Jaycees Seat Belt Clinic To Be Held Saturday, Sunday

Motorists Urged To Invest at Bargain Price

The Jaycees seat belt clinic is now getting underway. Saturday, June 23, is the first day of the belt installation. The clinic is for all motorists of this area who want to take advantage of this worthwhile project.

Jaycees will install a belt meeting all state and government specifications for the nominal charge of $1.00 for each seat belt. The belts are the snap-in type and are of nylon webbing with a ground tension strength. These are available in seven different colors to harmonize with any car interior.

The Jaycees are installing belts for public service project for a year. They feel this clinic is a factor in saving many lives.

The men installing the belts are instructed by a company representative last Saturday at a clinic run. They installed four belts in the village police station free of charge as a service to the village. They were planning to install belts in all their own cars this time but they found that soon as they started to work, most in the belts was so great they spent most of the afternoon installing belts in the cars people who couldn't wait.

The clinic is scheduled for the two week ends, June 23-24, June 30 and July 1 at the Stop & Shop parking lot at 14900 Old US-12. On Saturday the clinic will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Loyns of Chelsea spent Sunday here with Mrs. Loyns' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werner.

Council OK's Ordinance for New Area Zoning Categories

Move To Control Orderly Growth In Suburbs

The Village Council, at its meeting Tuesday evening, following a public zoning hearing, approved two zoning category changes and the "R-1" zoning of the Lanewood Improvement area recently annexed at the north end of the village.

The "R-1" zoning designation means that only one-family homes are permitted.

In the annexation at the south end of the village the former "neighborhood business" category has been eliminated and, recognizing the demand of people in the area, two zoning designations have been added — "highway service business" and "restricted business."

In the "highway service business" area, from the intersection of Old Manchester Rd. and New M-92 to the south edge of the newly-annexed area, it will be permissible to construct motels, gas stations, restaurants, etc., to serve the traveling public.

North of that intersection the zoning designation is "restricted business."

No gas stations will be permitted here and all retail business expansion will be controlled, as to distance from highway, parking area and access to the highway at specified points.

These zoning regulations preclude the possibility of undesirable construction of haphazard business places which often spring up at the outskirts of cities and towns.

Lightning Hits Police Radio Aerial

Chelsea suffered no serious damage in Monday's storm which pelted the area early in the afternoon with rain, hail and strong winds. Principal inconvenience to Chelsea Public Works Department crews were accumulations of leaves at catch basins which caused flooding of some streets.

Yards and streets were covered with leaves and small branches after the storm. Some gardens suffered damage from hail.

Numerous reports were received of "big" hailstones which fell during the storm; among those who hurried out to pick some up and put them in their freezers to back up their stories are Mrs. Richard Smith of 238 Harrison St. and Mrs. Nellie Flood of 236 East Middle St. Mrs. Flood's were "almost as large as golf ball," it was reported, while Mrs. Smith's measured three inches in circumference.

Just about the time the storm struck here Monday afternoon the Chelsea Fire Department was called out to extinguish a brush fire on Winters Rd. in order to prevent damage to a Washtenaw County Road Commission tractor which became stuck as it was pushing brush on to the blaze.

A few minutes later lightning struck the police department radio antenna at the home of Mrs. Faye Schiller on South St. Fire flashed along the wire inside the house but fortunately did not start a blaze.

At the same time, lightning entered at the fire department garage but apparently caused no damage.

Fire Chief Ted Balmer had Mrs. Schiller test the wires at 6:30 p.m. to see if they were operating as they should. The wire on Van Buren St. had been knocked out by the storm but the downtown one was unaffected.

A power line on South St. was damaged and had to be repaired by village crews.

Kellie Allen, public works superintendent, warned that the practice of raking leaves and debris from the storm into the street should be stopped at once — the street sweeper is not equipped to pick up such debris and when it rains the refuse is carried to (Continued on page six)

Postmaster General Blast at Magazines Only Furthers Anti-Business Feeling

If we are to take the New Haven speech of President Kennedy as a Yale man at face value, he feels it is high time for Business and the Administration to kiss and make up whatever differences may have crept between them.

It is too bad, therefore, that he did not (apparently) communicate this sanguine and fraternal attitude to Postmaster General J. Edward Day in advance of the PMG's radio blast of a few days earlier.

Day delivered over the CBS network his reply to a radio "editorial" of Columbia's President Frank Stanton in opposition to the proposed postal increases. And while we were distressed that our Postmaster General saw fit to discuss only the plight of the magazines—ignoring completely the impending injury to 12,000 newspapers—published in practically every city in the 50 states—his attitude was strictly pre-Yale New Frontier.

In Day's view, the magazines protest too much. They never had it so good, he said. The last two postal hikes didn't hurt them a bit, he indicated, and neither will an additional penny-a-piece increase hurt them now.

Furthermore, he seemed downright annoyed at their using his post office to distribute mailing pieces designed to remind readers to renew their subscriptions. And, clearly, he seemed to know better than the publishers how to run the magazine business.

