the "All Michigan Dinner" table.
 Another Michigan newspaper activity which received attention during the publication convention was the Industrial Promotion campaign co-sponsored by the state Economic Development Department and MPA.
 Walker Ciesler, president of Detroit Edison and one of the state's best known businessmen, spoke for the Economic Development Commission. He presented retiring president Robert S. Marshall, publisher of the Greenway County Herald in West Branch, a plaque in appreciation of his newspaper's participation in the program.

Similar plaques were mailed to all 316 Michigan newspapers which took part in the campaign. The industrial promotion program consists of 26 quarter page ads to be printed at two week intervals for a year. To purchase the space used in these messages, an advertiser would have to pay more than a quarter million dollars.

Newspapers were urged to warn their readers of the dangers of continued high government spending by Frank O. Prior, chairman of the board of Standard Oil (Ind.).

Prior said more facts should be dug out and presented to the public about the effect of such spending internationally. He stated that world financiers are losing faith in U. S. currency; that our products

At least one State Department operates at a profit to the taxpayers of Michigan. Although government units are not designed to do such, it is refreshing to know in all the present financial darkness, the executive division of the Attorney General's office brings in to the treasury much more money than it costs to operate. Other state officials do too, but people might naturally think of tax collectors without even hearing of the executive operation.

Briefly, executive staffers are concerned with bringing to the state property abandoned for more than seven years and inheriting where there are no proper heirs.

Two of 14 divisions of his office, according to Attorney General Paul L. Adams, bring in 40 times the cost of their administration. The same two divisions bring in seven times as much revenue as it costs to operate all 40 of the divisions.

In dollars and cents, these two brought in $780,874 last year. Cost of their operation was $112,600. It would take $780,870 to operate the entire Attorney General's office.

The Letter-box:
 Many people in this area are wondering about the spot check of opinion on the new high school during open house. These opinions were all positive, yet we heard many people voice strong disapproval of foolish extravaganzas obtained only by a debt of almost half a lifetime. Children attending now will be paying for it many years from now.

Rugs of about $20 a square yard quality (figure the total) and equipment of commercial quality which even lumber yards and professional men do not own have been installed for children to learn on. Lathes at a cost of $4,000 each might better be purchased when the "full load of students" still on the way to upper grade levels has arrived there, not before. It is doubtful that five metal lathes will be needed at one time at this date.

Good quality in necessities is a good investment, but luxuries on borrowed money, especially when the immediate future will demand still more classrooms, is a folly. Rugs and upholstered furniture will not make Chelsea students any better citizens than our neighbors. When we vote on a bond issue we ought to be told exactly what we are getting.

Another taxpayer.

Editor's Note: Of the 25 or so persons solicited at random only two wished to make no public statement. Naturally, not everyone will agree that the program has been well handled. But observation of the scene and the high percentage of voluntary endorsements by those who have made a thorough study of the needs and a close inspection of the new school plant led to only one conclusion—that most everyone is very well pleased and satisfied with the new facility.

IS THIS TRIP NECESSARY?

Who, would you say, are the most important people in our town? The young people? We like to think it is for them we are building the town and that they are the ones who will build the town tomorrow.

But will they, the young people of your acquaintance, be here tomorrow? Very largely that depends on the opportunities, the job opportunities, here at home.

The next time you hear of a young man or young woman leaving for an opportunity elsewhere, ask yourself: Is this trip necessary?

It's not practical to expect each of us to start a business or manufacturing operation just so our own sons and daughters will have work. What we can do, though, is to contribute our efforts to attracting new industry here and to help existing industry to expand locally. We can let everyone know of our town's industrial advantages. We can show our appreciation of present industry and see that its needs are met.

If we do these things, we'll be making opportunities here at home, and that's the right place for opportunities anytime.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

The new campus style Chelsea High School was opened formally with an assembly held in the auditorium, presided over by Superintendent Charles S. Cameron. Members of the Board of Education were present. Board President Dr. J. V. Fisher gave a speech saying that we have a great school and a great opportunity, that it is up to students to make the most of the opportunity.

