

Interest High in Seat Belts by Everyone Except Chelsea People

Chelsea Jaycees chairman, Daniel Maroney, said yesterday that the project of seat belt installation at the nominal cost of $6 each, surpassed all anticipated figures forecast. In spite of the fact that approximately 450 installations have been made since Saturday, Jaycees say the project is not a success as far as the Chelsea area is concerned since only 50 of the belts have been installed for Chelsea residents. The reason for this, Maroney said, is that Chelsea drivers have the opportunity to have the seat belts installed at cost as a means of protection for themselves, their wives and their children; the entire project was planned as a public service to the people of their community. Jaycees are at a loss to understand why their own Chelsea friends and neighbors are failing to take advantage of an opportunity that motorists from other communities have pounced on.

At a trial run by the Jaycees June 16, approximately 40 belts were installed; then Saturday, June 23, more than 40 cars were lined up by 9 a.m. at the clinic location in the parking lot of the Stop & Shop supermarket at M-92 and Old US-12, some waiting in line for three hours. Auxiliary police were called to assist with the traffic.

Improved installation techniques had reduced the waiting time for each car to about 15 minutes by Sunday when 150 of the belts were installed from noon to 6 p.m.

Maroney stresses that the belts are of top quality; that they exceed the standards set by the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE); that they are installed rapidly and expertly. Jaycees spent approximately 150 man-hours in preparation for the clinic; and that the belts are guaranteed.

He emphasized further that the belts, which come in seven colors to harmonize with car interiors, are the highly approved metal-to-metal type; and at the low cost of $6 are the cheapest accident and life insurance.

The seat belt clinic was planned to come well in advance of the Fourth of July holiday as a special safety measure when more accidents may be expected.

Maroney claims that statistics show that seven out of 10 Chelsea drivers may expect to have an accident in the next five years; seat belts have been proved a real protection against death or serious injury when accidents do occur.

The Chelsea Jaycees, at the local level, are co-operating in the current nation-wide campaign to alert drivers and passengers to the importance of seat belts as a safety measure.

Maroney said fellow Jaycees join him in urging Chelsea drivers to "come out to the Stop & Shop parking lot this week-end and let us install seat belts in your car; it might prove to be the best life-saving and injury prevention product you have ever had."

Clinic hours this week-end are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

St. Paul's Church Will Purchase Site for New Building

Plot Is Part of Pierce Homestead On Old US-12

The congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal and Reformed church, meeting held Sunday, voted to purchase a site on Old US-12 east of the old Pierce homestead for the eventual construction of a new church building. The site, about five and three-quarters acres in size, was selected on recommendation of a building and site committee of which Paul G. Schaible, Jr., is chairman.

Part of the original Pierce farm, land is being sold to the congregation by the present owner, H. Pommerening. It has 400 feet of frontage on Old US-12. At Sunday's meeting, also, the church council was authorized to investigate institution of a financial campaign to raise money for construction of a church building on the newly-acquired site.

James Smith of the Tecumseh architectural firm of Smith and Smith, was present at the congregational meeting and displayed preliminary outline of possibilities for development of the property.

Results of extensive study of the various church buildings over a period of time, relative to the needs of the congregation, had been made available to the architect; with these in mind, he had made drawings of a construction program to fit the needs.

Comparing space provided for the tentative plans with that of the present church, he said, the available educational area could be doubled; the seating capacity of the sanctuary would be increased from the present 175 to 300; dining room facilities could be expanded; and all space could be for multi-purpose use.

The preliminary suggestions of an architect provided for a two-level entrance, easily accessible parking rooms and many other desirable features.

Results of the financial campaign study committee will be reported at a congregational meeting scheduled to be held in the hall of the Rev. Paul M. Schnake, pastor of the church, said yesterday.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Weiss plan to leave Tuesday for a 10-day trip to visit relatives in Brenham and Houston, Tex., and to attend the Weiss family reunion Sunday, July 8, at Industry, Tex.

Herbert Vogel Retiring from TVA Position

Announcement was made Wednesday, June 20, that Herbert D. Vogel, formerly of Chelsea, has resigned as a member and chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority after serving since his appointment in 1954.

President Kennedy, in accepting Vogel's resignation, effective June 30, commended the TVA chairman for his dedicated service to the nation.

It was announced on Tuesday of this week that President Kennedy would nominate Rep. Frank E. Smith (D), of Mississippi, to replace Vogel on the TVA board of directors.

MRS. JAMES SAYLOR

Former Chelsea Girl Graduates From Law School

Mrs. James Saylor of Atlanta, Ga., the former Valerie Caroline Leeman, a 1940 graduate of Chelsea High school, graduated Friday, June 15, from the Woodrow Wilson College of Law at Atlanta. She will take the state bar examination in September.

A daughter of Mrs. John Leeman, 1926 Leeman Rd., and the late Mr. Leeman, Mrs. Saylor is the mother of a daughter, Sharon, who is in high school, and a son, Steven, in grade school.

Her husband is with the Lockheed Aircraft firm at its Marietta, Ga., plant.

FLAG SHRINE TO OPEN—The Rev. and Mrs. Karl Keefe display here the latest addition to their collection of flags at the flag shrine they maintain in a former rural school house on Mt. Hope Rd., two miles north of I-94. The latest addition is a white silk Massachusetts state flag with the state seal in blue and gold. It was presented to the Keefers last week as a result of communication with Lloyd Kalmbach, formerly of Chelsea, who is now chairman of the board of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., donor of the flag. Directly above the Keefers, at top center of the photo, is a 36-star flag dating back to April 30, 1889, when it was carried in the centennial celebration of Washington's inauguration by John Fyfe. The flag was presented to the Keefers by Fyfe's son, John B. Fyfe, Sr., who lives in Chelsea. At top right is a 13-star Revolutionary War flag and draped over the Rev. Keefe's arm is the American flag he has carried with him on speaking tours before 3,500 different audiences. Photos of governors of all the states and other officials appear on the wall behind the Keefers and at top is a photo of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. The above photograph was taken Monday as the Keefers were busy preparing for Sunday's opening of the season at their flag shrine. The flag shrine will be open to the public daily July 1-Oct. 1, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Opening Ceremony Slated Sunday at Area Flag Shrine

The Rev. and Mrs. Karl H. Keefe of Ann Arbor, who have arranged a "flag shrine" in the former Ball rural school on Mt. Hope Rd., have announced that beginning July 1 the shrine will be open daily from 2 to 5 p.m.; a special opening ceremony is scheduled to be held at the shrine at 9 a.m. Sunday, July 1.

Speakers at the opening of the shrine, located on Mt. Hope Rd. two miles north of I-94, are to include State Senator Stanley Thayer of Ann Arbor and State Representative James Folks of Jackson.

The unusual shrine contains the flags of all 50 states, several South American countries and all of the Central American republics, along with autographed photographs of the governors of the states and the presidents of the Central and South American republics.

The Rev. Keefe is serving as pastor of the Mt. Hope Methodist church, adjacent to the school house where the flag shrine is located.

He describes his charge as "the smallest congregation in the Detroit Conference of the Methodist Church." The congregation numbers only 45 members, but many more than that attend services there, particularly during the summer.

The Rev. Keefe formerly served pastorates at Ludington, Grand Rapids, Potteryville, Gladwin and German at Chelsea High school in 1941 and 1942. She was a special guest at the June 9 Chelsea High school alumni banquet, being present at the invitation of the class of 1912 who this year celebrated the golden anniversary of their graduation.

As Laura Gillette Smith, who served from 1928 until 1940 as editor of the Pythian Sisters Tidings, which had a circulation of 150,000.

In 1925 and 1926 she served as president of the Rebekah Assembly of Michigan and has held state offices in the Pythian Sisters and served on the board of directors of the Odd Fellow Home in Jackson. In 1941 she was deputy city clerk in Ann Arbor.

