The band is directed by David Hays, director of instrumental music in Chelsea schools.

Bigger, Better Community Fair Planned

All planning of the Chelsea Community Fair Board at recent meeting indicate that the group is planning for a "bigger and better" 1961 Community Fair. Reports given at a meeting in the fairground building Thursday evening, show that all committees are making satisfactory progress in preparation for the event scheduled for Aug. 30-31 and Sept. 1 and 2.

A screened-in addition is being constructed at the Red School building which serves as office kitchen and dining space during the fair. The new addition will make it possible to serve meals and cater to larger numbers of people and do it more quickly and efficiently.

Weather enlarged facility to be used for the opening of the fair. A 100-foot cement slab at the side of the merchants building will provide clean, level floor space for a tent in back-to-house additional exhibits. All Chelsea area residents are urged to do everything they can to support the Community Fair.

Mr. Walter Vicary has an early morning in her flower bed, picking 10 large blooms and buds.

FRED SAGER observed his 93rd birthday Wednesday, July 12, and made his daily trip from his home, 139 Dewey St., to spend a few hours visiting with friends in the downtown area. He says the uphill trip "is good exercise" for him in his manually-operated wheelchair. He has used the wheelchair since it was necessary to amputate his right leg three years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vincenz and their 10-year-old son, Woodrow, make their home with him.

Fred Sager Marks 93rd Birthday

Fred Sager, whose 93rd birthday occurred Wednesday, July 12, was honored at a birthday party at his home that evening. Guests present included Reuben Sager, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lindauer, Fred Hoffman, The Rev. H. Grabowski, Lorenz Wenk, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prudden. His three daughters, Mrs. J. ## Pinckney Area Residents Hoping For Oil Boom

The Parilla Oil Co. has started a wildcat oil-drilling venture on the Dwight Wegener farm, just outside Pinckney. Residents are eagerly watching progress of the drilling in the hope that oil will be found in paying quantities. A second crew was to begin operation so the drilling might continue on a 24-hour-a-day basis. At least three more holes are to be started on nearby sites near the village according to present indications.

New Landfill To Be Ready By Aug. 1

Tuesday, Aug. 1, is the date set for the opening of the Chelsea village sanitary landfill. The landfill is located on Wacker Rd., 2 1/2 miles north of Chelsea, 1/2 mile beyond Waterloo Rd., on the Warren Eisenbeiser farm. Signs to identify the location and instruct users of the fill will be erected prior to the opening. The Council once again wishes to emphasize that the people using the landfill must abide by the rules to insure proper operation. Littering of the highway cannot be tolerated. It is imperative that people going to the landfill obey the "Keep it Covered" rule. By that Council members state they mean all rubbish and garbage must be brought to the landfill in covered vehicles only. All trailers must be covered by a tarpaulin. All open trucks must be covered by a tarpaulin, and all closed trucks must have their doors closed enroute to the landfill. Automobile trunks must be closed or the rubbish must be in covered containers in the trunk. Any person not observing this rule will be refused admittance to the landfill. Any person littering the highway will be prosecuted. Cooperation will not only help to ensure successful operation but will hold costs to as low a level as possible, Council members advise.

U-M Bandsman B. Pearson Shows Russian Pictures

Byron Pearson, who last spring participated in the widely-publicized University of Michigan Band tour of Russia, Egypt and other countries, was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening.

Introduced by the evening's program chairman, Walter Leonard, Pearson showed interesting color slide pictures to illustrate his talk. Announcements made during the business session included mention of an invitation from the Chelsea Fire Department for Kiwanians to meet with the Southeastern Michigan Fire Chiefs Association who will be guests of the Chelsea Fire Department at a fire equipment display and demonstration Monday, July 31, at Chelsea High school.

The date of the annual Kiwanis Ladies' Night picnic at the Cavanaugh Lake home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jones was also announced. The picnic will take place Monday, Aug. 14.

Walter Harper Cards Hole-in-One at Cadillac

Playing golf at the Cadillac Country Club last Friday, Walter Harper scored a hole-in-one on the seventh hole, a 110-yard water hazard, according to information received at The Standard office this week. Mr. and Mrs. Harper have been visiting at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Circuit Judge and Mrs. William K. Peterson.

Wednesday Rubbish Day Eliminated

Starting Tuesday, Aug. 1 the terms of the new garbage and rubbish contract entered into with William Terns last February will become effective. This is made possible with the opening of the sanitary landfill on that day. Letters have already been mailed to the businesses in town explaining how they will be affected by this new contract. For the residential users there will also be some variations over last year's methods. The Wednesday rubbish day will be abolished. Instead, rubbish will be picked up on Tuesdays and Fridays at the same time the garbage collection is made. The garbage will still be picked up behind the house as it is now and the rubbish must be taken to the curb as always. The combined amount of garbage and rubbish may not exceed two 20-gallon containers on any one pick-up day. The total weight of any one container may not exceed 70 pounds. If the resident wishes he may combine his rubbish and garbage in the same can; however, if this is done it must be placed at the curb as a rubbish container. It is preferable and desirable that all garbage be wrapped, regardless of whether it is combined with the rubbish or not.

Island Lake Road Farm Transferred to Dexter School District

A 120-acre farm located on Island Lake Rd. between Chelsea and Dexter, received unanimous approval from representatives of Jackson, Livingston and Washtenaw county boards of education for transfer from the Chelsea to the Dexter school district at a meeting held Monday evening in Ann Arbor. The farm's owners, Robert J. and Donna Kaercher, requested the transfer since they were located along the bus route of both school districts and family social and business associations have been more in the Dexter area. Although Chelsea board members were reluctant to see the transfer made, after thorough review, the joint action of the three boards showed no dissenting vote. Transfer, according to law, becomes effective 10 days after the decision.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lesser, Jr., with the latter's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kellogg and daughter, Kay, of Saline, spent the past week visiting Mr. Lesser's sister and family, the James Halls, at Oscoda, and also spent some time at the Gehrk Hunting Club lodge at Hubbard Lake.

This number included 425 at the morning arts and crafts programs at North and South Elementary schools; 300 at morning baseball; and 275 at the evening programs. Baseball results for the July 17-21 week were reported as follows: Lions 4, Fencebusters 2; In the Little League the Lions and Fencebusters broke their first place tie as the Lions scored a 4-2 victory. During the afternoon, library trustees were informed of their duties as officers. Also discussed were financial problems of libraries. Following dinner at the YW-YMCA building, the library representatives heard a talk by Dr. Howard McCluskey of the University of Michigan School of Education.

He stated his belief that the public library is a part of the educational system of the county and that the libraries have a responsibility to anticipate the needs of their respective communities.

Each Elector Should Vote For Two Candidates

The primary election to name candidates for the Sept. 12 election of Con-Con delegates will be held next Tuesday, July 25, throughout Michigan. The winners of the July primaries will meet in the general election Sept. 12. The three winners there will join 141 other delegates in Lansing Oct. 3 to begin the convention. A prediction that as few as 20 percent of the electorate in many Michigan districts would vote in the Con-Con primary was made by Secretary of State James M. Hare. "Unless there is an acceleration of interest in all 83 counties," Hare said, "we may find that the delegates to the Constitutional Convention may in fact represent only a minority of Michigan's citizens."

