CHS Alumni Banquet Set For Saturday

Gordon Rietz, president of the CHS Alumni Association, will be the guest speaker at the 63rd Chelsea alumni banquet Saturday evening. This will be the first alumni banquet to be held in the new Chelsea high school. It will take place in the cafeteria with dinner scheduled for 6:45 p.m. Alfred Meyer will serve as master of ceremonies.

The Alumni Association is urging all graduates living in the Chelsea area to attend the banquet to meet old friends among many out-of-town alumni expected to be here because of a desire to see Chelsea's new high school and because of Chelsea's 50th anniversary celebration.

Roland Spaulding, alumni committee chairman, and Duane Howe, Alumni Association president, have suggested that Chelsea and the graduates of the Chelsea High School and the Chelsea High School and the Chelsea High School should be made at once, either with Mrs. Dietle or at the Win-Jewelry Store, Foster's Men's Wear or Strider's Men's Wear store.

Classes of 1909, 1910, 1934, 1939 and 1949 are planning reunions and get-togethers at the banquet, as well as before and/or after the banquet.

The banquet is to be prepared and served by the CHS Class of 1959.

Outstanding Seniors Win Special Awards At Class Night Event

Sunday Reception Will Honor The Rev. Grabowski

The Rev. P. H. Grabowski, who is retiring after 37 years as pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church, will be honored at a reception in the church hall from 3 until 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The many friends he has made in the community through the years are especially invited to be present for the occasion.

The Rev. Grabowski's resignation because of health reasons became effective May 31; however, he will continue to serve for funerals and other pastoral duties, other than Sunday services, until the new pastor, the Rev. Paul Schnake of Caseyville, Ill., arrives the end of August.

All members and friends of St. Paul's church are invited to attend the reception, according to an announcement by George Knickerbocker, president of the Church Council.

Two Graduates From Class of 71 Win Scholarships

Earl Heller was the recipient of an award designating him as the outstanding senior agriculture and FFA student at the 1959 Class Night program at Chelsea High school Tuesday evening. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heller.

Deborah Scripser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Scripser, and D. Patrick Merkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Merkel, were recipients of awards designated to honor the most representative senior girl and boy in the class, and Elaine Walker received the DAR citizenship award.

Sharing honors in having the 1959 annual dedicated to them were Miss Mabel Fox and Alfred Smith, high school teachers.

Recognition of outstanding scholarship was given Ellen Kensch as the outstanding mathematics student; Donald Ferguson, winner of the Regente Alumni University of Michigan scholarship award; and James Mahar, who won a scholarship to the Michigan College of Mining at Houghton.

Ellen Kensch, who was valedictorian of the class, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kensch; Ferguson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ferguson and Mahar is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mahar.

Robin Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wright was this year's recipient of the Bobby Vogel award. Athletic awards, band, journalism, library and chorus awards were also presented at the Class Night program and Juniors Linda Fisher and James Collins were presented with the American Legion distinguished achievement school awards. The former's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fisher while the latter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Collins.

Restrictions Put on Lawn Sprinkling

In order to forestall the possibilities of critically low water pressure here, Homer Nixon, superintendent of Chelsea Electric and Water Department, is asking residents to comply with suggestions for curtailed sprinkling of lawns.

As carried out during the critical period last summer, residents whose house numbers end in even numbers (2, 4, 6, 8 and 0) are asked to use water for sprinkling only on even number days of the calendar.

Those whose house numbers end in odd numbers (1, 3, 5, 7 and 9) are asked to use water for sprinkling only on the odd days of the calendar.

In this manner everyone will have a fair share of sprinkling time but water pressure can be maintained at a safe level.

H. Flintoft, Kusterer Win School Posts

Howard Flintoft was re-elected to succeed himself as a member of the Chelsea School District Board of Education at the annual election held here Monday. He received a total of 312 votes to re-elect him to his third three-year term.

Luther Kusterer was the other successful candidate for a position on the board, receiving 269 votes.

The remaining candidates on the ballot were Stuart R. Booker who received 269 votes and Willard Guest who received 127 votes.

Present terms of Flintoft and Dudley Holmes expire June 30.

The new board members and those remaining on the board will meet to organize and name officers late this month or early in July.

The special election on a proposal for a one-half mill tax levy to provide special education for handicapped children of the county, failed to receive approval in the Chelsea District but was approved by a large majority in all other districts in the county where annual school elections were held Monday. The Chelsea vote was 282 "no" and 243 "yes."

It was estimated that the districts voting Monday represent 88 per cent of the number of school age children included in the county's census.

The total county vote on the proposal was 4,938 in favor and 1,551 against it.

