North and South Elmenor schools are holding "family" next Monday, Apr. 10, from 7:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. Parents are invited to visit the school with their children to see the classrooms and meet the teachers.

At Chelsea High school, the annual open house program is scheduled for Wednesday, Apr. 12, at 7:30 p.m., in the Industrial Arts building.

All equipment in the various departments will be in operation for the students.

Parents of the students are especially invited to be present, as well as anyone interested in seeing the department of the high school.

Cancer Fund Opens Drive For Funds

Donald Bacon, has been named Chelsea chairman for the 1961 Cancer Crusade.

His appointment was announced last week by Loren W. Campbell, Kalamazoo county chairman for the drive.

A county-wide goal of $30,000 has been set for the campaign. Work will begin next week and continue through the month of May.

Other members of the Chelsea campaign committee are Mrs. John Dymally, organizational chairman; Mrs. Raymond Johnson, assistant chairman; Mrs. John Myers, mail chairman; Mrs. Carl Elkins, "area-life" breakfast chairman.

Two Youths Injured

Larry Koch, 17, and his step-brother, Jack Owens, 15, of 61 N. Center Rd., were injured and hospitalized when their car was demolished when the vehicle ran out of control on a road before 8 p.m. Sunday.

The youths suffered severe face and head injuries. Koch was treated at St. Mary's hospital, Ann Arbor.

World Economic Plight Discussed At Kiwanis Meet

Guest speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening was George A. Nicholson, Jr., widely known as the founder, in 1951, of the National Association of Investment Clubs and, in 1959, of the World Federation of Investment Clubs. Nicholson is a partner in the firm of Smith Hague and Co. of Ann Arbor.

His talk at the meeting here centered on the world economic situation.

Program chairman for the meeting was E. W. Eaton.

Guests at the meeting, held in the social center of the Methodist church, were Clarence Rodd of Mason, Allen Warren of DeWitt and Richard Penhalligon.

Announcement was made of the Kiwanis spring divisional meeting to be held at Belleville, Apr. 12 from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m.

House Tour Plans Are Complete

Mrs. William Chandler announced this week that plans for the 1961 Chelsea House Tour are complete. Mrs. Chandler is chairman of the project, sponsored by the Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery.

Five outstanding homes in the Chelsea area have been chosen for this year's tour. These homes include those of Merle Barr, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heydlauff, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Donaldson, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jones.

Tickets are now available from any Nursery member and at Winans Jewelry Store. They also may be purchased at each of the homes visited during the day of the tour.

Purchasers of tickets will receive a brochure describing each home and a detailed map showing its location.

Hostesses will greet the visitors at each of the homes.

Mrs. Chandler reports that others in surrounding communities have expressed an interest in this year's house tour.

BURNING PERMIT—Scenes similar to the one above were repeated many times the past week as numerous area residents applied for burning permits before starting outdoor fires to burn off grass and brush. Fire Chief Ted Balmer was issuing a permit to Mrs. Charles Powers of 11340 Chelsea-Dexter Rd., when the photographer stopped at Balmer's office Saturday afternoon. The weekend was a comparatively quiet one for the Chelsea Fire Department following Friday night's light snowfall; however, several runs were made Thursday and Friday because of grass fires. Chief Balmer emphasizes the importance of obtaining a permit since burning grass, trash or brush outside of city limits and when the ground is not snow-covered without first obtaining such permit—otherwise allowing a fire to spread out of control—is contrary to Act 143 P.A. 1923. Upon conviction, those guilty may be assessed a fine up to $100 and costs of prosecution, or imprisonment for 90 days or both such fine and imprisonment.

Camp Crile Officials Commends Jaycee Auxiliary

The Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary, an organization of young women whose husbands are members of the Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce, was commended this week by officials of the Michigan Society for Epileptic Children for "valuable volunteer service rendered" on behalf of the children with which the Epileptic Children's Society concerns itself.

Elden R. Heller, who is the Society's state president, acting on behalf of the state group as well as "for the children of Camp Crile," presented a letter of appreciation to the Jaycee Auxiliary president, Mrs. Elton Guenther, thanking the young women for the assistance they freely offered.

The Jaycee Auxiliary had contacted Heller during the past winter with an offer to do something for the camping program for epileptic children, the group's community service project.

Heller told Auxiliary members in his letter of appreciation that the "children of Camp Crile are deserving of this help and in their own way express love for all the fine people who so graciously offer their help."

Heller explained that Camp Crile is operated entirely by means of voluntary contributions and membership dues.

No child is excluded whether his parents or others responsible for him are able to pay the nominal camping fee or not.

The camp, located on a 28-acre site on Joslin Lake Rd., near Gregory, operates for an eight-week period each summer. Any child between the ages of 6 and 14 years who is subject to epileptic seizures, is eligible when recommended by his doctor.

Heller said "The objective, purposes and philosophies of Camp Crile are based on the sincere belief that an epileptic child can be taught to live a normal life despite his handicap—that his experience at the camp will build self-confidence and help both him and his family to a better adjustment to everyday life—that the environment of the camp will engender a new feeling of belonging within the child."

In addition to the excellent care from a physical standpoint, the child receives many benefits unavailable to afflicted children elsewhere. Besides the natural, healthful tonic of good pure air, the understanding attention and adult supervision of child specialists, the friendly companionship of other children of their own age and physical condition, these children enjoy regularly organized baseball, tennis and other outdoor sports.

As an added therapy, classes in arts and crafts are conducted on a regular schedule in the spacious and modern recreation building.

The Michigan Society for Epileptic Children was organized in 1938 by Mrs. J. Frank Crile and a group of dedicated men and women desirous of lending a helping hand to the many children afflicted with epileptic seizures. The Society was incorporated as a non-profit organization in May of the following year. Since its inception, it has given aid to countless youngsters with this dread malady.

In addition to the Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary, two school children, Bill Kuzinski and his sister, Jae, of the North Territorial road neighborhood, also put in many hours helping prepare letters for mailing.

