ASC Election Will Name Committees

Ballots for the annual election of an ASC community committee in each township of Washtenaw county were mailed out Monday, according to Max M. Kaimbach, chairman of the county ASC committee.

All persons eligible to take part in the ASC elections will have until Sept. 11 to mark their ballots and deliver or mail them back to the county ASC office, Room 18, County Building, Ann Arbor. Government envelopes, which require no postage stamp for mailing, will be provided for use by voters in returning their marked ballots to the county office.

A ballot will be mailed to each of the 4,000 farm owners and operators listed in the county ASC office as eligible to vote in the election of community committees.

In addition to a ballot and a postage-free return envelope, each voter will receive complete instructions on how to assure secrecy in his voting.

Any farm owner, operator, landlord or tenant who believes he is eligible to vote but who fails to receive a ballot for his township is urged to call or visit the county ASC office before the voting period ends Sept. 11.

Printed on the ballots for each township will be found the names of all candidates nominated by the community election board for the township and also the names of any eligible candidates nominated by petitions of farmers. Additional names may be written in by voters who so desire.

To be elected in each township are three ASC community committee members. Their terms of office will be for one year, beginning Aug. 1. The person receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared elected chairman of his township's community committee.

In similar manner, the number of votes received will determine who are elected vice-chairman, regular member, first alternate and second alternate. Votes will be counted Sept. 14 and the results announced as soon as determined.

The county ASC committee for the year beginning Oct. 1 will be elected at a county convention to be held in Ann Arbor on Sept. 30. Newly-elected chairmen and vice-chairmen of the community committees will serve as delegates to the county convention.

★ Biggest and Best

The children in our neighborhood have gone to a do-it-yourself method of making badges. You remove the cork lining from a pop bottle cap. Placing the cap on the outside of your shirt and the cork on the inside of your shirt, you push the cork into the cap. This fastens the cap to your shirt, and you have quite a fine badge.

Since children are never satisfied with the same kind of amusement for very long at a time, they developed a refinement of this process. They took a cap from a mayonnaise jar, cut a disk of cardboard to fit it, and attached it to their shirts in the same way.

When they had finished this, the ones with big jar cap badges began to lord it over the ones who had little bottle cap badges.

In her present state of innocence Betty Seeger decided she would be the court of final appeal. It was to me that she came with the question: "Daddy, is biggest the same as best?"

I tried to calm her ruffled emotions by assuring her that a little badge can be just as good as a big one, but I know that all little people will be insinuating that "biggest" and "best" just naturally go together.

When she is old enough to go away from home, the first question strangers will be, "Where are you from?" and the fact that she is from a small town will weigh against her in the minds of some people who come from cities.

I hope she will be able to prove by her life and personality that it is possible to live and learn and love just as much in the country as in a metropolis.

Most of the most important things in life are not measured by quantity. Who would say that the biggest meal is necessarily the best one? I like big families, but I should hesitate to say the biggest one I know about is the best family. When it comes to praying, the longest prayer can't be proved to be the most effective. The things that count are not always things that can be counted.

Navy beans are a famous Michigan crop that totaled 6.2 million 100-pound bags last fall—enough to fill 6,500 freight cars or the equivalent of 65 trainloads of 100 cars each. Your state annually raises more than 90 per cent of the total national crop of Navy beans. They are the tiny, nearly-round white beans and are not to be confused with the larger, flatter white beans raised elsewhere. Processors buy 75 per cent of the Michigan navy bean crop because they will not mush up when prepared. You can buy them in the stores if you look for the words "Michigan Navy Beans" on the containers as required by law.

State 4-H Club Show Underway

State 4-H Club Show, largest state-wide, all youth exhibition in Michigan, is being held this week on the campus at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Outstanding boys and girls from most Michigan counties are showing their summer projects.

Among these is Carol Reddeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reddeman, who will participate in the State 4-H Dress Revue this evening. She will model a blue wool sheath dress with a white collar. Her accessories include a matching-colored hat, white gloves and black shoes and purse.

She is a member of the Learning By-Doing 4-H club led by Mrs. Lewis Haselwerdt and Mrs. Clarence Reddeman.

The state show began Tuesday and closes at 12:45 p.m. tomorrow. One of the highlights of the show is the "Share the Fun" talent program each evening.

Other events of special interest are a rifle match; public speaking contest; clothing judging; tractor operation and livestock judging.

