Class of 71 Seniors Will Graduate from New High School

Baccalaureate Will Be Held In Auditorium

Commencement Week for the first class to graduate from Chelsea's new high school gets under way Sunday evening with the baccalaureate service which is to take place in the new auditorium. This marks the first time in many years that the service is not being held in the Chelsea Methodist church.

The Rev. Philip Rusten, pastor of the Congregational church, will preside at the service. Other pastors of the community who are being invited to take part in this first baccalaureate service in the new high school are the Rev. P. H. Grabowski of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church; the Rev. Allan W. Reed of St. Barnabas Episcopal Mission; The Rev. Louis Calster of Salem Grove and North Lake Methodist churches; the Rev. C. J. Renner of Zion Lutheran church, Rogers Corners; and the Rev. Dale Ferris of Waterloo Village EUB church.

The Rev. S. D. Kinde will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on the topic, "The Eternal Call To Be Good."

The service begins at 7:30 p.m. Class Night for the 71 graduating seniors in the Class of 1959 will be held in the new gymnasium at the high school, Tuesday evening, June 9, at 8 o'clock.

Marie Forner is to give the salutatory and Ellen Keusch the valedictory.

Seniors who have been assigned to participate in presentation of the evening's program include Ellen Keusch and Robert Smith, class history; Karen Munro, Patricia Neal and Elaine Walker, geography; Sandra Fraser, Marie Forner and Anita Eismann, class play; and Sandra Karner, Carol Barr, Donald Ferguson and D. Patrick Markel, class prophecy.

Presentation of boys' and girls' athletic awards, scholarship and various other awards will also take place at the Class Night program.

The High School band and chorus will also participate.

The Commencement program is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday with Lester W. Anderson, associate professor of education in the school of Education at the University of Michigan, as the commencement speaker. He has served as a consultant in the

State Officers Guests at K. of C. Father-Son Event

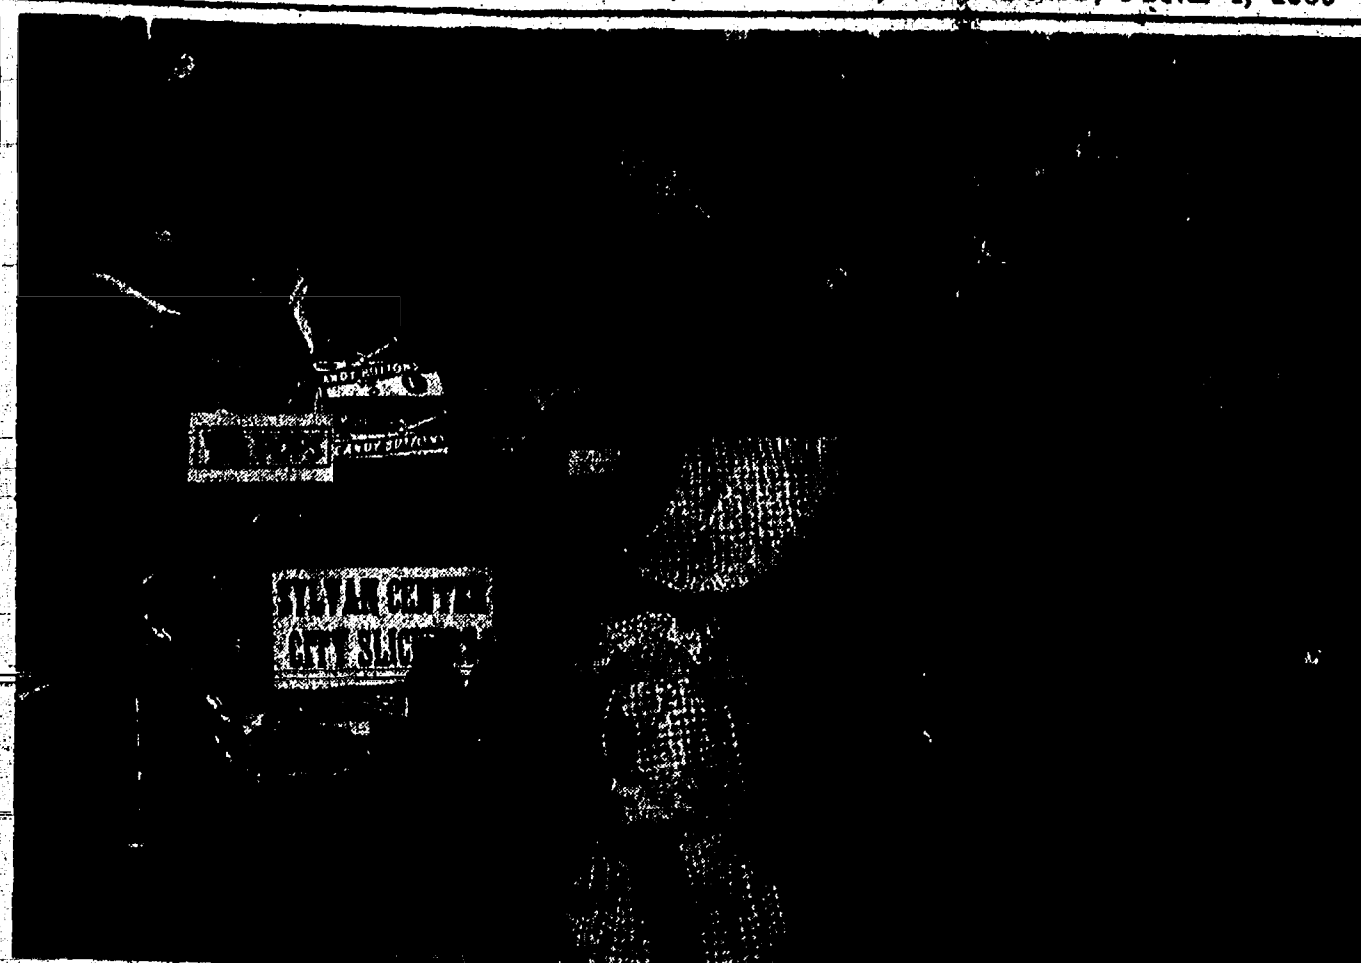

Approximately 120 K. of C. members, their sons and guests attended the annual K. of C. Father and Son Banquet held Tuesday, May 26 at St. Mary's hall.

They were honored by the presence of the following state K. of C. officers: State Chaplain Rev. Fr. Horton; State Deputy Joseph Lyons; Past State Deputy and member of the Boyville Board of Directors Ed Barrett; and District Deputy Richard Dunnigan and son. Each addressed the banquet speaking of Boyville and also the activities of the K. of C. on a state and national basis.

Grand Knight Henry Orthing welcomed the fathers and sons and presented the gifts in the various categories of fathers and sons present. Duane and David Rowe gave the toast to the fathers and sons.

Concluding the program were movies on Boyville shown by John Ford. Willard Guest served as toastmaster. Robert Devine was chairman of the banquet.

Local members are reminded that election of officers will take place at the regular K. of C. meeting June 9.

OLD-FASHIONED CANDY STORE—Sylvan Center City Slickers Anniversary, Belles, who operated an old-fashioned candy store on Main street Friday afternoon, had two customers pointing out the candy they wanted as the photographer happened by. ## Four Candidates Seek School Board Positions In Monday's Election

LUTHER KUSTERER

Next Monday, June 8, is the date for the annual school election in the Chelsea District. Petitions have been certified for four candidates, Stuart R. Booker, Howard W. Flintoft, Willard R. Guest and Luther Kusterer.

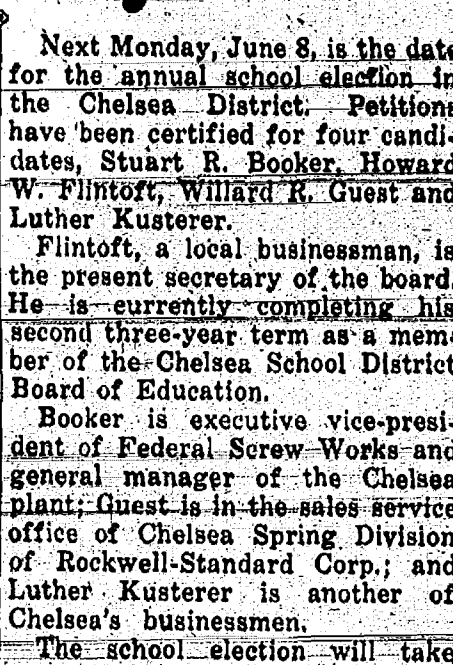

Flintoft, a local businessman, is the present secretary of the board. He is currently completing his second three-year term as a member of the Chelsea School District Board of Education.

Booker is executive vice-president of Federal Screw Works and general manager of the Chelsea plant. Guest is in the sales service office of Chelsea Spring Division of Rockwell-Standard Corp.; and Luther Kusterer is another of Chelsea's businessmen.

The school election will take place in the gymnasium at Chelsea Junior High school on East street. Hours are from 1:00 p.m. until 8:00 p.m.

Also to be voted on at Monday's school election is a proposal for a half-mill tax levy to provide special education for handicapped children.

The Washtenaw County Special Education Committee, which favors its approval, explains details of the proposed program in an article which appears on page 9. In this issue of The Standard, Dr. J. V. Fisher, president of the Chelsea Board of Education, explains his stand on the matter in a statement which also appears on page 9.

STUART R. BOOKER

Luther M. Kusterer who, at 34 years of age, has been in the food merchandising business here for the past 12 years, feels that his business experience would prove to be an asset if he is elected to a position on the Chelsea School District Board of Education.

Kusterer was born in Chelsea and has lived here all his life. He is a graduate of Chelsea High school, attended the University of Michigan and then served three years in the U. S. Army during World War II.

He is an active member of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church and a past member of the church board. He is also a member of the American Legion, the Kiwanis club and the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce.

Kusterer and his wife and two school-age sons live at 223 Harrison street.

When asked for a statement regarding his candidacy he said, "I am definitely interested in the schools and cognizant of the fact that the problems facing the school board are getting more and more complex. The three major problems facing the board are administration, curriculum and business management and I believe, with my business experience, I would be qualified to cope with these problems."

Stuart R. Booker is one of the four candidates for election to two positions to be filled on the Chelsea School District Board of Education at the June 8 election.

Booker is executive vice-president of Federal Screw Works and general manager of the Chelsea plant. He has been affiliated with the company for the past 22 years and has served in various official capacities, including the board of directors, since 1942.

Prior to his affiliation with Federal Screw Works, he had several years of investment and commercial banking experience. It was because of his business experience that he was asked by friends to become a candidate for election to the school board.

In a statement regarding his views Booker said, "I do not think that too much emphasis can be placed on the important job of properly educating the youth of this area. At the same time the magnitude of the job, particularly the sizeable amount of money which the expenses of the school system represent, and the effect that the raising of this money has on every property owning taxpayer in the district, makes it likewise highly important that the administration of the affairs of the school district be carried on in a business-like manner."

Baptist Churches Plan Round Robin Missionary Series

A round-robin missionary program which is the second annual South-Central Baptist-Missionary Conference, will be held from June 7-14 with nine Baptist churches participating, including the Chelsea Baptist church of which the Rev. David Wood is pastor.

Missionaries who will rotate as speakers at the nine churches during the week and the countries they serve are the Rev. George J. Lambert, Russia; the Rev. Ivan Peterson, Africa (Congo); the Rev. Royal Peck, Italy; the Rev. Chauncey Holden, Brazil; the Rev. Jack Drake, New Mexico (Navaho); the Rev. Howard Williams, Formosa; the Rev. George Lang, Japan; the Rev. Robert Yunker, Japan; and the Rev. Archie McKinney, Palestine.

At the Baptist church here services will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11. On Friday, June 12, a joint symposium will be held at the Chelsea Baptist church and Saturday, June 13, at 8:30 p.m., a combined youth banquet will be held at Northwest School in Jackson county.

In addition to the evening services, missionary guests will be speakers at both the June 7 and 14 Sunday morning services at the Chelsea Baptist church. The services begin at 11 a.m.

Library Fund Tops Original Goal, Need $3,000 More

During the past week the Chelsea Public Library-Building Fund goal of $10,000 was reached and members of the Library Board stated they were "really impressed with the generosity of so many fellow townpeople."

Total contributions listed to date amount to $10,372.91.

It was originally estimated that $10,000 would cover the cost of fitting the building for use as a library—safe, useful and attractive, but not in any way extravagant; however, it is now estimated that an additional minimum of $3,000 will be required.

It has been mentioned by some residents that they felt a tax levy should have been made to pay for the remodeling of the building, but it was pointed out that, by law, the highest levy for use of a public library is one mill and this amount is already levied for

Howard Flintoft who is completing his second three-year term as a member of the Chelsea School District Board of Education and is serving as secretary of the board, is a candidate for re-election next Monday.

His experience as a board member during the past six years covers the planning, financing and construction of North Elementary school—the recent addition to North Elementary school and the new high school.

Flintoft said yesterday that he would like to continue as a member of the board for another term in order to take part in a continuation of "the exceptional" progress made here in the past few years. Having participated in the board's long-term planning for the best interests of all people of the school district, he said, he would like to remain on the board while these plans are carried out.

Flintoft said he is particularly concerned that educational standards remain at the highest level possible for both the pre-college

WILLARD R. GUEST

Willard R. Guest, who is employed in the sales service office of Rockwell-Standard Corp., Chelsea Spring Division, in giving his reasons for seeking election as a member of the Chelsea School District Board of Education, said he

Booker is a member of St. Barnabas Episcopal church and at present is a member of the Bishop's Committee and the building committee of the church.

He also is a member of the Chelsea Community Chest board of directors and served as its first president.

Kiddies' Parade Set For Saturday

A special feature of Chelsea's 125th Anniversary celebration for the homecoming will be a boys' and girls' parade at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

There will be a tri-cycle section for children six years and under; junior bands, neighborhood floats, and mass marching in costume, either old-fashioned or in favorite TV, movie, cowboy or other character style.

The floats must be built on children's four-wheel wagons. The parade will be conducted by David Rowe and Earl Heller of the Chelsea High School Student Council, with the assistance of Jack Good.

Assembly for the parade is set for 12:30 p.m. at the Junior High school.

Street Dance Scheduled For Saturday

Friday night, Chelsea Belles and Brothers of the Brush and all others in the community are invited to participate in a street dance to be held on Park street

Anniversary Queen Contest Still Open

Don't forget! June 8 is the final date for nominating a candidate for the title of "125th Anniversary Queen."

Rules for entering the competition are repeated as follows:

1. Any girl between 16 and 26, single or married, living in Chelsea or the Chelsea area may enter.
2. Fill out the entry form in The Standard and mail or bring it to the celebration headquarters or to Donald Alber.
3. Anyone may nominate a girl by filling out an entry blank.
4. Nominations will close June 8. Don't delay! Enter the Queen Contest today. Entry blanks may be found on page six.