Others cited by Heller as volunteering much helpful assistance with the Camp Crile project include Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reith who live near the camp property. The camp accommodates from 20 to 34 children at each of its two Big "Rubbish Day" pick-up tentatively planned for Monday, May 15. Save all unusual rubbish until that time. Chelsea residents are advised to set out only the customary amount of rubbish for the weekly rubbish pick-up since the contractor is not prepared to handle the extraordinary amounts which are planned for pick-up at the specially designated "Rubbish Day."

"Excellent co-operation" of Chelsea industries noted at the Apr. 4 meeting to discuss the problem of oil deposits in sewers which cause trouble at the sewage disposal plant. Representatives were present from every Chelsea industry. Some industries learned that while they had believed themselves free of the oil problem they were in fact responsible for small leakages of oil reaching the sewer system. Made aware of this by discussion at the Council meeting, all promised that the "matter will be taken care of at once."

Approval of $10,597 contract for excavating on Washington St. which is scheduled for improvement this year.

Announcement that Buchanan and Van Buren streets will receive second coat of blacktop soon and that Washington St. should be ready for a first coat of blacktop in the fall.

Discussion pertaining to sewage treatment plant showed sewage treatment expanded facilities practically completed with the exception of landscaping. The engineers, Linkheimer, Pettis and Stout, have agreed to a plan of periodic inspection in co-operation with men employed at the plant, for the purpose of keeping the facilities in "tip-top shape" and detecting any minor danger signals which might occur in the future.

A minimum of new curb sidewalk work to be done in the village this summer.

It was decided to advertise for bids for police cars for the village.

Total budget for the year approved at $168,135.

Village assessment for the year 1961 increased by approximately $114,000 because of new construction during the past year. Personal property assessment figure—$1,698,100; real property figure—$2,814,100; total, $4,507,200. Millage rate: 12 mills for general fund; 1 mill for library; 3 mills for interest and principal on bond issue.

Note: Official minutes of the Apr. 4 meeting will be published in two weeks after they have been read and approved at the Apr. 18 Council meeting. Residents of the Village are welcome to attend any of the Council meetings which are held the first and third Tuesday of each month in the Council room on the second floor of the Municipal building. Meetings begin at 8 p.m.

Con-Con Proposal Wins Approval Although Opposed by Local Voters

Overwhelming approval of Proposal No. 1 (Con-Con) in the Detroit and Wayne county area overcame the opposition in other parts of the state in Monday's election with the result that 144 delegates will be meeting in Lansing before Oct. 3 to review and revise Michigan's constitution.

Proposal No. 11, providing for industrial financing, was defeated. John R. Dethmers and Harvey F. Kelly won re-election as justices of the Supreme Court on the state ticket, and John C. Mackie defeated his Republican opponent, Charles Bedwell, to win re-election as state highway commissioner.

Other successful state candidates are Lynn Bartlett (D), superintendent of public instruction; Allah Sorensen (D) and Paul Goebel (R), regents of the University of Michigan; C. Allan Harlan (D) and Connor Smith (D), trustees, Michigan State University; and Democrats Dewitt Burton and Ralph Richman, board of governors, Wayne State University.

(Republican Thomas B. Adams was gaining in late tabulations yesterday and some observers were of the opinion final results would gain him the post instead of Richman.)

Maurice Hoffman (D) was re-elected supervisor of Sylvan township for his fourth consecutive term, defeating his Republican opponent, Thomas Burt, by 55 votes, the totals being 454-399.

Richard Kern (R) was re-elected clerk by a vote of 516. The Democratic candidate, Robert Devine, received a total of 335 votes.

Other Sylvan township officials elected are Letha Beach (D), treasurer; Norman Eismann (D), trustee; Frederick Belser (R), justice of the peace; Herman Baskie (D), board of review; John Elson (D) and Carl Heller (R), constables; and Clyde Martin (D), highway commissioner.

The vote for all but supervisor, clerk and treasurer was very close in Sylvan township.

In Sylvan, Proposal No. 1 (Con-Con) was rejected, 311-280, and Proposal No. 2, (Industrial) was rejected 311-258.

Both proposals were also rejected by all other area townships.

Elected in Lima township were Leigh Beach (D), supervisor; Ralph Stoffer (D), clerk; Hilda Pierce (R), treasurer; Walter Wolfgang (R), trustee; Arthur Barth (D), justice of the peace; and Clifford Bradbury (D), board of review.

Lyndon township's elected officials are George Bauer (R), supervisor; Emma Goodwin (R), clerk; Mary Clark (R), treasurer; Scott Freeman (D), trustee; Robert Meyers (R), justice of the peace; Orson Beemall, Sr. (D), board of review; Leslie Eisenbeiser (D), board of review to fill vacancy; Donald Beeman (R), Max Boyce (R), Norman Kaiser (R) and John Otto (R), constables.

Sharon township's elected officials are Russell Fuller (D), supervisor; Howard Haselschwydt (R), clerk; Herbert Jacob (R), treasurer; Donald Irwin (R), trustee; Mahlon Smith (R), justice of the peace; Clyde Gieske (R), board of review.

School Bus Driver Rodeo Set Saturday

Fifty to sixty Michigan school bus drivers will test their skill in the School Bus Driver Rodeo to be held at Ann Arbor High School on Saturday, Apr. 8. The rodeo is sponsored by the Michigan School Bus Driver Education Program which in turn is sponsored by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction.

W. J. Grossman, supervisor of transportation for Chelsea schools, said yesterday that three or four of the Chelsea school bus drivers will participate; however, selection of those who will take part has not yet been made.

Drivers will be tested in proficiency in four areas, including knowledge of the motor vehicle code, personal grooming, operational skills and pre-operational vehicle check procedures. The drive-

Federal Screw Works Starts New Cold Extrusion Division

A 350-ton high-speed Warco impact extrusion press arrived in Chelsea by train last week and was unloaded Monday by Federal Screw Works. The huge machine arrived in Chelsea by rail last week and was unloaded Monday. It will take approximately two months for the involved process of setting up the giant machine—a high speed Warco impact extrusion press capable of exerting a pressure of 350 tons—will be capable of stamping out fully completed automotive parts in one operation after the die is set. This is the sixth and largest of the machines already installed in the new division.

being obtained from coiled wire processed in a series of steps into slugs. From these slugs, fed into special dies in the press, the completed part is punched out in a single blow. The press can be held to close tolerance and high finish so that the majority of the parts manufactured are completed as they leave the press.

