License Plate Sale Lagging Far Behind

It was pointed out yesterday that more than half of the period, Nov. 1 to Feb. 28, for purchasing 1963 license plates has slipped by. According to Wallace Wood, Chelsea's branch manager of the Secretary of State office, license sales have been far below that of last year. This means that, unless motorists begin to get their plates soon, they will have to stand in a long, crowded line, possibly out on the street.

The State Department has ruled that all trucks, pickups and trailers weighing more than 450 pounds must be reweighed before 1963 plates may be issued.

This year, as in the past four years, Wood will take the License Bureau to Dexter on four Saturdays afternoons. This community service is an innovation of Secretary of State James M. Harbo, for the convenience of the residents in areas that do not have a local branch office. The schedule is as follows: Frank Grohs Chevrolet Sales on Jan. 12 and Feb. 9; Alfred Gross Ford Sales on Jan. 26 and Feb. 16. Hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m.

"Don't forget to reweigh the trucks and trailers and bring your car and truck titles," Wood reminds prospective purchasers of license plates.

ROBERT DANIELS, left, was installed Monday night as president of the Kiwanis club of Chelsea—the third member of his family to hold the office. His father, Warren Daniels (center), was the first president of the club following its organization in 1924, and the new president's brother, James Daniels, served as president of the club five years ago, in 1958. Outgoing President A. S. Penhallegon handed the president's pin to the new president, Robert Daniels. The president's pin is the same one worn by Warren Daniels and all other presidents of the club. It is believed to be one of only two pins in the state that have been handed down in this manner since the charter president first wore it. Installing officer was John H. Thompson of Ann Arbor Western Kiwanis club, who is lieutenant-governor of Kiwanis Division VI. The installation took place in the social center of the Methodist church. Other officers installed are Wallace Wood, first vice-president; Don Turner, second vice-president; Loring G. Bates, treasurer; and Paul F. Niehaus, as secretary for his 32nd consecutive year. Members of the board of directors also took office for the year—Louis Allen, Fred Anderson, William Rich, G. A. Staffan, Floyd Fowler, Ray Knickerbocker and Dr. Clare Warren.

Dr. H. G. Pearce, Retired Minister, Succumbs Saturday

Served 41 Years In Ministry of Methodist Church

The Rev. Dr. Harvey G. Pearce, 89, retired Methodist minister and a descendant of a pioneer North Lake area family, died Saturday afternoon at Colonial Manor Nursing Home following a long illness. He had been a patient there since June 20, 1961.

During his 41 years in the active ministry of the Methodist Church he served churches at Chelsea, Scofield, Carleton, Bay City, East Tawas, Morenci, Pontiac and Detroit. At Detroit he was associate pastor with Dr. Merton S. Rice at East Grand Boulevard Methodist church.

He retired in 1938 after a year's leave of absence during which he and his wife toured the Holy Land. In 1960 he realized his often expressed wish to visit Oberammergau, in Bavaria, to see the world-famous Passion Play, making the trip with one of his daughters and his son, the Rev. Edwin B. Pearce of Detroit.

The son was pastor of the Dexter Methodist church in the 1920's.

Dr. Pearce was born at Leoni, Aug. 24, 1873, a son of the Rev. Francis and Adella Glenn Pearce. He graduated from Hudson High school and in 1897 from Albion College. On Oct. 25, 1899, at New Port, he was married to Emma Buhl. His father, a Congregational Methodist minister officiated. The Pearces celebrated their golden wedding in 1949 at North Lake where they had acquired the Glenn family homestead site at the corner of North Territorial and Hankard Rd. The site was granted to the Glenn family under the Homestead Act, with President Andrew Jackson, signing the original deed.

Dr. Pearce served in France as a YMCA chaplain from 1917 until 1919 during World War I. He then served as pastor of the Chelsea Methodist church for a short time before joining the bishops' staff of the Detroit Methodist Conference.

In 1921 he went to Albion College as alumni secretary and in 1922 received a doctor of divinity degree at the college.

He was assigned in 1922 to become pastor of Oak Park Methodist church in Flint and in 1923 was named Flint district superintendent.

From 1938 until he entered the nursing home, Dr. Pearce had spent summers at his North Lake home, going to Fort Myers, Fla., each winter. Mrs. Pearce died Nov. 11, 1950.

Dr. Pearce was a member of the North Lake Methodist church and served as supply pastor there on many occasions.

Waterloo Historical Society Plans Illustrated Talks

Of special interest to area residents is a series of illustrated talks to be offered by the Waterloo Area Historical Society, the first of the series being scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m., at the Stockbridge Town Hall.

Harold Heims, associate professor of architecture at the University of Michigan, will be the speaker at this first meeting. He will discuss Victorian architecture and the style preceding and following the Victorian era.

A committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting has arranged for a display of photographs of interesting houses in the area. Because of this display and the authoritative information to be discussed by Professor Heims, it is expected to attract a large audience.

The second meeting is planned for early February when Dr. Carl Burkund of Unadilla, will introduce the subject "The Michigan Frontier, 1815-1850."

This meeting has been planned to include taped reminiscences of older members of the community. The society is eager to collect these stories from the lives of the pioneers. How these families managed, how they cooked and what they ate, their clothes, their weapons and their games, comprise an invaluable record for the society historian—a record that must be saved before it is too late.

Anyone who has such a story to tell may call Mrs. S. A. Beckwith of Stockbridge, president of the Waterloo Area Historical Society, who will arrange to have the story recorded.

The third meeting will consider antique furniture of the types generally found in the Midwest. There will be slides to help with the identification of the various styles which may have been bought or inherited by people here.

