Sidewalk Sale Set for August 18-19

The Chamber of Commerce held a merchants committee meeting Wednesday, July 19, to discuss further plans for Chelsea's annual Sidewalk Sale project which is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, August 18-19.

On the committee with Anderson are Elmer Schauble, Jack and J. V. Burg, II.

The committee stressed that the aim of each year's big Sidewalk Sale event is to offer "gigantic bargains" and this year's sale is to be no exception; in fact, the committee is recommending that merchants plan even bigger and better-than-ever bargains in keeping with the spirit of the old-fashioned "sidewalk" events.

Enthusiastic Crowd Enjoys Band Concert

The downtown area was filled with a music Friday night as the community band presented its concert of the season in the parking lot.

Due to the early evening failed attempts to get the enthusiasm of the audience, the band gathered as the band presented a variety of music in a night concert.

Featured soloist for the event was Byron Pearson who played "Trumpet," accompanied by the band.

The next concert will take place Friday of next week, Aug. 4. Meanwhile, rehearsals continue to hold on Tuesday nights at the high school from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Director David Lindsay will welcome any instrumentalists from the area who wish to play with the band.

The progress is being made by the high school band members in their summer classes. Full ensemble classes and one-half ensemble classes are held each week for the students in this age group. Enthusiasm and interest in the high level and rapid advancement is being made. It is expected that these students will be a great asset to the Senior Band in years to come.

School Board Lists Cost of 2-Mill Levy

This is the first in a series of informative articles to be published each week in The Standard to familiarize residents of the Chelsea School District with problems confronting the Board of Education. Following last week's announcement of an election on August 22 requesting approval of an operational millage levy of two mills for three years.

In a statement by the School Board it is mentioned that this group "feels sincerely that this millage is necessary to operate and maintain the existing property and at the same time continue to offer our children educational opportunities second to none in this area."

Also included is the reminder that School Board members "are taxpayers, too."

Cost of the requested two-mill operational levy in the various townships of the Chelsea School District would be as follows: Sylvan township—$5.72 for $1,000 assessed valuation; $11.44 for $2,000; $17.16 for $3,000.

Dexter township—$6.02 for $1,000; $12.04 for $2,000; and $18.06 for $3,000.

Freedom township—$4.52 for $1,000; $9.04 for $2,000; $13.56 for $3,000.

Lima township—$5.44 for $1,000; $10.88 for $2,000; $16.32 for $3,000.

Lyndon township—$5.32 for $1,000; $10.64 for $2,000; and $15.96 for $3,000.

Sharon township—$7.26 for $1,000; $14.52 for $2,000; $21.78 for $3,000.

Grass Lake township—$4.10 for $1,000; $8.20 for $2,000; $12.30 for $3,000.

Waterloo township—$4.00 for $1,000; $8.00 for $2,000; $12.00 for $3,000.

The variations in the townships' amounts per $1,000 are caused by the equalization factor brought about by the difference between the assessed valuation placed on property by local assessing officers and the state equalized valuation.

Members of the Board of Education have indicated they welcome questions of electors in the district who might wish additional information regarding the coming election.

Next week the Board of Education will submit a list of reasons for requesting the two-mill operational levy.

Babe Ruth Baseball Teams Are Wearing New Uniforms

Babe Ruth League "A" and "B" baseball teams appear this season in smart new uniforms made possible with the help of contributions from Chelsea merchants, industries, clubs and organizations.

Action toward securing uniforms for the two teams was implemented by two of the mothers who attended last year's Babe Ruth League baseball games at Stockbridge, Manchester and Dexter where teams all were in uniform, and heard the Chelsea boys say, "Gee—I wish we had uniforms."

The two mothers got the boys started picking up papers and bottles to sell, putting the proceeds in the uniform fund.

With the help of the coaches, Chelsea merchants, industries and townspeople were contacted and their generous response made it possible to outfit both teams in the league.