William Peterson is the company's cold extrusion division manager and is in charge of the staff of workers who design the tooling and those who are being trained to operate the huge presses and other equipment. Three production operators have now been assigned from among Federal Screw Works employees to work in the new cold extrusion division. Some production has been in progress the past three weeks and another job is being set to begin production this week.

According to present indications, it will take from three to four months to attain full production with 12 people being assigned to the division.

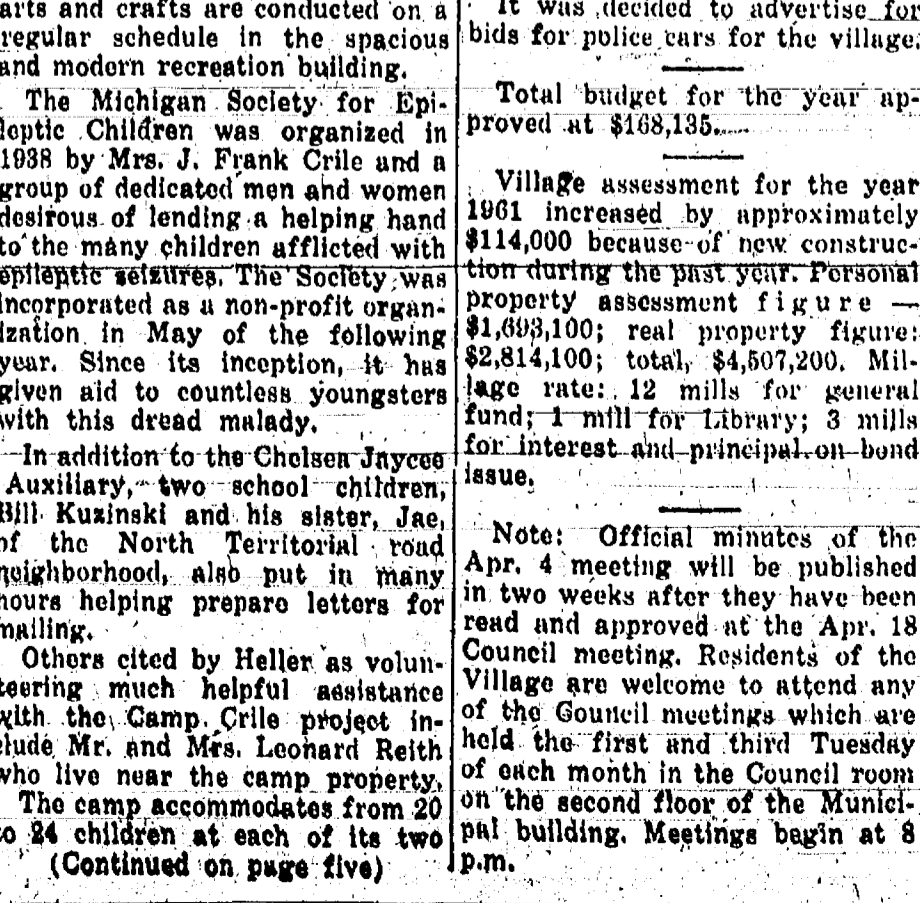

The cold extrusion division will have some relationship in eventual upturn of the employment situation in other departments of Federal Screw Works since some of the work in the division will generate secondary operation work in other departments of the plant. The 350-ton press which arrived Monday stands 17 feet high on its 10x12 base. It has a 100-horsepower motor and is the largest of the machines in the division.

The 350-ton press which was to reach here yesterday, is similar in operation; however, it turns out different sizes than the larger machine.

Establishing the cold extrusion division at Federal Screw Works proved a lengthy and expensive project for the company; however, it is now progressing to the point where predictions can be made that another three to four months will see the department in full production.

The cold extrusion division will produce a variety of automotive parts, such as nuts, engine valves, ball joints, etc., the raw material

Lung Cancer -- Cigarette Debate Clouded with Meaningless Statements

Under the heading "Tobacco, Golf and Bourbon," the editor of the Journal of the American Academy of General Practice winds up and lets fly with a salvo of sanity that is much too refreshing to keep within professional precincts. We quote his winged words in full:

"These pages have scrupulously avoided the cigarettes-and-lung cancer controversy. GP has perused many reports but stayed out in the main arena.

"However, 'authorities' on the subject frequently point out that, 'Every cigarette smoker will die of lung cancer if he doesn't die of something else first.' This is the kind of statement that causes chaos and confusion.

"On the surface, it looks like the final verdict. It has considerable impact and it's true—absolutely true. It also implies an ipso facto relationship between smoking and lung cancer. Fact is, it's enough to make many a true tobacco lover banish the weed for life.

"But like so many 'impact' statements, it's absolutely meaningless. Even if you don't smoke, you'll die of lung cancer if you don't die of something else first. The proposition rules out all other means of shucking off this mortal coil and leaves only two alternatives: We must either (1) die of lung cancer or (2) live forever.

"It's just as factual (and meaningful) to say that anyone who plays golf will die of syphilis if he doesn't die of something else first—or that anyone who drinks bourbon will die of ingrown toenails if no other cause of death intervenes.

"We're all for intelligent debate but let's keep it in the realm of reason."

Michigan Is Natural Resources

Michigan Is Natural Resources

Thus reads a public service industrial advertisement which appears in The Standard today.

Truly, Michigan is rich in natural resources which are the raw material for industry. The impression of Michigan that all too many people have is that of a State which turns out finished products. Our great natural resources of salt, for our chemical industries, our cement, our iron ore and many, many other natural gifts are overlooked. In many instances it was these natural resources which prompted industry to locate here so as to be close to an adequate supply of raw materials. This makes for efficiency and economy.

Each of us should take it upon ourselves to get across to the nation the full description of our natural resources. Let us first interest ourselves in these resources and then we will be able to tell others about them.

The library can provide information about Michigan's natural resources or can direct us where to get it. The Michigan Economic Development Department, a State agency at Lansing has information about them.

