Schiller was turning off of US-12 at Old Fletcher road when he heard a terrific crash and stopping to investigate found an end wrench is ten bolts 7/16" and 1/2" in size. The tire was ruined. With him at the time of the freak mishap was his wife and 13-year-old daughter, Wanda. Their home is at 311 Madison Street.

Police Chiefs Question 'Are You Good Driver?'

Opinion polls and surveys of the driving public have consistently indicated that some 90 per cent consider themselves "average" or "better" drivers. The principal reason for rating themselves so competently is the fact that these drivers have never had an accident in many years of driving. In short, most people believe that "accidents" happen to the other drivers—who are not as competent as myself.

This poses a serious problem to traffic safety workers who know from accident analysis that drivers are not as good as they should be and that accidents can happen to anyone. Drivers involved in most fatal accidents, for example, have no prior accident record. While the traffic accident problem has many complexities, the most difficult to do anything about is the individual driver. The fact that it is the individual driver and not the highway or the vehicle which is the basic cause of most accidents seems to carry little conviction except to traffic safety workers.

Since September of last year, the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police have been conducting an educational program aimed at voluntary compliance with traffic laws. Based on Michigan's accident facts, which show that traffic violations contribute as a cause in 8 out of 10 fatal accidents, the association attempted to call the public's attention to the traffic law violations which occur most frequently in these fatal accidents. These violations are: ignoring stop signs and signals; driving too fast for conditions; drinking and driving; driving too closely to the car ahead; wandering out of the proper lane; and failure to yield the right-of-way.

With the close of this phase of their public education program, the police chiefs are turning their attention to some of the concepts which the average or better than average drivers hold, particularly those concepts which apply to traffic enforcement.

With the aid of a simple leaflet now being distributed throughout the state through local police departments and the state police, "good" drivers are given a brief quiz related to what they know about traffic laws and accidents. The quiz presents eight statements to be answered "true" or "false" based on publicly held concepts as revealed by the opinion polls.

As the leaflet points out, there is no "passing" score for this quiz, but the good driver should be able to answer all statements correctly. Those which are missed may indicate a deficiency in the knowledge or attitude a driver needs to be both good and safe, a deficiency which may become a contributing cause in an accident.

Quantities of this leaflet may be secured by schools, organizations and citizen groups for distribution to their members. Anyone interested should contact Chelsea Police Chief John Palmer.

Committee Forms To Support Cutler For Legislature

Marjorie Lansing, Washtenaw Committee Democratic Chairman, announced today that a committee is being formed to support Richard L. Cutler of Ann Arbor as a candidate for the state legislature. Cutler, who has lived in Ann Arbor for 12 years, has petitioned the Regents of the University for permission to seek office on the Democratic party ticket, and will formally announce his candidacy when and if such permission is obtained.

Mrs. Lansing quoted Cutler as saying that he had not completely made up his mind whether to run for the Senate or the House of Representatives. "His present inclination," she said, "is to make the race for the State Senate, because he feels that it was in the Senate that most of the damage was done last year to Michigan's reputation and future."

Cutler, who lives at 1420 Las Vegas Drive, is employed at the University as Associate Professor of Psychology. He is married and the father of two children, both of whom attend DeWitt school. He has been active in community and state affairs, having served as president of the DeWitt School PTO, as vice-chairman of the combined PTO legislative committee, and as a member of the Democratic City Committee. He was formerly treasurer of the Michigan Psychological Association, and chairman of its State Legislative Committee. He is a consultant to industry, to the Veterans Administration, and to the Michigan Society for Mental Health.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

★ Business Sentiment Swings Upward

Eight weeks ago this column discussed the amazing and sudden shift of opinion on the business outlook. The shift was from almost unanimous optimism to something close to pessimism for 1960. There now has been another significant change. This time it is back to optimism.

A perfect example of this latest change was provided at a dinner of businessmen and business economists a few days ago. At the dinner there were 28 businessmen and six economists who expressed their views on the current situation and outlook. Every single one of them was optimistic for the immediate future, and between them they represented pretty well every industry in the nation.

What has caused such an upward trend in their views in a few weeks? Probably the correct answer is a hundred or a thousand things. But the following unquestionably have been important. Realization that the sharp stock market decline was not based upon anything definite in the business trend—that the decline was because the market had become too high and must have an adjustment. Along with this goes the belief that we may well have seen the low of the market for this year.

Conviction that the wave of pessimism of two and three months ago was unwarranted—that it was based upon temporary factors and disappointment over the failure of business to do as well as had been forecast.

Certainty that this Congress is not going to be as bad as had been feared—that some unwise bills may be passed and become law, but none of these will be a character which will force the business trend down, or throw us into an immediate recession.

Evidence that as the weather is getting better business is picking up. This especially evident in retail sales, but it also is true in almost every line, even though we do not yet have much national data which show it.

Belief that a real and serious effort will be made this fall to elect conservatives to the Congress—conservatives of both parties—and that there's a chance of sufficient success to assure that the next Congress will not be predominantly union-controlled.

Recognition that it is better to have merely good business than a boom—that a 6.1 or 6.2 million automobile year is far from a depression level, and the same is true of 1.2 million private housing starts.

Certainty that the worst of the so-called tight money is over—that while interest rates probably will rise again, they will not exceed the previous highs, and those with good credit rating will be able to get loans without too much trouble.

This swing to optimism does not mean that every business or even every industry is going to have great prosperity this year. Neither does it mean that we have solved our underlying problems—international deficit, foreign competition, labor monopolies, bad tax system, too much government spending, danger of inflation, bad legislation, and so on.

But the swing to optimism does mean that over-all we should have a good year and that none of those problems should explode in our faces at least during the next several months. Granted, it is no time for complacency, but if we all do our part we should have a gradually rising business trend for the remainder of 1960.

ARMS ISSUE

The United States may propose to its allies and Russia that disarmament be given top priority in negotiations at the May 18 summit conference in Paris.

Officials considering this possibility believe the result might be to take some of the heat off the dispute with Russia over West Berlin and to concentrate attention on the one subject which offers the possibility of important agreement.

PROGRAM RESUMED

The Voice of America has resumed Spanish language broadcasts to Latin America while the State Department softly answers heated Cuban words and gestures directed against the United States.

Officials of the V.O.A. say the new one-hour short-wave program is a follow-up to President Eisenhower's observation upon his return from Latin America that Latin Americans should be told more about the United States.

PACT SIGNED

The Agriculture Department recently announced the signing of an agreement with Peru for sale of $12,000,000 worth of United States surplus farm commodities for Peruvian currency. It calls for 25 per cent of the Peruvian currency to be lent to United States and Peruvian business men by the Export Import Bank.

The Way the Ball Bounces

With Tom Johnston

★ Local Baseball Season Underway . . .

Weather permitting, the Wash-tenaw conference baseball season will get underway this week. Chelsea's Bulldogs who have shown a decided lack of hitting ability, have already dropped two non-conference clashes, while Dexter has yet to get into action. The pre-season favorites have been Chelsea and Saline, with the Hornets getting the edge because of a fine pitching staff headed by Doug Hockett and John Thoes. Manchester, Pinckney and Dexter all have shown pre-season "viewers" that they have the boys to pull some upsets with. This may be particularly true of Manchester with Bud England and Jerry Creech, both of whom can make a big difference in a ball game.

