Bulldogs Win From U. High Tuesday

Travel to Manchester Friday for Encounter With Flying Dutchmen

Following into Tuesday's game both U. High Cubs and the Chelsea Bulldogs had 6-3 conference records. Both had four seniors in the starting line-up, and both schools were in the second-place conference for valuable points toward playoffs trophy.

The first quarter of play was unusual. The Bulldogs outscored the Cubs 14-11, but all U. High points were scored by big Steve Stevens, the Cubs fine 6'4" center.

In the second period U. High scored nearly half of their total points for the game as they outscored the Bulldogs 25-18, and went into the intermission with a 36-32 lead.

In the third period the Bulldogs scored their full-court press rolling along with fine rebounding, scored the Cubs 20-12, and held 32-44 lead going into the final quarter.

After trading basket for basket during the first four minutes of the fourth period, the Bulldogs went into a control type offense which forced the Cubs to come out and play aggressively on defense.

In turn gave the Bulldogs opportunities for some easy baskets, and increased their lead from four points, which was the final margin of victory, 66-57.

The victory was truly a team effort, and a sweet one. Homer Nixon again led the scoring with 12 points, but got plenty of support from Mike Marsh who scored 10, Alton Nixon who had 12, Daryl Meier with 11, and Dave McLaughlin with 6.

Excellent performances were given by Dave McLaughlin and Daryl Meier, who played nearly the entire second half with four personal fouls. This is especially difficult since they were playing in the tough front line of the full-court press.

Last Friday's game at Pinckney was another fine team effort, and resulted in a 68-56 Chelsea victory. Using a full-court press to full advantage on the limited Pinckney Bulldogs broke into a 10-0 first period lead, and increased it to 33-22 by halftime.

The third quarter the Bulldogs played smart pressure and outscored the Pinckney 20-14, to lead at the three-quarter mark, 52-36. The game was out of control. Chelsea was in the fourth quarter, 20-6, and out their defeat margin to 12 points, 68-56.

The scoring was again balanced by Dave McLaughlin and Daryl Meier showing the way with 14 points each, followed by Homer Nixon with 12, Mike Marsh with 10, Alton Nixon, Ed Layton, 5, Jerry Catell, Don Sexton, and Charles Koenig had 2 points each.

The Junior Varsity won Nos. 10 and 11, by very handily defeating Pinckney, 65-47, and U. High, 46-31. This is a team of fine young players, not very big, but with plenty of desire and the knowledge of what to do. The scoring is usually balanced, with various boys.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Starts Friday

Chelsea Girl Scouts have completed plans for their annual cookie sale which begins tomorrow. The girls take orders for the cookies through March 11, explaining that the cookies will be delivered the week of April 12.

Proceeds of the cookie sales are the principal means by which money was raised for the recent purchase of the Girl Scout camp near Howell. Seven cents of the proceeds of each pound of cookies sold by the girls is earmarked for campsite funds.

Chelsea Girl Scouts are making a more than usual effort in the cookie sale this year as a means of expressing appreciation for the newly-acquired campsite made available for them.

In addition to the cream sandwich and mint cookies which the Girl Scouts have sold for a number of years, another variety has been added this year—a peanut butter wafer.

Purchase price of any of the cookies is 40 cents per pound. Of this amount, 20% cents is the cost price; one cent is the cost of sales; 15 cents is set aside for future "round-up" expenses; 25 cents for campships; 25 cents for a contingency fund; 7 cents for campsite and 5 cents for the local troop.

Girl Scouts and Brownies are directed by leaders to call only on personal friends and relatives and close neighbors to take orders for the cookies.

Mrs. P. E. Sharrard is 1961 cookie sale chairman for the Chelsea Neighborhood.

Assisting with the sale will be the following sub-committee chairmen: Mrs. Warren Eisenbeiser, Troop 71; Mrs. Wilbur Worden, Troop 77; Mrs. Ray Johnson, Troop 48; Mrs. David Strietor, Troop 46; Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons, Troop 49.