This is an area in which all of us can join to tell to the world the full Michigan story.

Let's all get into action. First learn all about our State and then tell others.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where one of them safety organizations in Washington aims to lobby for a law in Congress making car manufacturers put safety belts in every automobile.

If them Congressmen git to messing in such items as this, I got a few suggestions for 'em. I ain't saw a single thing the folks that makes cars has ever done for the pedestrian. If the Congress is going into this field, I think they ought to work both sides of the street. When a feller goes to town these days the only safe place for him to walk is where no motor vehicle can be drove, bounced, skidded, careomed, catapulted, rickshotted, or flung. I recommend collapsible bumpers and padded radiators, and a slanted rubber ramp in front to scoop up the pedestrian, with a soft pad up on the hood for him to land on. After all, they is a few people left who has to walk and they need some consideration.

I admit they ain't too many pedestrians left and if the Congress is looking at the matter from the vote angle, them that has to walk to the polls won't git much relief. The old song about the boy "walking his girl back home" is out of style. Today if he ain't got a car, he ain't got no girl! The family car is gitting to be more important in the American household than the cook stove. It's a good thing it runs on gas. It don't stand still long enough to refuse on hay.

Well, I see by the papers where them folks in Washington has admitted that cheap money is here to stay. A news item says the Bureau of Engraving will now print $1 bills in sheets of 32 instead of sheets of 12 like they been doing since 1900. I reckon the number of Government checks they print to the sheet has been put in the top secret drawer. Sometimes I think that me and Senator Byrd is the only two people in the country that worries about these things. For instance, I was reading the official tally sheet the other day where the private and public debt is now right at $800 billion, or a average of about $20,000 for ever family in the United States. Of course, me and my old lady will never live to pay ours off, but I shore hate to pass it along to my young neighbor and his family down the road a piece.

But debt or no debt, Mister Editor, I'm mighty glad to see the new administration coming out strong for funds for the schools. The principal over at our school was telling me they ain't even got enough money for new baseball uniforms this spring, let alone books.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

SWISS TAKING DISABLED REFUGEES

During March and April this year 89 handicapped refugees and their families—172 persons in all—are being admitted to Switzerland as part of a special migration plan, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees announced last week. The final total will be 200 persons, many of whom have spent as long as 15 years in refugee camps in Austria and Italy, barred from immigration because of physical and social handicaps.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan governors have a housing problem.

If this seems to be a somewhat less than crucial problem in times of world crises, federal government problems and state upheaval, it should be pointed out that Michigan is one of only nine states which at last count did not provide a place for the chief executive to live. For at least 80 years, governors, former governors and plain citizens have been saying the state needs an executive mansion.

But some governors were indifferent to whether the state provided a home for them. At least part of the reason for this is that until this century was well past its majority, few governors spent any considerable amount of time in Lansing, except when the legislature was in session.

While the legislature has been less than anxious to provide funds for a permanent residence in Lansing, lawmakers did, in 1935 provide the state's chief executive with a summer home on Mackinac Island. At the same session, incidentally, they refused to support a resolution calling for a Lansing governor's residence.

Plans for one were included in a Federal Works Program for the state that year, but they didn't work out. From 1935 on, agitation for a governor's residence grew, and the legislature produced starts on the project several times. Most of the time, plans were about to remove the old Barlow mansion in Lansing for a residence. Strong objections to its "ugliness" were raised, and the cost of renovation proved prohibitive.

Now comes Sen. John W. Fitzgerald, the son of a former governor, with a plan to do something for a constituent.

Fitzgerald, a Grand Lodge Republican, introduced a bill to provide $10,000 for rental and operating costs to provide a home for Michigan governors.

Gov. John B. Swainson, a Democrat, is living in a house which he rents himself just outside Lansing—in Fitzgerald's district.

Perhaps nobody but Fitzgerald in the legislature has had the first-hand experience with the problems of governors involving housing. His father, the late Frank D. Fitzgerald, lived at home in Grand Lodge during his tenure as governor.

While many still say the state should provide its governors with a home, owned and operated by the State of Michigan, Fitzgerald would at least take the burden of paying for a residence, which must be used for personal, official and semi-official functions, off the back of the chief executive.

Sometimes a headache for the homeowner who has been hoodwinked on trees or shrubs is also a pain in the neck to the state Department of Agriculture.

Spring brings out the sellers of plants, trees, shrubs, bushes and other nursery stock in droves. The householder is not far behind.

Virtually all the sellers of things to grow are reputable. Most deal only in inspected stock, and certainly any established businessman could not afford to sell something unwholesome or improper.

Plant pests and diseases are carried on some products.

Department of Agriculture inspections go far toward keeping such things in check. As in most other things, however, the old legal slogan of "Let the Buyer Beware" applies to plants and nursery stock.

State agriculturists have warned people to look out for plants which are unhealthy-looking, which are not in proper shape to be planted, or which are dead or dying.

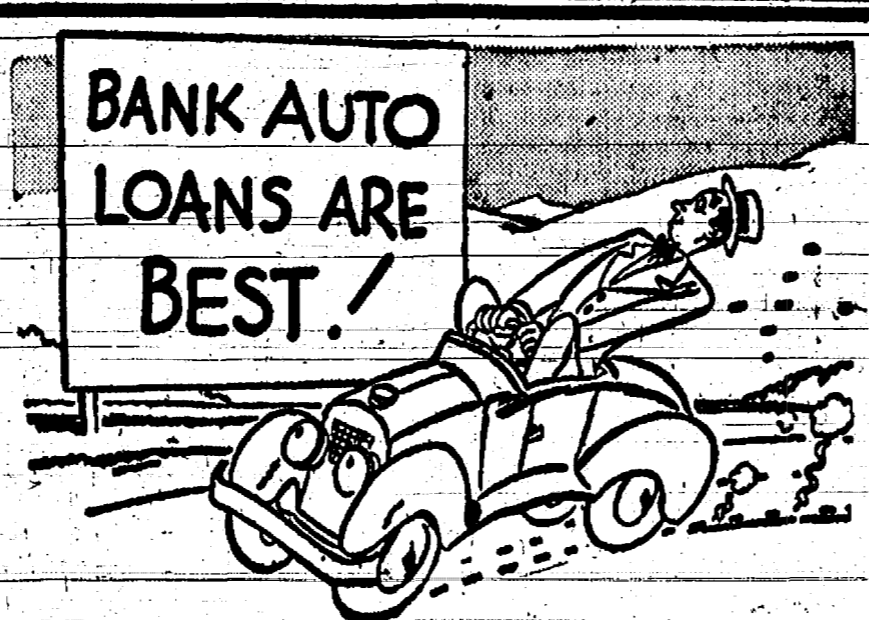

They say bulbs, corms or tubers should be plump and fairly firm as well.

