CHS Baseball Season Opens This Afternoon

35 Young Men Seek Varsity Assignments

Today marks the opening of the 1962 Chelsea High school baseball season with the Bulldogs playing Stockbridge at 3:00 p.m.

Some 35 young men answered the call to baseball this spring, and from these candidates only three lettermen remain from last year's team. Nine lettermen were cut through graduation last June, and the big problem now is to find replacements for what were some of the best athletes.

This problem may not be as difficult as it might have been. This year's freshman class, along with some fine prospects from the sophomore group, appear to be the best young baseball candidates to meet themselves at Chelsea High school in many years. There are 12 better-than-average freshmen boys, some of whom are going to make the jump to varsity competition this year. In addition to the freshmen, seven fine prospects from the sophomore class are working hard to gain a spot on this year's varsity.

There are only four juniors out this spring, but all four appear to have a good opportunity to land starting assignments.

Four senior candidates, only one of whom has much baseball background, round out the group of hopeful baseball prospects for this year's squad.

The varsity, at least for the first few games, will consist of three returning lettermen, Seniors Catcher Don Atkinson, and Pitcher Don Brooks, and Junior Outfielder Don Dudley.

Don Brooks and Don Dudley are up pitching prospects even though Don is a fine shortstop and Dudley an outfielder.

Another catching prospect, and good one, is Freshman Oran Herman. At first base it will be Don Joseph. Second base is for grabs with Junior Roger Hansen, Sophomore Gordon Bogan, and Freshman Jim Cameron.

In pursuit of the starting position, short stop will be shared by Don Brooks and Sophomore Curt Atkinson. At third it will be a couple of fine Freshman prospects sharing the duties as Dennis Stoffer and Gary Dresch are scrapping for the assignment. Dresch is also good young pitching prospect.

In the outfield and all in contention for starting roles are Sophomores Jim Hanson and Jack Crawford. Springing Duane Weiss, Stanley Hand and Gary Cattell, along with Junior Dudley Holmes.

Boys who will be assigned to the Junior Varsity for the present time, are Sophomores Lynn Harley, Mike Hitchcock and John Hickey, along with Freshmen Bill Henderson, Terry Hudgins, Scott Peters, Dick McCalla, Phil Boham, Dennis and Gary White, Ed Winick, Tom McLannahan, Lee Saterwhite, and Jim Knott.

The Varsity schedule is listed below, but the Junior Varsity schedule is not yet ready for release. There may be additions to the below schedule which will appear at a later date.

25 Track Men Prepare For Opener

Twenty-five track men at Chelsea High school are eagerly awaiting the date of Tuesday, April 17, on that day after four weeks of practice, Chelsea High will open the 1962 season with a triangular meet at Ann Arbor competing against U. High and Saline.

With 25 candidates, Coach Al Conklin has the largest squad in the school's recent history. Just two years ago there were only 12 members on the squad.

The 1962 squad has eight returning lettermen. They are Larry Cattell, sprinter and pole vault; Bill Coltre, sprinter; Jim Maynard, hurdles, shot put and high jump; Duane McLaughlin, hurdles, shot put and broad jump; Warren Porath, 440 and broad jump; Mike Schrade, 440, hurdles and high jump; Paul Schramm, 440; and Don Wilson, half mile.

In addition to the letter winners, Coach Conklin has four good mile prospects in Vic Parks, David Winans, Mike Daniels and Keith Haab. In the half mile, Jim Schneider, Scott Smith and Charles Schumuk show promise.

In the 440, newcomers Dick Haist, Bill Dettling, Bruce Hoover and Tom Powers have been making good progress.

In the hurdles, freshmen Tom Sharrard and Dave Dietle have shown ability. Dick Lawhon, Paul Huber and Ray Doering have shown promise in the shorter distances, and all are freshmen.

Jeff Spaulding and Doering have been improving in the shot put.

In pursuit of the starting position, short stop will be shared by Don Brooks and Sophomore Curt Atkinson. At third it will be a couple of fine Freshman prospects sharing the duties as Dennis Stoffer and Gary Dresch are scrapping for the assignment. Dresch is also good young pitching prospect.

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK is being observed throughout the United States this week—a time to stress the advantages of good library services in a community. The four women in the above photo are the librarian and her assistants who serve patrons of Chelsea's McKune Memorial Library. Mrs. Francis Wojcikowski (seated) is chief librarian. Her assistants, standing, from left, are Mrs. George Walworth, Mrs. Russell Bernath and Mrs. K. R. McManis. One of them is on duty at all times the library is open to the public. Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays the library is open from 11:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, the hours are 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. From Sept. 1 to June 1, the library also maintains evening hours—7 to 9 p.m.—three evenings a week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. During the summer months the only evening hours are Fridays.

Libra and large amounts of rubbish are not included in the range of the village contract for general rubbish and garbage pick-up Tuesdays and Fridays. Disposal of rubbish in amounts larger than the ordinary weekly quantity is the responsibility of the householders, themselves. All residents have identification cards entitling them to take rubbish to the landfill Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m., and all day on Saturdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The landfill is located on Workman Rd. approximately half-way to North Lake.

Descriptions Given for Tour Homes

Committees in charge of arrangements for the annual house tour sponsored by Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery, have prepared descriptions of each of the five homes to be opened for visitors Thursday, April 26. They include the J. V. Burg home, the Edward Kelly home and the homes of the Dele Baileys, the Lee Ferguson home and Mrs. and Mrs. Julius Blaes.

Descriptions of two of the homes, the Burg and Kelly homes, are included in this story as arranged by the committee. They list special points of interest about each home—and a family home built several years ago and the other an older home recently remodeled throughout.

THE KELLY HOME—The Edward Kellys at 714 Taylor St., learned that any addition made to a house often changes the family's way of living and can start a chain of unpredictable benefits.

The good characteristics of the house were incorporated into a definite interior style when the Kellys purchased the property and completed remodeling previously begun.