There will be many prizes for the winner, including an all-expense paid vacation for one week. There will also be prizes for the court of honor.

The queen and her court will also be guests of honor at all the special anniversary events July 11-18.

Instrumental Solo Recitals Underway For Grade Band

Seventh grade instrumental solo recitals are being held today and tomorrow in the Junior High band room. The recitals begin at 3 p.m.

Announcer for today's recital is Victor Parks, while Mrs. Judson Goltz is to be the piano accompanist and Marcia Bertke and Susan Schroen will serve as usherettes.

Soloists today are Robert Snyder, Janet Sorensen, Ronald Smith, John Briar, Lyle Walz, Pamela Kushmaul, Michael Baize, Barbara Bernath, David Winans, Cheryl Lehmann, Curtis Farley, Carol Mayer, Linda Blass, Allida Martin and Susan Schroen.

Accompanist for tomorrow's recital will be Sherry Frisinger.

Usherettes are to be Janet Sorensen and Carol Mayer and the announcer will be David Winans.

Sellabration Bargain Days

In conjunction with Chelsea's 125th Anniversary Celebration, local merchants are this week-end banding together to offer special low prices in a Sellabration Bargain day event.

By shopping Friday and Saturday, and studying the advertisements in this issue of the Standard, you will find Chelsea stores loaded with real bargains. This is your cue to stock-up and save.

Sellabration Bargain day is another in a series of special shopping features arranged by the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce.

MODERN HEAT TREATING OPERATION—Elden Heller, president of the board of directors of Chelsea Heat Treating, Inc., stands by as Michael Mertes, treasurer of the firm, demonstrates the operation of new heat treating equipment installed at the plant. The huge new furnaces are equipped with hydraulically-operated doors and material conveyor chains for greater efficiency in processing operations.

Enlarged, Reorganized Heat Treat Firm Serves Wide Area

Chelsea Heat Treating, Inc., which succeeds the former Wayne Heat Treating company, has added new equipment adaptable to production of heat treating, carburizing, nitriding, cyaniding, and other heat treating processes. The firm has been operating in Chelsea since April 12.

Members of the firm's board of directors are Elden Heller, president; Merle Sutton and Wayne Gow, vice-presidents; William Rademacher, secretary; and Michael Mertes, treasurer.

Five men are employed at the plant.

Mertes is in charge of maintenance of installations and equipment and Gow is the firm's metallurgist.

Local industries listed as customers of the firm, principally for the hardening and tempering of parts and tools, include Federal Screw Works, Chelsea Products, Papsdorf Manufacturing Co., Production Machining, Rockwell-Standard Corp., Chelsea Grinding, Central Fibre Products and William A. Thomas Co.

Among other area firms on their customer list are Barnes, Gibson, Raymond Co., manufacturers of springs and parts at Ann Arbor and Plymouth; the O & S Bearing Co. at Hamburg; and Burroughs Corp. at Plymouth.

The company maintains pickup and delivery service for the convenience of its customers.

'Remembering When' Chosen as Pageant Name

Chelsea Village Clerk George Winans is the winner of the contest to select a name for the 125th Anniversary pageant to be presented each night of Chelsea's anniversary celebration.

The winning title is "Remembering When" with sub-titles descriptive of the theme of "going back with Chelsea through the years since its founding."

Announcement of Winans as the winner was made following the weekly publicity committee breakfast at the Congregational church Friday morning.

As previously announced, Winans' title will be a family portrait in old-fashioned style in keeping with Chelsea's anniversary celebration.

Mrs. Louis Eppler of Detroit, formerly of Chelsea, spent the Memorial Day week-end here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Grieb.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 58—The driveway leading directly to a long lane should serve as an identifying feature of this week's "mystery farm" photo, the 58th in the current series being published in The Standard. If you recognize the place call the office at once, OR 5-3551. The owner will be given a mounted photo of the farm if he calls at The Standard office by Saturday.

Dr. Conant Tells Plans for Study of Junior High Schools

Plans for a study of the junior high schools throughout the country have been announced by Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University and former Ambassador to the Federal Republic of Germany, as an extension of his present two-year study of the American public high school.

Dr. Conant recently received a grant of $85,000 from the Carnegie-Corporation of New York to make possible an additional year's work.

He and his staff will direct their attention in the first instance to the work of the junior high school, examining various procedures now in effect in grades 7 and 8. In addition, attention will be directed to the instruction in science throughout the 12 grades, the problem of the slow reader, and some of the special problems to be found in the large cities.

In making this announcement, Dr. Conant said:

"The American tax-supported high school continues to be the focus of my attention. However, in many communities, the idea of a high school embraces grades 7 through 12, and in my previous study I was concerned only with grades 9 through 12. Eventually, I shall prepare a final report of my study which I hope may assist the lay citizens to understand some of the problems facing those in charge of our tax-supported schools.

The final report will attempt to deal with some of the types of schools and some of the problems which could be only mentioned in passing in the report which has already been published. I shall be particularly concerned with the different types of problems facing teachers and administrators in schools in different types of communities. Probably there is no one aspect of American public education which so confuses the layman as the differences which can be readily found by comparing a high-income suburban area with a medium-sized industrialized city. This is certainly true of the senior high school, and I am anxious to discover to what extent it is also true of the work in the lower grades."

Thus far in his study Dr. Conant has directed his attention to the comprehensive high school, grades 9 through 12. His first report to interested citizens, "The American High School Today," was published in January by McGraw-Hill and to date more than 200,000 copies have been distributed. The report contains a detailed summary of his findings after visits to schools in 18 states, together with 21 specific recommendations for the improvement of public high schools.

The Sunday edition of the New York Times, with 90 pages, has a weekly consumption of 800 cords of pulpwood, the product of 80 acres of wood.

Ban Expected On Boats at Big Silver

Lansing—Conservation Department officials are expected to issue an order this week closing the boat launching site at Pinckney recreation area on Big Silver Lake to power-driven craft.

The ban is aimed at restoring the recreation area to its original use as a picnicking and bathing site.

Canoes and light rowboats may be launched but motors of any kind will not be permitted. In recent years, boating enthusiasts have sharply reduced available parking for picnickers and bathers.

During peak days of public use last season, approximately 21 percent of the beach parking lot's capacity was used by persons primarily interested in boating. This does not include the percentage of the parking lot that was used by those transporting boats on car-top carriers.

According to park rangers at Pinckney, boats are able to fill the lot with their trailers before picnickers and bathers arrive. In addition, a traffic problem is created by boats who stop their cars to load and unload their boats and gear in the narrow turning loop at the end of the parking lot.

Considerable concern has also been stirred by dangerous and illegal activities of some boaters immediately adjacent to the beach when the area was filled by bathers.

There are at least 10 other locations in the Pinckney area where boats can launch their craft from public access points.

Balanced Diets Eliminate Need For Many Pills

Ann Arbor—You don't need pills, powders and capsules to be well-nourished.

According to nutritionists at the University of Michigan Medical Center, most of these products contain known vitamins and minerals in quantities far greater than the normal daily requirements.

While there is no evidence to show that excess vitamins and minerals will improve health, it is generally believed that an overdose of some nutrients can actually be harmful.

The fact is, say the U-M dietitians, that all vitamins and minerals needed by the average person are contained in standard foods.

Alcon, Ohio—These little tots could do a lot of "wheeling" on this tire, but even with a child's imagination, it wouldn't quite fit their tricycles. It is the world's largest tire, built in Akron, Ohio, by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. The mammoth tire, which stands 10 feet high and is four feet wide, is a research model for a planned line of earthmover and special purpose tires for huge construction machines. With the price of this tire—$14,000—you could buy a three-bedroom home, and with the nylon fabric used in its construction, more than 7,000 pairs of ladies' hose could have been made. Enough rubber was used to produce 3,200 passenger car tires. Size designation for the tire is 44-846, which means the distance across the sidewall is 44.5 inches and the bead diameter is 84.6 inches. It weighs two tons by itself and three tons when equipped with its rim.

LANSING Observer

By FRANK G. MORRIS

Lansing—One of the strangest political threats of this strange era was the report last week that Gov. Williams was mad enough to step out of the presidential race and run instead for a seventh term.

The story was published by a couple of newspaper correspondents in Lansing who have access to the inner councils of the Williams strategists.

It was picked up by others and given wide circulation. Republican Senators were supposed to quake at the thought of another election battle against the miracle-worker who has driven the GOP out of every room in the state capitol except the legislative chambers.

The presumption in the front office, apparently, was that the Senators would drop their sales tax bill as if it were an A-bomb. They were to come running to the Governor's office with a plea for forgiveness.

The threat that he might venture to lead Democrats to another victory in 1960 scared no one except Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Hare's inclination was to bolt the distressed group at the top of the Democratic Party then and there and start running openly for Williams' job.

The Secretary of State was upset at the time because of the Governor's determination to withhold state paychecks. Hare knew the general fund that fateful day had a balance of more than $14 million. He could not justify Williams' stubborn insistence that the $5 million payroll should be missed with the casual indifference of a man failing to pay his grocer.

Secretary of State Hare, who led the Democratic slate last November, expects the UAW will oppose him for the nomination for governor next year. He expects the union will be able to pry Justice George Edwards from the Supreme Court and push the once-ambitious Edwards into the race.

But Hare made a commitment last December to Democratic State Chairman Neil Staebler that he would make no open bid for the governorship until the 1959 legislative session is ended.

Nonetheless, he was pulling at the halter last week with angry impatience. It required soothing syrup from State Chairman Staebler to hold him in line.

When he was restrained from meeting his payroll, while the administration was hoarding so many millions, the Secretary of State demonstrated political wisdom by giving each of his employees a certificate as evidence of the State of Michigan's indebtedness. He was the only government official smart enough to reveal his resentment in this way.

The certificates could not be cashed at the bank. But the employees praised Hare's thoughtfulness.

And Gov. Williams appreciated the fact that Hare did not add to the certificates a line stating that the pay day need not have been skipped.

State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown, the only member of the administration who has not acquired college polish, was impatient over Gov. Williams' decision to duck the payroll at that time. Brown was in an uncomfortable spot trying to explain why Michigan could not yield $5 million to its employees when the general fund was so prosperous and the state had a total of $14 million on hand in cash.

Brown will run for Governor, too, if the opportunity looks ripe next Spring.

But he wasn't ready to break free from the Williams-Rutherford group last week because he is convinced that pay days must be missed anyway if the legislature doesn't raise emergency cash before June 15.

Of course, the implication that Williams might punish Republicans by seeking a seventh term is as phony as his insistence that a sales tax isn't good for the people and therefore they shouldn't be permitted to have the kind of tax they want.

All of the several newspaper polls show the people want a sales tax by three and four to one. The lowest margin was in Detroit, where a sales tax was approved by 51 per cent of those polled. It turned out, however, that 60 per cent of those favoring an income tax were unemployed, and that none ever expect an income tax that would cost them a dollar.

So with Senator Carlton H. Morris, (R) Kalamazoo, directing the fight, Republicans in the upper chamber are ready to hold fast for a sales tax even if the issue is not settled until the 1960 legislative session opens next January. There can be no compromise between a sales tax and an income tax because there is no middle ground between these two radically opposite theories.

Gov. Williams and others soon will offer rosy propositions that may appear to be attractive. But all will include a form of income tax as part of the package.

Republican Senators will not yield because they know that a low income tax will not long remain law. As demands for expanding services increase, rates would climb year after year.

The skyrocket technique of the Federal income tax is proof enough, as far as the individual levy is concerned.

And if Michigan gets a corporation profits levy, industry eventually will look back at the distressful economic climate of 1958 as a paradise.

Laws Prohibit Children Working on Farms During School Hours

With the coming of spring planting and harvesting, local farmers were reminded today that while the Fair Labor Standards Act permits children of any age to work on farms after school and during vacation, it prohibits farm work by children under 16 during school hours.

This reminder comes from William S. Singley, Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, the agency which administers the Act.

Singley said that the child-labor provisions apply to local youngsters and children of migratory workers alike. The only exception to the law is in the case of children working exclusively for their parent or legal guardian, he added.

To make sure of the age of any young worker he hires, the farmer should ask for and obtain an age certificate. These certificates, which serve as proof of age for purposes of the Act, can be obtained from school authorities in each county.

The child-labor provisions apply to farmers whose crops go either directly or indirectly into interstate or foreign commerce. Singley pointed out that a farmer must preserve the law if he has reason to believe that his crops—either in their original form or processed—will eventually cross state lines.

University Hospital, a self-supporting unit of the University of Michigan Medical Center, has refused to accept patients from state institutions except in emergencies due to the state falling behind in payments for the care of its medically indigent.

Landscape Layout Should Be Planned Before Planting

One of the most important considerations in making a landscape layout of your home property in plan-view, according to the Michigan Association of Nurserymen, is first to plot the entire property using dimensions on cross-section paper.

Cross-section paper ruled ten squares to the inch is best with each square equaling one foot. Then plot the house according to correct dimensions and placement on the plot plan. Locate the windows on the first floor level and record the window heights from the ground. On the plot-plan draw in all walks, drives, existing trees, etc.

The next step should be the placement of shade and ornamental trees. First, frame the house and then place the trees so that shade will fall where desired. Then draw in the walks and drives if there are none existing.

Then comes the development of the private area or areas, which are usually located at the rear of the home or possibly at the side. A patio or terrace is highly desirable for outdoor living, where one can sit and chat with friends, take sunbaths, grill steaks and chops on a portable grill and relax. Draw on your plot-plan the size and shape of the patio which is most pleasing and usable to you, but being certain it conforms to the architecture of the home, to give easy access to the house, and flow to the lawn areas.

The foundation planning and design of your home is the next consideration. It is a good idea to have a few snapshots showing different views of your home so that you can refer to the features as you plan. It is true that in the past few years there has been little need to hide or cover the entire foundation with planting, therefore we use less but better quality material. Use the easy flowing lines to mark the outline of your shrub beds. In planning for a temporary home you might use both the easy flowing lines and the straight, diagonal, and more severe lines for contrast and eye appeal. Also let the grass meet the foundation in certain areas. Much more use of attractive groundcovers, low-growing shrubs and vines seem to fit the conditions for the design of today's home. These are particularly adapted to contemporary homes.

The design of boundary planting is next. Our first consideration is privacy. How much privacy is needed and wanted? Should the plant material be deciduous, evergreen, combination of both, or should fence construction be used? Again, this decision will depend a great deal upon the type of architecture of the home. Lot depth and width must also be considered.

A cutting garden and/or vegetable garden must be planned for if wanted. These can be worked into the boundary planting by careful planning if a separate area is not feasible.

A children's play area, sandbox and play equipment must have a place. Usually plan for these in the private area where the children can be easily watched.

When your plan is completed it should be pleasing and attractive to look at, incorporating all the needs of the family. A place for outside living, service area, play area for children, and privacy. This together with a pleasing choice of attractive plant material compatible to the architecture of the home is what makes a good landscape layout.