Resolutions now before the legislature would provide rolling and floating advertisements for Michigan.

Sen. John H. Stahlin, R-Belding, wants to authorize a railroad train to be paid for by contributions, which would tour the East and Midwest selling Michigan's advantages.

Sen. Harold M. Ryan, D-Detroit, wants to spend $50,000 of state funds to outfit the former Mackinac Straits ferry "Vacationland" as a touring promotional gimmick for the state.

Dr. Hannah Urges Less Waste in Education

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, should be the recipient of the first "Peoples' Citation For Humble Honesty Below and Within the Call of Taxpayers."

If there happens not to be such a citation, it is hereby created. For Dr. Hannah broke the basic rule of his union a few days ago by gathering together all members of his faculty and asserting in a clear, loud voice that higher education can use its immense share of taxpayers' money less wastefully.

His "betrayal" shocked sacred sanctuaries from Harvard to UCLA. Obviously aware that he would cause quivering beads and clouds of angry pipe smoke on every university and college campus, the MSU president admitted to the faculty that he was embarking on an unprecedented venture by daring to say that education can be improved at less cost to the people.

It appears that the foundation for Dr. Hannah's program is more efficient use of the plant to increase production at lower cost.

In other words, this realistic university prexy wants to move higher education out of the dreamy world of Mr. Chips into the modern age of automated efficiency. And it is about time—if the taxpayers are to be left with a few bucks for gasoline for the old jalopy.

Full use of plant and equipment has been the basic principle of the business world since economists took over management in place of the mechanics and the tinkers like Henry Ford and Louis Chevrolet and the Dodge brothers.

My first lesson on this rule came from the late Judge Patrick H. O'Brien, an impractical and wonderful humanitarian who was Attorney-General of Michigan in the first Roosevelt years. When I was a very young reporter in 1926, Judge O'Brien lamented to me that so many automobiles were parked so much of the time.

"It's a waste of potential power to let those engines stand idle," he complained.

Years later I was a press agent for Pan American World Airways and I was shocked to discover that no plane must sit idle unless it is in the shop for repairs or the regular checkup.

A plane costing $2 million in those days (a modern jet costs $5 million) was required to produce revenue every day to be efficient. I was astonished because, being a newspaperman, I knew as much about business as I know about goat farming.

So if it is true that an exploding population requires our colleges to grind out bachelors, masters and doctors with production line efficiency, I can foresee a new era in higher education pioneered by Dr. Hannah. He will require the student to earn the right to college education through the student's own efforts.

He will end repetitive sacking and drill, and, as one newspaper commented, "end classroom baby-sitting."

He plans even to turn the dormitories into centers of learning and study.

Only 10 years ago, the colleges and universities needed $34 million from the legislature to augment the money they received from tuition fees, grants, Federal assistance and other sources.

During the fiscal year which will end June 30, the legislative appropriations for higher education totaled $98 million. This increase is out of proportion with the 20 per cent increase in populations during that period and cost increases due to inflation.

For a lawmaker, to question use of the taxpayers' money for the universities and colleges is to invite scornful ridicule. But Dr. Hannah didn't come of Harvard with classical ideas of the future of mankind.

He came out of the poultry department of old Michigan Agricultural College—with chicken on his shoes—to build that institution into one of the finest universities in the land.

It appears now that he lead it to an even greater future—with the taxpayers getting money-saving break at last.

MICHIGAN IS NATURAL RESOURCES

Michigan's natural bounty has attracted industry since the days when beaver pelts were money. And it will continue to do so for the whole foreseeable future.

Michigan remains rich in raw materials. Fresh water (what other states would give for what we take for granted!), salt, bromine, magnesium compounds, iron ore, lumber and pulp, oil, gas, cement, gypsum, sand, peat, copper—the list reads like the vital statistics of modern industry and commerce.

And with such assets—and with the raw materials of all the rest of the world so readily available by economical water transportation—Michigan will always be a good place in which to live and work, a great place for industry.

Help carry Michigan's message to the nation. Clip these ads and mail them to people in other states with your own comment. Let's talk up Michigan and its advantages for industry. Together, we can assure a greater future for all of us.

What You Should Know About Civil Defense
CD, Government, and You

By Col. Gerald G. Miller
Washtenaw County Civil Defense Director

In 1958 Congress passed Public Law 85-608. This law clarified and pointed out specific responsibilities for each level of government and the citizen. Public Law 85-608 formed a partnership between federal, state, local governments and the citizen. Actually, PL 85-608 is an instrument which amends the Federal Civil Defense Act of 1950, (Public Law 920).

To briefly summarize all of the laws that have been passed by Congress since 1950, relating to Civil Defense, into one sentence, it could read generally as follows: "The responsibility of each echelon of government for the non-military protection of the people it represents, is not materially changed from that of their peacetime normal roles, except that under natural or war-caused emergencies, the role of each is expanded a thousandfold." For example: In preparing for an emergency, such as a possible third World War, the federal government provides guidance, leadership, coordination and under certain conditions, funds, which are generally the same thing they do in peacetime. The state government, in preparing for an emergency, follows the general guidance established by the federal government yet again the state is restricted generally to its peacetime, normal functions, of providing guidance, leadership, coordination, and operations. County, city and village governments continue, under emergency planning, in their historical, normal roles, and in our case, under the Michigan concept of home rule, to provide for those community activities that we are so much in the habit of expecting, such as fire protection, police protection, safety programs, maintenance of streets and highways, and other community activities for the safety of the citizens whom they represent. Because local government is the only level with which the people have daily and close contact, the bulk of the responsibility and the actual doing, falls on the shoulders of the local government. It is this basic concept described above that provides the reasoning behind the statement "Civil Defense is the responsibility of local government."