As we said, it is disappointing that he overlooked the newspapers. Otherwise, we might have gotten some new ideas on how to run this one.

But we still do not understand how increased postal rates are going to help the country or—judging by the Postmaster General's attitude—the post office either.

Automotive Safety Experts Concerned About Mixing Alcohol with Driving

The use of alcohol is a social problem that so far has defied solution. Men like J. Edgar Hoover consider it one of our great national problems.

Now automobile safety experts are beginning to show concern that alcohol is a major factor in highway deaths. A recent issue of Automotive Safety published by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association in Detroit, has this to say about alcohol:

"How much does alcohol contribute to traffic accidents? The precise answer is unknown, but Dr. Horace Campbell of Denver has compiled evidence indicating that at least half of all traffic deaths may be attributable to drinking.

"Checking records extending back to 1928, Dr. Campbell examined hundreds of post mortem reports of drivers killed in traffic accidents in several areas of the country. They showed that the number of driver victims who had been drinking ranged from 50 percent in one area to a high of 87 percent in another area.

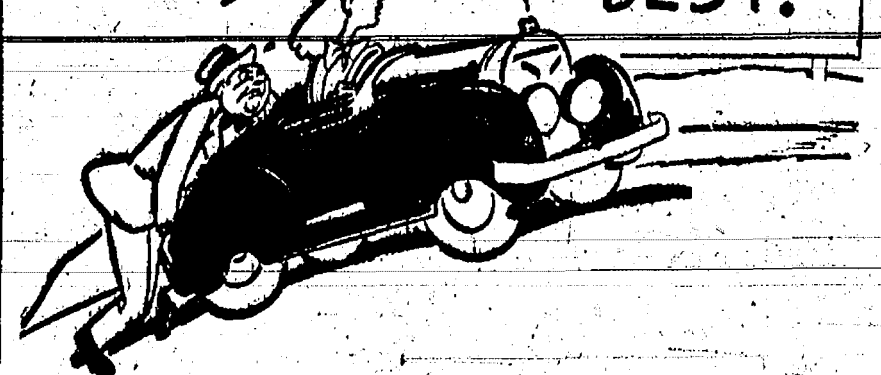

"Dr. Campbell believes the evidence is sufficiently strong to draw an assumption that 60 percent of all drivers killed in vehicle crashes had been drinking."

We can add, too, that evidence is sufficiently strong, judging by the large number of beer cans and bottles deposited along streets, highways and public places, that an increasing amount of drinking is being done in automobiles in violation of our laws.

BATTLE OF THE BASKETS

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Patwork taxes, nuisance taxes, stopgap measures! These shopworn phrases used by opponents of miscellaneous additions to Michigan's present tax structure are not entirely borne out by studies of other states.

The Michigan Department of Revenue recently reported, while the State Senate was debating an income tax, that there are 22 states with both a sales tax and a payroll tax. The report indicated that in only two of these states did the revenue from the income tax exceed that brought in by the sales tax.

The connotation of the words "patwork," "nuisance," and "stopgap," are such that they effectively cast a dark cloud over the temporary taxes which were first passed in 1959 under the term "nuisance" taxes, and enacted again this year as permanent measures.

Opponents of the "miscellaneous" taxes, which they would now be called if supporters had their way, would like Michigan residents to believe this state is the only one with a variety of taxes.

The U. S. Census, however, shows that Michigan's taxing ideas are in use throughout the country. Some states have taxes Michigan lawmakers have never thought of. The Census showed, for example, that in 1950 all 50 states taxed sales of alcoholic beverages. Tobacco products came under a tax in 48 states.

Several states tax soft drinks, a levy which was proposed late in the current Michigan legislative session but not enacted. One state imposes a tax on lubricating oil and "power use," another has a levy on "meals."

In the number of taxes imposed, Michigan ranks among the top.

In 1950, the latest complete compilation available, Louisiana led the states with 28 different taxes, followed by Iowa with 24. Michigan, Maine and Kansas each had 23.

Among the states with income taxes that year, Indiana had 20 other kinds of taxes; the payroll levy was one of 17 taxes imposed in California; and in Delaware 19 other types were on the lawbooks.

Several thousand Michigan motorists driving only because of the type of insurance they carry may be violating the law without knowing it, according to Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Under Michigan's financial responsibility law, some 77,000 motorists are required to have financial responsibility insurance for a three-year period if they wish to continue driving.

These are motorists involved in an accident who could not prove financial responsibility by having adequate public liability and property damage insurance.

"Unfortunately in recent months, three companies which wrote this special insurance in Michigan have erred but they are not," Hare said. Persons insured under the three firms were notified by letter from Hare's office. There was no way of checking, however, how many of these moved to other locations or for some other reason did not receive the notice.

"There may be a considerable number of Michigan motorists who still believe they are properly covered but they are not," Hare said. "If they are driving on invalid insurance, they are inadvertently in violation of the state financial responsibility law."

Some 200 companies with valid Michigan licenses sell this type of insurance, the Secretary of State said. Driving privileges will be restored to motorists who take insurance with any of the remaining firms.