More than 76 per cent of last year's fires occurred during April, May, June and August. Debris burning ranked as the most costly cause of fires, destroying 4,424 acres for a damage bill of $57,083.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

PACK NO. 125—

Cub Scout Pack No. 125 met Thursday, May 28 at the South Elementary school at 7 p.m. Assistant Cubmaster Robert Shears called the meeting to order at 7:15.

Mrs. R. V. Worden's Den No. 2 conducted the flag ceremony.

Robert Shears presented the Pack Charter to Lyle Christwell, representative of Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce, the organization sponsoring the Chelsea-Cub Scouts.

Registration cards were given to 55 Cub Scouts, 10 Den Mothers and 11 Committeemen.

Awards were given to Cub Scouts completing their achievements.

Mrs. Herbert Lindow's Den No. 4 played the song "America" on combs, for instruments.

Mrs. William Freeman's Den No. 3 sang "Davie Crockett."

Mrs. Darrell Larson's Den No. 10 played the song "Green Grow the Lilacs" with improvised instruments.

Mrs. Robert Shears' Den No. 7 entertained with acrobatics.

Mrs. Harry Burnett's Den No. 8 and Mrs. Lawrence Boyer's Den No. 6 entertained by square dancing.

Robert Shears announced the Cub Scouts would march in the Chelsea Memorial Day parade, Saturday.

Mrs. Paul Morley, chairman of the Den Mothers, closed the meeting by conducting "The Living Circle."

Psychologically, Chronic Gambler Wants To Lose

Ann Arbor—Most habitual gamblers have an unconscious need to lose, says a psychiatrist at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

"Any gambler knows he must lose over a period of time. Unconsciously he seeks this loss as a necessary form of punishment for the pleasure he derives from playing."

Dr. Thomas N. Cross (M.D.) says this "need to lose" is usually based on an infantile pattern of reward and punishment which the gambler has never outgrown.

Despite popular belief, the desire to win money is not the main reason for gambling, reports Dr. Cross, an assistant professor in the U-M Neuropsychiatric Institute.

"Some slot machines even post notices that say you will have to put in one dollar for every 60 cents you get back."

"Knowing the odds here, and in almost every other gambling game, are loaded against the player, people play for the perverse satisfaction which they get from losing."

For those on reducing diets, powdered skim milk may be used instead of whole milk both for drinking and cooking. One cup of reconstituted powdered skim milk contains one-half as many calories as does a cup of whole milk.

Immediate Induction Faces Registrants with Altered Draft Cards

Altered draft registration certificates may not result in immediate induction of registrants on their possession by U. S. attorneys as draft delinquents under amended Selective Service regulations, it has been announced by Colonel Arthur A. Holmes, state director.

Draft registrants in many instances have been changing their registration certificates to indicate an age of 21 or over to represent falsely that they are eligible to purchase liquor or to be admitted to places forbidden by law to persons under the age of 21. Selective Service has been working closely with liquor control and police officials in an attempt to curb these practices.

Possession of altered registration certificates has always been considered a violation of the Selective Service Act, but it has been difficult to prosecute such cases successfully in the absence of intent to evade service or to defraud.

New regulations just issued to all draft boards now make it possible for the local board to declare a registrant delinquent if he fails to possess a registration certificate which has not been changed or altered. When declared delinquent under this procedure, registrants may be ordered for induction ahead of all other registrants. If they fail to report for induction, they will then be referred to U. S. attorneys for prosecution.

Colonel Holmes has urged all registrants with altered draft certificates to obtain new certificates from local boards prior to July 1. Local boards have been directed to issue new certificates to registrants who turn in altered certificates. After July 1, draft boards will apply the stringent new procedure to registrants found to have altered draft certificates.

Powdered Milk Seen As Boon to Budget

Ann Arbor—Powdered and skim milk is a boon to the budgeting housewife, say dietitians at the University of Michigan Medical Center. It costs one-third as much as does fresh skim milk.

Powdered skim milk is an excellent, inexpensive source of protein, calcium and B vitamins needed by our bodies each day. It may be mixed with water and consumed as liquid milk.

Skim milk powder can be added in the preparation of such foods as mashed potatoes, cooked cereals, hot breads, creamed dishes, puddings, and cakes to insure adequate amounts of protein, calcium and B vitamins in the daily diet.

For those on reducing diets, powdered skim milk may be used instead of whole milk both for drinking and cooking. One cup of reconstituted powdered skim milk contains one-half as many calories as does a cup of whole milk.

VALUE-RATE the ROCKET

The man who knows value goes Olds!

More and more medium-priced car buyers who want the most for their money are joining the swing to Olds.

Why? Because they figure up all the extra quality features and conveniences Olds has as standard equipment. They carefully consider the economy of the Rocket Engine... the low-cost maintenance of an Olds... its higher resale value. But most of all they ask themselves,

"Is this the kind of car my family and I will be proud to own... one that will give us the full measure of fun and comfort we want... is this the car whose style will stay in style?"

The overwhelming "yes" can be found in the zooming sales success of the '59 Oldsmobile. See your Oldsmobile dealer today... Value-Rate the Rocket!

Anniversary Potpourri

Becky Belles Enjoy
Snack from May Basket

The Becky Belles hung a May basket on the door of the home of their own Calamity-Jane, Trudy Boyer, the evening of May 19, after which the members enjoyed a snack time from the contents of the basket, while making plans for Thursday evening, May 21. It was imperative that one of the members arrive home before ten o'clock so the group went home early which was a little unusual for them.

Thursday evening's activities included a visit to South Elementary school to observe the program by the Cub Scouts at their pack meeting of which one of our mothers is a Den mother; a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Lesser; a surprise visit to Robert Hobbins. All members returned to the home of their Susie Quill (Gladys Parks) for a "Desert Auction."

Come-as-You-Are
Breakfast Surprise

Jewels of Jerusalem Chapter held a surprise "come-as-you-are" breakfast Friday, May 29, at 9 a.m. at the home of Ann Hoover. Phone calls were made at 7 a.m. so many arrived in gowns and hats. The "Freerotte" Chapter was also invited. Coffee and rolls were served to approximately 25 women.

Plan Waterball Fight

The Firebelles are planning to hold their waterball fight Friday evening, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the South Elementary school. Their challenger has not yet been determined.

Fancy Francers Belles
Entertain at Picnic

Fancy Francers Chelsea Belles Chapter held its first social and business meeting at the home of Edith Palmer, Monday, May 25, and elected officers.

Those named are Virginia Maurer, hi-bustle; Laureta Boyer, Susie Quill; Nancy Woods, silver belle; Edith Palmer, Calamity Jane; Rita Collins, mainstay.

Other members are Marge Flood, Margaret Miles, Hazel Snyder, Florence Miller, Elsie Edwards and Virginia Richmond.

Friday the Fancy Francers entertained their husbands and children at a picnic at Pierce Park.

Future activities planned are a social evening with husbands as guests, Sunday, June 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N.H. Miles. Assisting host and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. Dare Edwards.

Rita Collins and Hazel Snyder will be in charge of programs and entertainment.

Colonial Belles

Challenges Whiskerteers

Colonial Belles have challenged the Whiskerteers to a horseshoe game on June 18. The time and place has not been decided. Miss Jo Walker is in charge of advertising.

Euchre Play-Off

Golden Nugget Chapter of the Belles are playing a euchre game tonight (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Wallace Woods. They have been challenged by the Gingham Gals. The winners of this game have been challenged by the Fancy Francers and the Buttons and Bows.

HAIRCUT AND SHAVE? "No thanks," says Bill Lubahn, proprietor of The Pub. "Just trim the edges and comb out the beard, please!" Sam Brown, Chelsea barber, has given away his razors. It is reported, but he keeps busy and happy just looking at the many beards and secretly anticipating the rush of business come July 19. Bill, who acts as drum major for the Brothers of the Brush anniversary band, was being meticulously groomed for one of his many public appearances in front of the band when the picture was taken. Anyone who has seen what an immaculate figure our drum major presents on such occasions may be surprised to learn that he relies completely on the talents of local barbers and haberdashery proprietors to keep him in style. However we hasten to explain they did not supply the can opener Bill uses instead of a button in fastening on his suspenders.

Belles of the Bustles
Organize Chapter

The Belles of the Bustles held their organizational meeting Wednesday evening, May 27. Election resulted as follows: Mary Bauer, hi-bustle; Marjorie Robbins, Susie Quill; Jane Bauer, Silver Belle; Mona Skittenheim, Calamity Jane; Joanne Keenan, Mainstay.

Other members are Sara Mac McClain, Charlotte Deatrick, Marion Wortley, Janet Schulze, Ruby Bauer, Mary Ann Winkie.

Future activities are: June 6, dancing with husbands at Irish Hills, challenge winners of the euchre tournament.

Gingham Gals Chapter
Elects Slate of Officers

The Gingham Gals Chapter of the Chelsea Belles has elected the following officers: Alice Bergman, hi bustle; Nancy Merkel, Calamity Jane; Kay Egler, silver belle; Leona Kuhl, Susie Quill; Eleanor Parley, Mainstay.

Other members are Dora Williams, Becky Koch, Ernestine Van Buren, Minnie May Erskine, Lucy Platt, Doris Policht, Beatrice Alt-vader, Betty Budreau, June Smith, and Margaret Hatt.

On Thursday, June 4, (today) we are having a pot-luck picnic at the park on US-12. Some members attended the street dance in Manchester yesterday. For Thursday June 4, also we have accepted a euchre challenge from the Golden Nuggetts.

'Harmony Belles'
Organize Chapter

A new chapter of Chelsea Belles to be known as "Harmony Belles," was organized Wednesday evening, May 27, at the home of Mrs. Elton Musbach.

Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Robert Harris, hi bustle; Mrs. John Chapin, silver belle; Mrs. Charles McDaniels, Susie Quill; Mrs. Elmer Lindemann, Calamity Jane; Mrs. Elton Musbach, mainstay; Mrs. Harold Spaulding, hi-bustle; Mrs. Lawrence Wacker, hi-bustle; and Mrs. Loren Turner, handy dandy.

Lima Chapter Belles
Elect Officers Monday

Lima Chapter of Chelsea Belles met at Lima Community hall Monday to elect the following officers: Marian Eiseman, hi-bustle; Cora Downer, silver belle; Anne Stofor, Susie Quill; Margaret Miller, Calamity Jane; and Arvilla Fischer, mainstay.

It was decided the first activity of the chapter will be a pot-luck picnic dinner at Silver Lake at 12 o'clock noon, June 10.

Other members of the chapter are Lois Bradbury, Donna Bradbury, Kathryn Reddeman, Hilda Stierle, Catherine Seitz, Emma Seitz, Esther Bollinger, Helen Pommerening, Elan Ordway, Patricia Elliott, Lora Miller, Matilda Haab and Esther Moore.

Colonial Belles Cancel
Scheduled Tug-of-War

Flash: The Colonial Belles Chapter of Chelsea Belles who had announced they would challenge the Lazy Daisy Chapter in a tug-of-war at Veterans Park next Sunday, have asked to be excused because they are unable to recruit a sufficient number of participants.

Belles Chapters Visit
Dexter on Hayride

Sugar Loafers joined by the Flora Doras Chelsea Belles went to Dexter on a hayride Tuesday. They were met by police at the city limits and escorted through town to a free parking spot near the village park. They visited the stores and passed out free samples of bread and then ate lunch at the park. They aroused the curiosity of passersby because of their anniversary style costumes.

Fancy Francers Chapter has three new members, Maltie Riser, Thelma Hughes and Jacqueline Beyer. The name of another member, Agnes Gulman was incorrectly spelled in the original list of members.

Congregational Cuties
Belles Chapter Organize

Congregational Cuties, a new chapter of Chelsea Belles was organized this week.

Officers are Delda Gee, hi-bustle; Cecile Bernath, mainstay; Marjorie Hepburn, silver belle; Thelma Schwiager, Susan Quill; and Joyce Vogel, Calamity Jane.

Members include Doris Lehmann, Barbara Shears, Virginia Visel, June Rusten, Jimmy Johnson, Bea Bailey, Barbara Bohler, Jess Sharpard, Doris Knott and Dorothy Nielsen.

Blue Carter Belles

Hold Jungle Breakfast

Thursday morning, May 28, the "Blue Carter Belles" attended a jungle breakfast at the home of Mrs. Robert Meyers. In order to get the breakfast, members had to visit the following trees in the orchard jungle: coffee bean tree, sweet roll tree, napkin tree, banana tree, egg plant, and a money tree.

After locating the breakfast it was enjoyed at a picnic table in the yard.

Pizza Party

The Sew and Sew Belles held a pizza party Tuesday evening, June 2, at Weber's Dairy Bar. After dinner they promenaded downtown.

THERE HE WAS

Duluth, Minn.—There he was—floating high above the Fond du Lac ski-jumping slope with a classic pose and no skis. The crowd roared in astonishment, but Chuck Ryan, of St. Paul, sailing through the air—skisless, coolly surveyed his predicament.

Coming in for a landing, Ryan wound up about 250 feet from his take-off point.

"I just jumped out of my skis," said he, a veteran of nine years in ski-jumping. He explained the skis were brand new and something was wrong with the binders.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

Los Angeles—Motorcyclist John W. Epp's mistake wasn't fatal, but it cost him 80 days.

He outraced a police car last January, but wound up ramming a foreign car. This left him with a broken left leg. That was a mistake, it is true, but not the most serious one.

He asked a woman to help him escape. There's the rub. She was a policeman's wife, she told him. Recently, his leg patched up, Epp drew a 30-day jail sentence for driving offenses.

Faith of Area's Residents
Can Be Big Factor in Growth

The Mackinac Bridge and industrial development in our town may not seem related... but they have a common denominator—faith.

The faith of the people of Michigan in our great state gave the builders of the Mackinac Bridge the strength to overcome countless obstacles before the bridge became a reality.

Today, the Mackinac Bridge—the world's greatest and costliest bridge—not only links the Upper and Lower Peninsulas but is symbolic of the spirit, strength and unity of the people of Michigan.

Thus, qualities which made the Mackinac Bridge possible exist in each Michigan community.

If used properly, they will help us overcome the obstacles which threaten our efforts to grow and prosper, providing a fourth important element is present.

That element is community attitude, sometimes called "climate," toward our present industry.

If we appreciate our present industry and let everybody know that it is appreciated, then our efforts to get new industry will, like the Mackinac Bridge, become a reality.

For many years, the Mackinac Bridge was nothing more than just a dream. Its completion and opening to traffic prove one thing—anything can be accomplished if we have faith, confidence and optimism.

The Mackinac Bridge would not have been built if Michigan had lacked faith.