Now, where does the citizen fit into this previously mentioned partnership. Basically, the individual most interested in ones' survival, is the citizen himself. Therefore, each level of government rightly assumes that each citizen will make some effort toward his own survival—but what should he do? Where should he go? How should he act? And what are the conditions that he may be confronted with? Answers to these questions can be obtained from only one source—the leadership that fine source—the leadership that the democratic process of the popular vote has placed in office at the local, state and federal levels, must provide the answers to these questions. We find these answers provided in a broad manner by the federal government in the National Plan and the annexes thereto. This National Plan, "Talks to Government." In many cases, the National Plan goes into considerable detail, such as how to build a shelter, and a very clear, yet moving picture and description of the conditions with which the citizen may be confronted. State government has the job of converting the federal guidance into suggested plans and actions, still, however, on a rather general basis. Again, it falls to the local government to prescribe the specific details and answers for the citizens, in order to meet and cope with disaster situations.

Due to many factors pertaining to a community, or local area, the federal and state levels of government cannot be expected to devise detailed plans for each community. Therefore, each community must draw up its own detailed plan. This is the basis behind the statement in the National Plan, that each citizen must know his community plan.

Local governments are easily compared to individuals when we think of the American concept of neighbors depending upon neighbors. Here we get into group planning, with the next natural step being mutual planning among neighboring political subdivisions. Both the federal and state governments provide specific guidance for this mutual planning. A simple reason giving validity to the need for mutual planning is that disasters, either war-caused, natural or in some cases, by accident, do not necessarily recognize political subdivision boundaries. This leads up to the fundamental requirement that each political subdivision is dependent on its neighboring subdivision, either for a place to go to or a place from which help can be received. Translating this into action will develop mobile support teams and assignment of reception and care areas.

All governments at all levels, are today designed to conduct the community and political subdivision daily activities under normal and peacetime conditions. We are neither organized, trained, equipped or financed for major disasters. Major disasters of great magnitude change the normal conditions to the abnormal, requiring emergency actions many times greater than for which governments are presently prepared. Therefore, it is said, that the normal responsibilities of each level of government are expanded a thousand fold when faced with a major emergency. Like buying life insurance, survival planning must be carried out now, in order to be prepared to meet and cope with a major catastrophe. Thus, we say, Civil Defense, non-military preparations for possible disasters, is government in operation under disaster conditions.

Many people have asked "What about our military forces and the protection they are supposed to provide?" The role of the military in Civil Defense is one where supplies, equipment and some manpower when the military missions and primary duties of military units permit. The military is neither organized, manned, equipped, financed nor intended to do local Civil Defense. The basic mission of all military units is to close with and destroy the enemy, either on mutual ground or, if necessary, to win a victory, on his own ground and in any case, as far away from our homeland as possible—Martial Law. Martial law must be considered as an alternative, rather than a substitute for civil law. The National Plan for survival points up the requirements that civil government should prepare itself in order to prevent conditions from developing in the first place, that would require martial law.

The Federal government in the National Plan strongly encourages each citizen to learn these five simple steps to safety:

1. Attack warning signals and what they mean.
2. Your community plan for emergency action.
3. Protection from radioactive fallout.
4. First-aid and home emergency preparedness.
5. The use of CONELRAD—640 or 1240 on AM radio—for official directions.

Next week, in our third article, we will discuss individual actions and family preparedness.

Mrs. Fred Benson and children; Mark and Carol, of Medina, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. James Linderman and daughter, Nancy, of Wayne, are spending the Easter vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer.

Telephone Co. Converting to All-Number Calling System

The long-familiar two-letter, five-numeral system of numbering telephones will begin a gradual five-year retreat into history Saturday.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has announced it will start to introduce All Number Calling (ANC) on a progressive basis throughout its territory.

Under the ANC plan, telephones will be known by all numbers—no letters of a central office name. A number such as KLondike 5-2888, for example, will become 555-2888.

William M. Day, Michigan Bell president, said that the supply of present two-letter, five-numeral numbers could soon be exhausted, pointing out the fact that about 17,000 telephones per day are being installed across the country. He said that the ANC numbering system, which will be in use nation-wide eventually, makes about 50 per cent more numbers available immediately.

Day said that as a general rule, the transfer to ANC numbering will be made whenever a customer's service request requires a visit to his home or office; along with a necessary change in the telephone directory.

As for ANC's advantages to the customer, Day pointed out that tests show most people find it easier to locate numbers than letters on the dial. ANC eliminates the confusion between the letter "O" and the zero; between the letter "I" and the numeral "one." Chances of misdialing through misunderstanding or misspelling a central office name are fewer, all of which are factors to faster and better service for the customer, Day said.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pastor entertained a group of young people at their home Monday evening in honor of their son, David, on his 21st birthday. The party was arranged as a surprise.

To the farmer who thinks all fertilizers give equal crop results

They would . . . if they were all formulated the same way and made with the same materials. But today's fertilizers, even those of the same analysis, give different crop results because they're made differently. Depending on the plant food sources used, your crop yields will be high, average or low.

AGRICO selects and combines the plant foods that are best suited to give you top crop yields. Farmers right in your own state have proved in actual field demonstrations that this AGRICO quality gives the best return on their fertilizer investment.

Mrs. Robert Foye Named Head of Girl Scout Group

At the Girl Scout Neighborhood meeting Monday, Mar. 27, Mrs. Robert Foye was elected Neighborhood chairman and Mrs. John Chaplin, co-chairman. Mrs. Franklin Gee was appointed as a new alternate delegate to the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council to replace Mrs. Chaplin. Mrs. Foye announced that a first aid course made available by the Red Cross is to begin Apr. 10. Sessions will be from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. each Monday for five weeks. The course will be given at the Junior High school home-economics room.

