MYSTERY FARM NO. 74, originally published in the Nov. 12 issue of The Standard without identification, proved to be the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rettig of 2715 Dancer road at the corner of Beach road. The Albert Rettigs and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Van Blaricum, make their home on the farm, at night, and a son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Rettig and children, Linda, 7, and Tony, 3, live in the five-year-old home in the foreground. Mrs. Van Blaricum's son, Harlan, also makes his home on the farm but at present is serving in the U. S. Navy. The elder Rettig works the 49-acre farm while the son, Alvin, is employed at the University of Michigan. The Rettigs have owned the place the past 15 years. Mrs. Rettig said the farm was formerly known as the Rudolph Widmayer place. The elder Rettigs have another son, Walter, who lives near Dixboro, and another daughter, Mrs. Isabel Bennett of Howell. Seven-year-old Linda attends school at Dexter. Those who called to identify the farm are Mrs. William Beach, Mrs. Floyd Fowler, Mrs. Robert Bristle, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Boyce, Ron Satterthwaite and Mrs. Albert Rettig.

★ Chelsea To Host Holiday Cage Tourney

This week we're picking our WOIA All-Area "Top 22" football team. The team will be announced this Saturday at 9 a.m. over 1290, and next week in this column we will go a little deeper into detail on some of the selections for you. The high school sports front has slowed down for a couple of weeks while the basketball teams prepare for their opening Dec. 5. Chelsea won't begin working out under Coach Bob Taylor until next Monday. The Bulldogs will have four returning letterwinners, two of them will be the Nixon twins who are expected to be mainstays this winter. As I mentioned last week, U. High and Saline will start the season as favorites for the title, with Chelsea running third.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 28, 29, 30, Chelsea will host an invitational basketball event. All teams will play on each of the three tournament days. Scheduled for action in the event will be South Lyon, Pinckney, Saline, Brooklyn, Vandercook Lake, Napoleon, Jackson St. Mary's and the host team Chelsea. As far as I know this will be the only Christmas tournament in the area.

I think that the scheduling of this event is a good thing. Too often over the vacation period there is nothing to do, and often during the long Christmas-lapse with erratic practice sessions, teams lose conditioning and have trouble gaining it back when the vacation is over. The tourney will give the teams a chance to play some non-league games and a chance to work out some of the rough spots. By the way, we'll be broadcasting all of the key games in the tourney.

Saturday at the Michigan football stadium the great tradition of the Michigan-Ohio State football game will be renewed. Although neither team is in contention for honors this fall, the contest is expected to attract some 100,000 football fans. Michigan's fine fullback, Tony Rio, has a badly bruised shoulder, and is a doubtful starter Saturday. Other than Rio, the Wolverines will be in good condition for the game. Ohio State will be without the services of their great All American fullback, Bob White. White, who was a sensation at Ann Arbor two years ago as he ran through Michigan, has suffered injuries throughout the season this year, and will not see service this week. A lot of Michigan fans and Ohio fans will never forget that great afternoon two years ago, and now, with White on the sidelines, Ohio State and Michigan will clash in a game which has little to do with the conference race, but much to do with the pride of winning that exists between the two schools. I'll take Michigan by a touchdown.

Bump Elliott and Dale Hall of Army, two new young coaches who have had rough seasons, gained some recognition on the national football scene when they were named as coaches of the North Fans apparently had forgotten that Bierman-coached teams had won six Big Ten championships and four national championships. Many of them had banners rolled up their sleeves ... ready to taunt Bierman if his team should lose. They didn't get a chance to use them.

What happened on the turf that day in November 10 years ago is football history at its best. The fired-up Gophers put on an awesome display of power football. They smashed Iowa, 55-7.

After the game, the elated players hoisted Bierman to their shoulders and carried the Grey Eagle to the locker room. Said Bierman, "It was one of the nicest rides I've ever had."

Bierman ended his coaching career after the next season. The pressure of his critics was too great. Now he's a sportscaster for a Twin Cities radio station.

WCCO. He is also a football writer for a St. Paul newspaper.

Since he left, neither of two coaches could lift the Gophers any higher than third in the Big Ten. The Gophers have not come close to gaining the national prominence they had under Bierman. In fact ... the record posted by Minnesota in 1949 ... the year Bierman was pressured into resigning ... has not been bettered since.