Each day, at 12:45 p.m. some of the young people participating in the State 4-H Club Show are interviewed by Lois Korlund on "Homemaking Today" WMSR television Channel 10.

Today (Thursday) four International Farm Youth Exchange program young people will be interviewed, and tomorrow Russ Mawby, director of the state 4-H club program, two achievement winners and the 4-H talent show winner will participate.

Throughout the four-day event, demonstrations were given, judging events were held and a wide range of activities, both vocational and recreational, provided entertainment and inspiration for their club activity.

Frankfurts come under the category of "sausage" or comminuted meats. Michigan's sausage law is the strictest in the nation, maybe in the world. Only skeletal meats may be used (no organs), a minimum of fats and filler. Michigan Department of Agriculture inspectors get good compliance from sausage manufacturers. Michigan Grade A sausage tastes better. Proof lies in the figures. Michigan has the highest per capita consumption of sausage in the U.S. Michigan ranked 9th last year in butter production with 40 million pounds.

NEW SHRINE SLATED

An era of Presidential travel appears to have come to a close with the retirement of the United States President's private railroad car, the Ferdinand Magellan.

Declared surplus by the White House in April, 1958, the Magellan has been donated to the Florida Development Commission, which plans to enshrine it on the campus of the University of Miami at Coral Gables.

GOP PLEASED

Republicans are crediting Presidential Assistant Wilton B. Persons with bringing about a new White House awareness of political matters in appointments.

Persons, who succeeded Sherman Adams as President Eisenhower's right-hand man, apparently is pleasing congressional Republicans with his co-operativeness.

Unlike Adams, who sometimes preferred a Democrat to a Republican, Persons is reported to feel that the road to harmony within the party is through paying attention to the recommendations of party senators and House members when there is a job to fill.

The parachutes will be tested under these extreme conditions to find out whether they can be used to carry gently back to earth "escape capsules" from supersonic planes in trouble. The Air Force also wants to find out whether it can use the parachutes to recover missiles and drone planes used in Michigan is slipping in potato production. So is most every other potato state too, because of slenderizing fads, etc. We were 10th in the U. S. last year with an 8,745,000 hundredweight crop.

Muck-grown potatoes are sought by the soup trade and for potato chips of which Michigan is the No. 1 producer. Grown on lighter soils Michigan potatoes are preferred table stock. Notice when you buy the next sack of Michigan potatoes that quality is better than formerly. This is due to co-operation of all branches of the industry to improve the product. It is paying off too because more Michigan people are insisting on Michigan potatoes.

Much of the information for these studies is collected by game managers, biologists, conservation officers and the public. Like a

BOOKS

From the McKune Memorial Library

"THE FBI STORY" By Don Whitehead

When the typewriter of Louisa Rich goes to work to describe a community, you cannot help but want to go there and perhaps even live there. Her books are old friends of mine, beginning with "We Took to the Woods," in 1942, on down to her present one which the library has just received entitled, "The Peninsula."

This latest book is the account of a small lobster fishing village on the Gouldsboro peninsula in Maine, its people, its ways and its beauty as well as its eccentricities.

Louise Rich is so skilled at homey descriptions of people and places that before you are through with the book you will feel these are your friends and here is a place you would like to live. For my part I know that when the time comes that we are travelling Highway No. 1 along the coast of Maine we shall turn off on State Highway No. 159 at West Gouldsboro and go down to the village of Corea to see this land and its people.

Lobster fishing is glamorous only to artists, beachcombers and Louise Rich. To those who do it it is hard, dangerous, man-killing work. It takes a special breed of people to make a living by it—tough practical people who can stand hardship without looking at greener pastures.

Reading "The Peninsula" will give you courage to live just by introducing you to these people. It's a marvelous story by a great author.

Continuous Research Necessary in Managing Michigan's Deer Herd

Lansing—With Michigan's deer starvation losses threatening to surpass the 1956 spring toll of 36,000—not including additional winter losses from other causes—deer research personnel of the Conservation Department have their work cut out for them in 1959.

A major item on the research program's year-round agenda is the deer herd survey which is slated to begin this spring. Provided funds are available, Department members will trek through miles of randomly-selected sub-areas of the deer range in both peninsulas to help determine deer mortality figures from starvation, dogs, disease and illegal kills.