It has been interesting to us in checking out the lineups of the conference teams thus far to note the number of better ball players who have been participating in the Babe Ruth program over the past two or three summers. Any coach will tell you that playing as much baseball as possible is one way to improve, and the Babe Ruth program during the summer months has provided boys with that opportunity. The Washtenaw conference race will be made just a bit better this year because of the fact that many of these boys competed against each other last summer in the Babe Ruth program, Chelsea, Saline, Dexter, Pinckney and Manchester all had teams in the program, and will have again this year.

Michigan's baseball team will open their Big Ten season at Ann Arbor this week-end. The Wolverines will meet Illinois on Friday afternoon and Purdue on Saturday in a double header which will begin at 1:30 and 3:30, respectively. Don Lund appears to have a real conference contender this spring. An all-veteran team with a couple of hard hitting sophomores may provide Lund with his first Big Ten title.

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane is defending his trade of slugger Rocky Colavito to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn. Lane has come under heavy bombardment from the fans for giving up Colavito, who tied for the home run hitting title in the American League last year with 42.

Says Lane, "We hated to give up a fine young player like Colavito, but we felt Kuenn would fit into this ball club in a better all-around way." He points out that Kuenn, who led the league with a batting average of .353 had 198 total hits to 151 for Colavito . . . and struck out only 37 times while Rocky fanned 86 times.

Lane also explained Monday's trade of pitcher Herb Score to the Chicago White Sox for pitcher Barry Latman. He said he reached the point where he felt the 27-year-old left-hander "could not win in Cleveland."

Score, who hasn't had a winning season since he suffered an eye injury in 1957, said he is happy with the trade. He said he and White Sox Manager Al Lopez get along well together.

Latman, a 28-year-old right-hander, was with the White Sox only one full season. He posted an 8-5 record for the league champs last year with an earned run average of 3.75.

The Michigan State University baseball team is looking forward to its Big Ten opener with Purdue Friday after whipping Albion College, 6-0, in a non-league game Monday.

The Spartans collected only five hits—two each by first baseman Bill Shudlich and outfielder Ron Hoiles—but were helped by seven Albion errors.

All the runs were scored in the first two innings with Wes Kiewicki on the mound for the Spart-

REUNITED

Sydney, Australia — After 50 years, two brothers were reunited in Sydney, Australia, by a traveler's chance remark.

Andrew Brack left Aberdeen, Scotland, for Canada in 1910. Six years later, his brother, George, left for Australia. The brothers never saw or heard from one another during the next 40 years. Then Andrew met a traveler who said he had met a George Brack in Sydney. Andrew telephoned, found it was his brother, and bought a ticket for Sydney.

The Spartans got two runs on only one hit in the first and four runs on just one hit and four Albion miscues in the second.

Shudlich's double in the eighth was the only extra-base blow. Michigan State now has an 8-4 record for the season with three straight wins since returning from a southern training trip.

The way has been cleared for promotion of this summer's heavyweight championship boxing match.

Feature Sports, Inc., reached a full agreement Monday for purchase of all stock from Patterson Enterprises, Inc., in New York City.

A spokesman for Feature Sports says necessary papers are now being drawn up and will be submitted to state officials for their approval.

If approval is granted, Feature Sports can complete its plans for the return title bout between Johansson and former champ Floyd Patterson. The bout is to be held at New York's Polo Grounds on June 22. Johansson was to arrive in New York Monday for the contract signing.

THREE-YEAR MANUAL BILL. The latest Air Force manuals to come under fire are being criticized not for their contents, but their cost—$221,200,000 in three years.

These are highly technical manuals and compilations of data about aircraft, missiles and other complicated devices, a House appropriations subcommittee was told.

Lt. Gen. Mark E. Bradley, Jr., Air Force deputy chief of staff, said the Air Force has been "doing our best to get it under control."

NO MORE FREE POSTAGE. Blytheville, Ark. — Another free government service has ended in Blytheville. Postmaster Jim Harding ordered repairs for a stamp vending machine that was giving patrons their money back as well as stamps.

F.D.R. MEMORIAL

A competition will be held to select a design for a memorial to Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The memorial commission has named a jury to select the winning design, which may be a building, garden, fountain, pool, landscape, or any or all of these together in some fresh, surprising and appropriate form.

FREE HAND FOR NIXON
President Eisenhower has asserted that Vice President Nixon would be "absolutely stupid" if he stood pat on Administration policies.

He thus gave the Vice President a free hand to expand upon current government policies and to propose innovations during this year's Presidential campaign.

Frankly, we haven't yet decided whether to run for President, and no one is pressing us for an answer.

WIDER ATOM CHECK URGED
The Democratic Advisory Council's Committee on Science and Technology has proposed a significant increase in international seismic stations to make possible an enforceable ban on nuclear tests.

The Democratic policy paper argued the pros and cons of continuing nuclear tests, but concluded that success in negotiating a ban might constitute the first step "toward a new system of world security."

Early Filing of Wool Applications
Urged by ASC

Chairman Max M. Kalmbach of the Washtenaw County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee today urged wool growers who sold wool or lambs during the 1959 marketing year which ended March 31 to file their applications for payment under the national wool program as early in April as possible.

Early filing is highly desirable,
Kalmbach said, because the information on applications is needed for use in computing the average price received by growers. This must be done before the payment rates for shorn wool and unshorn lambs can be determined. Since April 30 falls on Saturday this year, the final date for filing applications is May 2.

Applications being filed at this time are to show all sales of wool and unshorn lambs during the period April 1, 1959 and March 31, 1960. Growers to be considered completed during that period, title must have passed to the buyer, the wool must have been delivered, and the last of the factors needed to determine the net sales proceeds must be available.

Measles Outbreak Reported in Ypsi, Chelsea Areas

"An outbreak of measles in the Chelsea and Ypsilanti areas has been reported to the Washtenaw County Health Department," said Dr. Otto K. Engelke, County Health Officer. In announcing the increase in the number of cases, Dr. Engelke reminded parents of children under three years of age that these children should be seen by the family doctor as soon after exposure as possible.

Depending on the individual patient, a physician may recommend an injection of gamma globulin in cases where he feels that it is desirable to modify or lessen the severity of the disease. To be effective, gamma globulin should be given within three days of the exposure, Dr. Engelke said. Gamma globulin is available to family doctors from health department offices, he added. It is recommended for children under three and for pregnant women.

Dr. Engelke said that the current outbreak was not "unexpected." "The disease is one which we see reaching near epidemic proportions every two years," he said. "Practically everyone is susceptible, the doctor stated, and 80 to 90 per cent of those persons 20 years of age have had measles."

Measles is sometimes referred to as rubella, or as red measles. It is caused by a virus and is a relatively mild disease. The characteristic signs are small round white spots on the inside of the mouth early in the course of disease, and a coarse rash on the face, body and extremities beginning about the third or fourth day. Measles is spread by direct contact or through droplet infection. The virus is commonly found in the secretions of the nose and throat of the individual infected.

"Although the disease occurs during all seasons except summer, it is most commonly encountered in the spring," Dr. Engelke said. "An infection of any degree of severity usually produces a life-long immunity."

"Because of the nature of the disease, it is of no value to close schools," Dr. Engelke said. "The most important thing to remember is to have young children seen by the doctor as soon as the child is known to be exposed, and abide by the doctor's decision as to the care necessary. This is necessary," he added, "because of the danger of secondary infections such as pneumonia following unmodified measles in younger children."

