CHS STUDENTS Peter Flintoft and Daniel Mayer explained their drawings and Mayer's scale model of a house he had designed when the two participated in a problem-solving discussion at the shop teachers' institute at Chelsea High school Saturday afternoon. The group was in the drafting room at the time. The two Chelsea students were standing at the far right, barely visible in the photo.

BILL COLTRE, wearing white shirt at right, and Jim Fite who does not appear in the photo, explained about the Chelsea High school wood and general shop area in the problem-solving group discussion held in the woodworking shop at the school Saturday as part of an institute for shop teachers from schools throughout Michigan.

A PROBLEM-SOLVING GROUP met in the electronics laboratory at Chelsea High school during Saturday afternoon's session of the institute for shop teachers. At left, wearing a light sweater bearing the letter "C" is Mike Marsh who explained details for the benefit of the visiting shop instructors. The institute began with a morning session at the Michigan Union, Ann Arbor, and moved to Chelsea High school for the afternoon.

Institute for Shop Teachers Studies CHS Class Facilities

Arthur Hansen of the State Department of Public Instruction, was one of several speakers at the annual Institute for General Shop Teachers which held its opening session at the University of Michigan Saturday morning and an afternoon session at Chelsea High school.

The afternoon session served as a demonstration of student training facilities and work projects, followed by problem-solving discussions in four separate areas of shop work.

At the morning session, which opened at 9:30 a.m. at the Michigan Union, Frank W. Dalton, U. of M. professor of vocational education, was chairman of an opening discussion of "Improving Industrial Arts Programs."

The role of the Michigan Industrial Arts Curriculum Committee was described by Chairman

Neil Schoenhals of Western Michigan University, Arthur Hansen of the State Department of Public Instruction, and other members.

Problem solving approach to industrial arts projects was the theme of Prof. Aarre K. Lahti of the U. of M. College of Architecture and Design, Arthur V. Francis, University School instructor, and members of a design class.

Chelsea High school shop instructor, Jack Musser, previewed new laboratory facilities at Chelsea High school, and Tecumseh teacher Donald J. Berkley discussed plans for future institutes, to close the morning session.

Problem solving sessions in the Chelsea industrial education center covered these areas: Drafting, under leadership of Paul Hocking, Huron Valley Schools, Milford;

Wood and General Shop, led by Robert Duvall, Belleville High school; Mechanics and Metals, led by Arthur Francis and student teachers; Electricity and Electronics, led by Albert Gallup, Ann Arbor High school. A conference summary was presented by Glenn Dickerson of Tappan Junior High, Ann Arbor.

Planning committee members included: Clovis Ferguson, O. L. Smith school, Dearborn; Robert Hutchcroft, U-M associate professor of industrial arts education; Ray LaBounty, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti; Alfred W. Storey, U-M Extension Service; Neil Suomala, Grapes Pointe High school; and previously mentioned program members, Berkley, Duvall, Dickerson, Francis, Gallup, Hansen, Hocking and Musser.

Special Events Set For Dimes March

Mrs. John Keusch, Chelsea March of Dimes chairman, Mrs. George Ellenwood, Chelsea campaign publicity chairman, and Mrs. William Adams, peanut sale chairman, attended the Washtenaw county March of Dimes kick-off dinner at Ann Arbor Thursday evening.

The dinner was given by the Loyal Order of Moose and its Women's Auxiliary. The latter group presented the March of Dimes with a $50 check.

James E. Edington of Lincoln, Neb., assistant to the director for fund raising for the National March of Dimes, was the guest speaker at the dinner.

Edington announced that a 10-year administrative grant of $294,000 has been awarded to Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., of the University of Michigan School of Public Health. He said the grant is intended for long-term epidemiological research in chronic diseases. Edington also said that $183,169 will be made available to Dr. Francis for research on drugs effective against virus disease and for study of how living cells act on each other.

In addition, the University Respirator Center will receive $85,929 to teach techniques and procedures to help polio patients return to normal life.

Edington said 50 per cent of funds collected in the March of Dimes is used for scholarships, professional education and continued research on polio and the new program of arthritis and birth defect study. He said the National Foundation expects to care for arthritis and birth defect patients as it now cares for polio patients.

Mrs. Keusch announced yesterday that Mrs. Charles Lancaster, Mothers' March chairman for Chelsea, is making arrangements to hold the event Thursday evening, Jan. 28.

Mrs. William Adams, in charge of the annual peanut sale for raising funds for the March of Dimes, is planning the sale for Saturday, Jan. 23.

Chelsea Band Boosters club held the January meeting Monday evening in the Chelsea High school band room with the secretary, Mrs. Vernon Parks, presiding.

Principal item of business transacted was a revision of the organization's constitution to read that "any member may become an officer" of the club.

It was decided that students who make purchases in business places of the community must show a note signed by the band director, Gayle Grove, or a teacher or other authorized person in order that a record of such purchases may be available.

The evening's program was a review of the history of the Chelsea Band Boosters organization, presented by Mrs. Francis Smyser. She mentioned not only the problems encountered through the years but also the worthwhile accomplishments which have rewarded members' efforts.

She concluded by requesting Gayle Grove, instrumental music director, to outline his reasons for the need of support from a band boosters club.

Director Grove introduced Hubert Beards, band director in Dexter, Mich., who related similar experiences of the Dexter band and boosters club and how some of their problems have been solved satisfactorily.

The evening's program was concluded with reports given by four students who received Band Booster scholarships for two weeks at Interlochen Music Camp the past summer. The four are Jean Pajot, Ed Lathon, Lenis Beach and David Talbot.

Jaycees Seek Nominations For Award

Contribution to community welfare, evidence of leadership ability and evidence of personal or business progress are the qualifications considered for nominees for the Jaycees 1960 Distinguished Service Award, according to Robert Vanderkelen, Chelsea Jaycees president.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award is presented annually to an outstanding young man of the community for leadership and service to the community during the calendar year.

Any young man between the ages of 21 and 35 is eligible for nomination to receive the award if his qualifications and service are deemed sufficiently outstanding. Jaycees membership is not a requirement; however, the nominee must be a resident of Michigan.

The judging committee will include prominent citizens of the community who are now over the age of 35 and their decision will be final.

All nominations must be received by the Jaycees DSA Committee prior to Jan. 29. Address entries to Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce, Route 1, Chelsea.

DSA nomination forms are available in Chelsea business places. Forms have also been mailed to industries and organizations who might wish to nominate a candidate.

According to the system of judging (Continued on page 10)

County Library Delegates Hold Planning Session

Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 6, 18 representatives of libraries at Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Willow Run, Manchester, Dexter, Milan and Chelsea attended a planning meeting held at McKune Memorial Library.

Mrs. Ronald Hinterman, a member of the Ann Arbor Public Library Advisory Council presided.

The Washtenaw county group meets at intervals to discuss problems encountered in public library operation and to make plans for future meetings.

At last week's meeting here it was decided to arrange for a speaker for the next meeting of the group, the date and place to be announced.

Basketball Benefit Game Set Tuesday

Next Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 7 p.m. the Chelsea Dads club and the Chelsea Jaycees will be co-sponsors for a benefit basketball game featuring a team from Radio Station WPAG of Ann Arbor and a team composed of Chelsea school faculty members.

WPAG staff members who will have played at Manchester Jan. 13, have promised to "give the teachers a real good game."

Co-sponsors of the basketball game believe the game will provide plenty of fun and enjoyment for those who attend, describing it as a family night affair of interest to young and old alike.

The WPAG-Faculty game is scheduled for approximately 8:15 p.m. and will be preceded by a basketball game between Chelsea and Pinckney freshmen teams.

Brushless Brothers Band members will provide their particular style of band music during the basketball games.

All proceeds of the game are designated for the fund for a new football scoreboard at the athletic field.

Steel Strike Discussed at Kiwanis Club

Harold Jones, vice-president of Central Fibre Products Co., spoke at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening on the steel strike and its ultimate settlement.

Listing three distinct categories, Jones stressed first of all the threat to Chelsea because of the prolonged steel strike.

In the second category he listed the Union members, saying the terms of settlement of the steel strike were a definite victory for them but they paid an exceedingly high price for it.

In the third category Jones mentioned the mixed reaction of the strike and its settlement on the stock market and also touched on its political aspects.

Monday's Kiwanis club meeting was held in the social center of the Methodist church.