Recreation Program To Start June 22

Summer activities of the Chelsea Recreation Council's six-week program will get underway here Monday, June 22. Alan Conkling, recreation director, has announced that playgrounds will be opened at North and South Elementary schools and at the Junior High school—with Judy Wagner, Phyllis Neal and Ellen Kensch in charge.

According to present plans the girls will probably rotate between the three playgrounds.

Mrs. Edmund Kayser will again be in charge of arts and crafts, setting at all three of the playgrounds at designated times.

Boys sports and the swimming program at Whitmore Lake will be in charge of Robert Taylor, Truman O'Doherty, and Director Conkling.

A new feature instituted this year will be a girls' softball program with Marjorie Bradbury, a physical education major at Eastern Michigan University, in charge. Mrs. Bradbury will also assist with the swimming program.

Details of the various programs and a calendar of events for the first week's activities will appear in the June 18 issue of The Standard.

Huge Anniversary Caravan To Attend Chicken Barbecue

If the 157-car caravan to Manchester Wednesday night of last week was any indication of "things to come" in the program of planned projects in other communities in the area, Chelsea people are in for a real round of celebration activities, according to Roland Spaulding, anniversary committee chairman.

Spaulding said the street dance at Manchester was a complete success and credited the success to co-operation of everyone concerned.

Among these he listed the Sylvan Center City Slickers who gave advance publicity by means of their covered wagon and public address system mounted on a truck. The group toured the streets of Manchester before the remainder of the caravan arrived.

Another factor mentioned by Spaulding as having contributed to the success of the project included the fine reputation of the square dance caller, Connie Eichhorn, who donates the time he spends with the caravan dances.

Spaulding said Wallace Wood, promoter and caravan chairman, has scheduled a caravan for Sunday, June 14, to the Washtenaw Farm Council grounds on Saline, Ann Arbor road where a chicken barbecue will be in progress. A 4-H horse show is also scheduled.

It was explained that while Sunday is ordinarily not considered a good time to schedule a caravan, the opportunity for advertising Chelsea's coming anniversary program to such a large crowd is "too good to be overlooked."

The caravan may include the entire families of those who attend, providing a Sunday outing, Spaulding said.

"So let's all assemble at our own fairgrounds at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon for the caravan to Saline," Spaulding continued.

He said, "These caravans are our most important way of showing our neighboring communities the real spirit of Chelsea. Let's keep up the enthusiasm demonstrated by the caravan to Manchester."

Spaulding said a police escort will again be provided.

Second Issue of Wooden Nickels Out Tomorrow

According to the Anniversary Novelties committee, it was announced that the second issue of wooden nickels will go into circulation in the Chelsea area tomorrow (Friday).

This issue, red in color, will number 2,500 solid wooden nickels, that will be good in trade at any Chelsea area retail business or redeemable for cash at the Chelsea State Bank.

Legion Fireworks Display Will Be Held at Fairgrounds

The annual fireworks display sponsored by Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, as a community service, is being held this year at the Community Fairgrounds. The decision to change the location for the annual project resulted because the committee in charge believed the additional parking space available and the proximity of the location to the Chelsea area provide a more satisfactory arrangement.

Parking areas in the vicinity of the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake where the event formerly took place, are not large enough to accommodate the crowds who customarily turn out for the fireworks display; roads around the lake are narrow, creating a traffic hazard when cars are parked there; and, in general, the situation was creating a serious problem since more and more people took advantage of the opportunity to see the fireworks display.

Since the new building at the Fairgrounds provides an ideal place for the ice cream social, held each year in connection with the fireworks display, and because of the increased parking facilities and the site off the main highway, the committee made arrangements to hold the affair at the new location.

More than $300 worth of fireworks will be shown at the display. This is approximately $100 more than last year.

Success of the ice cream social governs the amount of money spent by the Legion Post for fireworks. Each year the proceeds from the social are set aside for the next year's project.

Displays which were not practical for use at the lake, because of the scattered audience, are being used for the first time this year. To see these displays the audience must be inside of the grounds. The special displays will be concluded with a design of the American flag.

The ice cream social will begin at 5 p.m. to accommodate people who wish to come out for supper.

The area for the fireworks display will be roped off and policed as a precautionary measure.

Official 125th Anniversary Song Written

Here is Chelsea's official anniversary song which will be sung to the tune "Dearie."

'Remember When'

Dearie
Do you remember Chelsea
Back in the good old days
Friendly people, pleasant ways?

Frank Rohr Is New Commander Of Legion Post

Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, American Legion, elected new officers at the June 4 meeting. Frank Rohr was named commander, succeeding Ray Lutovsky, 1958-59 commander.