Perhaps, as Bernie Bierman ponders the fate of Murray Warmath, he smiles a bit ruefully.

INSTRUCTOR'S INSTRUCTIONS
Clinton, Mo.—Carl Sexton, driver-educator-instructor in the Clinton schools, took two boys and two girls out for a lesson in changing tires.

They stopped in a residential section when it was one of the girls' turn to change a tire. While the girl toiled, there came an indignant woman's voice from a nearby house: "It seems to me that you men could at least help that girl, instead of just standing around."

NEXT, PLEASE!
Coffeyville, Kans.—Local authorities have asked D. A. Wilborn, Jr., to appear in court to answer a charge of non-payment of traffic tickets. He received 81 parking tickets within a few months.

Tip to motorists: Remember to guard your Sunday pleasures with safety measures.

Milk Production Records Listed for Holsteins

In Two Area Herds

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Battleboro, Vt., has announced that two cows in this area have completed official records that bring their lifetime production totals to more than 100,000 pounds.

Velva Lea Ormsby-Triune Lily, 2808854, owned by George Macomber, produced 131,368 lbs. of milk and 4,469 lbs. of butterfat in 3,009 days on official test.

Cushbawn Crystal, 2881467, owned by Glenn Hanson, of Gregory, produced 123,294 lbs. of milk and 4,302 lbs. of butterfat in 2,434 days on official test.

To date, 10,327 Holsteins have exceeded this outstanding production mark on official test. Many more have achieved similar goals in unofficial testing programs.

The lifetime total of the average Holstein cow is approximately 50,000 pounds. This volume of production, representing approximately five times dairy cow, is attributed by the association to the registered Holstein's unparalleled longevity coupled with recent advances in breeding, feeding, and management.

The reason some boys don't follow in their father's footsteps is because the father's gait is too fast for them.

Farm Census Takers Complete Training Course

Census takers for the local area of the 1959 Census of Agriculture have completed an intensive training course in preparation for the start of the field canvass in November. The training session was held at the Farm Bureau Office building on Saline-Ann Arbor road and was conducted by the crew leader who recently attended a five-day census training course.

The training course covered the use of the census questionnaire, census definitions, interviewing, and map reading. Emphasis was placed on the importance of locating every farm and obtaining complete and accurate information. The census takers will conduct actual interviews as part of the training.

Census takers completing the training include: Mrs. Ruth Doherty, Emory Robinson, Mrs. Cora Doherty, Mrs. Luelien Sietoff, Theodore Box, Mrs. Elsie Ordway, John Schmidt, Floyd Parker, Mrs. Laura Meyer, Mrs. Jean Simons, Mrs. Marie Jarvis, Mrs. Alleyne Held.

Michigan, Ohio Lead Nation in Traffic Safety Among Industrial States

Michigan and Ohio are tied for first place as the safest of the seven large industrial states, according to James M. Hare, Chairman of the State Safety Commission.

With this year's national average of deaths running 51 persons for each billion miles of travel, Michigan and Ohio show a rate of 39 deaths per billion miles.

New York follows with 43, Illinois with 44, Indiana with 46, Texas with 50, and California with 52.

"Compared to our own 1958 record," Hare said, "our 1959 ratio is high but we still seem to be better off than other big industrial states. If we keep our traffic deaths down the next three months, we may end up much better than we hoped we would at mid-year."

Edward Wiley, Mrs. Loretta Kruger, Ermine Finkbeiner, H. Elwood Hansen, Mrs. Margaret Day, Mrs. Leona Chavey of Sharon township, and Mrs. Barbara Baker of Manchester township, were trained with the Jackson county group as they will enumerate in the Jackson crew leader district.

State's Car Owners Keep Same Plates, Use Metal Tab

The job of filling in 1960 passenger car license applications this year will take one-third less time due to the fact that they have been reduced in size this year.

According to James M. Hare, Secretary of State, this is part of the economy measure possible by the "plate plus tab" system. Michigan car owners will get tabs marked "60" which will be placed over the upper right corner of the green and gold 1959 license plates.

"The short form will save time for everybody," Hare said, "and should give us a neater job of hand lettering. If the lettering is clearer and crisper our time-saving automated machinery will do a better and faster job. The short application will also save a considerable amount of paper and ink as well."

This economy was one of many made possible through the system of making license plates serve for more than one year. Much more than the expense of metal and the work of stamping out new plates is spared the state. In the case of the smaller license applications the extra copy which had to be made out in the past was used in printing the so-called "Police Book" which is a registry of all cars licensed in Michigan.