It will soon be known who wants to represent the voice of the people in Michigan, next year. The top spots in the fall election are already spoken for, but the next line of command is still up for bids.

By the middle of this month, county clerks and the State Elections Division will be getting the bulk of the nominating petitions for the August primary. A number have already been filed.

The 144 seats in the legislature, numerous county and city posts, and many local questions will be on the primary ballot.

Legislative hopefuls are expected to be great in number this year, at least partly because of the recent Constitutional Convention which gave a taste of politics to many newcomers and several previously perennial candidates.

Most of the present members of the House and Senate plan to run again, but a few who are retiring and another batch who have had close races in recent years will leave wide open spaces for enterprising new candidates.

Several old-timers in the legislature are "running scared" this

Chelsea public school is at present rated the highest in its history—this spring the school was placed on the approved list of secondary schools by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. In a letter to Superintendent, E. L. Clark, informing him of the honor, J. B. Edmondson, chairman of the Michigan state committee, explained that recognition by the Association has the same meaning in the field of education as a high rating by Dunn & Bradstreet in the field of finance and the Chelsea school is entitled to much praise for its success in meeting the high standards defined by the association.

It has been decided by the Village Council to make the tax rates this year but $700 $100 valuation instead of $1200 in former years. There is a substantial balance in the treasury at the present time. The assessment for personal property this year is $418,780 and real estate, $1,411,115.

APPROVES AID PLAN—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has given its approval to a foreign-aid program providing $4,712,000,000 in military and economic assistance next year.

That measure sets the ceiling how much can be asked. The appropriation is handled in a rate measure.

The amount is only $100,000 below what President Kennedy asked for the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where Bobby Kennedy is claiming the Democrats is gaining in Vermont. It could be the game warden has caught a couple of them hiding in the brush up there. And I was reading a piece where 17 percent of all the people born in Georgia moves out of the state before they die. I reckon they got converted to the Republican party and has to run for their lives.

They ain't nothing in this world that splits folks up like politics. When the other side puts it out it's always propaganda and when your side puts it out Moses' bring it straight down from Mt. Sinai. When a tax collector takes a bribe he gets thrown in jail, but a public office holder calls it a campaign contribution and gets elected for another term.

I was reading here a while back where some woman from South Carolina celebrated her 104th birthday. She told the newspaper folks she loved everybody, even Republicans. I know a heap of Democrats that would rather die at 64 as to love Republicans at 104—and viscer versa.

I recollect about a feller we used to have living out here. He was a great Republican, didn't have much use for anybody if they wasn't a Republican. He wouldn't even speak to a Democrat. He'd go to his funeral, didn't mind seeing him buried, but he didn't want nothing to do with him while he was living.

We was talking about these things at the country store Saturday night and the fellers was agreed that common sense in this country has gone in orbit and horse sense is disappearing with the horses. Ed Doollittle allowed as how his old lady was even talking about stuff these days. Ed says some mornings when she gets up she says she feels "ge" and some mornings she complains she is feeling "stey."

Clem Webster said he was reading where some feller in Hollywood is fixing to manufacture wimmen's clothes out of cellophane. All the fellers was in favor of it, natural and Zeke Grubb claimed it would fit in real good with the Age Of The Fig Leaf, that being the one in which we was living.

I don't know what the world is coming to no more. Sometimes I think the people in this country has grown tall but not up. How else can you figger it when rich folks will pay $100 for a necktie, when the big print giveth and the small print taketh away, when ever magazine puts a girl on the cover and no cover on the girl, and when it's easier to get a divorce than to get married?

It's sad, Mister Editor, I've come down to the sunset of my days for what? To see instant coffee, instant milk, instant biscuits and, if ole Khruish has his way, instant cremation.

Your truly,
Uncle Lew.

NO. 1 CAUSE OF FIRE LOSS: Lightning Takes Heavy Farm Toll in Michigan

During the past five years, Michigan farm buildings valued at more than three million dollars have gone up in smoke from being struck by lightning. Lightning is now the number one cause of fire loss on Michigan farms.

More than 400 persons are killed and over 1,000 injured by lightning each year in the United States. Nearly all of these fatalities and injuries occur in rural areas.

The period from May through September is the most dangerous lightning season, says Richard G. Pfister, agricultural safety specialist at Michigan State University. Pfister notes that during the past four years more than 80 fires in August alone resulted in losses totaling over one-half million dollars.

Proper protection against lightning can save the farmer money in various ways. Besides preventing the loss of life and property, it can also reduce the cost of fire insurance on buildings.

Protection systems should consist of three basic parts, according to Pfister. Air terminals—more commonly known as lightning rods—are installed at high points on buildings. Typical installations are on the roof ridge, chimneys, ventilators, gables or even at the top of lone trees in a pasture.

Copper or aluminum conductors connect these lightning rods with the ground. Woven cables are the most popular conductors, Pfister advises.

Conductor cable should be fastened securely to the air terminal points and ground rods with special hardware designed for that purpose. The cable should also be fastened down with strap fasteners about every three feet.