She came to teach in Chelsea immediately following her graduation from the University of Michigan in 1911.

Since her marriage to the Rev. Keefe two years ago she has worked with him in his project of preparing the flag shrine. They finance the project themselves, saying they "have no backers."

The present schoolhouse, where the flags are displayed, was built in 1870 to replace a former log cabin school. The Mt. Hope church acquired the building in 1960 to use as a church house.

Only last week, Tuesday, June 26, the Keefers were presented the flag of Massachusetts—one which they had been trying to obtain for some time to complete their collection of state flags.

The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. of which Leland Kalmbach, a former Chelsea resident, is now chairman of the board, is the donor of the large silk flag of Massachusetts which completes the collection of state flags. Frank W. Howland, general agent of the insurance company in Detroit, and Mac F. Begole, Ann Arbor representative, made the presentation.

Another recent addition is a rarity—a 42-star flag; the 42 stars never was the official number of stars. The flag was made by the mother of Frank Abbott of Grass Lake and he and his wife presented it to the Rev. and Mrs. Keefe for their display. It had (Continued on page three)

Recreation Program Off To Big Start

The Chelsea Recreation Council summer program began Monday with a total attendance of 508, according to Recreation Director Alan Conklin.

Arts and crafts programs attracted 180 children; morning baseball, 100; afternoon activities, 110; and evening basketball and baseball, 55.

A special feature for the arts and crafts groups at both North and South Elementary schools tomorrow (Friday) morning is to be a pet show.

The program for next week's activities is published on page 8 of this issue of The Standard.

There will be no program Wednesday, July 4.

A. Conklin To Be Junior High Chief

Chelsea School District Board of Education has authorized the school administration to hire Alan Conklin as principal of the Junior High school.

He will do some classroom teaching but will no longer serve as athletic coach when he assumes his new position.

In addition to seventh and eighth grade students at the Junior High school it will be necessary to house three sixth grades there. The sixth grades formerly were in classrooms at North and South Elementary schools. Lack of space for the three grades at the elementary schools forced the move, it was explained.

Donald Alber and Luther Kusterer were sworn in as members of the Chelsea School District Board of Education at the June 19 board meeting. Alber was elected for a first term and Kusterer re-elected to succeed himself at the annual school election June 11.

The board organized for the year, electing Stuart Booker, president; Luther Kusterer, treasurer; and Paul Mann, secretary.

The board passed a resolution thanking the retiring board president, Howard Plintoff, for his nine years of devoted service as a board member.

Council Will Meet Monday Next Week

Chelsea Village Council will meet Monday, July 2, because of the Fourth of July holiday. The Monday meeting date is for this one session only since the first and third Tuesdays of the month are the official meeting dates.

Chelsea Man Gets Jail Sentence in Negligence Case

A man charged by Chelsea police with leaving his four-year-old daughter at home alone while he and his wife went on a trip to Lansing was jailed Monday on a conviction of contributing to the negligence of a child.

Police Chief John Palmer said Arthur Altwater, 39, of 428 North St., admitted he and his wife, Beatrice, drove to Lansing from Chelsea recently while their young daughter was left home alone.

He pleaded guilty to the charge before Municipal Court Judge Francis L. O'Brien but said, "I just never looked in the back seat to see if she was there." Altwater said when they were a short distance from Chelsea they discovered the child was not in the car but continued on the trip.

Judge O'Brien sentenced Altwater to three days in the County Jail with credit for time already spent there. Mrs. Altwater, arrested with her husband, stood mute to the same charge of negligence of a child, and is scheduled for trial Thursday (today).

Legion, Kiwanis Club Sponsoring Free July 4 Event

All area residents are invited to the big Fourth of July fireworks display at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds as soon after 9 p.m. as it is dark enough for the fireworks to be seen to best advantage.

The annual fireworks display has been a community service project of Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, American Legion, for a number of years; this year and last year, however, the Kiwanis club has assisted with the project, making for a larger display and helping with the expense. The display has always been free to the public.

Originally, the annual display was held at the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake; however, the traffic problem around the lake became so acute that it was decided three years ago to hold the event at the fairgrounds.

Committee members will be on duty at the fairground to direct free parking of cars for the fireworks display and for the Legion sponsored ice cream social which precedes it.

Byron Pearson Joining U.S. Marine Band

Byron Pearson leaves tomorrow to report at Washington, D.C., where he is to become a member of the U. S. Marine Band.

He will return to his studies at the University of Michigan at the conclusion of his four-year enlistment in the Marines. He has one semester of work to complete for his degree in music education, majoring in trumpet.

In the meantime he will take a few subjects at the University of Maryland.

Pearson's one semester of study at the University of Michigan will make up for his February-June 1961 tour of Russia and other European countries with the University Band.

His assignment to the Marine Band followed an audition with the group at Toledo, O., about three months ago. He will play trumpet and do solo work with the famed group, which is known as "the president's own band." The Marine Band plays at all White House functions and for all state occasions; in addition, each year the band goes on a nine-week tour giving two concerts every day, Sundays included.

During his stay in Washington, Pearson will be studying with Gilles Johnson, first trumpet player with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

NEW CLUBHOUSE—The first meeting of the Chelsea Rod and Gun club held in the new clubhouse was attended by 73 members and seven neighbors who had been especially invited to be present. In his report at the meeting, William Freeman, chairman of the building committee, said there are still some outstanding bills; however, indications are that the construction cost will remain within the estimated $10,000. Some painting will be done; cabinets are still to be built in the kitchen; and the floor is to be tiled; however, the main part of the building was completed in less than six weeks (between the May and June meeting dates). Style of construction was planned to be practically maintenance free. The building is on a hill, easily accessible from the road and overlooking the project grounds and the trap shoot area. Construction cost was kept at a minimum because of the volunteer work of members. Landscaping and preparation of the parking area will complete the clubhouse project.

One Sick American Decides It's Time To Reverse Trend to Bureaucracy

Charles Edison, as director of the company Committee for Public Affairs, has mailed to all McGraw-Edison employees a copy of a letter by an unnamed San Franciscan. It was published in the Copley newspaper, a California, but deserves the attention of all the author's fellow citizens in the other 49 states as well. The writer says:

"I am one of the Americans, who heard Mr. Khrushchev tell our nation that my great-grandchildren will grow up in a Communist world. For some time now, this has bothered me. I am not a brave man—not even a big one. I am now 50. I paint my own house, repair my own car, grub my own crabgrass, and nurse a modest savings account. I am a law-abiding man on the quiet side, and dissension makes me terribly nervous. Frankly, I am the kind who simply doesn't have it in him to fight anyone ever."

He goes on to report coming across "the huge old family bible" in the attic with his great-grandmother's journal of her covered wagon trek across the Great Plains to the wild, new land of California.

"On the trail she wrote of sickness and hunger, and heat and cold, and dust and thirst, and the deaths and births like beads strung together on a thread of hope—hope of freedom and a land of plenty for their children yet unborn. As I read, I began to think about America and what it all stands for, and I thought about our enemies and what they intend to do to America. . . to its freedom and its hope."

"And, suddenly, I realized that I am a sick American. I mean really sick. I am sick of bureaucrats who tell me that my enemy is not really my enemy and that I should live together with murderers and tyrants. I am sick of government that hasn't the guts to clean traitors out of its own offices. And I'm sick of being a nice, pleasant guy about it. I am sick of my country being ridiculed all over the world. I am sick of pink-fingered diplomats and lily-livered politicians who place personal career above the fate of the flag."

"I am sick of 40 years of relentless, creeping, cancerous Communist godlessness that never once has wavered from its avowed purpose of conquering that flag and seeing it trampled in the mud under Russian boots. I am sick of my genteel desire to stand pat and pray while the enemy advances. I am sick of educators who teach tolerance of subversion and of clergymen who would have me quail at the spectre of battle and turn my cheek in fear of what our enemies might do."