A consistency in details avoids the jumble of different kinds of windows, varied levels of sills and heads, any clashing of colors and textures. Each new wall or closet appears to be part of the original structure, as the stairway and hall storage areas.

Extra Rubbish Pick-up Set For Saturday

As a convenience for village residents who, in their spring clean-up of yards and homes are accumulating refuse and rubbish in amounts larger than the semi-weekly rubbish-pick-up contract provides for, Chelsea Public Works Department, under the direction of Superintendent, Kellie Allen will make a general rubbish pick-up Monday, April 16.

All rubbish—leaves, twigs, grass, tree limbs, etc.—from yard cleaning, as well as discards from housecleaning will be picked up, if it is placed at the curb early in the morning as crews will need to get an early start if they are to finish their job in one day.

To provide sufficient pressure for the additional gas supplies which will be needed for the new building under construction for the village and at the same time continue present high level service to all other consumers in the area, the pressure is being increased from the current three pounds to five pounds per square inch, doubling the capacity of the gas distribution system.

Grass Fires Continuing To Be Hazard

The spring fire season is here and the condition of the grass and brush is kindling dry. Washburn county has suffered a rash of wild grass and brush fires. Most of these fires have been started by people burning trash in unsafe containers, using poor judgment, not taking the proper precautions to prevent its spread and leaving their fires unattended. All of these causes are directly responsible for the large loss in wildlife habitat, pine plantations and even buildings according to Conservation Officer Donley Beyer.

This past week local fire departments have averaged 20 runs a day on grass and brush fires started by careless burning. These runs cost between $50.00 and $250.00 each. This is a tremendous financial burden on the community.

"I would like to make a suggestion at this time," Beyer stated, "that you confine the burning of your household trash to the evening hours. The humidity is usually high at that time and the wind of the day has died down. Most men are home at that time of day and they should do the burning. Stay with your fire till (Continued on page three)

False Rumors Report Chelsea Gambling Raid

Traveling like a spring grass fire the first of the week was a story that "a big gambling raid took place in Chelsea over the week-end."

No one was certain how the rumor started but it was entirely false was proved yesterday in a check of Chelsea Police Department and Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department records.

Dean J. Wilks, president and general manager of the new Chelsea Motors, Inc., plans extensive changes; the present showroom is to be remodeled to accommodate a modern coin laundry and dry cleaning establishment, which will be opened in the building.

A new showroom for Mercury, Meteor and Comet automobiles will be constructed adjoining the north side of the present building.

A gas station is to be added to the south side and the entire space will be black-topped for the convenience of customers, providing a large parking area.

The garage and service station will be manned by factory-trained mechanics.

Gas Company Changing All Regulators

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. announced yesterday that a long-range program has been started here to improve service for existing gas users in Chelsea and to provide adequately for new customers now and in the future.

A survey conducted here during recent months to discover possible gas leaks in mains throughout the village resulted in detection of only a few minor leaks which have already been repaired or are in the process of being rectified.

The survey pointed out the fact that gas mains in the Chelsea area, most of them installed when gas was first brought to Chelsea in 1912, are still in excellent condition. Favorable underground soil conditions here, together with the high quality of pipe used for the original installations, are given by company officials as the reason for the present fine condition of the mains.

To provide sufficient pressure for the additional gas supplies which will be needed for the new building under construction for the village and at the same time continue present high level service to all other consumers in the area, the pressure is being increased from the current three pounds to five pounds per square inch, doubling the capacity of the gas distribution system.

Ancient Sport of Boxing Needs To Be Eliminated or Modified

The sport of boxing has steadily changed over the years. Once men fought with bare knuckles, then gloves were introduced, then heavier gloves, and so on. But even with today's heavier gloves, people are still getting killed. With a recent death and another near death in the past few weeks we think it's time to give the sport a little serious thought.

In the past 20 years the number of people who think boxing should be banned as a spectator sport has increased steadily. There is today a powerful sentiment in favor of abolishing boxing. It is compared to the Roman arena, where thousands gathered to see a little blood and possible death.

Seeing men fight is an exciting spectacle and always has been and always will be but the time will probably come when promoters will not be allowed to make money out of turning loose two men in a ring to go after each other's heads in a knockout effort, for the benefit and glee of a crowd.

Boxing may survive if compulsory headgear is inaugurated and if heavier gloves are made mandatory. Of course, this will decrease the number of knockouts and so the thrills, to the fan, will also diminish.

But as far as boxing skill is concerned, there could still be plenty of room for a display of skill, under these limitations, and even knockouts, and maybe, even, an occasional death.

Of course people are injured in other sports too. But in our opinion boxing is the only sport in which the actual physical beating is the primary object. Other sports have as their goals the defeat of an opponent through skill and outmaneuvering the opposition with physical punishment being an incidental side-effect. But with boxing and its primary object of physical punishment—we say it's time to revise our outlook.

Congress Studying Another Attempt To Solve Farm Production Problems

Reports indicate that in both agricultural committees of Congress the new Administration farm program is gaining support. This is interesting for a number of reasons.

First, the new program was not drafted by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. It is reportedly more the work of another man in the department; it is also true that some of the top men now trying to direct farm affairs, and the President himself, have limited experience in this field.

President Kennedy makes no bones about his limitations. It is therefore somewhat bewildering to see such men as Meyer Feldman in the role of farm expert in the department. Yet he might prove a wonder, and so might Freeman, and so might Kennedy. The nation hopes so.