Mr. Bernie Young, of Classroom, Inc., also spoke about the beauty of the school, calling it the best looking school in the state. He then entertained the group with a display of "magic." He was assisted by Bob Smith (in costume) and Dave Rowe and Loren Keizer.

Mr. Lane then introduced the new teachers, Mrs. Bender, Mr. McGill, and Mr. McKay. The principal then proceeded to outline the rules and procedures under which the school will operate. He was very concise and very definite. He told where and when the classes would meet. After assembly a "short" schedule was run through.

Because of the confusion of moving, no GAA meetings have been held. A fun night might well be planned for February. Also, a swimming party with FFA is being planned. The first basketball game will be held this week. Uniforms were passed out last Friday.

Student Council has recently appropriated rather substantial sums of money. $75 was allotted to the Junior High Student Council as soon as they organized. $22 was apportioned for records for the new high school as the others were left for Junior High. Don Ferguson and Bob Smith will select the records.

Roger Herman presented party plans for the Junior Class prom on May 23. It was tabled until more information is available, although the date has been reserved. For use at parties, Patty Pastor and Joanne Wojcikowski will buy a new guest book.

Mr. Bergman brought up the idea of using the Student Council money on props for the new stage. These props will benefit the entire school and the topic is being looked into. Discussion also centered around the desirability of having music played before and after school, having prayer or Bible reading in the morning, and whether to sing the national anthem at the opening of each basketball game.

The Sophomores have finished paying their first semester dues, so the treasury now contains $899.52. The date for the freshman sophomore dance has been set for March 7.

Last week a new semester began... a last semester for the seniors. Many are going to be sorry to leave their new and elegant surroundings come June, but all are proud that they will be remembered as the first graduating class from the new CHS.

The class is hoping that the ice cream and potato chips they sell every noon in the cafeteria will boost their treasury.

Last Saturday night the seniors staged the first big dance in the new school with their "Mardi Gras." All enjoyed the modern atmosphere of the cafeteria and the festive motif of Mardi Gras.

Play tryouts were held last week. Some parts are as yet not definitely assigned.

Practice began this Monday and will continue for six busy weeks. Committees will be announced in the near future.

At the recent Junior class meeting, Judy Welch reported on the progressing preparations for the prom. Several dates were discussed and the class selected May 23 as the date for the Junior-Senior prom. It was also decided that the prom would be held in the cafeteria at the new school and that the traditional dinner would be served. Committee chairmen were selected by the planning committee, and additional volunteers for these committees were requested. In charge of decoration is Jane McLaughlin; Barrie Fisher, and Diane Gary are in charge of the food; Linda Fisher and Ron Doering are in charge of the invitations and menu; Kathy Goltra and Barbara Berke are in charge of addressing the invitations.

Several themes for the prom were discussed, but there was some difficulty on the selection of one particular theme. It was decided to let the decoration committee choose two or three themes, explain the advantages and problems of each, to the class, which would proceed to choose one.

Barbara Berke is chairman of a play committee to select several plays, and submit them to the class for vote. The play is hoped to be presented in April.

The long planned journalism dinner will finally be held Feb. 23. All journalism students are urged to attend.

Assignments for the next Bulldog Barks coming out on Feb. 17 were given at this time. Miss Fox then led discussion on a bulletin board for the Journalism room.

FFA members were very sorry their trip to Manchester, which was scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 8, was cancelled because of road conditions. They will travel to Manchester sometime in the future.

Wednesday, Feb. 11, during activity period, only officers met. That night the whole club met in the new home-economics room for their first night meeting of the new semester. They discussed plans for a dance sometime in the future. Nothing definite was reached.

Our school's 1959 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is Sue Patrick.

She received the highest score in a 50-minute written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes taken by graduating senior girls. She will receive a homemaker pin manufactured by Josten's, which represents the slogan, "Home is Where the Heart Is." Her examination paper will be entered in competition with those of other school winners in the state to name the state Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The test is designed and judged by Science Research Associates. Each state Homemaker of Tomorrow will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, an educational trip April 4-10 with her school advisor to Washington, D.C., colonial Williamsburg, Va., New York City and Minneapolis, and she will be candidate for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. The school of each state winner will receive a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica. General Mills will award a $500 scholarship to each state runner-up.