Installation of Kiwanis officers for 1960 will take place at next Monday's meeting with Sixth Division Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Hanselman, of Dexter, as installing officer.

Bulldogs Squeeze Past Pinckney

The very much improved Pirates of Pinckney, aided by their narrow and somewhat short home court, threw a tight zone defense against the Chelsea Bulldogs last Friday night and again made believers out of their followers.

Fresh from a stinging 81-18 defeat at the hands of Chelsea during the Holiday Tournament, the Pirates took the floor a very determined ball team, and proceeded to prove that they are not as poor as they had led tournament teams and followers to believe.

In the first quarter the Pirates gave Chelsea few shots with Jack Patrick and Homer Nixon being the only Bulldogs able to break into the scoring. Patrick led the attack with nine big points to boost his team to a 12-7 first period lead.

The second period saw Pinckney finding the hoop more often, but with Dave McLaughlin, equalling Jack Patrick's first quarter output, the Bulldogs were able to outscore the Pirates 13-12 and maintain a 25-19 half-time lead.

In the second half the Bulldogs had much better control of the boards as well as more scoring balance which enabled them to surge into a comfortable 41-28 lead going into the fourth quarter.

During the fourth period the Pirates closed the gap somewhat, as they outscored their visiting opponents, 12-8, with the final score being 49-40 for Chelsea but a moral victory for Pinckney.

Individual scoring for Chelsea was as follows: Jack Patrick, 13; Dave McLaughlin, 12; Mike Marsh, 10; Homer Nixon, 8; Alton Nixon, 2; with Dalice Ferris, Charles Cameron, Charles Koenig, and Danny Mayer each getting 1 point.

The Junior Varsity team continued their winning ways as they have not lost a game since their opening loss to the Onsted J. V.'s.

U. High Cubs will travel to Chelsea tomorrow evening for a ball game that will be a real test for the Bulldogs, who are presently without a loss in league competition. Should the Bulldogs knock over U. High they will be tied with Saline for the league leadership.

Social Service Report Given On Christmas

A report prepared this week by Mrs. Louis Ramp, Chelsea Social service director, shows that at the annual distribution of Christmas gifts to the needy at Sylvan Town Hall, Dec. 19, 26 families were recipients.

The 26 families include 90 children and 42 adults.

Gifts consisted of boxes of groceries and checks—varying in amount according to size of the families, to enable these families to purchase fresh meat for the holiday and to make other small purchases, as they wished.

In addition, a "toy store" was set up from which children or their parents were allowed to select gifts.

In addition to the families who received their gifts through the Social Service, six more were referred to individuals or organizations who provided Christmas aid or in part for the families assigned to them. The Social Service operates a Christmas Bureau to bring together donors and recipients and to prevent duplication.

The gifts distributed by the Social Service were provided in part from the Community Chest funds allocated to this organization in the annual budget, and in part from gifts from organizations. Children take a special interest in this work and several troops of Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts participated, providing colorful stockings stuffed with candy, or making toys for the "toy store."

"Because of the fine co-operation from clubs, individuals and business houses, the Chelsea Social Service had its most successful Christmas program since the office was established in the Municipal Building in 1956," Mrs. Ramp said in concluding her report.

Lt. Frederick Anderson Assigned to Marine Duty In Philippine Islands

Frederick R. Anderson, stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps, according to information received here this week. He has been assigned to duty in the Philippines and expects to leave Camp Pendleton the middle of February. His wife, who is teaching school at Camp Pendleton, will remain there for the present.

Lt. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Anderson.

Fire Dept. Records Show 77 Calls in '59

Fire Chief Ted Balmer's annual Fire Department report shows that firemen responded to a total of 77 alarms during 1959.

Grass fires accounted for the greatest number of calls—a total of 34. Others are listed as follows: automobile fires, 8; dwellings, 9; house trailers, 1; schools, 1; other fires, 21; and false alarms, 3.

Estimated total of fire loss for 1959, according to the report, is $48,150.00, the greatest loss being the Irwin barn on Jan. 1, 1959.

Fire alarms were listed according to number as follows: Chelsea Village, 27; Sylvan township, 22; Lima township, 14; Dexter township, 6; Lyndon township, 6; Waterloo township, 2; and Sharon township, 1.

New March of Dimes Seeks To Aid Children With Birth Defects, Arthritis

The symbol for the new year and the symbol for new hope is traditionally a new baby. We think of young Mr. 1960, only a few days old at the moment, as a youngster radiant with health and brimming with optimism.

To us it has always seemed fitting that the March of Dimes should be held in January. For years, the March of Dimes meant hope to children suffering from polio. Only a few short years ago, a March of Dimes financed research project produced a polio vaccine that has protected millions of youngsters from a crippling disease.

And this year, too, it is fitting that the March of Dimes comes at a time when hopes are high for the new year. This year, it's a New March of Dimes, because it now offers new hope to even more millions—the patients suffering from crippling birth defects and crippling arthritis, as well as those suffering from crippling polio. These three diseases affect one family out of every four in this country.

Crippling birth defects are the major childhood medical problem in the United States. About 250,000 children annually, or one in 16, are born each year with significant birth defects.

The number of Americans suffering from some form of arthritis and rheumatism is more than 11,000,000. Among these are children afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis. They live in such a painful, tragic world that the touch of a sheet on the body can be excruciating at times.

And finally, there are more than 50,000 victims of paralytic polio still being aided by the March of Dimes. Some are children whose parents neglected to give Salk shots.

Remember all these numbers when you pass a coin collector for the New March of Dimes. Remember all these numbers when you see pictures of fat and sassy Mr. 1960, exuberant with good health. Remember these numbers when you look at your own children, exuberant and active and protected by the Salk vaccine.

State of Union Address Shows Our Drift to Globalism

President Eisenhower's 45-minute address to the joint session of Congress on Jan. 7—despite its double-talk on inflation, on Federal concern for problems such as urban planning and education, which he emphasized were state and local matters—provided eloquent testimony on our accelerating drift into globalism.

This was basically a state-of-the-world address, and dealt only incidentally with the state of the Union. Most encouraging, perhaps, was the variously repeated thought that the time has come for the other free nations that are "prepared to assist" to help carry the financial burden of aid to backward and undeveloped nations. The President also pointed out as an "indispensable element" of the aid program the necessity for "national discipline" in the aided countries, to make the best use of assistance received. The assurances of our strong defense posture were also heartening—even if given in terms that were perhaps necessarily vague.

Reconvening in the usual high spirits—accentuated, perhaps, by the added excitement of Presidential election year—the halls of Congress were still overflowing with confusion as the President was escorted to the rostrum of the House chamber. Applause was liberal. But the most pronounced and prolonged came at a point in the speech hardly calculated to raise cheers from a "spending" Congress.

The President had ticked off the "nagging disorders" that distress the nation as labor disputes, antiquated farm legislation, inflation and "in certain instances the denial to some of our citizens of equal protection of the law." He urged that we must try "living within our means" and accept "stern self-discipline" to avoid the "crippling tax" of inflation. Then he said:

"One major method by which the Federal Government can counter inflation and rising prices is to insure that its expenditures are below its revenues."

And then it was that the Congressional cheers and hand-clapping reached their climax! The Chief Executive went on to announce that he would submit a balanced budget of $79.8 billion with a surplus of $4.2 billion that should be applied against our $290 billion national debt, saving $200 million a year in interest.

But we shall see what we shall see. The business of politics-as-usual was to resume the following day.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Political pressures building up in Lansing indicate the 1960 Legislative session will be short and not so sweet.

Bitterness remains from the record-long 1959 session that brought open warfare between parties and sniper action within parties.

The Jan. 13 opening of the 1960 session comes too soon for weary lawmakers who ended the 1959 session shortly before Christmas. The struggle with taxes and politics last year forced both parties to compromise on political principle in order to get a tax program. This year, members of both parties have to mind their politics in order to get re-elected.

The session is apt to be a short one if for no other reason than that legislators are out of breath. Election year sessions are always short ones in Michigan. And this election year promises to be especially hard on legislative incumbents, who fear voters will say "a plague on both your houses."

Hot primary fights are shaping up. Tax decisions this year will be left up to voters, not lawmakers. Democrats and Republicans alike appear ready to support proposals to put tax questions on the ballot in the same Nov. 8 general election that will carry their names.