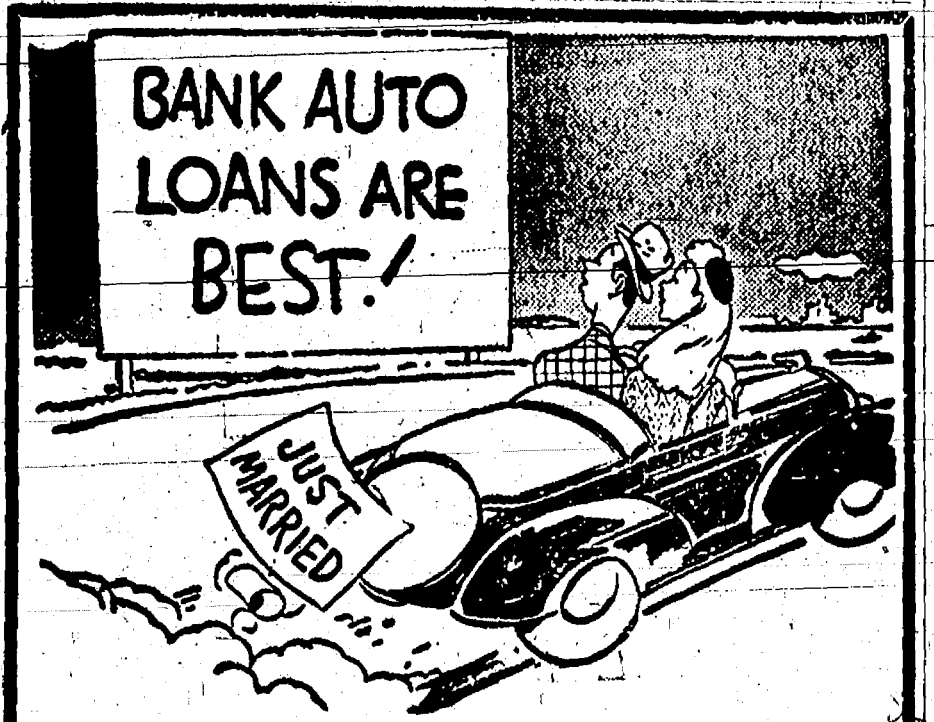

The farm bill which President Kennedy is pushing would tackle the wheat and corn surplus problems in a manner in which the cotton problem has been handled. It aims to cut down the surpluses and the storage programs which are now costing the taxpayer untold hundreds of millions a year.

The point of regret is that Freeman did not adopt in the over-all plan the principle of subsidy payments to farmers, on price-support allocations, which would enable farm products to be sold on a free market at lower prices.

Unless the surpluses are cut down, especially in corn and wheat, and unless the system which produces the huge stored surpluses is corrected, the farm quagmire will get worse and worse and drastic action will eventually be mandatory.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Voters probably will elect a Congressman at large in November along with the other state-wide offices.

The legislature's first attempt to "reapportion" the state's Congressional districts to create a 19th seat met a veto on the Governor's desk.

Republicans in the legislature admitted the plan was a "status quo" measure, which would have left most of the districts as they are now. The new district would have been created with the southwestern section of Macomb County and the southeast portion of Oakland County.

Gov. John B. Swainson and other Democrats want a general redistricting of the state. Michigan's 12th district, the western section of the Upper Peninsula, is the nation's smallest with 17,431 people, and the 10th district, in Detroit, is the largest in the nation with over 800,000 people.

The legislature is expected to try again in the remaining three weeks of the session, but it appears doubtful the "old guard" of the GOP ranks will go along with an apportionment plan proposed by Sen. Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo.

The Morris plan was tentatively approved by Swainson and other Democrats before it was introduced but met strong Republican opposition because it included a general shift of all districts.

It would appear logical that both parties would be inclined toward settling the redistricting problem before November's election.

The problems of running a state-wide campaign are known only to politicians, perhaps, but the difficulties of being a good representative for some 8 million people should be obvious to all.

If no redistricting plan is approved in time for the fall election, the candidates for the Congressmen-at-large seat most likely will fit one of two categories—either someone who has been in the Michigan political spotlight and succeeded, or a relatively new and ambitious individual.

Three persons already are being mentioned as likely candidates for the office.

Secretary of State James H. Have declines to say whether he is seriously thinking about the position, but Democrats are eager for him to seek the spot. This perennially good vote-getter could very likely beat any opposition.

On the Republican side, both a relative newcomer and a veteran candidate have indicated some interest in the seat. They are State Rep. Gilbert E. Bursley, Ann Arbor, and Constitutional Convention delegate Alvin Bentley, Owosso.

Bursley, who is concluding his first term in the State House, has had wide and varied experience in government positions although his present post is his first elected office. His activities as chairman of a legislative committee on economic growth have enhanced his position somewhat. The committee has held hearings in every corner of the state.

Bursley openly admits he is interested in running for Congress but apparently he does not want to face a primary fight with 2nd District Rep. George Meader, who also lives in Ann Arbor.

Bentley was unsuccessful in his bid for the U. S. Senate seat held by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara so might not be willing to attempt another state-wide campaign, but he makes no bones about the fact that he wants to stay in public life. He gave up a seat in Congress to make the Senate race in 1960.

The early months of 1962 gave the Michigan Economic Development Department every reason for optimism.

So far this year, the ratio of industries moving in as compared to shifts out of the state is running 6 to 5. Dr. Paul Herbert, chief of the department's research division termed this "a distinct improvement" over the same period last year.

Indications are that the trend noticed in the latter part of 1961 in south-eastern Michigan is continuing, Herbert said. The trend showed the Detroit Metropolitan area and the southeastern counties were staging a comeback in industrial location.

The department is planning to emphasize individual community efforts in industrial growth during the entire year, Herbert said.

Cities and villages that have been doing outstanding work in local industrial development are being singled out for meetings of the Michigan Industrial Ambassadors," he said.

The Ambassadors is a group of nearly 300 businessmen who travel throughout the country promoting the industrial advantage of Michigan communities.

Among the notable local efforts in the immediate recently have been the attempts by Port Huron, Jackson, Detroit and several other cities to get a new district processing center planned for the Midwest by the Federal Internal Revenue Service.

Port Huron is offering a 30-year site where a new building will be constructed and leased to the government for $1 a year. The Jackson Industrial Park officials have offered 15 acres and a building for lease.