It is but one facet of an intricate program which encompasses such studies as disease, yearly harvests, mortality, physical condition, nutrition, populations, range evaluation, reproduction and deer damage to farms and orchards.

In essence, the Department's program of deer management is only as effective as its program of deer research.

Legislature Okays Fee Plan For State Park Improvement

Lansing—A new source of revenue is in sight for Michigan's park system following the legislature's approval last week of the parks permit bill.

If confirmed by Governor G. Williams, the bill would become effective 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

It would provide a $5,000,000 bond issue for park improvements to be retired from annual and daily parks permit fees. An annual $2.00 or daily 50-cent permit would be required on all motor vehicles entering state parks and recreation areas.

Conservation Department officials anticipate these fees would bring in upwards of $1,000,000 annually.

All funds would be used solely for park improvements; land purchases do not fall into this category. Furthermore, all improvement projects would require approval by the Conservation Commission and legislature before they could be started.

Basically, the sticker system would work much as fishing and hunting licenses do. Responsibility for obtaining stickers would rest with park users.

Similarly, where hunting and fishing license revenue is used for purchasing and developing lands at state game areas and public fishing sites, sticker monies would promote park improvements for people who use and pay for them.

Parks officials have already drawn up improvement plans calling for some $2,500,000.

"We are pointing improvements toward more toilet and campground facilities to reduce the number of people turned away each year," said Harold C. MacSwain, assistant chief of the Conservation Department.

A lack of camping facilities has forced Department parks men to turn away more than 14,000 camping groups in Michigan already this year.

Heavy Population Slows European Atomic Power

East Lansing—Heavy population problems are holding back peaceful applications of atomic energy in Europe, a distinguished Dutch nuclear physicist reported at Michigan State University.

"Holland and other countries with little coal and water power could produce electricity cheaper with nuclear reactors," explained Dr. Aaldert H. Wagenaar.

"But dense populations we have about 880 persons per square mile in Holland—make it difficult to build a nuclear power plant especially until we know more about the safety problems."

Rides on the student buses will be on the basis of contracts only.

State Police Issue Warning on Labor Day Water Safety

With drownings outnumbering traffic fatalities, 15 to 13, over the Fourth of July week-end, State Police are urging water enthusiasts to be especially careful over the long Labor Day holiday and wind up the summer season without tragedy.

Of 293 water accidents reported through Aug. 24 this year, 170 were fatal, 88 resulted in personal injury and there were 37 accidents resulting in property damage exceeding $50.

Of the 194 drowned, 28 were boat operators, 41 boat passengers, 54 swimmers, two skin divers, one water skier, 18 children who wandered away from parents, 11 youngsters who slipped into the water while fishing or playing and 41 were victims of miscellaneous causes.

Major causes of boat accidents, which should serve to caution Labor Day boaters from making similar mistakes, include overloading, inattentiveness of the driver or reckless operation, using high powered motors on boats too small to handle the power load, and failure to beach crafts soon enough after storms appear.

Swimmers drown mainly because they try to swim unattended by boats near enough, swimming too soon after eating, swimming alone, or diving before checking the depth of the water.

Two Injured Saturday As Pick-Up Hits Pole On Chelsea-Dexter Road

Herman Scheffler of Dexter township, and Billy Sampson of Dexter suffered cuts and bruises early Saturday morning when their pick-up truck went out of control and hit a utility pole on Chelsea-Dexter road. The accident occurred just east of the New York Central Railroad crossing at Four Mile Lake.

Sampson told officers that Scheffler, driving east at about 35 miles an hour, was unable to negotiate a sharp curve in the road at the railroad crossing.

Frozen dairy foods should stay frozen to keep their quality. If they get soft, refreezing makes them grainy and icy. Home economists say a food freezer with a temperature of zero to eight degrees will keep frozen dairy food. Storage in the ice cube compartment of your refrigerator is limited to two or three days.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 65, originally published in the Aug. 27 issue of The Standard was identified as the Hashley road home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Dean Sott and family and Mr. Sott's mother, Mrs. Ruth Sott. They have owned the farm since January, 1951.

Formerly Known as Jay Everett Home, Mystery Farm Now Owned by Sotts

Mrs. Ruth Sott and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. Dean Sott, are the owners of Mystery Farm No. 65. They purchased the farm in January, 1951, moving there from the adjoining Henry Everett farm on Chelsea-Manchester road where the Sotts family had lived for many years. The present Sott farm was formerly known for many years as the Jay Everett farm. After the Jay Everetts left the farm they lived on East Summit street the rest of their lives. The last member of the family to live in the Summit street home was Miss Jessie Everett.