A "pen pal SOS" from Mrs. Krebs-of-Romulus was mentioned. She has names of Girl Scouts from other countries who desire pen pals here. This is part of the international friendship program available for intermediate to senior Girl Scouts. Mrs. Krebs urges leaders to promote international friendship and contact her for names of pen pals.

A council-wide leader training meeting at Kensington Park Wednesday, May 3, was announced. This will be given by the Michigan Conservation Department and will consist, in part, of a hike with a "nosebag" lunch planned. Leaders should call the Girl Scout office before Apr. 15 to register.

In the evaluation of the Girl Scout birthday program, Mrs. A. D. Mayer, Girl Scout representative to the Chelsea Community Chest and one of the leaders honored at the birthday program, stated that she thought the program was very good, that she was proud of the growth of the Girl Scout movement and proud that she had had a part in it. Mrs. Mayer also commented on the good department of the girls at the program.

The next Chelsea Girl Scout Neighborhood meeting will take place May 22, it was announced.

Pfc. Gary Speer Stationed in Thailand

Word was received this week from Pfc. Gary Speer that he is with U. S. Marine Air Group 16 in Thailand. Formerly stationed on Okinawa, Pfc. Speer had written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byford Speer, a month ago that he was leaving for another assignment. Having heard news reports of the arrival of M-40 in Thailand, because of the critical situation in Laos, the Speers had been expecting to hear that their son was stationed there and his letter Monday, verified the fact.

State Police Using Mobile Laboratory

The State Police have placed a mobile laboratory in service at East Lansing headquarters for the collection, preservation and examination of evidence at crime scenes. The department's first vehicle for this specific purpose had been equipped and is ready for immediate assignment anywhere in the state. Previously it was necessary for scientific crime laboratory or latent prints personnel to pick up and load needed equipment at headquarters for transport by car to a crime scene, resulting in loss of time.

The small rear-engine bus is fitted with two-way radio communication, a work desk, storage containers, and materials and equipment for photographing, sketching, microscoping, and chemically testing evidence. There is an electrical outlet for connecting to an outside line.

The mobile service, available to other law-enforcement agencies on request, is staffed by personnel of the scientific crime laboratory and the latent prints section of the headquarters detective bureau.

Highway Tourist Centers Serve 750,000 in 1960

Lansing — More than three-quarters of a million persons stopped at the Michigan State Highway Department's four tourist information centers during 1960, State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie reported recently. In all, 755,581 people in over 230,000 cars stopped for directions or information, he said. This was about 8,000 more people than in 1959.

The increase, even though slight, was significant because of several rainy and cool weeks at the height of the tourist season last summer, Mackie said. It shows the information centers are an important part of Michigan's tourist industry, he added.

Highway Department information centers are located on US-12 at New Buffalo, at the Mackinac City approach to the Mackinac Bridge and on US-41 at Menominee. A fourth station, on US-24 at Monroe, was closed in November but plans are in progress to build a new information center on the Detroit-Toledo Freeway.

The most active center was New Buffalo, where more than 450,000 people stopped for information. Last year's bounty bill was up from 1959 when hunters and trappers collected $197,400 for the state's bountied furbearers.

Fox hunters and trappers registered their second best year since 1947 when foxes were added to the bounty system. They collected $146,205 for 29,241 foxes.

Coyote and bobcat payments were down somewhat from 1959, totaling $56,580 and $3,805, respectively. Bounties were paid on 2,002 coyotes and 761 bobcats. In 1959, hunters and trappers received $50,620 and $3,875 for coyotes and bobcats. Bounties were paid only in the Upper Peninsula.

Since 1935, including the first two months of 1961, Michigan's Game and Fish Protection Fund (hunting and fishing license fees) has paid out more than $3,000,000 in bounty payments.

They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hayden, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Finch and Wesley Cowell as chaperons. They arrived in Detroit on the return trip at 7:50 a.m. Monday and were back in school yesterday when all classes resumed following the schools' spring vacation.

Farm Name May Be Registered with State

Pride in farm ownership gets an assist under Michigan's laws which permit a farm owner to have the name of his farm registered with the name exclusively his.

Ever since 1941 the law had been on the statute books whereby an owner may register the name of his farm with the Michigan Department of Agriculture for a $1 fee. No one else can use the farm name.

The director of the Department, G. S. McIntyre, believes that registration of a farm under an appropriate name may help the owner to sell his products when the farm name is incorporated on a label. Application for farm registration may be made with the Department at Lansing.

We know that the less one knows the easier one forms an opinion.

Different Procedure Needed To Get Help on Freeway

Michigan now has more than 500 miles of freeways in use—saving motorists time, money and lives. Unfortunately, says the Automobile Club of Michigan, these limited-access super-roads can also confront drivers with some anxious moments.

Anyone experiencing a flat tire or mechanical breakdown while driving the freeways can recall the sinking feeling that accompanied the situation. When it happens—be it on an expressway, freeway or turnpike—most drivers are faced with the added inconvenience that their emergency has occurred miles from a service station, telephone or even an exit.

"Don't panic when this occurs," cautions Robert C. Nisbet, Automobile Club of Michigan road service department manager. "By the same token, however, the stranded driver must act differently than he would on an ordinary city street or highway," advises Nisbet, who is also chairman of the State Highway Department's Motorists Advisory Committee. "You cannot walk for help, for example, because state law prohibits pedestrians on limited-access type highways."

In spite of such restrictions, Nisbet says there are several workable rules—the motorist in distress can follow to ease his predicament more quickly. They are:

1. Get the car completely off the road as quickly as possible.

Emergency repairs never should be attempted while the car is still in any part of the driving lanes.

2. Turn on your car lights, even in the daytime, when attempting to reach the shoulder. Use the turn signal as well so that you give other traffic as much warning as possible that you are in distress.

3. Once you are on the shoulder, directional signals should be turned off so following drivers are not distracted. Parking lights may be left on if the breakdown occurs at night on expressways outside of cities. Adequate overhead illumination is provided on Detroit's in-town expressways and (continued on page eleven)

Present House on Rudolph Dieterle Farm Believed To Be More Than 100 Years Old

The farm at 12030 Seio Church, shown in last week's issue of The Standard as "Mystery Farm No. 144" has been owned by Rudolph Dieterle the past 11 years. He and his mother, Mrs. Lillian Dieterle, make their home there. When Dieterle bought the place, only 10 acres of land was included in the house; however, since then he has purchased another 10 acres of adjoining property, formerly owned by Clarence Trinkle. Dieterle does not work the land and has no livestock. He formerly was with the Greyhound Co. for approximately 30 years.