School Board Will Ask for Extra Millage

After two lengthy meetings devoted to detailed study of the budget, Chelsea Board of Education members voted unanimously Tuesday evening to call for an operational millage assist. The budget for 1961-62 calls for a total of $25,292 and to help meet this the Board has determined it will be necessary to ask for a two-mill extra operational levy for a three-year period. Date for the special election on this issue was set as Aug. 22.

Urge Plans Now for Fair Parade Floats

George Atkinson, who is in charge of arrangements for the Chelsea Community Fair parade scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 2, at 2 p.m., urges area organizations and industries, high school classes, 4-H clubs, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and others to begin making plans for entering floats in the parade. Atkinson said that there will be two categories in the competition for prizes this year—a plan that is believed will be welcomed by prospective float entrants. Industries and the larger organizations and businesses will be in one group, while smaller clubs and groups will be in the second category. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in each of the two categories. Selection of the "Community Fair Queen" will take place on the final night of the fair, Saturday, Sept. 2; however, queen candidates, in a group, will appear at each evening program throughout the fair, according to present plans. Each queen candidate must ride in the parade on the float of her sponsoring group. In keeping with the aim of the entire Fair personnel to make this year's Community Fair "bigger and even better than the many good fairs of the past," Atkinson asks that prospective float entrants begin preparations as soon as possible. Those who plan to enter floats in the parade should notify him.

The Democratic candidate is Robert W. Carr of Ann Arbor, and the Republican candidate is James K. Pollock, also of Ann Arbor. The First Representative District includes the following six townships in the northeastern part of the county—Webster, Northfield, Salem, Seio, Ann Arbor and Superior. In the Second Representative District there is no contest on the Republican ticket, the lone candidate being J. Don Lawrence of Ypsilanti; however, the Second District Democratic nomination is being sought by Earl Eugene Sutter of Ypsilanti, and Grenval W. Spangler, of Milan.

The unopposed Democratic candidate in the 33rd Senatorial District which comprises all of Washtenaw county is Allan Grossman of Saline. Three Republicans are seeking candidacy in this district—Lewis G. Christman, Marvin Lionel Esch and Roscoe O. Bunistool, all of Ann Arbor. In primary elections voters may cast ballots only for candidates on the one ticket of the voter's own party. (Continued on page six)

Vaccination Should Be Done Now To Protect from Paralytic Polio

When controversy leads to public enlightenment, we're all for it. But there are times when controversy results in public confusion, with disastrous results. This is particularly true when experts clash on technical points that cannot be grasped quickly by those of us without scientific background.

We fervently hope the recent controversy over the relative merits of polio vaccines will not discourage parents from seeing that their families are given a full series of Salk shots immediately. This is the critical time of year when the unprotected are most exposed to the polio attack. The Salk vaccine is available now. It is more than 90 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio. Those who have not been vaccinated are gambling against the possibility of being crippled for life through their own negligence.

Whether or not the Sabin live-virus vaccine is a better vaccine than Dr. Salk's is a matter for scientists and physicians to decide—later. The National Foundation, which financed all the research leading to both vaccines with funds contributed to the March of Dimes, gives the only sound advice which parents can follow. It points out that, since no live-virus vaccine has yet been licensed for distribution, since you cannot get live-virus vaccine from your physician, and since the present polio "season" will be over before mass production, licensing and distribution of the live-virus vaccine are completed, there is only one course of action for conscientious parents to pursue. Get your family started on a full series of Salk shots TODAY.

Millions of pre-school children and young adults are still without protection. These are the age groups most open to attack.

Don't let technical controversy confuse you. Vaccinate NOW!

Michigan's New Highway System Means Benefits to Industry, Tourists

Michigan is good roads!

To most of us, this statement means that we can travel from where we are to where we want to get quickly and safely over Michigan highways and freeways. It means to the tourist that he can get to Michigan's vacation and resort areas easily and have a pleasant journey as soon as he crosses Michigan's border.

There is another role of highways—important to each of us, but one which we may be prone to accept without giving it proper significance. Michigan's good roads are an asset to industry. Our outstanding system of good roads—which is expanding daily—is important in the distribution of the goods manufactured in our industrial plants. Almost any place in the Great Lakes market area can be reached from anywhere in Michigan—over good roads—in a matter of hours. This places Michigan industry in a good location. Our good roads make it possible for our workers to get to their place of employment easily. Supplies and finished products are carried over our highways with a rapidity that is of benefit to industry.

The importance of good roads to industrial development is pointed out in a public service advertisement sponsored by the industrial-promotion committee of the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department. The advertisement appears today in The Chelsea Standard. You can help our local industrial development program if you clip this advertisement and mail it to someone outside of Michigan. Do it today!

ANY TRIP YOU MAKE will be more pleasant, if the car you drive is financed the Bank Way—economically, conveniently and with local people.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

It takes better timing to get a real estate salesman's license in Michigan now than in the past.

Now, due to austerity budgets and cost-cutting measures, the examination for real estate salesmen in Detroit will be given only two times a month instead of three times each week.

In Lansing, the Corporation and Securities Commission will continue to give the examination each week on Thursday.

The recently-named Corporation and Securities Commissioner, Raymond P. Clevenger, said other belt-tightening moves would also be made, but he indicated his agency would try to keep everybody now employed on the payroll as long as possible.

Some departments and agencies are being forced to cut people from the work force, and many others are not filling staff vacancies as they occur.

The Corporation and Securities Commission will cut service slightly without putting too great a hitch in public service.

Fewer examinations for securities dealers and salesmen, residential builders, residential maintenance and alteration contractors will also be offered by the commission in its austerity program.

Driver safety experts hope they have a good thing going for them in the relatively new "Multiple Interview Program" being conducted by the Secretary of State's office for drivers who have accumulated 12 or more violations "points" in a year or less, for the first time in their driving career.

Since the program started early this year, results have been very encouraging, according to the Department of State.

Success is measured by the number of persons who have further moving violations, which count points against the driver, after being called in for a group interview.

Before the Multiple Interview technique was worked out, each driver was called in for a short session with one of the driver improvement experts. These briefings lasted only about 15 minutes each.

Now, drivers who have compiled a "bad record" come in groups of about 30 to spend up to about two hours hearing the law and point system explained, see educational movies, hold a group safety discussion and question, and answer sessions.

In the first four months of the program, 11 cities were the scene of the group meetings.

James M. Hare, Secretary of State, says the Multiple Interview program permits all the drivers who accumulate 12 points in a year for the first time to be interviewed at a nominal cost to the Department.

Hare was quick to point out that the change in program means absolutely no softening up in dealing with violators.

He said "scorflaws" and other habitual violators would still be severely dealt with, as in the past. Also as in the past, the "first timers" will not generally be prevented from legal driving, but they will be expected to profit from the Multiple Interview, and prove it.

"He said the Irish are a charming race and truly, a great many descendants of the auld sod are that, indeed."