A good ground is vitally important. At least two grounds should be used on all buildings, Pfister advises. They should be spaced at opposite ends of the building. The ground rod should extend at least 10 feet deep and extend at least one foot from building foundations. "This will prevent damage to walls when lightning discharges from the air terminal rods to the ground," says Pfister.

Farmers who plan to install "lightning rod" systems should consider the following points before purchasing:

1. Look for a well-known dealer who can install a "master label" job.
2. Demand a lightning protection system which includes air terminal points, conductor and ground.
3. Avoid the "special bargain" offered by the traveling installation crews.

New Stamps To Honor 50-Star Flag, Christmas

According to information printed in the Mekeel Weekly Stamp News of May 25, announcement was made that a new 50-star flag stamp is to be issued by the U. S. Post Office Department "after new postal rates go in effect this coming fall" and that a special stamp particularly appropriate for use on Christmas cards is to be issued in time for the 1962 Christmas mailing season.

In the announcement of the two new stamps which Chelsea area stamp collectors look forward to with intense interest, Postmaster General J. Edward Day was quoted as making the following remarks at the COMPEX Show in Chicago.

"The public obviously likes to have a stamp with the American flag — and the public would like to have a special Christmas stamp. We receive nearly 1,000 letters a year on these two subjects."

"So, following the recommendation of the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, less than two weeks ago, we will issue a new fifty star flag stamp after the new postal rates go into effect — as I am confident they will — this coming fall."

"And this coming Christmas season, there will be a special stamp especially appropriate for use on Christmas cards."

"Actually, as collectors, you realize better than I that there is an almost irresistible tendency for stamp issues to fall into a pattern. As our Christmas stamp will illustrate, our effort in the stamp field is to avoid this kind of stereotype."

"We feel that stamps, first and foremost, are evidence of postage paid and that in conceiving and designing a new stamp, we can never lose sight of that basic fact."

"On the other hand, stamps are a particular art form. There is another form of art, any time, any place, that gets distributed simultaneously in 100 million reproductions. And, for this reason, stamps should show all types of art as well as a wide variety of subject matter."

"We are deliberately seeking opportunities to widen the horizon of stamp art and design. We have tried new color combinations, new approaches to design and, even in our bleed stamp of this year, new production techniques. Every time we try something different, we watch the interested reaction from you, as collectors and most particularly from the public."

"Philately is a wonderful hobby but stamps are national property. The more we do in attracting public attention to our stamp issues, with designs and techniques that are different or unusual, or eye-catching, the more people develop an interest in the hobby."

Let Child Join In Family Talks

Ann Arbor—When parents permit a child to take part in family decision making, the youngster gets excellent training in democratic values and skills.

So reports Ronald Lippitt, professor of psychology and of sociology at the University of Michigan, in a U-M television series "Family Living."

You don't have to observe parliamentary procedure at family meetings, for the advantages of group discussions can be obtained informally, and, in fact, better decisions often emerge from mutual discussions rather than when parents lay down the law.

To keep a lawn attractively green during dry periods, it is important to water it thoroughly, say Michigan State University horticulturists. Water should penetrate to a depth of six to eight inches where the bulk of the grass roots are located.

Boat Registrations In County Past Last Year by 1,489

Michigan boat statistics released this week show that Washtenaw county now has 7,727 registered motorboats, an increase of 1,489 above last year's total.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, 431,014 motorboat certificates are now in the hands of marine enthusiasts using Michigan waters.

"As the summer vacation season nears we expect many new applications," Hare said. "We hope that those who are purchasing new watercraft register at once to avoid the June rush period. If new boat owners co-operate by registering early, we can process their applications promptly and get their boat numbers back to them within a few days."

Under recently enacted Federal and State laws, a 50 state uniform registry plan was established under which each state retains the authority and responsibility for the registration of all boats using its waters.

Purchasers of old or new watercraft may obtain boat registration application forms at most marinas, water sport shops, sheriffs' offices, and branches of the Michigan Department of State. The current license, good until Dec. 31, 1962, costs $2.00.

To conform with a nationwide system set by Federal regulations, registered motorboats are numbered in a sequence of two letters, four numbers and then two more letters, such as MC-1234-AB. MC is the Federal designation for Michigan, and the numbers and final letters are the boat's number. "There are no two boats in the United States carry the same letter-number combination on their bow," Hare says. "This makes for easy identification no matter where the boat may be in American inland or coastal waters."

In order to play the Bette Davis role in "Night Of The Iguana," worth at least $4 billion annually, Shelley Winters dyed her hair red in the United States.

New Soil-Resistant Finishes Developed For Home Fabrics

Soft-resistance, a feature already firmly-rooted in the clothing field, is gradually becoming an important point for designers, upholders of fabrics and table linens. 25 Giant Strawberries Fill Quart Basket

Fred Kennedy came to The Standard office Thursday to show off a quart basket of strawberries he had picked at his farm, the remarkable thing about it being that it only took 25 strawberries to fill the basket.

Several of the berries measured four inches in circumference and approximately two inches long. Kennedy sent to a nursery for the plants—the variety being called "Sparkle." In addition to their size, the berries are remarkably good-tasting.