Republicans for the most part will throw support behind a proposal to hike the 3 per cent sales tax ceiling to 4 per cent. Democrats are not so solid in their drive for an income tax but will give strong support to a corporation profits tax should it get on the ballot. The thought that a corporation profit tax could be written inflexibly into the constitution is shocking to some students of government.

An attempt is expected to be made to limit the 1960 session to money issues, except for measures introduced by committees. This would save considerable time. However, since Democrats don't control committees, they are expected to buck this attempt.

And there are lawmakers in both parties who argue the prolonged tax struggle in 1959 kept the Legislature from consideration of other important matters that should be considered this year.

Control of the House is an issue apt to cause sparks in the early weeks of the session.

Voters left the house with a 55-55 party deadlock. Republicans organized the House last year, and although most Democrats appear content to let it stand that way, there are those who want to seize power.

Republicans have a 23-13 edge in the Senate. Governor Williams' "State of the State" and budget messages offered the format of programs sought by Democrats.

More grist for the legislative mill will come from state headquarters of both parties and from reports of those study committees that found time to study.

Money will be the big word again this year. State agencies say austerity budgets the past few years have hampered operations. And a pay raise for legislators is sure to get serious consideration again. The Conservation Commission will try again to get funds for park development and expansion. State institutions are demanding an end to the two-year moratorium on new construction.

But not all of the fireworks will be over spending.

A widely heralded investigation of the State Highway Department is expected to produce a report by Sen. John H. Stahl (R-Belding), who headed with Highway Commissioner Mackie during the latter half of his first year in the Senate.

Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo) can be counted upon for some fodder for the 1960 election campaign when his committee on job opportunities reports.

Revision of the probate code, with an aim to cutting juvenile delinquency, will be proposed by a committee headed by Rep. Harry DeMaso (R-Battle Creek).

The political backdrop of the 1960 session will reflect the ambitious of legislators anxious to move upward.

House Speaker Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan) has hopes of representing Southwest Michigan in Congress, as does Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville).

DeMaso may try for the Senate. Morris may go for Governor.

The order to clean out desks between sessions was a tough one for Rep. Russell H. Strange Jr. (R-Clare). His desk top had several layers of newspaper clippings throughout the session.

"I can't think of a better way to keep track of what's going on in my district," said Strange. "Newspaper reading is a must for me."

Strange has stacks of newspapers in his Clare office. He keeps extensive files on clips on a variety of subjects, including campaign ads run by his opponents. The young representative can frequently be seen checking through newspapers in the Capitol pressroom. He believes this practice gives him a quick index on attitude and reaction of his constituency.

Black Thinks Everyone Else Is Out of Step

Supreme Court Justice Eugene F. Black has demonstrated again that he is suffering from an affliction discovered by a Detroit drama critic after an airplane trip around the world.

"How did you find the world?" a reporter asked Harvey Taylor, the Detroit Times critic, when Taylor had circumnavigated the globe. "I found the world a great place to visit," quipped the newspaperman.

"But I certainly would hate to live there."

Taylor spoke in jest. But it is no joke to Gene Black that the wide world has no corner in which he can live in peace and make friends. He is Michigan's angriest man, motivated by an obsession to avenge the real and imaginary affronts that have embittered his life.

When Black was elected Attorney-General by Republicans in 1946, he went to Lansing with all of the fanfare of a White Knight arriving in time to save the people from the dragons.

Within months he performed the miracle of turning all of his friends into enemies. Nothing pleased Black more than a press conference giving him an opportunity to spit at Gov. Sigler, Secretary of State Alger and State Treasurer Brake.

When former Gov. Wilber M. Brucker, now Secretary of the Army, sued Black for slander, Black kept out of Wayne county for years to avoid service in the lawsuit.

He lacked the courage to face Brucker in court.

So he switched political parties in 1948 and supported Williams. He was rewarded first with appointment by the Governor to the Circuit Court in Port Huron, and finally with the nomination as a "non-partisan" Democratic candidate for the Supreme Court.

Except for Gov. Williams and maybe Gus Scholle, Lansing politicians have known that, sooner or later, Justice Black would embarrass the administration. Their only surprise is that it took the angry Justice so long to bite with his sharp teeth.

Justice Black's farewell to his Democratic friends came last week when arguments were heard by the Supreme Court on the ruling that the voters did not authorize a Constitutional Convention at the election in 1958.

The press has reported how Black announced that he had made up his mind on the question last September and had filed a 60-page opinion with the court clerk before the arguments had been heard.

Gov. Williams was as shocked by this conduct as were the Justice's associates on the high tribunal.

By one impetuous publicity-seeking act, Black upset the faith of the people in the integrity of their higher courts under Democratic rule.

Like Republicans, Gov. Williams has pointed out many times that, without impartial justice, the state's judicial system would collapse. And the next step would be disintegration of the theory of government that has preserved freedom in the United States.

By writing a decision before he had even heard arguments or had read a brief, Justice Black proved that he is judicially corrupt.

His Democratic sponsors were staggered because if this kind of "justice" can be condoned in one case, no litigant ever can expect a fair and impartial hearing.

Demonstrating that he is convinced everyone else is a misfit, Black wrote that his associates are cowards because they refused to join him in pre-judging the case. Republican leaders have criticized the Democratic majority on the State Supreme Court, especially since the use tax act passed to avoid an income tax or a nuisance package was held unconstitutional. But none could use the word "cowardly" in referring to Democratic Justices Talbot Smith, George Edwards or Tom Kavanagh.

State Senator Elmer R. Porter, of Blissfield, who had a deep faith in integrity before Black was born, immediately demanded that Justice Black resign.

If Black accepts the challenge, he will quit the court so that he can run for Governor this year. And don't think perturbed Gus Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, is not aware of this possibility.

Meantime, Justice Black implied he might punch Porter's nose. Senator Porter is 72.

Governor Calls for Action from Legislature

Michigan enters the Splendid '60's with a momentum for progress carried over from the decade of the 1950's. There is every reason to believe we will make great strides in industrial development, strengthening of our economy, and the social and technical sciences.

But this progress will not be achieved unless individual and legislative effort is expended.

If we are to realize our progress potential, the Legislature, which convened this week, must take action in certain fields, such as the aging, civil rights and the Seal of Quality. These are fields in which there is bi-partisan support and, I believe, are worthy of prompt action.

These are areas in which I recommended action in previous sessions of the Legislature. Legislation should be advanced even in view of our financial problem. It is my opinion action would have been taken on my recommendations for social progress in the last session, except that such issues were obscured by the bitter tax fight.

The Seal of Quality is important to Michigan farmers and to Michigan's economy. It has been approved and supported by just about every farm organization. It would place on our agricultural products, which meet certain requirements, just what its name implies—a Seal of Quality which would be recognized by purchasers throughout the nation.

Although we are known primarily as an industrial state, it is of interest that Michigan ranks first in the United States in production of field beans, sour cherries, cucumbers, celery, tomatoes and strawberries. In several other crops we rank among the first five in the nation. Michigan, with its field and dairy products, is self-sufficient for table use.

The lengthening of the life span means we have more and more senior citizens in Michigan each year. They have certain problems which require services such as could be provided by a Commission on the Aging. In the last session of the Legislature, in conjunction with a legislative study commission, I proposed a 12-member commission. This passed the House of Representatives with strong bi-partisan support, but died in the Senate. Again this year I will recommend vigorously that the Legislature provide such a commission.

In Civil Rights Michigan has made progress over the last 11 years, but the program which has been enacted and activated leaves room for improvement. In last year's session, I asked for improvements but they were not passed by the Legislature. In this year's message, I again set forth these suggested improvements which would eliminate discrimination in employment, housing, accommodations and education, and I recommend that the Legislature take action.

It is imperative that the Legislature assume its responsibility in these areas during the present session. The Republicans must act favorably on measures to which they give their support outside of the legislative halls.

To gauge the prospects for our future advancement, it is appropriate to make a survey of the Pride-pleasing style—combines good looks with good sense.

New Economy Turbo-Fire V8—gates up to 10% more miles on a gallon.

Widest choice of engines and transmissions—no other car gives you a choice of 24 power teams to satisfy the most finicky driving foot.

Hi-Traff '6—the '60 version of the engine that won its class in the latest Mobilgas Economy Run.