AID FOR AGED

Secretary of Welfare Flemming has advised Congress the Administration has been considering a program under which Federal and State governments would pay the major cost of health insurance for the aged.

But no conclusion has been reached as to the best manner of dealing with the problem of financing medical care for the aged, Flemming told the House Ways and Means committee. He said emphasis in studies of the question is being placed on having the states carry their fair share of the total burden.

LIBERAL BILLS

Vice President Nixon is reported to be urging House Republicans to liberalize the party's record by supporting bills for school construction and medical aid of the elderly.

Mr. Nixon's reported efforts to influence members of the Ways and Means Committee have met strong resistance from Republican conservatives. They fear that the Vice President is abandoning them and intends to adopt a liberal label as the party's Presidential candidate.

State Police Warn Parents Of Child Molester Dangers

Now is the time to warn your children about talking with strangers, advises Sgt. John Horvath, commanding officer of the Jackson post of the Michigan State Police, who reminds that the season of warmer weather always brings an increase in child molestation cases.

Sex offenses against children reach their peak during the summer vacation period. A word of caution now could help your child from becoming involved in a degrading experience that could mar his life or even bring physical harm.

"The safest rule for children to follow," Sgt. Horvath said, "is to have nothing to do with strangers and to tell their parents immediately if any strangers approach them and offer them candy or other things if they will go with them."

Child molestation cases investigated by the State Police increased 3.2 per cent last year, 18 more than the 638 reported the previous year. The highest incidence was in August with 76 as compared to 71 in July, the high month the year before. June last year was second with 73 cases and July next with 61.

April, as the previous year, showed a marked jump from 29 cases in March to 52. With the start of school in September, incidents dropped off, which is characteristic of the pattern each year, according to State Police records.

One of the difficulties in coping with the child molestation problem, according to Sgt. Horvath, is the reluctance of parents to report incidents to the police for fear of embarrassing publicity. For this reason, the problem is a larger menace than figures indicate.

The press, radio and television never use the names of children except in cases of murder, and if all incidents were reported police would have a much greater chance of apprehending offenders and offenses could be reduced considerably.

Another important factor which could lessen the problem, Sgt. Horvath said, is to impress children that policemen are friends who want to help and protect them. They should be encouraged not to be afraid to notify police of any strangers seen loitering around playgrounds, neighborhoods, schools or at public comfort stations.

Because depraved men and women are often successful in enticing children to become victims of their immoral and criminal sex behavior, Sgt. Horvath suggests several "do's" and "don'ts" for parents to tell their children to protect them.

1. When you meet strangers walking or in cars, do not stop to talk with them.

2. Always know the person you are with. If you don't, do not accept rides or go for walks with them.

3. Don't let strangers join you during play hours at school or around home.

4. If it is necessary for you to use public toilets, leave immediately after you are finished. These are danger spots.

5. Don't play or walk alone in alleys, deserted buildings and other secluded places. Always arrange to be with one or more playmates.

6. If strangers offer you money, a gift, candy or ice cream, do not accept them.

7. If a stranger offers to give you a job to earn some spending money, do not accept or go with him until you have talked with your parents and they have given their consent.

8. When you go to a movie, always take a pal along. Do not let a stranger sit next to you touch your clothes or body. If one attempts to report it to the theater manager immediately.

9. Do not play or walk too close to the road. Keep a safe distance away to prevent strangers touching or grabbing you.

10. If pals or strangers ask you to disobey these rules, don't. They are for your protection.

Here are some helpful "do's" to recommend to children:

1. Either write down or memo-

Secretary of State Hare To Address Meeting of Democratic Committee

Michigan's Secretary of State James M. Hare will address the next meeting of the Washtenaw County Democratic Committee, on Monday, April 25, at 8 p.m., at the Ann Arbor Community Center, 625 North Main St., Ann Arbor.

This will be the first time that Secretary of State Hare has spoken in Washtenaw county since he announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His name will appear on the ballot in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary election.

In keeping with the "fair play policy" announced by Governor Williams and other Democratic leaders, each of the candidates for the Democratic nomination will have his turn here in Washtenaw county. Last month the Democratic Committee was addressed by Lt. Governor John B. Swainson; next month the third candidate, Edward Conner will come to this county.

All Democrats are warmly invited to come hear Hare speak this coming Monday in Ann Arbor.

Wild Geese Northbound

Reminiscent of the early days of the airplane when people stopped wherever they happened to be and scanned the skies when a plane's motor was heard, was the scene in downtown Chelsea at 8 a.m. Saturday. ### Greater Shortage of Nurses Forecast by Professional Leaders

The supply of registered professional nurses is not keeping pace with population growth. Fewer girls are being recruited for nursing. The ration of non-professional positions to registered nurse positions has increased.

These facts were learned from a study to forecast nursing needs and resources for Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, which has just been completed by the Detroit and Tri-County League for Nursing.

The local South Central Michigan League for Nursing and the Washtenaw District Nurses Association have invited Mrs. Margaret Murray, Executive Secretary of the Detroit League, to present the study at a meeting Wednesday, April 20, 1960 at 8:00 p.m. at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Ann Arbor.

As nursing leaders in this area believe that this study has implications for nursing in our community, all interested persons are urged to attend.

Elmer Klump Fired from Sheriff's Dept.

Elmer F. Klump, who announced early this month that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff in the Aug. 2 primary election, was fired last Friday from his deputy's post in the Sheriff's Department by Sheriff George A. Petersen.

Reason for the dismissal was stated to be the result of an investigation which revealed the fact that Klump had been convicted in 1928 of a violation of the national prohibition law and was fined and jailed at that time. Reportedly, Klump's announcement of his candidacy had nothing to do with his discharge.

Klump, however, states that his discharge was "politically inspired," saying that at least six different investigators of his background approved him for employment at various police and security jobs during the past 20 years. Klump said a check of his personal history had also been made before his appointment as deputy by five different sheriffs. He concluded by stating that Sheriff Petersen himself had hired him on Jan. 1, 1958.

Regulations Issued On Price-Support Limitation Rule

Official regulations have been issued concerning the price-support limitation that will take effect this year, and the ASC is now in position to answer questions of farmers who inquire what effect they will have on any one commodity.

There is a general ceiling of $50,000 this year on the amount of non-recourse price-support loans that may be received by any producer on any one commodity. The price-support is provided chiefly in the form of loans, which may be satisfied by delivering the commodity at the close of the loan period. Recourse loans may be made in excess of the $50,000 to farmers who agree to the excess amount.

A producer may qualify for non-recourse loans in excess of $50,000 by reducing his total acreage of the crop concerned to less than the 1959 acreage. Commodities grown in this year to which the $50,000 limitation applies are wheat, barley, sorghums, corn, rye, oats, and beans.

More detailed information on application of the price support limitation is available at Washtenaw ASC county of Kalamazoo said.

Mrs. Ann Arbor Chosen in 'Mrs. Michigan' Search

Mrs. Kenneth Levy, 1725 Weldon Blvd., Ann Arbor, won the title of "Mrs. Michigan" at the baking contest held in the home service auditorium of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. at Ann Arbor, Wednesday, April 13. She is now eligible to enter the "Mrs. Michigan" contest in Detroit, May 4-5.