Children Warned Not To Swim in Skating Pond

Village officials are requesting that parents see to it that their children refrain from using the skating pond area adjacent to Veterans Memorial Park as a "swimming hole." They point out that the stagnant water is a menace to health if it is used for swimming or wading, and county health authorities have expressed concern.

The area cannot be drained since the water level is the same as the nearby Mill Creek. This makes for a good skating area in the winter but the depth at this time of year, coupled with the stagnant condition, makes it a danger spot for children.

Signs are to be posted in the area and village officials have requested that area residents who might notice children there call the Police Department number, GR 5-4221, so an officer may be dispatched to the scene and order the children to leave for their own safety.

More than 80 winter sports centers were in operation in Michigan during the 1961-62 season, the largest number of any state in the nation.

Clarification Made On Sweet Corn Planting Rules

Questions have arisen in regard to the planting of sweet corn for silage on farms participating in the Feed-Grain program for 1962. Program regulations determine "Corn Acreage" as follows: for 1959 and 1960 an acreage of sweet corn harvested in 1959 and 1960 primarily for silage. It does not include close sown corn used for pasture or green manure, or sweet corn harvested primarily for market even though the storage is used for silage.

Clarification of this statement has recently been received and states: For various reasons, some acreages of sweet corn produced for processing may not be utilized by processors. In such cases, any acreage of sweet corn harvested for silage will still be classified as corn acreage under the program in determining compliance.

AND DON'T FORGET THE SALT...

Plan Ahead To Assure Happy, Enjoyable Vacation

Lansing — Each spring, long before the snows are off the ground, thousands of mid-westerners are busy making plans for a vacation in their favorite state park campground.

Before vacation time rolls around, the amount of gear has been whittled down and plans changed a number of times—depending on the condition of the car springs and the durability of the vacation budget—croquet set goes back in the closet and franks and beans replace sirloin as the predominant meal on the next two weeks' menu.

When the time comes to lock the front door for the fifth time—four last-minute trips inside having been made to turn off the water heater, check the stove burners, write a note to the milkman, and to transfer the note to the milkman from the kitchen table to the back porch—most families will have all of the equipment necessary for an enjoyable camping trip stowed away in their proper places. (Eggs under the outboard motor, today's picnic lunch under the tent, and the boat oars under the front porch.)

From observations made through the years, it is apparent that the one piece of equipment which is most neglected is also the one which provides the maximum enjoyment on any camping trip. Before rolling out of the driveway, let's run through the items in your "mental knapsack" and check them off to make certain we haven't forgotten any of the essentials:

SENSE OF HUMOR—Several years ago a couple registered for four days in Fort Wilkins state park campground—mom was looking forward to a few days away from the chores of child-raising and dad, rabid fisherman, was going to whip the local waters to a froth. Yet, two hours after they arrived their tent was down, the car re-packed and they were headed non-stop back to Ohio. Mom had accidentally packed their seven-year-old's tackle box in place of dad's.

Silly? Of course! A hearty chuckle (after the initial glare at his spouse and a few understandable mutterings) plus the local purchase of two or three lures would have salvaged the entire vacation. An extreme case, probably, but time and again camping parties have folded up from such incidents as a sudden rainstorm at mealtime, a loose tent stake, or a punctured air mattress—nothing of great consequence, actually, but if you aren't out of touch it will be all you'll need to spoil everyone's vacation.

FRIENDLINESS—There's no such thing as a recluse in a state park. Partly because of the physical aspects of the area which necessitate close-quarters camping, but mostly because the average camper is a pretty darned amiable character.

If you are new to an area and don't know the "lay of the land," strike up a conversation with your neighbor—chances are he will be happy to get you oriented and perhaps you will be sharing vacation fun together. Friendships of many years' standing have begun in campgrounds, and many of these friends eventually arrange to take their vacations at the same time.

WITSABOUTYOU—There is nothing that can dull the fun of a camping trip as quickly or permanently as misplacing or losing a good wristwatch, an expensive camera, or a favorite rod and reel.

It takes so little time to check your watch or glasses with another member of the family before using the shower... or, if beachcombing, fishing, or swimming, keep all of your valuables locked in the car for safekeeping—car keys excepted, as they cannot be classified as valuable items inside a locked car.

INTEREST—Too many vacationers arrive in a campground with a closed mind towards any type of recreation other than their present interests. If they are fishermen, and the trout are on strike, the whole trip is a fizzle as far as they are concerned... and one unhappy camper can quickly ruin things for the entire party.

All of Michigan's state parks and their surrounding areas are rich in recreational opportunities—that's why they were made state parks. Don't sit around and stew about the uncooperative trout and blimpies, or the unseasonably cold weather that makes swimming impossible—instead, take an interest in some of the other activities available to you.

That fellow going through those crazy calisthenics down the beach gets just as much satisfaction from finding a fine agate, as you do in catching a two-pound trout. And the family that hiked to the top of Lookout Hill for some picture-taking found some choice patches of wild strawberries along the way. They'll be going back there with some empty coffee cans in the morning. "You mean you've never taken the old trail back to Wingdinger Falls?... we were in there yesterday and saw a deer, two grouse, a porcupine, and not a single bear can."