Coil springs at all 4 wheels—for the kind of silent, satiny ride you'd expect only in the most expensive makes.

Quicker stopping Safety-Master brakes—built with Chevy's ever-faithful dependability, they deliver surer stops with less pedal pressure.

After considering the problems created by the consuming of food in the lounge, the Student Council decided to ask Mr. Lane to discuss the matter over the PA system.

Superintendent C. S. Cameron, a visitor at the last meeting, spoke to the Council about the problem of cleanliness in the cafeteria and about students turning off heat in the school rooms. The Council felt that their own example to the student body should be sufficient.

The Council voted to sponsor the clothing drive for the 18th annual Bundle Day Program of the Save the Children Federation. This project will include all the schools in Chelsea. Ed Brown and Tom Dunlap will go with Mr. Bergman to the Junior High Council to present the project at their next meeting.

Mr. Bergman introduced the possibility of a student handbook. Pat Pastor and Paula Romine will help him look into the possibilities of the idea.

Ruth Prentice is in charge of making necessary replacements for the make-up kit used for plays. The Council will finance the replacements.

Sherry Frisinger, Paul Frisinger, Paula Romine, and Pat Pastor will be in charge of the cloak check at the next home game, tomorrow night, Jan. 15.

THE LETTERBOX

The editor welcomes letters from the readers on general topics affecting the Chelsea area. However, to be eligible to be published, such letters must be in good taste, free from libelous and slanderous remarks and limited to less than 100 words. All such letters MUST be signed by the writer, or they will be discarded immediately. If the writer wishes his identity withheld from publication such request must be made, but the original letter MUST BE SIGNED by the writer.

Dear Sir:

I have just received a clipping from your edition of Thursday, Sept. 8, 1959 showing a picture of a float in the German Day Parade of 1894.

I can identify the driver as my father, C. E. Hindelang. The team nearest the float is his. His wife, my mother, now lives in Mishawaka, Ind. You have a picture of her in your Nov. 20 edition. (my mother and Dr. Louis Doll). Hoping this will be of a little interest, I am,

Sincerely yours,
O. A. Hindelang.

Editor, The Chelsea Standard
Dear Editor,

Apparently the water fluoridation issue is "hotter" than I figured. My first letter brought only one reply but the second "brought in the reserves."

You know it doesn't make any difference to me whether the American Medical Association and the Michigan State Medical Society agree with the decision of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons or not. The fact remains that there are 15,000 American doctors who are against adding a known powerful poison to public water supplies and they have said so.

Tooth decay is an individual problem and concerns only the person himself. It is not contagious like measles, mumps, etc. Therefore, why make everyone drink poisoned water when there are other ways of taking care of each individual as an individual.

Folio shots are available to those who want them. Some believe in them and some don't. Therefore, some take them and some don't. This is the way it should be, this is the American way, freedom of choice.

Now if the water is poisoned by the addition of a powerful destructive chemical we have no choice because we have to drink water. Does it make sense to you to force this poison on every one just because it supposedly benefits a few?

My friends, the time is now to take action to keep our freedom.
A Citizen.

Omission Noted on School Honor Roll

It has been discovered, in re-checking the Chelsea High school second marking period honor roll, that the name of Jack Weinmann was unintentionally omitted in the original listing of the names of 10th grade students who have a "B" average.

SURPRISE PRICE

For $2730* you can buy a glamorous new 1960 Mercury. Looks like a lot more, doesn't it? It's so beautifully styled, so superbly built. It comes as a pleasant surprise that a Mercury costs so little more than the leading low-price car—only $36† more for this Monterey 4-door sedan. No wonder Mercury sales are up more than any other car in its field.

*Manufacturer's suggested delivered price for 1960 Mercury Monterey 4-door Sedan, including Federal excise tax, suggested dealer preparation and handling charges, title and local taxes, transportation and white (cream) tire extra.

†Based on manufacturer's suggested retail delivered price for 1960 Mercury Monterey 4-door Sedan v. comparable model of top low-price name car.

THE BEST $36 YOU'VE EVER SPENT. This price difference over the low-price car buys Mercury's more beautiful styling. It buys a quieter ride (28% more insulation), greater stability (7" longer wheelbase), and extra quality. See and try 24 more advantages at your Mercury dealer's showroom.

Dexter Girl Wins County Cherry Pie Baking Contest

Results of the county cherry pie baking contest at Ann Arbor last Saturday put Dexter High school in the spotlight. Miss Patricia Murdock daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Murdock, of Walsh road, represented our high school and won first place.

This honor enables Patricia to represent Dexter at the state cherry pie baking contest in Grand Rapids, Jan. 28 and 29. Mrs. S. V. Anderson, the local homemaking teacher, will accompany her to Grand Rapids. Both will be guests at the Pansil Hotel in that city. The contest will begin early Thursday morning, Jan. 28. One girl from each county will be competing.

A dinner will be provided for contestants and chaperons Thursday evening in the Continental Room in the hotel. Entertainment will be provided at this dinner as well as other times during the day. Awards and winners will be announced at the luncheon on Friday. First prize is $300 to apply on a scholarship to a degree granting institution. Second prize is $50 and third prize is $25.

First-place winner of the state contest, with her chaperon, will have their expenses paid to the national cherry pie baking contest, held in the Sheridan Hotel in Chicago on Feb. 18. She will compete with winners of other states and be entertained while she is there. Judges were Miss Esther Kooh, cafeteria director of the Ann Arbor schools, and Miss Linda McKinley, homemaking teacher at the East Junior High School in Ypsilanti. Miss Murdock's winning recipe is listed below:

PASTRY
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup lard
5 tablespoons cold water
Sift flour and salt. Add lard and blend until it is the texture of corn meal. Add enough cold water to mix.

FILLING
20 ounces drained, canned cherries
2/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon melted butter
1/4 teaspoon red food coloring
Combine all ingredients and pour into a 9-inch pastry-lined pan. Bake for 10 minutes at 425 degrees in a preheated oven. Then

Catholic Social Service Agency Sets Annual Meeting

The Catholic Social Services of Washtenaw county, will hold their first annual dinner meeting Thursday, Jan. 21, at Newman Hall, 831, Thompson street.

Mrs. Leo G. Hoey is a member of the dinner committee.

Dr. C. J. Maternowski, chairman of the temporary executive committee, will announce names of officers for the agency's first permanent board of directors.

The program will include the following speakers: Magr. Wilbur F. Suedkamp, director of Catholic Charities for the Archdiocese of Detroit; the Rev. John A. Trase, director of the county agency; and Miss Marguerite M. Parrish, executive secretary of the county agency. Magr. Suedkamp and Fr. Trase will discuss Catholic Charities work being done in the Archdiocese. Each of the eight counties making up the Archdiocese of Detroit now has a case work agency. The discussion will be supplemented by colored slides.

The Washtenaw agency, located at 117 North Division street, Ann Arbor, was opened May 1, 1959. Services of the county agency are available to any adult or child living in Washtenaw county, irrespective of racial, nationality, religious, social or economic background. The agency provides adoption and boarding care placement, assistance to unmarried mothers, plus marriage, personal and family counseling. Mr. Parrish will discuss the local program. The dinner is open to the public. Reservations may be made by writing the agency or by telephoning.

Washtenaw Studying Plan To Establish Family Court

Officials in Washtenaw county are giving consideration to a proposal for setting up a family court—a radical new concept in Michigan jurisprudence, it was disclosed today.

A committee of the Juvenile Court Advisory Council, which advises Probate Judge John W. Conlin on matters in the juvenile division of probate court, has arranged for a full airing of the proposal on Jan. 13.

An audience of upwards of 400 representatives of groups in the area are being invited by a council committee headed by Mrs. Helen Van Tyne of Ann Arbor, secretary of the council to attend the meeting, which will be held in Ann Arbor High School.

Circuit Judge James R. Breakay, Jr., Judge Conlin and Dean Fedele F. Fauri of the University's School of Social Work will discuss the family court proposal at the meeting which will be held at 8 p.m. in the school's Little Theater.

Dean Fauri will moderate the discussion, with Judges Conlin and Breakay, giving the pros and cons of establishing such a court, describing how it has operated in other states and discussing its advantages and disadvantages.