The Sotts have modernized and remodeled the house since they became the owners. Mrs. Ruth Sott, a first grade teacher at North Elementary school, has an apartment of her own separate from the rest of the house. Mrs. L. Dean Sott is the former Betty Brown whose home was in Farmington. She and her husband were married 12 years ago. Their children are Martha, Mary Beth, Kristin and William Dean. They are members of St. Mary's Catholic church at Manchester and are members of the Short Hills Farm Bureau.

being dated 1834. Soon after that George S. Peckins acquired the land and after that, for a short time, the owner was Charles Manning.

The Jay Everetts then came into possession and eventually their son, Howard Everett, owned it.

The Howard Everett estate sold the farm to William Bauer in the 1920's. At about this time the original house and a barn were destroyed by fire and the present home was erected.

Other owners since then were Floyd B. Reiser and Harold W. Hillard, lumberyard owners in Wayne, who hired farmers to work the place; Vincent Merkel; James A. Ridgeway; Joseph E. Merkel; Joseph T. Merkel; and since 1951, the Sott family.

In addition to modernizing the house and remodeling to add his mother's apartment, L. Dean Sott recently fitted one of the barns as a modern milking parlor with a bulk system. At present he milks 30 Holstein dairy cows but will have more later.

He raises some wheat, hay, corn and oats.

In addition to the Sotts, themselves, those who identified the farm are Mrs. Floyd Brand, Julius Blaess, Mrs. Harold Wahl, Eugene Wahl, Richard Kruse, Mrs. Elmer Mayer, David Pastor and Charles Curtis.

Ike Will Be First President To Visit Russia

East Lansing—The coming Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange of visits will be the first for chief executives of the two nations, according to a professor of diplomatic history at Michigan State University.

No American president has ever made a public visit to Russia while in office, and neither Joseph Stalin, nor Nikolai Lenin nor any of the czars ever visited the Western hemisphere, Dr. Paul A. Varg pointed out.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt was in Russia for the historic Yalta conference, he explained, but that was not a public visit. President Roosevelt did not see Moscow or other major cities as President Dwight D. Eisenhower will.

President Eisenhower was in Russia—he visited Stalingrad to inspect war damage in 1946—but was not president then.

Visits by President Eisenhower to the capitals of West Germany, England and France, the MSU professor said, are also notable firsts for an American president.

President Woodrow Wilson, first to go abroad while in office, went only to Paris to attend the peace conference after World War I.

President Roosevelt attended conferences in the Egyptian capital of Cairo and in Tehran, capital of Iran. President Harry S. Truman went to Potsdam, Germany, but did not visit any foreign capitals.

But President Eisenhower will be the first to visit foreign capitals as president and with the express purpose of conferring with heads of state. Presidents Truman, Hoover, Theodore Roosevelt and others toured Europe, but not while in office.

Eisenhower Advises Today's Youth To Continue School as Long as Possible

Eleven years ago, General Eisenhower, then president of Columbia University, found himself swamped with appeals from young people for advice on whether to stay in school or to get a job and come to grips at once with the realities of life.

Thus, to declare himself to all young America, the General wrote an "Open Letter to America's Students," which appeared in the October 1948 issue of Reader's Digest. Recently, former president Herbert Hoover urged that it be reprinted, and so it appears in the September 1959 issue as the nation's youth again face this perennial problem—at least for another year.

General Eisenhower noted that most of his young correspondents said they hated to bother him with this "trifling" problem, and assured them all that it was not trifling at all. "Your decision will affect your entire life," he wrote, "similar decisions by millions of other young Americans will affect the total life of our country."

In urging continuation of school, the General said: "Today the business of living is far more complex than it was in my boyhood. No one of us can hope to comprehend all its complexity in a lifetime of study. But each day profitably spent in school will help you understand better your personal relationship to country and world. If your generation," he wrote, "fails to understand that the human individual is still the center of the universe and sole reason for the existence of all man-made institutions, then complexity will become chaos."

"Consequently, I feel firmly that you should continue your schooling—if you can—right to the end of college. In school, from books, from teachers, from fellow students, you can get a view of the whole of America, how it started, how it grew, what it means."