The list continues with Mrs. Addison Hammon, Troop 50; Mrs. John Steele, Troop 9; Mrs. Carl Reynolds, Troop 51; Mrs. Richard Kern, Troop 52; and Mrs. J. R. Seitz, Troop 58.

Other Washtenaw county pairings are Ann Arbor-Iron Mountain; Ypsilanti-Benzonia; Milan-Rogers City; and Saline-Bloomfield Hills.

Stockbridge is to exchange officials with Scottville, while Grass Lake will exchange with Chesaning.

The Rev. Allan W. Reed, vicar of St. Barnabas Episcopal church, is listed among the 308 midyear graduate students who received master's degrees at the University of Michigan. He was awarded a master of arts degree.

Merle Barr Given Legion's Meritorious Service Award

Merle Barr, Sr., was presented with a Meritorious Service citation by Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, American Legion, at a county-wide citizenship citation and past commanders banquet at the Ann Arbor Legion Home Saturday evening.

Barr was cited for his work in connection with American Legion school awards given annually to a boy and girl of the junior class at Chelsea High school for outstanding leadership, character and scholarship, the citation mentioning his almost 20-years of leadership in this program.

In addition to making most of the presentations personally on behalf of Legion Post No. 31, he was largely responsible for preparation of plaques listing the recipients of the school awards; the past 22 years, the plaques being presented to Chelsea High school.

The presentation Saturday was made by William K. Blaess, commander of Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31.

Principal speaker at the banquet was Washtenaw Circuit Judge James R. Breakey, Jr. He stressed the need for greater personal patriotism in the United States.

Those from Chelsea who attended the banquet are Mr. and Mrs. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Blaess and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Boylan.

Chelsea has every right to be proud of the representation it received from members of the instrumental department of the local schools.

Band members participated last Saturday in the District XII-Sentinel Ensemble Festival which was held in Ypsilanti and came home with high honors. Ten events were entered in the festival, and of these, six were first division winners and four were awarded second division ratings.

Twenty-six judges rated 1,525 events. First division ratings mean superior performance, second division means excellent, and a third division rating means a good performance.

Chelsea musicians taking part in the proceedings and the ratings earned are as follows: brass quartet—Barry Visel, Tom Johnson, Dick Lauhon, Dave Frisinger, first division; clarinet duet—Kathy White and Christine Tasew, first division; flute solo—Cheryl Lauhon, first division; brass quartet—Ed Lauhon, Eric Knisely, Wendy Gilbert, Rose Zahn, first division; flute duet—Cheryl Lauhon, Beverly Windell, first division; cornet solo—Gordon Beeman, first division.

The list continues with flute quartet—Cindy Schumm, Susie Holmes, Sandra Johnson, Carolyn Wilkinson, second division; clarinet solo—Barbara Bernth, second division; clarinet solo—Kathy White, second division; French horn solo—Wendy Gilbert, second division.

Accompanists for the occasion were Wendy Gilbert, Sherry Frisinger and Mrs. Wilbur Beeman. Wally Grossman drove the bus.

Several Chelsea people also made the trip to Ypsilanti to lend moral support which "was much appreciated on the rainy day which ended so happily," David Lindsay, instrumental music director of Chelsea schools said.

William G. Kolb, life-long Chelsea resident active in community and business circles, died late Tuesday afternoon at his home, 133 East Summit St. He had been ill since September of last year, when he was taken to St. Joseph hospital after suffering a heart attack at Anderson's Department store where he was employed. EIGHTH BIRTHDAY FOR TRIPLETS—Steve, Molly and Pat Foster, Chelsea's only triplets, celebrated their eighth birthday at South Elementary school Friday afternoon. (Their birthday was Saturday). Their mother brought treats of ice cream cups and all-day suckers for each of the first grade children at the school. Molly is in Mrs. Stob's first grade section and her brothers are in Mrs. Little's class. The thrill of sharing their birthday celebration with their classmates, together with the surprise of having their picture taken, made their eighth birthday a very happy one. The triplets are the youngest of a family of seven children. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Foster, 431 West Middle St. The triplets and their parents and other members of the family recently enjoyed a vacation stay at Acapulco, Mexico, and the tan acquired there by the youngsters is still quite evident. Other members of their family are Michael, Diann, Scott and Kathy. The triplets full names are Stephen George, Molly Maureen and Patrick Craig.