These are listed in alphabetical and numerical sequence, such as WU 1285, WU 1289, WU 1290, and so on and is used to trace the ownership of abandoned vehicles, cars involved in hit-run accidents, and so on.

Since all car owners will retain their 1959 plates with the same letters and digits, there is no need for a new police book. This saves the Department of State and the persons who buy these compilations a considerable amount of money.

All branch offices in Michigan's 83 counties now have tabs and the new, small-size, application blanks. Weight taxes and the 1960 tabs went on sale starting Monday, Nov. 2.

THREE STUDENTS at the Washtenaw County Day School for Trainable Mentally Retarded Children are shown in the above photo as they were painting ceramics in the form of Christmas trees. The clay models were later fired in ovens, giving them a beautiful glaze. Proceeds of the sale of the ornamental Christmas decorations will be used for a Christmas party for the children. They are proud of the fact that they were able to earn their own money for the party.

Open House Being Held Today at School for Mentally Retarded

Open house is being held today at the Washtenaw County Day School for Trainable Mentally Retarded children at 2030 Dhuvarren road, north of Ann Arbor.

Bruce Haas, son of Mrs. Darlene Haas and the late Orville Haas, PN, 2 C, USN, is a Chelsea student at the school. His mother gained national recognition Jan. 5 when she was chosen "queen for a day" on a television broadcast originating in Ann Arbor, and said her wish was to receive driver training lessons so she could transport her son to the Washtenaw County Day School for Trainable Mentally Retarded Children. The young widow has a family of four children ranging in age from 3 to 12 years. Her husband, stationed at Gross Pointe Naval Air Base had died of a heart attack, Oct. 9, 1958.

The school may be reached by driving one and one-half miles north out of Ann Arbor on Pontiac Trail and turning right on Dhuvarren. The school is approximately one-half mile from Pontiac Trail.

Open house hours are from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The staff of the school and parents of pupils will be present to explain about the facilities and the exhibit of children's work which will be on display.

There are now 19 children who attend school regularly at the day school. While the National and Michigan Association for Retarded Children benefit through the Michigan United Fund which is included in Chelsea's Community Chest, residents of Chelsea, Dexter, Milan, Saline and rural Washtenaw county have no way to contribute to the Washtenaw County Retarded Children's program through the United Fund. Anyone who wishes to contribute may send such contribution directly to the WARC at P.O. Box 2212, Ann Arbor.

The county association is included in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti United Fund campaigns. Washtenaw county is deemed fortunate to have a day school of this nature.

The occurrence of mental retardation is said to be no respecter of persons—professors, milkmen, doctors, executives, tradesmen, laborers, people of any race—may have a child who is mentally retarded. Some of the known causes are brain damage from birth, injuries or prolonged high fever, inborn errors in metabolism such as absence of a thyroid gland or malfunction of the gland; or, in rare cases, hereditary factors.

Great new strides are being made in research in recent years so that one disorder, phenylketonuria can be detected by a simple urine test on infants. If the baby is found to have this disorder he can be placed on a special diet which can prevent him from being retarded.

Some researchers feel that other errors of metabolism are on the brink of discovery and prevention, but for the majority of cases no cause is known. Inborn errors in metabolism, injury or malnutrition.

tion of mothers during pregnancy are all areas for speculation. Retarded children are not mentally ill. They are children whose mental growth is enough below average for their age to make it difficult to educate them in regular classes with children their own age; in other words, they are mentally "young" not mentally "ill."

Mentally retarded children include those who can be taught academic subjects at a slower rate than other children their age and others who will never mature enough to read or write well but can be taught habits of personal health and safety, manners, grooming and the performance of simple tasks.

National Retarded Children's Week is being observed throughout the nation this week. In some states the occasion is used for fund-raising purposes, but in Michigan it is a time for an inventory of accomplishments and a time to pause for a look toward the future.

Since its inception in 1950, the Michigan Association for Retarded Children has concerned itself with a seven-fold program devoted to the plight of the retarded child. First among the goals is for universal public acceptance and understanding of retardation by all persons, but especially by public officials, professional persons, parents and relatives.