Herbert said several other cities have also offered free sites in an attempt to secure the 1,400 year-round jobs to be available at the new government office.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where them stockpile officials—in Washington has sold another 58,000 pounds of Chinese feathers. This fellow J. G. Harlan that's in charge of stockpiling operations, told Senator Douglas they had a "overabundance of Chinese feathers and was gradual getting this item cut down."

He said they took a 52,000 loss on this last sale but, very confidential, these Chinese feathers wasn't up to the latest—Government specifications.

This stockpiling situation come up at the country store Saturday night and some of the fellows said they was a little hazy on the details of this whole operation.

Ed Doolittle, for instance, said he wasn't worried about the $52,000 loss, allowed as how nothing under a billion dollars was important to them Congressmen no more. But Ed said he couldn't get to sleep at night for worrying about what kind of feathers them Chinese was selling us. Was we stockpiling goose feathers, chicken feathers, duck feathers, or was they some sort of rare feathers that we ain't got here at home?

Ed figured if they was just plain old chicken feathers, the Government could buy a million pounds of 'em right here at home real cheap, and he was shore they would come to the latest Government specifications.

Clem Webster said he wasn't wasting no sleep worrying about the kind of feathers, but the fellow that had him setting up at what was the Defense Department was doing with them feathers. Was they using 'em for pillows, mattresses, or was they just making swivel-chair cushions out of 'em for the stockpiling officials set-on.