Wizard of Menlo Park Elected to Hall of Fame for Great Americans

A milestone for which 1960 will be remembered is the election of the late Thomas Alva Edison to the Hall of Fame for Great Americans—that world-famous national shrine that commands the summit of the New York University campus, overlooking the Hudson and Harlem rivers.

Two other distinguished Americans, Henry David Thoreau, naturalist and philosopher, and Edward MacDowell, composer, were chosen with Mr. Edison for this honor—out of a field of 242 nominees. And since this was, indeed, an election—for which the "Wizard of Menlo Park" became eligible in 1960, since candidates must have been dead 25 years or more and elections are held only on years ending in 0 and 5—the score should be noted. Mr. Edison received 108 out of a possible 142 votes, Mr. Thoreau 83 and Mr. MacDowell 72.

Thus Thomas Alva Edison, the eighth inventor to be so honored, takes his place among such American immortals as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin, Robert E. Lee, Robert Fulton, Alexander Graham Bell, Wilbur Wright, Stephen Foster, Daniel Boone and 77 others who have made outstanding contributions to their country.

Unlike the seven other inventors with whom he now shares a special Elysian subdivision, however, Edison has long occupied a special niche of his own in the regard of his countrymen. The late Charles F. Kettering, himself an inventor to whom we are considerably indebted, said it: "Every citizen is as much a beneficiary of Mr. Edison as if he had mentioned him in his will. The comparatively small sum of money he may have received for his inventiveness is microscopic in comparison with the public's benefit—yours and mine."

But even Kettering didn't say it all. Edison's greatest single legacy to us all, despite his 1,097 patents, may well have been the example of planned research as the surest—and fastest—route to technological solutions, a legacy which he left in the keeping of Max McGraw and the company they founded to project this Edisonian principle into the future. Thus, posthumously, the man "who lit up the world with the electric light in 1879" helped to create the pop-up toaster, a new automatic telephone dialer and instruments that help to guide our fastest jets and ultramodern missiles.

Today, the original laboratory in which Edison wrought so many of the scientific components on which the modern world has been erected, has proliferated into a chain of Thomas A. Edison Laboratories operated across the nation by the McGraw-Edison Company. And, even more significantly, the torch of planned research that passed from the hands of the great inventor, now lights the way for all who are engaged in pressing back our technological frontiers.

THE WEIGHT LIFTER

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

The complicated problems surrounding elections in Michigan are getting a close look from the Elections Division of the Secretary of State's office.

It's not a question of honesty, just procedure. Robert M. Montgomery, the former state legislator who directs the Elections Division, says every city, village, township and county in the state will be checked before the inquiry is finished.

He says the job may take two years, or it may take three, but the idea is to look over the procedures used by the various units. The study got underway shortly after the election of Nov. 8, 1960. Montgomery's division is the only state agency which has any administrative supervision over local election officials.

But it also lacks any real power to compel the local authorities to make any changes, except court action in the case of wrongdoing.

Generally, there is no dishonesty among local elections officials and workers, Montgomery says.

And full-time clerks of local units of governments are quick to make sure their operations conform to the election laws, he said.

In the smaller units of government, however, a clerk is often only a part-time worker. The complicated election laws are easily misunderstood and records sometimes go awry.

Training sessions are held and procedures are checked before election times. But considering there are more than 1,500 precincts in the state, there is much room for more training.

Publications from the Elections Division detailing methods of operation and changes in election law are also circulated.

Chief aim of the over-all checking operation that is going on is to get elections authorities off on the right foot and familiarize them with the proper steps to take.

Besides helping the local official do their best at election time, the Elections Division has functions of its own to perform, and also acts as a staff for the Board of State Canvassers.