The fourth meeting, following in early April, will be an antique exhibit drawing upon private collections of the area with plenty of explanatory material and guides to explain the items and their use.

The entire program will be offered to the community as a service by the Historical Society which has as its objective the preservation of the Realy Homestead, an 1850 farm house in the Waterloo Area, and its eventual development as a farm museum.

Police, Sheriff's Cars Get Blue Flasher Lights

Although a state law passed last year requiring all police agencies in the state to have blue flashing warning lights installed to replace the present red lights by 1964, the blue lights are already in use on some of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department cars and on the new police cars in Dexter and Chelsea.

The legislature's decision to pass the law came at the request of numerous police leaders throughout the state. Officers said red flashing lights are used by so many different types of vehicles today, the practice is causing confusion and needless danger to motorists.

fire trucks and some commercial tractor trailers all use flashing red warning lights, the police officials told legislators.

MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN STARTS
 Appearing in the above photo, taken at the March of Dimes kick-off dinner given Thursday by the Loyal Order of Moose at Ann Arbor are Chelsea campaign hands with Dr. David Dickinson, the guest speaker, and Mrs. A. J. Coudron of Ann Arbor, chairman of the Washtenaw County March of Dimes. Dr. Dickinson discussed the new program of the March of Dimes which supports more than 50 centers throughout the United States for research into birth defects and arthritis in addition to its work for polio victims. Supporting the National Foundation in its work of raising funds is a commendable effort since all phases of the research programs require added financial backing, he said. The work being done for prevention of disease is most important, the doctor stated, saying "Prevention of disease is 100-fold better than control." Speaking of the large percentage of patients from infancy to two years of age at the University Medical Center who are suffering from birth defects, he emphasized the importance of supporting research into the causes of this affliction. In the photo, from left, are Mrs. Karl Riegger, Chelsea Mothers' March chairman; Elmer Kjel, Jeanette sale chairman; Mrs. Wallace Wood, Chelsea March of Dimes chairman; Mrs. Charles Winans, canister chairman; Dr. Dickinson and Mrs. Coudron.

Ever Wonder About Roberts Who Authored Famous 'Rules of Order'?

Everybody who has belonged to an organization of any kind is more or less familiar with "Robert's Rules of Order," the little book that rules the meeting. But who was Robert, the man who wrote it? Some great lawyer, college professor or political leader?

Guess again. Henry Martyn Robert, who authored the famous "rules" was a soldier, a West Pointer from South Carolina and an engineer officer who rose to brigadier general and Chief of Engineers. He also headed the Board of Engineers that planned the great seawall at Galveston, Tex.

But the great achievement of his life, as related in an article appearing in the January American Legion Magazine, was his successful struggle to write and publish his rules of order. These are the essence both of democracy and good manners: abide by the will of the majority; listen to the minority; consider one thing at a time; give everybody a chance to talk; keep discussion impersonal.

He recognized the need for such a book as a young officer when he had to preside at a stormy church meeting a century ago this year in New Bedford, Mass., during the Civil War. But he was so busy mapping roads in the West and building lighthouses on the Great Lakes that 13 years passed before he could get his rules together.

Turned down by all book publishers of the day, he had the first edition printed at his own expense and gave many of the copies away. But his faith was amply justified. Somebody is about the buy the two millionth copy of the little book! Would-be authors to whom publishers are cool may take some comfort in this.

One of World's Greatest Actors Is Gone with Laughton's Death

One of the great character actors of our time is dead at the age of 63, a victim of the uncompromising killer, cancer. If Laughton had played only one role in his entire acting career he would still be remembered. That is, if it had been the famous Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty," one of the world's great stories, and a great motion picture of the thirties.

But Laughton played many roles and played them well. The public expected a superior performance from him after such epics as "Mutiny on the Bounty" and he seldom disappointed anyone.

Of interest is the British-born but naturalized actor's private life. He was married to Elsa Lanchester in 1929 and they were an example, in this respect, to others of Hollywood fame and habits.

"Laughton's role in 'Mutiny on the Bounty' stamped him unforgettably in the minds of theatre goers everywhere and his many portrayals afterwards have brought pleasure and admiration from every corner of the world. His death brings genuine sadness to many people in many countries.

POSTAGE IS UP FOR EVERYBODY—well, almost everybody. Private citizens, private business, publishers of legitimate newspapers and magazines, but not the publishers of the 28 publications of rural electric co-ops whose former half cent rate drops to an estimated one-eighth cent under the new postal law. Meanwhile newspapers are paying the first of three consecutive 10 percent increases, bank interest on loans and income tax—if they are lucky enough to make any money; while these co-ops enjoy the REA two percent rate, pay no Federal income tax and are seemingly dedicated to the harassment of tax-paying investor-owned utilities.

Create Land

Recreation lands are in great demand in Michigan and most natural resource enthusiasts agree that scarcity of land will be a critical situation soon, if it is not already.

State parks and recreation areas bear a heavier load of campers, swimmers and picnickers groups every year. Where will additional land for Michigan people and out-of-state tourists come from in the future?

One idea man, completely outside the Conservation Department, has a unique idea of where one batch of new recreational lands can be created.

Paul Lutzler, aide to Secretary of State James M. Hare, suggests Lake St. Clair offers great potential for new recreation facilities.

The lake, particularly in the shallow areas near Harsen's Island, is a natural for man-made islands linked together in the same way the Florida Keys are joined.

Lutzler says this unique project would be "one dramatic, yet relatively inexpensive solution, to the pressing problem of providing recreation lands."