OPTIMISM—Fortunately, most of the rains along the Great Lakes are of a short duration, so don't get panicky from the first downpour and break camp with the idea of "getting away" from the rain. It can't be done. Sit tight, and the odds are in your favor that the weather will break by tomorrow.

In the meantime, keep a close rein on your mind, and don't let it wander back to the things you could be doing if it wasn't raining. Think instead of the things you can be doing while it is raining. Catch up on your reading from the park library, visit some of the local museums or exhibits, or take a few of the side-road

PUTTING SOME FUN IN CAMPING — Planning and a relaxed, unfretting frame of mind make for more camping fun at Michigan's state parks—or any other campgrounds in the state. The planning part starts at home and involves checking gear, mapping out the trip, and outlining your vacation's menu to fit the family budget. Helpful in making preparations would be a copy of the 1962 Michigan Campground Directory now available free from the Conservation Department's Publications Room, Box 30, at Lansing 26. A good sense of humor is a "must" item to take along on that camping trip. Families that can smile through a sudden rainstorm at mealtime and similar setbacks will be a much happier lot when they head home than campers who grumble over every little mishap. Well-rewarded with new friends and pleasant moments is the family that adopts the "Good Neighbor" policy as part of its camping credo.

June 21 Is Official Start Of Summer

Ann Arbor—Summer is just beginning—officially.

The season's official beginning comes at 4:24 p.m. Thursday, June 21, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

"On this day Michigan will receive the most heat from the sun for any 24-hour period of the year, because the sun will reach its most direct position over the northern half of the earth," she explains.

But the chances are good that this day will not be the hottest of the year, because the sun will be about three million miles farther away than it was in January, the U-M astronomer says.

"The northern hemisphere will continue to receive more heat from the sun than it loses until about the first of August, so temperatures generally can be expected to keep climbing until then."

June 21 will also be the shortest night of the year with only about nine hours between sundown and sunup, Professor Losh notes.

"On this day the sun will rise and set about 33 degrees north of the east and west points, and swing its greatest arc across the southern sky."

Dance Demonstration Given for Kiwanians

A demonstration of English and American dances was given at Monday's Kiwanis club meeting by Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Eder of Ann Arbor. They were introduced by the program chairman, Robert Daniels.

Mrs. Eder, a native of Russia, and her husband, who was born in Germany, gave brief descriptions of the backgrounds that led to their careers as dance instructors.

Their demonstration included brief outlines of the origin of each of the dances. During the business session, Kiwanis President A. S. Penhalligon reported that the new Kiwanis International president elected at the convention in Denver last week is Morley H. Tucker of Gallup, N. Mex., and that next year's convention is to be held at Atlantic City, N. J. Monday's meeting was held in the Methodist church social center.

Michigan's Upper Peninsula Community of Ishpeming helped give ski-jumping its start in the United States. One of the first ski clubs, the Norden, was organized there on Jan. 24, 1887.

Jane K. McLaughlin, Gordon Starr Repeat Vows at Congregational Church

The Congregational church was the setting Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Jane Kathryn McLaughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell McLaughlin and Gordon Lester Starr, son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Starr of Grand Island, Neb.

The Rev. Philip Rusten officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown designed and made by Mrs. John Kulpinski of Ann Arbor. It was of white silk peau-de-soie, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, the curve of which extended into the upper sleeves to form a point. Appliques of Venice lace adorned the upper sleeves. The back of the neck line was cut into a heart shape, dipping down in the center to be secured by tiny buttons.

Her princess skirt extended into a chapel train. She wore a triple-tiered veil of imported silk illusion held by a tiny pillbox of matching lace appliques, and carried a cascade of white roses, lilies of the valley and frosted grapes centered with white orchids; the orchids later were used on her going-away dress. To complete her costume she wore a small diamond heart necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in apricot silk organza with scooped necklines and bell-shaped skirts. An organza rose, offset by a matching veil, adorned their hair. They carried white pom-poms centered with apricot fuji mums.

Candlelight organza in a matching style was worn by the matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Sample of Springfield, O. She carried a cascade of white roses centered with the apricot fuji mums.

The bridesmaids were Marta Hoge of New Knoxville, O.; Mrs. James McLaughlin of Chelsea; Sandra Karner of Chelsea; Mary Lynn Denning of Columbus, O.; and Stephanie Wagner of Chelsea. Jane Belser of Chelsea, a cousin of the bride, and Karen Starr of Akron, O., niece of the bridegroom, were the flower girls; they wore dresses of candlelight silk organza over apricot silk organza, with tiny puffed sleeves and apricot cummerbunds. Their head dresses were miniatures of the bride's maid's hats and they carried baskets of petals, centered with white and apricot pom-poms.