When elections irregularities do crop up, either through design or as is more often the case, through simple mistakes, Montgomery's division investigates and takes steps to correct them.

Commercial exploitation of state-owned recreational land creates questions that will mount and multiply as Michigan's economy grows and diversifies.

On the one side are those who say woods and waters should be conserved to the utmost for pure enjoyment.

On the other side are the proponents of growth, some of them selfish and others seeking help for the state economy, who insist that a regulated program of mineral and timber use on public lands will have no ill effects.

Like most public questions this one is far more gray than black or white.

Extreme viewpoints exist on both sides. There is sentiment in some places that any oil-drilling, iron-mining or timber-cutting is nothing more than a rape of the wilderness.

There is also feeling among some that refusal to permit reasonable exploitation is blind adherence to the status quo and a total disregard of economic health.

State agencies, chiefly the Conservation Department, are caught in the middle of the battle because they must decide when, where and how any commercial operation on state lands will take place.

The "reasonable use" policy has long been followed in decisions by state officials.

But determining just what is "reasonable use," particularly when subjected to barrages of argument from various quarters with opposing interests, is a problem that can only become tougher as the population, economy and pressure of business increase and become more complex.

The happy medium between conservationists and the tourist industry on one side and business and industry on the other is a shifting and elusive goal.

Michigan's northern peninsula remains accessible and crossable despite the annual spring havoc of roads breaking up.

The Highway Department says "frost free" highways now "link nearly every major city in the Upper Peninsula. The announcement is of chief interest to truckers, of course, because it means there are no spring load restrictions on the "frost free" system except in rare cases of extreme weather.

Highway officials say millions of dollars are saved annually because trucks can travel fully loaded throughout the year.

A total of about 750 miles of the nearly 2,000 miles of state highway in the Upper Peninsula now have the "frost free" designation, officials say.

Improved trucking facilities mean a better and often cheaper life for northern Michigan residents, the Highway Department says.

State Property Taxes Increased $64½ Million

While the people were arguing about a four-cent sales tax a few months ago, the state government quietly effected an increase of $64,500,000 in their property taxes.

The action was a solid blow to the stomach for Michigan's oppressed industries at a time when the Democratic administration finally had promised to do something to keep business in the state.

It was another weight added to the load being carried by staggered home-owners.

Yet there has been no loud wailing or rebellious anger by the taxpayers.

That's because no Lansing writer (until this appears) has told about the latest tragic consequence of the administration's determination to keep grabbing more and more money on the theory that heavy taxation redistributes the wealth.

It took a 10-month fight by Republican legislators to give the people the right to vote on the question of the one-cent increase in the sales tax.

Republican Senators held the bridge against reckless pressure for a solid year before former Gov. William A. Cavanaugh's fight for an income tax.

These battles were page one news month after month.

Yet the government raised property taxes by $64,500,000 while most backs were turned—and got away with it.

One official who was alert to the plot, and protested in vain, was State Senator John P. (Joe) Smeekens, (R) of Coldwater. When Smeekens warned the legislature last May that the administration was preparing to deal a fatal blow to home-owners and industry, the State Tax Commission refused his charge with beguiling innocence.

The official returns popped out of the IBM machines last week. As Senator Smeekens predicted, property taxes jumped $64,500,000 in 1960, compared to 1959, as a result of compulsion by the Democratic state administration.

The total of all property levies went from $785,049,000 in 1959 to $851,179,000 in 1960.

When Gov. Williams first took office, property taxes totaled only $29,417,000.

Since 1950, Michigan's population went up 22 per cent. Price indexes increased by about 60 per cent.

Yet property taxes jumped more than 250 per cent!

The 1960 gauge was possible because the Democratic-controlled State Supreme Court has automatic power to the Democratic-controlled State Tax Commission.

When local assessors placed a value of $16,829,000 on property last year, the State Commission promptly raised this figure to $24,870,000.

All but the smaller counties protested to the State Board of Equalization. And who makes up the State Board of Equalization?

Why, the three state tax commissioners plus two members who are appointed by the Governor. The three commissioners who make the assessments are a majority of the five members of the court of appeals.