Our desire to grow and prosper will be accomplished if our community attitude is at a high level.

at all times, and if we are united in our efforts to get new industry. The vital role of community attitude in efforts to get new industry is the theme of an advertisement entitled "They Said It Couldn't Be Done" which appears today in The Standard. It is another in a series of industrial development advertisements sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department, which appear in this and 316 other Michigan newspapers as a public service.

LOW-LEVEL DINING

Denver—When Robert Millard, 38, sawed off the legs of his wife's new dining room table, she says she at first tried to grin and bear it.

"We sat on pillows to eat our meals," Mrs. Willard, 38, told Judge Neil Horan. "We would lie on the floor to talk, and we had to lean against the wall to read."

Said Mrs. Millard of her husband: "He just wanted to be different."

She was granted her divorce.

Deer Herd Can Survive Annual Harvest of 20%

Ann Arbor—Research conducted at the University of Michigan since 1928 indicates that we should be able to harvest more than 20 per cent of the deer herd each year in Michigan, reports Warren W. Chase (Ph.D.), chairman of the U-M Department of Wildlife Management.

He declares, "If this were done for a few years, food conditions would improve enough so that state production of fawns and, therefore, future hunting could be increased."

"It appears to me that we can be very optimistic about our deer herd in Michigan. Essentially it simply means balancing the herd with the available food and harvesting the surplus."

Commenting on the U-M's experience with its herd at the George Reserve Professor Chase says, "The first year only 10 deer were shot and population had increased to 210 animals by the following fall. It was readily seen that they would have to be taken off in great numbers in order to keep up with the numbers born each year."

"The second year of hunting 98 deer were removed; 47 bucks, 30 does and 18 fawns. Because of the continued increase it was necessary to take off 19 does and 43 bucks the next two years but the herd had increased so much that 100 deer were taken off the fifth year of harvesting."

"Since 1934, deer have been removed every year, with the total ranging from a low of nine to a high of 70 per year. Over a period of 30 years, 1,068 deer have been shot from the two square miles."

"Since the vegetation has improved considerably in the way of furnishing deer food in the past 10 years, there has been a continued increase in the herd through 1957."

"These means that we are producing and have to harvest a much higher percentage of deer than in the earlier years when food was not as available. Now, instead of harvesting 17 deer per square mile, as has been the average, we have had to harvest 26 per square mile. We can now interpret these figures to show that when antlerless deer are taken as well as antlered deer, the population continues to increase if food in the form of woody browse is abundant."

"About one-third of the herd has been removed annually over the years, 20 per cent bucks and 14 per cent does. Even though no special effort has been made to remove fawns, about seven per cent of all those removed have been fawns taken for research or other purposes."

Chase says, "The same principles of management can be applied in every part of the state, provided the other factors that affect deer are given due consideration. In the natural state, there are of course certain losses through accident, predation by dogs and other carnivores, some poaching, and deaths due to severe weather in northern areas."

4-H Horse Judging Contest Held Saturday At Activities Center

Saturday, May 23, more than 100 4-H members, leaders and parents were present at the Farm Council Activities Center to participate in the 4-H county horse judging contest. The morning program was under the direction of Mrs. Leona Hull of Plymouth, and Mrs. Alice Gougoun of Northville, who served as judges for the contest.

After a preliminary study of the different classes of animals, 45 4-H members participated in the actual judging contest.

High place scores for the individuals was in this order: Jan Woodside, first; Janice Harwood, second; Jim Eggert, third; Jackie Watson, fourth; Joanne Yarger, fifth; and Chris Mann, sixth.

In the under-14-year-old group, Chris Thomas, first; Richard Reiff, second; and Rita Thomas, third. These members will compete in the county district horse judging to be held in Oakland county June 24.

PERSONAL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller of Swartz Creek, were callers Saturday at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. David Mohrlock and Mr. and Mrs. Elba Gage and spent the day in Dexter as guests of Mrs. Henry Steinbach.

Neal of San Diego, Calif., who remained here as guests at the Robling home until yesterday. Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Robling and the Neals visited in Canada.

Deer Research

Although this deer may not relish his temporary plight, this test might well produce "a pound of cure" to problems harassing the deer's deer research program. Biologists of the Conservation Department, mortality and reproduction studies to aid game management of Michigan's deer herd.

Lush, Green Lawns Require Use of Balanced Fertilizer

Everyone enjoys a beautiful green carpet-like lawn surrounding his home. Keeping a healthy, luxuriant, weed-free lawn is very easy to do if one can remember that grass plants need food as well as water to be at their healthy best.

The Michigan Association of Nurserymen points out that most people water their lawn enough, but it is the feeding that is usually neglected. Grass plants, being living organisms, also require food in balanced proportions to keep them vigorous and healthy. A properly fed lawn is able to choke out weeds and crabgrass.

What kind of fertilizers to use? Not all fertilizers are intended to feed the same plants but because plant nutrient requirements vary with different plants, there are different fertilizers for flowers, gardens and lawns.

Lime often, times is applied to lawns hoping to stimulate growth.

Lime is not a fertilizer and should never be used unless a soil test shows the soil to be acid and in need of lime.

A good lawn fertilizer is one with an analysis such as 10-6-4. The first numeral or 10 is the amount of nitrogen present. Nitrogen is the most important because it is the growth element, therefore, it is required in larger amounts. A nitrogen deficiency is indicated by poor grass color and thin slowly growing turf.

The nitrogen in the ideal lawn fertilizer is derived from two sources, the inorganic and the organic. The inorganic is readily available and is absorbed by the plant directly, while the organic nitrogen requires bacterial action to reduce it to such form that it too is available through the soil solution. This requires a period of time, thus prolonging its usefulness. Therefore, fertilizers containing organic nitrogen are longer lasting. The greater proportion of any lawn fertilizer should be nitrogen.

The second numeral—6—designates the amount of phosphoric acid (phosphorous) present. This element is very necessary in the soil. It encourages good root structure and is especially important in newly established plantings.

The third numeral or 4 is the amount of potash (potassium) present. This element enables grass plants to produce carbohydrates which are used by the plant for growth energy and structural material.

Lawns should be fed at least three times a year. Early spring, before growth begins, about the first of June and about Sept. 1. Because of poor soil, additional feedings are helpful.

The color of the turf will indicate when this is necessary. Apply fertilizer with a spreader at the rate of 10 pounds for each one thousand square feet of area on each application.

If you are in doubt on any lawn management problems, consult your local landscape nurseryman. He will be happy to help you.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By RALPH ROBEY

* Prices, Inflation, and Senator Douglas

In opening the Joint Economic Committee hearings on the President's Economic Report, Committee Chairman, Senator Paul Douglas (D. Ill.) said the Administration is too concerned about inflation and not worried enough about unemployment and the slowness with which the nation has been growing.

This comment by Senator Douglas is both interesting and significant. It is interesting because the Senator is a recognized economist. He spent his life in teaching and research until he was elected to the Senate in 1948, and, according to Who's Who, he still is a professor of economics at the University of Chicago. The comment is significant, first, because of the Senator's standing in the Congress, and second, because the facts do not justify such an appraisal and criticism of the Administration.

Inflation is always characterized by a rise in prices and we have two broad government indexes which are designed to measure the movement of prices. First, we have the wholesale price index, almost all inclusive in so far as commodities are concerned. It does not include services of any kind, nor house rent, nor interest rates, nor anything not bought and sold as a commodity in the market place.

The other index is that for consumer prices. This one is of the most immediate concern to us as individuals. It is based upon expenditures of urban workers and includes everything for which such persons spend money. It is not a cost of living index, although it frequently is referred to in those terms, and the wage contracts of some millions of workers are tied to this index in the sense that when it rises there is an automatic increase of wages.

In common with almost all government indexes both use 1947-49 as equal to 100, and both are weighted in order to make them more accurate. In the wholesale index, the weights are the relative money importance of the various commodities in the market place; in the consumer index, the weight is the relative amount of money spent for each item by an urban worker.

The high level of the consumer price index was reached last July. Thereafter, for the next three months, it was a shade lower. In November, as a result of the new automobiles coming on the market at slightly higher prices, the index rose to its previous (July) high. In December, because of declining food prices and a slight drop in the cost of transportation, apparel, recreation and personal care, the index fell to 123.7, which was the level of the three months ending in October. At this point consumer prices are less than two percent above a year earlier, and virtually all of that raise was in the first quarter of 1958. It is expected that there will be continued stability for several months, again because of a drop in food prices sufficient to offset rises elsewhere.

Wholesale prices also have been stable, but that is only part of the story. The wholesale index reached its high last March. At that time it was 119.7. In December it was 119.2.

On the surface that appears encouraging, but the stability is the result of farm prices steadily declining since last March—the drop has amounted to almost ten percent—and processed foods have been declining in price since June. Offsetting these declines has been a persistent, although slow, rise in the price of industrial products. The apparent stability of the wholesale price index, therefore, is not something to be interpreted as indicating that there is no present danger of inflation. Rising industrial prices always are a basis for worry because it cannot be very long until other prices start to move in the same direction.

Senator Douglas, in other words, is wrong when he says the Administration is too concerned about inflation. The time to be worried is before inflation gets a real hold, and current facts indicate that we have only a few months. The other part of the Senator's comment, namely, that there is not enough concern about unemployment and the slow rate of growth of the nation, also is without foundation. The Administration has made it abundantly clear that it is greatly concerned about these problems.

The difference between the Senator and the Administration is that Mr. Douglas wants to force jobs and growth by greater government spending, and the Administration opposes such a policy. The Administration, of course, is correct because such spending would merely add to inflationary pressures and contribute to more unemployment later on.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our relatives, friends and neighbors during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband and father. We wish to thank the Rev. S. D. Kinde for his comforting words; also organizations of which he was a member, the Burghardt Funeral Home and the Rebekah Lodge for serving dinner.

The Family of Clive Weir.

THANK YOU

I wish, in this small way, to thank all who helped me at the time of my accident; also, all who visited me or sent messages while I was in the hospital. It surely gives one a lift to be so kindly remembered. Thank you.

Warren Spaulding.

THAN KYOU

My heartfelt thanks are extended to everyone who sent me cards while I was at the hospital. These thoughtful remembrances are deeply appreciated. Sincerely, Anna Reichert.

THANK YOU

My sincere thanks to all members of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4078 and its Ladies' Auxiliary who volunteered their services on Poppy Sale Day; also to people of the community who always support this worthwhile project. I especially thank our Auxiliary president, Thelma Franklin, for her helpfulness in making telephone calls; Mike Apel for the use of the Sylvan Hotel lobby as our headquarters; The Chelsea Standard for much appreciated publicity; Mrs. George Knickerbocker, Poppy Sale chairman for Herbert J. McKune Unit No. 31, American Legion Auxiliary, and her workers for their friendly cooperation; and everyone who helped in any way toward the success of the 1959 Poppy Sale in Chelsea.

Mrs. Fred Klink, Sr. Poppy Chairman.

Capt. Carl H. Swickerath and family spent the holiday week-end with his mother, Mrs. C. H. Swickerath of Chelsea. They also visited his brother, Vincent and family, of Ann Arbor. Captain Swickerath is with the Security Dept. of the Atomic Energy Commission, Washington, D. C.

PERSONAL NOTES

Floyd Darby reported he picked strawberries at his home on Memorial Day—enough for dessert for himself and Mrs. Darby—and on Sunday picked a full quart of the berries.

Mrs. Albert Fink of Rives visited Friday morning at the home of her father, Edwin Beutler. Thursday callers at the Beutler home were Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce, of Florida, and their daughter, Josephine, of Wolf Lake. Other Friday visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller of Fulton and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jedele and daughter Phyllis, of Seline.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Labo and children, of Flint, spent from Friday until Sunday at the home of Mrs. Labo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elba Gage and were present for a birthday dinner Sunday honoring Mrs. Gage. Other guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gage and sons of Steinbach road, Miss Lillie Wackenhut and Mrs. D. R. Hoppe.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Darby plan to attend a pancake and sausage breakfast of Dearborn Lodge 172, P.E.M. Sunday morning at Ford Field, West Dearborn. Mr. Darby is a member of the Dearborn Lodge.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Darby included Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Luke and daughter, Marilyn, and Fred Schalbach of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Jones of West Dearborn.

Here's New Way
To Spare Rod,
Yet Save the Child

Ann Arbor—Prof. William C. Morse (Ph.D.), University of Michigan educational psychologist, suggests a new way for teachers to "spare the rod" and still maintain classroom discipline.

His solution: give teachers the right to exclude real troublemakers from class.

Morse is personally opposed to corporal punishment in schools. Besides being primitive, this practice involves both physical and psychological risks, he contends.

"The trouble is that when corporal punishment is ruled out, no alternative is given," Morse adds. "As a result, discipline deteriorates."

Morse contends disciplinary problems arise among children who have trouble adjusting to their school groups because of social or emotional problems. Children with these problems should be given special help or placed in special classes or schools, he advises.

In answer to protests that excluding persistent troublemakers from class is undemocratic, Professor Morse replies: "We can't all use one kind of church, one kind of store, or one kind of recreation. Yet we all try to use one kind of school."

LAW AND ORDER

Lafayette, Ind.—An underprivileged junior citizen got a discouraging lesson in law from Sgt. William T. Saylor at the State Police post recently.

"It's nice outside and my mother won't let me go out and play," the young caller told the sergeant. "Is it legal? Can she do it?" Sergeant Saylor had to tell the young prisoner that mother was the law in that area.

For Future Fishing

Conservation Department workers recently netted lake trout from several northern Michigan lakes to recover spawn for hatcheries. The plan was to "strip" eggs from the mature fish, then release the parents. The eggs were to be used at state and federal hatcheries to develop young stocks of these fish for possible release in the Great Lakes—provided the sea lamprey can be controlled.

Cancer in Children Not So
Rare as Commonly Believed

Cancer is rare in children, yet not so rare as most people think. Its incidence—about one in 7,000—is no measure of its importance. It takes the lives of more children between the ages of 1 and 14 than any other disease. Only accidents kill more youngsters than cancer does.

The diagnosis of cancer in children is often more perplexing than it is in grownups. There is the problem of the child's inability to express clearly his complaints or his observations. As a result, diagnosis is usually delayed until a tumor has become big enough to be noticed by a parent, and this may be too late for a cure.

Cancer may arise in any organ in the child, but has a preference for a certain few.

The specific organs most frequently attacked are the eye, the brain, the nerves lying in the pelvic area and alongside the spine, the kidney, lymph nodes and bone marrow, and the bones.

Leukemia accounts for about half of the deaths from all forms of cancer in children between the ages of 1 and 14. This makes it the commonest single form of malignant disease in the young child.

The eye tumor is called retinoblastoma. Its victims are almost always less than four years old. Usually one eye is involved, but in one out of every four or five cases, both eyes are affected. The first sign is widening of the pupil in one eye, resembling a squint. Later, the eye assumes a pearly glint, which doctors call the "white reflex," and lesions call the cat's eye.