In pointing out that only educated minds can preserve our hard-won liberty, General Eisenhower cited the examples of Mussolini and Hitler—both of whom drew enormous power from the exploitation of ill-informed youth. And he urged his young readers to start being good citizens, taking part in America's affairs while they continued their schooling. Thus, he suggested, they would find truly rounded education in doing as well as studying.

Those who have the "school or job" decision to make—and their parents, too—should read this open letter.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Deep concern was expressed within the state administration as the Senate prepared to investigate the highway department.

Not since the days when Gov. G. Mennen Williams was focusing attention on the operation of former Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler has the spotlight of unfavorable publicity been centered so much on the department's administrative practices.

Considerable furor existed even before the investigating committee was officially named.

Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said he would rather be spending his time building roads than answering questions.

Sen. John H. Stahl (R-Belding), who authored the resolution setting up the probe, told Mackie not to worry. He intended to get most of his information from independent sources.

Any investigating committee can be a forum for powerful thrust in the drive by politicians and administrators alike for favorable public opinion.

Mackie already has called on his public information section to answer statements by Stahl.

Resources of the Republican State Central Committee's press agent were thrown into the battle to help pave the way for the investigation when a dispute developed over right-of-way procedures in Grafton county.

Legislative investigations often are barren of conclusions. When there are conclusions, they often are not translated into laws or changes in administrative practices.

The lack of reform by law, however, does not diminish the effectiveness of legislative investigations.

Getting a point across to the public is often satisfaction enough for the investigator or the investigated.

Both Mackie and Stahl will be using all of their skill and resourcefulness to do this during the time when publicity is focused on the investigation.

A severe setback for thousands of users of Michigan state parks. That's the way House Speaker Don R. Pearcy described Gov. G. Mennen Williams' veto of the bill to charge entrance fees to finance a park improvement program.

But Williams said there was still time to get an adequate and equitable financing plan ready for the 1960 park use season.

The governor's veto of the park bill was generally regarded as a surprise.

Williams, who favors a bonding program, shortly before the veto had announced he was "opposed to but not opposing" this year's bill.

It has been three years since the Conservation Commission has had capital outlay money for state parks. The park fee bill, which called for an annual charge of $2, would have been too late for the 1959 season.

During the past three years, it has been a battle between the park fee approval and bonding.

This year's bill would have used the fee to retire a five-million-dollar bond program.

But the governor, who said $8 million dollars was needed, said the program was "grossly inadequate" and a "feeble effort."

Almost surprising as the veto of the park fee bill was the signature Williams put on a bill requiring reflectorized license plates.

Motorists next year will pay a 35-cent fee when they purchase license plates.

The governor said he was for the bill because traffic safety experts had assured him it would help cut the death toll on highways.

Opponents of the bill objected to what they considered to be undue pressure by lobbyists.

Sen. John H. Stahl (R-Belding), said a Minnesota firm was the only one able to meet specifications for the reflectorized material to be used in coating the plates.

But State Controller James W. Miller has assured Stahl others will be bidding.

Stahl, incidentally, claimed rumors were being circulated that he was trying to lower the specifications for the material so his Belding manufacturing firm could compete.

"This is not true," Stahl said. "We don't want anything to do with the thing."

The new type plates will be mandatory beginning in 1961. However, the extra fee will be charged a year early to build up a fund for purchase of the material that will make plates pick up light and reflect it at night.

As one aftermath of the license plate bill, the 1959 plates will last two years instead of the three originally intended. It had been planned that tabs would be used in the upper right hand corner of the 1959 plates in 1960 and 1961. Use of the reflectorized plates means the tabs will be used in 1960 only.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where they got a bank in New York built all out of glass, doors, walls, everything out of glass. It's getting so everybody wants to live in a showcase but I never thought of them hard-rock bankers would fall for that new-fangled stuff. But they say some big city banks has put in lunch counters and music, so I reckon the country has finally gone to the dogs after the meek had a chance to inherit it.

It used to be that when a fellow wanted to get a bank loan, he could sneak in the bank, set with the cashier behind a partition or some goods boxes and maybe get it without the whole town knowing about it. But with glass banks coming in style, I reckon a fellow just as well put it in the paper if he gets a loan. And if he don't get it he just as well put that in the paper too.