Listed as contributors are Frigid Products, John Keusch, J. R. Seitz, William Freeman, Chelsea Products, Hankerd's Service, Chelsea Cleaners, Chelsea State Bank, Knoll's Ashland Service, Chelsea Lumber Co., Warren Daniels, Dr. J. H. The village landfill on the Warren Eisenbeiser farm will open to the public next Tuesday, Aug. 1. Last Tuesday, William Terns, the garbage and rubbish contractor, started hauling into the site. Battle Flares Over Cleaning, Lowering Mill Creek Drain

A communication sent to the Department of Conservation at Lansing the past week by Dr. Otto K. Engelke, Washtenaw county health officer, and Joseph W. Price, public health engineer, relative to a drainage improvement project being proposed by the Washtenaw County Drain Commission, brought a sharp retort yesterday from Drain Commissioner John H. Flook.

The drainage improvement project mentioned in the letter is the Mill Creek drain east of Chelsea on which Flook says he has momentarily been expecting to receive final engineering reports as well as permission from the New York Central Railroad to lower a culvert under the track just east of the village.

Flook maintains that all that is planned is to clean out the existing drain and restore it to its original level. It has become filled up during the years, Flook said, to approximately 2 1/2 feet above the original level.

He stated that the drain, in its present condition, causes flooding problems on area farmland and backing up of water into the village of Chelsea. At present, he said, water in the vicinity of Erer Rd. and Madison St. is within a few feet of some of the homes in the area, creating a definite health hazard.

A copy of the letter sent to the Conservation Department follows: July 18, 1961.

Mr. Gerald Eddy, Director, Department of Conservation, Lansing, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Eddy:

It has come to our attention that a drainage improvement project is being proposed by the Washtenaw County Drain Commission to clean and deepen Mill Creek in the vicinity of Sections 5, 8 and 9 of Lima Township. This creek adjoins the marshes in the Chelsea Game Area along the west side of Four Mile Lake and provides the outlet for this lake. It is understood that the plans call for a deepening of the channel near the crossing of the Dexter-Chelsea Road by lowering the invert of the culvert under the New York Central Railroad.

Although improved drainage is needed for a portion of the neighboring Village of Chelsea we are greatly concerned over the effect of any channel deepening upon the water level of Four Mile Lake and the adjoining marshes and potatoes. These wet lands are an important natural resource both to ground water reserves and for waterfowl. We are wondering if your agency has reviewed this project and will take action as necessary to safeguard the public interest in maintaining the water levels of the

In an open letter to Dr. Engelke, Drain Commissioner Flook says the proposed drain project will "partially" relieve Chelsea of a "serious health problem" caused by stagnant water in the area between the cemetery and homes on Erer Rd.

The letter follows:

"Your recent actions regarding the Mill Creek Drain are not in the best interest of public health and welfare. Not only did you fail to ask me for any information about the project before complaining to the State Department of Conservation, your failure to obtain the facts in the matter may be very costly to the people in the Chelsea area since additional expenses of engineering and litigation resulting from an investigation by the state are paid by the drainage district.

If you had the facts I am sure you would find your interference by this investigation unnecessary and your duck hunting as good as over at Four Mile Lake.

The Department of Conservation was notified prior to the hearing at which the need for the work did not appear. The Department did not express any concern at that time—did the County Health Department.

I also point out to you, even though I'm not much of a duck hunter or fisherman, I have long

Fire Fighters Will Meet Here Monday

The Southern Michigan Association of Fire Chiefs and Firemen will meet in Chelsea, Monday, July 31, and members of the Kiwanis club have been invited to hold their weekly dinner meeting in conjunction with the association gathering. Approximately 160 association members and Kiwanians are expected to attend.

The dinner will be served by the Chelsea High school senior class in the high school cafeteria.

Principal speaker is to be John C. Chapman, Educational director of the Fry-Pyter Co. of Dayton, O.

Demonstrations of new fire trucks and fire-fighting equipment, to which the public is invited, will take place in the high school parking area at 7 p.m.

a strong supporter of nature and wildlife conservation. At the same time, you remember that I have legal responsibilities in the official capacity of my office.

You know, as well as I, there is a serious health problem in the Chelsea area that will be partially solved by this project. Careful personal interest should not prevent its achievement.

This project, at the nearest point, is over one-half mile from the lake. It is entirely on private land and nowhere enters the Chelsea Game Area.

In addition, the Board of Deterrence approved this drain in the interest of public health and safety.

It appears to me that in the light of the board's decision that the county health officer have consistent policy in health matters. May I suggest this be agreed and that your duck hunting pleasures not cloud your official responsibility as health officer.