But a true-blue Norseman, Michigan's Gov. John B. Swainson, has stolen a march on the Sons of Erin by extending the cordial hand of friendship through a most distinguished emissary.

Swainson traces his lineage to Norway, but here's what the 35-year-old chief executive, well known as a personable man, did:

He sent silver card trays, bearing the "Governor of Michigan" seal, to the Lord Mayors of Dublin and Cork, Ireland.

Presenting the gift, the best wishes of the people of Michigan and Swainson's personal greetings to His Honor, Robert Briscoe, Lord Mayor of Dublin, and Anthony Barry, his counterpart in Cork, will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jerome V. MacEachin, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas church, East Lansing.

Monsignor MacEachin is the spiritual leader of a pilgrimage going to Europe, including visits to Ireland and Rome.

NO CUSPIDORS?

Hartford, Conn.—The Connecticut General Assembly found something was missing when they opened the biennial session recently—the cuspidors.

Asking their whereabouts Democratic House Minority Leader William T. Shea commented:

"They have been missed in the past and even if they are returned I'm afraid they will be missed again."

At the annual meeting of School District No. 3, Fr., Sylvan and Lima (Chelsea Public School) estimated receipts for the next year total $34,800; however, by date of the group present, expenditures were increased by $2,100—$1,300 for addition of physical education and $800 for adequate musical instruments—and the increase will no doubt necessitate an increase in the tax rate which totaled 7 mills last year.

WASHINGTON AND 'SMALL BUSINESS'

By C. Wilson Harder

There are some who claim that if a law had not been passed providing for income tax deductions from paychecks, that the costs of government would have declined, instead of steadily increasing.

In addition, there is quite some concern in certain quarters in Washington over the trend of the past few years to increase deductions for small business.

Congressman Harold Ostrerag of New York recently pointed out that without any further items tagged onto social security, social security taxes on already passed legislation will continue to increase each year up to 1989 when the employer and employee both will be paying 4 1/2% each on the first $4800 of wages and salaries each year.

This means, then, if there is further broadening of benefits, by 1959 8 1/2% of wages up to $4800 per year will be going into this fund. On top of this, in some states, the employer pays as high as 3 1/2% on the first $3000 paid per year in unemployment taxes.

This, then, means that on employees making $125 per week or less, for the first six months of each year, the employer will be paying a tax on this payroll over more than 7%.

In a business such as retailing, or some other enterprise where labor is the biggest cost of doing business, these welfare taxes on the employer can well equal, if not exceed, the average net profit by a given line of commerce or industry.

Without going into the merits or demerits of any proposals to extend welfare benefits, it is perhaps well to consider that from one standpoint alone the payroll point may have been already reached.

That standpoint is the supply of jobs. Inasmuch as business, unlike government, cannot look to outside sources of income to make up increases in cost, every time either governmental or union actions makes the cost of labor higher, great thought and study is given to finding means, or equipment to replace the need for a part of the workers.

Spurred by past actions, many industries have already replaced workers, many more developments are in the preparation stage and will become operative in the near future, to further aggravate the unemployment problem.

Of course, there is quite an emotional pull to provide the fuller, richer, more carefree life for older citizens. Yet it's kind of a futile activity if it results in less and less job opportunity for the younger citizens.

This concentration by politicians on greater and greater welfare benefits, especially around times of elections, could well result in killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

After all, a sound logical argument can be made that the father of any young family should carry at least a quarter of million dollars in life insurance. However, if in order to pay the premiums, the family has to stop eating, the arguments that sound so logical become rather silly.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It may be that I'm getting a little impatient, but it seems to me this cold war business with Russia is getting as one-sided as a drunk's hat. The American taxpayers is footing most of the bills but it looks like this country ain't got much more say-so in the thing than a hog's got at a hog-calling contest.

I was reading last night where the United Nations has estimated the budget for the Congo at $120 million this year. But Russia, that can finance big armies and missiles and trouble-makers all over the world, including the Congo, has refused to pay a dime of it. In the end, the American taxpayers will get the honor of paying most of it.

We've give away so much money for foreign aid to countries all over the world that most of them now thinks it's a permanent arrangement sent down from Heaven. For instant, when we trimmed our hand-out to India last year ole Nehru hollered louder than a calf tied out at milking time. It looks to me like we got to make a stand someplace, Mister Editor, or the bats in our belfry is going to eat the bee in our bonnet.

And when we make our stand this time, I hope they don't have no Yalu River stuff in it. This thing of fighting with one hand tied behind our back ain't the kind of war the United States fights. It just bleeds us down, and makes us spend a dollar to their dime, without getting no place.

On the home front, I see by the papers where the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee in the Congress predicts that prices will "edge up" a little this Fall. It seems to me they has been edging up for some time now. About the only thing holding steady is sea-going yachts and Cadillac cars. About once a month everything else "levels off" at a now level. Sooner or later we're going to run out of levels and get into orbit.

And sometimes a feller can find plenty of troubles right in his own house. For instant, my old lady come in last night from a meeting of the Home Demonstration Club and I made the bad mistake of asking her what they talked about. "The home," she says, and afore I could get out the door she was going into details. "We decided," she says, "that the man in the house ain't carrying his part of the home work." This is treason, Mister Editor, and I aim to find out if any tax money is going into these club projects. I've writ to my Congressman in no uncertain terms. I'll let you know which way he hedges on this one.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

MICHIGAN IS GOOD ROADS

Michigan's highway system—the finest in the nation—is a magnet that attracts industry.

The people of Michigan are determined to maintain the state's highway leadership. Our current roadbuilding program is moving ahead at a rate nearly twice that of the national average.

Since 1957 Michigan's freeways have multiplied five times. These freeways are of great importance to national and international industry in the efficient movement of raw materials to the plant and finished goods to the customer.

Con-Con Candidate Esch Discusses Importance of Reapportionment Issue

Reapportionment, as one of the most controversial issues of the coming constitutional convention, presents a unique and complex problem for the citizens of Michigan. Esch said this week.

Esch, a candidate for the Reapportionment Convention, spoke informally at the home of his sister, Mrs. Robert Huber, 287 Washington Lake.

At present, with the heavy population center in the Detroit area, complete reapportionment on a population basis could lead to an undesirable situation where a political party, one interest group, might dominate the state.

However, in the next 20 years, the population will shift and grow in urban centers to out-state areas. For example, Washtenaw county can expect a 50 per cent population increase by 1980.

"The complexion of the problem will change then, but the problem of reapportionment and its long-range applications must be considered now as a part of the orderly change provided for by the new constitution."

Esch told the Chelsea citizens that their role was significant in the coming year.

"July 25 is an important date (election day) but the people's part in the convention begins then, not ends."

The candidate suggested that "town meetings" be held periodically, perhaps semi-monthly, for open debate and exchange of ideas on the issues of the convention.

Michigan's Highway Construction Program Will Help Industrial Growth

Michigan's $2 billion highway construction and modernization program will have a profound impact on the creation of more jobs and more industrial opportunities for Michigan for the next 25 years.

State Highway Department Commissioner John C. Mackie says, "This huge investment, to be made during a 10-year period ending in 1971, will provide a solid foundation for future economic growth."

