A major in dairy science, he will graduate in June and plans to enter graduate school in the field of animal genetics.

The award is given on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service to the school. Spike was a member of the state dairy livestock judging team last year; he was the recipient of a campus 4-H award and also received the Alpha Gamma Rho senior service award.

Present for the awards ceremony which was announced by the university this week, were Spike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Spike, his grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Sola, and Mrs. Maynard Bird of Milan. The first "outstanding alumni" award of the College of Agriculture at MSU was made at the ceremony to an administrator of the USDA Soil Conservation Service—Dr. Charles E. Kellogg, a native of Ionia—the citation being the first to be made each year in the future to a leading graduate of the college.

Standard Runs First Color Adv.

The Chelsea Standard, in this issue, runs its first color advertisement. The ad on Wanda Weve carpeting is placed by Merkel Brothers, local dealers. It was necessary for the mechanical department at The Standard to make several changes on the press to accommodate color. The able assistance of Willard "Bud" Pearson of Production Machinery Co. and his genius for designing and fabricating new parts is gratefully acknowledged. Many newspapers are handling this "Hi-Fi" color, and The Standard is happy to be able to offer this provision for full color to Chelsea advertisers.

Bulldogs Eliminated In Tourney

Chelsea High school's tournament trail was a short one, as they were defeated in their first outing, 52-49, by an undefeated East Jackson team. Making only 3 of 25 shots from the floor in the first half of play, Chelsea fell behind, 31-16, at half time. In the third period East Jackson again outscored the Bulldogs and extended their lead to 44-28 going into the final period of play. Chelsea, after finding themselves behind by as much as 18 points in the fourth period, came sizzling back with a strong rally which fell just short of victory as time ran out on the Bulldogs.

Bob Riemenschneider, Don Joseph, Curt Farley and Gordon Carpenter combined to score 21 points in the hectic fourth period while holding East Jackson to eight. Seniors and Captains Bob Riemenschneider and Don Joseph were high scorers for Chelsea as they scored 15 and 12 points, respectively, while Curt Farley collected 11. Gordon Carpenter had nine points and Jeff Flintoft had two.

Girl Scout Camp Days Scheduled

Girl Scout and Brownie Day Camp dates were received Tuesday by Mrs. Leslie Eisenbeiser, camp chairman for the Chelsea Girl Scout Neighborhood association. She is announcing the dates at this time since the information was not available at the time the Neighborhood meeting was held. Mrs. Eisenbeiser suggests that Girl Scouts, Brownies and leaders make special note of the dates in order to eliminate the possibility of failing to make registrations or failing to remember the exact camp dates. The information is important in making camping plans for the year, Mrs. Eisenbeiser said. According to Mrs. Eisenbeiser's information, Brownie day camp dates at Hilltop, Ann Arbor, are July 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., and the price is $2.50. Camp Newkirk Day Camp at Dexter will be on the following dates: July 8, 10, 12, 15, 17 and 19, also from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The cost at Camp Newkirk is approximately $3.50. ## Proposed Constitution Eliminates Hodge-Podge of Many Commissions

(This is the second in a series of four articles to be published by The Standard to help clarify the primary issues involved in the April 1 vote on the proposed new State Constitution.)

When a family moves to a different home, each member hopes for new things to make living there more pleasant. Seldom are all members of the family fully satisfied. Mom may like the kitchen but dislike the stairs to climb. Sister may wish for an automatic dishwasher that isn't there. Brother may think the basement should be a finished "rec" room complete with pool table. And Dad may object that that there's too much lawn to mow and too big a driveway to shovel snow from in the wintertime.

Before they decide the question they will look at the house they live in and make their determination based on whether or not the new residence is in total more satisfactory than what they have, whether or not they can afford the new place, and whether or not they can make improvements in future years.

Voters of Michigan will decide April 1 whether or not they should leave behind the old state constitution (with its cluttered attic and the maze of amendments acquired over 55 years since it was adopted) and try operating for the future in the framework of a more up-to-date document.