The executive director of MARC and counselor to the state chapters, Michael C. Kreider, points out that this basic goal is necessary if the remaining objectives are to be achieved. Of equal concern are the other six points: To foster research which someday will provide the medical answers on causes, prevention, cure and treatment of retardation; more and better education and training facilities; custodial, hospital, and nursery care for those with severe handicaps; wise counseling services by various professions; adequate personnel for all stages of education, care and training and more community facilities.

The Michigan Association for Retarded Children and of its 55 chapters is a challenging one—as challenging as the problems that once confronted other major health organizations, but which have been resolved through public interest and support.

The future of the work of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children and of its 55 chapters is a challenging one—as challenging as the problems that once confronted other major health organizations, but which have been resolved through public interest and support.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Real "Meaty" Subject

Today I've got a tale that really hits close to home—but it's okay, I've got the wife's permission to tell it.

My Mrs. Marsh has been cooking hams—deliciously, I might add—for years. But always, just before she pops 'em into the oven, she slices an inch off one end. Reason: she said her mother always did that to make ham tastier.

Last week, though, Grandma gave the real reason. Sure, she used to slice an inch from a ham but only when her roasting pan was an inch too short.

From where I sit, all of us do things that can't be backed up by reason or fact. Most time they're pretty silly things—particularly the petty prejudices we build. For instance, some folks may resent your preference for buttermilk at dinner, or mine for a glass of beer. If they'd stop to think "why"—they'd realize they were taking a "slice" off our friendship and for no good reason at all.

Today's picture review:

Pillow Talk

"Pillow Talk" teams two of the screen's top box office favorites in a glittering comedy that combines glamour and laughs to delight the most sober audience.

Rock Hudson plays the role of a songwriter who spends more time wooing the ladies than writing songs. Doris Day is a fashionable interior decorator who shares a party line with him. Trouble develops when he spends so much time whispering sweet nothings in various shell-like ears that she can't get any calls through herself. Develops a long-standing feud, sight unseen, during which she pictures him as a debauched libertine and he pictures her as an ugly, spiteful old maid-type.

When the inevitable meeting occurs, and he discovers who she is, he is careful to disguise his identity while mapping his amorous campaign. Pretending to be a wealthy and gentlemanly Texan, he succeeds in sweeping her off her feet. When she discovers who he really is, fireworks begin to pop.

An entertaining and lively offering, suitable for the whole family.

U-M Dean Sees Sharp Enrollment Gain in Teaching

Ann Arbor—More than twice as many University of Michigan students are starting teaching careers as did five years ago, according to Dean Willard C. Olson.

"The number of provisional teaching certificates granted to the University's education students has more than doubled—from a total of 387 in 1954 to 950 last year," he says.

"Many factors are motivating students to choose teaching for a career," Dean Olson explains. Among them: (1) growing awareness of the importance of education, (2) increasing economic reward for teachers, (3) uncertainty in the labor market, and (4) increased financial assistance given undergraduate students going into the teaching profession.

In the undergraduate division of the U-M School of Education, a 70 per cent increase in male enrollment has occurred over the past two years, Olson reports. But there still is a majority of coeds in the school.

Graduate interest in education courses is being maintained at a high level. Last year, the University awarded 590 master's degrees and 25 doctoral degrees in education.

"Between 1959 and 1960, it is expected that students obtaining certificates for the teaching of mathematics will increase 81 per cent," the dean states. "The number of those interested in teaching science, other than physics, will increase 42 per cent; language 35 per cent; and English 21 per cent."

TV Quiz Show Scandal May Serve To Fix Responsibility in Industry

In the mass of shocking and conflicting testimony on the TV quiz show fixes that leave a once trusting public groggy and distressed among the debris of its shattered idols, the simplest explanation of the whole incredible performance has come from the former advertising manager of a firm sponsoring one of the big shows.

He described the shoddy business of "controlling" the $64,000 Question and the $64,000 Challenge as "an act of desperation" brought about by the skidding popularity of a high-priced show. And his explanation of why the producers resorted to "rigging" in these instances, would, we think cover all the others that have been—or will be—uncovered. It was a case, he said, of "living between the mixed values of show business and the advertising business and moral values were lost sight of."

The pity of it is that there was no cop on the TV corner; that the networks were too preoccupied with selling time to pay enough attention to what was done with it. That the responsibility of broadcasting as a public trust belongs to the networks seems obvious when these limited and priceless broadcast channels are given to them by Federal authority. There is no question of the responsibility of a newspaper publisher who allows fraudulent advertising to appear in his columns.