The Michigan State Bar Association recently gave impetus to the family court proposal by passing a resolution which calls on the Legislature to place the question on the ballot of the next general election so that voters can decide on an amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

A revision of the Constitution also could make family courts legal. It is felt, however, that it would be easier to obtain a constitutional amendment than it would be to wait for a revision of the Constitution.

As conceived by the State Bar, the courts would be set up in areas where they are wanted or needed.

It is up to the local officials to decide whether they want or need

County Residents To Discuss Problems of Age, Retirement

Anyone interested in problems of aged and retired people is invited to attend a "town meeting" style gathering to be held in the Ann Arbor City Hall next Wednesday, Jan. 20, from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. The meeting will take place in the council chamber.

Sponsored by the Ann Arbor Interim Committee on Aging, set up during the past year by the Ann Arbor City Council, the meeting at Ann Arbor next Wednesday is one of a series of county and regional meetings being scheduled in preparation for a state conference on aging to be held next summer.

The state meeting, in turn, will be in preparation for a national meeting on problems affecting the aged scheduled to be held in Washington in January, 1961, at the request of President Eisenhower.

All interested residents of Washtenaw county, regardless of age, are invited to attend Wednesday's meeting at Ann Arbor.

The City Hall is located on East Huron street at Fifth avenue. No formal speakers are scheduled; rather, anyone with ideas on the subject will be urged to discuss them at the meeting.

Purpose of these county and regional meetings is to bring to light important problems of older people and their families and to offer some practical suggestions for meeting and solving difficulties.

Some of the problems to which solutions are sought are how to maintain a decent standard of living; obtaining proper medical and institutional care if needed; providing adequate housing; arranging for part-time employment; and making plans for recreational activities suitable for the various age groups.

Organizations of the community are invited to appoint representatives to attend the Ann Arbor meeting and, as pointed out by the committee, any individual interested should plan to be present.

If unable to be present for the full two-hour meeting, persons may come in at any time, between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

The problems of retired or older people must eventually be met by almost every family, the committee points out, and these meetings offer an opportunity to learn how others in the same situation are planning to find a solution.

Series of Classes Being Held for Expectant Parents

The second class of the current series of Expectant Parents' classes will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 14 in Room 1 in the basement of the County Building in Ann Arbor, or on Tuesday, Jan. 12 at the Health Department building at 10 South Prospect street, Ypsilanti.

The second class will cover the hygiene of pregnancy, a discussion designed to help parents understand the necessity of the pregnancy itself. Subject matter to be discussed will include common signs of pregnancy, personal hygiene during pregnancy, and an explanation of some of the aspects of the medical examination performed by the doctor. Other considerations will be the diet and proper clothing for the mother during pregnancy.

Registration will begin at 7:00 p.m., with a fee of $2.50 per couple for the entire series. This includes the seven usual classes, a special class for fathers only and an arranged hospital tour in the Ann Arbor hospitals. The content and subjects of the classes have been approved by the Washtenaw County Medical Society. The classes are sponsored by the Visiting Nurse Association of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, United Fund Agencies, and the Washtenaw County Health Department.

Anyone is eligible to attend and registration may be accomplished prior to the beginning of any class in the series.

Association for Retarded Children Hears Report on Research Findings

Members of the Washtenaw County Chapter of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children, at a meeting Monday evening in the County Building at Ann Arbor, heard a talk on the subject "Developments in Research Related to Mental Retardation." The evening's speaker was Dr. Richard J. Allen, professor of pediatrics at University hospital.

Dr. Allen said there are literally hundreds of reasons why some people function at a lower than average mental level, thus there is no one place to strike at the problem. Many different and apparently unrelated things can incidentally lead to a lowering of mental capacity.

Because of recent discoveries of a new disorder which, if detected in infants, can be treated to prevent possible mental retardation, the county chapter is attempting to find as many cases for retardation as possible. A simple urine test in infants can lead to detection of this rather rare ailment. Treatment is much more effective if the condition is detected in a new baby than in an older child. Dr. Allen stated.

Located at University hospital, Ann Arbor, is Michigan's only complete diagnostic clinic for appraisal of all types of retarded children and constant research is being carried on there. Dr. Allen pointed out. He urged that all suspected cases of retardation should be taken to the clinic for examination.

Mrs. Eldon Gorton Hospitalized with Injuries Received in Auto Collision

Cars driven by Mrs. Eldon Gorton, 756 Taylor street, and Willard R. Guest, 417 Railroad street, were involved in a collision at 8 a.m. Monday on M-92 at the north driveway of Chelsea Implement Co. Both cars were damaged.

Mrs. Gorton was taken to St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, because of a knee injury and Guest was treated for multiple bruises at the office of a Chelsea physician.

Documentary Film Examines Problems of Expanding Birth Rate

Problems presented by the world's expanding birth rate will be examined on TV Thursday night, Jan. 14 at 9:30 when CBS will repeat its exciting documentary "Population Explosion."

The original show, first given last fall, has been increased in length. A comment on the film dealing with India's population will be made by Rev. Theodore Helburgh, president of Notre Dame University and the Rev. James A. Pike, head of the ministerial advisory committee of Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

Dr. Colin Clark, economist of Oxford University, Dr. Harrison Brown, geo-chemist of California Institute of Technology, and Paul Hoffman, Managing Director of the Special Fund of the United Nations, compose the panel that will discuss various aspects presented by the population increase. The program will be carried on Channel 2.

Corvair coupes now in production

Chevrolet has added a new 2-door coupe to its line and shipments to dealers are now under way. The new model of the rear-engine compact car has the same basic dimensions as the 4-door Corvair sedan, but has its own distinctive styling motif. This is accentuated by a split front seat and a new roof design which features a large sloping rear window.

MYSTERY FARM NO. 80, originally published without identification in the Jan. 7 issue of The Standard, has been identified as the Riker road farm now owned by Mrs. Vera Khabaef of Ann Arbor. It is more familiarly known as "the Bibboff farm," since the late Hilarion Bibboff was the owner until his death in 1952. Mrs. Khabaef is the former Mrs. Bibboff.

300-Acre Riker Road Farm Now in Soil Bank Program

Mystery Farm No. 80 proved to be the 300-acre Riker road farm now owned by Mrs. Vera Khabaef. She and her former husband, the late Hilarion Bibboff, bought the farm in 1943 and did extensive remodeling and modernizing to make it the beautiful home it is today. Mr. Bibboff died in 1952.

The Bibboff family included a daughter, Nadejda, now Mrs. George Alimpech of near Wayne, and a son, Hilarion, who lives at Inkster and carries on the operation of the S & B machine shop founded there 25 years ago by his father.

The 300-acre farm is now listed in the government's Soil Bank program.

There are two tenant houses on the farm, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Silas Hopkins and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lake.

Before the Bibboff family purchased the farm it was known as the Thompson estate property. There were two brothers, Willis and Hubert Thompson, the former making his home there with his family of six children—Maude, Cora, Esther, Mabel, Harvey and George.

Earlier history of the farm was not available.

One member of the Thompson family, Cora, is now a Mrs. Howard who is believed to be making her home on the Pinekey-Dexter road, near Dexter. The sons, Harvey and George, are deceased.

First to telephone The Standard office to identify the farm were Julius Blass, Mrs. Clarence Staph and Silas Hopkins.

FOUR MILE LAKE

Mrs. Grace Parker and son, Everett, of Geddis, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Pettibone. Evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loy and Mr. and Mrs. William Loy of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Martin Dible and son, of Liberty road, were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Englehart and Mrs. Mata Lucht.

Friday afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Chris Barman of Detroit, and Mrs. Max Ziegler of Dexter.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ross of Tecumseh, were Friday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Honbaum.

Mrs. John Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fischer and son, Marvin, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fischer and family, of Ypsilanti.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wahr and family, of Helm road, were Sunday afternoon visitors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Heininger.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wright and family, of Chelsea, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wright and daughter, of Dexter, were Sunday visitors of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fowler were Sunday afternoon visitors of his mother, Mrs. Alice Fowler, who was a patient at Mercy hospital, Jackson before coming to their home for a time.

Kenneth Martin of Mesa, Ariz., was a Saturday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powers. Mr. Martin and Mr. Powers visited Michigan State University, East Lansing, in the afternoon.

Nationwide study shows
Larro SUREMilk
can boost production
in 2 out of 3 dairy cows

A recent study of feeding records showed that 2 out of every 3 dairy cows in the United States are milking below their potential.