One of the basic questions voters should ask about the proposed change is whether or not it provides for better management of affairs in the "state house."

If the voter is on the state payroll, and is interested primarily in his own personal welfare, he probably will not like the new arrangement.

If the voter is closely connected with the flourishing road building industry, he probably will jump to the conclusion that he doesn't like the proposed changes.

If you have any relatives or friends connected with either of these functions of government, you may have heard them "sound off" with objections to the new constitution.

But should you be otherwise employed and interested in taking an objective view of the "new mansion," supporters of NewCon suggest you consider one basic proposed change. It is this:

A new set-up whereby some 120 different departments and commissions would be converted from a state of hodge-podge and whereby the governor, whether he be Democrat or Republican, would be empowered to more effectively run state government.

The proposed new constitution offers this "streamlining." It is one of the most important of all the changes offered by NewCon and it is the one change most dissenters by-pass in their protests against the new document.

It offers a means of modernized management.

It provides (as recommended by both former governors G. Mennen Williams and John B. Swainson) a four-year term for the governor and other elected administrative officials.

It centralizes authority in the governor's office, brings under closer scrutiny and better supervision a host of catch-all minor commissions and divisions, and provides that the governor and lieutenant-governor shall run as a "ticket" as is the case with the president and vice-president of the nation—thereby assuring closer co-operation and continuity.

Criticism by dissenters may have left the false impression with some voters that the new constitution would eliminate from the ballot all of the members of the state administrative board. This is not true.

Voters will still elect, in addition to the governor and lieutenant-governor, the state attorney general and the secretary of state.

Thus, four of the top state officials will continue to be elected by a vote of all the people!

Four others would be removed from the ballot.

We Salute American Legion on 44th Anniversary of Its Founding

Forty-four years ago, a small band of American servicemen, representing outfits which made up the first American Expeditionary Force of World War I, convened in Paris, and breathed life into what has since become one of the greatest dynamic forces for the preservation and perpetuation of the American ideal in our nation today.

Founded by men who had known the horror and futility of war, the American Legion was established as an organization through which those who had served their country in time of such hostilities could continue to be of service to their beloved land and their fellow man upon their return to civilian life.

The architects of the Legion demonstrated their great wisdom and foresight when they established what has grown into the world's largest veterans' organization on a foundation consisting of the following four great programs: Americanism, Child Welfare, Rehabilitation, and National Security.

These four exemplary programs, cemented with the countless services provided to the communities of the nation by American Legion Posts such as Chelsea's Post No. 31, have identified the Legion as an organization truly dedicated to the benefit of community, state, and nation.

On this 44th anniversary of the American Legion—March 15-17, we salute Chelsea's Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31 and the nearly 3,000,000 Legionnaires throughout the nation in their many activities dedicated to God and Country.

STILL DREAMING OF SUMMER FUN

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Big "First"
 The signing of a bill into law by the Governor is a momentous occasion for varying numbers of people.

When a measure affects the entire state this impact is often lost in the shuffle of the year's activity. When it is a bill aimed at a smaller segment of the population, however, greater note is usually made.

Such was the case this year when Gov. George Romney signed his first bill into law. Romney's signature making the first bill law went onto a measure sponsored by Sen. Farrell Roberts, Pontiac Republican, to alleviate some local problems in the Oakland county area.

For Roberts the signing ceremony was significant because he had accomplished something for his constituents. The Governor used Roberts' pen to note the date of the signing on the measure, which became effective as soon as the date was affixed.

Sen. Milton Zugman, R-Grand Rapids, also provided the governor with a pen during the ceremony. The "George" was affixed to the measure with this pen. This was the first bill Zugman, a freshman Senator, saw go through the legislative process as part of his doing. He chaired the Senate committee which considered it.

And for the governor, who used House Committee Chairman Roy Brigham's pen to sign "Romney" to the measure, it also was a memorable occasion. "I've never signed something that was to become a law," he said. "This is historic for me if not for anybody else."