The result followed the pattern of all dictatorial procedures. Assessments were not decreased by even one dollar in any county. Under the Supreme Court ruling, school tax rates cannot be lowered.

When property assessments are increased by the state, consequently very few townships and no cut their rates either. The average property tax in 1960 was 34.22, which is highest in history except for when the average rate was 34.22. Senator Smeekens is preparing a program to relieve both the home-owners. Maybe this the money-grabbing trend reversed.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I think the various states is going to have to revise their standards for getting a driver's license. In most states they make a fellow take a eye test, and in some states they even make him take a mental test.

It ain't worked out so good, as you can see by counting the dead and wounded on our highways. Everybody laughed here a few years ago when the Traffic Institute of some University came out with an announcement that a two-year study showed the best automobile drivers was morons with a mental age of 15 and who couldn't see none too good. They said their study showed that this type driver, not having much mind to start with, had to keep what little he had concentrated on what he was doing. A smart feller would give a certain amount of thought to his driving, a certain amount to the gal on the corner with the wind blowing her skirts, and a certain amount to the conversation going on in the back seat. But the moron puts his whole soul into his driving. And having you oversight, he can't see all the will-bone advertising hamburgers, so he just don't bother to look no place except where he's driving.

I saw a monkey riding a motorcycle on television the other night. Some how or other, the more I looked at it the less I was impressed at the highways is full of monkeys driving automobiles. You'll often see some eagle-eyed feller, maybe a college graduate, driving his car down the road about 70 miles a hour, dodging in and out of traffic, with his left hand and arm swung up on the roof of the car, just like a monkey swinging from a limb.

No, I wouldn't be surprised, Mister Editor, if we don't need to take a new look at our requirements for getting a driver's license.

And I see by the papers where a tax expert says 75 per cent of the money spent on tobacco and liquor goes to the Government in direct and indirect taxes. I reckon a feller that just has to smoke and drink can get some satisfaction out of that fact. Uncle Sam distributes our tax money all over the world. Cigarette and liquor money sends wheat to India, clothes to boys in Africa who up to now has been happy without any, and butter to countries that never seen it before. Yeh, I reckon if a feller wanted to, he could almost make a marter of himself for smoking and drinking.

And a column writer says farmers and ranchers do 87 per cent of all the complaining in this country. I figure there ain't nothing wrong with that. Farmers and ranchers is the most overworked and underjoyed folks in the nation.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Co-Operative Nursery Open House Set

The annual open house of the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery is being held Sunday, Feb. 26, from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m., at the former Beach school, 11000 Chelsea-Dexter Rd.

Children now enrolled in the nursery school will assist their parents acting as hosts and hostesses to visiting children.

A brief outline of the background history of the nursery school project here states that the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery was organized by a group of interested parents who realized that their children needed a broader world in order to develop their individuality during their early formative years. The children of the 18 charter members held their first Nursery session on Sept. 3, 1957, on the third floor of the Chelsea Municipal Building with Mrs. Raymond Schaiter as their teacher.

In the summer of 1958 the Nursery moved to its present location in the Beach School. The mothers and fathers of the group renovated the building to meet the licensing standards of the State of Michigan, the State Fire Marshal, and the Washtenaw County Board of Health. Mrs. Raymond Schaiter has continued as the teacher and is now in charge for both morning and afternoon sessions. Formerly, only morning sessions were held. Mothers assist the teacher on a rotating basis, about one a month, and take turns driving in the car pool. Fathers repair the equipment and maintain the building. Both parents find a special common bond with their child in sharing a nursery school day.

Nursery school does not take the place of home but supplements it. The child has opportunities to play with their children in his own age group; to practice independence in leaving home; to play with material and equipment not always available at home; to learn respect for others and for equipment and toys which he uses; to experience association with interested adults other than his parents; and have contact with a qualified teacher.

Nursery school does not enter into kindergarten curriculum, but it does prepare a child for that first big step of independence—public school. He has learned to leave home without tears, to accept authority from a teacher, and he is ready to adjust to the routine of kindergarten.