"In all honesty, the thing of which I am most sick is the man who let these things come to me: myself. And by the living God who made me, Sir, I am a sick American who intends to get well."

The letter is signed "Fed-up Citizen." Are there enough more, we wonder, who will make up their troubled minds to get well?

THE BELL STILL SPEAKS

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

State government last year employed nearly 31,000 persons; the State Civil Service Commission reports.

Of the 20,552 persons on the state payroll at year's end, more than two-thirds of them were in three general areas of service: mental, health, highways, and health, welfare and employment security.

Mental health units around the state accounted for 10,100 employees. Departments of health, welfare and employment security employed another 5,417 persons, and 4,946 were listed on the Highway Department payroll.

The year also marked what Commission Chairman George N. Higgins of Farmington called "some of the most significant advances of any year since civil service was established by Constitutional amendment 21 years ago."

Agency personnel officers worked with the Commission staff to accomplish the first ever-all revision of the Commission rules which affect all classified employees.

The state also entered its first contract to provide group life and health insurance for its employees, similar to policies used in private business.

Automation made its way into the Civil Service Department system in 1961. A method of producing employment lists and scoring written tests by machine was designed.

The Commission also instituted a partial tuition program to encourage employees to improve their abilities by training at accredited schools on their own time.

Seasonal changes in employment boosted the average to 31,501 during the year although at the end of the calendar period the figure was down somewhat. The average for the year was an increase of 1,000 for 1960, Higgins said.

Children entering school each fall have their problems. Most problems are small and resolve themselves as soon as the child gets used to his new surroundings, but there are a number which take much longer.

Some of these, such as vision irregularities, often take some time to solve because they are not discovered immediately. The State Health Department has hopes of eliminating this problem—which prevents many children from adjusting to their new life in the classroom.

A vision screening device designed by department technicians is being used commercially for the first time this year to test the sight of large numbers of preschool children.

It is hoped that widespread use of the machine may be gained within a few years to catch sight problems before children reach the stage where they are causing a teacher difficulty which is not easily diagnosed.

Previously the limited ability of preschool children to communicate, and the lack of an effective vision testing device frustrated efforts to check the sight of youngsters.

The new screening device, designed for use with three-year-olds and older children, avoids the use of concepts such as up, down, right and left—which are often confusing to a child in these years.

Instead of these abstract terms, the youngsters are asked whether the letter "E" is pointing to a rabbit, flower, clouds, or grass.

Another technique developed by the Department gives the child an opportunity to become familiar with the idea. A replica of the testing device is sent to parents of children to be tested. They are encouraged to teach their child the "game" on which they will be tested.

Experiments with the machine showed nearly 80 per cent of the youngsters screened were referred to their eye doctor because of possible defects. Half of these failed the test and the others were referred because of symptoms such as squinting or watery eyes.

Officials who developed the machine said the three-year-old testing age was set because of the advantages of working with this group. They more readily need glasses or a patch to strengthen weak eyes than other age groups, either older or younger.

The state-wide screening program includes 12 counties this year: Antrim, Calhoun, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Ingham, Kalamazoo, Livingston, Macomb, Marquette, Midland and Wayne.

The constitutional convention will not officially be concluded until after its scheduled Aug. 1 session to approve the final printed version, but Secretary Fred I. Chase has compiled an interesting note on the proceedings during the bulk of the meetings.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

We been getting some mighty interesting items out of Washington here lately. Per instant, I was reading a piece yesterday where the broom closets in the Pentagon Building is listed, "Public Building Service, Buildings Management Division, Utility Room, Custodial." If they'd put a mop bucket in with the brooms, I reckon they'd have to put on a extra helper for the broom.

Incidental, Congressman Dan Flood of Pennsylvania has come up with a plan for making a little more room in the Pentagon. He is advocating that they get five platoons of Marines and send 'em through the building and cart off ever fourth man, in uniform or not. He claims nobody but their families would ever know they was gone. Personal, Mister Editor, I don't think it would make no more room. In a couple weeks they would start putting in more broom closets.

Then they was a little piece from Senator Young of Ohio advising farmers and ranchers to get their hand into golf courses. He said they was a golf course at Blair, Nebraska, that had been renting 14 acres to a nearby farmer on account of them not needing it. Then last year they made the golf course bigger and had to take them 14 acres back. And all of a sudden the golf club gets a check for $288 for taking land out of production that had been planted in corn. Senator Young claimed that if a feller had himself about 300 acres and would change over and list it as a golf course, he could set on the front porch and rock with the grain and collect more'n $6,000 a year.

But the most serious news I got out of Washington last week come in my weekly bulletin from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. You will recollect here a while back I told you about them scientists working to take the cackle out of the hen and the crow out of the rooster. I predicted at the time that this was going to be mighty upsetting to the hens. Well, this is to report that they has got this project well under way. My bulletin last week announced that for the first time in many years hens is laying less. It says the number of hens in 1961 was up 5 million, but the average number of eggs per hen was down about 1 per cent.

About the only news coming out of Washington last week that didn't upset me pretty bad was a statement by Senator Carl Curtis that our national debt actual is a little over a trillion dollars. He give a long list of items to prove it. Billions or trillions, I couldn't care less. I won't be here to help pay it. But I wish you'd ask that school teacher that's so good in grammar and spelling how you write a trillion in figures. Ed Doslittle and the fellers at the country store will want to know, as shore as shooting.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

HOW'S YOUR JOINTS?

Many of the cars that drive in at 6000 MOBIL SERVICE need only a little oil and a little grease. You can tell this by the noise and vibration. This is particularly true on models which have higher gears. Because the vibration gets steady, so gradually, drivers don't notice it until finally the shift sounds like a cement mixer. Needless to say, this is not doing your automobile any good.

If you haven't had your universal joints checked in four thousand miles, or if the old bus seems to vibrate at high speed, get over to 620 South Main St., for the next lube job. We'll check this important part of your automobile.

Survey Reveals Buildings Suitable for Fallout Shelters

Director Gerald G. Miller of the Washtenaw County Office of Civil Defense, announcing that there are 468 buildings in the county which could be brought up to federal standards for public fallout shelters, if they are modified slightly, said local Civil Defense directors have the responsibility for contacting the owners of the buildings and issuing licenses for use of the buildings as fallout shelters.

During the first phase of the National Shelter Survey, the federal government considered 700 buildings in the county as potential "community fallout shelters." It narrowed the list to those which could give a certain level of protection against radiation. All of Washtenaw county has a total of 154 buildings which the federal government will consider for stocking with supplies and turning into fallout shelters as part of the national program.

This includes seven in the Chelsea area; four in Dexter; two in Manhester; one in Dexter township and three in Scio township, according to the survey figures. The greatest number of buildings for possible shelters in the county is in Ann Arbor where 115 are listed.

In a report to the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors, Director Miller stated that the President of the United States has said, "To recognize the possibilities of nuclear war in the missile age, without our citizens knowing what they should do and where they should go if bombs begin to fall, would be a failure of responsibility."

Miller concluded by stating that to actually provide shelter in being, requires the coordinated action and partnership response by the federal government, state and county, local government, and most important of all, the individual citizen.

He explained that the federal government is making every effort to provide the steering, leadership and guidance, in Civil Defense and the one aspect of Civil Defense that today the federal government is promoting above all others is the National Shelter Program. They have had the advice and research of the entire scientific family available in arriving at this course of action. Scientists, Military and Civilian government leadership have all determined Miller said, that in the event of disaster the greatest non-military protection for the greatest number of people is fallout shelters. In recognition of this, all other Civil Defense programs pale by comparison and are now secondary to the shelter effort.