Drain Commissioner.

Rec. Program Will Enter Final Week

The fourth week of the Chelsea Recreation Council summer program, July 17-21, saw attendance rising by approximately 200 over the previous week. Total attendance for the week was 1,518.

Swimming continues to attract the largest number of children, the week's total participation being 558.

Morning arts and crafts programs at North and South Elementary school playgrounds listed 385 for the week; morning baseball, 325; and evening activities, 250, according to figures submitted by Alan Conklin, the director.

Next week, July 31-Aug. 4, is the sixth and final week of the summer recreation program.

Total participation for the first four weeks of the program was 6,423 for a daily average of 338. There was no program on July 4.

AND THEY CALL THIS WORK? Norman Brasso of 7435 Gregory Rd., north of Dexter, was finishing the job of baling his first cutting of alfalfa last week when the photographer stopped in to see him. Shown above, he was making a turn around a field at the Moore farm on Gregory Rd., with his kick-baler. Brasso, shown here on his tractor as the machine shoots a freshly-bound bale into the wagon behind it, says his kick-baler literally makes baling a one-man operation with help needed only to haul the loaded wagons to the storage location. As far as he knows Brasso had one of the first machines of this kind in the area; he got it three years ago and says they have been on the market for four years. The machine pays for itself in a short time considering the savings in time and labor. Brasso explained. Helping Brasso during this year's hay cutting and baling operations were his son, Richard, Leonard Williams and Raymond Quigley, a Chelsea youth.

"If we can catch up to the United States in per capita production of meat, butter and milk we will fire a powerful torpedo into the foundation of CAPITALISM"

Mr. Khrushchev knows that American agricultural efficiency is the cornerstone of our standard of living. He knows, too, that in the struggle between freedom and communism, food is ultimately more important than missiles. In spite of intensive efforts, however, critical food shortages still exist in Iron Curtain Countries; and Khrushchev himself admits that the Soviets lag far behind the United States in agricultural efficiency. American farmers represent only 9% of our population, yet they produce abundant food for all of us. In Russia, on the other hand, 45% of the population must work the land in order to grow barely enough food for the country's needs. What's more, thanks to farm efficiency, our food bill takes only 1% of our income. The average Russian worker must spend 1/4 his income just to feed his family. The difference in remaining income—what remains to be spent after food, clothing and shelter—makes the difference between our standard of living and Russia's.

American farmers are few in number but their contribution is great: to our standard of living and to our prestige in the eyes of the world.

Mill Creek Drain...

marsh lands in the Chelsea Game Area?

Sincerely yours,

Otto K. Engelke, M.D., Health Officer

Joseph W. Price, Public Health Engineer

Village President Robert Daniels, when asked about the drain situation as it affects Chelsea, said he is hopeful the Health Department and the Drain Commission will find a solution satisfactory to all concerned.

Daniels said apparently the Health Department feels that the proposed drainage project might affect the water flow in Mill Creek and thus have an adverse effect on operation of the Chelsea sewage disposal facility.

"Certainly everyone in Chelsea," Daniels said, "is interested in having the sewage plant operating efficiently; also, in having the stagnant water problem solved satisfactorily, and at once, but every effort should be made to promote a compromise by means of which the situation could be resolved without sacrificing safe water levels."

Daniels said the Village Council has been concerned for some time with the problem of adequate drainage in the eastern part of the village. At various times some cleaning of the drain has been attempted but a permanent solution must be found.

"It is urgent that the stagnant water problem be solved this year — not next year or the year after, but at once," Daniels pointed out, "however, no matter how important this is, it should not be necessary to accomplish drainage of this area at the expense of possible adverse effects on Mill Creek which has such a vital part in the operation of the sewage disposal plant."

Dr. Engelke was out of town yesterday and could not be reached for comment, but Public Health Engineer Price said the purpose of the letter to the Conservation Department was in the nature of an inquiry — that "the Health Department does not wish to give the impression of being 'against' improving drainage for the Chelsea area but would like to see more extended engineering study to look at the other side of the problem, as well — that of preserving the marshes which are natural reservoirs for maintaining ground water reserves."