A special invitation is extended by the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery to all interested people of the Chelsea-Dexter community, to attend Sunday's open house, visit with the teacher and nursery school parents and see the facilities available for pre-school children of the area.

BLUE AND GOLD DINNER—This is one of the dozens of tables at which Cub Scouts and members of their families were seated for the Blue and Gold Dinner Thursday evening in the cafeteria at Chelsea High school. Approximately 400 reservations were made for the annual affair of Cub Pack No. 125. Cakes on the table were decorated to represent an Indian chief, complete with feather headdress; also, an eagle, signifying the Eagle rank which all Scouts hope some day to achieve. In the photo, from left, clockwise, are Ted Ewald, whose mother, Mrs. Dan Ewald, baked the "eagle" cake; his sisters, Carol and Martha; Tommy Gardner; Den III Den Mother Mrs. Russell Gardner who baked and decorated the Indian cake; Ralph Frisch, Jr.; Leslie Leggett; and Carson and Andrew Soule, standing at each side of their father, David Soule.

Meeting on Alcoholism To Be Held Thursday

Dr. Melvin L. Selzer, instructor in psychiatry at the University of Michigan Medical School, and author of several articles dealing with alcoholism, will speak on the topic "Automobile Accidents and the Alcoholic Personality" at the February meeting of the Washtenaw County Committee on Alcoholism. The meeting is scheduled for a noon luncheon Thursday, Feb. 23, in Conference Room No. 2, at the Michigan League, Ann Arbor.

Dr. Selzer is currently doing research in the area to be dealt with in his talk which is based on an article published in the Michigan State Bar Journal in November 1960.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Basketball Win...

Names of the first five are Curt Farley, Dudley Holmes, Jack Howard, Robert Riemenschneider, and Don Wilson. All except Curt Farley are sophomores. Curt is a freshman.

Tomorrow evening the Bulldogs will be going south, all the way to Manchester, for the return bout with the Flying Dutchmen. The Dutchmen have a record of 6 wins and 5 losses in the conference; but this does not tell the true story of their ability. They recently upset U. High, have come very close to Saline on two occasions and caused the Bulldogs to play one of their poorest games of the season. The Dutchmen will be sky-high for the Bulldogs, and plenty of excitement is in store.

Next Friday the league champions, the Saline Hornets will be in town for the final game of the regular season.

Mrs. Negrelli will also discuss the anatomy and the physiology of pregnancy and then will open the class to discussion and questions from the group assembled. This new series of classes will meet each Thursday night in the County Building for the next seven weeks.

Offering Tripled at World Day of Prayer Service Here

Approximately 125 women attended the community World Day of Prayer service Friday afternoon. While that number did not reach the goal of "double the attendance" of last year as a special observance of the 75th anniversary of World Day of Prayer, the offering received was $116, three times as much as last year's offering. The offering goal also was "double" that of last year.

In keeping with efforts of the planning committee to strive for simplicity of setting for the service, a most impressive effect was achieved by means of a lighted world globe and a number of flags of various countries, signifying world-wide participation.

Mrs. Ben Donaldson of Cavanaugh Lake, who is a past president of United Church Women of Michigan, was the speaker at the service. She gave a brief history of the World Day of Prayer, tracing its growth from the first service in 1886 to the present time when church women, working together on an interdenominational basis, make possible enlarged opportunities for Christian service such as those planned particularly this year in Africa and Alaska.

In Africa, a massive literature program is being promoted as one of the special projects of the 75th anniversary year.

Home and foreign missions of the National Council of Churches benefit greatly from offerings received at the annual prayer services, providing extensive educational, medical and religious work around the entire world.

Theme of the service was "Forward Through the Ages." In addition to Mrs. Donaldson, those who participated in the service here Friday are Mrs. John Hale of the Congregational church; Mrs. Alan Conklin and Mrs. Jack Pfeiffer of the Methodist church; Mrs. Raymond Johnson of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church; and Mrs. Arthur Lindauer of St. Barnabas Episcopal church.