Construction of more than 1,000 miles of freeway—all of which will be opened to traffic by early 1963—will play a major role in Michigan's industrial expansion in the years ahead.

"Industry is always looking for the with-good transportation facility. These freeways will not only help bring new industry to the state but also will help in the already here."

State Highway Department officials show the 203-mile Interstate 94 Freeway from Detroit to the Detroit Harbor area—the nation's longest toll-free Interstate highway—already is saving Michigan millions of dollars a year in transportation costs.

Interstate 94 and the other ways that criss-cross the State have a tremendous impact on Michigan's future economic growth.

By the end of next year, Interstate 94 will be completed from Detroit to the Detroit Harbor area—the nation's longest toll-free Interstate highway—already is saving Michigan millions of dollars a year in transportation costs.

CONSERVATION'S GOOD SAMARITANS—

A well-deserved pat on the back is in order for some 900 of Michigan's rural mail carriers. Besides getting the mail to John Q. Public six days a week, they keep a sharp eye on pheasant and grouse numbers along their routes during this time of the year to lend an all-important assist to the Conservation Department's management of these birds.

During late July and early August, these men voluntarily make pheasant and grouse brood counts, keeping a day-by-day tally (see insert) of the number and size of young birds they see. When weighed with results of other Department surveys, carrier counts give hunters a reliable preview of pheasant and grouse shooting prospects for October. Carriers also cooperate with the Department early each winter in a census to help measure how many pheasants survive the fall hunting season.

Rural Mail Carriers Do Double Duty By Counting Pheasants, Grouse Seen

Lansing—Probably in the minds of most people, the rural mail carrier is simply a legman for too many bills and too few pieces of good news.

No one really blames him for the bills, of course; but on the other hand, he draws little thanks for a job well done in face of conditions, which are sometimes anything but ideal.

Here in Michigan, about 900 carriers are doubly deserving of a solid pat on the back. These are the men who deliver the latest news to the Conservation Department on the state's pheasant and grouse numbers each summer.

During late July and early August, the carriers voluntarily make pheasant and grouse brood counts along their regular routes to help the Department measure game bird numbers which will be available to hunters in October.

While toting the mail to hundreds of John Q. Publics, they keep a day-by-day tally of the number and size of young birds they see. In recent years, co-operating carriers have covered upwards of 400,000 miles annually with their counts while driving to deliver the mail.

This outdistances any effort the Department could make in conducting bird counts in terms of mileage, but also from the standpoint of time, cost, and manpower.

Naturally, carriers don't count every bird in their areas. However, when their counts are weighed with results of the previous year's census and other Department surveys, they give an accurate score on whether pheasant and grouse populations are up, down or the same as compared with the year before.

This information, in turn, lays the groundwork for each season's hunting regulations covering these upland birds and, over the years, give Department game men a long-range guide to pheasant and grouse management.

Perhaps your mail carrier is one of these 900 co-operators. If so, add his name to your area's honor roll of leading conservationists. His work in conservation is first-class all the way.

Mrs. James Eastcott, Jr., of Detroit, was in Chelsea Saturday for the wedding reception of Joanne Brown and David Rowe. She was accompanied by two of her children, Janet and Gordon. Mrs. Eastcott, the former Dolores Kent, lived in Chelsea before her marriage and is a former classmate of Mrs. Duane Rowe, mother of the bridegroom.

Farm Accidents Annually Hit One-Fourth of Families

Farm accidents annually bring injuries requiring medical attention to a fourth of all Michigan farm families, says Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer.

And, Michigan accident statistics for last July bear out Michigan's 1961 Farm Safety Week theme, "Safe use of farm equipment is a family affair."

President Kennedy has set aside July 23 to 29 as the 18th annual National Farm Safety Week.

The observance calls attention to the seriousness of farm accidents. The farm operator isn't the only one with a stake in farm safety, Pfister says.

"The 21- to 65-year group includes a great majority of all farm owners. Yet people in this group suffered only one-fourth of the serious farm-work accidents reported in Michigan newspapers last July," he notes. "In contrast, one-third of the July accidents involved children 15 and under."

Careless tractor and machinery operations were chief causes. The engineer cites several sobering examples.

A 19-year old Baraga county boy suffered a ruptured bladder when the tractor he was driving turned over in a muddy field, struck a log and pinned him.

A 14-year old Osceola county lad lost both arms when he fell from a tractor into the path of the trailing mower bar.

A 10-year old Charlevoix youngster died when a tractor overturned in a drainage ditch and pinned him beneath the water.

An 11-year old Huron county girl lost her arm at the shoulder when she became tangled in a power takeoff.

These and other examples in Pfister's file add up to two lessons that need not be learned so painfully. Children shouldn't drive farm machinery until they have adequate instruction and maturity. And it's important to keep off extra riders at all times.

Five of the reported farm-work accidents last July involved men over 65 years of age. Pfister notes that these men often tire easily. Also, their reactions slow down without them realizing it.

Mental lapses cause most farm accidents, Pfister urges farm families to talk about safety on their farm each day during National Farm Safety Week.

"Late July requires special care with farm machinery because it's the peak of the farm-work season," Pfister says. "Farm Safety Week has often brought a rush of accidents. It's up to all farmers to make this year's observance safe."

Farm Accidents

Some of the most dramatic, hilarious, frightening and gory readings to be found anywhere, lies in the "open" files of any modern insurance company. This is especially true of those dealing in farm liability.

Knowing that warmer weather brings a rash of accidents, the files of one such Michigan company were examined this week by the Michigan Farm Bureau with an eye to alerting farmers to the kind of hazards faced almost daily in rural areas.

The files show: Two farmers busy vaccinating pigs for hog cholera. As the poised needle was plunged toward one struggling animal, it twisted and the full dose found its mark in the other man's thigh.

A dog and wise old Tom cat were enjoying a fight under the farm porch, and the little boy (aged 5) decided to go to the cat's rescue. Neither animal appreciated the help, and the cat scratched the boy in making good his escape.

In frustration the boy severely bit the dog which ended the fight. A husband and wife were standing in the barnyard talking animatedly over the noise of the running tractor. Reaching agreement on the next job to be done, he pressed down the accelerator and quickly swung the tractor over her foot.

In repairing rafters, a heavy hammer was left balanced on a beam. Working below, the farmer heard a slight noise as the hammer jarred from its perch. He looked up just in time to have the hammer head strike squarely into his slightly opened mouth, "hinging" back both rows of teeth.

The owner of a new tractor thrilled to the feel of power steering as he sped into town on an errand. Planning to come to a dramatic stop, he hit the brakes, which were not locked together. One wheel stopped, the tractor whirled—and ran down the full length of a new car at the curb.

Seeing plate glass ahead, the farmer hit the other brake, and this time flattened a car by the other curb. Net result: two crushed cars, a badly damaged tractor, and an injured man in the hospital clobbered with a "C and R" citation (careless and reckless driving).

After checking just a few of the thousands of farm accidents found in the files the Farm Bureau committee agreed with the National Safety Council that, "The prudent farmer, spring or fall, plants his safety first of all."

The head of the house may be a big gun at the office, but at home he's just a pop gun.