Conservation officials are consistent in their opposition for a pilot study of the island idea. Charles E. Miller, head of the department's lands division said the idea definitely "has some merit."

The location, proposed for the island-making project is an area where Lake St. Clair narrows in depth between 2 and 12 feet. Lutzler suggested that material periodically dredged from the shipping channel in the lake and industrial waste from the Detroit metropolitan area could be used as raw materials for the islands.

Because of the population concentration in the Southeast Michigan area, the chain of 20 islands proposed by Lutzler would provide recreation opportunities for the hundreds of thousands who live within 50 miles of Lake St. Clair.

Lutzler, who also worked with Hare in planning the new annual International Freedom Festival in co-operation with Windsor, Ont. officials, sees Lake St. Clair as "an acre of diamonds." It has the greatest recreational potential in Michigan because of the population surrounding it.

Unemployment Down

What's ahead in 1963? For one thing, the job outlook is good, according to Michigan State University economist Roger L. Bowly.

Michigan's unemployment rate has been steadily dropping and the trend seems to be continuing. Bowly said, "For the first time since early 1956, Michigan's rate of unemployment has dropped below the national average," he said.

A continuation of this trend, although the national unemployment figure remains relatively high, should take Michigan out of the category of "the problem state," the MSU spokesman predicts.

A continuation of the drop in unemployment will largely depend on the over-all performance of the American economy, Bowly pointed out, but the recent trend appears to be strong enough to warrant a prediction of its extension.

Loss of defense jobs and deceleration of the auto industry were blamed for many of Michigan's problems in the employment record during the past few years. Bowly predicts these will not likely be important factors in the coming years.

"It is very reasonable to guess that Michigan will share in the

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

On account of the fine education I got through the years from reading handouts from all them Federal agencies, I ain't never had much need for a dictionary. Once in a great while I might make a misce in my spelling, but them occasions is so rare that it don't bother me none.

And it's for the same reason that I ain't never invested in a Encyclopedia. Any feller that studies real good all the information they put in the pamphlets from the Department of Agriculture, the Government Printing Office, the U. S. Information Agency, to name a few I git regular, knowing about all they is to know about anything important.

For instant, I received notice last week that the U. S. Information Agency has got four new booklets ready for the taxpayers. They is entitled, "Space Exploration," "Trade Expansion," "Mending Men's Suits," and "Growing Ornamental Bamboo." If a feller will git his name on the proper Government mailing list, they ain't no need, Mister Editor, for him to buy a Encyclopedia.

But it looks like I'm going to have to go over to Ed Loolittle's and look up a minter in his dictionary. Ever time I pick up the paper I see where a Government "research agency" is needing more money. I figured "research" meant looking for sompin. But nobody could spend that much money just looking for sompin. I got to see if "research" ain't got more meanings.

I got to admit that a heap of this research is good. For instant, I was reading where a research agency discovered that empty pecan, walnut and almond shells was fine for blasting out jet engines. They bought $30,000 worth of them shells, tried 'em out at the Mobile Air Force Base and they worked better'n anything ever tried for cleaning jet engines. They might be some question amongst the taxpayers about $30,000 being a little high for empty shells, but such matters is never a question with the research agencies.

But Senator Humphrey claims these research buys waste a lot of money just setting around thinking. If they figger it would be better for a lightning bug to have headlights instead of taillights, they draw up a heap of charts and file 'em away for future "research."

Senator Humphrey says about 6 million of these charts is being filed in the Defense Department every year that they already got 60 million of these drawings and charts filed, and that it now taken longer for the research department to look up-and see if a filed chart has already been.

He says this looking up business is costing $200 million a year. I think, Mister Editor, I better look up this word "research."

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

A closer comparison can be noted in the fact that in 1961 there were 160,144 in the 14-age group. This was an increase of 43,460 over the 1960 population in the same group Childs said.

Aliens Must File Address Report Before Jan. 31

Walter A. Sahli, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, today urged all aliens in Michigan who have not yet filled out alien address report forms to do so before Jan. 31 at the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service Office or Local Post Office.

The immigration official pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations, and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers, to report their addresses to the Government each January.

Sahli advised "It is easy for an alien to meet this requirement. He just goes to the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office, or Post Office, fills out the address report form, and returns it to the clerk. Any non-citizen who is ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the card for him, and return it to the clerk after it has been completed by the alien."

The Immigration official said 75,000 aliens in Michigan already have filled out address reports. He estimated that 140,000 such reports will be submitted before Jan. 31.

How Valuable Is Local Newspaper Advertising To Local Business People?

Here's What the American Bankers Magazine Has To Say:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page advertisement in each issue of the paper, but your name and address should be mentioned, if you do not use more than several inches of space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town . . . it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself and definitely to the town."

Consumers Power, Detroit Edison OK Deal for Program of Interconnections

Consumers Power Co. and the Detroit Edison Co. have entered a mutual system-strengthening program which will co-ordinate and reinforce electric power lines throughout the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

The two companies supply electricity to most of the state's 4,000,000 people, as well as heavy industry, commerce and agriculture.

Each of the companies is among the 10 largest electric utility companies in the United States. Michigan's present electric power resources, with a total capacity of 8,000,000 kilowatts, are unequalled anywhere in the world. The economic growth and social progress go hand-in-hand with the expansion of electric energy, the nation's widest power supply market.