Mrs. Gordon Smith, 1959 Mrs. Ann Arbor, was present as one of the judges. Mrs. Levy's prize-winning cake was a square chocolate layer with boiled icing.

Mrs. Lee Danielson, 2700 West Ellsworth Rd., was the runner-up with a maraschino cherry cake she baked.

Judges for the Ann Arbor contest, in addition to Mrs. Smith, were Kenneth McDonald, radio newscaster, Hazen Schumacher, Jr., associate director of the University of Michigan TV station, and Barbara Myers, woman's page editor for the Ann Arbor News.

Every now and then a politician retires from office, white not under pressure or investigation of any kind, and that is rare.

African Missionary To Speak At Assembly of God Church

The Chelsea Assembly of God church, located at 116 South Main St., has announced that E. J. Bascue, missionary-evangelist to the primitive people of Po. French West Africa, will hold special services on Thursday, April 21, at 7:00 in the evening.

Recently returned, with seven years of life abroad and well versed in the social and national crisis in Africa today, he is an able speaker on the significance of these events, especially their effect on the religious life.

The Rev. Bascue is a featured speaker and guest soloist in Assemblies of God state-wide missionary conventions, youth rallies, and camp-meetings, as well as in local church services. His inspired Gospel singing has been an outstanding feature in thrilling people in this country and abroad.

In addition to a display of unusual African "curios," the Rev. Bascue will bring an up-to-date challenge of world-wide missions in this service tonight, and will present several baritone solo selections.

The Rev. Bascue comes here from Springfield, Mo., denominational headquarters of the Assemblies of God, and his residence on Turlough with his family, Mrs. Bascue and three children, Patricia, 15, Judy, 14, and Sue, 8.

Time of this special service is 7:00 p.m. and Pastor H. J. Mepelink has extended a special invitation to everyone interested to attend.

Otto Luchts Also Operate Resort, Trailer Park on Farm at Four Mile Lake

Mystery Farm No. 94 proved to be the Lucht farm at Four Mile Lake. Several people looking the lake, thought it was a farm located near Cavanaugh Lake. The above photo was originally published without identification in the April 14 issue of The Standard.

At that time the farm, located on North Lima-Center Rd., was only 80 acres in size. Additional acreage was purchased until the farm now contains 160 acres.

The John Luchts moved to the farm in 1899, remaining until 1901 when they moved to Chelsea and the Otto Luchts took it over.

The John Lucht family included four daughters and two sons. One of the sons, John, died during the flu epidemic in 1918, only three weeks after he was married to Marie Klein.

In addition to Otto Lucht, the present owner of the farm, those in the family are Mrs. Martha Stueckemann of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Mary Eschebach of Midland, and Mrs. Harry Stoffer (Anna) and Mrs. Henry Merkel Sr., (Rose) of Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lucht moved to the farm in 1921 and lived there for 22 years. Mr. Lucht still operates the farm but the farmhouse, itself, is rented to Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Honbaum. The Otto Luchts' home in Chelsea is at 175 East Summit St. They also maintain a cottage at Four Mile Lake which the farm borders.

They formerly operated a boat livery at the lake for many years and have a number of cottages and an attractive trailer park south of the cottages. This appears in the upper part of the photo. They are planning another trailer park north of the cottages for vacationers from widely scattered areas who return there regularly.

The late John Lucht will be remembered as Lima township's highway commissioner, an office he held for more than 20 years. The farm formerly was noted for its registered "Brown Swiss" dairy cattle, but Lucht now has only sheep on the place.

The Otto Luchts have one daughter, Virginia, now Mrs. Robert Gillette of Bay City.

First to call The Standard office to identify the farm were the men at Bless Elevator Co. and Charles Curtis.

Lawn, Garden Hobbies Offer Chance for Healthful Relaxation

About this time of year it may be well to urge all readers of The Standard to consider the possible pleasure to be obtained from flowers, fruits and vegetables. It is also worth noting that, sometimes, such activity can develop a monetary profit.

We are not much concerned in this article with the economic gains of gardening. There are other values that come to the individual who seeks to develop something of beauty and perfection in accordance with the laws of nature. There are many homes in our community located on lots that need the charm that can come only from well-appointed surroundings. It may take some years to develop an attractive lawn or garden, but the task will bring satisfaction, however long delayed. In addition, what you do with your lot will add to the natural beauty of our village.

When it comes to vegetable gardening, one must admit that the process involves work. At the same time, many of us would benefit by some exercise. We know, from hearing them boast, that the amateur gardeners take as much delight in their prize specimens as fishermen who talk so much about the "one that got away."

Free Advice for Teen-Agers...

Abigail Van Buren, in her daily nationally syndicated column appearing in The Ann Arbor News, recently included an anonymous quotation which contained pertinent advice for many of today's teen-agers.

The self-explanatory comments read as follows:
 "We hear teen-agers complain, 'What can we do? Where can we go?'"

"The answer is: Go home! Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork. Rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk. Wash the car, scrub some floors. Help the minister, rabbi or priest, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick, the poor. Study your lessons! And when you're through, if you're not too tired, read a book."

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city doesn't owe you a recreation center. The world doesn't owe you a living. You owe it your time and energy and your talents so that no one will be at war or in poverty or sick or lonely again."

"You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibilities your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, excused and tolerated you. They have denied themselves comforts so that you could have luxuries. This they have done gladly, for you are their greatest treasure. In heaven's name, grow up and go home!"

More Action Needed...

Those who consider themselves the moral leaders of the Universe are prone to gather in conventions and issue solemn proclamations, warning that the solution of existing problems depends upon the development of moral and spiritual forces.

Nobody with ordinary intelligence will deny the supreme importance of moral and spiritual values. Nevertheless, it takes an impractical idealist to believe that the profession of faith in these virtues will, of itself, solve the problems that beset mankind. Spiritual values, after all, have little bearing upon the world unless they are translated into material activity by those who accept them.

Roman tax collectors, we learn, nicknamed vice-chairman Giovanni Agnelli of Italy's big Fiat auto works a mere $92,000 in income tax on his 1954 salary of $638,000. If Fiat and Signor Agnelli were in Detroit, his take-home pay would have been $462,000 less—or about 13 cents per earned dollar. Anyone want passports?

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

There's something in Michigan's motto about looking about you if you seek a beautiful peninsula. Michigan people are doing this—and they're spending more and more of their vacation time in Michigan.

But what about those outside of Michigan in that vast reservoir of potential customers for Michigan's tourist industry?

It appears Michigan is lagging in attracting new tourists.

Nationally, the tourist industry increased 10 per cent last year. In Michigan, the increase was 5 per cent.

Nobody in Michigan can dispute that the state has the facilities for vacationers, the attractions and the means of getting vacationers to these facilities and attractions—once they decide to come.

Two of Michigan's boosters, Gov. C. Mennen Williams and Tourist Director Robert J. Furlong, say more people would come to Michigan if more people knew about Michigan. They want more money for advertising.

"We must realize that money spent to advance our tourist business cannot be considered just an expenditure," Williams said. "It is an investment."

Furlong said Michigan's tourist industry has an annual potential of at least one billion, compared with the current income of 650 million dollars a year.

But expanded promotion is essential if Michigan is to keep pace, according to Furlong.