Miller continued by saying that the federal government has assumed the responsibility for locating shelter spaces in certain buildings and will stock with supplies those buildings, which meet the minimum requirements; this is now about half done in Washtenaw county. On the other hand, local government and private building owners must promote, manage and devise procedures for the public to use these shelter spaces. In many cases, many buildings do not quite meet the minimum protection factor. If these buildings are to be used, local government, in the case of a public building, and private building owners, must stand the cost of modification necessary to bring the building up to minimum requirements. Once this is accomplished the federal government will completely stock these additional buildings.

Emphasizing the concern for Civil Defense, Miller stated that the federal government has programmed this public shelter effort forward five years, with an ultimate objective of establishing throughout the United States, fallout protection in public shelters for 233 million people.

The federal "incentive" program, Miller pointed out, proposes to establish public shelter space in hospitals, schools and welfare non-profit institutions and estimates the total cost per building will not exceed $40 maximum per space; the federal government to pay the first $25 per space (1 space is one person) in each building. Local government and private building owners are to finance the remaining smaller portion.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

by M. L. Woolf

Madison Avenue, Move Over

If farmers don't promote their own products, who will? The supermarket chain that sells them? How will farmers fare in promotions of fruit and vegetables, meats and cereals, by others who have prepared and branded them?

As farmers become better merchandisers, they have learned to sharpen their "consumer image" in public relations efforts that often begin in a small way, but sometimes end up with a Madison Avenue flourish.

For example, the famed "by invitation only" Apple-Smogorger held annually in the height of the fruit season in the Sparta area of Kent and Ottawa counties. Other examples include the bean dinners of Bay, Saginaw and Gratiot counties, the Blossom Festival of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area and the Tulip Festival of Holland.

Not to be ignored are the many successful dairy promotions sponsored through A.D.A. and the new combination deals, the Cherry-Dairy Festivals.

"This is our first try at a festival," said Henry Johnson, hardworking Oceana county farm leader where new cherry plantings are now starting to come into fruit. Although Oceana may one day top the state and nation in cherry production, the Farm Bureau festival committee had some trouble trying to draw the line at cherries, or dairy products. As a result the exhibit areas included other county products, excellent honey, peaches, apples, on and on.

The invited public formed long lines past 20 or more salads and fruit or cheese appetizers, to end at tables where local farm women served meat courses and vegetables. Other farm volunteers served endless amounts of fruit desserts, many of their own creation.

No preaching, just friendly greetings, a wonderful farm welcome by members of the festival committee to the non-farm guests, and a well put together color-slide presentation later to show how really important agriculture is.

Madison Avenue could have spent more but it couldn't have done better.

Flag Shrine

been made in anticipation of a change from the 38-star flag; and when the change was made it actually added five stars so the 42-star one was obsolete before it could be put into use.

The Keefers also have an exact reproduction of the 42x30-foot 15-star flag which was the inspiration for Francis Scott Key's composition of "The Star Spangled Banner" which is now the national anthem. The replica which has 15 stripes instead of the present 13, is made of crepe paper and is too large to display in full at the schoolhouse flag shrine.

Some European flags, as well as other items of historical interest are also on display, such as an 1844 atlas; an 1874 Jackson county atlas; a Bible printed in 1789; a Revolutionary War banner, etc.

The planning of the flag shrine began when the Rev. Keefe church "to help it along for awhile" in spite of the fact that he is officially retired. When he discovered that the congregation had purchased the schoolhouse to keep it from "going to ruin" he felt it was an opportunity to "give children a chance to learn more about the background of their nation."

Especially interested in showing the display to youth groups—Boy Scouts, church groups, etc.—he soon found that the shrine was attracting widespread interest among adults as well and he proceeded with plans for the shrine to be open to the public daily from 2-5 p.m., July 1 through Oct. 1.

Patriotism has been a subject in which the Rev. Keefe has always been interested; he has talked on U. S. history and heritage for more than 20 years throughout the country and is the author of the book, "Our Flag is Still There."

The Keefers are planning a month's trip to South America in January in an effort to secure additional flags for their display and to present American flags to officials there.

In addition to the afternoon hours when the flag shrine is open to the public, groups may make arrangements to meet there at other times by contacting the Keefers at their Ann Arbor home.

More than 3,000 people from 15 states have visited the shrine during the past two years; included are Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Brownies, Girl Scouts, Women's groups and others from the Chelsea area.

In lectures given at the shrine during the afternoon the Keefers explain the stages by which the American flag has reached its present official 50 stars and 13 stripes.

It was changed twice to add five stars each time; changed three times to add two stars and then changed 21 times to add one star at a time until the present 50 appeared last year after Hawaii and Alaska became states.

George Knickerbocker Attends Rural Market Conference in Detroit

George A. Knickerbocker, agent for Standard Oil Division of American Oil Co., at Chelsea, has just completed a two-day rural market study conference at the company's Detroit regional office.

Top management officials and specialists in agricultural and farming problems emphasized the need for Standard Oil Agents, through proper education and information, to inform farmers of the advantages and necessity of using today's new and improved Agricultural Chemical products.

It was further pointed out that farmers are today involved in an agricultural revolution and farmers who do not adopt new tillage practices will fall by the wayside.

Knickerbocker resides at 1221 Freer Rd., Chelsea.

Elmer Klump Seeks Democratic Nomination as Sheriff's Candidate

Elmer F. Klump of Whitmore Lake, who two years ago ran for the Republican nomination for sheriff, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the same office.

Klump, a 48-year-old garage operator, said his decision to switch to the Democratic Party "was not made overnight."

"I have always felt voters should cast their ballots for the man, not the party," Klump said. "What is a party if the proper man is not in the office? I decided after the 1960 Republican primary election that I would seek the Democratic nomination for sheriff. I feel the people of this county want more than a party hack in the office of sheriff."

Klump filed a $100 bond at the county clerk's office last Tuesday morning in lieu of the required nominating petitions. Chelsea Police Chief John Palmer, who previously announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for sheriff, also filed his petitions at the clerk's office last Tuesday.

Klump, who served as a deputy under Sheriff George A. Petersen until he was fired on April 16, 1960, said today he felt the expense involved in running for sheriff in Washtenaw county "far exceed the rewards of the office."

"It's about time the people start voting for the right man for the job rather than have candidates buy the office," Klump said.

Klump, a native of Sharon township, served as a Northfield township constable for six years before being appointed a full-time uniformed deputy by Sheriff Petersen on Jan. 1, 1958. He announced his candidacy for sheriff on the Republican ticket on March 28, 1960, and was relieved of his duties by the sheriff 20 days later. Petersen said at the time Klump was fired because of a 1928 conviction for violation of the prohibition law and that Klump's political ambitions had nothing to do with his discharge.

In the 1960 Republican primary election, Petersen defeated Klump and John L. Tice for the nomination and went on that fall to win the election from his Democratic opponent.

Tice, George L. Stauch, a retired Ann Arbor policeman, and Petersen have previously announced they were candidates for the Republican nomination for sheriff in the primary election next August.

Klump said in his statement today he has "always felt the basic tenets of the Democratic Party were sound." Klump is married and is the father of two daughters and a son.

Byron Pearson

Pearson began his career as a trumpet player with the Chelsea High School Band under the direction of Eugene Shroyer who was instrumental music director at the time.

Following his graduation from high school in 1958 he enrolled at the University of Michigan and became a member of the U-M Marching Band, the U-M Concert Band and the U-M Orchestra.

In addition, he organized his own dance band group in 1960, the group playing together for two years at various locations.

The past year he and several other musicians formed a jazz group, filling numerous engagements in the Detroit-Ann Arbor area.

His instructor at the University of Michigan was Clifford Lilly, professor of trumpet.

During his high school years he spent three summers at Interlochen Music Camp and in 1958 was at Gunnison, Colo., for the summer state music camp at Western State College.