If this scandal causes the owners of radio and TV broadcasting facilities to assume voluntarily or otherwise their full responsibility to the public, this "whole mess," as President Eisenhower has termed it, will have fulfilled a useful purpose and will prevent such a thing ever happening again.

"Strongly inflationary" price increases over the last 12 years, according to a report prepared for the House-Senate Economic Committee, are the fault of the steel union, steel management and the Federal Government. It seems the union got "an extraordinary rise in wages," management raised prices, and the government pushed both of them! If we dared to take issue with the scholarly economists who compiled this revelation, we would say it was the fault of the people who insisted on buying steel at all after these things happened.

"The wisdom shown by President Eisenhower in inviting me to his country and in expressing the desire to come to the Soviet Union attests not only to his foresightedness but also the American people's striving for peace."—Nikita S. Khrushchev. (At least there's one person who thought the trip was a good idea!)

Still Capitol Champ

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan's next budget is bound to be a whopper.

Even while the legislature searched for a tax program to balance the 1959-60 budget, state agencies were completing requests for their 1960-61 allowances from Michigan taxpayers.

The money pinch has made agencies economy conscious the past few months; but not so much so that there has been a widespread clamor for budget cuts by agencies themselves.

A half billion dollar general fund budget is expected to be sought by the agencies. Mental health and education will be the most costly items.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams and the legislature will be under tremendous pressure when they review all agency requests. The Governor claims the current budget provides for the most rigid and severe economy, even before curtailments brought on by the cash crisis.

Department heads will argue that three years of "austerity" mean the next budget should be larger than would have been sought had the state been able to keep pace with demands for service.

On the other hand, there are those in the legislature who will argue that now more than ever there is need for further economies. They want to deal with inefficiencies caused by civil service regulations, overstaffing, long coffee breaks, etc.

Words from the past by Williams are expected to be repeated in the Governor's budget message. For the past three years he has introduced his budget much the same way:

"If this budget appears to be large, let us remember that we are paying not only tomorrow's bills, but the bills we have accumulated through yesterday's neglect."

Further Consolidations will be recommended to the legislature by the Governor's advisory council on reorganization.

Among proposals considered by the council:

1. Suggestions to create a central agency to coordinate the work of the various professional and vocational licensing boards now operating as separate departments.

2. Let the Department of Public Instruction do the work of some state educational boards and commissions.

3. Give the Conservation Commission jurisdiction over the Mackinac Island state park.

It won't be easy, but is seldom to be brought about change in government. The "first" are usually better entrenched, work harder at resisting, and have more at stake than those seeking the change.

Powerful lobby interests can be expected to oppose any moves that would result in a loss of stature for any professional licensing boards.

A furor was raised when Williams proposed the merging of the State Board of Alcoholism with the Health Department. The Senate vetoed the proposal.

What ever happened to the six reorganization plans approved by the legislature earlier this year?

These plans, which included consolidations in the fields of revenue-collecting, health and welfare, were drafted to go into effect Jan. 1, 1960. But technically they can not become effective until 90 days after the 1959 legislature adjourns. Since we are already within 90 days of Jan. 1, a new confusion has been created.

Encouraging signs have emerged from all of the clouds of controversy about Michigan's business climate.

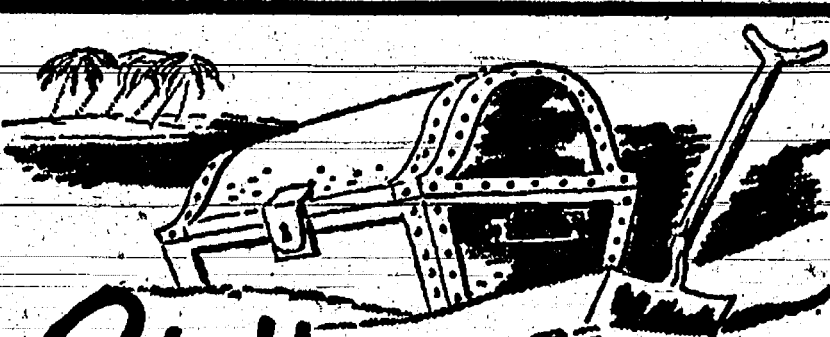

William M. Day, president of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and chairman of the Economic Development Commission, said the state's success in getting new industry the first nine months of the year was encouraging.