Retinoblastoma is one of the most curable of the malignant tumors of childhood. The earlier the diagnosis and the smaller the tumor, the greater the prospects of cure and conservation of sight.

Tumors of the brain vary a great deal, depending on their location. One or more of the following symptoms may give the first warning: Disturbance of vision, blurred sight, or "seeing double." Disturbance of motion—interference with muscular co-ordination. Disturbances of the digestive tract—vomiting with considerable force, usually without warning or previous nausea. Disturbances of personality—lack of alertness, spells of drowsiness. Pain, headaches and convulsions, which, if due to a tumor of the brain, will increase in severity and persist longer with each recurrence.

Obviously these signs and symptoms can be caused by conditions quite unrelated to a tumor of the brain. Yet the appearance of any one of them, or of any combination of them, is important enough to call for medical examination.

A common abdominal tumor, the neuroblastoma, arises in the fibers of the sympathetic nerve structures behind the abdominal cavity and in front or on either side of the spine. Although it can develop as far down as the pelvic region, a common location is in the region of the kidney.

Dr. James Wilson, Head of the pediatrics Department at the University of Michigan Medical Center, points out that this may be a vicious condition that does not cause pain. The tumor may be very large before any pain is felt. Pre-school children normally have a slightly distended abdomen so this type of tumor may go undetected. However, Dr. Wilson points out that the mother is able to feel the lump or mass if she puts her hand on the child's stomach. In some cases blood in the urine may announce the presence of the tumor. By combining X-ray with surgery it is possible to cure about half of the children suffering from this type of tumor.

Acute leukemia is one of the commonest forms of malignant disease in young children. It often follows an acute infectious illness, such as tonsillitis or severe cold, when resistance is lowered. Early symptoms are fatigue and a tendency to bleed—minute hemorrhages under the skin and bleeding of the gums. But marked paleness may be the first sign noted. Swellings in the neck, armpits, groin, chest or abdomen are other early signs.

Dr. Wilson mentions also that frequent pain in the leg should be emphasized. All children have leg pains at some time, but frequent pain should be mentioned to your pediatrician.

New drugs will interrupt the headlong course of the disease in about two thirds of the youngsters with acute leukemia. They can bring some relief and prolong life, although the disease is still invariably fatal.

Dr. Wilson lists seven signals in children which can warn one about the most remediable cancers.

1. Big belly—with mass in it.
2. Newly developed squint in eye.
3. Glint in eye.
4. Big pupil on one side.
5. Headaches (especially in young children).
6. Vomiting without nausea (not in infants).
7. Newly developed unsteadiness.

The parent should be neither unimpressed by the possibility of cancer in children, nor alarmed and overly solicitous. There is, after all, a fine distinction between having cancer on your mind and having it in your mind. To have it on your mind is to think about it more often than is needful or helpful. To have it in your mind is to memorize its warning signals and, having done so, to dismiss them from your mind. If you have studied them well, when the occasion arises you will remember.

Don't Use
Moth Balls
On Lawns

Ann Arbor—Don't use moth balls to keep animals off your lawn, warns a specialist from the University of Michigan Medical Center.

"They are poisonous," stresses Dr. George H. Lowrey, "and might prove fatal if accidentally eaten by young children."

Dr. Lowrey, the physician in charge of the Medical Center's Poison Control Service, says that the pre-school child is especially apt to pick up and eat things he finds. "Youngsters from one to five years old are attracted by the white color of the moth balls and are intrigued by the odor, which they find pleasant."

Other substances which are not poisonous are available to keep animals away from plantings, Dr. Lowrey emphasizes, and are much more effective than moth balls.

The smell of moth balls, which is offensive to dogs and other animals, only lasts a short time outdoors, he says. Safer protectors last longer and are often the same color as shrubbery so they can be hung inconspicuously in branches.

Several cases of moth-ball poisoning have been reported to the U-M Medical Center over the past five years. "These children found moth balls in their closets at home," Dr. Lowrey reports, "and eagerly swallowed them."

Treatment for such cases is most effective within the first four hours. During this time doctors can use a "gastric lavage," or stomach pump, successfully. After four hours, the poison has been mostly absorbed, and the pump has diminishing effect.

The U-M Poison Control Service contains extensive lists of chemical products with their chemical components, toxic ingredients and antidotes. A physician is always available in the Emergency Suite for answering phone inquiries from patients and other doctors. The number is NORMandy 3-1631, ext. 589.

Save Your Family
Worry, Trouble by Making Will

Many a family suffers needless worry and delay and expense in settling of the estate of a father or other relative who dies without leaving a will—or who leaves one not properly drawn.

It happens all too often, according to Lucille Ketchum, extension home management specialist at Michigan State University. And with a little forethought and a relatively small fee, it should never happen at all.

If you die without leaving a properly drawn will that distributes your property as you want it distributed, inheritance laws of your state can take over. For instance, an estate might be divided by law among a wife and children when a father actually wanted his wife to have sole control of the funds to support and educate the children.

Drawing up a will should not be a do-it-yourself project. You need the help of a competent lawyer. He can tell you, for example, about the uncertainties and possible tax disadvantages that may go along with joint ownership of property and joint bank accounts.

Two things that many couples think make a will unnecessary—He can also tell you about the need for witnesses, and who they should not be, such as anyone named in the will to receive any legacy.

A lawyer's fee for drawing up a will is usually moderate, explains Miss Ketchum. It's even nominal in the case of small estates where the will contains no complicated provisions. Whether you are married or single, male or female, the cost of the lawyer's service can save your heirs unnecessary later expense and trouble. It provides the best guarantee that your own wishes about your estate will be carried out.

Michigan Forests Recovering
With Help of Tree Planting

Lansing—Forest lands in Michigan have experienced an impressive recovery since the early 1900's when fires and axes had leveled an alarming portion of the state.

Several factors have been responsible for this recovery and among them is the Conservation Department's reforestation program.

More than 249,863,000 nursery trees have been planted in state forests since the Department's first nursery was founded at Higgins Lake in 1903. These plantings have been made on more than 310,000 acres—of which 75 per cent are considered successfully established—in 23 state forests.

In addition to this phase of reforestation, the Department offers young planting stock to private landowners at approximate production costs for such purposes as forest plantings, erosion control and farm windbreaks. Roughly 90 per cent of the stock placed on sale is pines.

Approximately 15-20 million seedlings and transplants are placed on sale each year from the Department's three "tree factories" at Higgins Lake, Boyne Falls and Manistiquie. The Department also hopes to begin shipping young trees from its new nursery at Brighton next fall to satisfy the public demand for reforestation stock in the southern lower peninsula.

Michigan recently became the first state to reach the million-acre mark for tree plantings on private, state and federal lands. State nurseries, including those of the Department and MSU, provided most of this planting stock; commercial, federal and industrial nurseries contributed the remainder.

Reforestation, as part of the Department's entire forestry system, was initially designed to establish Michigan's pine forests for the production of wood and the creation of local economic stability.

More recently, the pendulum of public interest has swung heavily toward the use of forests for recreational and wildlife purposes.

As an index of this growth, Michigan leads all other states in hunting and fishing license sales—some 2,264,285 were sold during the 1957-58 fiscal year. The popularity of camping, hiking, picnicking and bird watching in forests has likewise soared in recent years.

Thus, today much of the Department's planting approach has been shifted to meet the needs of recreation and wildlife.

Best Fertility
Program Depends
On Many Factors

It takes some real figuring to make the most out of dollars spent on fertilizer. That's why it's a good idea to have a planned fertility program.

W. B. Sundquist, farm economist at Michigan State University, points out that the best fertility program for a farm depends on soil type, crop rotations, previous fertility practices and weather conditions.

While there is no one best program for many farms, there are several things that must be considered by all farmers planning a fertility program.

The first step, according to Sundquist, is to take an inventory of the current level of soil fertility. County extension offices can give information on taking soil samples for soil tests as a basis for the inventory.

After you know what the current status is, and the cropping program, plan to use the best information available on using fertilizers. Some crops use fertilizer better when it is placed in bands rather than broadcast. Also, some crops use plant nutrients better when they are applied as supplementary applications during the season. Using the fertilizer right can help boost returns.

Shop around to buy plant nutrients as cheaply as possible. Compute the cost of a pound of the various plant nutrients and compare analysis and brands. Depending upon the form of material purchased, nitrogen can cost from 4 to 18 cents a pound.

Use fertilizer where it pays the most. Highest and surest per unit return comes from initial applications of fertilizer. Returns diminish as heavier applications are made. It is usually more profitable to put the big applications on high-income crops.

A small lake or fish pond is a valuable asset to any farm.

ON CAPITOL HILL
By Congressman George Meader

Probably the most dramatic clash between the Eisenhower Administration and the Democratic-controlled 86th Congress has occurred with the Senate overriding 64 to 29 the President's veto of the REA bill and the House failing to muster the necessary two-thirds vote.

The REA bill would have stripped from Secretary Benson his control over rural electrification loans, meanwhile keeping that agency within his Agriculture Department.

Thus, kept intact is Eisenhower's record of never having had a veto overridden in Congress.

This is probably the first of a number of such clashes, most of which will be centered around the battle of the budget. The next likely will come on the Airport Aid bill now in conference between the House and Senate. The House has authorized $297,000,000 and the Senate $465,000,000, and the compromise is expected to be higher than the President, already on record as favoring a $200,000,000 figure, will approve.

Another fight shapes up on the Labor-Management Reform bill not expected to reach the House floor until sometime in June, and our Subcommittee on Anti-Trust of the House Committee on the Judiciary has yet to report a major piece of controversial legislation although many are pending. Mutual Security legislation is still in the hearing stage before the Foreign Affairs Committee, and only a few of the appropriations bills have received House consideration.

Thus, it appears this session of the 86th Congress will be a long one.

The remainder of the session, I'm sure, will be characterized by clashes in philosophy between the Republican minority and the White House on the one hand, and the Democratic majority in Congress on the other. The fact that President Eisenhower's first veto of the 86th Congress was upheld seems to indicate that this Congress may very well write the clearest and sharpest distinction between the Republican and Democratic parties and their philosophies of government that we have seen in recent years.

Club and Social Activities

BEACON LIGHT
EXTENSION CLUB

Beacon Light Extension club with 14 members and two guests present, met Tuesday, May 26 at the home of Mrs. James Kress. An interesting report of the year's activities was given by Mrs. Elmer Mayer, who served as historian.

The lesson, "Does Food Cost Too Much?" was presented by Mrs. Armin Kuhl.

The group planned a dinner as the June meeting.

Officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. Floyd Parr, chairman; Mrs. Raymond Jacob, Jr., vice-chairman; Mrs. Reno Feldkamp, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. L. Dean Sott, community chairman; Mrs. Jack Bradbury, sick committee; Mrs. Ruth Sott, historian; Mrs. Elmer Mayer, reporter; Mrs. Ellis Pratt and Mrs. Armin Kuhl, leaders; and Mrs. Lawrence Kruse, recreation leader.

PNG CLUB

The June meeting of Past Noble Grand of Keweenaw Lodge is to be a picnic at the Rush Lake home of Mrs. Lawrence Fowler, the exact date to be announced.

The May meeting was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lynn Kern, with Mrs. Ross Munro assisting as co-hostess for a pot-luck dinner at 12:30 p.m.

There were 15 members and two guests present, the latter being Mrs. Edith White and Mrs. Hinchey, mother of Mrs. Alfred Weinmann.

Entertainment included roll call competition on the topic, "My Most Embarrassing Moment," Mrs. Wilbert Breitenwischer was awarded the prize.

A door prize was presented to Mrs. George Barth and prizes in games went to Mrs. Mac Packard and Mrs. Pearl Herman.

Food Packaging
Continually Offering
New Innovations

Almost everytime you go to the grocery, you see new kinds of containers and packages. Manufacturers, because of competition, are always trying to develop something new and different in packaging that will make the home-maker's job easier, says Dr. James Goff, assistant professor of packaging at Michigan State University.

In the next few years, you'll be seeing more ready-to-serve foods, as well as easier-to-open containers, says Dr. Goff. In some larger cities, single servings of foods that can be cooked right in their containers are available. Although these are rather expensive, many people find cooking these single servings at home is more convenient than eating out.

Years ago, packages were just to protect food and keep it clean. Later, packages began to eliminate the weighing and measuring of food in retail stores. Now, packages often serve as baking or boiling pans for food, making food preparation easier for the home-maker.

Dr. Goff says that today, people are willing to pay for convenience. However, prepared products are often cheaper than their fresh counterparts. Then, too, since prepared foods are usually harvested and packaged at their peak, they often reach the consumer in better condition than do fresh foods.

You will no doubt be seeing bread wrapped in plastic in the next few years. This plastic, polyethylene, is less expensive than cellophane and helps prolong the keeping quality of bread.

A refrigerated milk dispenser may take its place in your kitchen in the future. Since it would hold a large supply of milk, it would save several trips to the store each week.

And even before this, you may see cans of liquid concentrated milk in your grocery's refrigerated case. This will not only taste just like regular milk, but it will also be less expensive, says Dr. Goff. Cereal boxes will soon be without an inner waxed wrapper. Instead, the waxed protector will be built right inside the paperboard carton.

The paperboard boxes that now contain frozen foods will probably be replaced by plastic bags, said the packaging expert. These can either be printed with pictures of the food or left plain so that the consumer can tell exactly what she is buying.

More pressure containers of the "aresol" type are in your future, too. One of the products that you'll be seeing in this is liquid concentrated coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Minick

Yvonne Hoffman, Gary Minick Wed
Saturday Morning at St. Mary's Church

The Rev. Fr. Lee Laige officiated at the 10 a.m. wedding ceremony Saturday in St. Mary's Catholic church uniting Yvonne Imelda Hoffman and Gary Thomas Minick. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hoffman of 115 Pierce street, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Minick of 9050 Waters road.

Mrs. John Dettling and Mrs. Ray Lutovsky sang the "Ave Maria" and, with Mrs. Donald Doll, Mrs. Henry Orbring and Mrs. Dudley Foster, also sang the High Mass. The officiant was Mrs. George Clark who also played the traditional wedding music.

The bride's gown of white embroidered crystal silk featured a round, scalloped neckline, fitted long sleeves with pointed outline at the wrists; and a triple-tiered floor-length skirt extending into a chapel-style train. Her fingertip-length veil was attached to a pearl and sequin headpiece. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white carnations and red sweet heart roses.

Mrs. Donald Schrader, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Her gown, which was identical to those worn by the bridesmaids, was of romance blue organza over taffeta in princess style with a scoop neckline, short sleeves and a bell-shaped skirt accented with a wide band of diagonally striped organza and a large bow at the back.

The three attendants of the bride wore headbands of blue daisies and carried colonial-style bouquets of carnations. Mrs. Schrader's bouquet was in yellow and white while the two bridesmaids' were in pink and white.