Pearson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Pearson, 13940 Old US-12, East.

Mrs. Truman Lehman is a patient at St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, where she is reported to be improving following major surgery.

Chelsea Milling Operation Detailed For Kiwanians

Howard Holmes, president of Chelsea Milling Co., was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening in the Methodist church social center. He told of the history and development of the milling enterprise here which has grown in its 85 years of existence into one of the four major milling firms in the nation distributing prepared mixes and flour products.

Holmes' appearance before the Kiwanis club was arranged by the program chairman, Robert Daniels, as one of a series to be held during the summer to acquaint Kiwanians with all phases of the industrial advantages of the community.

Included in Holmes' presentation was a 15-minute film showing the facilities and personnel at the mill where a million units a day prepared mixes, etc.—are produced.

Chelsea Milling Co. has the reputation of being one of the most completely automated milling plants in the country.

Holmes mentioned that further expansion is being planned at the Chelsea plant.

A guest at Monday's meeting was Wayne Allen of Indianapolis, Ind., who attended with his son, Louis Allen.

It was announced a monthly board meeting was to be held at 8 p.m. yesterday at the home of Louis Allen.

Envelopes of Odd Sizes Are Banned From Mail Jan. 1

Postmaster Carl Mayer announced this week that he has received notification that after Jan. 1, 1963, all envelopes less than three inches in height or less than four inches long will be banned.

Manufacturers of greeting cards and other firms which make envelopes for customers have been given official notice of the new order to permit them to conform with it.

The move to ban all odd-shaped envelopes from the mails is designed to speed handling and delivery. Envelopes of standard sizes are more easily and quickly handled, postal authorities state.

Effective Jan. 1, 1963, the provisions of Part 122.3 of the Postal Manual will be amended as follows:

(a) Envelopes less than 3 inches in width (height) or 4 1/4 inches in length are non-mailable.

(b) Envelopes more than 9 inches in width (height) or 12 inches in length are not recommended.

(c) Envelopes having shapes other than rectangular are non-mailable.

(d) Envelopes having a ratio of width (height) to length of less than 1.414 (1 to square root of 2) are not recommended.

Elba Gage Injured In Fall from Ladder

Elba Gage suffered a fractured collarbone, fractured ribs and a broken shoulder when he fell Friday noon as he was picking cherries. A limb gave way and the ladder on which he was standing shifted position, causing him to lose his balance.

He was taken by ambulance to University Hospital, Ann Arbor, and on Monday was moved into an intensive care unit at the hospital for special treatment to alleviate a lung condition which had developed.

Visitors were restricted until his condition shows general improvement.

Bookmobile Summer Stops Listed

The schedule for summer bookmobile stops has been announced by the Washtenaw County Board of Library Trustees. The schedule listed Wednesday, June 28, as its effective date.

Mrs. Viola Blackenbury, chairman of the library board's service committee, pointed out that this schedule is for a trial period. "We are attempting to take the service to areas which do not have easy access to existing libraries. We anticipate making changes as experience shows where the mobile service will be of most value."

She said the bookmobile service is one step in several which the library trustees plan to make available in strengthening and extending public library service in the county.

The existing community libraries now have access to a rotating collection of 3,000 new books to be expanded as soon as the temporary quarters of the county library in the Ann Arbor Public Library can be made available. This collection is a loan under the Library Development program of the Michigan State Library. Other books and magazines will be purchased and rented by the county library.

The bookmobile schedule is as follows:

Monday — Portage Lake (McGregor Rd.) 10 a.m. to noon; Silver Lake (Dexter-Townhall Rd.) 1 to 2:30 p.m.; and Loch Alpine (Loch Alpine West and Curlew Lane) 3 to 5 p.m.

Tuesday — Whitmore Lake (Whitmore and Barker Rds.) 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; and Salem (Six Mile and Dickerson) 2 to 5 p.m.

Wednesday — Rawsonville (school on Grove Rd. on alternate Wednesdays) 10 a.m. to noon; or Superior township (Wootton Oval and McArthur) 10 a.m. to noon; Begole School (Hewitt and Ellsworth Rds.) 1 to 2:30 p.m.; and West Willow School (Mary Catherine St.) 3 to 5 p.m.

Thursday — Willis (Willis Rd. and Augusta) 10 a.m. to noon; Whitaker (St. Joseph Church, 1 to 2:30 p.m.; and Mooreville (Mooreville Rd. at store) 3 to 5 p.m.

Friday — Bridgewater (Austin and Kaiser Rds.) 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; and Pleasant Lake (Pleasant Lake Rd. at school) 2 to 5 p.m.

'Ham' Radio Operators Log 700 Contacts

In spite of electrical storms at intervals Saturday and Sunday, members of the Huron Valley Amateur Radio Association, taking part in a nation-wide communications exercise from 4 p.m. Saturday until 4 p.m. Sunday, contacted more than 700 points throughout the world.

The Huron Valley group operated from the Chelsea Fairgrounds.

Chelsea men who participated included Marion Longworth, W8CSG station captain and Robert Schroen, W8RDX, in charge of site location; those from Dexter included Glen and Paul Nuttle (K8TYQ and K8YIQ) both of whom are also listed as station captains.

Purpose of the annual exercise is to test the ability of local radio groups to handle messages for police, Red Cross and Civil Defense under emergency conditions. All equipment was powered by a gasoline generator, simulating emergency conditions.

The Huron Valley logbook, to be submitted to the American Radio Relay League for judging in the nation-wide contest includes messages received and sent during the exercise here between Washtenaw county and most of the 50 states, the Canadian provinces, Greenland, Liberia, Nicaragua, Panama, the Seattle World's Fair and three ships at sea.

Though basically serious in nature, Field Day is conducted as a contest, with each group trying to work as many other groups as possible. Last year's results, as announced by the League's magazine, QST, showed that HVARA did very well, contacting 731 stations in 41 states and 5 Canadian provinces.

This year Field Day coincided with Michigan Amateur Radio Week, proclaimed by Governor John B. Swainson as the week of June 24 through June 30.

This was the 15th annual "Ham" Field Day.

The Chelsea Fairgrounds station was one of 1,000 groups throughout the nation in competition to see who could make the most radio contacts which could be confirmed.

FIERY SALUTE TO THE FREEDOM FESTIVAL—More than two tons of high explosives—to be staged in the United States this year, will light up Downtown Detroit's skyline Monday, July 2, when Hudson's presents its fourth annual pyrotechnic salute to the International Freedom Festival. The 45-minute all aerial display, largest yet staged in the United States, will start at 9:15 p.m., from four barges moored mid-way in the Detroit River between Downtown Detroit and Windsor.

New Stamp Will Honor Girl Scouts

A 4-cent commemorative stamp honoring the Girl Scouts of America will be issued July 24 at Burlington, Vt., 25 miles northeast of Button Bay, where the first day ceremonies will be held during the 50th anniversary Senior Girl Scout Roundup, July 19-20.

The new stamp shows the portrait of a Senior Girl Scout in uniform with a portion of the American flag forming the background. It will be printed in red on white in a quantity of 120 million and will be released in panes of 60 subjects.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent Girl Scout stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to: Postmaster, Burlington, Vt. State Imposes Tax on Itself In Conservation Dept. Land

Landing. Nothing so dependable on this green earth as taxes—and the coming of the long-bearded ancient with scythe and hour glass. So goes the familiar old saw.

Oddly enough the State of Michigan even declares a "tax" upon itself, which it applies to practically every acre of forest, game, and recreation land under the jurisdiction of the Conservation Department. It is the general taxpayers of the state, and all the buyers of fish and game licenses who put up the money for this "tax," which by direction of the legislature is paid to local units of government in which the land is located.