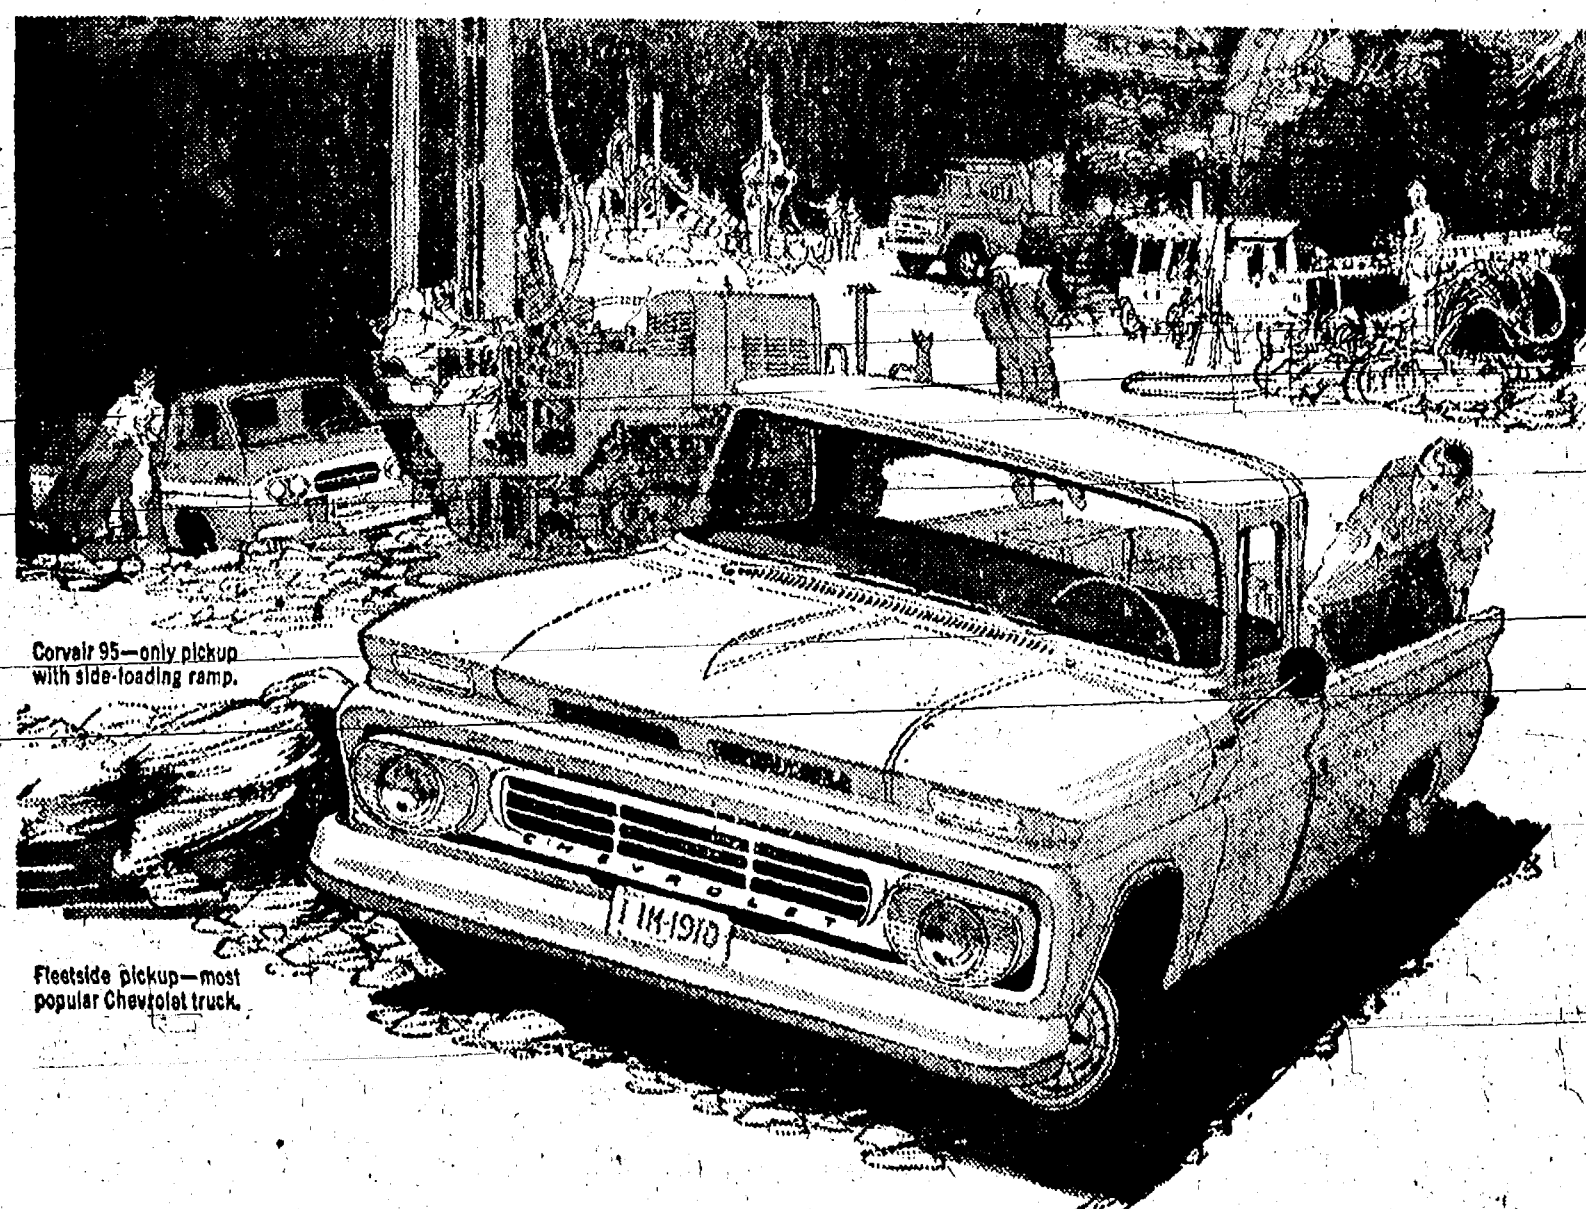

It was voted, Mister Editor, you to get a letter off to our Congressman and see if he can get up these little details. But feller don't want you to get mixed up with him about the matter.

Crub pointed out that some improvements is being made also in this situation. Zeke said he was reading a piece in the paper where we had enough state materials stockpiled in 1959.

Zeke said we had enough state materials stockpiled in 1959, fight four wars, and now we're down to three wars. Zeke also said how this is a real problem you should give our Congressman a pat on the back for this improvement. But one thing, Zeke said, was worrying him and wished you'd ask our Congressman about it. Back in 1959 we was stockpiled for four wars, and now we've got down to three wars, it's running $14 million.

As soon as you get a reply to Mister Editor, let us hear by you.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew

GM'S 75-MILLIONTH AUTOMOBILE—With a junior astronaut in the front seat symbolizing an accomplishment never before reached in the auto industry, General Motors "launched" its 75 millionth car built in the United States in ceremonies at Pontiac's main plant. The pearl-ivory Bonneville convertible rolled off the assembly line 54 years after GM's organization and less than eight years after the corporation built its 50 millionth car in 1954. The smiling driver is E. M. Estes, a General Motors vice-president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Girl Scouts Will Deliver Cookies Here Next Week

Girl Scout cookies, for which Girl Scouts and Brownies took orders in February, have arrived in Chelsea and will be distributed to girls within the next week. The girls, in turn, will deliver them to their "customers" and collect payment for them. The boxes are priced at 40 cents each.

A total of 327 cases (3,924 individual boxes) were sold here this year as compared to 257 cases (3,084 boxes) last year. Cost to the Girl Scouts for each box is 22 1/2 cents. Five cents of the profit on each box remains within the troop of the girls who sold the cookies while the remainder goes toward the over-all camping program of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

According to reports by the cookie sale chairman, Mrs. P. E. Sharrard, 165 girls sold cookies here and the 11 troops they represent will retain $196.20 in their troop treasuries. The Council will realize about $500 profit from the local cookie sale.

Working with Mrs. Sharrard were the troop captains—Mrs. Wilber Worden, Troops 77 and 9; Mrs. Glen Clark, Troop 48; Mrs. Brice Graham, Troop 148; Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons, Troop 596; Mrs. Earl Tison, Troop 50; Mrs. Carl Reynolds, Troop 51; Mrs. George West, Troop 52; Mrs. J. R. Seitz, Troop 58; Mrs. Andy Blackwell, Troop 606; and Mrs. Calvin McNutt, Troop 625.

Mrs. Sharrard concluded her cookie sale report by saying that "all of the adults in the Chelsea Neighborhood and all of the Girl Scouts sincerely appreciate the support of all the people who youthfully make the cookie sale so successful."

House Tour...

The house was planned for years of practical comfort and pleasure for a growing family. A full basement conversion has the facilities to serve laundry, workshop, projector and slide area, storage and recreation. A patio and enclosed back lawn provides outdoor living and safety for children.

THE BURG HOME

Our homes contribute more to shaping what we are than most of us realize. Eight wagon wheels at 315 Wilkinson have introduced you to an atmosphere of the old west combined with early American charm and the subtle touches garnered from European travels. Here you will find expressions of talents and interests of the J. V. Burgs. This is a house serving as family gathering place for which the 58'x28' recreation room is used. The designs of the telephone booth, the walk-in storage and dressing room, the baking unit, come from Mrs. Burg's interest in architecture.

An outdoor porch and terrace extend the feeling of strength and spaciousness one meets upon entering the large central hall of the house. It is a house that does not stop indoors. A pleasing design is created outdoors by virtue of their attractive plantings.

Lectures Teach Children About Nature

Dexter and Chelsea students are among the hundreds of Washington county youngsters who know more about Mother Nature today because of a continuing program conducted by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

During the past few months Authority naturalists have been taking the story of the "out-of-doors" into the classrooms and also hiking over winter trails to explain features of natural science to school children and their teachers.

Talks have also been given to civic, garden and service clubs as well as other organizations.

However, with the arrival of spring, more and more youngsters are taking over the nature trails at Kensington Park southwest of Brighton or listening to lectures in its Nature Center.