Commenting further, Price said, "maybe more detailed engineering study will show that no adverse effects would follow the drainage project as proposed by the Drain Commission; if so, then a 'go-ahead' would be indicated for both the drainage program and the safeguarding of area marsh lands to insure adequate water levels and wildlife habitat."

Farm accidents annually bring injuries requiring medical attention to a fourth of all Michigan farm families, say Michigan State University farm safety specialists.

If grain on the border-line for moisture content is to be farm stored, some protection from insects can be provided by using a wheat-protectant chemical, say Michigan State University farm crops specialists.

EXPLANATION FOR SPORTSMEN

What Is This Game of Golf?

Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a man to play it. It is physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress in a $200,000 clubhouse.

Golf is what letter-carrying, bagging and carpetbeating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and hard-soled shoes by gentlemen who required a different implement for every mood.

Golf is the simplest-looking game in the world when you decide to take it up, and the toughest-looking after you have been at it ten or twelve years.

It is probably the only game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it was too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little balls and as many clubs as a player can afford. These balls cost 75 cents to $25, and it is possible to support a family of ten people (all adults) five months on the money generated by the balls lost by golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is in the center of a green. A "green" is a small area of grass costing about $5 a blade and usually located between a brook and a couple of apple trees, or a lot of unfinished excavation.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200 worth of curious-looking implements, especially designed to provoke the owner.

Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what that purpose is. They are the exceptions.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts six and says, "Made that in five. That's one above par."

THE CANOE

Challenged by many breakthroughs in boating since its birth among prehistoric lake dwellers in Europe, the canoe has remained a much-used means of travel on lakes and streams. Once indispensable to Michigan's early Indians, explorers, and fur traders, it is now riding the crest of popularity among thousands of recreationists who ply the state's waters each year. The canoe almost certainly made its way to our Western Hemisphere from Asia long before Columbus set foot in this country. Its shape and design are virtually the same as they were thousands of years ago. Today's popular metal canoe is modeled after the birch-bark hunting canoe used by the Great Lakes Chippewa Indians. It is light, rugged, and unsinkable and requires little upkeep.

Origin of First Canoe Is Unknown But Dates Back to Earliest Recorded History

Lansing—Watercraft of legend, history and interest for all outdoorsmen; a vessel whose shape and design today is virtually the same as thousands of years ago; a weapon of war, also indispensable in the peaceful needs of primitive peoples throughout the world; a modern relic, a frail, easily broken craft, yet capable of carrying thirty times its own weight.

This is the canoe which today has as secure a future as its past is distinctive. Just where and when the canoe idea was hatched is unknown. Where the first canoes were made is unknown. The material used in their construction is unknown. Perhaps in our foggy human beginnings, the canoe idea occurred many times, to many primitive men, scattered over the globe and the centuries.

In any case, the earliest known canoes were dugouts, used by prehistoric lake dwellers in Europe. Somewhat later, the Egyptians used the canoe idea in their very early papyrus arks, papyrus being a reedy hollow-stemmed plant (from which early paper was made). Chinese records of 2000 B.C. carry the notion that all boat types derive from the log dugout. Greeks and Romans in the centuries near the birth of Christ followed the Egyptian "ark" idea, and these vessels, again, were basically canoes.

But while the earliest examples are found in Europe, the canoe almost certainly came to our Western Hemisphere from Asia during the early Mongolian migrations from Siberia, through the Bering Sea into Alaska, and thence southward into the North, Central and South Americas.

These migrations occurred probably 200 centuries before Columbus scudded in front of his westernlies into the Caribbean, and by the time the Great Discoverer arrived in 1492, canoe types apparently were everywhere in this hemisphere, from the Arctic north to Tierra del Fuego in southernmost South America.

People in the Great Lakes area have grown accustomed to the Chippewa birch-bark canoe as a prototype of last model, for all canoes. But around the world and over the centuries, canoes have been built from all manner of trees, tree barks, reeds, leaf bundles, and skins, and the size may vary from a one-man shell less than 10 feet long to a double log dugout up to 100 feet long, capable of carrying several dozen men. And in its heyday, the Great Lakes Chippewa canoe itself knew many variations of size and shape.

There were, for example, the two general sizes in use by the Indians. These were, first, the 15-18 foot family or hunting canoe from which our popular metal canoes of today have been designed, and second, a larger version of this same canoe which was used for freighting and for carrying war parties across the Great Lakes or other large bodies of open water.