Backtrack Progress
 The controversy had to come. During the 1962 legislature, many observers commented about the unusual lack of floor debate on the bill which came to be known as the Sunday closing act.

Former Rep. Chester Wozniak, Hamtramck Democrat who sponsored the legislation and ushered it smoothly through both houses, is no longer in the House.

The law, which allows boards of supervisors to vote against its effectiveness in their county, does not take effect until the end of this month but already a number of counties have decided not to come under the complicated act.

And now, Rep. Russell H. Strange, R-Chure, has started a move to repeal the law as soon as it is scheduled to take effect. Designed to please everyone, the measure provided that most stores would have to close one day out of every seven: either Saturday or Sunday.

State administrative officials called it a "nightmare to enforce" and "an administrative nightmare" since it contained no definite provisions for enforcement.

Exemptions to the seventh-day closing were many as the supporters of the measure attempted to encourage the tourist industry, allow small independent businesses to remain open, and provide for the availability of emergency needs all seven days.

"The passage of the bill last year was surrounded by a great deal of emotional controversy," said Strange in introducing his repeal.

"My proposal to repeal the act is designed to eliminate unnecessary legislative entanglements, at the local level of government and clear the air of costly legal and enforcement actions," he said.

At least one group of retail grocers in the Detroit area is planning a court test of the act as soon after it becomes effective.

Check Yourself
 Michigan motorists are being urged by the State Police, sheriff's offices, local police departments and service clubs to participate in the annual national vehicle safety check program.

Clinics to be held in May and June in many communities will provide safety checks for motorists largely as a self-protection measure. There were 217 such safety clinics in the state last year and about 4,000 throughout the nation. The vehicle inspection includes brakes, lights, steering, turn signals, horn, glass area, windshield wipers, tires, rear-view mirrors, and exhaust systems.

Michigan's various police agencies primarily attempt to promote motorist participation in the program, which is offered nationally to communities in states which do not have vehicle inspection laws.

Aging Process
 Gary D. Hansen, the youthful director of Michigan's Commission on Aging, reports substantial progress in the Commission's activities in recent months.

Councils on Aging have been established or are in process of formation in more than half the counties in the state, Hansen said. The Councils are designed as "a clearing house or opportunities and problems of the elderly."

Each of the various councils establishes committees which concentrate on opportunities and problems of Michigan's senior citizens in such areas as housing, transportation, health, pre-retirement education, and welfare.

Performance? It's remarkable, an understatement we can afford when there are 7 engines to choose from. One of which is the popular 340-hp Turbo-Fire 409, a wizard in traffic and a joy on the open road. And others all the way up to 425 hp.