The legislature first provided for such a payment in 1917 when a new statute required that five cents per acre be paid to each county for every acre of "State tax homestead or State swamp land" within the county. The money was to be used by the county for "trunk line highways" or county highways.

This payment was raised to 10 cents per acre in 1931, and in 1956 that was hiked another five cents to a total of 15 cents per acre. The entire payment now goes to the school districts and townships in which the land is located, and payment is made for all conservation lands, with two exceptions: the first 1,000 acres in each State Park is exempt; also, for purchased LAND in southern Michigan where values are higher, there is an entirely different method of payment.

Through these payments, in 1959 the taxpayers routed well over half a million dollars, $553,717.36, to be exact, out of their pockets, into the state treasury, then back to local units of government. In addition, of the total sum which hunters and fishermen paid in license fees, $218,954.90 was channeled into the Game and Fish Protection fund, and then re-appropriated by the legislature back to local governments.

The grand total reaches three quarters of a million dollars, and like everybody's tax bill, it goes up every year.

Strictly speaking, this is not a "tax." It can better be called a "grant" or as the statute says, "payment in lieu of taxes." State conservation lands are almost unique in being subject to such a payment. From post-offices to highways, military lands, and prisons, all the way to court houses and the state capitol itself, nearly all public property is exempt from any such payment. Add to this all hospitals, churches, benevolent institutions, and private educational property, and one finds a large amount of property exempt from taxation as such.

Any or all of these properties, however, may in specific cases be subject to "payments in lieu of taxes," as public lands under Conservation Department administration are.

A Wayne State University study in 1953 showed that Department lands represented only 2.5 percent of the total value of all tax exempt property in the state, but these lands, nonetheless, at that time, provided nearly 50 per cent of all payments made in lieu of taxes to local units of government. That year, $930,000 was paid by the state to local units of government from all sources; $448,000 of it was paid on your forests, game areas, and fishing sites.

The conservationist should also take note that another $150,000 of the $930,000 payments for 1959 came from the U. S. Forest Service. This represents 25 percent of the gross sale of forest products from federal lands. It is allotted to the counties in which the lands are located, to be spent for roads and schools and can be called payment in lieu of property taxes.

To return to payments made by the state, the 15 cents per acre payment applies chiefly to all tax-reverted land whether in the north or south, and to purchased land in the northern or "forested" part of the state. In the southern agricultural, industrial region, where most of the game areas and recreation areas are located, a different system has been provided by the legislature on purchased land.

Here, the Michigan Tax Commission determines the "assessed value" of all purchased land, parcel by parcel, and the amount of payment is determined by applying the same millage rate as prevails for private property. Thus, when a local school board, county board of supervisors, and electorate decide what the tax rate must be in order to raise the funds they require, they are determining the rate of payment by the state, as well as that for taxes on private land. The only differences between the state payment and local taxes are: (1) The Tax Commission rather than the township supervisor determines the assessed valuation and (2) no buildings or other improvements are included in the assessment.

It should be noted that there is a small amount of tax reverted land in the southern part of the state, and also some land in the Waterloo and Yankee Springs Recreation Areas received by gift and exchange from the federal government on which only the 15 cent per acre payment is made.

Of special interest to license buyers is the fact that tax payments for lands purchased from the Game and Fish Protection Fund comes out of the Game and Fish Protection fund, including payments for all tax reverted land, and recreation area lands purchased with funds appropriated from this fund.

In northern Michigan, the payment increases from year to year only as the amount of ownership increases, so the 1959 bill was less than $1,000 higher than in 1956. But for southern Michigan, steady tax rate increases have raised the payment from about $141,000 in 1956 to $181,000 for 1959.

Why the different systems for North and South? Land values are doubtless more uniform in the Medical Training Program Set Up By Health Dept.

New Medical Self-Help Training Program will start next month. Dr. Otto K. Engleke announced today. This program has been developed by the U. S. Public Health Service and the Office of Civil Defense in co-operation with the American Medical Association's Council on National Security and Committee on Disaster Medical Care. The Washtenaw County Medical Society has reviewed the program and endorses it.

Training kits and material have been received by Ann Arbor and Washtenaw County Civil Defense Directors who have selected Col. Kenneth A. Eddy, (Ret.), Health Services (Civil Defense Co-ordinator) with the city-county Health Department to implement and administer the program.

The selection of instructors has been under way for several weeks and the initial class will start July 10 for members of the Washtenaw County Pharmaceutical Society.

The course contains practical information for families to care for themselves in a national emergency when customary medical and health services may not be available.

"The course does not teach anyone to practice medicine or surgery, nor is it a substitute for medical care provided in hospitals and elsewhere by physicians," Dr. Engleke emphasized. The content of the course does not supersede nor replace Red Cross Training in First Aid and Home Nursing.

Underlying the Medical Self-Help concept is the philosophy that knowledge reduces fear. A person who knows what to do in an emergency will act more rationally and effectively than one who is unlearned. The course is intended to prepare families to help care for themselves using the resources they may have on hand at home during a national emergency when normal medical care is not obtainable.

North than in the South and, therefore, a more simple system can be used. The southern Michigan lands are more scattered and in smaller units than in the North, and are more closely intermeshed with private land. Local government taxes and needs probably have wider variation South than North. Most important, land values are much higher in South than North, and a flat rate payment would therefore cause significant inequities between different taxing units.

Regardless of how or where payments are made, your forest, game, fish, and recreation land is paying its way, and if truth be known, probably more than that.

Very little local government costs for schools, welfare, law enforcement, and fire protection are caused by these lands, for no people live on them except a small scattering of Department project managers. On the other hand, taxes are not based entirely on benefit received, but also on ability to pay.

The people of the state through their legislature, have declared that they are ready, willing, and able to assume a part of the local tax burden in communities where these conservation lands are located.

1962 Highway Map Ready

Lansing — The 1962 Official Michigan state highway map is off the press, the State Highway Department reports.

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said nearly 2,000 changes have been made on the map since last year, mainly the result of 238 miles of new freeway that were opened to traffic in Michigan during 1961.

In addition, detailed strip maps of the state's major freeways are on the map for the first time this year. They show location and design of freeway interchanges.

This year's highway map has nine color photos on the front and back covers, including pictures of the Capitol Building, the Soo Locks, the Mackinac Bridge, Interstate 75 Freeway in northern Michigan and other scenic views.

Mackie said 600,000 copies of the new map have been printed by Rand McNally & Co. of Skokie, Ill.

Highest priority has been given to distribution of maps to nearly 25,000 individuals who have written in recent weeks asking for a copy of the map.

At the same time, bulk shipments have gone out to tourist associations, chambers of Commerce, hotels, oil companies, travel bureaus and others.

"The average Michigan motorist will drive nearly 10,000 miles this year—most of it on highways in this state," Mackie said. "The wise driver will have a copy of the new map handy because of the many changes that have occurred on the state's highway system during the last year."

Copies of the map are available to the public by writing: State Highway Department, 732-C Mason Bldg., Lansing.

One trouble with business is that everybody has something to sell without being ready to buy.

The proposed plan would provide two years of on-campus instruction during the junior and senior years with summer camp sessions preceding each college term.

REV. R. H. HARPER
RESURRECTION

TOLSTOY wrote a book about a beautiful servant girl who belonged to the estate of a nobleman, whom the young son of the home betrayed when he came for a visit to the home after wild life in the Russian army. After a time the vile young soldier sat as a juror in a justice court, honestly to do his duty. He was shocked to recognize the beautiful but broken woman in the prisoners box. She was the sweetheart of his youth. Conscience in him awoke. He followed the condemned woman to Siberia and did all he could to lighten the load of a Russian convict in the days of the Czars. And Tolstoy called the book Resurrection. And a resurrection it was! as great as that which would lift a dead body from the level of mortality to the living perpendicular of endless life.