Mrs. McLaughlin's dress was of sage green chiffon. Her matching chiffon pillbox was draped in swirl fashion and encircled with a shaped veil. Mrs. Starr wore a dress of navy blue silk. Her mauve hat was fashioned of chrysanthemum petals to form a toque.

Samuel Campbell of Cincinnati, O., was the best man and the ushers were Allan Starr of Akron, O., brother of the bridegroom; Jack Fletcher of Gales Ferry, Conn.; brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Robert Rewey of Springfield, O.; Jeffrey Glenn of Toledo, O.; Sidney John of Bowling Green, O.; and Thomas Berry of Columbus, O.

David Curtis of Dearborn, was the soloist, and Lynn Beattie of Ann Arbor served as organist.

A reception followed at the In-Venness Country Club. Hostesses down the back of the banquet hall were Mrs. Lowell Davison of Chelsea; Diane Holmes and Judy Wagner also of Chelsea; Mary Ann, Peggy and Jennette Elliott of Ypsilanti; Elizabeth Frankman of Columbus, O.; Mary Ann Morgan and Carol George of Dayton, O.; Judy Armstrong of Detroit; and Ruth Trafford of Battle Creek, a cousin of the bride.

The couple left later for Pensacola, Fla., where the bridegroom is to report as a commissioned officer in the Marine Corps.

The bride attended Ohio State University and is affiliated with Delta Gamma sorority. Her husband, a graduate of Ohio State University where he majored in mechanical engineering, is affiliated with Phi-Delta Theta fraternity.

When the couple left, the bride was wearing a purple silk sheath dress with matching shoes and a white gold lined taffeta coat which was made by Mrs. George Palmer. Her matching white and gold pillbox hat was a gift designed and made by Mrs. John Kulpinski.

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Starr entertained at a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at Bill Cone's restaurant in Jackson; Mrs. Dudley Holmes and daughter Diane were hostesses for a bridesmaids luncheon; and Sandra Karner entertained the entire wedding party at her home Thursday evening.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Mrs. Lowell Davison; Mrs. Kenneth Runciman and Mrs. Armin Schneider; Mrs. George Palmer; Mrs. Loyd Heydlauff and Mrs. William Rademacher; Mrs. Robert Wagner and daughter, Judy; Mrs. Paul Denning and daughter, Mary Lynn, of Columbus, O.; and Delta Gamma sorority.

Manchester Area Blood Donor Clinic Slated Friday

Manchester area will have the opportunity Friday, June 22 to put its Community Red Cross Blood Club in good standing with the Regional Red Cross Bank. The Bloodmobile will be at the Emmanuel Church Hall from 2:00 to 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. to serve the Manchester area and to take donations for other Red Cross Blood clubs wherever they are. Credits will be transferred automatically upon request.

Due to exceptional demands the Manchester club has served five 15-pint-or-more cases in the last six months. Consequently the bank is two pints in debt to the regional bank at this time. The last Bloodmobile in Manchester was Aug. 23, 1961 with a small attendance and 55 pints donated. Since that time the club has assisted 12 individuals with 93 pints of blood. Individual donors may give their blood for patients who have received blood from the club; if they wish this is a neighborly gesture that some people prefer to use. These are the people the family would have had to call upon, had there been no blood bank to take care of the situation at the time.

The usual demand from the club comes to approximately 100 of age and over will be given special recognition. Conference delegate will give report.

VFW Convention Starts Thursday in Sault Ste. Marie

Sault Ste. Marie—One of the largest conventions in the history of the Upper Peninsula moves in this week when an estimated 5,000 members of the Michigan Veterans of Foreign Wars arrive for their 43rd annual state convention.

The convention, which opens for four days starting Thursday, June 21, will strain the facilities of this U.P. city to its very limits. It will mark the first VFW convention here since 1948, and the fourth to be held in the Upper Peninsula.

Delegates and officers from the VFW's more than 400 local posts will meet in business sessions which will establish organizational policy and elect a slate of new officers. Climaxing the four-day affair on June 25, will be election of Arthur Mikosell, of Ovid, to succeed Zigmund Cybulski, of Detroit, as state commander.

Most of the convention's business will gravitate around the more than 50 resolutions submitted by individual units of the organization. Awards in community service, membership sports and other programs of the organization will be made. Keynote speaker for the convention will be Gov. John B. Swainson, an amputee war veteran and a life member of the VFW. The Governor will speak Friday morning. Later that evening at the banquet of the convention, the top official of the VFW, National Commander Robert E. Hansen of St. Paul, Minn., will be the featured speaker. Hansen, who has been all over the world in his official capacity including many of the trouble spots, will outline the VFW national security and foreign policy program.

Birthmarks Rarely Cancerous, Says U. of M. Doctor

Ann Arbor—Worried about your birthmark becoming cancerous? Don't, for the chances are so remote that cancer will develop, it is not worth worrying about, states Dr. E. Richard Harrell, professor in the dermatology department at the University of Michigan.

He says birthmarks fall into two categories: the mole and the blood vessel tumor. The latter is subdivided into three major types: The "strawberry" where the tumor is composed of a large network of small blood vessels, close to the skin's surface.