That's why it pays to be sure of proper feeding . . . and top milk profits . . . with Larro SUREMilk.

Larro SUREMilk is the best of more than 1,126 dairy rations tested at General Mills' FACT FARM, U.S.A. It supplies the nutrients known to be needed for high milk production.

SPECIAL 2-bag guarantee
Feed 2 bags of Larro SUREMilk to one of your cows. If you're not satisfied with the results, send your sales slip with a letter to General Mills, Dairy Feed Dept., Minneapolis 26, Minn., and your money will be refunded.

decade of the 1950's. Such a glance backward furnishes the confidence with which we face the future.

During the decade just passed, Michigan's population increased by 1.5 million people. This is a growth of 25 per cent and is exceeded in numbers only by California and Florida. Projections for the coming decade are for a population growth exceeded only by California. Along with this increase in population will come an increase in Michigan's net effective buying income, a percentage increase expected to be exceeded only by Nevada.

Michigan, during the decade of the '50's jumped to the forefront of the peaceful use of the atom. One new atomic power plant was started and offers to construct two others in Michigan were made to the Atomic Energy Commission. In 1940 Michigan had 10,914 industries. By 1950 there were 302 new industries, expansions and reopenings in 172 communities in every section of Michigan.

This is dramatic evidence that industry has the same confidence in Michigan's industrial future that I do.

From 1944 through 1948, only three-quarters of a million automobiles were scrapped in the U. S., the lowest scrapage rate in history.

The Ford Falcon station wagon, newest entry in the economy car field, has the longest cargo space and the greatest load floor area in its class. The new station wagon, which will go on sale this spring, features a roll-down rear window operated either by a manual crank or optional electric control. This six-passenger station wagon will be offered in two- and four-door models.

Wage Earners Top National Income Rise

Ann Arbor—Part of the wage and salary increases won by workers since World War II have come at the expense of pensioners and others who live on fixed incomes, a University of Michigan business expert contends.

Professor Emeritus Charles L. Jamison (PhD) of the U-M School of Business Administration says "transfer of purchasing power from other groups to factory workers has kept them well ahead of the cost of living." His views appear in the current Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review.

Between 1940 and 1950, he notes, wages and salaries rose substantially faster than national income and more than four times as much as business profits before taxes.

After inflation is taken into account, the increases were: wages and salaries, 53 per cent; national income, 48 per cent; and business profits before taxes (for corporations and unincorporated businesses), 13 per cent.

"If all the shareholders in national income had received the same proportionate share in 1950 as in 1940, each group—wage earners and investors—would have had a 48 per cent increase in purchasing power," he notes. As it was, investors had a 35 per cent reduction in their share.

This may have tended to regard U. S. economic growth, Jamison adds.

"The wage earner generally spends most of his income for consumption goods; the investor reinvests a considerable proportion of his in new factories, new communication and transportation facilities, and the like."

"The idea seems to prevail in the minds of some, that invested money is diverted from the stream of spending. On the contrary, the building of machines and structures of any kind creates jobs, channels money into payrolls, and thus into the buying of consumption goods. Dividends to stockholders likewise are spent."

Jamison is a former secretary and treasurer of the A. M. Byers Co. He taught at the University of Wisconsin for seven years before joining the U-M staff in 1929.

The next Congress is expected to consider a bill for the abolishment of fish traps used by Alaska Canneries.

Dianne Lennon, oldest of those delightful sisters, has gotten herself engaged to Dick Gass. They'll be married next summer. He's still in service.

It doesn't look like marriage for Katy Jurado and Ernest Borgnine. One of his most intimate friends said from the beginning it wouldn't come off after he saw them having a pitched battle in a restaurant. Seems the lady has a fiery temper.

Richard Boone gave a show for the inmates of the Huntsville (Texas) Penitentiary, and recently became the proud possessor of a 20-lb. turkey which said inmates raised themselves.

Today's picture review: L.I.L. ABNER
Anyone who has never followed the adventures of "L.I.L. Abner" and his fellow Dogpatchers in Al Capp's popular comic strip may well find the goings on and the characters in the film strange, to put it mildly. Dogpatch fans, however, will find it entertaining for the show fairly bursts with high spirits.

The plot isn't too important, except as a framework for lively songs and dances, and some broad but telling satire. The acting is pure caricature, which it has to be; the sets are garish, stylized and unreal, which they have to be. But the dancing is terrific.

Peter Palmer is a fine L.I.L. Abner. Leslie Parrish is sweet and curvaceous as Daisy Mae, Stubby Kaye is grand as Marryin' Sam, and Howard St. John does his General Bullmoose bit with precision.

The kids (and some grownups, too) will love this one.

The Way the Ball Bounces

With Tom Johnston

★ Chelsea vs. U. High Rated Toss-Up . . .

Chelsea will host a strong University High school quintet this Friday night. The Bulldogs have high hopes of remaining unbeaten in conference play, however the Cubs, after a slow start appear to be on the way. U. High is a tall team, with good shooters, that as yet has failed to hit its stride. Cub coach Nels Lehmann feels that his club must jell now or never. As to the Chelsea quintet, they have been an up-and-down ball team, and had a better-than-expected battle from Pinckney last week. The Bulldogs of course will have that home floor advantage, and it will be worth something. On the basis of material, the Cubs might be favored, but Bob Taylor has a scrappy and aggressive club, with plenty to gain in the victory. I'd have to rate the game as a toss-up.

The National League, formed in 1875, was all alone in the major league field. It had outlasted the original American Association, the Union Association and the Players' League or Brotherhood. All of these had called themselves the majors.

The American Association lasted until 1891 and prospered for a while, but both this circuit and the other upstart leagues found the going too rough.

Ban Johnson formed the American League in 1900 along with the late Charles Comiskey of Chicago and Connie Mack, then in Milwaukee, as the key members. Other clubs in the circuit included Detroit, Cleveland, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Minneapolis and Buffalo.

The National League, then described as haughty and smart, ignored Johnson's plea for peace. Instead, it formed a new minor league with clubs to buck the American League in Kansas City and Minneapolis. Johnson really declared war then. First he dropped Kansas City and Minneapolis. Then he invaded Boston, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia. Further, he raided the National League for player talent. Of 182 American League players in 1901, there were 111 National League jumpers.

The players were stars, too—such greats as Cy Young, Jimmy Collins and Nap Lajoie. Law suits languished in the courts and temporary peace was achieved in 1903.

But that only lasted until the Federal League came along in 1914 to start a bitter two-year player struggle.

The issue of players will be a primary one as baseball swirls into 1960—and a possible new struggle either in 1961 or 1962. In those two years, Branch Rickey will have his work cut out for him.

POSTAL RISE FOUGHT

The Parcel Post Association has asked the United States District Court to issue an injunction blocking increased national mailing rates for parcels and catalogues which are scheduled to go into effect Feb. 1.

The association consists of 300 concerns throughout the country that sell products by mail. Its suit said the Post Office Department had used incorrect accounting standards.

The fellow who said some men are able to go through fire and water unharmed, probably didn't. The last to try was the Federal mean-firewater.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

BY RALPH ROBEY

★ Settlement of the Steel Strike . . .

It has been assumed that the steel strike would be settled before the expiration of the eighty day injunction period. The basis of this assumption was that both economic and psychological factors would lead the companies and union management to reach an agreement. None the less announcement of the settlement came as a major surprise.

It was a surprise because the final hearings of the presidential fact finding board were as harsh as such a meeting could be. The union president, David McDonald, was extremely caustic in his comments about management, claiming that the companies were trying to break up the union. The chief of the company negotiators, R. Conrad Cooper, also was caustic, insisting the union was making inflammatory demands. Even the chairman of the committee saw no possibility of working out an agreement because it was evident that, judging by these hearings, union and management were not only as far apart as ever, but were taking a harder position on their stands.

It appeared certain, therefore, that the next step would be to have a vote by the employees on the last offer of management. But there was no hope that this would be accepted by the workers. There was no hope on this because the record shows that the union always makes this a vote of confidence in the union leaders, not on the terms of settlement offered by management. In these circumstances it is almost inevitable that the final offer be refused.

The next step would be termination of the injunction and presumably another walk out by the workers. At that point the Administration and the Congress would be expected to step in with some kind of a forced settlement, and perhaps new permanent legislation designed to meet the problem of industry wide strikes.