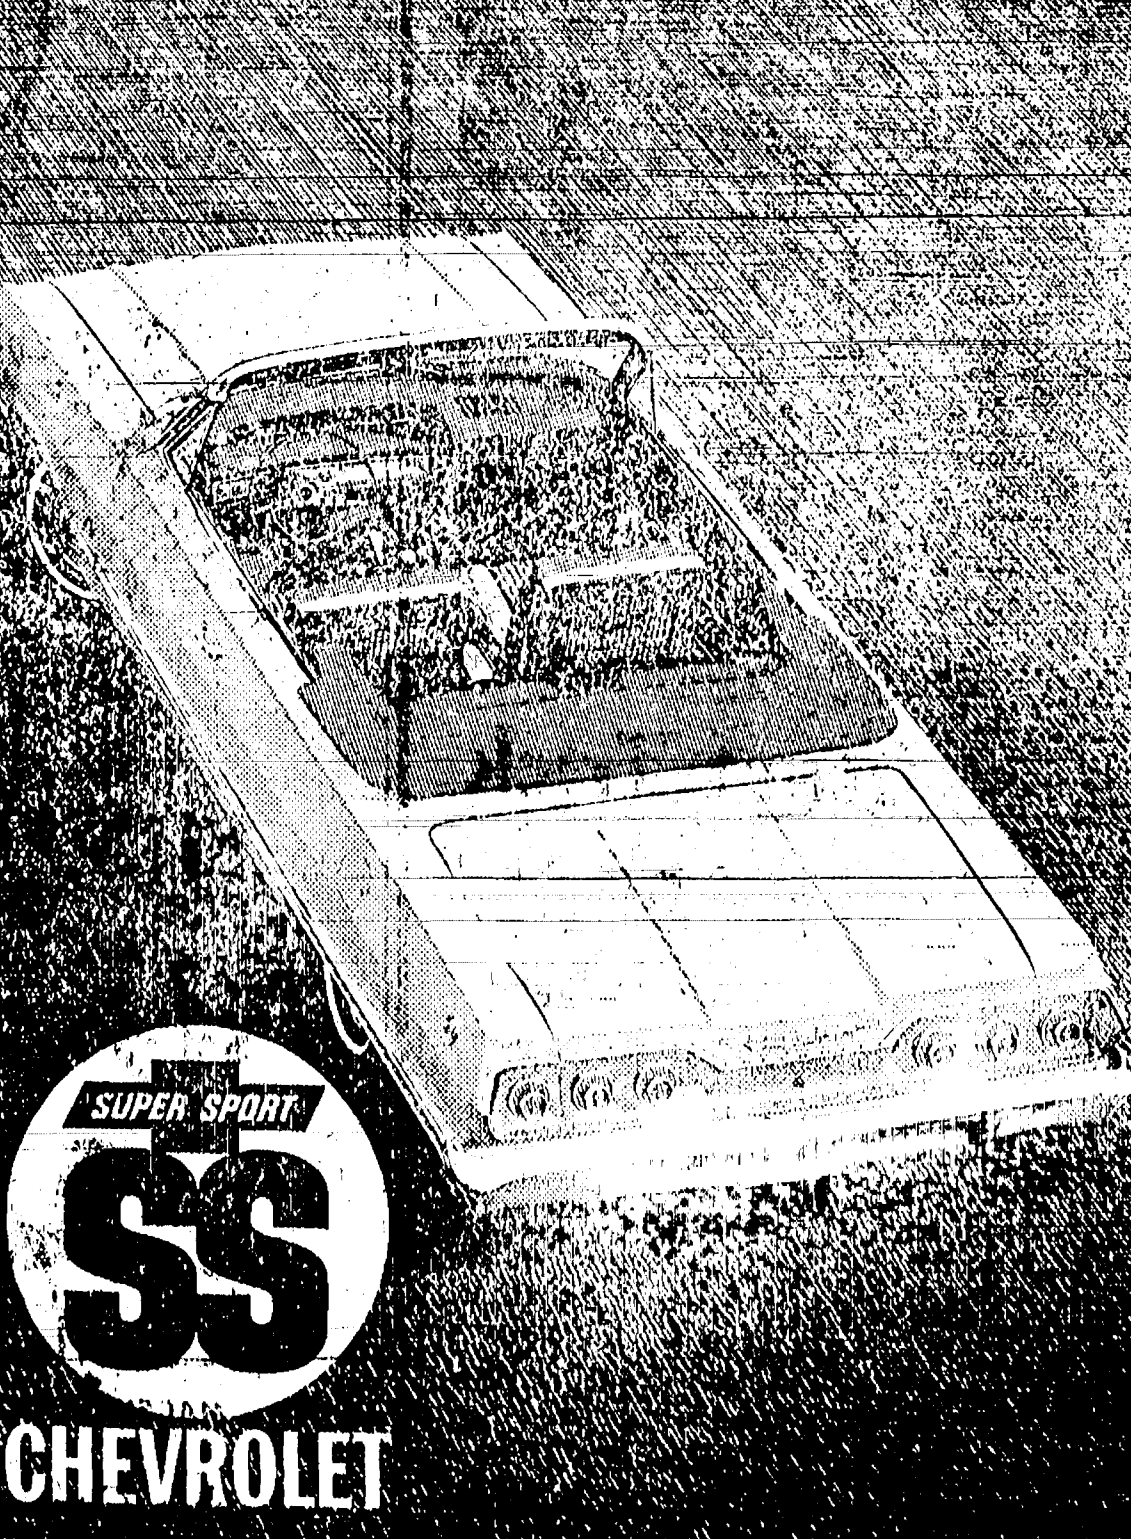

If you want an extra flourish by two, null over extra-cost options like floor-shift four-speed manual or Powerglide transmission, Positraction, fade-resistant sintered-metallic brake linings, and a tachometer to relay what's cooking up front.