Others elected are Orvis Zimmerman, senior vice-commander; Albert Johnson, junior vice-commander; Stanley Dyer, adjutant; Carl J. Mayer, finance officer; E. W. Eaton, historian; Duane Landwehr, chaplain; and Maynard Poertner, sergeant-at-arms.

Executive committee members are Frank Rohr, Ray Lutovsky, Keith Boylan, David Strider and Elton Guenther.

Installation of officers will take place at the July 2 meeting, the installing officers to be Fred Fry of Jackson, district committeeman, and Floyd Hiller, of Ypsilanti, alternate district committeeman.

Wild West Characters Will Invade

Exactly at the hour of 7:30 p.m. Friday night of this week, the streets of Chelsea will be invaded by the wild dangers of the West. You are invited to witness this spectacular event regardless of how late you cannot be responsible for injuries to curious spectators. Don't miss the celebration's most daring escapade!

—Signed: Celebration Committee

SQUARE DANCERS FILL STREET—Chelsea's retired police officer and former police chief George Doe is readily recognizable on the platform in the above photograph. Doe was acting as caller at the square dances during the gala event held on Park street Saturday night. He took over calling for the dance after Lulu Sweeny had acted in that capacity during the earlier part of the evening. Part of the crowd present for the affair may be seen in the photo.

June 12—Final report cards.
June 13—Alumni Banquet, served by Junior class.

A selection from "The Diary of Anne Frank" was presented at an assembly June 3 by the speech class under the direction of Mrs. Finch. The class had worked an hour every day for three weeks preparing to present it to the whole school.

Characters in the play were: Anne Frank, Ellen Keusch; Peter Van Dan, Dalice Ferris; Mrs. Frank, Jeanne Larson; Mr. Frank, Bob Smith; Mr. Dussel, Pat Merkel; Mrs. Van Dan, Sis Wagner; Mr. Kuler, Dave Fisher; Mij, Carol Reddeman; and Margaret, Sharon Smysor.

In Physical Education the girls are completing the unit on track, including such skills as high jump, running broad jump, hop-skip and jump and dashes. They went to get a couple of days of softball in before school closes. They will have their final this Friday.

The boys Physical Education classes have been very active during the last marking period of the year. They contributed very much help to the making of the new High School baseball field. They have also been playing softball.

The Junior Class had a short meeting June 3 during first hour. They discussed the alumni banquet which will be held June 13 in the High School cafeteria.

Discussion also centered around whether they should have a refreshment stand for the 125th anniversary dance coming July 11. It was approved.

They also decided to have their Senior pictures taken by Ralph Guenther next year.

The Senior Class met second hour, Tuesday, June 2. They discussed the class flower and class colors. Also whether commencement services would be held in the gym. This would permit an additional number of people to attend the services.

SENIORS
Last night the seniors took their final step—now they have lost their title to the next year's class. Everyone enjoyed the bittersweet occasion and accompanying festivities.

Last week a final meeting was held (Tuesday, June 2). Class colors (white and gold), a class flower (the rose), and a motto had to be decided upon. A committee of Bob Smith, Dee Scripser, and Ellen Keusch, chairman, were appointed to write the motto.

The class was happy to hear the commencement and class night exercises would be held in the gymnasium. They also voted to buy special programs containing the Senior "composite" (each individual's senior picture) on its front.

Members of the class were urged to pay for their announcements.

GAA has recently elected officers for next year, which are as follows: Linda Fisher, president; Carol Reddeman, vice-president; Carol Dancer, secretary.

Last week a final meeting was held during activity period, Wednesday, June 3. A constitution, rewritten and worked over during the year by Sharon Smysor's constitution committee was presented and accepted by the club. Snapshots were taken for the Annual. Thursday night, June 4, some of the group got together after school for a surprise meeting. The girls played basketball, baseball and tennis, and at the same time had their pictures taken for the Annual. What's this we hear about Mrs. Finch getting drenched (accidentally on purpose) in the shower?

Pasteur Medals for Heroism Awarded Annually by Nation's Milk Industry

For the twenty-second consecutive year, June Dairy Month headlines will go to the year's milkman-winners of the Pasteur Medals for Heroism.

The gold medal for 1959 goes to Chicago's Casimir Janik who is credited with saving at least 11 children from the tragic haloocaust that snuffed out more than 90 young lives and destroyed Our Lady of the Angels School. Janik, a World War II Navy veteran, and holder of the Presidential Unit Citation, had covered his route and was driving home past the school when he saw smoke and heard children screaming. He parked, ran back to the building, and in four trips to a stair-landing where the youngsters were collapsing or freezing in panic, carried down two or three each trip. When he could do no more, he went home, and when reporters found him, admitted that sea battles and rescues in which he had participated had never shaken him as much.