Kenneth L. Hallebeck, authority director, reports that each year there are more schools in southeastern Michigan taking advantage of the program. More than 42,000 persons listened to talks conducted by Authority naturalists from Nov. 1, 1961 through March 31 of this year—with most given at schools. During a similar period in 1960-61 the total was over 39,000 persons, a figure twice that of the 1959-60.

Another 900 persons participated in field trips, lectures at the Nature Center and leader orientation programs supplied during March.

William F. Hopkins and his naturalist staff gave 280 lectures, covering schools in the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne during the 1961-62 period. His assistants were Donald Boon, Rainer Brocke and Charles Damm.

Close to 3,500 persons visited the Nature Center at Kensington Park last month, to view dioramas and other seasonal exhibits related to natural science. A popular attraction "year-around," more than 277,000 persons have visited the nature museum since it opened in 1958. It is open for public viewing from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and holidays and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. during the week.

Hallebeck pointed out that school groups may visit the Nature Center by appointment from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, to see exhibits or hear special lectures. Advance appointments are also available for guided nature hikes.

Appointments may be placed by contacting the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit 26 or calling Woodward 1-5865.

Each year several thousands of persons in southeastern Michigan, including many tourists, also take self-guided hikes along the trails in all seasons since the plant life and interesting features are labeled for easy identification.

SPORTS COMMENT

By Pete Fritchie

Washington, D. C. Casey Stengel and his Mets are something to see this year. Maybe they won't go very far but maybe they will surprise a lot of people and be a pretty respectable ball club after all.

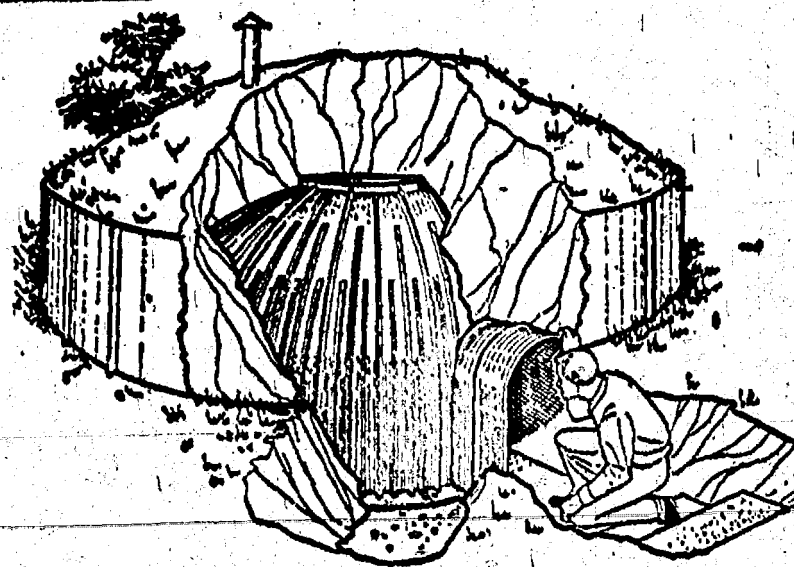

The pitching Casey has been coaxing out of his assemblage of veterans and youngsters in training has been interesting—and often surprisingly good. But the main sentimental thing about this team is that old Casey got the boot from the Yanks, and now is back, and everyone wonders whether he can do anything with the Mets.

Well, it's too much to expect him to win a pennant. But if he took his assortment of rag-tags and pickups and veterans and beginners and molded them into a team, well that would at least show the world that Casey is a good manager, and wasn't just rolling in all that Yankee talent. So the fans are for him.

And in the first meeting between these two clubs, in the old Yankee training home (now the home of the Mets when training) in St. Petersburg, was memorable. Casey led with his best and he went into the ninth leading the world champions three to two. But the Yanks tied it 3-3. They are now at ninth-inning capers like that.

And then, to the cheers and delight of a tense crowd, the Mets won the game in the last of the ninth—no doubt for Old Casey as much as for anyone else. It was as if the Mets had said to the mighty Yankees: "And that for your pupa!"

The season runs for over 150 games nowadays and the Mets will have plenty of occasions to win the ninth inning, when they don't come through. But so far this new National League team is more interesting than one might have suspected, and if Casey brings them in anywhere outside of tenth of the ninth, he will have won a victory. If he does better than that, it will be equivalent to a pennant with the Yanks.

STEEL IGLOO fallout shelter, more roomy than corrugated pipe type shelters of steel, could be self-assembled for about $175 from prefabricated sections available in department stores, building supply outlets and mail order firms. Details may be obtained from civil defense offices supplied with the "Family Shelter Designs" free booklet of the Defense Department's Office of Civil Defense.

Auditor General Completes Audit of County Records

Auditor General Billie S. Farnum has released a report of the annual audit of the records and accounts of Washtenaw county. This report was made and submitted to the Board of Supervisors under the requirements of the "Uniform Accounting Act."

The report covers the results of an examination of the records and accounts of all Washtenaw county officers and offices for the 1960 calendar year. It indicates that all recorded departmental receipts of the various county offices were fully accounted for, and that the accounting records of the several offices were maintained in a satisfactory manner with certain exceptions as indicated in the report.

The following matters were the subject of special comments, audit exceptions and recommendations:

1. Certain past due accounts receivable of the county road commission were directed to the attention of the superintendent-manager of that agency.

2. Certain past due tuberculosis accounts receivable were called to the attention of the chairman of the county board of auditors. Assurances were also given that proper procedures would be followed hereafter in connection with the maintenance of the control accounts on a monthly basis for the various receivables of the board of auditors.

3. Certain long standing "crippled and afflicted children" account balances ($50.82) in the "County and Individual Trust Fund" which may be subject to escheat to the State, and some exceptions involved in the maintenance of the Child Care Fund disbursement ledger were directed to the attention of the director of the juvenile division of the probate court.

4. The county treasurer's attention was called to the clearing of a deficit in the "Pittsfield-Ann Arbor" revolving drain account by transfer from an available balance in the Drain Fund, certain statutory requirements for the charging of interest on delinquent personal property taxes by local treasurers, accrued interest adjustments to be made to the subsidiary accounts of his investment ledger, and requirements for Marine Law Enforcement Fund reports to the State Waterways Commission.