More'n likely, he didn't get it. Next to a hen trying to set and a woman trying to marry off her daughter, there ain't nothing in this world as stubborn as a banker when you're trying to get a loan. I recollect once when Zeke Tinker decided to trade his car off for a station wagon. Zeke figured a station wagon would make him look like an agriculturist instead of a farmer. So he asks his banker to let him have a thousand dollars until he got his crops laid by. When the banker asked him what he wanted with the money, Zeke told him he wanted to add a bathroom to his house. The banker lit into him something terrible. Told him a fellow raised on fatback and cornbread didn't need a bath but once a month and a good creek had a bathroom beat two to one for luxury bathing. I heard that Zeke got so mad at the banker he ain't took a bath since.

I think the Congress ought to strike off a medal for that columnist in the Chicago paper that said he was getting tired of them Russian writers making smart remarks about American women. He said he was too much of a gentleman to answer back that if them Russians liked their women raw-boned, bow-legged, big-footed, buck-toothed, loud-mouthed, scatter-brained, and with a oversize rear axle, it was okay with him.

And I see where the income tax department has announced that 767,000 less persons asked for help on their returns this year than last. It shore ain't on account of the forms getting any simpler. I reckon it must come from this "fix-it-yourselves" craze that's sweeping the country.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Pressure Cooker Recommended To Process Corn

Home-canned corn can be good if you can it properly, says Roberta Hershey, foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State University. Pack the corn hot, and use half as much water as corn. For each cup of corn you put into the jar, add one-half cup of water. Only sure way to process corn reaches a much higher temperature than is possible in a boiling water bath. And that higher temperature is needed to make sure a non-acid vegetable like corn will keep. Mrs. Hershey recommends putting jars into quart jars for corn. Especially cream-style corn. Incidentally, it takes 85 minutes to process a pint jar of cream-style corn, packed hot.

The "drink milk" exhibit was the most popular at the 1958 State Fair, so much so that on two occasions the drinking had to be halted momentarily while trucks rushed in with fresh supplies.

The fame of the exhibit spread to all parts of the state and now members of the committee are anticipating twice as much business and are making plans along that line.

The milk exhibit is especially popular with youngsters of all ages, each of whom tries to outdo all others in guzzling. A 10-year-old took the honors a year ago with 16 glasses, far more than any of his rivals.

The exhibit will be open each of the 10 days and the sign "drink all the milk you can for ten cents" means exactly that—one can drink until he or she can barely stagger away from the counter.

In addition to being noted for its bluegrass region with its fine stock, Kentucky boasts its tobacco production, which is second largest in the nation. Corn is the state's second largest crop, its oil production is considerable and its manufacturing, transportation and financial interests are large.

The state of Washington is a fast-growing state; it attracts population because of its natural resources, its climate; its timber production is outstanding; its production of apples and wheat especially large. In it the cities of Seattle and Tacoma are important Pacific trading ports.

Clarence Hanselman of Dexter Nominated as Kiwanis Lt. Governor

Clarence G. Hanselman, secretary of the Kiwanis Club of Dexter, was nominated for the office of lieutenant-governor of the Sixth Kiwanis Division at the divisional caucus held at the Milan Community Center, Milan, Thursday evening, Aug. 20.

Nomination in this instance is equal to election as only one nominee was named and the formality of election takes place at the Kiwanis Michigan District Convention, Sept. 14-15, in Detroit.

Hanselman has lived in Dexter all his life. He joined the Dexter Club in April, 1955. He was elected vice-president and served in that capacity during the club year of 1956, going on to the president's office in 1957. He served on the club board of directors during both years and has been secretary of the Dexter club during this club year.

Hanselman, a building contractor, is married and lives with his wife, Helen, at 7755 Forest avenue, Dexter.

The Kiwanis Club of Dexter was organized 22 years ago, being sponsored by the Chelsea club. The only time the club has been represented in the lieutenant-governor's office was in 1948 when John F. Hoey served in that capacity.

The lieutenant-governor acts as contact man between the clubs in his division and the Michigan District governor in carrying on Kiwanis activities. There are 15 divisions in the Michigan district, which includes the whole state.

Included in the sixth division are the Kiwanis Clubs of Chelsea, Whitmore Lake, Pinckney, Howell, Brighton, South Lyon, Plymouth, Belleville, Romulus, Willis, Saline, Ann Arbor, Ann Arbor Eastern, Ann Arbor Western, Ypsilanti, Greater Ypsilanti, Milan and Dexter.