For the wedding the bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother wore pink and beige sheath dresses, respectively. They chose white accessories and each had a corsage of white carnations.

David Minick, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Franklin Roberts and Richard Elise were ushers.

At the reception, held in St. Mary's school hall, Mrs. Charles Popovich, Jr., cut the wedding cake and three sisters of the bride, Mrs. Frank Dilton of Jackson, Mrs. Clarence Kohler of Salline, and Sally Hoffman assisted by pouring coffee and punch and listing the guests in a guest book. Approximately 200 guests attended.

Upon their return from a week's stay in the Upper Peninsula, the

St. Barnabas Plans
Ice Cream Social
Saturday, Aug. 8

Churchwomen of St. Barnabas Episcopal Mission (Guild) met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Judson Goltra.

The Rev. Allan Reed led the devotions and finished the book, "Light the Dark Street," by C. Kilner Myers. This was followed by a general discussion.

A report was given by the president, Mrs. J. MacDougall, on the Huron Valley Convocation board meeting which was held at St. Barnabas Mission Thursday, May 28. She also announced the Cranbrook Conference to be held June 16-17-18 with Bishop Bayne of Olympia, Wash. as the principal speaker.

Mrs. Deane Rogers gave a report on the coffee hour sponsored by the Churchwomen of St. Barnabas for Chelsea newcomers.

It was confirmed that St. Barnabas would hold an ice cream social on Saturday, Aug. 8 at the Community Fair building. The president announced Mrs. Chester Bowling and George McKelighan as co-chairmen of the planning committee, the proceeds to be used for the church building fund.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses. The next meeting is to be held June 25 at the home of Mrs. Chester Bowling at Blind Lake.

Salem Grove
Church Members
Honor Rev. Caisters

The Rev. and Mrs. Louis Caister and family were honored at a farewell dinner held at the church Sunday following the morning service. Seventy members and guests of the Salem Grove Methodist church were present to honor the family who have lived here the past five years.

The Rev. Caister announced his resignation some time ago, stating that he will be working toward a doctoral degree at the University of Michigan. He and his family are now living in a home on the Philip Seltz farm on Lima Center road.

Mrs. George Welch was in charge of the program which followed the dinner.

Each organization of the church was represented in the program. Llewellyn Lehman as superintendent of the Sunday school; Judy Welch of the Methodist Youth Fellowship; Mrs. Leon Sanderson, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service; Mrs. Glenn Rentschler for the church board; and Gerald Heydlauff, who on behalf of the church members and people of the community presented the family with a purse of money.

The Caisters also received a lace tablecloth as a gift from the WSCS.

Both the Rev. and Mrs. Caister responded, thanking those present for their gifts and for their good wishes.

Hostesses for the dinner were Mrs. George Welch, Mrs. Leonard Loveland and Mrs. Harold Wahl.

Announcement was made that the congregation is planning a family picnic dinner at Red Arrow Park, July 12.

$80,000 IN OLD DEBTS
Beaumont, Texas.—Owner Jack Tinkle has cleared the books of unpaid accounts totaling more than $80,000 at his hardware and furniture store.

Tossing the bills into an incinerator, Tinkle said:

"I'm forgiving these people their debts to me, and I hope I'll be forgiven, too. I figure a lot of people who have been staying away from my store because of being delinquent in their accounts will come in when they know they've been forgiven."

Some of the bills were 30 years old.

Joan Agnes Merkel

Joan Merkel
Awarded Degree at Marygrove College

Joan Agnes Merkel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Merkel of 140 Orchard street, received a bachelor of arts degree and a Michigan state provisional teaching certificate at commencement exercises at Marygrove College, Detroit, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Merkel majored in sociology and was an active member of the Jaradah club, campus organization for sociology students.

The graduates' diplomas were presented by His Excellency, the Most Reverend John F. Dearden, Archbishop of Detroit.

The commencement speaker was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Irving B. DeBlanc, director of the Family Life Bureau of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Leon Shutes
Named President of Legion Auxiliary

The annual dues luncheon of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Tuesday, June 2, at the Legion Home.

Mrs. George Knickerbocker, poppy chairman, reported that approximately 700 poppies were sold this year.

Sewing chairman, Mrs. Elmer Mayer, had on display five dresses made by Auxiliary members which will be sent to the Legion Bill at Otter Lake.

The following slate of officers was elected for the coming year: Mrs. Leon Shutes, president; Mrs. Wm. Blaes, secretary; Mrs. Hilda Hall, first vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Chriswell, second vice-president; Mrs. Howard Walz, treasurer; Mrs. Guy Hulce, chaplain; Mrs. Harold Spaulding, historian; Mrs. Charles Popovich, Jr., sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Paul Maron, color bearer; Mrs. David Stritery, Mrs. Merle Barr, Sr., and Mrs. Ernest Guenther, executive committee. The installation of the new officers will take place Tuesday, Aug. 18, at the Legion Home and will be conducted by the past presidents.

Delegates to the Legion convention to be held in Grand Rapids July 10-19 are Mrs. Howard Walz and Mrs. Leon Shutes. Alternates are Mrs. Ruth Chriswell and Mrs. Guy Hulce.

It was announced that the next District meeting will be held in Milan, June 28.

In a short ceremony held after the luncheon the president, Mrs. Eldon Gorton, presented Auxiliary pins to the junior members who were present as guests.

Study Discloses How Detroit
Parents Rear Their Children

Ann Arbor.—"Children are like flowers—you should have lots of them," one Detroit area housewife said recently.

But another told University of Michigan interviewers her daughters are like "clocks that tick off the years, and remind you that your time is passing and theirs is coming."

How metropolitan Detroit mothers feel about their families and raise their children is discussed in a new book by Associate Prof. Daniel R. Miller (PhD) and Guy E. Swanigan (PhD) of the U-M.

Based on interviews with a random sample of nearly 600 mothers, it is titled "The Changing American Parent: A Study in the Detroit Area" (302 pp., $5.50 John Wiley & Sons, pub.).

In capsule form, here's how they found mothers felt about family raising from birth to marriage and grandparenthood:

Two out of three mothers felt the infancy of their children was very pleasant. The remainder felt it was only mildly pleasant or in the case of one in seven, actually unpleasant.

Out of every 10 mothers, one breast fed her babies exclusively, four used only bottles, and five used both breast and bottle feeding.

More mothers said their young children were on demand feeding (67 per cent) than on scheduled feeding (41 per cent).

Roughly two-thirds of the mothers reported their infants were completely weaned by the time they were 12 months old. By the 18th month, 90 per cent of the babies were weaned.

Between the age of two and three, most children in the families studied were expected to pick up their toys. Between four and five, they learned to put away their clothes and began dressing themselves. By six or seven, they were asked to go on errands to nearby stores.

When asked how they would discipline a 10-year-old whose actions made them extremely upset or angry, only one in four mothers replied in terms of physical punishment—spanking or slapping. About half would discipline a child this age by keeping him in the house, sending him to bed early, or cutting his allowance.

Others would scold or threaten the child, or try to make him feel guilty or shameful. Only one mother in 10 would let her child escape punishment of any kind.

Opinion divided just about evenly when the mothers were asked whether children should be put on their own as early as possible.

Navy Bean Soup
Served Daily in Congress Restaurant

Washington visitors are often invited to lunch with their congressman in the House restaurant at the nation's Capitol. Many of them are intrigued to learn that bean soup, made with Michigan navy beans is served each day by legislative mandate.

The soup was a favorite with Speaker of the House Joe Cannon of Illinois who served in Congress more than 40 years. One day in 1904 he entered the House restaurant and bean soup was not on the menu. Rep. Cannon was known for his explosive temper which was then manifested. "Thunderation," he shouted. And he raced upstairs to the House floor where he delivered a fiery oration on the delicate charms of Michigan Navy Bean soup, and railroaded through a resolution which requires that it be served each day.

Here is the simple recipe: Cover two pounds of Michigan navy (pear) beans with water and soak overnight. Drain and recover with water. Add a smoked ham hock and simmer slowly for about four hours until beans are tender. Then add salt and pepper to suit taste. Just before serving, bruise beans with a large spoon or ladle, enough to cloud.

DEATHS

Harold A. Messner
Was Employed as Driver
For Klump Gravel Co.

Harold Arthur Messner, 47, died suddenly late Saturday night in his room at 163 Orchard street. He was born June 28, 1911, in Lima Township, a son of Charles and Louise Messner. For the past 15 years he had been employed as a truck driver for Klump Brothers Gravel Co., and prior to that had been employed by the Washtenaw County Road Commission.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Louise Messner of Ann Arbor; two sons, Donald Messner of Chelsea and Charles Messner of Jackson; a daughter, Mrs. Roger Smyth of Chelsea; two sisters, Mrs. Grover Douglas of Anaheim, Calif., and Mrs. Waldo Eiseman of Ann Arbor; and three grandchildren. Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. yesterday at the Staffan Funeral Home. The Rev. P. H. Grabowski officiated. Burial took place in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Harper
Methodist Home Resident
Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Margaret Harper, 94, a resident of the Methodist Home, died there yesterday following a long illness. She entered the home Oct. 28, 1949, coming here from Detroit where she had been a member of the Metropolitan Methodist church for 25 years. She also was a member of the WSCS of the church.

Born at Greensburg, Pa., Nov. 23, 1864, she was a daughter of John and Emily Harper. Her husband, Thomas W. Harper, to whom she was married in June, 1906, died Jan. 11, 1936.

Only survivor of Mrs. Harper is a son, John Kyle Harper of Jamaica, N. Y.

Friends may call at the Burghardt Funeral Home until tomorrow morning when the body will be taken to the Methodist Home Chapel for funeral services at 10 a.m. The Rev. George P. Stanford, chaplain at the home, will officiate. Burial is to take place at Toledo Memorial Park cemetery, Toledo, O.

Library Building Fund

Miss Mabel Fox, Library Board president, in speaking of the progress of work at the McKune Memorial Library, said, "Groups of volunteer workers have spread gallons of paint, steamed, soaked and scratched paper from walls; swept up and carried out what seems like tons of rubbish, laid floor tile; lugged empty and packed cartons; moved and painted book shelves; and have generally given great help."

"However, much more remains to be done. Dozens of volunteer painters, tile-layers, window washers, general helpers are still needed if the library is to be ready for opening day. Volunteer workers are urged to call GR 5-4001 or GR 2-7761. Bring neighbors, relatives, Chapter Belles, Brush Brothers, or any available labor. Many hands make light work."

Miss Fox said that every working group employed in the library has, without exception, given generously of time and materials and every supplier has discounted and/or donated generously.

During the past week, on two occasions, men from UAW-CIO Local 437, have painted at the library; Wednesday night, Village Council members painted and Jaycees members laid some of the floor tile; and volunteers are painting every afternoon from 12:30 until 4 o'clock. Anyone who wishes to volunteer for work may come by any afternoon except Saturday.

If these hours are inconvenient, other times may be arranged by appointment.

Donations to the Library Fund this week were received from Leo H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Shutes, Chelsea State Bank, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wojciehowski and the High School Library Fund.

Chelsea Public Library will be closed from Saturday, June 6, until Monday, June 29. During that time the books and equipment will be moved to the new McKune Memorial Library.

Sufficient numbers of books may be borrowed by June 6 to last readers until the new library opens. Books borrowed under this plan will not become due until July 6.

Funeral services were held at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Anthony Catholic church, Mackinaw City, and burial followed at Lakeview cemetery there.

Cassidy Lake Blood Clinic Gets 81 Pints

A total of 81 pints of blood was secured at the Cassidy Lake blood donor clinic last Friday. The Chelsea Community Blood Bank chairman, Mrs. Dudley Holmes, made the arrangements for the clinic which was in charge of the Detroit Regional Branch of the American Red Cross.

The blood secured at the clinic is designated for the benefit of the inmates at Cassidy Lake Technical Training School and their families.

Registrations show that 188 of the inmates volunteered as donors but 107 were rejected for various reasons.

Physicians who served at the clinic are Dr. J. V. Fisher and Dr. Michael Papo.

Mrs. Harvey Fischer served as a volunteer registered nurse and other volunteers were the registrars, Mrs. Merle Barr, Jr., Mrs. William Marsh, Mrs. Leigh Palmer and Mrs. Louis Burghardt. Mrs. Dudley Holmes was also on duty at the clinic, as well as Mrs. Harold Brooks, Mrs. Fred Schumm, Mrs. Victor Biechaczky and Mrs. Loring Bates who served as aides.

Canteen workers who served refreshments to the donors, under the chairmanship of Mrs. M. J. Baxter, included Mrs. L. A. Wacker, Mrs. D. A. Riker and Mrs. Harold Spaulding.

Mrs. Holmes expressed her appreciation to all who assisted, especially since the clinic was scheduled for the day before the Memorial Day holiday. Mrs. Holmes also commended the personnel at Cassidy Lake school for the co-operation at the clinic and for the meal served to all the workers at noon.

Missing Young Couple Return as Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Scherdt received a telephone call Saturday night from their 17-year-old son, Clement, in which he told them he was at Birmingham, Ala., and that he and 16-year-old Judith Ann Fite, both of whom were reported missing here Friday, May 8, had been married at Louisville, Ky. The couple also called the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fite. They called again from Nashville, Tenn., saying they were en route home and arrived here Monday.

What Would Happen If Government Had To Live Within Its Income?

We realize that it is probably a reckless and impossible thought, but just suppose that the State of Michigan found it necessary to operate without any increase in taxes. What would happen?

Putting it another way, suppose you were unable to increase your family income in spite of continuing inflation. What would happen? You would live without some of the things you want in order to live within your means. This all makes sense for the individual but not for the government. All we have to do is say "government" and the logical rules of economics go out the window. Suddenly it is all very much impossible.

We seem to have grown accustomed to the idea that economy in government means denial to the needy, the aged and the sick. We have grown accustomed to this idea because it has been pounded into our heads from every soap box in the state. But this doesn't necessarily make it a fact, any more than failure of an individual to increase his income means that his family will go hungry. There are many other corners which can be cut without endangering the welfare of the family or the stability of the government.

The ways in which the pattern can be cut to fit the budget have been discussed so many times by experts that they hardly need repeating. Some suggestions are decreasing government payrolls, elimination of costly and unnecessary research studies and reports which ultimately jam waste baskets all over the state, halting of government activities that could and would otherwise be handled by private enterprise, and the defeat of legislation, such as was introduced in the House a few weeks ago, calling for an increase in legislators' pay.

These aren't easy suggestions. All would be met with some opposition, and in several cases changes in the present law would be required. But they are constructive suggestions void of the soap box emotion.

We realize that the whole idea of government living within its means is probably a reckless and impossible thought, but it's interesting to just suppose, isn't it?—The Alma Record.

Mr. Fixit Finds Many New Hazards

Safety experts, probing the current trend to "do-it-yourself," which the American public is fast accepting, have found that the dangers encountered by Mr. Fixit include many new sprays, power tools, new insecticides, etc.