5. Certain account deficits in the Revolving Drain Fund, which should be presented to the board of supervisors for consideration and action. This matter was directed to the drain commissioner's attention.

6. A search of county files indicated that there were no surety bonds on file for the county medical examiner or one of the members (John P. Cook) of the county board of auditors. The surety bonds of elected officials had not

by M. L. Wood

★ Good vs. Bad Eggs

Chances are that the eggs you buy for the Easter holiday will be "imported" from some other state. Close to 50 percent of all eggs eaten in Michigan are shipped across our borders from other egg-producing areas.

Unfortunately, top quality eggs to fill this obvious market have not always been in good local supply. One can hardly blame interstate shippers from taking advantage of the fact.

"Describe a top-quality egg," we asked Peter Sikkema, Michigan's chief quality-egg enthusiast. "Pete," who heads the Egg Marketing division of Farm Bureau Services, is quick to reply that, "It's a 'U. S. Fresh Fancy-Quality' egg—and is the best on the market because the U. S. Department of Agriculture says it must be. If it bears the 'Fresh Fancy-Quality' label, it has met specifications that put ordinary, run-of-the-coop eggs to shame," Sikkema said.

Sikkema gives these pointers on how a newly opened top-quality egg acts. It "rides high" in the frying pan, with the white supporting the yolk in a firm fashion. The yolk depth depends on support from the white portion surrounding it. The yolk may be any of a variety of colors and still be good. Color is both a seasonal and a feeding factor. If the egg runs all over the pan, something is wrong, Sikkema says. "Something that could range all the way from poor refrigeration to the age of either the egg or the hen that produced it. Older birds tend to produce lower quality eggs—another reason why we work to get Michigan producers on a long-range quality control program that begins with the flock, continues through the feed they eat, and ends in atmosphere-controlled trucks taking them, hours old, to refrigerated super-market display cases—at premium prices."

The inference is plain. There is a good Michigan market for top-quality eggs. Production of such eggs can pay in a big way. It could reverse the trend and make Michigan an egg-exporting, instead of importing, state. All it takes is the kind of quality product today's discriminating housewife demands—and deserves.

State's Tourist Industry Accounts for Big Share in Hotel, Motel Receipts

East Lansing—Michigan's tourist industry is second to conventions and ordinary commercial sources in rising up hotel and motel receipts, according to a report by Dr. John P. Henderson of Michigan State University.

Studying lodging industry receipts for 1958, he found "seasonal" motel and hotel receipts accounted for $32 million out of the total of slightly over $100,000,000.

Hotels netted 75 percent of total receipts and motels the remainder, with hotels employing about 12,000 persons and motels 2,000. Detroit metropolitan area took in $37 million of the $75 million hotel receipts.

Shortage of Librarians Exists in U.S.

National Library Week, April 8-14, serves to focus attention on a number of phases of library work. In this connection it has been noted that there is a shortage of qualified librarians.

Varied programs are underway by Michigan's State Library in Lansing to help meet the increasing personnel shortages being experienced by libraries today. At present, there are about 250 professional vacancies in Michigan's public, school, college and special libraries. These require a person with an M. A. degree in Library Science. As library systems expand to meet growing community needs, more and more vacancies are created every year. Nationally, vacancies in 1960 were 8 to 10 times higher than the total number of library school graduates.

Efforts to find librarians and technical assistants have been accelerated in recent years by a rural public library scholarship program sponsored by the Michigan State Board for Libraries. Now in its third year, the program provides $10,000 in scholarships which are made available through the Federal Library Services Act. Eight $2,000 graduate scholarships in library science study have been granted and four more will be awarded this June. Three county libraries and a potential regional library in Michigan have already hired trained personnel through this program. Four more college trained graduates will be available this year and four others will begin their graduate training.

In addition to the graduate scholarships, several $250 grants have been made to high school graduates enrolled in a library aide program at Ferris Institute. Purpose of this training is to provide personnel skilled in basic library techniques and procedures whose employment would allow the graduate librarian more time to bring library materials and the public together. When released "for active duty," services to special groups, and individuals may be more fully developed through full utilization of the professional's knowledge and experience.

Highway Dept. Buys State-wide Radio Network

Lansing—The Michigan State Highway Department has awarded contracts for a state-wide radio network to co-ordinate its construction and maintenance activities.

Motorola, Inc. of Chicago submitted the low bid of $813,500. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said the radio system will permit rapid communication between Highway Department personnel throughout the state and will be especially beneficial during emergencies.

Equipment for the new radio system includes 550 mobile radios for cars, snowplows and other maintenance vehicles; 56 radio towers, 15 base stations and 12 control stations.

The Federal Government will pay half of the cost of the system. Mackie said construction of the radio towers is expected to start in a few weeks. The first installations will be made in the Highway Department's Kalamazoo and Jackson districts and will follow in order in Grand Rapids, Detroit, Pontiac, Saginaw, Alpena, Cadillac, Newberry and Crystal Falls districts.

ATOMIC ENERGY ASSEMBLY
Mr. James Anderson from Tennessee presented to the student body and faculty of CHS a very educational and interesting program on atomic energy. Mr. Anderson had an atom smasher, and with the help of three people from the audience (Carol Dancer, Dick McCalla, and Dennis Stoffer), he demonstrated the energy within the atom. He showed how, by adding neutrons, an element is made radioactive.

He had a geiger counter and showed that there is energy in the air all the time.

He explained how medical people used this radioactivity to help destroy brain tumors and other forms of cancer without damaging the actual body tissue.

He explained that if radioactivity can be made to run an automobile it would take a gallon of ocean water to cover the same amount of miles for which it now takes 350 gallons of gas.

He also told the assembly that every year the rockets are becoming larger and larger. He closed by showing a scale model of a rocket which scientists hope may some day reach the moon.