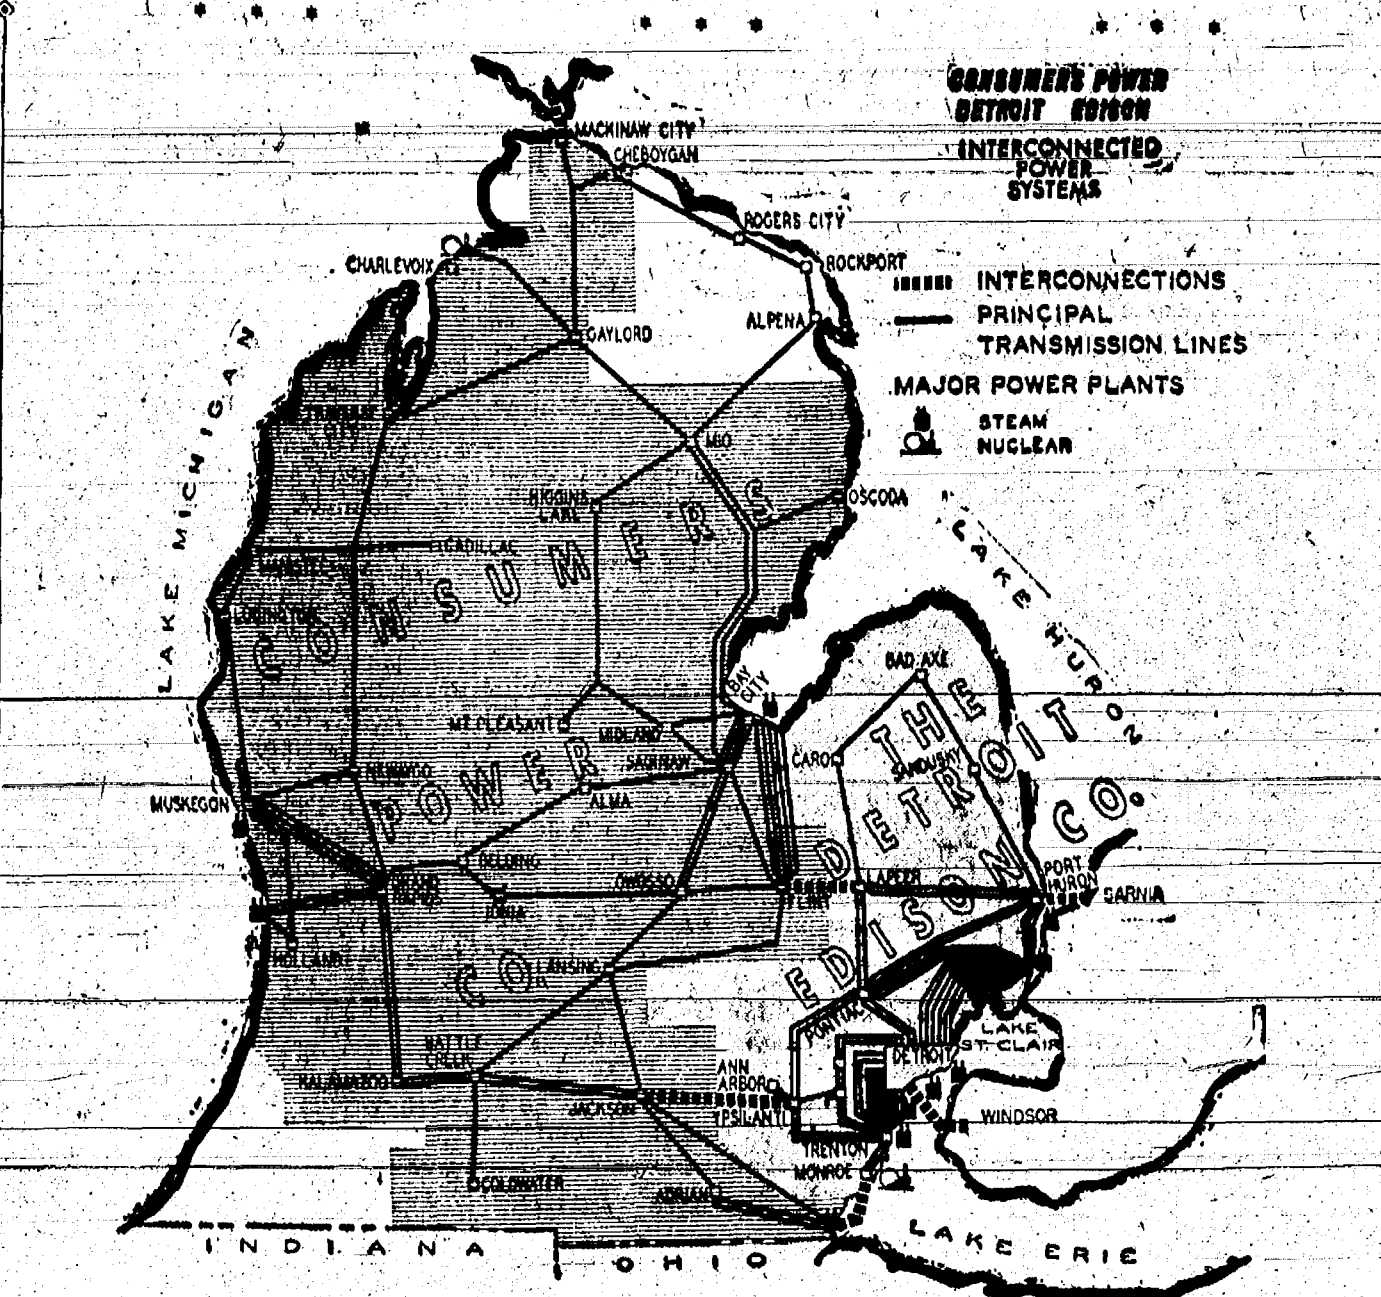

The new Consumers-Edison program for maximum co-ordination of their power systems is aimed at the fullest and most productive use of one of our state's greatest natural assets.