Another route salesman, Harold H. Arnold of Harrisburg, Pa., is the silver medal winner, credited with saving the lives of two children, calming their frantic mother and fighting a six-alarm fire that demolished the house in near zero weather. As he approached the house to deliver milk, Arnold, an ex-Marine, noticed it was on fire. He rushed in, led a five-year-old boy out to safety. Dashing back, he heard coughing upstairs and rescued a month-old baby from a smoke-filled bedroom, putting the infant in the warm cab of his truck. He then ran to a neighbor's, turned in a fire alarm and returned to help the panic-stricken mother fight the flames until the water failed. When the firemen arrived, and the mother had taken the baby to a neighbor's, he went on with his milk route.

The bronze medal will be awarded posthumously to Eugene Bengé of San Francisco, who lost his own life to avoid running down two children who darted into the highway in front of his huge, refrigerated wholesale delivery truck. Bengé swerved his vehicle off the road. He was thrown out when it struck the curb and crushed to death when the truck overturned on him.

In naming its medal of honor for the famous French scientist, the Milk Industry Foundation reminds us of the lives that are saved over the year by the sterilization process that Pasteur discovered. We doubt that milkmen are braver than anyone else. But these examples show a sympathy and concern for their fellow man that is one of the finest sides of a human being. And that, we suspect, is the basic ingredient in self-sacrifice and heroism.

Now even the most reactionary of us feet-on-the-ground type citizens must take space travel more seriously. It has been done. Re-entry into the atmosphere has been accomplished successfully with passengers. And the passengers were picked up, apparently none the worse for a journey probing 300 miles above the earth and attaining 10,000 mph. The fact that they were monkeys is of little importance. It has long been established that what a monkey can do, man can do.

GRADUATION!

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

The grueling battle to reduce loss of life and property from traffic accidents was renewed when some 79 citizens and key state officials were called for an emergency meeting in Lansing by Gerald Shipman, director of the Michigan State Safety Commission.

The state's traffic record, which had been improving steadily since the bloody days of 1955, suddenly stopped improving and began to slide backwards. Safety-minded citizens were called together to make suggestions to hold the gains they had worked hard to win.

Identify causes and suggest solutions was the instruction given the group. Here is some of the thinking submitted in three reports by Jack J. Green, Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan; Lee Matthews, Michigan Insurance Information Service; Elmer E. White, Michigan Press Association.

A big difficulty is the complacency of adult drivers. Too many feel "it can't happen to me." Too many drive automatically, almost by reflex action, with their minds concentrating on personal problems.

Too many adult parents fail to take responsibility for driving habits of their children, either by direct supervision or in support of school driving lessons. Parents often set bad examples for their youngsters by disregarding safety rules or laws.

The entire high school driving program came in for consideration. It was agreed by the safety conference that the program is most desirable and should be supported by the public to the fullest. But some specific areas that need improvement were identified, and some specific questions were asked: School administrators need to be better sold that the courses are desirable, the group concluded. Disagreement about what sort of person is best qualified to teach driving should be faced up to and resolved. Study should be given to determine if the substantial cost of the program can be reduced, and if there are ways to make training more effective, they should be considered.

High school students, representing youth groups, stated that the courses have great benefit and suggested that they should be made tougher with more rigid requirements.

Other ideas, suggestions and recommendations include: white marking on the right border of highways are of benefit and worth the $160 per mile cost; methods of reporting accidents should be standardized and improved to give safety engineers a broader and more accurate picture of circumstances; the color amber should be legalized for turn signals on automobiles (amber shows up better in fog than white); congressional delegates should be urged to continue the federal highway program. The public should be "educated" to overcome its tendency to sympathize with the violator; there should be wider strict to police and courts for strict traffic enforcement.

Governor Williams, Secretary of State James A. Hare, State Police Commissioner Joseph E. Childs and Superintendent of Public Instruction Egan A. Bartlett were present with their staff members at the emergency safety meeting.

They supplied information for consideration of the group and heard the ideas expressed in responses. It was also decided to send summaries of the committee's recommendations to mayors and other local officials; to work through civic, service, youth groups as well as the PTA and the clergy.