The "cavernous birthmark" which is located deep in the skin and usually involves veins. This type of birthmark often displaces a large area of skin.

The "portwine stain" is a perfectly flat mark, bluish to purplish in color, but not close to the skin's surface. This one is most likely to "persist" throughout life and is often found on the face and neck.

The U-M dermatologist said: Some birthmarks disappear of their own accord. For instance, the strawberry that "develops" in infants, if left untreated, will undoubtedly go through spontaneous, natural healing," Dr. Harrell said. It is the cavernous mark that often requires surgical treatment, especially if it assumes a very large size. But the chances of any birthmark becoming cancerous is "exceedingly remote."

Dr. Harrell gave the report on "Prescription for Health," state-wide broadcast co-sponsored by the U-M Broadcasting Service, and the State Medical Society.

telephone lines

By NICK PRAKKEN, Manager

WE LOVE A BARGAIN... just like anybody else. But even though we're as careful as the most efficient housewife, our supply purchases tally up to quite an impressive annual figure. In 1961, for example, Michigan Bell's shopping bill—together with that of the Western Electric Company, the Bell System's supply unit—came to almost $58 million. We spent this with more than 1,400 businesses in 160 communities throughout the state. So these purchases not only go to provide you with good telephone service; they contribute to the growth of Michigan's economy.

SUMMER'S COMIN' IN! And that means sun, fun, and your long-awaited vacation. Wherever you're going, why not pack more comfort and leisure into your trip by putting Long Distance to work for you? Advance reservations are a must these crowded days, so always be sure of a bed by phoning ahead. And don't forget the folks back home. They'll love hearing all about your vacation, and you'll double your fun by telling them about your adventures.

A STITCH IN TIME... that's the thinking behind Michigan Bell's automatic line testing. Special equipment at many of our central offices makes automatic tests periodically on telephone lines. For example, if a minor electrical defect is located, the information is recorded so that the problem can be fixed promptly—usually without interrupting service. Automatic line testing saves money in the long run, while it helps us give you dependable service every minute of the day, every day of the year.

(5) Will be consistent with the intent and purpose of this Ordinance.

(6) Will comply with any specific requirements for the particular use.

c. Board May Prescribe Any Conditions Deemed to be in the Public Interest. The Board in granting any Special Use Permit shall prescribe, in addition to the requirements and conditions in this Article and the standards set forth under the sections of this Ordinance which authorize the Board to grant such Special Use Permits, any conditions which it deems necessary to or desirable for the public interest.

d. Procedure to be Followed by the Board of Appeals. The Board, before granting any Special Use Permit, shall follow the procedures detailed in Article VI of Appeals, including the of a hearing.

Reason Why Helps Child When Given An Order

Ann Arbor—We've got to learn to put that "because" on what we tell a child to do, says Peter A. Flanders, University of Michigan professor of education.

"Teachers usually just tell a pupil, 'Johnny, sit down.' Instead of saying 'Johnny, sit down, because' and then explaining the reason why Johnny should sit down."

"The most common mistake of teachers is to let us, diagnosticians, judge and jury in one moment of decision without being realistic about the attitudes of the child and why he reacts as he does," Flanders claims.

"Teachers need to find out what's 'bugging' the child, whether it be family trouble or some other personality problem that interferes with learning. They too often give 'directions' because they lack time to analyze a pupil or situation."

"The word 'because' is perhaps the most magical word in the teacher's entire vocabulary," says Flanders. "It permits the child to receive the order to think of it as part of a problem-solving process rather than mere compliance."

"Even when one is studying something like history it's more interesting to know why Napoleon waged a certain campaign rather than to know how many men got shot down."

"Because" is equally important in the giving of praise.

The U-M educator says he feels teachers should be more open about their criteria for praise. "If the pupil can 'scramble like eggs' and please the teacher, he gets praise. But too often he spends his time and ability trying to learn how to earn praise and this detracts from learning."

Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti, formerly Michigan State Normal College, established in 1849, was the first teacher training institution west of the Alleghenies.

State Fair Issues Call for 'Veteran of Year'

Michigan's 1,500 local veterans were urged today to nominate for the 1962 "Veteran of the Year" to the Michigan State Fair.

The State's outstanding veterans will be chosen from these nominations and honored on Veterans Day, Saturday, Aug. 26, the day of the 113th annual Michigan State Fair, Aug. 24 thru Sept. 3.

This was announced by William Goodman, State Fair general manager, and William Stegman, State Fair director, at the Michigan Consolidated War Veterans Council.

Application blanks may be obtained by writing to the Veterans Day director, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 8.

The winner will be chosen by his contributions to civic, community and veterans affairs during the past year. A committee of veterans and citizens, named by sponsoring groups, will select the winner.

Because many veterans post strict activities during the summer months, they are urged to immediately submit their nominations long before the July deadline.

All veterans and auxiliary members will be admitted free on Veterans Day to the State Fair on Veterans Day.

Michigan's deer herd, even annually more than 600,000 males, is one of the largest of the Rocky Mountains.

Quality has everything in its favor including the price.