The family or hunting canoe was the most popular with our Great Lakes Indians because it portaged easily, one man could handle it, it was easiest to build, it could be loaded heavily, and it needed but a few inches of water to float.

The bigger canoe, on the other hand, served the Iroquois and the Chippewa in their battles along the Great Lakes. Some of these birch-bark craft held 50 or more warriors, had higher sides and were much longer, possibly 35 to 45 feet.

Whatever its length, this canoe later became prime transportation for the Voyageurs, and though they did not originate this large craft, their name is nonetheless applied to this boat. Now and then, a drawing or early writing turns up indicating the Voyageur canoes had a very tall, new-moon shaped prow, sometimes ornamented with tassels or paintings. Construction of a birch-bark canoe was a long and rather arduous task. In one recorded instance, it took two men 13 days to construct one. In another record, it took a team of shipbuilders 45 days. In World War II, the Menominee Indians sewed the bark on a canoe frame in one day. Gathering the materials was in itself a lengthy task. Only the straightest, biggest white birch trees were chosen for bark. Jack pine roots were used for sewing. White cedar provided prows, gunwales, ribs, and flooring. And the final construction went something like this:

A level open spot of ground was found, and a very shallow depression, about the shape of a canoe bottom, was made. Poles were driven in along the edges of this depression, slanting outward like the ribs of a ship. The bark was placed in this cradle, smooth side out, and the interior framework was developed inside this curving piece of bark. The poles that were driven in the ground helped hold the bark in the canoe shape while the interior flooring, sides, and end pieces were inserted and sewed into place.

Much of this framing was pre-constructed, so that once the final building began, it could be done rapidly. The bark was kept water-soaked, making it pliable enough to take the necessary shape. After it dried, however, it kept this shape, being then too brittle to be reformed. Side and end pieces of bark were sewed onto this bottom piece of bark as necessary and cedar stripping sewed along the gunwales.

Of course, the coming of civilization pretty much put an end to canoe construction among the Indians. Gradually, the Indian found that hunting, fishing, and trapping were not the only ways to make a living. The fur trade played out, too, and finally went flop. Roads provided other means of transportation. For a time, the canoe must have known some dark days.

Then after a time, the white man began to build his own canoes, not of bark, but of wood and canvas, and finally, in the early 1940's the metal canoe made its appearance. And the story of its popularity is known to anyone who now travels our northern waterways. It has most of the advantages of the Indian canoe, with few of the disadvantages. It is light, and tough and with air compartments, unsinkable. It can take all sorts of bangs when running rapids. It needs little patching, painting or repair from year to year and it can stand out in the weather indefinitely.

And finally, though this metal canoe lacks much of the beauty and delicacy of the Indian bark canoe, it nonetheless carries in its design centuries of historical development—a development that came from so-called primitive peoples and has been little improved upon by modern man.

300 Miles of Highway To Get New Edge Lines

Lansing—The State Highway Department is painting nearly 300 miles of new white lines on the edge of state highways in Michigan this summer.

The lines help define the edge of highways at night and during bad weather. Studies indicate they are also responsible for a reduction in accidents and shoulder maintenance costs.

The Highway Department also said nearly 550 miles of existing edge markings will be repainted during the summer program.

Edge lines are popular with motorists. Highway Department Traffic Division officials responsible for the program report that the project has received more public acclaim than any other project of their Division.

This is one of the best times that you will ever have to pay your indebtedness.

Wheat Harvest Slow Because of Rains

Wheat harvesting in this area, which normally would have been at its peak this week, has been delayed because of heavy rains over the week-end.

At Chelsea-Milling Co. and Blaess Elevator Co., the first loads of the season were brought in Friday night.

Irving Batdorf, of the Munith area was the first area farmer to unload at Blaess Elevator, his wheat having a moisture content of 13.5 per cent and test weight of 59 pounds per bushel.

Blaess Elevator classed the wheat as "good."

Wheat seen so far from an area near Dansville has shown shrunken kernels and rust because of unfavorable weather conditions there. It has been extremely dry during the past few weeks in this particular area and yields and quality are down.

Last year the first wheat arrived at Blaess Elevator on July 18.