The Dieterles are life-long members of Bethel Evangelical and Reformed church and Mrs. Dieterle is affiliated with the Jerusalem Bureau group. Until moving to the Seio Church road farm, they had lived on Weber Rd. near Parker Rd., in Lodi township. Another son, Alfred, now owns that place.

The Dieterle house is believed to be more than 100 years old. It is one of the area homes built by Adam Bohnet, a contractor who was an outstanding builder of that period. Bohnet also built the barn on the place.

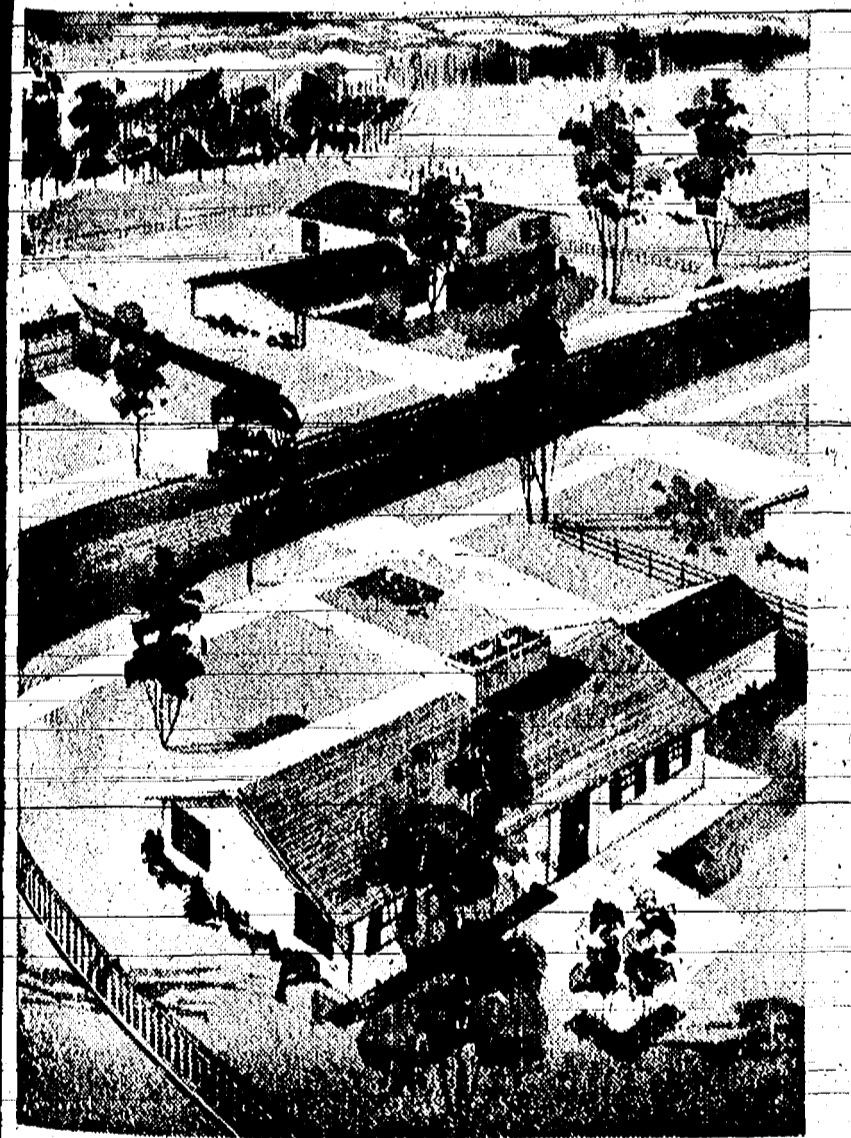

The house was built for Jacob Haist, Sr., grandfather of George Haist.

George Haist, his two brothers, Jacob, III, and Fred, his sister, Mrs. Louise Eschelbach, and three half-sisters and two half-brothers, all were born on the farm.

George Haist's father, Jacob Haist, II, died in 1878 when George Haist was only a few months old. Later, his mother married Martin Seitz and they were the parents of Adolph Seitz, Mrs. Ida Herzog now in North Carolina, Mrs. Oscar Bahnmiller of Manchester, and the late Mrs. Christian Koch and Emanuel Seitz.

George Haist and his brother, Fred, took over the farm in 1899 and in 1904, a year after his marriage, George bought a farm at 1120 Haist Rd. and moved there. His son, Erwin and family now live on the Haist road farm and George Haist makes his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hoffman at 1185 Fletcher Rd. His sister, Louise, and

YOUTHS STEAL FIRE TRUCK
Crandall Tex.—Three youths stole the city's fire truck and raced over the north central Texas countryside with the siren screaming and the red light flashing. They were followed by four youths in a car thinking it would lead them to a fire. The three youths in the fire truck thought the car following them was officers. They turned the truck into a dead-end road, two fled and one waited for police to arrest him.

Where will you find a handsomer hardtop than this Impala Sport Sedan?

MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

"When one car outsells all the rest the way this new Chevrolet is doing"—there's got to be a reason. And we can think of some pretty good ones. The clean-etched looks of the new Body by Fisher, for example. The eager brand of "git" that's under the hood. The easy way it handles. Plus the added advantage of extra-cost options like triple-turbine Turboglide.

But to sample all these reasons together, you have to get a Chevrolet out on the road. And there's where that Jet-smooth ride takes over with its own gentle kind of persuasion. If you weren't absolutely sure, you'd imagine you were riding in a far costlier car. No wonder people are buying more Chevrolets than any other make! Chevrolets have more of what it takes to please people!

*Official R. L. Polk & Co. registration figures show full-sized Chevrolets outsold the second-choice make by a record-breaking margin in 1960—and Chevrolets continue to set the pace for the industry this year!