MR. LINDSAY

Mr. Lindsay is originally from Marquette, Michigan. Mr. Lindsay began his college career at the U. of M. His college life was interrupted by the second world war. After the war, he finished school at Michigan State.

Mr. Lindsay began his teaching career as band director in Standish for five years. From Standish he went to Durand where he taught for seven years. Mr. Lindsay is in his second year of teaching here in Chelsea.

Mr. Lindsay is particularly impressed with the fine co-operative attitude of his students who are making excellent progress.

The Lindseys are the parents of three children. Mr. Lindsay is also the adult choir director at the Methodist Church and is a member of the Jack Brown dance orchestra from Lansing.

The eighth grade is preparing for their rating competition which will be held at CHS on April 14. The senior band is getting ready to go to the state competition in the Lansing area.

LATIN I

Mr. Smith's Latin I students have been studying third century Latin. They have also been translating some Latin stories about mythology.

LATIN II

Latin II students are now learning more basic sentences, from which questions are asked and answers are given. They are also studying new vocabulary words. Recently the students have also been studying comparison of adjectives and adverbs.

MR. COWELL

Mr. Cowell came to Chelsea six years ago after teaching in Lake Orion and Mount Morris. In these schools he taught chemistry, mathematics, government, history and sixth grade reading. He teaches chemistry and advanced algebra in Chelsea.

Mr. Cowell got his teaching degree at Michigan State University. He is an advisor to the Freshmen class and chess club. He was also helpful in initiating the science open house held in Chelsea last year.

Mr. Cowell said that he liked Chelsea although he wishes more people would show interest in doing something.

GEOGRAPHY

Geography students under the direction of Mr. William Hunter are making individual reports in class on any topic of their selection. The main topic being chosen is Africa and its many geographic regions.

Each geography student also has a project which consists of cutting out newspaper and magazine articles related to geography and world events and analyzing them and showing they are related to geography.

ALGEBRA I

Mr. Slater's Algebra I classes are solving story problems and systems of equations. They also had an introduction to roots and powers and will begin working with roots and powers soon.

Mr. McGill's Algebra I classes are solving equations for "x" and "y" simultaneously. They are also graphing simple equations.

ART I

Mr. Hummel's Art I classes are just finishing a group of projects which consist of ceramics, textile design, prints, plaster and copper. As soon as these projects are completed, they will make an illustration and diagram of a toy. Later they will be taking live drawings with chalk.

ART II

Art II classes are doing same as Art I, but they will go into Package Project instead of toys and drawing.

ART III

The fine Art III students are still working on their projects for the year. Kay Speer just finished an abstract oil painting and is now working on copper. Kurt Howe is making cuff-links with copper. Ava McDougall is working on a wood carving. Janet Forner is working with copper and with a sculpture of a man 6 feet tall. Diane Miller is working on copper enameling. Very often the students have the opportunity of learning from others as well as Mr. Hummel.

HOME EC I, II, III

Mrs. Straker's Home Economics classes had a six weeks unit on baby-sitting. They learned how to manage children, what to do if a child gets hurt, and how to entertain children of various ages.

Home Economics II girls just completed a unit on social living: how to better understand people, how to act in various situations, and what to wear when attending specific places.

The girls are now studying child care. Some of the surveys they are taking include why children act

Immunization Clinics Report 40% Participation

Dr. Scott Harris, president of the Washtenaw County Medical Society, has announced the final tabulation of the participation in the county-wide booster immunization program in which smallpox vaccinations and polio boosters were offered to Junior High school students and to ninth and tenth grade students in school systems which have no junior high schools.

During the course of the program 2,964 students out of a total enrollment of 7,444, or 40 percent of the enrollment, participated in the program; 2,044 smallpox vaccinations and 2,426 polio shots were given.

In Chelsea, the total number of children immunized was 167. Of these, 79 received smallpox vaccinations and 130 polio shots.

The number who received the immunizations was 41 percent of the total eligible enrollment.

These clinics are made possible through the combined efforts of the members of the Washtenaw County Medical Society who volunteer their time at the clinics, citizens of local communities who also volunteer their time, and the staff of the County Health Department.

as they do and how children are different from teenagers, and adults.

Direct Dialing Scheduled Here in 1962

An outlay of nearly $80.0 million will be made this year for the expansion and improvement of its facilities, the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. announced today.

William M. Day, Michigan Bell president, said the 1962 program will push the company's total post-war expenditures past the billion dollar mark.

"As one of the largest corporate investments made in the state in the years following the war, this huge sum reflects the continuing growth of Michigan and the corresponding need for more and better communications," Day said.

Day, who serves as chairman of the Michigan Economic Development Commission, added: "Our 1962 program is based on sound expectations that the future will see a continuation of this growth in our state and the opportunity for us to grow with it. In short, we could not consider an investment of this magnitude without being firmly convinced of the state's future."

Total gain in telephones for the year is expected to reach 85,000, coupled with an increase of 7.3 percent in long distance calls, Day said.

Reaching into virtually every section of the state served by Michigan Bell, the program calls for the expenditure of $84 million for new service resulting from growth; $14.9 million for improvements, and $31.7 million for the replacement of worn-out equipment at today's higher costs.

Day said this year's construction schedule will require the installation of 3.4 billion conductor feet of cable—which would cover a distance eight times greater than Lt. Col. John Glenn traveled in his three orbits around the earth.

Construction will begin this year on 12 new buildings and 12 building additions, representing a total cost of almost $3 million. Four of the buildings and four of the additions are scheduled for completion this year. In addition, five other buildings and seven building expansions, all started prior to 1962, will be completed.

this year at a total cost of $1,100,000. Exchanges to be added to the Direct Distance Dialing network include Houghton, Brighton, Byron, Washington, Armada, Coral, Romeo, New Haven, Belleville, South Lyon, Chelsea, Dexter, Milan, Manchester, Willis, and Whitmore Lake.