What the general public did not know was that some weeks ago Vice-President Nixon started a series of private meetings with both the union spokesmen and management, trying to resolve their differences. Along with him was Secretary of Labor Mitchell. The final session was held here in Washington and lasted twenty-two hours. This was followed immediately by a press conference announcing the settlement.

The terms of the agreement go substantially beyond anything management had offered previously. Over the thirty-month period the cost will amount to an estimated forty-cent increase per hour. In the aggregate the cost will amount to over one billion dollars, according to Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel.

Some of the steel companies probably can absorb this rise in the cost of production, but others can not. Before too long we shall see higher steel prices. That will lift the cost of production of all steel-using companies, and many of them will be forced to raise prices.

The only offset to this is the fact that we shall have so-called peace in the steel industry. That the public has paid, and will pay, an enormous price for this peace goes without saying. Even more dismal is the thought that there is no basis for concluding that the same thing will not be repeated again and again and again—just as it has been over the past many years.

FURTHERING PEACE AIMS

President Eisenhower says his eleven-nation tour is part of a design to use his prestige to dispel doubts about this country's peaceful intentions. In his final address before leaving, the President said he intended to work for this purpose "in every possible way I can" so long as "other duties do not prevent me from doing so."

Club and Social Activities

ST. PAUL'S MISSION CLUB

Mrs. Otto Lucht entertained members of the Mission club of St. Paul's church at her home Thursday afternoon. There were 10 members present.

Mrs. George Mayer opened the program period with a devotional service and readings were given as follows: "Lend Me Your Boat," by Mrs. Alvin Vail; "This New Year," by Mrs. Ola Hilleberg; and "Lines for the New Year," by Mrs. Paul Selts.

Mrs. Wilbert Grieb read a letter from Mrs. Louis Eppler former president of the club who now is living at the Evangelical Home for Children and Old People in Detroit. Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Vail was remembered with a shower of cards in observance of her birthday.

The February meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Grieb.

MODERN MOTHERS

Modern Mothers' Child Study club members and husbands with a total of 18 couples present, held a progressive dinner Saturday evening, beginning with appetizers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wade.

The main course was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Edger and dessert was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Strieter.

Cards were the diversion for the social hour which followed at the Strieter home.

KINDER-KLUB

Kinder-Klub members were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Alfred Smith. There were 15 members and two guests present.

Mrs. Louis Ramp, Chelsea Social Service director, was a guest at the meeting and spoke interestingly of the many phases of the project.

Mrs. Ramp also conducted a question and answer period following her talk.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program period by Mrs. Donald Cook and Mrs. Richard Schanz.

SALEM GROVE WSCS

The Jan. 8 meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Salem Grove Methodist church was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Schweinfurth.

Mrs. Roy Miller was in charge of the lesson for the day and also presided during the devotional service on the topic "The Role of the Christian African Woman."

Related readings were given as follows: "A Visit to Southern Rhodesia," by Mrs. Clarence Lehman and "A Visit to Lodja," by Mrs. Oscar Kalmbach.

Mrs. Schweinfurth concluded the program period with a review of an article pertaining to the world Federation of Women. She mentioned that the federation was organized Feb. 1, 1939 and reorganized in 1956 when the charter was signed by 42 national and denominational groups.

During the business session the president, Mrs. Leon Sanderson, announced there would be no regular WSCS meeting at Salem Grove in February, however, it was voted to accept the invitation of the Chelsea Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service to attend a guest night program at the Chelsea church Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m.

Speaker for the Feb. 3 guest night is to be Mrs. Beth Hollis of Muskegon who will illustrate her talk with pictures taken in Africa.

A family night program is planned at Salem Grove church for Wednesday, Feb. 10. Hostesses are to be Mrs. Charles Curtis and Mrs. Albert Schweinfurth.

Washtenaw County Sheriff George Petersen will be the speaker at the family night program. The next regular meeting of Salem Grove WSCS is scheduled for 2 p.m. March 2 at the home of Mrs. T. G. Riemenschneider.

PINK AND BLUE SHOWER

Mrs. Donald Rowe was honored at a pink and blue shower held Sunday at the home of Mrs. Wesley Ellenwood. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Norman Bauer and Mrs. Ben Roark.

Approximately 20 relatives and friends attended.

CHELSEA CO-OPERATIVE NURSERY

A meeting of mothers who participate in the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery program took place Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Daniels and plans for a spring money-making project were discussed.

Announcement was made of the annual Co-Operative Nursery Conference to be held Tuesday, Feb. 15, at Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti.

Mrs. David Sanborn is the new membership and orientation chairman and those interested in placing their names on the group's waiting list may contact her.

The next regular meeting of the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery group is scheduled for Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Donald Harker.

A Red Cross instruction program will be featured.

Co-hostesses for the Jan. 7 meeting were Mrs. Charles Lancaster and Mrs. James Shadon.

CHELSEA COMMUNITY FARM BUREAU

Chelsea Community Farm Bureau met Friday evening at the J. V. Burg home with Edson Whitaker and the Walter Bauers as hosts for the evening. The gathering opened with a pot-luck supper.

Nineteen members responded to roll call during the business session conducted by Keith Bradbury. Reports were given by the package reporter, Mrs. J. V. Burg; the minuteman, Walter Bauer; and by Keith Bradbury for the membership drive committee.

Walter Zeeb led the evening's discussion on the topic "Liabilities of Farmers."

Euchre was the entertainment during a social hour which followed and high prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. V. Burg and John Brooks; consolation awards to Mrs. Walter Zeeb and Carl Heller; and traveling prize, John Brooks.

LIMANEERS

Limaneers, with 10 members present, held the January meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Schlosser. Mrs. Anna Reichert was the assisting hostess.

During the business session following the noon luncheon, members decided that the group's 1960 community service project would be "adoption" of a child and an adult at Ypsilanti State Hospital. Plans were made for remembering the two patients for Valentine Day.

A social hour was enjoyed and announcement was made that the next regular meeting will be held Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. Anna Reichert with Mrs. Alfred Lindauer as assisting hostess.

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR CLUB

Friendly Neighbor club, with 10 members and four children present met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Duane Bandwehr.

The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 9 at the home of Mrs. Floyd Rowe.

Social Service Secretary Speaks at Altar Society Meet

Miss Marguerite Parrish, executive secretary of Catholic Social Service of Washtenaw county, speaking at St. Mary's Altar Society meeting here Wednesday evening, outlined the various areas of counseling provided to help people regardless of age, color, race or religion.

Because the Catholic church groups were instrumental in its founding in May, 1958, and are active in its support, does not mean that its services are primarily for Catholics only, Miss Parrish pointed out. She emphasized that its principal objective is assistance to everyone who might be in need of the services offered.

At present the services are offered free of charge and cover such problems as misunderstanding between parents and children; emotional problems; unhappy teenagers; unwed mothers; adoption; unhappy marriages; budget matters; and any matters affecting the welfare and happiness of families or individuals.

Catholic Social Service offices are located at 117 North Division in Ann Arbor. Miss Parrish said. The Rev. Fr. Laige was present for the program period at the meeting.

Miss Parrish was introduced by Mrs. G. L. Staffan, St. Mary's Altar Society program chairman.

Present for the meeting which was held in St. Mary's school hall, were 57 members and guests.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Wayne Harvey.

CHELSEA CHILD STUDY CLUB

Chelsea Child Study club members met Tuesday with Mrs. John Albert whose co-hostesses were Mrs. Paul Mann and Mrs. John Stoffer.

Because of bad driving conditions the scheduled speaker, the Rev. Paul Miller of Ypsilanti was not present.

Bridge was the evening's diversion and high and low score prizes, respectively, were won by Mrs. Frederick Belser and Mrs. M. L. Dietle.

Announcement was made that the regional Child Study clubs' spring planning meeting is to be held in Chelsea, Saturday, April 30.

Chelsea Child Study club has been assigned responsibility for reservations, registration, badges and tickets.

It was reported that Mrs. Eldon Gorton, one of the club members, was hospitalized because of knee injuries in a traffic accident and a "round robin" letter was prepared and sent to her.

The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. E. W. Eaton and Mrs. W. R. Geddes gave reviews of two current books at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Woman's club. The meeting was held at McKean Memorial Library.

Mrs. Eaton's review was based on Admiral Rickover's "Education and Freedom" in which he stresses his belief that education is the major issue of present times, taking precedence even over nuclear energy.