Furlong looks with envy at the budgets of promoters in other states—Florida with $1,240,000; California with $800,000; Arkansas with $550,000; and the Province of Ontario with $1,750,000.

The Tourist Council's budget for the current fiscal year is $422,191. Ever been in court?

Those who have know that litigation is expensive.

Lawyers and judges say it wouldn't be quite so expensive if the legislature would rewrite, shorten and streamline statutes governing procedures in Michigan's courts.

Modernization of the judicial code was one of the proposals that died in the 1960 legislature. It is sure to be tried again in 1961.

Lawmakers complained they just didn't have the time to study the 640-page bill on judicial reform. Next year there will be more time and new lawmakers.

Other changes are brewing in the courts.

There appears to be bipartisan support for creation of a system of intermediate courts of appeal. A report of the Joint Committee on Michigan Procedural Revision said creation of such a court would lighten the workload of the Supreme Court and would provide a quicker and easier appeal route.

There are many who say the courts should be revamped at the highest and lowest levels; put the Justice of the Peace on a salary system and make the Supreme Court truly nonpartisan.

Pipe-smoking James W. Miller is bowing out as state controller. He will take over July 1 as secretary of Michigan State University, a position MSU President John A. Hannah once held.

Miller is one of but two controllers Williams has had since his 1948 election. The other was Robert E. Steadman, now with a financial company in New York.

Miller instituted many economy measures during his years as chief administrator of the state's purse strings.

But he will be remembered best for his role in the 1959 cash crisis.

It was Miller who, back in the closing days of 1958 while Williams was vacationing in the south, announced the state simply could not pay all of its bills. And it has been Miller who has kept the State Administrative Board apprised of things financial ever since.

Other trusted advisers preceded Miller in the exodus from the executive staff.

Ex-Press Secretary Paul W. Weber is with the Civil Service Commission as press secretary for all state employees.

Ex-Executive Secretary Lawrence L. Farrell is secretary of the Michigan employees retirement system.

Ex-Legislative Aide John S. Sweeney went to Washington to work for Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich.).

Legal Aide Alfred B. Pitt is going to Washington to work for a Senate judiciary subcommittee in a job arranged by Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.).

Everybody has a niche but Williams. And he's working on it.

An open mind is an asset, but doesn't let your mind become so open that nothing stays in it.

Party Philosophies Again Clearly Defined

Having been in session almost continuously for the last 15 months, the legislature fought its way out of Lansing last week with an appeal to the people of Michigan to end the silliest political situation since King Strang established a monarchy on Beaver Island.

The big abyss separating the two parties is clearly defined for the first time since Gov. Williams took square dancing and green bow ties to the voters instead of revealing his governmental goals.

In November, the people can elect a Democratic legislature to enact bigger than ever spending programs with bigger than ever taxes.

Or they can send a Republican legislature to Lansing to keep government costs within reason and restore deficit ridden Michigan to economic health.

But if the wreck is to be returned to the rails, they must end the ridiculous experiment with a heremaphrodite legislature where neither Republicans nor Democrats have control.

No nation except American would tolerate a government in which two directly opposed philosophies have almost equal power.

In England, Canada, France and other nations of the free world, a government reduced to this kind of confusion would fall overnight. New elections would be called to give one party or the other the right to govern.

But Michigan has staggered through 15 months of impossible disorder. It has become a laughing stock across the nation. It has been on the verge of bankruptcy.

As long as Republicans refused to adopt the program of the Democratic party and Democrats refused to accept Republican principles, no other result was possible. The remedy is clear.

If the voters of Michigan want to end the kind of government that has won for Michigan the tag of a "Welfare State," they must quit this dilly-dally experiment produced by split ballots.

Or vice versa. If Michigan is to be rescued, they must vote next fall on a basis of party principles. The road Michigan is to follow—in one direction or the other—will then be distinct.

Fortunately, the decision by Gov. Williams not to seek a seventh term will make this possible. The withdrawal of his personal magnetism from Michigan politics, will bring party programs into focus.

The election of legislators next November, therefore, is more important in charting Michigan's future than the election of the Governor.

For the state's destiny will be held, not by the Chief Executive but by the majorities in the House and Senate. But there are no majorities, one way or another.

Michigan's economic illness not be cured by a voting pattern like that of 1953, which produced a House of Representatives 55 Democrats lined up against Republicans—and Rep. George J. Latta, of Ann Arbor, holding loyalty to either.

It will be the duty of both political parties this year to show their cards face up.

In the 15 or 16 legislative terms where the voting has been close, the people then will be able to decide whether they want taxes, bigger spending or a violent flight of industry to other states.

The alternative is the Republican program fashioned by State Senate—a program that makes an income tax and promises an economic revival by inviting industry to expand instead of fleeing.

The people must have learned from the disastrous experience of the last 15 months that they not have both.

By GOV. C. MENNEN WILLIAMS

Sales Tax Increase To Go on Ballot

Lansing—This year at the election in November, the voters will decide whether the new revenue Michigan needs will be raised by increasing the sales tax.

Last week, the legislature ordered the question put on the November ballot. The proposal is to raise the sales tax from three cents to four cents on each dollar of taxable purchases.

The sales tax is one way to raise new revenue. The alternative is an income tax. Whatever the tax, there must be new revenue. The choice will be made by the voters in another seven months.

More revenue must be available to the state if we are to maintain our leadership in education, continue our progressive program in mental health and assure the efficient operation of our other important state departments.

If there is doubt in anyone's mind that the state needs additional revenue, a look at the condition of the general fund will remove it. When this current fiscal year started, July 1, 1959, the general fund had a deficit of $95.5 million. During last year's session, the legislature first passed a tax package which included the use-tax increase. The use tax increase was held to be unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

The legislature then passed a package of temporary nuisance taxes on beer, liquor, cigarettes, tobacco and telephone bills. The general fund deficit at the end of this fiscal year will be about $71 million. That looks like some improvement, but this apparent improvement was made possible only because $41 million was available from the Veterans Trust Fund. This sum will not be available again. Without it, our general fund deficit would have been $112 million. We must pay that back some time. There is no necessity to my views that any new tax program should be equitable, gram and reasonably permit. Everyone knows my position. A sales tax increase, a sales tax increase, a sales tax increase. (Continued on page 12)

Michigan's Factories, Farms and Stores Depend on Trucks

Manufacturing, farming, the retail business—all have one thing in common: each needs transportation facilities.

And, since the motor truck provides fast, flexible direct service unequalled by any other form of transportation, more tonnage is shipped by truck in Michigan each year. (Naturally trucks haul more than 10 times as much tonnage as all other systems combined.)

Every truck you see on the road is working—working to help keep Michigan's economy humming, to help keep employment and sales high. There isn't a corner of the State that isn't served daily by trucks.

And factories and shopping centers can be located anywhere and be assured of efficient truck service so long as they're on a road.

You see how vital trucks are to Michigan.

Questions, Answers Listed On Constitution Convention

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of questions which might be asked about the proposed Michigan Constitutional Convention and answers to those questions as provided by the League of Women Voters of Michigan.

QUESTION NO. 12—

Do all states select delegates to a Constitutional Convention from senatorial districts?