The Latin club plans to have their dinner on April 15. They have not as yet decided where, but the committees were organized. Menu:

Lynn Lipphart, Kay Runciman, David Lixey and Pat O'Neill. Entertainment: David Talbot, Gary Berger, Ava McDougal, Nancy Carter and Jerry Abdon. Decoration: Daniel Mayer, Kathryn Kinde, Susan Grossman, Carol Hulsburg, Stanley Hand, Kathy Salsburg, Scott Chaplin, Linda Koenigster, Diane Holmes, and Gerald Schiller.

The club also discussed having a meeting in the evening at Lynn Lipphart's home, but as yet nothing definite has been decided.

Latin club has decided not to join the Junior Classical League. Daniel Mayer is in charge of writing the letter to that effect.

The band's annual solo and ensemble contest was held on Feb. 5. The brass solos were played in the new high school auditorium with Mr. John Alexander from the U. of M. acting as judge. Woodwind solos were held in the chorus room of the Junior High building.

Mr. Robert Kinder from Ipsant acted as judge. Division ratings were given in form of a No. 6 being poor to 1 being superior.

Senior Band members traveled to Thurston High Saturday, with mixed emotions. The excitement of a big day ahead and yet the fear of playing their solo in front of all those people. The solos were in small classrooms. The judges were not nearly as awful as it seemed they would be and the events turned out actually enjoyable.

Band members have expressed their pleasure of the new band room. It is enjoyed and appreciated by all.

A mass band concert for the Stockbridge, Dexter, Saline, Manchester, and Chelsea bands is planned for Feb. 12 in the new High School auditorium.

Chelsea has teams other than the variety and junior varsity basketball. The freshmen team is coached by Truman O'Doherty and the seventh and eighth grade teams coached by George Frising.

The freshmen team has defeated Dexter freshmen, 25-22, and lost to Manchester, 35-22.

The seventh grade lost to Dexter, 15-30; to Saline, 21-26; and to Lincoln, 13-22; eighth grade defeated Dexter, 21-14; defeated Saline, 31-20; and Lincoln, 29-19.

TELL-TALE TRAIL
Exira, Ind. — After filling his truck with more than 800 bushels of corn out of government storage bins near this small Indiana town, Jewel Houy, of Opelousas, La., sped away. But H. P. Jor-Houy,

Which Industry Now Better the Living of 3 Out of 4 Michigan Families?

...Here Are Some Surprising Facts About The Trading Stamp Industry

So far, whenever our nation's economy has needed expansion, a new industry has sprung up to help the country go ahead.

The automobile industry, employing millions, was followed closely by the development of radio and radio broadcasting to make more millions of jobs. Then came the airplane industry, air conditioning, plastics, television, frozen foods, to change our lives some more.

The trading stamp industry, while not new, belongs to the expansion group and has been one of the fastest growing of all. Today it better the living of more than 3 out of 4 Michigan families who save trading stamps.

Obviously, an industry affecting such a large proportion of Michigan's population must bring far-reaching benefits for Michigan's economy. And it does. In 1957 the trading stamp industry bought $9,816,000 worth of products from Michigan manufacturers. In one way or another, it provided employment for 1,016 Michigan people in many different industries.

The people in the trading stamp industry, its merchandise and redemption stores, its warehouses and transportation and all the activity that goes on within it are integrated economically everywhere within our state.

Thus it seems plain that the trading stamp industry along with the 1,690,000 Michigan women it serves has become, like other expansion industries, a living, vital segment of Michigan's economy.

Owners report QUALITY outstanding

Your money in a Buick today puts you in on the ground floor of what promises to be a long new time of leadership for Buick cars. "My sixth Buick and the best I ever owned!" "Best-operating car I've driven in thirty years!" "Much the best Buick yet!" Reports like these mean extra pleasure in your Buick ownership... and they mean hard dollar value when the time comes to trade. It all adds up to the best proof in 50 years that: "WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK PEOPLE WILL BUILD THEM!"