Objectives of Long Standing The plan is simply the extension of a long-standing endeavor on the part of both Detroit Edison and Consumers Power to achieve the lowest possible operating and maintenance costs. It does not in any way represent a merging of the two companies. Each company will continue to be responsible for the electric service policies in the state.

Objectives of the plan (1) To perpetuate economy of production and transmission of electric power; (2) To facilitate supplying emergency power as needed in cases of storm damage or other disruption; (3) To advance the art and science of electric power transmission through further interconnection of the existing Michigan-wide electric transmission system.

It is to be emphasized that interconnections as such are by no means a novelty in this area. The inter-tie was made as early as 1928, and for many years there have been three high-capacity, voltage links between Consumers and Detroit Edison—the three-tie connection below Montpelier-Jackson tie near Ann Arbor, and the Flint-Lapeer tie in the northern Thumb area. The interconnection concept has demonstrated its value here in our state. Besides Consumers' and Detroit Edison's facilities, those of municipal systems of Detroit, Lansing and Holland, Edison Sault Electric Company, Ford Motor Co., already are available for power interchange. These systems may draw or contribute to the overall supply whenever necessary. In addition, since 1958, there have been two major interconnections with the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, Canada. Through the Canadian inter-ties, hydroelectric energy is received when available from the Ontario system, which in turn is supplied from time to time with power from steam-electric generating plants on the American side.

NEW ELECTRIC POOL AREA—The above map shows the total interconnected electric pool area served by Detroit Edison and Consumers Power. The new joint operational agreement between the two companies will further co-ordinate and reinforce the existing electric transmission network throughout the entire Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

These interchanges have proven most advantageous in times of local peak or emergency demand, and have been mutually beneficial in improving operating economy for the systems involved.

Program Details Described The program will require substantial construction of new extra-high-voltage transmission lines as the demand for electric energy continues to increase.

The agreement also calls for co-ordinated planning in the location and construction of new electric generating facilities. These will be placed at the point most strategic with respect to the total interconnected electric pool area. Thus, one new plant will serve where two otherwise would have to be built at a greater capital cost. It is important that new generators installed to serve the entire co-ordinated system can be large in size—and hence most highly efficient. Studies are now in progress to determine when and where the next generating unit will be installed to meet the load growth of the two systems.

The feasibility of interconnecting with other power pooling areas will be studied carefully. "Pumped Storage" Considered

The practicality of a "pumped storage" project which would be located on the shore of Lake Michigan near Ludington has been established. Here, water would be pumped from the lake into a reservoir at an elevation of 300 feet above the lake during the night hours when power demand is relatively low. Then, to meet peak demands during daytime, the water would be discharged back into Lake Michigan through hydroelectric generating units. The appropriate time for construction of this project will be decided on the basis of studies now underway.

The changing economics related to nuclear energy will be carefully considered when future new generating capacity is needed.

Will Benefit Michigan It is the opinion of both companies that this new agreement assures Michigan, its people and its industries of an abundant present and future supply of electric power at reasonable cost. The plan will be a most important contribution to the social and economic well-being of our state.

It is especially significant that the program will be financed entirely with investor funds and will be accomplished without depending upon our government for financial assistance. Instead, it will help by bearing its full and impressive share of the tax burden required to support our local, state and federal governments.

Mothers Take Turns Helping At Co-Operative Nursery

Mothers of children who attend Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery school on Chelsea-Dexter Rd., near Four Mile Lake, take turns assisting the teacher; one of these mothers has submitted the following account as "a page from the diary of a mother assist."

DAIRY OF A MOTHER ASSIST

By Mrs. Thomas Neff of Dexter
Chelsea Co-Op Nursery school will begin its second semester on Jan. 15. It's hard to believe that half of the school year has already passed. The other day it was my turn to assist Miss Jane, Mrs. Raymond Schaefer. My turn doesn't come often enough because I have just as much fun as my Tommy does.

We have car pools, which adds to the fun and subtracts from the number of times I have to provide transportation. There are four boys in our car pool. If you haven't chauffeured four 4-year-olds anywhere, well, you just haven't lived! We'll pick up Bobby first and leave our baby at his house. I exchange baby sitting on assist days. Then we welcome Ronnie and Dean aboard and we are on our way. The boys usually discuss, among other things, what they had for lunch, punctuated with "ums, humms, and ughs."

As we get closer to nursery school, it gets comparatively quiet. Each boy is getting ready to be the first to yell, "I see the nursery school!"

Sure enough we have arrived. They troop up the steps, take off their outdoor clothing and hang it on the low hook with their picture above it. Miss Jane has a cheery hello for everyone and an individual bit of exchange with each child. Then the children find their favorite toy and I see what the art project of the day is. Miss Jane has such clever ideas! At Christmas the children made bells from sections of an egg carton. Now the rest of the children arrive. The girls love the doll and kitchen corner. Boys can pretend they are carpenters at the workshop or plow a field in the pile.

Soon it is time to rest. While others are resting Tommy can prepare the juice and crackers. He places the napkins in front of each little chair. It is quiet before the grace is said and it's always surprising to hear the conversations at the table. After refreshments there is a story perhaps a game but always in store to interest the children. All too soon it is time to leave. Each time I assist I learn a little more about my child, about all children. The children have made such progress since September, in following directions and joining the group that I really appreciate it.