ANSWER NO. 12—

No. Michigan is one of only five states specifying the use of senatorial districts as a basis for electing delegates. The others are Colorado, Illinois, Missouri, and New York. In most states delegates are elected on the basis of districts used for selecting members of the lower house of the state legislature. Some states also have some delegates elected at large. Sometimes this is specified in the Constitution; but usually, it is specified in an enabling act passed by the legislature. However, delegates are not all nominated in the same way. In some cases nomination is by party convention and in some cases by petition with primaries held when the number of candidates is large. In some cases the election is partisan; in some cases, non-partisan; and in at least one case, provision was made for equal representation of each party.

QUESTION NO. 13—

How will the delegates to a Constitutional Convention be nominated?

ANSWER NO. 13—

Since the Constitution makes no mention of either the qualifications or the procedure for nomination of delegates, it will be necessary for the legislature to pass a law to determine these matters if the people of Michigan vote to call a Constitutional Convention. The legislature will have to decide such questions as whether or not delegates will be nominated by party convention, by filing petitions, or by some combination of the two; whether the election will be partisan or non-partisan; and whether there will be primaries held in the senatorial districts. In 1907 some districts held primaries because of the large number of candidates.

Citizens should let their legislature know what method of nominating Constitutional Convention delegates they believe would give the people the best qualified representatives at the Convention.

QUESTION NO. 14—

How do we know we'll have capable delegates to revise the Constitution?

ANSWER NO. 14—

The best answer to this is the experience of other states. In recent Constitutional Conventions in Missouri (1945) and New Jersey (1947), the caliber of the delegates elected was outstanding. Lawyers, ministers, educators, and other professional business and civic leaders were delegates. Dedicated citizens were willing to serve because of the historic importance of what they did and all felt a sense of extraordinary responsibility. Also, all recent Conventions have had the help of expert research staffs.

QUESTION NO. 15—

Is it possible that the Convention would not completely revise the Constitution?

ANSWER NO. 15—

Yes. A Constitutional Convention could proceed in a number of different ways. It could revise the whole Constitution and submit one whole document to be voted on. It could decide to leave some sections as they are and submit the revised sections to the voters all together or in a number of proposals. It could decide to submit a series of amendments. It could decide to submit a whole new document, but have the voters vote on a controversial matter as a separate amendment so as not to jeopardize the rest of the document. It could even decide not to change anything at all, although this is highly unlikely.

QUESTION NO. 16—

Wouldn't a Constitutional Convention cost the taxpayers a lot of money?

ANSWER NO. 16—

New Jersey, which has recently revised its Constitution, spent $325,000 on its Constitutional Convention. The Bureau of Budget of New Jersey reported a saving of one million dollars in the first year of operation under the new streamlined document, mostly due to their court reorganization. Missouri's Convention lasted one year and cost $697,000. Missouri officials estimate that reforms in

MYSTERY MINSTREL MAN IDENTIFIED—You sure did guess it this time. Five people submitted the correct name—Harvey Lixey—within a few hours after the paper was out. They are Mrs. Joseph Doering, Pat Baldwin, Fred Hoffman, D. Pickelsimer, and Ada Farley.

one department alone (the new Department of Revenue) saves more than one million dollars annually. New York's Convention, lasting 5 months, cost $1,300,000 and Virginia's cost $500,000. Michigan's Constitution provides for each delegate (102) to be paid $500 semi-monthly with a minimum of $1,000.00 and a maximum of $7,500, plus the same mileage as is paid to member of the legislature, and provides for payment for publication and distribution expenses and for expert help. The cost of placing an amendment on the ballot in Michigan, with the present population is about $50,000. There have been 119 amendments on the ballot since 1908, (only 66 of which were adopted). That means an average of 2.38 amendments on the ballot per year. If such a vote were continued and the population did not increase, revising the Constitution this way would cost $119,000 a year and still not give us the kind of Constitution we need. (See Question 7 and answer.)

QUESTION NO. 17— Would a new Constitution result in a great increase in lawsuits and cases in court due to the uncertainties in the application of new basic laws?

ANSWER NO. 17— We know that this was not true in New Jersey nor in Missouri after they adopted new Constitutions. In fact, a survey of the University of Missouri Law Review showed that the adoption of a new Constitution in Missouri had reduced rather than increased litigation. Most lawyers say that clear, modern language and the elimination of the ambiguities and conflicting provisions often caused by piecemeal amendments make for fewer cases in court. An increase in amount of litigation is encountered as a state becomes further removed from the time and conditions for which its constitution was written. This is true because literal conformity to its provisions becomes less and less possible and determining the intent of the framers become more and more difficult.

QUESTION NO. 18— Would the uncertainty which must inevitably follow the work of a Convention prove costly to individuals and business?

ANSWER NO. 18— No uncertainty created by the calling of a Constitutional Convention could be greater than the present uncertainties in the state due to the state's financial problems. To help in the solution of these and others by Constitutional revision would inevitably create a better climate for business and industry.

QUESTION NO. 19— Would a new Constitution be likely to mean a boost in our state taxes?

ANSWER NO. 19— In a Constitutional Convention the entire section of the Constitution on finance and taxation could be thoroughly reviewed to find the best solution to Michigan's financial problems; namely, how to raise adequate funds fairly and how to distribute these among the state services desired by the citizens.

Improvements in Michigan's present governmental structure might well save large sums of money through provisions for efficient modern administrative frameworks for all three branches of government. (See answer to Question 10 for savings made in other states.)

$140,000 FOR DIAPERS—The United States Air Force considers the baby business as big business.

It has asked Congress for $140,000 to pay the bill for diaper service during the fiscal year starting July 1. This service is for airman's infants born or treated in Government hospitals.

Brig. Gen. John K. Cullen, director of plans and hospitalization, made the request to the House Appropriations Committee.

Attorney General Acts To Prevent Local Frauds

Attorney General Paul L. Adams, in Washtenaw county for a conference with Prosecuting Attorney William F. Agor, Jr., and other law enforcement officials, stated that his office is seeking ways to co-ordinate state and local efforts to protect consumers from frauds, cheats and sharp practices.

The Attorney General noted that there are certain rackets and fraudulent operations which hit a community and then move on rapidly to another part of the state. He cited the advance fee racket as an example, where a person claiming to represent a nationwide concern, comes to a home or business which is for sale and tells the owner that he can get a high price for his property. All that the concern needs is an advance fee of $200- or 300, to begin advertising and sales negotiations. After the fee has been paid, the culprit usually disappears with the money and is often never heard from again.

Attorney General Adams said that his office might be able to co-ordinate efforts of prosecuting attorneys, law enforcement agencies, chambers of commerce, and better business bureaus to stamp out these frauds and cheats. He has appointed Maxine B. Virtue, assistant attorney general, to seek the best method to operate in the field of consumer protection.

INVEST-IN-AMERICA

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) wants the week of April 24 to be called National Invest-In-America Week. He has urged a Senate Judicial subcommittee to take prompt action on a resolution proclaiming the week.

Wiley said that encouraging more people to invest their savings in American enterprise is "fundamental to our economic progress."

Gov. Williams . . .

If the people vote down the sales tax increase in November, I would conclude that it means they want an income tax. This view is shared by some Republican Senators who fought so hard against income tax programs last year.

The tax vote in November can, therefore, determine whether the people of Michigan choose to raise the new money needed for efficient operation of state government by increasing the sales tax or by imposing an income tax.

It is the constitutional responsibility of the legislature to raise the taxes we need. If the Republican Senators had faced this responsibility in 1959, rather than running away from it, the people would not have to do their work for them in November 1960.