And this is the wondrous blessing that the risen Lord brings to those who look to him that they might have life abundantly. To make a black heart white is a resurrection—as great as that which brought the slain in Ezekiel's vision, bone to his bone, to live and stand an exceeding mighty army.

If you then be risen with Christ, as the apostle writes, "seek those things which are above" and live the new life of the redeemed.

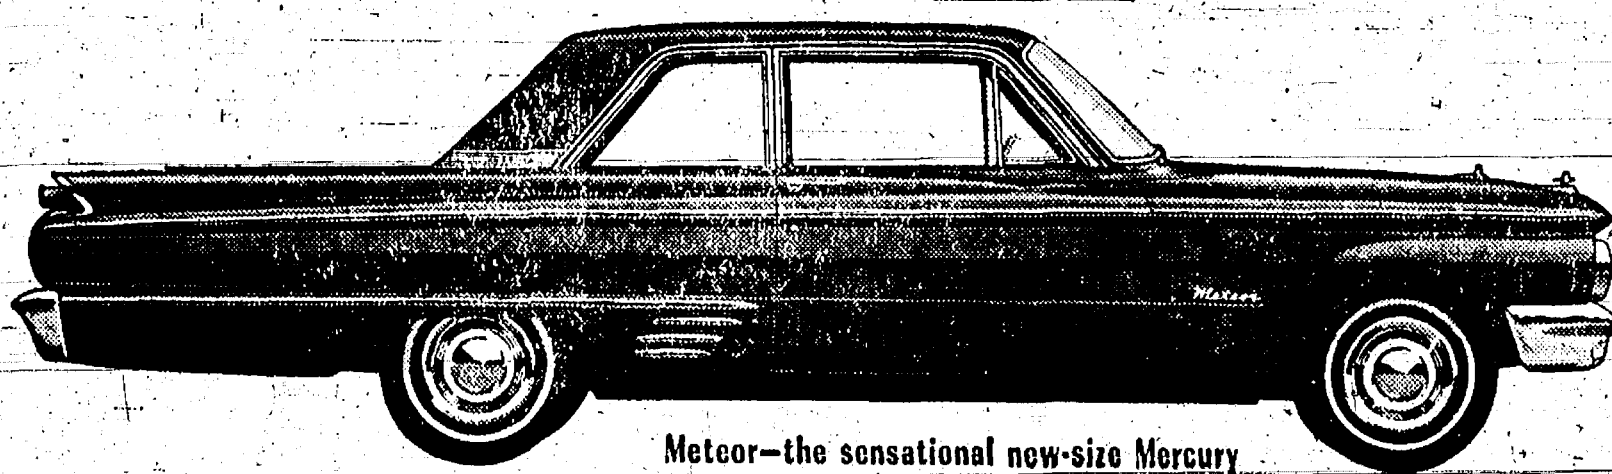

JUST A THOUGHT:
If we sometimes find it difficult to do the thing which is right, we should consider the fact that the life of Christ on earth was not an easy one.

MSU KELLOGG CENTER—The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education at Michigan State University marks a decade of service to the people of Michigan, the nation and the world this fall. Built in 1951 with the financial assistance of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Kellogg Center has hosted nearly 500,000 adults in conferences and other educational meetings in the past 10 years. Headquarters for MSU's expanding Continuing Education Service, the seven-story building contains dining and housing facilities for conference guests and visitors.

Intensive Holiday Patrols Planned By State Police

With travel heading toward peak summer volume in Michigan, State Police are urging motorists to drive with extra care, especially during the July fourth period when highways will be additionally taxed by holiday traffic.

As a warning for greater attention to safe driving rules, Commissioner Joseph A. Childs emphasizes that accidents and injuries are respectively running about 22 and 14 percent ahead of their 1961 rates, despite a reduction in deaths so far this year.

"I can't add much more to that than to say that the driver who wants safety can have it by following those simple rules," he said. "There's nothing complicated about it, just attention to the serious job of driving."

The State Police, assisted by 106 members of the National Guard, will be on holiday patrol from noon Tuesday, July 3, to midnight Wednesday, July 4. Guardsmen will serve as second men on two-man patrols or on point control. State Police detectives as needed will relieve uniform officers at desk assignments.

Maximum patrol coverage will be from 3 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, when holiday traffic is expected to be heaviest.

Because traffic patterns may differ somewhat this July fourth from the usual holiday concentrations due to the 30-hour mid-week observance, State Police patrols have been alerted to also devote special attention to the week-ends before and after when the traffic problem may be just as acute.

Michigan has the second most complete series of vital records in the United States, dating back to 1867.

FROM THE GOVERNOR'S CHAIR

By John B. Swainson

Lansing—The national debate about medical care for the aged has drawn attention to Michigan and the operation of the Kerr-Mills program in our state.

Spokesmen for the medical profession in fighting the King-Anderson Bill have said that the bill is, for one thing, unnecessary because the Kerr-Mills program is working so well, especially in Michigan.

Michigan was the first state to adopt the Kerr-Mills program more than a year ago. We were the first to appropriate funds under that program.

We have expended a vigorous effort to provide adequate medical assistance of our older citizens through the Kerr-Mills program. But that program has not worked in Michigan. After watching it for more than a year, I am convinced that it cannot work, that it will not accomplish our goals of adequate medical care.

During its first 12 months, the Kerr-Mills program in Michigan provided medical assistance for only 1.85 percent of our citizens 65-years of age and older. As the percentage of senior citizens continues to soar, this contribution to the solution of their health problems seems strikingly inadequate.

When the Kerr-Mills bill was passed it was estimated that 40,000—or less than 10 percent—of our senior citizens would be eligible for aid. The fact that less than one-tenth of our senior citizens could qualify disheartened us at that time.

But now that the program has been in operation one year and we find less than 2 percent of our senior citizens receiving assistance, we are even more discouraged.

This experience convinces me more than ever that we need to approach the problem of medical care to the aged through social security such as proposed in the King-Anderson Bill.

The Kerr-Mills program is inadequate because it does not go far enough, because it covers only a very small fraction of our older citizens.

Providing for the rational and dignified payment of basic health care through the social security system is the only sound, responsible way for us to resolve this most urgent problem.

Lapeer County To Host State Farm Management Tour

Two neighboring Lapeer County farms—in the same families for four generations—will host the 1962 State Farm Management Tour on Aug. 1.

Two partnerships of the Simmons Bros. and the Lake Bros., both on M-90, two miles east of North Branch, are modern, highly efficient farm operations. Both market their crops through live stock. The Simmons Bros. feed beef, cattle and hogs. The Lake Bros. have a 100-cow dairy herd.

Planned tours will be made on both farms and the operations explained by farm management specialists of Michigan State University's Department of Agricultural Economics. Lapeer county agents of the Co-operative Extension Service are directing local plans for the annual state event.

The extension service is the sponsor of the tour, which will be the 14th annual visit to some of the state's top farms.

Jack and Bill Simmons planted 400 acres of corn this May and plan to feed the grain and silage to beef steers and swine. Their neighbors, Charles, Glenn and Clara Lake planted more than 200 acres of corn, and will use the crop to help feed a high-producing Holstein dairy herd.

Both farms are highly mechanized, get big yields per acre and good returns for labor by use of sound management practices.

The Simmons Bros. feed high-moisture corn and corn silage to 150 steers and are now building a new facility to handle 250 head more this fall. They also weaned nearly 600 pigs and are feeding to handle them for market with an automatic feeding system.

The Lakes raise their own heifers as herd replacements and cull their dairy herd heavily to keep an annual average production of 12,000 pounds of milk and 430 pounds of butterfat.

66 Deaths from Water Accidents Reported for Year

Pointing out that Michigan water accidents on a recent June week-end claimed 17 lives, the State Police are urging swimmers during the July Fourth holiday and at other summer outings to use only supervised, authorized areas where there is provision for rescue in event of trouble.