If you have a three- or four-year-old who might enjoy the experiences of nursery school at 9-5881. There are openings in the morning and afternoon sessions. I know that you will want your part in nursery school.

Calvin Clark To Attend Annual Convention of Association of Fairs

Calvin Clark, president of Chelsea Community Fair Board, expected to represent the fair at the annual convention of the Michigan Association of Fairs and Exhibitions Sunday through Tuesday, Jan. 20-22, in the Pick-Fort Hotel, Detroit.

Meeting at the same time will be the Michigan Harness Horsemen's Association and the Michigan Showmen's Association. The three groups will be making plans and exchanging ideas for the fairs and exhibitions which will be held throughout the state next year.

Mrs. Emma Seitz spent New Year's day at the home of daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Howell and children, Jackson. She left here on Monday and returned Wednesday.

★ Developments on Tax Reductions . . .

Everyone agrees that our federal tax system is a complete hodge-podge. Most persons, including many in the present Administration, believe that it places a penalty on initiative and is a hindrance to economic growth. And to a great many it is obvious that the federal government is spending a tax reduction shortly after the new Congress convenes. His Secretary of the Treasury, Dillon, his Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Heller, and many other highly placed officials in the Administration are for a lowering of the tax burden. They do not all agree upon how the reduction should be made, and they disagree as to whether there should be one or two bills; when the reduction should take effect, and how much in the way of "reform" of the tax structure should be included. Necessarily, these differences will be resolved before the President sends his Tax Message to the Hill. Still this does not assure favorable action on taxes for the coming year. All tax legislation, it will be recalled, has to be reported by the House Ways and Means Committee. The chairman of that committee is Wilbur D. Mills, and a few days ago he gave an exclusive interview to the U. S. News and World Report. In this, Rep. Mills did not say that there would not be a tax reduction in 1963, but he did say that in his opinion there is no justification for a "quickie" tax cut to be made effective January 1, which is the date that President Kennedy has been using.

Mr. Mills also made it clear that he does not like the idea of legislating a budgetary deficit, and that in his opinion we certainly are going to have a deficit in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1963. And he insists that while tax reduction may increase economic growth, the process takes a considerable time, which means that a lowering of taxes must reduce government revenue for an appreciable period.

There probably is no other Congressman in the House whose views on taxes are as important as those of Mr. Mills. This is not because he controls so many votes. It is a result of the widespread respect for his inherent ability and hard work. Few chairmen of the Ways and Means Committee have had as much influence on the total membership of that committee as Mr. Mills. It is generally accurate to say that no important bill can clear the Ways and Means Committee without the approval of Mr. Mills. The interview appeared just shortly before President Kennedy held a press conference and it was inevitable that he be asked what he thought of tax reduction. His reply was to the effect that some of the stories of Mr. Mills' views had been exaggerated and that he was seeing the Congressman later that afternoon. No announcement has been made on the outcome of this meeting.

Actually, Mr. Mills is in favor of lower income-tax rates for both individuals and corporations, but he does not want to take an action which will reduce total revenue. To accomplish this, he firmly believes, the income tax base must be broadened, and there must be more uniform treatment of income. This is a large order, and primarily for this reason Mr. Mills thinks it will take many months for such a bill to be developed and passed through the Congress. It will be most regrettable if tax relief has to wait this long.

Under a program administered by the Library of Congress, the American Foundation for the Blind, records books and other literature for distribution to blind people throughout the fifty states. Last year the AFB recorded more than 200 different titles of books in its Talking Book series.

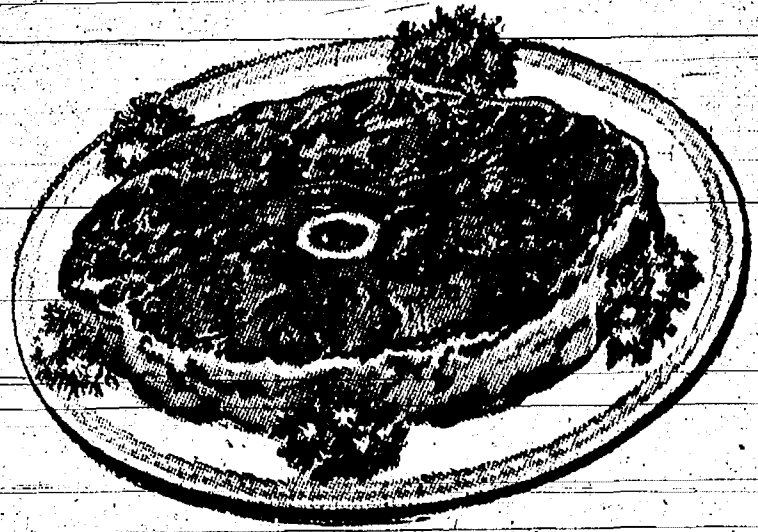

Man from Hell Appears On Nat'l TV Program
Mel Reinhard, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Hell, in Livingston county, appeared on a national television broadcast the past week, thus gaining nationwide recognition for the community. Reinhard appeared as a "mystery guest" on the network television show, "Play-Your Hunch." Reinhard was billed as the "man from Hell" and panelists were asked to identify him from among three guests, all claiming to be from Hell. The two other panelists were from Heaven, Mass., and Limbo, the West Indies.

TO REVPAM GUARD

Secretary of Defense McNamara has ordered a sweeping reorganization designed to make Army Reserve and National Guard forces into better shape for service in cold war crisis.

The politically touchy plan is the first major revamping of the Guard and Reserve in five years. It involves breaking up eight low rank infantry divisions and re-forming them into more mobile brigades geared to respond quickly in emergencies.