Seventeen companies on the Economic Development Department's list of prospects located plants in Michigan during the period. The department said it was "working on" 50 other prospects.

Community co-operation is a major factor in luring new industry to Michigan. The state has 100 communities prepared to offer financial assistance, and 39 can establish planned industrial sites.

More than 300 Michigan newspapers helped develop a spirit of

GOP Proposes 'Nuisance' Taxes

When a legislator starts writing a tax program, he feels like a guy looking for a way to commit suicide—painlessly and remain alive. It long has been established that one way not to win friends among the voters is to reach into their pocket-books with a friendly smile while remarking: "Pardon me, for at heart I am an angel, not really a pickpocket."

That is why Gov. Williams double-crossed the Republican majority in the Senate last week after leading the Senators into a trap which was to have provided "bi-partisan action, freed of all political entanglements and designed only for the good of the people."

Well aware that Republican Senators never would give him an income tax, the Governor was on safe legislative ground when he insisted that an income levy should be the answer.

(Democratic legislators sweated that one out, remarking to their Republican friends: "Boy, Oh, Boy! If you should give us an income tax we all would be waving farewell to beautiful Lansing as the sun sets beyond the capitol dome.")

Then give me any kind of tax that will free Michigan from the money-lenders and from the fatal blows of the bankruptcy courts," said the Governor in a cozy visit with Senators Clyde H. Geerlings, (R) of Holland, chairman of the taxation committee, and Frank Beadle, of St. Clair, chairman of the GOP caucus.

Well, they did—and it took a lot of doing.

Mindful of the fact that the people have said through many polls that they will not accept an income tax, and that no one complained loudly about the four-cent sales tax before it was outlawed by the Supreme Court, Republicans put together a package that was not a happy perfume for anyone.

Everyone is aware by now that the package, like the perfume, could be labeled "My Sin"—that included new levies on liquor, beer and tobacco.

Once the Republican program was drawn, Gov. Williams' promise of bipartisanship was relegated by him to the limbo of fool's paradise. Democrats refused to become coplayers of any of the bills. ("Let Republicans tax the people," they said, shaking hands gleefully.)

To the surprise of most Democrats, Republican Senators accepting the responsibility, although in politics as the "suicide squad" in the Supreme Court, has been plain to everyone in Lansing that the legislature has had only three roads.

The first was to follow Gov. Williams and enact an income tax. The second was to enact specific taxes like those which make up the Republican package.

The third was to do nothing while everyone stands back to watch the state government collapse.

It should be obvious that the Republican majority in the Senate had only one choice.

The only educational gain to the public, while paying beer and whiskey taxes instead of an income tax, is that talk of bipartisanship, even when it emanates from the Governor, is hog-wash. The business of politicians is politics. No one can contend that the politician screaming loudest for bipartisanship has not been backed into a corner and is caught in a wringer.

By GOV. G. MENNEN WILLIAMS

Simple, Solution to Money Crisis

We could get the tax question settled very quickly this week, if the Republican Senators would stop trying to put the cart of next year's election ahead of the horse of an immediate revenue program.

The State's need for money is immediate and desperate. Every day that passes without a new tax program to replace the lost $110 million use tax drives the Treasury deeper into the hole.

Accepting their responsibility, Republican Senators last week devised a program of "nuisance" taxes which they estimate will raise a little over $70 million. This is not a happy tax program and it falls $40 million short of providing enough money. But at least it provides a basis for a settlement.

The Republican Senators have the votes to pass any kind of tax program they want to pass. They don't need a single Democratic vote in the Senate.

The obvious thing for the Republican Senators to do, if they won't adopt the tax program which has already passed the House is to pass their own tax program, and send it to the House. That's the only way progress can be made.

But instead of doing that, the Republican Senate caucus attempted to fight next year's election campaign first.

Acting in secret caucus, the Republicans wrote two resolutions they want put on the ballot a year from now. One calls for a 4-cent sales tax and the other for an income tax. They demanded that Senate Democrats vote for these two proposals before a tax program is passed.

The Democratic Senators refused, and I think they are absolutely right. The Legislature has the rest of this session and all of next session—at least eight months—to decide what is to be put on the ballot in November, 1960. The Democrats have said repeatedly that they will not obstruct a vote on the sales tax at the 1960 election, provided an adequate tax program is adopted to keep the state going in the meantime.