Supervisors Presented Plan For Proposed County Library

At the July 11 meeting of the Board of Supervisors, Mrs. Viola Blackenburg, chairman of the Board of Supervisors education committee, brought up a matter of widespread interest, that of a proposed county-wide library service.

Mrs. Blackenburg said that her committee had met with representatives of the Michigan State Library Advisory Service and the Chelsea, Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor city libraries to discuss the county library proposal.

She said the Ann Arbor Board of Education will be asked to give permission for Homer Chance, head of the Ann Arbor Public Library, to work with representatives of the State Library on budget and plans.

The Ann Arbor Public Library is operated by the "Ann Arbor Board of Education."

Mrs. Blackenburg said the committee has reached the conclusion that a contractual arrangement with an existing library for the operation of a county library system would be more efficient than establishing a separate county library.

She said the Ann Arbor Public Library was chosen for a leading role in the operation of the proposed county library because it is the largest public library in the county.

It was pointed out that the proposed intent of Board of Supervisors was to see that each existing local library system retains its own identity.

Mrs. Blackenburg said there is a particular need for a central reference library, record and visual aid library, amplification of library service to children and establishment of a master file of periodicals available in the various county libraries.

It also was suggested that considerable savings might be realized by present local libraries through centralization of ordering, cataloging and processing of library materials.

Convicted Drivers May Appeal Case

Nearly ten thousand Michigan motorists who have been "grounded" for their poor driving records appealed to local License Appeal Boards for another chance during the first six months of 1961.

The three-man License Appeal Board, which consists of a representative of the Secretary of State, a representative of the Attorney General, and a local police official is an institution found only in Michigan, according to a report issued by James M. Hare, Secretary of State.

"The License Appeal Board gives even the most habitually careless motorist, who may feel that his suspension is excessive, a chance to be heard," Hare said. "In Michigan we have a firm but fair system which gives a driver every legal protection to present his case."

From January through June, 9,900 License Appeal Board hearings were scheduled throughout Michigan, an increase of 3,216 over the 6,724 scheduled during the first half of 1960, and more than twice the 4,274 cases heard in 1959.

Of the 9,900 persons heard more than half either had their licenses returned, had their period of suspension reduced, or were given their license with restrictions.

"Sometimes the L.A.B. will let a driver have a restricted license to drive to and from work only," Hare said. "This often makes it possible for a family bread-earner to keep his job but it restricts him from using his car for pleasure purposes at other times. The Michigan system provides this opportunity for the License Appeal Board to soften the blow of losing a license where a family's economic welfare is concerned. Naturally, if a conviction-prone driver is caught breaking this agreement we take away his license at once."

Telephone lines

By NICK PRAKKEN, Manager

HOW MANY TELEPHONES do you think Michigan Bell serves in our state? The first three people we asked guessed "five hundred thousand," "two million" and "a million." Before you make your guess, here's a clue: In 1935 there were already more than half a million. Well, today there are almost three million. This shows how your telephone company has been building to bring modern, complete telephone service to you—when and where you need it.

EVER HEAR OF A TELEPHONE FARM? It's not like most farms because what's "planted" there by Bell Laboratories' engineers doesn't grow. But the farm does help us analyze and improve various types of underground telephone equipment. Into acres of ground go some 11,000 different items—wires and cable for example—that must be engineered for many years of dependable, trouble-free service. Selected areas are dug up at intervals of from 1 to 32 years to check the equipment's resistance to underground conditions. This helps us in our continuing search for ways to make your telephone service even more dependable.

THE INSIDE STORY. "What do they carry in those little green telephone trucks?" you may have wondered. Well, each truck carries some 400 separate items—from an extension ladder to screws and plastic wood. Every one of Michigan Bell's more than 2,000 installation-repair trucks is stocked in the same way. In an emergency, where trucks must be rushed from one part of the state to another, any installer-repairman would be completely familiar with the layout of whatever truck he was assigned. These little trucks provide him with all the tools and equipment he needs to give you fast, efficient one-stop service when he visits your home.

Law on Cattle Sales Amended By Legislature

Those who sell cattle in Michigan were benefitted by amendments passed at the last session of the legislature that are now in effect which make uniform the brucellosis and bovine tuberculosis procedures for cattle prior to sale or exhibition.

"The importance of this," said Director G. S. McIntyre of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, "is apparent when one realizes that the state has 1,701,000 head of cattle and there are 67,435 farms on which there are cattle."

The amendment extends from 30 days to 90 days health certificates covering cattle tested for brucellosis and tuberculosis, two diseases that have cost herd owners millions of dollars over the years. The law requires that sellers of cattle for dairy or breeding purposes shall provide the buyer with an official certificate showing the animals have met brucellosis and tuberculosis requirements.

The state veterinarian, Dr. John F. Quinn, says the extension of 80 days to 90 days of health certificates in no way indicates a slackening of go disease control measures. With the routine milk tests—infected herds are quickly spotted and placed under quarantine—thereby preventing the movement of brucellosis infected animals. The results of these amendments have already been demonstrated in the more prompt processing health charts for exhibition cattle.

The goal of a program operated jointly between the Federal and State departments of agriculture is to eradicate brucellosis and tuberculosis entirely from Michigan cattle herds.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Vincenz and son, Woodrow, have returned home from a vacation trip to the Smoky Mountains.

'For My Mother's Sake' Pleads Young Teen-Ager to License Appeal Board

It's not for me that I want my license back," the young man in the black leather jacket pleaded, "It's for my mother's sake!"

Secretary of State James M. Hare tells this story of a teen-ager who had accumulated a traffic conviction record of 16 points in less than a year, far above the quota. The record showed that the Driver Improvement interviewer had "grounded" him for 60 days for a series of moving violations which included racing two other gang-jammed jalopies through a red light, speeding through a school playground, illegal U turns, and failure to stop at a State trunk highway.

"This habitually careless driver felt that this interviewer's decision was unfair," Hare said. "He took advantage of his legal rights and appealed to the local License Appeal Board."

As he faced the three-man appeal board, the young man in the snappy leather jacket told how he wasn't interested in getting his license for his own welfare, but "for mother's sake!"

With moist eyes he explained in detail how his mother was in the care of a physician and that he had to drive her once each week to the hospital clinic. How she depended on him to drive her to the supermarket each Saturday. How impossible it would be for his mother to get to church on Sundays without him.

"It's not for me that I want this 60-day suspension removed," he pleaded. "It's for my sick and helpless mother. I don't want my car to go to dances and drive-ins. But she needs it. For her sake, can't I have my license back?"

The Attorney General's representative leaned over and whispered to the Board Chairman, who represents the Secretary of State. He turned and whispered a question of the local police official. Then he turned to the eloquent young speedster and said:

"Young man, this Board has made a decision based on the story you have just told us. We will change the decision of the Driver Improvement examiner and give you back your license today."

The young man's face changed from a scowl to a grin of victory. His heart and flowers pitch had worked.

"You can drive this car any time, day or night," the chairman said. "However, we are including just one restriction."

"O-kay, okay," said the eager young man. "What is it?"

"The restriction is that you may operate this vehicle during the next 60 days under the one condition that your mother be in the car at all times when you are operating it."