Lytle Haselwerdt, at Chelsea Milling Co., said the first wheat of the current season brought in Friday night came from the Stockbridge area where lighter ground makes for earlier maturing of the crop.

Haselwerdt said the first load was good wheat of 60-pound test weight and 14 percent moisture content.

Combining was at a standstill after the week-end rains but favorable weather Tuesday and yesterday was expected to accelerate deliveries to both outlets here.

Washtenaw County Will Host State Black and White Show

Three hundred or more Holsteins are expected at the State Black and White show at the Rural Activities Center in Washtenaw county on Aug. 4. For the Holstein breeder, this is the big event of the year; for others, an opportunity to see an outstanding livestock show at no charge.

Paul Chaffee, entry clerk of the state show urges those participating to bring their animals in the day before the show and it is very important that registration and health papers be sent along with the animals.

The judging will start at 9 a.m. One class to see is the aged dairy cows—animals that are still outstanding milk producers. There will also be the 4-H and FFA fitting and showing contest.

Kovars Wilkie, the State Black and White show committee chairman, says also, 4-H and FFA leaders are encouraged to bring young people to this event. In fact, this is an opportunity for every dairymilk in Michigan to get a firsthand look at some of the best Holsteins in the state.

The Center is easily accessible from all directions, and plenty of parking space is provided. In addition, a lunch stand will be on the grounds and free cold milk will be furnished by the American Dairy Association of Michigan and the Michigan Holstein-Friesian Association. In case of rain, the show will be held in a tent on the grounds.

W. A. Dexter, county extension agent, Washtenaw county, urges every one, including urban friends to visit the show. In fact, the evening of Aug. 3, would be an excellent time to take the children out to see the cows being milked.

Also to observe the feeding and grooming of some of the best Holstein cattle in the United States.

The show is to be held this year in the Rural Activities Center halfway between Ann Arbor and Saline on the Ann Arbor-Saline Rd.

Summer Theatre Workshop to Present Comedy Program

"Shakespeare in a Barn" is the second program of the Summer Theatre Workshop held on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Frisinger near Chelsea. The program of light comedy will be an adaptation of "Midsummer Night's Dream," scenes from "Merchant of Venice," and "The Taming of the Shrew." The play "Dark Lady of the Sonnets" by George Bernard Shaw, the adaptation of "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be acted by 10-18-year-old members of the workshop. They have also done the famous comedy, "Dark Lady of the Sonnets" and scenes included in the program will be acted by members of the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre Workshop. "Shakespeare in a Barn" will be presented in the Theatre Barn of the workshop at 8 p.m. on Thursday, July 27-28. A nominal admission charge will be levied.

For the youngsters in the Summer Theatre Workshop, this week's presentations are the culmination of the second and final three-day workshop program that began June 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Sandberg with her son, Sexton, as technical director. At the end of the first three-day period, an original play "The Elemental Scarecrow" was presented.

Several Chelsea youngsters having parts in the production. Roger Frisinger will appear in this week's presentations of "Midsummer Night's Dream." Paul Lancaster and Clifford McClain, Chelsea boys who have been active in the summer theatre, will assist as ushers at the plays to-night and tomorrow night. Those from Chelsea who attended the July 20 dinner and roundtable meeting at Bruin Lake Boy Scout camp included the following representatives of Cub Pack No. 325: Mr. and Mrs. John Potts (Potts is Pack Committee chairman); Den Mother Mrs. Warren Hoover; Mrs. Curtis Farley; Mrs. Vernon Parks and Mrs. Potts; and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Frisch. Frisch is the Cub Scout institutional representative for the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Representing Boy Scout Troop 25 were Scoutmaster Robert Foye, Committee member Vernon Parks and Scouts Don Dickelman and Tom Penhallegon.

The Boy Scouts also represented the Order of Arrow in lighting the campfire at the close of the session.

Severe Squall Disrupts Area Telephones

Tornado warnings were broadcast for this area late Sunday afternoon but fortunately no tornado materialized and the all-clear report was given at 7:45 p.m. However, a severe wind and rain storm occurred at about 4 p.m. The Chelsea-Dexter area experienced less inconvenience than the Ann Arbor area because of the storm, principal damage being interruption of telephone service. The number of telephones reported out of order in the Chelsea area was 39 while Dexter's report listed 27 out of order following the storm. Excessive moisture leaking into telephone cables caused the trouble, rather than the wind. A total of approximately 1,500 telephones were affected in Ann Arbor.