But it makes no sense whatever to bog down in a lengthy argument over these ballot proposals to be voted on a year from now, while the state runs completely out of money now.

The Democrats say very reasonably that we should adopt a tax program first and then thresh out the question of what is to be put to the people next November. Neither party can lose on this, because both have plenty of time to put proposals on the ballot to petition if they aren't satisfied with the action of the Legislature.

Such proposals can be put to the people either by petition or by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

The situation is something like this:

The State is rapidly drowning in a sea of red ink. The Democrats want to put out a lifeboat right away. The Senate Republicans say, "No, before we put out a lifeboat let's settle the question of what kind of dry clothes we're going to put on the drowning man a year from now after we rescue him."

The implied threat of the Republicans is, of course, that if the Democrats don't yield, they will let the state drown. I think we have had enough of this government by threat and blackmail.

If the Senate Republicans will pass an adequate tax program, send it to the House, and release the Veterans-Trust Fund reserve so we can meet some of our $12 million in unpaid bills, this whole tax question can be settled almost by the time you read this.

Farm-City Week To Deal With State's Water Problems

Have you used your 150 gallons of water today?

That's what the average American needs each day for drinking, dishwashing, bathing, laundry, cooking and other personal uses. Add all industrial, recreational, and farm uses, and you have 1,500 gallons per capita per day.

"Most folks in Michigan's water wonderland feel their water supply is almost limitless," says Russell Hill, conservation expert at Michigan State University.

"Actually," he adds, "we do have plenty. But often it's not in the right place, in the right quality and of reasonable price."

The problem is so serious that "Water for Farm and City" has been chosen as the theme of the 1959 Farm-City Week, November 20-28. The week is dedicated to helping rural and urban people understand how they depend on each other. Hundreds of civic groups will take part.

"America needs four times as much water now as it did 50 years ago," Hill points out.

Here are some reasons:

1. Population is soaring. Michigan has less than eight million people now. The state expects over 11 million by 1975.
2. People and industry are moving to rural areas. Local water supplies often fail to meet the added needs at reasonable prices.
3. Modern industries have a big thirst. It takes 285 tons of water to manufacture one ton of steel.
4. Michigan farmers will probably operate 3,500 irrigation systems by 1975—almost double the present number. That's partly because much of the state's 31-inch annual rainfall comes in late summer and early fall. There's often a shortage in three crucial crop-growing months—June, July and August.
5. We waste a lot. For example, folks once dipped drinking water from a pail. Now we often let a faucet run a minute or so for just one cup-full.

"Michigan's tourist business brings in at least 650 million dollars a year," Hill reports.

Dinner guests Sunday at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. S. D. Kinde were the Rev. and Mrs. Grant Wessel of Milan, with their sons, George and Jon.

CYSTIC FIBROSIS VICTIM—Three-year-old Mary Ann Montague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Montague of 19640 Ivey road, who is a victim of cystic fibrosis, is shown in the above photo with a new apparatus perfected for use of victims of the disease. Mary Ann is the youngest of a family of five children. Her condition was diagnosed as cystic fibrosis when she was eight weeks old. Her picture was chosen to be used for publicity regarding candy sales held at various locations in Washtenaw county last Friday and Saturday to raise funds for the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation. Merkel Brothers store here was one of the sales locations. Proceeds of the sale here was approximately $80.

Ypsilanti Woman Recovers Purse Lost On Friday the 13th

An Ypsilanti woman who lost a wallet containing more than $150 in Chelsea last Friday regained possession of it from the Chelsea Police Department as the result of the honesty of a Chelsea woman. The money—represented proceeds of collections made in Chelsea that morning by the Ypsilanti woman, Mrs. Beverly Cassel, whose husband is a Fuller Brush Co. representative.

Mrs. Walter Keezer of 240 Park street, who is employed at Louie's Snack Bar, found the billfold containing the money in the road at the corner of Madison and Park streets. The billfold was white and almost invisible against the snow which fell that day.

Mrs. Keezer took the billfold to Police Chief John Palmer and together, they counted the contents.

Mrs. Keezer had already reported the loss to the police.

It was a typical "Friday, the 13th" mishap which, however, ended happily.

Mrs. Cassel's husband returned home Saturday to find Mrs. Keezer and present her with a reward amounting to 10 percent of the recovered amount of money in the Band Boosters program.