Hare reports that the youth's triumphant grin turned into a frustrated frown. The "firm but fair" policy of the State Department had once again been carried out.

Tiny Lake Michigan Village Revived by Utility Needs

According to an Associated Press story, a "wildcat" village that failed in 1840 may still gain fame as a Lake Michigan port. What New York and Philadelphia promoters couldn't accomplish, the needs of a modern-day utilities plant may force into reality by building the harbor.

The village, a tiny resort community, is Port Sheldon, located midway between Grand Haven and Holland.

Port Sheldon village was established in 1836-40 as a rival of Grand Haven but failed in a nation-wide financial collapse. Some 15 buildings, including an exclusive hotel, the Ottawa House, were built by a crew of 300 construction workers before the collapse.

The Roen Construction Co., Sturgeon Bay, Wis., has started building the harbor. Interlocking steel sheet piling is being driven for a breakwater.

Channel depth first is to be only 10 feet as the Consumers Power Co. does not plan to immediately have coal delivered by lake ships. Rail cars will bring the coal for the first generating unit to be put into operation in September of 1962.

Presently there are more than 400 employees working on the generating plant and harbor construction projects. Pouring of a 7 1/2-foot-thick base for a 400-foot concrete stack has been completed for the $45 million generating plant.

Erection of the first boiler for the James H. Campbell plant started in March and will take almost a year to complete. Foundation pouring for the first turbine is complete for the initial unit rate at 205,000 kilowatts. The first generator is the mate to the one now operating in the Dan Kearn Plant at Bay City.

General contractor of the job is Townsend and Bottom, Inc., of Ann Arbor. Commonwealth Associated, Inc., of Jackson, designed the plant.

Train-Auto Fatalities*Increase in State, Nation

Train-auto fatalities are on the rise in Michigan and throughout the nation despite the declining activities in the railroad industry.

Recently, a Saginaw train-auto collision tore a car to shreds and killed the driver. In commenting on this tragedy, James M. Hare, chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, pointed out that Michigan fatalities of this kind during the first five months of this year reached a new high of 32, compared with 29 in 1960, 23 in 1959, and 19 in 1958.

Hare said the national train-auto death rate in 1960 exceeded that of 1959, with 1,300 fatalities in 1960 compared to 1,150 in 1959. Trains, in 1960, accounted for 3.3 per cent of all traffic fatalities compared with 3.1 per cent in 1959.

Accidents caused by collisions between trains and vehicles also rose nationally, from 5,900 in 1959, to 6,200 in 1960.

Foreign Car Sales*Increase During June

June foreign car registrations in Michigan rose 33 percent above the May total, James M. Hare, Secretary of State reports. A roundup showed a total of 1,872 in June, 1,268 in May.

Volkswagens, in the lead as usual, showed 851, an increase of 246 above the May total. Renault more than doubled, jumping from 189 in May to 410 in June. The English Ford moved up from 86 in May to 110 in June. Triumph accounted for 91 title requests, followed by Simca with 56 and Metropolitan with 55.

"All other makes registered less than 50 titles in June," Hare said. "It seems as though foreign car sales are largely in the hands of the 'oversized three,' the German Volkswagen, the French Renault, and the British Ford."

FALLS 12 STORIES IN SNOW

New York-Edith Harkness, 12, daughter of the late philanthropist, William H. Harkness, was seriously injured when she fell 12 stories from her bedroom into a snowbank.

Her doctor said that she suffered fractures of an elbow and several ribs. An exploratory operation showed no organic injury.

The University of Michigan School of Dentistry obtains approximately $175,000 to $200,000 in research funds annually.

THE LETTERBOX*★ Limitations on Con-Con Meetings

July 3, 1961
Chelsea Standard
Chelsea, Michigan

To the Editor:

In attempting to appraise the import of opening all committee hearings on Con-Con to the press and public as is recommended by the Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association, my answer is this:

The elimination of secret action by any sectionalized or party group is very important. Anyone who believes in the merits of this case should welcome open debate and publicity. The ideal of complete openness, so the public may be kept informed, is to be desired and is theoretically right; however, this would allow editors opportunity to exert undue influence out of proportion to their rights as individual citizens.

My past experience with newspapers indicates to me they will attempt to glamorize their choice of people and issues, vitally to some degree the people and issues with which they disagree, sensationalize the unusual and dramatize what they consider to be mistakes.

It is natural for editors to edit the reporting of events of this kind by omitting what they consider inconsequential and emphasizing that which they deem important.

This indicates to me the necessity of some regulation such as a special standardized code of ethical practices of reporting, (without excessive headlines) on the subject.

About three-quarters of the bor unions in the United States have monthly dues of $5 or more, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The Editor

Editor's Note: Whenever one suggests the desirability of any form of control over the fundamental right of a free press to attend and report on any meetings of an elected group, editor sees red. Public officials elected to office as representatives of the people and those people are guaranteed the right to know what their representatives are doing. Anytime an elected official or candidate wants limitations imposed on communication between the electors and the governmental body, is the time the public to question what motives may be. Khrushchev wants limitations on free and open reporting, as everyone knows.

Weekend Painters get a break with a new kind of Latex House Paint!

If you're planning to paint the outside of your house this year, there's a new kind of paint from "Dutch Boy" that can make your job a lot easier. It promises professional results to even first-time painters.

Until recently, the weekend or vacation painter had to wait for an extended period of good weather. Now new "Dutch Boy" Latex can be used even right after a rainstorm. And it's especially helpful for the stop-and-go kind of exterior painting that most homeowners have to do. With this remarkable new paint, you can pick up right where you left off. Lap marks won't show. Skips and holidays can be touched up any time.

Extremely easy to apply, there is no tiring brush-drag with new "Dutch Boy" Latex. On certain exterior surfaces, you'll find a roller works perfectly. This new paint literally flows on over wood and masonry—and it covers fast and evenly. This easy application means that two coats go on in little more than the time it takes to apply one coat of regular paint.

When repainting surfaces with "Dutch Boy" new Latex, there's no need for a separate oil-type primer with all its complications. Instead, you simply use the easy-to-mix additive, PBL, with the first coat ... "Dutch Boy" does the rest.

You have a paint job that dries, bug-free, in just 30 minutes. Add the second coat when convenient.

Messy solvents and thinners are unnecessary, too. Brushes and equipment—like the painter himself—can be cleaned up with soap and water.

Homeowners who have used new "Dutch Boy" Latex House Paint claim it ends exterior house painting as they've known it before. It's an easy, simple, low-cost way to have a complete exterior paint maintenance program. Once applied, new "Dutch Boy" Latex lasts for years and years. Colors will stay bright and clear. Simple one-coat touch-up is all you will ever need. The part of a house exposed to more severe weather can be repainted at any time without repainting the whole house. So long as you keep the same color, your Latex program means that you may never again need to repaint the outside of your entire house at one time.

Properly applied, this new paint can eliminate most blistering and peeling problems caused by trapped interior moisture. New "Dutch Boy" Latex House Paint "breathes"—allowing interior moisture to escape yet sealing out the weather.