Reports received by the State Police up to June 21 show that 110 water accidents have taken 66 lives and injured 44 other persons. Twenty-nine of the victims, or almost half the deaths, were swimmers. The provisional toll is eight, or about 14 percent, more than 58 as of June 23 last year.

The breakdown of the 66 deaths includes 29 swimmers, 15 who fell from bridges, banks, docks and piers, eight boat operators, six who fell through ice, four boat passengers, two who drowned in rescue attempts, one skit or scuba diver, and one who fell into an uncovered tank.

With gravel or excavation pits accounting for nearly 20 of the drownings, the State Police warn against swimming in such waters for these reasons:

Many swimmers are inexperienced; general lack of safety devices and adult supervision; and the unfamiliar waters may have sudden drop-offs or unseen obstacles dangerous to swimmers and divers.

The biggest lake trout ever caught in the world, weighing 80 pounds, was taken in the Straits of Mackinac in 1878.

Three Washtenaw 4-H's Awarded Camping Trip

Three Washtenaw county 4-H's have been awarded a trip to the 26th annual 4-H Conservation Camp at Camp Shaw, Chatham, in the Upper Peninsula, June 18-28. The 4-H members chosen are Janice Boike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boike, 7015 N. Dixboro Rd., Ann Arbor, and Carl Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Freeman, of 383 Hildale Dr., Ann Arbor, and have been awarded this trip for their outstanding work in 4-H Conservation projects.

Mrs. Josephine Lutchka, 5100 Five Mile Rd., South Lyon, administrative leader in the Go-Gets 4-H club will also attend. Mrs. Lutchka has been a leader of this club for six years. Her interest in conservation has motivated many youngsters in her area to an increased interest in the values of conservation of our natural resources. She is also serving as a member of the Washtenaw 4-H Council.

Carl Freeman has carried 12 different projects in Conservation during his six years in 4-H club work and has been a Junior Leader for three years.

Janice has carried eight Conservation projects in her six years of 4-H club work and is in her first year as a Junior Leader.

These three Washtenaw county 4-H people will be joining about 150 others from every county in the state for this week of conservation camping.

They are spending this week in many conservation activities, including land judging, forest fire control, deer drives, and other nature study trips. Also, they will tour the Duke National Forest and an iron mine and will have classroom study in many areas of Conservation.

The Michigan chapter of the Soil Conservation Society and the Michigan Soil Conservation Districts are sponsoring the 4-H leaders on this camping trip. The 4-H members are being sponsored by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and the Federal Cartridge Corp.

Freeway Patrol By State Police Starting July 1

With completion of a pilot study, the Michigan State Police will inaugurate their 24-hour, expressway patrol July 1 on Michigan's new Interstate and high type limited access trunklines. Commissioner Joseph A. Childs has announced.

"About 100 troopers split into three shifts will be assigned from 20 posts to specifically patrol these controlled-access roads to assist stranded motorists as well as for traffic supervision and crime prevention," Childs said.

"The patrols will still be in an experimental stage for some time. We will still have the same manpower and must carry out our usual other duties and traffic supervision on other highways. But as now planned it is expected that a patrol car will pass a given point at intervals of not less than 15 minutes. This may be longer if there is more than an average of previous stops and shorter if the average is less or supplemental cars are on segments."

The pilot test covered an 8.3-mile stretch of I-94 between Battle Creek and New Buffalo. During the period a special complaint made for the month of May showed that assistance was needed by 571 motorists. Of these 189 were for the failure, 91 out of fuel, 164 motor trouble, 37 other motor vehicle failures, and 110 including information on food and lodging, vehicle services and routes, illness and miscellaneous causes. Cars out of gas are given enough to get to the next filling station.

The 24-hour patrol will cover more than 650 miles and extended as construction proceeds.

Expert Says OK to Water Lawn Any Time of Day

East Lansing—Don't be afraid to water your lawn anytime during the day.
Watering when the sun is bright won't do any harm, according to Donald P. Watson, Michigan State University horticulturist. However, watering in the early morning or late evening may tend to reduce the amount of water lost through evaporation.
It is important during dry periods, such as July and August, to water the lawn thoroughly, but infrequently. "As a general rule, if it has not rained for a week, let your garden sprinkler run for an hour in each place," says Watson. It is wasteful to sprinkle the lawn lightly because the water can evaporate and never reach the grass roots.
The amount of water to use depends on the kind of soil, the kind and size of plants and how heavy and recently it has rained.
If you are one of the many homeowners who dislikes having to mow the lawn every week, reduce the size. Although the cost of paying part of the yard may be high, it can provide a future saving in both time and money, according to Watson.
Tips on lawn care are found in MSU's Extension Folder 212, available from county Co-operative Extension offices. It may also be secured from the Bulletin Room, 10 Agricultural Hall, MSU, East Lansing.

Summer Term Enrollment at MSU Hits Record

East Lansing — Summer term enrollment at Michigan State University has reached another new high. A total of 11,711 students have enrolled, an increase of 692 students, or 6.3 per cent more than last year's total.

Classes for the summer term began June 20.

Name of the summer session has been officially changed this year from "Summer School" to summer term. The change in name catches up with a change over the last three years to a year-round school system which enables students to complete a full quarter's work during the summer and, if they desire, to complete the usual four-year curriculum in three years.

However, for the convenience of students with limited time, the term is broken in two. Students may register for half-terms (June 18-July 25) or full-terms (June 18-Aug. 31). Special activities this summer will include 34 institutes, workshops and seminars.

CON-CON REPORT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is No. 4 in a series about the proposed new Michigan Constitution. Additional articles will appear in subsequent weeks.

Legislative apportionment—one of the most controversial matters debated in the constitutional convention—is covered in Article IV dealing with the Legislative Branch of state government.

The new document establishes a commission equally representing the major political parties to reapportion periodically House and Senate seats in accordance with the requirements of the constitution. Supreme court review is provided in the event of disagreement of the commission.

The house of representatives of 110 members is to be apportioned on the basis of population but adhering to county lines in the setting up of districts. There will be only single-member districts and the method of equal proportions used by the U. S. House of Representatives is employed to allocate seats to the various districts.

The state senate apportionment is worked out on a formula which gives 80 percent weight to population and 20 percent weight to area. The actual apportionment of the senate is not ordered until after the 1970 census. Until that time, if the new document is adopted, one additional senator will be assigned to each of the state's most populous, southeastern counties—Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee. Senate membership is increased from 34 to 38.

The debate on apportionment in the convention reflected clear-cut differences among the delegates' political philosophies. The Republican majority insisted on some consideration of area as well as population in allocation of legislative seats. Democrats were committed to apportionment strictly on the basis of population.

It is said to say that no one got exactly what he wanted in the resulting compromise, but the application of the principles laid down in the new document will bring Michigan to the forefront of the states in fairness and equity of its system for allotting representation among its population.

Article IV provides that the position of auditor general, presently an elective office, is to be filled by legislative appointment. He would serve the legislature, conducting fiscal audits and studies of the effectiveness of departmental performances. His duty would be to provide the legislature with the means of knowing that its policies are being honestly and effectively carried out.

The Article also sets up a bipartisan legislative council, named by the legislature from among its members. The council would supervise the work of a full-time staff whose duties would be to maintain bill drafting, research and other services for the legislature.

To eliminate secret procedures, legislative committees are required in this Article to keep a recorded roll call vote of all actions on bills and resolutions. Notice of all committee hearings and the subjects to be considered are to be announced prior to each hearing.

Terms of state senators are increased to four years, but state representatives continue to be elected for two-year terms.

The legislative branch article includes also numerous proposed improvements in legislative procedure which have been recommended by present and former members of the senate and house.

The Detroit of today has 127 of the 145 classifications in manufacturing listed by the United States Department of Commerce.