There is always something corny about the woman who is always dressed in the very "latest" color, cut of garment, or jewelry. These women are going to be stylish if it kills them.

This art we should all try to develop is the ability of taking clothes and accessories and making them look like they were designed just for us. Most successful fashion models have this ability. The outstanding women of fashion all over the world have this asset.

It is, happily, something that can be learned, not something you are born with. First, we are told that it is necessary to study yourself to find out just the type person you are and the impression you give other people. If you are not satisfied with your findings—who is?—you can do a great deal of improving. The secret is to bring out the attractive side of your personality and subdue the less attractive. This same rule must carry through to your choice of clothes.

The colors that do the most for you will be more becoming no matter what color the fashion magazines say will be "the color" of the season. Blue is usually the most becoming color for a person with light or dark blue eyes. Gray eyes can be made more dramatic by wearing such colors as purple, green and yellow.

In the past it was thought that a red-haired girl should steer clear of all shades of pink. Now we no longer think this. The red-haired girl can be stunning in a rather strong shade of pink. Too light a shade will tend to make her seem washed out.

The cosmetic companies come out each change of season, with a new color of makeup. Don't indulge unless you find it pleasing. There are too many lovely colors in all kinds of makeup to choose from to slavishly follow the latest color.

When children are in the kitchen be sure that all of the pots cooking, are pushed to the back of the stove out of their reach.

Train children to pick up and put away their toys. Never allow toys to remain scattered over the floor as this is one of the greatest household hazards known.

Provide an attractive chest decorated with nursery figures as a storage place. Make the child feel that this chest is his and give him a feeling of responsibility for his toys and the important job of keeping them in place. Reminded often, enough and in the proper way, most children will respond.

Stairways should always be well-lighted and uncluttered.

Keep such things as razor blades, knives and scissors well out of children's reach.

Mark all poisons and store where there is no chance of children or adults getting them by mistake.

Securely fasten window screens to keep children from falling out. Build gates at the top of porch steps or indoor stairways as an added safety measure for children.

Very highly polished floors are not safe for young or old and are particularly dangerous where scatter rugs are used. It is not wise to apply wax on the floor under a scatter rug.

FALSE ALARM
Boston—Police were summoned to the home of Mrs. Gusie Simmons because she heard "a loud noise and rattling of pans" in her kitchen.

Two policemen came to look for the prowler. They found two extremely hard-boiled eggs rattling around a waterless red-hot gas.

Mrs. Simmons then confessed that she put the eggs on to boil and then forgot them.

Homemaking Hints

Statistics show that most accidents in the home result from carelessness. Something can be done about this.

Ladders are a "must" in every household, and should be used when washing windows, hanging curtains and cleaning walls and ceilings, etc. Many hard falls have resulted from a housewife using a chair or stool to perform such jobs.

The burners on gas stoves should be completely turned off when not lighted for use. Pilot lights should be high enough to remain burning even when gas is low.

When children are in the kitchen be sure that all of the pots cooking, are pushed to the back of the stove out of their reach.

EARLY WOODWORKING SHOP—Charles Kaercher, left, and Robert Leach, had electric lights in their woodworking shop located on North Main street where Spaulding Chevrolet Sales is now located but the place was heated by an old style wood stove with a long stove pipe which made several turns before it extended through a hole in the roof of the building. Kaercher built wagons, sleighs and other wood products at the location before the building was removed in 1920 to make room for a garage and sales business.

Fashion Notes

Italian knit dresses are causing quite a flap in the fashion industry. Why they must be Italian imports to cause so much interest is a good question, since American knit dresses have just as much style and quality per dollar.

However, the grass is always greener, and the imports from Milan are exquisite knits. They are spun from 100 per cent zephyr wool with a fine gauge look. Some of the more expensive numbers are made of cashmere.

The detail on better quality dresses does credit to the "fine Italian hand." Full fashion sleeve, generous hemlines, collars that fall with the flattering precision of custom tailoring are a few points to note.

These garments pack and travel like a dream, and are right for the campus or career scene.

Raccoon trimmed coats are most important in casual wear. Raccoon is out, most important casual fur that will cause a sensation on the campus again this year. A fabulously tailored weather-treated all-wool coat will come in for a lot of compliments and a lot of hard wear on any campus this winter.