In other words, the voters are being asked to make up for the failure of Republican Senators to act last year to provide an adequate tax program to meet the needs of one of the fastest-growing large states in the nation.

There are differing views on the kind of tax Michigan should have. But, regardless of those differences, I hope every voter will keep it clearly in mind that the state must have new revenue if it is to do its job. Michigan cannot carry indefinitely a huge deficit, nor make progress if we continue to live under a threat of financial disaster.

FARM PLAN

Vice President Nixon is going far afield from the Eisenhower Administration circle in his search for a workable farm program.

The disclosure that Nixon has consulted former Representative Hope (R-Kan.) and soon may sit down with Senator Young (R-N.D.) indicates the Vice President may have some radical changes in mind.

KATE STUCKY ELY, 12824 Hartwell, winner of the Delta Goodwill Industries' Worker of the Year Award, has been elected in the national competition against 128 other Goodwill winners throughout the nation. Kate was elected by her fellow employees as the person who had done more to overcome her obstacles than any other disabled person at Goodwill. Left motherless at the age of three months and a victim of polio at the age of six months, Kate has cheerfully battled life from a wheel chair. If you have ever called Goodwill Industries to ask a truck to pick up your contributions of discards, the chances are good that you have talked with Kate. Because of her sunny disposition and knowledge of Goodwill, she is in the telephone office where she is a key part of Goodwill's public relations program. After a grammar school education, Kate took two years of piano and singing at the Detroit Conservatory of Music, and sings as a soloist at the Highgate Park Baptist church, besides playing and singing at least once a month at the Veterans' Hospital. Kate is as independent as the come. She drives her own car with hand controls, goes to movie Bob-Lo and church functions, without asking help from anyone. Asked what brought her the most satisfaction in life, Kate was quick to answer: "The opportunity that Goodwill Industries gave me to earn my own living and become independent."

'Bumper Pusher' Means Murder on Expressway

In the East, it's known as a turnpike. In the West, it's a freeway. In Michigan, it's an expressway. But wherever it is, it's part of a new highway transportation facility which will shrink time and distance for automobile travel.

These high-speed highways will soon be familiar to all Michigan motorists. Within the next two years, more than 1,000 miles of controlled access expressways will be in operation in the state and in less than a decade they will connect all major Michigan cities. They will directly service more than two-thirds of Michigan's population and 90 per cent of its industries.

But Michigan's drivers are not yet ready for these new roads. Michigan's drivers have not acquired the driving skill demanded by these new roads. Michigan's drivers haven't even acquired the driving skills necessary on the old roads, judging from the annual toll of deaths and injuries resulting from traffic accidents.

Although the new expressways eliminate or reduce many of the traffic hazards of the old roads, they also demand higher performance skills of certain kinds: if drivers are to get the maximum benefit the new roads can provide in the way of convenience, efficiency and safety.

A recent news story from the East told of how a dog suddenly darted across the turnpike and 15 cars piled up when the first car braked to avoid hitting the animal.

Another story from the West, reported that some 40 cars collided on a freeway shrouded in fog. In Detroit, where the expressway has been a reality for some time, long enough for drivers to learn how to drive them, 40 per cent of the expressway accidents are rear-end collisions.

Accidents on expressways don't happen as often as they do on the older type roads, but when they do, the accidents are usually serious and involve many cars.

The most common type of expressway accident is the rear-end collision. It is caused by drivers who fail to follow at a safe distance — the drivers who are currently being featured by the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police as "Bumper Pushers."

The Bumper Pusher is a driver who is unable to efficiently judge distance and motion in relation to speed.

All drivers share in this deficiency. At low, city street speeds, this deficiency results in a high incidence of property damage accidents. At high, expressway speeds, this deficiency becomes a serious threat to life and limb.

Some of this deficiency on expressways comes from a lack of experience. With the bulk of driving done at relatively low speeds, motorists simply lack the experience in estimating space requirements for passing and other maneuvers on the high-speed expressway.

Another factor is the loss of visual capability at high speed. The greater the speed, the more the driver must concentrate on watching far ahead, consequently decreasing his ability to see what is happening to the side.

A third factor in this deficiency is involved with perception and judgment of distant objects—in determining whether the car ahead for example, is moving ahead, standing still, or even backing up (which is occasionally attempted and seldom succeeds). But the car ahead may stop suddenly—or be moving slower than expected and before the human eye can properly interpret what is actually happening, it may be too late to avoid a collision.

At 70 miles an hour, for example, a car is moving more than 100 feet a second.

Assume this driver is following five car lengths behind the car ahead. The driver ahead flashes his brake light on. From the time the following driver sees the stop light signal until he gets his foot on the brake, assuming he accomplishes this in one second, his car will have eaten up the "following distance" he had left between the two cars. A rear-end collision is almost inevitable.

Yet, five car lengths between cars on a crowded expressway is an exception seldom seen. That's why the accordion-type collision, involving any number of cars is so common on expressways.

That's why police officials of the state are warning drivers to be on the alert for the "Bumper Pusher." He's found everywhere, and is dangerous wherever he's found, but on expressways.

the expressway, he can be "murderer."

That's why driving authorities caution the motorist to watch his following distance, allowing one car length for every ten miles of speed, at least. And when passing a car, the motorist should stay well back because he can come up too fast and with decreasing visibility down the road as a result of getting too close to the car ahead, can swing out and right into a head-on collision. Passing on an expressway presents a similar problem—if the pass is started too close to the car ahead, the passing car may be struck by a faster driver coming up from the rear in the other lane.

Official Michigan Week Advertising Materials Ready for Distribution

For the second successive year, Michigan's proud and cheery robin, the state's official bird, wears his sailor cap as he appears on the thousands of pieces of advertising material prepared for the seventh annual Michigan Week May 15-21.

He's in a different position as he points with pride to Michigan as the great seaway state on the globe of the world. And this year the robin proclaims a new slogan, "Michigan—Your Opportunity," which was suggested by a 15-year-old Lansing newspaper carrier and adopted by the Michigan Week executive board.

Samples of the various pieces of promotional materials, all bearing the emblem and slogan, are in the hands of all Michigan Week county and community chairmen, and before the celebration is over these colorful advertising pieces will be seen everywhere in Michigan and throughout the country.

The materials, all sold at cost by the Michigan Week organization, include posters in three sizes, decals, lapel buttons, window streamers, Michigan product advertising cards, coasters and table place mats.

Douglas Nash, executive secretary of the Mt. Clemens Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of the state promotional materials distribution committee. The advertising pieces may be obtained through county committees or direct from the Michigan Week promotional materials office, c/o Speaker-Hines & Thomas, 315 North Grand Avenue, Lansing.

SHOPS BUILDING at Detroit Edison's Warren Service Center symbolizes the multimillion-dollar rebirth of an obsolete industrial property—the old Lincoln-Mercury manufacturing plant. The Service Center has brought back to life a 50-acre property purchased from Ford Motor Company and located at Warren and Livernois avenues within a few minutes of downtown Detroit. Seven major buildings with more than a million square feet of usable space are being adapted to accommodate various Edison service operations, formerly located in areas scattered throughout Detroit. Consolidation of some 40 warehouse, shop and other groups is moving steadily forward at the Center. Photo looks to the south along Livernois between Fireman and Warren.