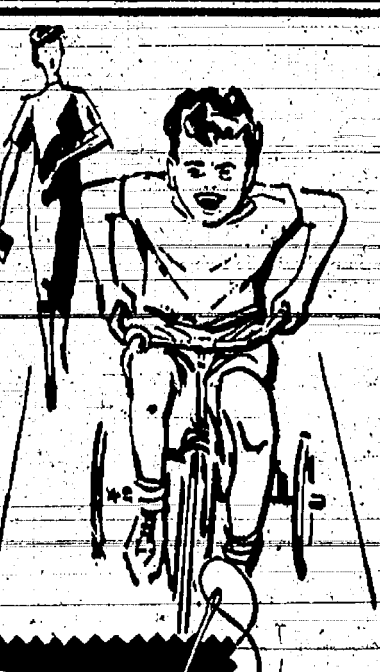

Educational radio has taken another step toward its future. Four stations have joined in a network.

They are WKAR at Michigan State University, WDET at Wayne State University, WUOM at the University of Michigan, and WMOR at Western Michigan University.

Michigan State is planning a major educational television arrangement in the central Michigan area, splitting its time with a commercial station, WILX-TV.

Both operate on Channel 10. Michigan State has its own call

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
 I saw a couple items in the papers this week that's got me confused. A feller in Georgia has put together a watch that runs backwards, and a professor in Rhode Island has invented a contraption that'll blow a soap bubble 100 feet. It took the feller in Georgia eight year to rig up his watch, and the professor spent five year on the soap bubble project.

When I read stuff like that I feel like the old colored feller that was coming down the road pulling a rope. When somebody asked him the trouble, he said he didn't exactly know, that he was a little mixed up, didn't know whether he'd lost his mule or found a rope. When inventors spend a combined 13 years figuring out a watch that'll run backwards and a soap bubble that'll travel 100 feet, I don't know whether this country is on the brink of disaster or on the eve of discovering the secret of eternal life.

About all that feller's watch is good for is to furnish some jokes on television like, for instance, the one about the grist mill that started running backwards and unground 40 bushel of meal. I don't think the soap bubble feller will even get a good joke out of his five year of labor.

For generations unto generations farmers have studied the problem of how to control a cow's tail at milking time. They've tried all methods, from tying a rock to her tail to tying the tail to the barn door. They all got the same results, either the cow overcame gravity and slapped the rock back in your face or she kicked over the milk bucket. Now why couldn't this professor or that watch feller been working on cow tail project, somepun useful for mankind? There's no end to the good this invention would do. Take for instance, in the field of religion: You might think that a cow's tail ain't got nothing to do with religion, but you're wrong. One reason country folks goes to church so much is to get forgiveness for the language they use milking a cow during the fly season. Did you ever notice that country folks go to church more during fly season than in the winter? Well, it's all on account of the cow's tail. It's a national shame, Mister Editor, that we got a watch that'll run backwards and ain't got nothing to do with religion, but you're right, that think enough of the pedestrian to put a filter tip on the car exhaust.

And speaking of livestock, I see where a feller in Wyoming last week got 30 days in jail for beating his wife over the head with a T-bone steak. Serves him right. Meat is too high for anything but eating.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

clings to curves like a cat on a carpet!
 the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with such solid assurance!

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word complete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a sharp back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple.

This one's really made to travel and loves every minute of it.

Friday, June 12, at 8:30 p.m. somewhere in the downtown area, the name of the lucky, lucky, Brother of the Brush will be drawn from a hat and the Becky Belles will demonstrate how to approach this problem of interest to all Brothers of the Brush. By doing this at such an early date it will give said brother an opportunity to grow for himself new foliage in due time for the final centennial celebration.

Special notice to all our rural women who have had experience in raking and burning brush: We would appreciate your being present to give us helpful suggestions on the ways and means of disposing of the refuse from the above operation.

Be it so resolved the lucky Brother of the Brush need not be present for the drawing on this occasion as there has been arranged an honor escort complete with posse and transportation to bring him to the proper location on the above date and time stated.

Immediately preceding the shaving demonstration the Becky Belles wish to challenge a Chelsea Belles chapter in a peanut rally. We may not be allowed to challenge all chapters so will give this opportunity to the first one or two that call the chapter's Susie Quill.

Gingham Girls Chapter Plans Weiner Roast

Gingham Girls emerged victorious in the first euchre playoff against the Golden Nuggetts. On Monday we played the Buttons and Bows and again won. Anyone care to challenge us? Call GR 9-3591 or GR 9-6846. Our husbands will be guests at a hay ride to start at the home of our Hi-Bustle and end up at Cavanaugh Lake Park for a wiener roast, on June 19 at 8 p.m. Our softball game with the Fire Belles has been called off for lack of players.

Saturday evening guests of Edwin Beutler were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Butler of Oak Park, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jedele and family, of near Saline.

Mackinac Bridge Spurs Michigan Vacation Travel

(This feature is the first in a series on Michigan's top vacation travel attractions. Others in the series will follow during the next several weeks.)