Power lines were downed in some sections of the county and one line downed at the Norman Hinderer farm, on Chelsea-Manchester Rd., resulted in a run for the Chelsea Fire Department when it was feared a wheat field would be set afire.

The storm area followed a line from Gladwin in the north-central part of Michigan, through the Chelsea-Dexter-Ann Arbor area and into parts of Indiana.

Michigan Jaycees Win National Membership Drive

Daniel Maroney, president of the Chelsea Jaycees, reports that at the 41st national Junior Chamber of Commerce convention at Atlanta, Ga., Michigan placed first in the year's membership drive. Maroney commented, "Chelsea Jaycees are very proud to be a part of the state Jaycees and share in the honor of the membership record."

At the convention M. L. Benton, a past president of the Michigan Jaycees, was elected national Jaycee vice-president and Al Hill was selected "an outstanding national director."

Maroney also mentioned that the Chelsea Jaycees still have a number of copies of the booklet, "Home, Health Emergencies," The book, available free from any Jaycee member, is described by Maroney as helpful and educational. Touching on other recent Jaycee activities, Maroney said that three Chelsea youths—Tom Tuttle, Ken Larson and Dave Feldkamp—participated in the July 14 junior golf tournament sponsored by the Jaycees and held July 14 at Barton Hills, Ann Arbor.

Merchants Earn Split in League Play

For the second time Chelsea could not get past the last place Bakers. After seeing Motor State lose their second straight to Jabour in the earlier game, Chelsea thought they had a chance, but the Bakers dampened their hopes with a 4 to 1 victory.

Chelsea's errors were the chief factors in their defeat. Jerry Ringe pitched a fine game allowing just four hits. George Mayer had two singles and George Stafman one.

The game was played at 8 p.m. Thursday at Veterans Park, Ann Arbor.

Four errors by Motor State in the first inning at Tuesday's 5 p.m. game (July 18) enabled Chelsea to score four runs in the inning. Bob White struck out nine and walked only three as he turned on a fine three-hitter for his first effort of the year.

The game was marred by a fight which broke out in the fifth inning resulting in a quick ending for Jim Baxter and Odie Reid.

Ag Teachers Meeting on MSU Campus

East Lansing—"Teaching Today for Tomorrow's Agriculture" is the theme of the 42nd annual conference for Teachers of Vocational Agriculture, July 24-28 at Michigan State University.

More than 200 Michigan vocational agriculture teachers, including Stephen Hayden of Chelsea High school, are meeting at MSU's Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, along with a number of school principals and superintendents, directors of vocational education and teachers of institutional on-farm training from all parts of the state.

Objectives of the week-long conference are to promote both understanding of the responsibility of the teachers for tomorrow's agriculture and the agricultural education profession, and to increase the technical knowledge of agriculture teachers in Michigan.

To accomplish these objectives, a series of general sessions, panels, regional FFA meetings, discussion groups and workshops are considering various aspects of technical agriculture, young-farmer programs, FFA activities, adult-farmer programs, rural civil defense and related topics.

Among the speakers are Dr. Maurice F. Perkins, coordinator of foreign programs at MSU; Luther Haydin, past president of the National Vocational Association of Teachers of Agriculture, and R.C.S. Young of the General Motors Corp.

Sponsoring the conference are the State Department of Public Instruction and the Michigan Association of Teachers of Vocational Agriculture, in cooperation with the MSU Colleges of Agriculture and Education and the Continuing Education Service.

Car Burns On I-94 After It Throws Rod

A 1953-model car owned by Thomas Dillon of Jackson was extensively damaged Saturday when it caught fire after throwing a rod on I-94 in Sylvan township.

The rod smashed through the block and broke the gasoline line and gas spilled on the hot engine and burst into flame.

The Chelsea Fire Department was called and put out the blaze.

Other traffic mishaps included a one-car accident on Old US-12 near Sylvan Center, Saturday afternoon resulting in head lacerations suffered by the driver, Vincent L. Schmitz, and complete destruction of the car he was driving, and struck a tree.