"In Search of the Castaways": This is one of Walt Disney's delightful films that is especially filmed for children. It takes place somewhere along the thirty-seventh parallel around 1870.

Talented 16-year-old Haley Mills gives an appealing performance as the daughter of a missing sea captain. When a note was found in a bottle in the stomach of a shark by a French professor, it is believed that it comes from the missing captain who is held captive.

Miss Mills, her younger brother and the Frenchman persuade the wealthy owner of a ship line to lead an expedition to search for the captain.

Thrilling and climatic are the wild places and adventures experienced by the searchers. Earthquakes, flashfloods, avalanches and hostile tribesmen are just a few of the perils faced. All these are made more adventuresome through the impressive acting of Maurice Chevalier.

Romance enters the picture for young Miss Mills—Michael Anderson Jr. is her teen-age beau.

RUSS ECONOMIC GROWTH

Russia's economic growth rate has slowed to a pace below that of Germany, Italy and Japan during the past four years, experts on the Soviet Union report.

Russia increased its gross national product, measuring total output in goods and services at a 7 per cent annual rate between 1950 and 1958, according to the report. But the rate of increase has now dropped below 5 per cent.

The best ideas germinate in honest, idealistic minds and are not the result of self-seeking thoughts.

Many Persons Help Provide Holiday Cheer for Hospital Patients

Quoting the saying "It is better to light one candle than to curse the dark," Mrs. Clara M. Huston, vice-president of the Washtenaw County Hospital Auxiliary, included in her report of the Christmas activities at the hospital the thanks of the entire executive board of the Auxiliary.

"For the kindness, generosity and thoughtfulness of area residents and organizations that 'has brought pleasure to the people in the hospital,'" Mrs. Huston concluded by saying "An unselfish deed is a lighted candle in a weary world."

Mrs. Huston said there were no sales of Sheltered Work Shop products, made at the hospital, in area stores this year, as in former years, however, more items were sold than ever before. She said "People found the way to the workshop in the hospital basement and so many orders for various products were received that the workers were kept busy as bees."

A painting called "Doinsettias" by Myrtle Goddard and given by her to the Auxiliary, was framed and hung in the front hall of the hospital for the holidays; however, the artist was unable to be present because she was at University Hospital recovering from a broken hip.

Many gifts were contributed for distribution to patients and residents at the Christmas party held Dec. 28.

In her report, Mrs. Huston mentioned a group of Ann Arbor women who call themselves the "Friendly Twelve." They presented a program of music and group singing led by Mrs. E. C. Stringer at a birthday party at the hospital. This group was responsible for selecting and delivering $40 worth of gifts for a family of little children whose father, a young man, was a patient at the hospital.

Also included in the report is mentioned that while the Washtenaw County Hospital is in the forefront in rehabilitation programs it is "near the bottom of the list" when buildings are under consideration. The report states that "a new modern building is needed now so that the time work of the hospital may grow."

Jehovah's Witnesses Attend Three-Day Convention at Fenton

Delegates of the Chelsea Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses returned last weekend from a three-day convention of Christian fellowship at Fenton.

The climax of the three-day activities came when Nicholas Kovach, Jr., district representative from New York, delivered the much advertised talk "The Bible's Answer to Our Problem of Survival" in which he showed that problem confronts all mankind.

Cakes, Candles, Help Mark March of Dimes 25th Year

Throughout the nation this month, candles will be lit on birthday cakes to symbolize the 25th anniversary of the March of Dimes.

The cakes will range from real ones of conventional size to monster, multi-tiered models as much as 12 feet in height and 10 feet in diameter—the approximate dimensions of the one to be erected in New York City's famed Times Square. Guests at anniversary events around the country, where cakes will be of more modest proportions, will be invited to decorate them with coins for the March of Dimes.

Many "parties" commemorating a quarter of a century of disease fighting will be held at special treatment centers for birth defects, arthritis and polio which March of Dimes contributions are financing today in more than 40 cities across the U.S. Other gatherings will be held in county chapter offices of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, in the homes of volunteers and elsewhere.

In many instances, guests at these campaign "kickoffs" will include governors or their wives, mayors and outstanding authorities in health fields. Other guests will be Americans of all ages who received March of Dimes aid during and after polio epidemics and outbreaks. Also present will be children and adolescents with birth defects or arthritis who have been treated at these March of Dimes centers.

To raise the millions required every year for patient aid and research in birth defects, arthritis and polio, each March of Dimes campaign is carefully planned many months ahead. There are millions of contribution envelopes and coin collectors to be distributed around the nation; hundreds of thousands of posters to be erected in every hamlet, town and city; two million volunteers to be organized for the Mothers' March (the climax to the campaign at the end of January), and March of Dimes films to exhibit to explain the work of the voluntary health organization.

Arrangements must be completed for the visit in January of the National March of Dimes Child, who this year is Jimmy Boggess, 5, Coy, Ark.—with President Kennedy at the White House and with various Senators and Congressmen and other dignitaries as well as with personalities of the stage, screen and television.

Special events for the March of Dimes are staged in all the big cities, many lesser ones and in some small towns. These include March of Dimes bowling tournaments, with "roll-offs" to select a national man or woman champion.

Sheep Scab Control Staff Visiting State

An organized effort to eradicate sheep scab in Michigan is being undertaken by the Federal-State Disease Control Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. When completed, it will result in the eradication of the disease and will obtain a "scab free" status for Michigan.