An old Chippewa legend called for an Indian brave to chop down a huge pine tree which would bridge the straits between Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas. Lacking a tree five miles tall, the feat was never accomplished—until engineers conquered the Straits of Mackinac with concrete and steel.

The mighty Mackinac Bridge has been called the seventh man-made wonder of the modern world. And it is truly a wonder; an architectural and engineering triumph of imagination over matter. Its sinuous strands of steel arch gracefully across the choppy waters of the Straits to form the longest suspension bridge on earth.

Built at a cost of $39 million, "Mighty Mac" was opened to traffic in November, 1957, and since that time has become Michigan's top travel attraction. Millions of motorists have crossed the green and ivory towered span, and many visit the Straits area just to see and cross the mammoth bridge.

The bridge is a major spur to tourist travel in the state, according to the Michigan tourist council, making it possible for travelers to cross from one peninsula to the other in 10 minutes. Before, it took the better part of an hour for the ferry trip alone, not to mention traffic tie-ups that often meant hours of delay.

In its first year of operation, more than a million vehicles crossed the bridge—a 59 per cent increase over traffic carried by ferries during the same period a year before.

Many Michigan vacationers give the bridge a featured spot on their itineraries. Lower Michigan's two scenic lakeshore drives both terminate at Mackinaw City, southern approach to the bridge, while the main east-west and north-south routes in the Upper Peninsula converge on St. Ignace, the northern entry point.

Highway US-31, north from the state's southern border, skirts the blue waters of Lake Michigan for almost the entire route. In the eastern portion of the lower peninsula, US-23 follows the scenic Lake Huron shoreline. The inland route, US-27, cuts through the center of the lower peninsula and into the forested lake country and into the arid interior. The bridge is no more than an easy day's drive (8 or 6 hours) from Michigan's southern border.

The Mackinac Bridge makes Michigan's vast and beautiful upper peninsula even more accessible to vacation travelers. The sprawling U.P. offers an expanse of nearly nine million acres of forestland, more than 4,000 of Michigan's 11,000 inland lakes, and 1,700 miles of Great Lakes shoreline.

It took almost four years to erect the bridge, beginning in March, 1954. The first above-water construction of the giant span began early in the summer of 1955. By autumn of that year, the bridge's two main support towers rose above the water to a height nearly equaling the 555-foot Washington Monument.

Then in 1958, Michigan visitors watched the spinning of the first mammoth suspension cables that support the colossal structure. Two feet thick, the cables swoop 350 feet from the top of the towers to the centers of the suspension span. Some 42,000 miles of wire went into making these cables.

Construction moved ahead rapidly and the bridge was opened to traffic in time for the November, 1957, deer season. Formal dedication took place in June, 1958.

Stretching across the Straits, the Mackinac Bridge forms a permanent link between Michigan's two peninsulas—and a Chippewa Indian dream has come true.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Trinkle, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hieber of Selo township, were Saturday and Sunday guests of the daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Montgomery and children, at Grand Junction. This was their first opportunity to see the Montgomerys' new baby, a son, Paulie Emmett, born Thursday, May 21.

Increased Parole, Probation Staffs Suggested To Save State Prison Costs

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles dealing with a threatened 20 per cent increase in Michigan's prison population in the next 10 years—and the resulting high costs.)

Lansing—The National Probation and Parole Association, a recognized national authority, says that if Michigan wants to reduce its prison population or keep it from swelling beyond reasonable bounds there are two simple solutions:

1. Don't send so many men to prison.
2. Don't keep them in prison so long.

But, it adds with emphatic warning: Neither solution is feasible or safe unless there is effective and strict supervision of the men who have been let off from a prison sentence.

In a survey of the Michigan's corrections system, prepared over 18 months for the Michigan Crime and Delinquency Council, the NPPA said that Michigan can save $9 to $14 million a year by 1970 if it adopts an adequate system of probation and parole supervision and can protect society at the same time.

Under Michigan law a judge may send a law violator to prison or he may put him on probation—a form of sentence which permits the man to continue to hold a job, support his family and pay his taxes but which required him to prove regularly to an officer of the court that he is behaving himself. If his foot slips, he goes to prison. In prison, an inmate may be released at the end of his minimum sentence (the time for good behavior) but again he must prove to his parole officer that he is behaving. If not, back he goes to prison.

The NPPA survey showed that Michigan courts use probation in about 50.6 per cent of the cases (47.5 per cent in Wayne county and 53 per cent outstate).

However, 22 counties in Michigan use probation in at least 70 per cent of the cases—18 counties use probation in 80 per cent of their cases and nine use probation in 70 to 80 per cent.