This new paint promises much to the do-it-yourself homeowner. Check with your nearest "Dutch Boy" Dealer listed below or write for informative free booklet to: NATIONAL LEAD COMPANY, General Offices, 111 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

Legislature Sets Legal Sizes for Milk Containers

Protection to the retail buyer of milk through defining what sizes of containers are legal in the state was achieved by the last session of the legislature through amendment to the milk law, enforcement of which is a responsibility of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Legal milk containers under the amendment are the half-gallon, 1-quart, pint, 10-ounce and half-pint. Not permitted as legal containers in the state are the gallon, 1½ gallon, 1½ quart and other odd sizes that might deceive the buyer, according to Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre.

Wholesale milk for institutional cooking must be delivered in legal bottles or in metal cans of not less than 3-gallon capacity.

The amendment also permits use of pasteboard, paperboard, or other approved materials as milk bottles.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By RALPH ROBEY

★ Employment Improves

This is the time of year when the size of the labor force and the volume of both employment and unemployment normally increase. The reason is that an enormous number of young men and women get out of school and start looking for work. This time the total labor force and the number of those having jobs increased more than is usual, and unemployment grew by slightly less than is customary. This is one more bit of evidence that the recovery is continuing at a good pace.

Between the middle of May and the middle of June the civilian labor force rose by over 2,700,000 to an aggregate of just short of 74,300,000. Of the increase, some 2.5 million were between 14 and 19 years of age, and the vast majority of these were students. This was almost 200,000 larger than the comparable growth in 1960. Employment was up to 68,700,000 in mid-June, and this was a new month earlier was 1,900,000. The growth too, was pretty much across the board, and in all age groups.

In spite of this favorable picture in connection with employment the number-out of work also went up—by over 800,000 to 5,600,000. In relation to the total civilian labor force, however, this was 6.8 percent as compared with 6.9 percent a month earlier. That, obviously, is much too large a number to be out of work, but in view of the extraordinary addition to the labor force, the improvement in the percentage is encouraging.

Also encouraging is the fact that there was a drop of 100,000 in the number working less than 35 hours a week. And perhaps some comfort can be derived from the decline by 340,000 from a month earlier of those who have been out of work for 15 weeks or longer. However the total in this category still is twice that of a year ago.

Now for a couple of general comments.

The collection of statistics on the amount of employment and unemployment is done by the Bureau of the Census. The analysis and publication of the figures are among the functions of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Under the capable direction of Commissioner Ewan Clague, this analysis is done with the utmost care and honesty. However, the figures are subject to almost continuous criticism.

Granting the particular definition of unemployment we use, there is no real basis for such criticism. The total is obtained by a monthly survey of a scientifically selected sample. Each unit of the sample is a household and data on all the members are collected. The respondent is asked whether each member of the family is at work or trying to find work. If the answer is that a person is trying but unable to find a job, then that person is counted as unemployed.

That, certainly, is as generous as it is possible to be in the determination of the number of unemployed. The origin of the definition goes back to the depth of the great depression, and its purpose at that time was to determine how many persons were in need of relief. Most nations use a much more restricted definition of unemployment—some counting only those who make a formal application for a job at an employment office. In fact, Canada is the only nation which has copied our system, and it is worthy of note that for many months her unemployment has been consistently higher than that in this country. Beyond doubt some portion of our unemployment is "structural" as contrasted to cyclical. We do not have enough details to determine with exactness what proportion belongs in each of these categories. But we may be sure that with the continued improvement of business, the volume of unemployment will keep going down—down, we hope, to a level which is reasonable for a prosperous nation.

Michigan Hunting, Fishing License Take Big Drop

Lansing—Michigan's hunting and fishing license sales took another serious drop last year, falling nearly $100,000 off their 1959 pace, final figures of the Conservation Department show.

Last year's receipts totaled some $7,328,000, lowest figure since 1957 and approximately $450,000 short of the record level reached in 1958.

Among major sales, only small game license were up as compared with the year before. They totaled nearly 648,000 licenses, an increase of about 11,000 from 1959.

Firearm deer license sales fell to 400,915, almost 8,000 below their all-time high of 1959. Archery deer licenses tapered off from 40,678 in 1959 to 38,456.

Fishing license sales remained in a slump which goes back to 1954. Resident fishermen bought 752,800 general licenses, some 3,325 less than in 1959 while trout enthusiasts purchased 190,245 stamps, almost 2,335 behind the previous total.

Some 111,130 nonresidents paid to fish the state's waters on annual licenses while another 88,915 bought temporary licenses. The over-all drop for these two categories was 8,295.

All hunting and fishing license revenues are earmarked for Michigan's Game and Fish Protection Fund which finances more than one-half of the state's conservation programs.

Rowe, of 18530 Bush Rd.,
The Rev. Fr. Gerald Nitowski, a cousin of the bridegroom, ob-ficated in the presence of approximately 300 guests.

Mrs. Dudley Foster and Mrs.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs.

For her wedding she chose a floor-length gown of sheer silk organza over chiffon taffeta with a bouffant, hooped skirt and fitted bodice featuring three-quarter length sleeves. The sash and neckline was accented with seed pearls and sequins. The bodice and sleeves and a full length front panel were of Alecon lace. A crystal-trimmed tiara held her finger-length veil and she carried a crescent bouquet of white roses and ivy.

Judy Blankenship of Warren, for her role as maid of honor, wore pink; cheek organza and a pink taffeta bow hat and veil. Her colonial bouquet was of pink and white daisies.
Bridesmaids were Jeannene
Rowe, sister of the bridegroom, and Patricia Guirey of Berkeley, a cousin. Their ensembles were styled like that of the maid of honor except that they were blue and their bouquets were of blue and white daisies.
Dianne Brown, sister of the bride, and Lowene Rowe, sister of the bridegroom, were flower girls, dressed for the occasion in yellow and wearing bow hats and veils to match. They carried baskets of flower petals.

Mark Policht, a cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.
Jerry Blough assisted the bridegroom as best man, while Douglas

Wrap Frozen Foods
In Smaller Portions
To Thaw Quickly
Consider thawing time when you put foods in the freezer. Anita Dean, foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State University, says large blocks of frozen foods require extra thawing or cooking time and this eliminates them
from quick meal menus.
To freeze ground meat, steaks or chops, Mrs. Dean suggests removing store wrappings and cartons. These are not moisture-vapor-proof. Shape hamburgers into patties or individual meat loaves, and separate the chops and steaks.
Wrap the meat in individual packages or separate the pieces with two thicknesses of moisture-vapor-proof paper and wrap in family-size portions. Individual portions of meat may also be placed on a cookie sheet and frozen, then wrapped for storage.
Casseroles thaw more quickly when frozen in shallow layers. To save on containers, freeze the casserole unwrapped. Unmold the food like a gelatin mold, then wrap and store. When needed, remove the wrap, return the casserole to the original container, and bake.

TRAIN OUT OF FUEL

Springfield, Mo.—A Frisco Railroad passenger train stopped 19 miles west of Springfield. An ambarrassed crew told passengers there was no fuel for the diesel engines.
The employee responsible for refueling failed to do so when the train arrived in St. Louis more than an hour late.
Engineer R. Cochran, of Tulsa, Okla., sent word to Springfield and a fuel truck answered his distress call.