From my front porch...
...I watch the world go by

The somewhat alarming word is out that derby hats are coming back! They've been gone from the American scene for so long that two generations have grown up without ever seeing one in, or on, person.
Derbies seem to have originated in England, and the English—who call them "bowlers" for reasons of their own—clung to them through a couple of wars and a depression, through air raids and bombs.
A hardy breed, the English, who pride themselves that nothing—well, practically nothing—fazes them. In London, at least, they wear striped pants and pearl-gray spats, as well as derbies, in their daily rounds. But then, they also carry tightly rolled umbrellas at even the hint of a shower, and sport canes for a stroll in the sun.
In our land, however, not even the hardest dude or dandy has been bold enough to appear in public wearing a derby for a long, long time. They show up once in a while in musical plays of stage or screen, on song and dance men, just as they survived for years on the vaudeville boards. Western movies often depict derbies characters who are up to no good, but a hero in a "hard hat" is almost unknown.

April 21-22-23—Minstrel Show in Auditorium.
April 21—Baseball at Saline at 4 o'clock.
April 22—Track meet at Roosevelt at 4 o'clock. Baseball with Dexter here at 4 o'clock.

Art classes have entered into a unit of ceramics and one of sculpture.

Half the class is working in each project. Mr. Hummel has given lectures on the processes of working in ceramics and the use of the kiln and other ceramic materials. The classes are enjoying this unit very much, as well as the unit on sculpture, where figures of people, animals and birds are being formed.

The Junior High Camera club has been meeting with Mr. Prinzing at the Junior High school. In this short time they have learned many things about the camera, film, and how to take pictures and develop the film.

During March the group worked on the procedure of developing film. The equipment and steps were stressed. The next meeting will discuss the chemicals used to develop film and the procedure of printing pictures, stressing equipment needed.

Seventh grade is recovering slowly from report cards. Second semester is considerably harder than the first semester. In science they have been discussing human systems and the composition of the blood.

Math is currently concerned with percentage and story problems. History has ranged over Europe, Asia, and Africa. Filling in blank maps of the United States made everyone realize that they knew very little of the country in which they live. English has been a combination of grammar and literature.

Eighth grade English classes are all practicing the plays (sociodramas?) which they are preparing for class. They are also doing oral reports that are being put on tape. Math sections are working on insurance and cubic content problems. Science sections are working on a section called The Living World dealing with biological aspects of our world. It is a very interesting section. History classes are working on the development and various attempted solutions to the farm problem, having just completed a unit on the growth of business and industry.

Freshmen recently voted to reduce their class dues from $10 to $5. People who have paid the full amount may have a refund.

Seniors have been concerned with raising the money to pay for their announcements. Last order day was Maundy Thursday. At the class meeting, April 14, much discussion preceded the vote to accept the banquet and the mystery trip on prom night.

The date of Senior skip day was settled for May, and announcements were made of the Alumni Banquet.

The question of where to hold Baccalaureate, class night, and commencement was discussed. No decision was reached.

Benefit Tennis Match To Help Diabetic Group

Bill Talbert and Barry MacKay will be featured in a benefit tennis match to be held Tuesday, April 26, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium at Ann Arbor High school.

The match is sponsored by the Ann Arbor Diabetic Association with proceeds designated for diabetes research at the University Research Center in Ann Arbor. Of particular interest in connection with sponsorship of the affair is the fact that Talbert, himself, is a diabetic. He not only has proved himself a champion on the tennis courts of which he was world-famous U. S. Davis Cup tennis champion and former captain of the Davis Cup team, but he has also demonstrated masterful management of diabetes for over 26 years. MacKay was Michigan's 1957 National Collegiate champion.

There are many diabetics here in Chelsea who through insulin and oral medication and by heeding diet regulations are leading active, normal lives, as a result of research such as that of the U. of M. Research Center.

Lawrence Riemschneider is Chelsea chairman for the Diabetic Association.

Thinclads Down Pinckney, Lose in Three-Way Meet

The Chelsea High Track team held their first meet in years at home and downed the Pinckney Pirates, 65-44. The Bulldogs took first place in 10 of the 13 events.

Junior Dan Sexton was a triple winner for the Bulldogs as he won the high jump by clearing 5'-8", the broad jump with a leap of 19 ft. 1 1/2" and the 440-yd. dash in 58.8 sec. Sexton also ran on the winning half mile relay team to account for 16 1/2 pts.

Dal Ferris was a double winner as he won the 100-yd. dash in 11.0, and the 220-yd. dash in 24.1. Dal also anchored the half mile relay team to account for 11 1/2 points.

Jim Maynard was the other double winner for the Bulldogs as he won the 120-yd. high hurdles in 19.0 and the shot put with a heave of 35 ft. 2 inches.

Picking up individual firsts was Freshman half-miler Don Wilson as he won his event in 2:28.2.

Sophomore Al Schauer added a first in the pole vault with a leap of 7.0 ft.

The final Chelsea first came in the half mile relay composed of Sexton, Don Ousley, Larry Cattell and Ferris.

Chelsea second places were earned by Gary Cattell (pole vault); Maynard's tie for second in high jump and David Fraser in the half mile. Third-place winners for Chelsea were Larry Cattell (100; 220, and broad jump); Pete Flintoff (shot put and mile run), Stan Hand (440), and Maynard (low hurdles).

Pinckney firsts went to their medley relay team; Paul Russell and Karl Burg tie for first in the low hurdles and miler Gordon Hoyt.

The Bulldogs were without the services of hurdler Dave McLaughlin who suffered a hairline fracture in his heel while weight lifting on Monday.

The Bulldogs' next meet is today (Thursday) at the local track with Grass Lake. On Tuesday of next week they travel to Ypsilanti to meet Roosevelt.

Lake Mapping Helps Provide Better Fishing

Lansing—An important building-block to research and, hence, fisheries management in Michigan is the Conservation Department's inventory of public waters, primarily lakes.

Simply stated, this entails probing for information and methods which will increase the productivity of waters just as scientific agricultural practices are employed to increase yields of food and fiber on land.

Lake mapping, an operation which begins in the winter, is the basic tool in the inventory phase. Bottom contours, lake outlines and depths and such "shore line" features as inlets, outlets and channels are charted on field maps by surveying crews from the Department.

From the field maps, draftsmen prepare master copies which guide surveying parties in their biological inventories of the same lakes during the summer.

These master copies tell where chemical tests, seining, vegetation sampling, water temperature gauging and other studies should be made to measure fish populations and the carrying capacity of lakes.

When all data from the winter and summer surveys have been compiled and analyzed, a report is prepared containing recommendations to improve fishing in each lake.

Master maps are also printed and made available to the public. Canoe camps, boat launching sites, public access sites and other items of interest are often included on maps, especially those of small lakes.

Michigan is a forerunner in carrying out this systematic program of lake surveying. Approximately 2,500 lakes have been mapped since 1930.

Although the tempo of winter lake mapping has been reduced somewhat in recent years because the majority of larger, extensively-used public lakes have been surveyed, the operation continues to play an important part in research—the stairstep to better fishing.

SUGAR QUOTA BILL

There have been indications the Administration is prepared to compromise on its request to Congress for Presidential standing power to cut Cuba's quota of United States sugar market. The Administration's sugar has been sent to Congress to extend the United States Sugar Act for four years beyond the expiration date, Dec. 31, 1960.