New in gas economy, too!

Across the country owners tell us they are getting 15 to 20 miles per gallon in the '59 Buicks. And in a recent thorough test of Buick LeSabre against another car of comparable size and a good reputation for economy... the Buick won in every case under all kinds of driving conditions.

Sup. Rae supported by Sup. Leonard moved that the report of the Legislative Committee of the Supervisors Inter-County Committee be approved for submission to the Legislature. Carried. (Report on file in the County Clerk's office)

Sup. Morgan supported by Sup. Edward W. Frederick moved that the report of the Supervisors Inter-County Committee meeting of December 5th, 1958, be received. Carried. (On file in the County Clerk's office)

The Administrator reported that at the request of the committee chairman he had contacted five surrounding counties to find out how these transactions were handled elsewhere. He reported that replies had been received from four counties, all of which indicated that per diem payments for Supervisors were handled in the same manner as other disbursements for personal services—namely, by submitting vouchers to the County Controller or County Board of Auditors, who in turn authorized payment. In some counties periodic reports of per diem payments made to Supervisors were prepared and distributed to each Supervisor.

After extended discussion the members of the committee concluded that it still would be desirable to have the chairman of the Per Diem Committee review vouchers for per diem payments submitted by board members, but that it should not be necessary for the reports to be read in detail at the monthly board meetings.

Motion was offered by Hughes supported by Rice that the Committee recommend to the Board of Supervisors that it dispense with the reading of Supervisors' per diem reports; that the report be submitted by the Per Diem Committee, Chairman directly to the Board of Auditors; and that the accounting department be directed to prepare a monthly report of committee meetings attended by individual Supervisors and amounts paid; such reports to be distributed to each member of the Board of Supervisors. Motion was carried.

Sup. Bauer supported by Sup. Rice moved the adoption of the report. Carried.

Sup. Will supported by Sup. Pearson moved that the Buildings and Grounds Committee be given power to act on the acceptance of a price of $5,000.00 for County Farm property to be sold to the City of Ann Arbor.

Sup. Silkworth supported by Sup. Kern moved to table the subject matter until the February meeting of the Board. Motion lost.

The original motion was carried. The Board Chairman's Activities report since the December 10, 1958 session is on file in the County Clerk's office.

The Minutes of the meeting were approved as read.

Sup. Leuthouser supported by Sup. Kern moved to adjourn until Tuesday February 10th, 1959, at 10:30 a.m., or at the call of the Chair.

Nation's Largest College Nuclear Reactor at U. of M.

Ann Arbor—The nation's most powerful college nuclear reactor, specialized museum, an internationally known medical center and a 101,000-seat football stadium are among the diversified sights to be seen at the University of Michigan.

The U-M ranked seventh among the state's top tourist attractions in a survey of its faculty and staff.

Extending four miles across the center of Ann Arbor, the University is comprised of 126 buildings valued at $130 million. These structures are situated on 1,800 acres of land.

The U-M has 15 colleges and schools at Ann Arbor, and several institutes, service and administrative units.

The campus is divided into four general areas: the athletic area in the southwest, the main campus in the center, the medical center in the northeast, and the Hill Campus, located among the hills across the Huron River from the Medical Center.

Athletic fields, the stadium, fieldhouses and an athletic administration building are located in the first area. All physical education structures have been paid for by receipts from athletic contests.

The main campus is the point where the University's first buildings were erected in 1807. Concentrated into a few city blocks are classroom buildings, laboratories, offices and museums. The Law School with its picturesque Gothic building, occupies an entire block.

Overlooking the area is Burton Memorial Tower, which houses the school of music offices and the Charles Baird 53-bell carillon.

The Medical Center, which trains hundreds of doctors annually, is recognized as one of the finest institutions of its kind in the nation. Thousands of Michigan residents come to the Center each week for treatment.

North Campus is the main area of the University's post-war expansion. The nuclear reactor, aeronautical and automotive engineering laboratories, and apartment units for 700 married students have been built in this region.

Group tours of the University may be arranged by contacting the U-M Community Services Office, 3511 Administration Building, Ann Arbor.