Just before you rush off to your Chevrolet dealer, may we remind you that both Impala Super Sports offer the new Comfort steering wheel. You adjust it to suit your driving style, flick it out of the way for easy entry and exit.

All three Chevrolet series—Biscayne, Bel Air and Impala—deserve a long look. Super Sports demand it.

Super Sport equipment* available on both Impala Convertible and Sport Coupe. *Optional at extra cost.

MOST IMPORTANT DECISION OF GENERATION:

Michigan's Proposed New Constitution

FINANCE AND TAXATION

The new constitution retains the financial features of the present constitution, but allows for greater flexibility in certain areas. The general provisions concerning broad state power and protection of the funds are retained with changes.

The 15-mill limit on property tax is continued, but made more flexible in a county may increase the limit to not more than 18 mills, and at the time specify how the millage is to be divided among the county, districts, and townships.

The new constitution would eliminate the annual vote before the tax allocation. Similarly, the voters could vote on the division of the millage, so long as the total did not exceed 18 mills.

The new constitution would allow for special purposes and for specified periods of time; as at present, the total may not exceed 60 mills. Any extra millage be voted more than 20 years. Local governments under home rule, or those whose tax rates are set by law, are not bound by the 15-mill limit.

The new constitution keeps the family rule of property taxation, but allows some exceptions, which would permit reforms of property taxation. The maximum assessment allowable is fixed at 50 percent of true cash value, beginning in January, 1969, thus giving constitutional status to the current practice of the state tax commission. Equalization of assessments is continued.

A new clause provides constitutional status to present laws exempting non-profit religious and educational organizations from property taxes.

A school aid fund is created, covering colleges as well as school districts, into which will be placed the schools' share of the sales tax and other revenues provided by law. An important new provision is that school aid must be paid in full and on time. As at present, the state may underwrite loans to school districts.

The new document prohibits an income tax graduated as to rate or base, but would allow a flat-rate tax based on the income figures used in computing the federal tax.

The sales tax is again limited to 4 percent but the legislature would have the authority to exempt food, drugs and other necessities. Michigan's traditional earmarking is continued, but made slightly more flexible. One-half of the sales tax will go for schools and colleges, including pensions of school employees. One-eighth of the sales tax will go to local governments. Gas and weight taxes will continue to be used for highway purposes, as defined by law. The present unrealistic state debt limit of $250,000 is removed from the constitution, and replaced by separate provisions for long-term and short-term borrowing. Short-term debt limits will vary with the level of state revenues.

The state may borrow amounts of not more than 15 percent of unencumbered revenues for the previous year, or about $95 million at present. This short-term debt must be repaid by the end of the fiscal year in which it was borrowed.

Long-term borrowing, to build hospitals, for example, requires a two-thirds vote of each house and a majority vote of the people, as at present. However, such borrowing would be accomplished by statute, rather than requiring constitutional amendment, as at present.

Other new provisions allow for the investment of public funds until they are needed. All public employees' pension and benefit systems must be financially sound. Provisions about the keeping of state funds and accounts are modernized.

"It never occurs to some people that other people have sense enough to manage their own affairs."

Michigan industry, agriculture and civic organizations have less than three weeks to enter the annual Michigan Week awards competition, according to Milton Kendrick, state awards chairman.

Kendrick, of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., Detroit, said the number of this year's entries is far ahead of last year, "but we know there are hundreds of qualified applicants who are missing a wonderful opportunity to call national attention to their products and achievements by failing to enter this competition."