In order to accomplish this goal, every flock of sheep in each county will be visited by a member of the Federal-State Disease Control staff. Dr. W. S. Britton, is heading up the program.

These visits have already been made in a number of Lower Peninsula counties and in the Upper Peninsula. They are now under way in the balance of the state. Only a few cases of sheep scab have been reported in Michigan during the past few years, but it is still possible that the scab mite may be hiding out in one or more flocks. Actual farm visits by trained observers will uncover any of these cases if they exist. Should it be found, the flock owner will be given assistance in dipping his flock when weather conditions permit. The scab mite is easily eradicated using present day dipping materials.

Sheep scab is caused by a tiny mite so small that it cannot be seen without a microscope. The mite burrows into the skin and sets up an irritation which causes the sheep to rub and bite itself until all wool is removed and a scab begins to form. If not treated, sheep do very poorly and may eventually die. The outward appearance of a sheep affected with scab is sometimes difficult to distinguish from a heavy infestation of sheep lice. This further points out the need for on-the-farm visits.

Con-Con Report

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series about the proposed new Michigan Constitution. Additional articles will appear in subsequent weeks.

Michigan's proposed new constitution has gained the endorsement of the Michigan Council of Churches, a group representing a million church people from 19 denominations. The Council is the most recent organization to act favorably on the new document which will be voted upon at the April 1, 1963, election.

The council, through its board of directors and annual general assembly delegates, recorded its stand in a resolution that said: "It is our judgment that the new constitution, while not perfect, is a tremendous step beyond the present constitution, and offers so many opportunities for good that we recommend its adoption."

Important reasons for the stand were listed as follows: "The constitution will have the best civil rights section of any state constitution, both in its equal protection clause and provision of a mandatory civil rights commission."

It makes "significant advances in correcting inequities in legislative apportionment, and yet provides for the unusual problem of population concentration in one part of the state and the existence of three major economies in Michigan—industry, agriculture and tourism."

It "strengthens local governments in many areas, including the provision that permits optional home-rule for counties and the opportunity to develop a form of government suitable to their changing needs."

It places Michigan in a better order for uniform assessment of property at 60 per cent of true cash value and by reducing inequities that have retarded growth. Economic growth "means jobs for the unemployed, the school dropout and the reduction of poverty which breeds delinquency, crime and social disintegration."

It will "result in substantial economies" when more than 120 state agencies are merged into not more than 20 principal departments and when the biennial spring election is abolished. Savings could be diverted to immediate needs in mental health, social welfare and public education.

It retains the people's power to initiate and make decisions on both statutory laws or constitutional amendments, "thus permitting changes by a majority of the people should any features of the proposed constitution prove to be unsatisfactory."

Before recommending adoption of the resolution, a Council committee had devoted long hours of study to the new state constitution and heard research consultants from both political parties who agreed that the new document's advantages outweighed possible imperfections.

Other statewide nonpartisan groups who have previously given their endorsement to the new constitution are:

Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan League of Women Voters, Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce, Michigan Municipal League, Michigan Education Association, Michigan Association of Registers of Deeds, Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, Michigan Council of Church Women, Michigan Chapter of the American Association of University Women and the Michigan Retailers Association.

Urge Pensioned Veterans, Survivors To Return VA Income Data Early

More than 71,800 Michigan veterans and dependents of deceased veterans will receive their annual income questionnaire cards a month earlier this year—actually around Dec. 1.

However, Robert M. Fitzgerald, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office in Detroit, this week warned recipients not to lay the cards aside just because they have until Jan. 31 to return them without penalty.

Pension payments will be suspended if the filled out card forms are not returned to the VA by Feb. 1.

This happened last year to some 7,100 beneficiaries in Michigan and to more than 200,000 in the United States.

James Chestnut, manager of VA's data processing center at Hines, Ill., estimates that on previous experience, approximately one-tenth of 2,000,000 pension payments processed monthly at the center will be suspended in February for non-receipt of income reports. Then, also, on past experience, some 80 percent of that number will be reinstated when the cards belatedly arrive. This causes the veteran trouble and costs the taxpayers money.

VA needs the cards to determine entitlement of pension beneficiaries to continued payment in the light of their income for the past year and anticipated income for the next.

This year, as always, Fitzgerald said, some veterans just won't return the cards since they know their income is, or will be, above statutory limitations for pensioners. This won't work any more than being tardy, he pointed out. If, after suspension, no questionnaire reply is submitted, the pensioner will be required to pay back all payments received in 1962.

Four different types of punch cards are going out this year. One card is for veterans and widows receiving payments under the pension law.

Two cards are required under the new pension law, one for veterans and the other for widows and children. This second card requires statements on both income and net worth.

A fourth card is being mailed to dependent parents receiving pensions.

Each card bears the name in address of the Regional Office which it must be returned, Fitzgerald said. And he warned beneficiaries not to drop the card self into the mails. A stamp and properly addressed envelope is required. He also requested the cards not be bent, mutilated or trimmed in any way since they must be used in electric accounting machines.

The Detroit manager explained the earlier mailing as a continuing step in VA's efforts to reduce problems of processing the questionnaires. Veterans and dependents generally will be able to fill out the cards and return them at once—before the Christmas rush. Some beneficiaries with earnings and changing incomes may have to wait until W-2 forms are available to provide necessary information.

The biggest problem of getting veterans to return cards, Fitzgerald pointed out, is that they are urged to get those reports the mail.

Farm income in Michigan rapidly approaching the one-billion dollar mark per year, according to Michigan State University economists. Although much of it is spent for farm production supplies, a considerable amount also spent with merchants along main street in the farmer's town.