It is noted that almost every spray, paint, enamel or lacquer which blows out in mist form when a button is pressed on a can or bottle, is highly inflammable. Many users do not take this into consideration.

Accident types which have resulted in the most casualties are amateur carpentry, replacing broken window panes, painting the exterior of one's home, cleaning awnings or repairing gutters.

These are old dangers, but new dangers include aluminum ladders, where shocks are often involved, the use of power tools, including carpentry hand tools, and new inflammable sprays.

One thing that a person can learn by watching the clock is that it passes the time by keeping its hands busy. —Sac City (Iowa) Sun.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Employers of the more than 12,000 Michigan National Guardsmen are being asked to help make it possible for them to train for active duty in peace and war.

Over the years most employers have been co-operative in granting troopers time off for the two-week summer training period.

Major Gen. Ronald D. McDonald, the state's new adjutant general, has asked trade associations and the chambers of commerce in all communities to carry the message to employers.

The training periods run between July 25 and Aug. 22 for all units. Three major installations are involved. Last year all-over training attendance reached a record 97.28 of assigned strength. In his letters to employers and chambers of commerce, Gen. McDonald stressed the importance of training.

Bad check passers are increasing in Michigan, bringing a warning from State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs to "treat everybody as a stranger."

An increase of 21 per cent in the number of fraudulent checks processed by the state police during the first four months of 1959 and a 40 per cent increase during May has been reported. Detective Sgt. Fred C. Kelly, head of the fraudulent check detail at state police headquarters, said the increase is probably due to bettering economic conditions.

He explained that, contrary to popular belief, bad-check passers more often succeed when the economy is healthy, when there is a general feeling that most people have money to back them up.

Kelly's records show that July and August are the months at the height of the tourist and vacation season when most small merchants become the victims of check passers.

Lansing, the hub of the state's government since its early days, is winding up its centennial celebration.

One of the highlights was a four-hour parade west on Michigan Avenue toward the capitol building, watched by 175,000 persons lining the curbs.

The parade theme was "The History of Transportation," featuring the earliest cars made in Detroit and Lansing, covered wagons, ox-drawn carts, bicycles, a helicopter and two airplanes. There were queens—Miss America, Miss Michigan, the Lansing Centennial queen candidates and others.

With the parade, Lansing dramatized its place in history and gave life to its centennial theme—"Proud of the Past—Confident of the Future."

Graduates of Michigan's colleges and universities have a better chance at employment than they did a year ago—but the boom days of the early 1950s are over.

Authorities in education are saying that high school graduates, though in a better position, still would be well advised to continue their education.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
 I was reading a magazine piece where the U. S. Treasury Department has now got one of them electronic machines that'll count paper money. That's the most encouraging news to come out of Washington this season. A heap of folks was under the impression they had done quit counting it. Judging from the way them Congressmen was spending it, I figured they was just handling it by the pound.

And I see where some feller has invented a new dance step called the Washington Glide. He says he patterned it after Ike's golf swing. If we're going out fer things like that, I've got a few steps I'd like to suggest, like the Farm Price Climb, the Tax Cut Tango, or the Balanced Budget Boogie.

I saw a piece in the papers last night where the taxpayers is footing the bill for 871 employees to drive them Congressmen and Senators around. I got a hunch the taxpayers wouldn't mind it so much if they knew some of those big boys had any idea where they was going and what they'd do when they got there.

The feller at the country store Saturday night got to talking about all them alphabet agencies they got in Washington. One feller held out that some of 'em couldn't spell good enough to handle the situation. For instance, he said, the pamphlets he gets from the Agriculture Department always abbreviates "barrel" with "bb!" when anybody knows that barrel ain't got but one "b" in it. Ed Doolittle allowed as how that's because them Government folks always do everything up to the last notch and that the extra "b" stood for the bung hole in the barrel.

I'm mighty interested in the outcome about this feller in Baltimore that got caught strolling stark naked to the corner store fer a pack of cigarettes. When the law got him he said, "This is the way God made me." As technical as our courts is getting, he might win his case. But I've got a idea that the Judge will convict him on one of them bear traps lawyers manages to get into the statutes. He'll probably rule that God made him that way but God didn't create him with the cigarette habit, therefore and whereas he is guilty ipso facto and E Pluribus Unus.

Speaking of Judges, one in England ruled the other day that a wife's value goes down with the years. A feller was asking $700 because his wife run off with another man. The Judge held that a wife gets more troublesome over the years and that this feller was entitled to only $210 due to depreciation. Seems they got mighty fella Judges in England. Over here the Judge would rule the husband gets fat, bald, and stingy and for that reason a wife that'll live with him increases in value.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

★ Bumps

Recently the county road crew was scraping away the dirt from some "soft" places on the Fillion road, and Norman Eisinger was spreading a new layer of gravel to make the surface smooth in all kinds of weather. We owe a lot to these men who take the bumps out of our driving.

But at the Harbor Beach Club, the road crew was arranging to make some bumps a little bigger because they had been worn down by last summer's traffic. And they were brightening up the sign that says "Bump Ahead."

The reason for this strange behavior is, of course, that experience has proved a bump in the road is the most effective way of getting high-pressure Detroiters to slow down in the area where children play at the Harbor Beach resort. It reminds drivers that you can afford to take time to live—and let live—when you are in Huron county.

Our Maker has placed some bumps in the highway of life to tell us when we need to slow down. Eyelids that twitch, ulcers that act up, hearts that pound too hard—all these are bumps that say "What's your hurry?"

People will remember how well you did a job—long after they have forgotten how fast you did it. So you might as well take your time and live longer.

I read about a man who was ready to explode because he had so much work to do. His psychiatrist told him to do six hours work in an eight-hour day, and to spend one day a week in a cemetery.

"What am I supposed to do in the cemetery?"
 "Just get acquainted with some of the other people who didn't finish all their work either."

If we believe in ourselves and in our work and in our God, we can understand the words of the ancient prophet—(Isaiah 28:16): "He who believes will not be in haste."

Recipients are George Wilson, Robert Eder, James McLaughlin, Dennis Schumm, Bud Guest, Philip Barala, Karen Munro, Joan Merkel, Sharon Dancer, Nancy Mayer, Jane McLaughlin and Marlene Kuhl.

Chelsea Jaycees held their first annual meeting Tuesday and elected Jerome Burg president, Dr. John Pilkington, outgoing president, becomes a member of the board of directors.

Registration of children who will be entering kindergarten next fall took place last Thursday at South Elementary school with a total of 51 registered for morning sessions and 60 for afternoon sessions.

14 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, June 7, 1945—

George Doe, chairman of the Chelsea War Bond Committee, has announced that a big Bond Auction and Show will be put on here Saturday night in an effort to put Chelsea "over the top" in the current 7th War Loan Drive. Staged on a platform on Main street between Middle and the Park-South street intersection, the show will include two Ford company bands, one directed by Haze Bennett.

Pfc. Sylvester Parker, Chelsea's first prisoner of war to return, arrived here Saturday for a 60-day furlough before reporting for further assignment at Miami Beach, Fla. He had been a German prisoner of war since Dec. 19.

Under supervision of the State Highway Department, Chelsea's two traffic lights have been moved from the corners of the intersections and are now suspended overhead.

In the 34 Years Ago column (June 1, 1911): Rural school eighth grade graduates in this vicinity are Florence Doll, Bertha Gross, Julius Haab, Blanche Lewick, Aloysius Merkel, Zita Merkel, Mary O'Connor, Leon Shutes, Genevieve Weber, Bertha Weber, Charles Wortley, Julius Kaercher, Gladys Whittington, Anna Beutler, Rhonae Arbringer, Dorothy Daniels, Olive and Clayton Webb.

24 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, June 13, 1935—

Approximately 200 were present for the 40th alumni banquet at Chelsea High school Friday evening. "Verses to the Freshmen," composed by Marie Hindelang Fleming of Detroit, was read by Mrs. Waldo Kusterer. Mrs. Fleming was ill and could not attend.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Carlton Runciman of Lowell, The Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Orsbrowski, with their daughter, Helen, and Jeanne Meserve, are in St. Louis, Mo., to attend the June 13 wedding of Mrs. Grabowski's sister, Helen Jeanette Kraft, and Douglas Schluster.

In the 24 Years Ago column (June 15, 1911): Saturday morning the cottages of A. E. Winans and Dr. A. A. Guide and the barn and ice house on the Winans lot were burned to the ground; also Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vicary of Duluth, Minn., are visiting relatives in Waterloo.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, June 4, 1925—

At a recent meeting of the Lima and Vicinity Farmers' Club, attended by a large delegation from Lima, Sylvan and Selco, the subject of consolidation of schools and also the appropriation of money for supervisory teachers as advocated by the county school commissioners, were discussed, and when a vote was taken, the result was unanimous against both proposals.

Effective July 1, all pistols, revolvers and guns, 30 inches or less in length, must be registered with the sheriff or with the chief of police of the city or village in which the owner of the firearms resides.

Michigan onions have a wide variety of tasty uses. Nationally we stand sixth in production with growers receiving $5,370,000 for their crops last year. Nearly 640 freight cars of Michigan onions in 1958.

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE

They were dreamers . . . the men who talked of a bridge some day linking Michigan's Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

But after nearly 100 years of dreaming, the bridge that couldn't be built is a reality.

The Mackinac Bridge—one of the world's wonders—stands majestically today as a symbol of the spirit, strength and unity of the people of Michigan.

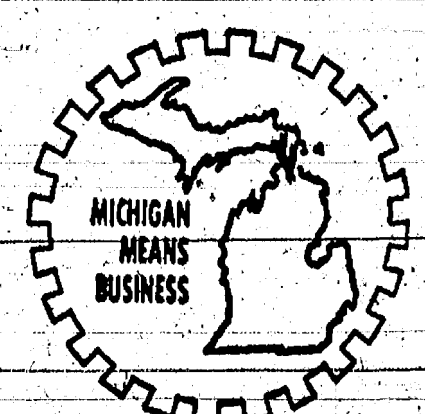

Let it too be a symbol of the vision, the strength and the united determination of our own community.

Let us work together—no letup, no factions—for the progress and prosperity of our community. . . . Some will say it can't be done.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community grow and prosper.

In physical education the girls are spending their time in the field, practicing track skills. In high jumps, broad jumps, and 50-yard dash, measurements are being taken. There has been some hurdle jumping, too. All the girls enjoy track very much. Their one pet peeve, however, is that they have to parade past the study hall and library windows in their shorts to get to the field.

Varsity cheerleading tryouts were held May 25th after a week of strenuous practice. Six girls were chosen out of the 20 trying out. The team includes Jane McLaughlin, Rita Schramm, Lisa Wagner, Linda Burghardt, Kay Runci, and Judy Summers.

Junior Varsity cheerleading tryouts were held the next night and again six girls, with two substitutes were chosen out of some 18 trying out. The team is: Janet Kern, Roseann Hiltz, Donna Snyder, Ruth Ann Sexton, Mary Murphy, and Sandy Sharrard, with Rayna Smith and Barb Irwin as substitutes. The four judges for both tryouts were Mrs. Finch, Mr. A. Smith, and Lynne McManis, and Jerry Ringe, representatives from the Athletic Board. The varsity squad does not have a substitute but a JV regular will fill in absence in the team. That is the reason for two subs on JV.

The chorus is now preparing music for the Graduation exercises. They plan to sing "To Thee We Sing" for Baccalaureate, "May Day Carol" for Class Night, and "Halls of Ivy" for Commencement.

Proportional portraits are the order of the day for the art students. Charcoal sketches of their classmates were drawn, selected, and turned in for grading. An exercise in color combinations is also being completed.

The six art students chosen to paint the murals are hanging in the student lounge are working diligently, trying to complete them before the school year is completed. Ellen Kausch, and Linda Burghardt have chosen a light and modernistic portrayal of the architectural structures found in and around the new high school. Ron Warren and Carolyn Miller are portraying the Home Economics building in another modern painting. Victor Blechaczky and Marjette Young are doing a realistic portrayal of the Auditorium and of the graduating seniors.

It was decided by the council to not have a float in the Centennial Parade because of the lack of funds and because the treasurer's books are closed with a balance of $174.30.

Chelsea High School pupils are to go to Pleasant Lake for their annual school picnic on June 11. Ann Morrison, the Student Council Secretary, will turn over the Student Council papers to Mrs. Berke for filing.

Sophomores made $58.15 on their car wash held May 28. They got a late start, but after the rain had stopped cars came in steadily from 11 to 5.

Study Group Sees Need for Changes In Laws To Cut Prison Population

Lansing—Why does Michigan face a 20 per cent increase in its prison population in the next 10 years unless something is done about it?

The Michigan Crime and Delinquency Council, a citizen group, said in an 18-month survey of the state's corrections system by the National Probation and Parole Association gives some answers and promises some solutions.

The state's prisons now hold about 10,138 men and women. By 1970, this inmate population could rise to 12,980 if past and present trends continue.

The Council said the survey showed that Michigan sends more men to prison than comparable industrial states.

In 1955 and 1957, Michigan imprisoned 21 per cent more inmates than the national average, 77 per cent more than Iowa's progressive system. The survey showed that Michigan's prison population is "very high" for its over-all population—134 inmates per 100,000 of general population. This is higher than all but six states, most of which are in the Deep South.

Michigan sends 48 per cent more men to prison than the average for the North Central group of states, also.

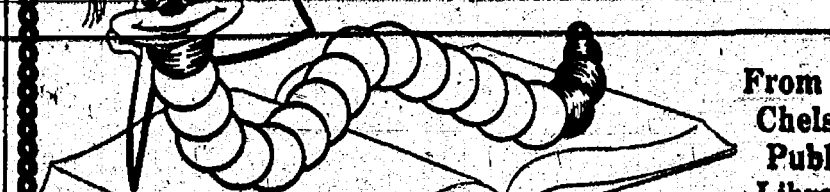

Michigan holds its prisoners for an average of 2.83 years, which is about the same as the national average, the survey showed, but which also is longer than such comparable states as Wisconsin, New Jersey and a number of North Central states.

The survey said the length of prison terms in Michigan is not the fault of state parole board delay or timidity, but rather the result of excessively long sentences required by law.

Michigan has more men serving life sentences (800) than any other state except Virginia and lists 21 offenses for which a life sentence can be imposed—compared to only one in Wisconsin—Michigan, the survey said sends only 23 per cent of its inmates to prison for maximum terms of four years or less, compared to a national average of 46 per cent, a Central states average of 37 per cent, and a Wisconsin average of 84 per cent.