In none of the 38 counties using probation more than 60 per cent of the time has there been any bad effect on society, the Council said. It added that there have been dramatic savings in the money which would have been spent to imprison the men, to support their families on welfare and a vital savings in the social benefits resulting from keeping a casual law violator free from the corroding effects of prison life.

The Council said the use of prison sentences has decreased in recent years outside of Wayne county from 84 to 29 per cent of the cases, but that it has increased in Wayne county from 31½ per cent to 34½ per cent.

"The high prison populations in Michigan," the survey said, "are due in considerable degree to limited use of probation in some counties and courts, such as the Ingham, St. Joseph, and Kent (Grand Rapids Superior Court), Benzie and Dickinson counties, where the usage is less than 40 per cent. Wayne county Recorder's court used probation in only 44.7 per cent of its cases in 1957, and is unlikely to increase this with the overload which its (probation) agents now carry. This county has 40 per cent of the felony convictions in the state."

The Council said that currently 81.3 per cent of all law violators in Michigan are sent to prison; 50.6 per cent are placed on probation and 18.1 per cent pay fines or go to local jails or receive similar lesser sentences.

If the state could achieve the recommended 70 per cent use of probation, the Council said, only 19 per cent of its cases would go to prison. This, it said, would reduce the prison population 1,839—at a gross savings in operating costs alone of $770,000 a year.

(Next: Other savings are possible, the survey declares.)

By FRANK G. MORRIS

Lansing—Advancing through the Legislature is a bill empowering the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to compel 1,787 rural school districts to build new high schools or consolidate with their neighbors against their will.

The voters and taxpayers would have little to say in the matter—except dig up their money.

Conceivably, the step toward state dictatorship could add $300 million dollars to the school district construction debt which already exceeds $680 million in Michigan.

The Utopian planners who control the Department of Public Instruction and the Michigan Education Association would scatter new high schools from Monroe to Ironwood, and compel about 100 rural districts to replace buildings they consider obsolete.

The plan originated in the department of Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, the Democratic State Superintendent of Public Instruction. It has the approval of the politically powerful MRA.

Surprisingly, the bill establishing a state dictatorship passed the House by a vote of 66 to 33 without exciting much protest. It is now in the education committee of the Senate, headed by Senator Arthur Dehmel, Unionville Republican.

The Association for Rural Education is alarmed. So are the Farm Bureau and the Michigan Township Association. But the determined drive by "progressive" educators to win arbitrary power over the local school districts has not attracted much public attention because of the hot legislative fight over new taxes.

Dr. Bartlett and his colleagues have been frustrated by the repeated refusal of voters to consolidate districts. Their dream of a dictatorship was conceived years ago, but no direct action was taken until the people in more than a dozen districts voted down consolidation schemes during the last year.

So they struck with force this year, contending that the voters should be stripped of their right to govern themselves.

At present, two or more districts can consolidate if a majority of the voters in each district consent. Nearly all of the 1,787 districts without a high school now pay tuition for their high school students by contracting with a neighboring district.

Fuition costs are reimbursed by the state under the distribution of a maximum of $190 per student. Of the 2,320 districts in Michigan, only 688 have high schools.

The bill approved by the House provides that if a school district does not maintain grades 9 to 12, "each such district within 36 months shall attach itself totally or in part to one or more districts maintaining grades kindergarten through twelve, or establish grades kindergarten through twelve within the district."

The people of the district would vote on the construction of a new high school, if one were necessary. But the State Superintendent would have power to approve or veto the plan.

The districts would have until the fall of 1963 to consolidate or start their high schools.

Thereafter, the State Superintendent and the State Board of Education could compel compliance. Louis Schwinger, former member of the legislature and now president of the Saginaw County School Board, wrote Senator Dehmel:

"If this bill is passed, a long step toward totalitarian government will have been taken."

Ultimate goal of the educators is consolidation of Michigan's 2,320 school districts into three, two in the Lower Peninsula and one in the Upper.

It is part of a drive to eliminate townships and slice the state into a handful of counties.

Dr. C. Rolan Anderson, director of Field Services from Eastern Michigan College, let the plot out of the bag when he told a Port Huron conference of school teachers:

"We may have needed 1,750 townships in 1909, but we surely don't need them now. I don't think we even need 83 counties."

"There is no more need for 2,320 school districts than there is for our 1,750 townships."

J. V. Burge Spread Anniversary Cards Through Europe

The family of Mr. and Mrs. J. Vincent Burge, I, have received word from them that they are "spreading the word" of Chelsea's 125th anniversary celebration.

They have passed out hundreds of the celebration cards to people they have met on the boat going over and in Europe. Countries that are being visited by the people bearing these cards include Russia, East Germany, France, Belgium, England, Norway, Sweden, Austria, Denmark and Italy.