According to reports of the accident, the car went out of control Friday afternoon Mrs. Susan Hockaday and her two-year-old son, David, of Battle Creek, suffered cuts and bruises when the car Mrs. Hockaday was driving was involved in an accident on I-94 near Fletcher Rd. Her car hit a truck parked just off the highway.

She told sheriff's deputies that she was attempting to pass a car in the right lane because it would not move from the left lane. However, as she started to pass, the car moved into the right lane and forced her off the highway.

You don't have to go to church, even your own, but the practice will not hurt you.

250-Mile New Car Race Set At State Fair

The biggest and richest auto race of the year in Michigan will be the top sports attraction in the coming Michigan State Fair, Sept. 1-10.

State Fair Manager Donald L. Swanson announces that Andy Barto again will promote a 250-mile MARC (Midwest Association for Race Cars) new car race at the State Fairgrounds mile track Sunday, Sept. 10.

This is good news for Michigan speed fanciers, for Barto owns a well-deserved reputation as one of the ablest auto racing promoters in the country. He staged the thrilling State Fair 250 mile last year in which Bill Cheesbourg, the Indianapolis 500 veteran from Tucson, Ariz., outlasted Bob Duell, of Frewsburg, N. Y., to post one of the biggest victories of his career.

Since auto racing returned to the State Fair calendar in 1949, Barto has served as promoter seven times. He was in charge of the unforgettable AAA Indianapolis championship race in 1949 which drew 21,807 spectators and $62,907, records which still stand in Michigan racing.

Barto formerly was auto racing promoter during a 13-year tenure at the now defunct Motor City Speedway. From 1946 through 1958, over that period, attendance at the track averaged more than 250,000 paid admissions per year.

St. Paul's Delegates Attend Guild Summer Conference

Mrs. Louis Burghardt, Mrs. David Strieter and Mrs. Henry Karner, represented St. Paul's Women's Guild at the four-day summer conference at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, O., sponsored by the Women's Guild of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, United Church of Christ. The conference was held July 18-21, the theme being, "Through, Not Around Samaria."

Special vespers and assembly speakers included the Rev. Robert O. Laaser, pastor of Mt. Tabor Evangelical and Reformed church at St. Louis, Mo., described by the Chelsea representatives as a "most outstanding speaker" as he enlarged upon the conference theme at each of the devotional periods.

Also particularly mentioned were Miss Esther W. Hymer of New York, director of Christian World Relations Department, United Church Women, who led a study class on "Action for Peace"; and Mrs. Gordon Sperry, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., chairman of the Missionary Education department of the Women's Guild, who conducted classes on "Latin America."

Miss Hymer has been a consultant to the Economics and Social Council of the United Nations since its founding and has attended most of the sessions in San Francisco, New York, Geneva and other parts of the world. She narrated a film strip on the United Nations at Wednesday evening's session of the conference, stressing the fact that the main objective of the UN is "a world where mankind can achieve freedom to live . . . in dignity . . . and to live well."

Mrs. Hymer said churchwomen have pledged themselves to courageous, intelligent, prayerful support of the UN and urge study of its work.

Mrs. Sperry, whose husband is now pastor of St. John's church, Allentown, Pa., has traveled widely in the United States and Canada in her former position as director

Legion Auxiliary Post Delegates Attend Convention

CheLSEA people who attended the American Legion and Auxiliary state convention at Grand Rapids, July 20-23, included Mrs. Ruth Chriswell, Mrs. Lynn Kern and Mrs. Howard Walz, as delegates of Herbert J. McKune Unit No. 31, Keith Boylan and Donald Doll, delegates of Post No. 31; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maroney.

Boylan was appointed at the convention as district representative on the Department of Michigan publications and public relations committee.

The Chelsea Auxiliary members were singled out for special mention by the outgoing national Auxiliary president, Mrs. Henry Ahnemiller of the Yakima, Wash., vicinity, who said her husband was a nephew of the late Henry Ahnemiller of Chelsea. The Chelsea members were also guests at a reception in her honor.

Elected as state president of the Auxiliary was Mrs. Minerva Gitzel of Ishpeming.

The new state Legion commander, elected unanimously, is Marshall "Mike" Taylor of Cadillac.

Miles Anspaugh of Reading was elected Legion Department of Michigan finance officer.