The Council said it used Wisconsin as a comparison frequently because it was a close neighbor and because it had demonstrated

"THE UGLY AMERICAN"

By Wm. Lederer and E. Burdick

I have never discovered more enjoyable reading than this book about our nation's diplomatic relations in the Far East. It is easy to read and completely captivating in its method of approach to what is normally a very dusty subject. It will make a wonderful companion for a couple of evenings. Not only is it enjoyable, but it is authentic in the basic facts that it portrays about our international policy. Most of the incidents are based on actual cases which the authors have seen. Many of the characters, likewise, are taken from real life. This is unusual for a novel. Not since I read "The Small Woman" have I felt so close to real people in any book that I have read. I almost felt like leaving tomorrow to join them in the work in which they believed so much.

The plot of the story is simply the stories of the lives of several people as they are related to a small country of Southeast Asia, their failures and their successes, their slight corruptions and their typical American flamboyance that is so greatly misunderstood in Asia. Through the lives of these people we can see the problems and the ideas with which we as Americans will ultimately have to deal in our daily experiences right here at home. We cannot escape them, and right now we are not solving them.

William Lederer and Eugene Burdick give us a novelized answer to the problem and you and I are involved in that answer. This is one book you should read as soon as you can.

—Philip Rusten.

Today's picture review:

ALIAS JESSE JAMES

Bob Hope is the worst insurance salesman in history. To prove this, he sells a $100,000 life insurance policy to notorious gunman Jesse James (alias Wendell Corey) whom the law wants dead or alive. As a consequence, Hope's poppete-boss sends him out West with orders either to buy back the policy or to become Wendell's personal bodyguard for life. Bob can't possibly buy the policy back because on the way out, he and everyone else on the train are held up by... guess who? You're right—Wendell himself!

The next best thing, Bob figures, is to befriend Wendell and his mom. In the course of events, Bob just for fun, puts on one of Wendell's cowboy outfits. From this escapade, Wendell gets the bright idea that if Bob is found dead and identified as Jesse James, then Wendell can collect the insurance money and elope with the beautiful Rhonda Fleming, who, curiously enough, is in love with Bob.

Beach Farm, on US-12 at Lima Center Has Been Owned by Family for 106 Years

Located at 11850 US-12, just east of Lima Center, Mystery Farm No. 57, which appeared in last week's Standard as the 57th in the series of farm photos published for identification by our readers, has been owned by the Beach family for 106 years.

Present owners are Major General Dwight E. Beach, presently stationed at Washington, D. C., and David A. Beach of Chelsea. The Adolph Steinways have lived in the house and operated the farm for 37 years, moving there when the present owners' parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. D. Edward Beach, moved to Chelsea in 1922. The Beaches' home here was on Jefferson street where Mr. and Mrs. David Beach now reside.

The farm comprises two parcels procured from the U. S. Government by different parties—John and Lucinda Harford whose title was dated June 8, 1893, and signed by President Andrew Jackson, and the other showing Hiram Stocking as owner.

Listed as the second owner is Nelson H. Wing, Nov. 1, 1849 to Nov. 1, 1853, when the present owners' great-grandfather, William G. Beach, bought the property.

The youngest of a family of 13 children, he came to Michigan from Cayuga county, New York. Included in the party with him were his wife, the former Polly Green, and his six-year-old son, Abner. The family made the trip by boat down Lake Erie and traveled the remainder of the way by oxcart, arriving in Detroit in the fall of 1858. They remained there until spring and then went to the vicinity of Dixboro where they settled, remaining there until 1859, when they bought the Lima township farm which has remained in the family ever since.

The son, Abner, became the owner of the property in 1869. His wife was Cynthia Dixon, daughter of another pioneer family. Their son, D. Edward Beach, succeeded to ownership of the farm in 1917. He and his wife, the former Agnes Amanda Luick, were the parents of three sons, Dwight and David who now own the farm, and U. S. Army Captain Kenneth Beach, who died in a Japanese prison camp during World War II. D. Edward Beach died in 1938 and Mrs. Beach died last year.

Although the title to the property gives the original ownership date as 1893, John Harford is mentioned in county histories as early as 1830. Notations state specifically that he operated a tavern. The settlement that sprung up in what is now Lima Center, was unofficially known as Harford Village. Later, as the settlement failed to thrive because of the founding of Chelsea, and the building of the railroad station here, property owned by the former "village" residents was purchased by Abner Beach and added to the Beach farm. Present size of the property owned by David and Dwight Beach is approximately 180 acres.

The first township meeting was held in the original house on the farm, historical data mentioning that "the first township meeting in Lima was held in the home of John Harford in April, 1834."

The Lima township cemetery which is now surrounded on all sides by the Beach farm, was already located there. An easement across the farm property provides access from US-12 to the two-acre cemetery site.

The parents, paternal grandparents and great-grandparents of the present farm owners are among the 200 people who have been buried in the cemetery through the years.

Mr. and Mrs. David Beach left early Friday morning to visit General Beach and his family and yesterday attended the graduation of Dwight E. Beach, Jr., at West Point Military Academy.

David Beach is now assistant cashier at the Ann Arbor State Bank and Trust Co.

According to family records, the present 11-room house was built in 1885 while Abner Beach owned the farm. The larger barn was erected in 1878.

General farming is carried on at the farm by Adolph Steinway who first operated it for D. Edward Beach and continued during his widow's lifetime and to the present time.

The Steinway family, all now married, includes a daughter, Mrs. Frank Gieser of Dexter, and two sons, L. Deay and Veryl, of Ann Arbor.

Among those who called The Standard office to identify the farm are Allen Brossam, Ashton Nielsen, Julius Kaercher, Mrs. Gerald Luick, Homer Nixon, Dave Pastor, Mrs. Walter Buntler, Julius Blass, Mrs. H. G. Gage, David Beach, Fred Hinderer, Mrs. Paul Bollinger and Veryl Steinway of Ann Arbor.

Others included Rita Parsons, Dorothy Fowler, Mrs. Elliott Lounsbury, Mrs. Adolph Steinway, Paul Rothfuss, Mrs. E. M. Stemann, Mrs. William Quigley, Mrs. Carol Gaddis and Mrs. Bernard Herrst.

orthopedic handicapped (crippling conditions, such as polio; cerebral palsy; deaf and hard of hearing; blind and partially sighted; emotionally disturbed; speech, home-bound and brain damaged).

Especially trained teachers would be hired. These include the visiting teacher who deals with socially maladjusted and potentially delinquent (emotionally disturbed) children. He is a sort of school social worker who assists the child, the school staff and parents.

While the program will directly benefit more than 3,000 handicapped children, County School Supt. Julius W. Haab believes that everyone will benefit because many handicapped children, given the same chance, grow up to be self-sufficient, self-supporting assets to the communities in which they live.

News Clipping of 1849 Lists Property Offered at Kentucky Auction Sale

Chelsea's anniversary celebration plans reminded Dona Joseph, 114 North Street, of an item he read in the Kenton Times, published at Kenton, O., about a 110-year-old newspaper clipping which was an advertisement for an auction sale, on March 1, 1849, at Versailles, Ky. The newspaper clipping had been brought to the Kenton newspaper office by Mrs. Fred Johnson of Alger, O.

The bill read: "Having sold my farm and I am leaving for Oregon territory by ox team, will offer March 1, 1849, all my personal property, to wit:

"All ox teams except two teams, Buck and Ben and Tom and Perry; 2 milk cows; 1 gray mare and colt; 1 pair of oxen and yoke; 1 baby yoke; 2 ox carts; 1 poplar weather boards; 1 poplar weather board; 800 to 1,000 three-foot clap boards; 1500 ten-foot fence rails; one 60-gallon soap kettle; 25 sugar troughs; made of white ash timber; 10 gallons of maple syrup; 2 spinning wheels; tallow; large loom; 10 empty barrels; one 32-gallon barrel of Johnson Mider whiskey, seven years old; 20 gallons apple brandy; one 40-gallon copper still.

"One dozen real hocks; 2 scythes and cradles; 1 dozen wooden pitch forks; one-half interest in the tan yard; one 32-calibre rifle bullet mold and powder horn; rifle made by Ben Miller; 50 gallons of sorghum molasses; 6 head of fox hounds; all sort mouthed except one.

"At the same time I will sell my six Negro slaves—two men, 45 and 50 years old; 2 boys, 12 and 18 years old; two mulatto wenches, 40 and 50 years old. Will sell all together to same party as will not separate them.

"Terms of sale, cash in hand or note to draw 4 per cent interest with Rob McConnell surety.

"My home is two miles south of Versailles, Ky., on the McCouns ferry pike. Sale begins at 9 o'clock a.m. Plenty to eat and drink. "J. L. Moss"

TROOP 25
Regular meeting of Troop 25 was held at North Elementary School Monday evening, June 1. Four patrol groups worked on Tenderfoot requirements.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to planning the Court of Honor program.

Parents are invited and urged to attend the Court of Honor ceremony to be held June 8 at the North School at 7:00 p.m. A special Indian program is being planned for that evening. Refreshments will be served.

SAFE AND EFFECTIVE
Polio vaccine is safe and effective, but it's useless until injected into arms. Your health department says now's the time to begin the three-shot series and develop protection before the polio season opens in late June or early July.

Independent experts and official facts and figures prove Chevrolet's ahead of its field in seven big ways.

BEST BRAKES... In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by N.A.S.C.A.R., Chevy out-stopped both the other leading low-priced cars—and why not? Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings for up to 60% longer life. BEST TRADE-IN... Check the figures in any N.A.D.A. Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two." BEST STYLE... Popular Science magazine sums it up: "The fact is, in its price class the Chevy establishes a new high in styling... It's the only car of the leading low-priced three that's unmistakably modern in every line." BEST ECONOMY... No doubt about this: two Chevrolet Sixes won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car. BEST ROOM... Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.: make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. BEST

ENGINE... Every motor magazine has given Chevy's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As Sports Cars Illustrated puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price." BEST RIDE... You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. But Motor Trend magazine expresses it this way: "...the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

Make sure you get the most for your money—see your local authorized Chevrolet dealer!

WE'RE GIVING AWAY A PONTIAC EVERY WEEK! All of us Marathon dealers are giving away a really terrific grand prize every week... a 1959 Pontiac. It's the kind of car we would like—and we figured you would, too. We aren't giving away just one—we're giving away eight Pontiacs... one each week for eight weeks!

WE'RE ALSO GIVING AWAY OVER 1400 NEIGHBORHOOD PRIZES EVERY WEEK! Every one of us is running our own neighborhood SMILE-maker Sweepstakes—with a prize every week at each Marathon service station for folks who leave their names and addresses. That's why it's so easy to win one of the wonderful and valuable prizes we'll give away in the next eight weeks.

THIS IS A LOCAL SWEEPSTAKES! You're not competing with everybody from coast to coast, just people around here, your neighbors!

WINNERS EVERY WEEK FROM JUNE 1 TO JULY 26! Every week each local Marathon dealer has a drawing at his Marathon station. The winner is someone who entered that dealer's SMILE-maker Sweepstakes that week.

The grand prize winners of the Pontiacs are selected each week by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation from all who entered neighborhood Marathon service station sweepstakes the previous week.

EASY TO ENTER! We enter everybody who says okay. Come in, write or phone—just say the word and you're in the SMILE-maker Sweepstakes. There is nothing to buy... nothing to rhyme. Complete details are available at all Marathon service stations featuring the Marathon SMILE-maker Sweepstakes. Don't miss the opportunity to win this week!

Specialist Paul Beal
Performing Patrol Duty

Fulda, Germany—Army Specialist-4 Paul A. Beal, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Beal, 115 East street, Chelsea, Mich., is performing patrol duty while assigned to the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment's 1st Battalion in Fulda, Germany. The primary mission of the regiment is the constant surveillance of NATO's Fulda Gap, a 100-mile segment of the Iron Curtain which serves as the gateway to Berlin. Specialist Beal, a mechanic in the battalion's Headquarters Company, entered the Army in July, 1957, and received basic training at Fort Polk, La. He was stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., before arriving in Europe in February, 1958.

13 Traffic Deaths Counted in State Over Holiday

Thirteen traffic fatalities in Michigan over the 54-hour Memorial Day week-end, the same number who died last year in 78 hours, pushed total deaths for May to 111, or 19 more than the 92 who were killed during the same month last year, according to the State Police provisional report. It was the second consecutive month this year in which deaths exceeded those in the same period in 1958.

During this year's Memorial holiday period, which ran from 6 p.m. Friday, May 29, through midnight Sunday, May 31, there were 11 fatal accidents compared to 13 last year and the rate of death was one every four hours compared to one every six in 1958. The May toll of 111 was a 21 per cent gain over May last year and fatal accidents increased from 83 to 95, or 14 per cent. Two consecutive months of increased deaths had not occurred since April, 1956, when the state started an all-out war on highway deaths and subsequently reduced them more than 10 per cent each of the last three years.

The provisional death toll for the first five months of the year now stands at 471, 11 more than the 460 who had died in the same period last year.

Final figures for April, reported today, showed 129 persons killed and 4,218 injured in 12,282 reported accidents. Deaths increased 40 per cent and injuries and accidents were both up five per cent and continued upward trends which have prevailed for several months. Injuries have increased in six of the last seven months and the number of reported accidents have moved for six consecutive months.

Mileage traveled during the first three months, the latest figures available, was 6.8 billion, up nearly two per cent over the same period last year. The death rate per 100 million vehicle miles was down 19 per cent.

Burkhart's Ice Cream

Parlor Recalled by Seeing Centennial Verse

The verses, entitled "In Retrospect," by Marie Hindelang Fleming, published in the May 21 issue of The Standard, included mention of many of the business places here during her childhood. One of these was "Burkhart's" ice cream parlor which, as older residents will remember, was located on Main street in what is now the north end of Market Brothers new and enlarged furniture display room.

The late Mr. and Mrs. Munson Burkhart, parents of Mrs. Glenn Wiseman, owned and operated the business which they called "The American Ice Cream Parlor."

The Wisemans have a postcard size photograph of the inside of the store showing a party of young people seated at tables with Burkhart standing at one side along the mirrored wall. All three sides of the room had a solid row of mirrors.

The ice cream parlor was operated by Burkhart at the turn of the century. "A summer long he and his wife made the ice cream every day at the home they had built at 316 East street. There was a good-sized barn on the property at that time and that was where they worked with their hand-operated freezers."

Mrs. Fleming, who now lives in California, wrote the verses in 1934 when Chelsea observed its 100th anniversary and they were originally published in The Standard at that time.

Sports Quiz Answers

1. The cestus—a boxing glove, consisting of a leather band loaded with metal, worn by the early Roman gladiators.
2. Jack Broughton, British champion from 1784 to 1789. He drafted the original "London Prize Ring Rules," and is credited by some authorities with the invention of the boxing glove.
3. Daniel Mendoza, His scientific treatment of pugilism revolutionized the sport.
4. False. Leather punching bags, filled with sand or flour, were used by the Greeks thousands of years ago. Boxing gloves are of comparatively modern origin.
5. 1824, on Jan. 7, at Worcester, England.