Motorists Won't Walk Far from Parking Place

Ann Arbor—How far is the average motorist willing to walk after parking his car in the city?

That depends, according to Prof. John C. Kohl, head of the Transportation Institute at the University of Michigan, on whether the driver is a man going to work or a woman going shopping.

If the motorist is headed for work, he'll walk quite a distance, but the housewife bound for the store doesn't like to step more than 300 to 500 feet.

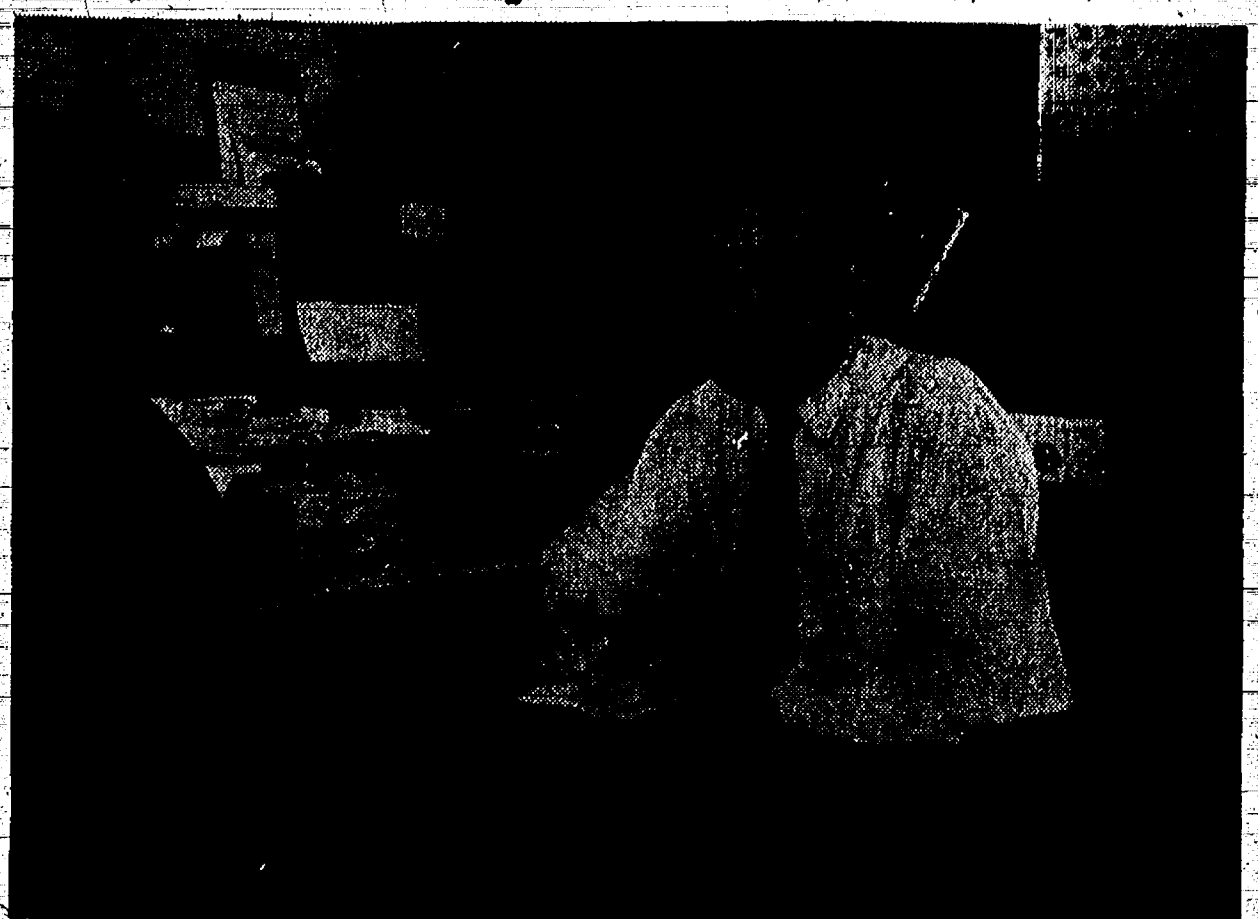

In any event, the maximum the average driver will walk is 1,300 feet or about one-quarter mile, although big city dwellers will walk further than those who live in smaller towns.