Farm Tiling Demonstration Planned July 25 Near Milan

One of the largest tiling demonstrations and airshows that have been held in Michigan is planned for July 25 in Washtenaw county on the Robert Bevier farm which is located five miles northeast of Milan. The Bevier farm is located at 7028 Judd Rd. near the Talladay farms.

This big event is being sponsored jointly by the Michigan Farm Trenchers Association, the Co-operative Extension Service of Michigan State University, and the Washtenaw and Lenawee County Soil Conservation Districts. In case of bad weather on July 25, the airshows and demonstrations will be held on July 26 as a rain date. The demonstrations and airshows will start at 10:00 a.m. and duplicate demonstrations will be given on the morning and afternoon programs. The event will conclude at about 3:30 p.m.

The Michigan Farm Trenchers Association, which is an organization of Farm Drainage Contractors in Michigan, is sponsoring the ground demonstrations showing tile installation practices with production trenching equipment. About six different types of trenching machines will be demonstrated with about five pieces of backfilling equipment, including auger type backfillers.

The Washtenaw and Lenawee Soil Conservation Districts are sponsoring the airshows and the tiling demonstrations may be seen both from the ground and from the air. The air routes on the tours will also include other points of interest showing conservation practices from the air and the two soil conservation districts, and in Monroe and Wayne counties. A landing strip is available on the Bevier Farm and may be used by persons who want to fly to the event. The airstrip will also be used as a starting point for the airshows.

The Michigan Farm Trenchers Association sponsor state-wide tiling demonstrations periodically and this is the third time that an airshow has been planned in connection with the ground demonstrations. It is expected that contractors and other interested people from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, and from Canada will attend this big event.

Since the drainage is required on heavy soil areas in Michigan for maximum crop production, this event has been set up to show farmers and other interested landowners the latest in equipment and engineering practices with respect to the installation of agricultural drain tile. All interested farmers, contractors, and agencies interested in agricultural drainage are invited to attend this big state wide event on July 25.

As an added feature of the demonstrations, one trenching machine will be equipped with special devices for laying glass fiber filter material over the tile and stabilizing material under the tile in one operation. The filter material is used for filtering sand out of the tile lines under sandy soil conditions and the stabilizing material is used for laying tile across quicksand pockets where the tile are apt to settle out of line due to unstable soil conditions under the tile lines.

Another added feature is the fact that the tile main discharges into a drainage pit and the water is pumped from this pit into the county drain outlet ditch. The pumping equipment will be in use during the demonstration and several types of pumping equipment will be on display.

The demonstrations will be duplicated on the morning and afternoon programs. The Women's Society of the Whittaker EUB church will serve lunches and soft

FARM TOUR SPEAKER — Iowa Farmer Roswell Grant will be the noon speaker for the 13th State Farm Management Tour in Gratiot county. The Coon Rapids, Iowa hybrid seed grower is a super-salesman for agricultural progress. His topic will be, "The Future of American Agriculture."

Headline Acts Signed for Show At State Fair

In another great free grandstand show, the Michigan State Fair will offer television stars John Bromfield, the "Sheriff of Cochise," and Joe Bonville, the "Fastest Gun Alive."

They will headline seven additional acts including Peg Leg Bates, TV's fabulous dancing star, in a continuation of the policy of completely free grandstand performances during the State Fair, Sept. 1-10.

This is announced by Donald L. Swanson, State Fair general manager, who said that there again will be no ticket takers at the grandstand all through the State Fair except for the 250 Mile Auto Race, Sunday, Sept. 10.

As an added treat, kiddies and grown-ups alike will be able to enjoy, without charge, two shows on Labor Day by Danny Fleenor's Hell Drivers.

Swanson points out that for the $1 price of admission to the State Fair grounds, all shows and exhibits are free except for the Coliseum programs and the Midway features. He also announced that the Coliseum prices have been cut this year for adults from $1.75 to $1.50 and for children 12 and under from 75 to 50 cents.

Admission will continue to be free to the State Fair grounds for children 14 and under, a State Fair policy for many years.

Earlier it was announced that the State Fair has booked both the Dick Clark show, and the Ricky Nelson show for the Coliseum programs.

Those who call it free enterprise never tried to operate one without money.

drinks during the demonstrations. Drainage equipment, farm machinery displays by local machinery dealers, tile displays, and an exhibit of engineering instruments, will also be open for inspection on the exhibit display arena.

Dr. Lloyd M. Turk, director of the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station at Michigan State University, will give an address on "Agriculture in the Future" as part of the noon program on July 25.

Visitor Explains Mission Of Goodwill Organization

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hoppe of Crooked Lake from Wednesday until Saturday were a sister-in-law, Mrs. Jane Hoppe, who spent the past five years in Geneva, Switzerland, as a representative of World Goodwill.

traveled widely, including several trips to the USSR. His invitation brought "Mr. K." to Iowa to see the results of modern farming, a success which communism has failed to produce.

The tour day's activities get under way at 9:30 a.m. on the farm of Clara and Jack McLean just east of Alma. This father-son team feeds out more than 600 cattle a year on their 296 acres. Beef is their main product and they'll be sending nearly 300 tons of it to market during the year.

The senior partner has fed cattle for 40 years and is regarded as one of the state's most successful cattlemen. Visitors will see a practical operation in three feedlots where this year Oklahoma steers and heifers are fed under the watchful eyes of experienced feeders. Corn is the big crop and all of it plus another 20,000 bushels goes into making the choice beef.

Corn and beans are the main crops for W. M. Van Page and son of their farm south of Breckenish-crop business. High yields ridge. Van Page and son, John, operate 340 acres largely as a corn and bean farm. The Van Page fields, consistently get well over 100-bushel corn, 60-bushel wheat and 40-bushel of beans. This year more than 100 acres are in both corn and beans.

A shady grove on the Van Page farm will be the site of the noon program. This will follow a beef barbecue to be served up by the Ithaca Rotary Club Rotarians as chefs-for-day will carve up some of Gratiot county's famous beef. They'll be equipped to serve all four visitors during the noon hour before the special program.

The day's final stop will be the certified seed farm of Basil McKenzie just across Wisner Rd. Nearly 400 acres are in seed crops. McKenzie grows under the Michigan Certified brand and his seeds are sold all over the state. Hybrid corn and field beans are the chief crops but he also grows barley, oats and wheat. Improved seeds like those produced on this farm have been no small part in sending Michigan crop yields upward.

Each of the farms will also have demonstration plots to show various cropping practices. These are supervised by crops and soils specialists at MSU. Gratiot extension agents and college specialists will be on hand to explain results and describe management methods at each farm.

Tour director Everett Elwood of MSU issues an invitation to all farmers as well as anyone interested in good farming to attend the Aug. 2 tour. "We're sure you'll find it a day well spent," he concludes.

The dandelion is another thing which, if given an inch, will take a yard.

Constitution revision or Amendment are not the same. Pressure groups want amendment for special interest. Conservators want revision for better administration to protect person and property rights.