Congregational church women were the hostess group for this year's observance of the World Day of Prayer and a committee of six greeted guests as they arrived for the tea which preceded the 2 p.m. service. In the group were Mrs. R. A. McLaughlin, Mrs. Robert Wagner, Mrs. Dudley Holmes, Mrs. Paul Mann, Mrs. Lee Ferguson and Mrs. David Beatty.

Ushers were Mrs. P. E. Sharrard, Mrs. Walter Wolfgang, Mrs.

George Frisinger and Mrs. Wal Impola.

Mrs. Howard Bond served as ganist.

Asked to pour at the tea were Mrs. Ian Reed, wife of the vicar of Barnabas Episcopal church; Mrs. George P. Stanford, wife of the Rev. Stanford, chaplain at Methodist Home.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the tea include Mrs. Clarence Vogel, Mrs. E. Musbach and Mrs. Paul Maron.

The general committee for year's service here included Mrs. LeRoy Satterthwaite and Mrs. Henry K. Arner of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church; Mrs. Judson Goltz and Mrs. MacDougall of St. Barnabas Episcopal church; Mrs. Benjamin B. and Mrs. Eldon Gorton of Methodist church; and Mrs. Frank Belser and Mrs. G. Sprague of the Congregational church.

She will buy a new Maytag before her mother needs another

This is a strong statement but the facts back it up. We have hundreds of three-generation Maytag families on record where the original machine (grandmother's) is 30 to 40 years old and still working.

Did we hear you say, "That's all very well, but everybody knows that nobody builds things to last the way they used to?" We don't know about everybody, but we do know about Maytag!

Many Residents Able to Identify Farm as Mrs. Feldkamp Home

Mrs. Ezra Feldkamp is the owner of the farm which appeared in the Feb. 18 issue of The Standard as "Mystery Farm No. 138." She has lived there most of her life, having moved there with her husband in 1900. She was born on the farm in a house farther from the road where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hashley, lived before moving to the log house which was later replaced by the present home.

Mrs. Feldkamp's parents were Charles and Adell Rothfuss Hashley. Mrs. Hashley continued to make her home on the farm with the Ezra Feldkamps following Mr. Hashley's death, Aug. 24, 1937. Following her death the Feldkamps became the owners in 1945, purchasing Mrs. Feldkamp's brother's share in the estate. The brother was the late Herman Hashley.

Mrs. Feldkamp is the former Martha Hashley. Her husband, Ezra, died June 29, 1958. Their family included a daughter, Margaret, now Mrs. Homer Kuhl, and a son, Norman, who operates the home farm for his mother in addition to the Henry Everett farm where he and his family live, on Chelsea-Manchester Rd.

The Feldkamp farm is approximately 93 acres in size. Feeder cattle and general crops are the principal farming program.

Early records of ownership of the Feldkamp farm date back to Aug. 10, 1837 when John Maxon procured the land in the southwest quarter of section 11 of Sharon township from the United States Government.

Other owners through the years included: Stratford Maxon, 1844; Lyman Tallman, 1853; John Cowin, 1859; Lovell D. Loomis, 1864; Mary E. Clark, 1865; Mary Clark Lewis and husband, E. H., 1870; Heman D. Crocker and Ashley Colvin, 1877; Casper Winter (a great-uncle of Mrs. Feldkamp) and his wife Albertina Rothfuss Winter, later in 1877.

Owners of other parcels which are a part of the acreage included John Letts (no date) who secured land from the U. S. Government prior to 1838 and William McClelland whose deed from the U. S. Government was dated July 5, 1853, and signed by President Franklin Pierce.

Others listed are C. Kingsley, 1853; William Smith, James Davidson and James Kingsley, all for brief periods in 1938; Goodrich Conklin, 1854; Thomas and John Kirkby, 1855; Charles Kendall, 1862; Cornelius Kendall, 1866; and Jacob Rothfuss, grandfather of Mrs. Feldkamp, who purchased it in August, 1876.