With the lack of adequate parking in an increasing headache everywhere, Professor Kohl states the mere provision of a parking facility will not always solve the problem. The facility must be appealing to the driver in location, convenience and cost.

That's why some motorists will circle the block looking for a parking place instead of driving another block to an uncrowded parking structure.

'Women Better Patients,' Says Family Doctor of Year

Dr. Lonnie A. Coffin, 66, of Farmington, Iowa, back at work after being named General Practitioner of the Year by the American Medical Association.

"Women are better patients than men," according to Dr. Lonnie A. Coffin, Family Doctor of the Year. "They'll do what you tell them, but men won't."

At 66, Dr. Coffin is a warm and happy man, busy with the health needs of more than 3,000 people in and around rural Farmington, Iowa. Enriched by 46 years of country doctoring, he is also a man who speaks his mind, a philosopher with concise and witty views on life.

On smoking: "It's undoubtedly bad for you. I gave it up after my coronary, and he stopped to light one of his six daily cigars—I've given it up several times since then."

On health: "The work of the voluntary health agencies makes me confident about the future. The National Foundation, for instance, which helped us eight years ago when a polio epidemic hit Farmington (three of Dr. Coffin's four grandchildren were stricken), is now applying its March of Dimes funds to problems like arthritis and birth defects. That's good news and good health."

On sickness: "If you're sick, do what you can to get well, but try not to worry about it. If you worry, you'll feel worse and so will everybody around you."

On being sick at night: "We all get sicker at night. That's because we have more time to think about ourselves."

On drinking: "There are only certain people who should drink. Those who can both control it and afford it."

On being a doctor: "I try to take care of people no matter what the hour, no matter where they live, no matter who they are. Where or when they get sick is not their fault."

On being a doctor named "Coffin": "Well, it's true that's what they carry you off in, but the fact is my name hasn't scared off too many patients."

NEWS

Harold Hecht and Burt Lancaster called Wendy Hiller long-distance to offer her the feminine lead in "The Way West," A. B. Guthrie, Jr.'s Pulitzer prize novel, which they will screen this fall.

"Career" with Dean Martin, Shirley Maclaine and Carolyn Jones in "Hill Wallis" next. "Summer Smoke" has been postponed until late in the year, and Wallis has signed Joan Simmons for another picture after that.

Sophia Loren declares she will go to Italy to make a picture in September. With that bigamy charge hanging fire.

Both Metro and Columbia are trying to work out a deal with Warners for the services of Paul Newman after he does the Tennessee Williams play on Broadway.

It took serious but her divorce is not yet final.

Mitzi Gaynor and David Niven will be co-hosts of the Academy Awards on March 26.

Today's picture review:

THE PERFECT FURLOUGH

The corporal (played by Tony Curtis), who is fagged to enjoy the "perfect furlough" is a member of a bunch of lonely men stationed at (Bratt) an Army base. It is Tony's happy chore to bring a little joy into their lives, somewhat vicariously, by spending three weeks in Gay Paree with a beautiful movie star (Linda Cristal). This brings it, incidentally, was dreamed up by the Army, to bolster morale, etc., the only drawback to the scheme being that said Army had no idea that the trip would be won by the most enterprising and most determined ladies' man of all times.

In order that nobody takes advantage of this situation, Tony is chaperoned by bodyguards, among whom are a WAC lieutenant (Janet Leigh), a psychologist who was guilty of thinking up the idea in the first place—a harassed major, and a couple of tough MPs. Linda, of course, brings her own watchdog with her; a brisk female-type individual supplied by the studio.

Complications, naturally, follow, with everyone tripping over themselves to keep up with the wily corporal, who is doing his level best to get off on his own to enjoy himself in his own fashion. A light and frothy offering with characterizations played quite satisfactorily by Keenan Wynne as the movie mogul; Elaine Stritch as the star's chaperone; King Donovan as the major.