Mrs. Geddes reviewed "Freedom—It's Meaning." During the business session Mrs. Charles Cameron gave a report on Girl Scout work here and requested club members to contact her if they know of a prospective leader for the troop.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Paul Maroney and Mrs. Leon Fox.

Brownie-Troop No. 496 has been divided into patrols. There are three little groups. One is "Stars of the Future." Two is "Porcupines," and three is "Buttercups."

Linda Lyons is leader of Group I. Gail Foster is leader of Group II and Carol Sharrard is leader of Group III.

Group II, which is Gail Foster's group, is putting a talent show on next week for Groups I and III. Suzanne Knickerbocker, scribe.

Michigan potatoes make into an instant mashed potato product that competes effectively with the same product made from Idaho potatoes. More Michigan potatoes are expected to go into this processing market every year.

The Last Run To Grand Rapids

In 1869, this stagecoach ran between Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids. The journey was rough, dusty and tiring, but it was the best means of transportation available. In 1885, another historical event came to pass, the founding of Hastings Mutual Insurance Co., then known as Michigan Mutual Windstorm Ins. Co. Unlike the stagecoach, Hastings Mutual endures and continues to serve the best interests of Michigan farmers.

BY WILLARD BAIRD

This is our Michigan No. 2

Any recital of Michigan's eminence demands mention of our Indian heritage.

Copper-hued warriors, trappers and hunters who roamed the Michigan wilderness long before the arrival of the first whites were well aware of the region's natural attractiveness which later appealed so strongly to French explorers.

They had named the area Michigamaw—"Great Water."

Michigan was inhabited by Indian tribes long before Columbus discovered America in 1492. Evidence of mounds and garden beds and primitive copper-mining in the Keweenaw Peninsula and on Isle Royale attest to prehistoric Indian habitations.

Three great tribes once shared dominion over Michigan territory. The Potawatomi were in control of most of southern Michigan below the Grand River. . . . the Ottawa were in the upper half of the Lower Peninsula. . . . and the Ojibwa (also called Chippewas) dominated the Upper Peninsula.

Smaller tribes of Menominee, Hurons, Sauks, Miami and Mascoutens occupied isolated villages throughout the vast Michigan territory.

For 155 years the French governors in North America, from their Quebec headquarters, ruled the territory which is now Michigan. . . . proudly counting a growing number of white mission settlements, fur trading centers and military posts which their agents established.

Sault Ste. Marie came first, in 1668. . . . then St. Ignace in 1671. . . . the tiny outposts at St. Joseph, Port Huron and Niles. . . . and Detroit in 1701.

Skirmishes between French and British, under way since 1689, led eventually to the First Treaty of Paris in 1763, giving England complete dominion over Michigan territory.

Toward the latter part of the 18th century another European power left a momentary imprint on Michigan history.

In 1781 a Spanish-raiding expedition from the south seized the British fort at Niles, and the flag of Spain flew over that outpost for several days after the raiders withdrew.

Niles is today known as the City of Four Flags, the only spot in Michigan which has been under the flags of France, Great Britain, Spain and the United States.

Otherwise, the British Union Jack flew unchallenged over Michigan soil for 20 years until the Second Treaty of Paris in 1783, ending the Revolutionary War for America and independence, ceded to the United States.

Michigan territory from Britain to the United States.

President Thomas Jefferson's choice to govern Michigan after it was accorded separate territorial status on June 30, 1805, was General William Hull, an easterner and a heroic figure of the American Revolution.

After Hull's ill-fated leadership of American forces in a short skirmish with British troops in the War of 1812—during which he surrendered Detroit to the British—he was replaced on Oct. 13, 1813, by the younger and more vigorous Brig. Gen. Lewis Cass.

Largely because of the influence of General Cass, Michigan was ready for admission to the Union in 1837—the 26th state, represented by the 26th star in the flag of the United States.

The young state chose 24-year-old Stevens Thomson Mason for its first governor.

Actually, Michigan had itself adopted state government in 1835 when the first state constitution was ratified and state officers elected.

But southern antagonism in Congress toward accepting another non-slave state and a boundary dispute with Ohio over a strip of land five to eight miles wide between the two states delayed Michigan's entry into the Union until Jan. 20, 1837.

The slavery issue was resolved by balancing the admission of Michigan as a free state with Arkansas as a slave state. Michigan lost the wedge-shaped boundary strip (including Toledo) to Ohio, but was compensated by Congress with a grant of the 16,539 square-mile, heavily timbered upper peninsula with its water-found fabulous wealth of iron, copper and other minerals.

WOMEN'S EVENTS Scheduled at MSU Farmers' Week

Up-to-date homes, inside and out, is a program topic for Thursday, Feb. 4, of Farmers' Week at Michigan State University. Ladies, and men, too, are invited to visit the Agricultural Engineering building at 10 a.m. to see and hear about new appliances, as well as new equipment for controlling heat, ventilation, dust and moisture in the home.

Byron Badcliffe of the forest products department will explain the new experimental home which is nearing completion on campus. He will discuss new ideas incorporated in the house, from new-type paints and floor materials to plastic water pipes to wall and roof panels.

This is one program designed to interest both men and women and both urban and rural residents. Other programs of special interest to women are planned for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings of Farmers' Week, and will be held in the Union building beginning at 10 a.m.

A Tuesday afternoon program concerned with pros and cons of trading stamps, cost of advertising, and food in your future begins at 1:30 p.m. in the Physics-Mathematics building.

Wednesday afternoon at 12:30, Kellogg Center opens its doors for the homemakers' get-acquainted luncheon with Mrs. Nancy Williams speaking on her recent world tour.

Thursday at 1:30 p.m., the textiles, clothing and related arts department presents ClothesLINE, 1960, illustrating the use of line in clothing and featuring garments made and modeled by students.

Farmers' Week programs are open to all interested persons, and further information may be obtained from the Co-operative Extension Service office in Ann Arbor.

ing, contribution to the community welfare will count for a maximum of 50 points each in selecting the winner.

Leadership ability and evidence of personal or business progress will account for a maximum of 25 points each.

If the nominee reaches his 36th birthday before Dec. 31 of the year for which the award is given, he becomes eligible if the activities for which he is judged were performed when he was 35.

The Jaycees' DSA Committee, headed by Daniel Maroney, urges people of the community to send in nominations for their choice of candidate at once.

St. Paul's Names 2 for Church Board

At the annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday morning, David Strieter and Lawrence Gorton were elected to serve as members of the church council, succeeding George Knickerbocker and Julius Blaess whose terms expired this year.

After the congregational meeting the church board met to organize and named A. D. Mayer president.

Re-elected to office were board members Thomas Bust, as vice-president; Duane Hall, secretary; and Paul Schable, Jr., treasurer.

Lawrence Gorton was named financial secretary and David Strieter chairman of committees and head usher.

George Knickerbocker had served as church board president the past two years and Julius Blaess had been the financial secretary. Both were commended for their work on behalf of the congregation.

Other business at the congregational meeting included appointing a committee to study the formation of a cabinet of representative leaders of the various church organizations and groups.

It was decided, also, to continue the present program of two services a week until such time as a study committee gives its report and submit recommendations.

It was announced that the annual church get-together will be held the first Thursday in February.

The new church council will be installed at special installation ceremonies at the 10:45 a.m. service at St. Paul's church Sunday morning.

All church school teachers and officers of the Sunday school and all church organizations will also be installed Sunday; however, with the exception of the council members, they may attend the installation service at either the 8:15 a.m. or 10:45 a.m. service, the Rev. Paul M. Schnake stated.

Shop Teachers . . .

A total of 118 shop teachers participated in Saturday's program. Chelsea High school student hosts who discussed and answered questions concerning the Chelsea shop program included Daniel Mayer and Peter Flintoft in the drafting area; Bill Coltre and James Eite in the wood and general shop area; and Dallee Ferris, Alice and Alton Nixon and Mike Marsh in the electronics area.

A booklet entitled "Industrial Education Center, Chelsea High School," together with a complete set of detailed specifications for the equipment in the shop center was presented to each of the shop teachers who attended the institute.

Chelsea shop instructor, Jack Musser, left Sunday afternoon from Detroit Municipal Airport to attend an intermediate course at the University of Cincinnati, in Cincinnati, Ind.