New '61 Chevy with Jet-smooth ride!

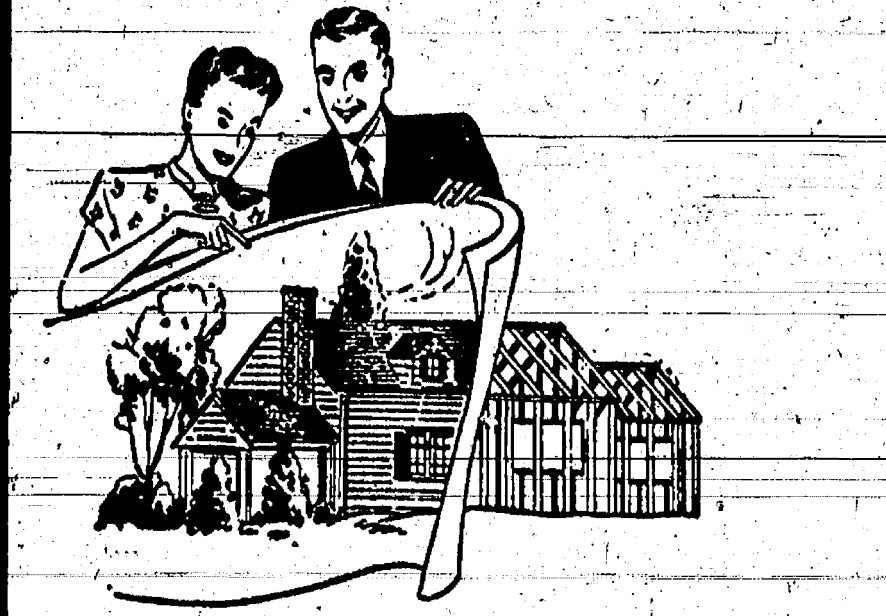

The '61 Chevy loves to go because it goes so well. Purrs along pavements like a happy tabby. Takes rough roads in stride and all roads in style. Just why does a Jet-smooth Chevy treat riders as royally as the high-priced luxury cars? It all came about through a delightful blend of Full Coil suspension, precision-balanced wheels, unique chassis cushioning, and a superb Body by Fisher insulated to hush away road sounds. All this adds up to less sway, less bounce, less dip, less dive, less tilt, less noise, less... well you name it.

Now combine this Jet-smooth ride with conveniences to pamper you and roominess to relax in. Add a full measure of quiet good looks. Voila, you've got Chevy's formula.

And the proof is in the riding. When you sample a Jet-smooth Chevy at your Chevrolet dealer's we think you'll find it just to your taste.

ATHLETIC BOARD—

Mr. Conklin and Mr. Taylor, coaches of football and basketball, respectively, met Wednesday with the Athletic Board to discuss the budget—Due to over-spending during the football season, the Athletic Board is operating on a considerable deficit. At this meeting it was decided that the coaches should submit a revamped budget, cutting out everything possible. However, it was decided that the spring sports should not suffer more than the others. Therefore this deficit will be carried over to next year when all sports will be forced to cut their budgets drastically.

MOVING DAY for St. Barnabas' Episcopal church was almost completed Saturday afternoon when this photo was taken. Volunteer workers of the congregation had been busy all day Saturday in preparation for the first service which took place in the new church building Sunday. Shown at left in the photo is Stuart R. Booker, chairman of the building committee. At right is C. Harold Waller, a member of the building committee. Both men are also on the church's Bishop's Committee. Near the altar is the Rev. Allan Reed, vicar of St. Barnabas, who had donned work clothes for the work day project. With the exception of the beautifully beamed ceiling, the interior is not yet entirely finished; however, members of the congregation are happy to be able to hold worship services in their own sanctuary after holding services for several years in the former Red School building on the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds west of the new building. Sunday's first service in the new building included the confirmation of five young people by Suffragan Bishop Robert L. DeWitt. The confirmation class included Thomas Bowling, Christina Lindauer, Robert MacDougall, William McFall and Catherine Taylor.