The Burges themselves have distributed many cards throughout Germany. Burge, incidentally, is still sporting his hand-bar mustache and Van Dyke beard as he and Mrs. Burge plan to return to the U. S. in time for the final week of Chelsea's anniversary celebration. On one occasion when the Burges dined at the Red Ox Inn, near Heidelberg's famous university, a group of German students serenaded them with a song about Kaiser Wilhelm II, of whom they said Burge reminded them.

undergraduate work at Michigan State University, East Lansing. While Schneider earned his degree in vocational agriculture, his wife earned her B.S. degree in medical technology. She is working at the blood bank of the Deaconess Hospital, St. Louis, while her husband is studying at Eden.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 58 proved to be the John Weber farm at 10331 Fleming road, north-east of Chelsea. Weber bought the farm four years ago and he and his family operate it. In addition, Weber operates a grocery store in Dexter.

Mystery Farm No. 58, on Fleming Road, Owned by Dexter Merchant John Weber

John Weber, who has operated a grocery store in Dexter since 1939, is the owner of "Mystery Farm No. 58" which was published in last week's issue of The Standard for identification by readers.

When Weber bought the farm four years ago, it was the first time the property had changed hands outside of the family since the former owner's grandfather secured it from the U. S. Government in 1840.

Ed Dolan, now about 85 years old, owned the farm and lived there for many years with his sister, Clara Dolan, who died at the age of 89. Dolan now lives in Pontiac.

Weber said the present house was built in 1905 after the original frame home burned in 1903. A log cabin located a mile back from the road, had been the first home on the farm.

Weber's family includes his wife, Victoria, and three children, John, 16; Mary Ann, 15; and Danny, 12.

They are members of St. Andrew's Evangelical and Reformed church in Dexter. Mr. and Mrs. Weber also are Farm Bureau, Eastern Star and Masonic Lodge members.

Weber's personal hobby is fishing and he is especially adept at spin casting.

In addition to the home farm of 140 acres, Weber owns a 120-acre farm just across the road. He has about 150 hogs and 125 sheep and his general farm crops include 70 acres of corn, 80 acres each of oats and barley, 38 acres of wheat and some soybeans.

Farm Council Barbecue Is Big Project

The Washtenaw County Farm Council chicken barbecue June 14 will require the work of hundreds of people. The barbecue pits of which there are four, each 40 feet long, will be manned by at least 40 men and women. Two shifts of at least 40 each will be needed.

To serve the anticipated 4,000 people, it requires three tons of barbecued chicken, 1 1/2 tons of charcoal, 3/4 of a ton of cabbage, 350 dozen rolls, 75 5-gallon cans of potato chips, 150 pounds of butter, 4,000 1/2-pints of milk and 50 pounds of coffee.

At least 300 people have been solicited to assist on committees, such as serving tickets, parking, horse show, etc. Chelsea Brothers of the Brush have organized a group of more than 1,000 people to attend the barbecue in one group, all in their anniversary regalia, including the Brass Band.

Robert Mast, president of Washtenaw County Farm Council has appointed two experienced chairmen to handle the project, Mrs. Erwin Frederick of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Carl Lesser of Dexter.

Children's Parade 'Very Successful'

Last Saturday afternoon the Junior Brothers of the Brush and Miss Chelsea Belles staged a colorful parade through downtown Chelsea.

Streets were lined with people eagerly awaiting the parade and as the marchers came down Main street it was evident the children had done a bang-up job preparing for this occasion.

At the head of the parade was one of the Chelsea Fire Department trucks followed by numerous bicycles and tricycles decorated with colored streamers. Next in line were a host of various floats, carrying out a historical motif illustrating the anniversary celebration in various themes.

Children were all in costume of pioneers, Indians, or just old-time dress, mostly of original design. March music was furnished by members of the Grade school band.

After the parade, popcicles were served to all the marchers and to all other children of the area. Money for this treat came from the sale of Junior Brother of the Brush pins and Miss Chelsea Belles pins.

Final Plans To Be Made For Pageant

Next Tuesday, June 16, at 8 p.m., representatives of all organizations of Chelsea are being asked to attend a meeting in the Community Fair building to be present for the final planning for the historical pageant which will climax Chelsea's 125th anniversary celebration. The pageant director will be present to explain details of the production.

The pageant is to be given each night, Monday through Saturday, of the anniversary week under the title "Remembering When."

Letters are being sent to officers of all organizations asking that their representatives be present for Tuesday's meeting. Committees stated, however, that it is possible some will be missed and they urge that every organization be represented at the meeting whether they receive a letter or not.