He cited a statement by Governor Romney who said: "We can think of no better way to prove to the rest of the nation that Michigan is hale and hearty than to submit a tangible proof of Michigan's accomplishments through the Michigan Week awards competition."

Kendrick pointed out that in addition to awards for the top industrial "Product of the Year" and community achievement, a new award will be made this year to agricultural product or process.

All three categories must be judged at the county level by March 25. Outstanding products will be displayed in Detroit during Michigan Week, May 19 to 25.

Other chairmen include John R. Meadows, sponsor co-ordination; Daniel B. Hardie, Eagle co-ordination; S. J. Elden, dinner arrangements; Edwin H. Young, guest speaker; Russell Conklin, program co-ordination; and Charles W. Wixom, publicity.

Twenty-six boys who have attained Scouting's highest rank, the Eagle award, including two from Dexter and two from Chelsea will be honored by the Portage Trails Council of Boy Scouts of America at an Eagle recognition banquet next Thursday, March 21.

Those from Dexter are Bill Lambert and his brother, Bob. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lambert.

The two from Chelsea are James Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Schneider, and Jeffrey Spaulding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Spaulding.

During the afternoon, each boy will be guest of honor at the location of business of one of the 47 agencies of individuals helping to sponsor the event.

James Schneider will be a guest of the Henry W. deKoning Construction Co. of Ann Arbor, and Spaulding, who is interested in engineering, will spend the afternoon at the General Motors Detroit Transmission plant at Willow Run.

Bill Lambert also is to be the guest of the G. M. Detroit Transmission plant while his brother is

RESERVIST PRAISED

The Defense Department says the Cuban crisis military build-up got a big assist from Naval and Air Force reservists who volunteered their services.

The Pentagon reported that Air Force Reservists voluntarily moved 754,000 pounds of equipment and several hundred military personnel. Those volunteers were on the job even before some 14,000 Air Reservists in eight troop carrier wings were called to active duty in October 21.

FUNDS FOR RS-70
The RS-70 reconnaissance strike bomber, a focus of controversy in Washington for almost a decade, is getting funds in the amount of $50,000,000.

Secretary of Defense McNamara released the new allotment to the Air Force and the Pentagon said the money will be used for development work on the highly complex radar and other units intended for the plane's reconnaissance missions.

Deborah Kerr is scheduled to star with Hayley Mills and the latter's father in "The Chalk Garden."

It was quite a thrill for Stephen Boyd when he attended the premiere of his "Jumbo" picture in London. Years ago, he ushered at the same theatre.

Steve McQueen, currently starring in "The War Lover" has been signed to star with Natalie Wood in "Love With The Proper Stranger." This will be Miss Wood's first motion picture for Paramount.

Ruth St. Denis spent her 83rd birthday with an all-day recital of dance students. Miss St. Denis has been bringing the dance to the American masses since 1906.

This is not a motion picture to be taken lightly. It concerns the tragic problem of retarded children. In its straight-forward presentation it can be an education for those faced with similar situations.

Produced by Stanley Kramer, and actually filmed in a state institution for the mentally defective—the case followed in this script is that of a child described as a borderline case. Bruce Richey gives a remarkable performance of a child starved for love and understanding.

The boy's parents are divorced after his commitment and never visit him although he dresses and looks for them each visiting day. Finally the feeling of rejection overcomes the lad and he becomes quite a problem.

Judy Garland, a teacher in the institution, takes an interest in the child and becomes too emotionally involved. Burt Lancaster portrays a dedicated chief psychologist. Bath give excellent performances.

Two of these—the state superintendent of public instruction and the state highway commissioner—are presently elected in the spring (and spring elections would be eliminated entirely, thus saving millions of dollars) and two others—the state treasurer and auditor-general—are elected in the fall elections.

The auditor-general will become a "watchdog" on the governor and other administrative officials. He will be selected by and be responsible to the state legislature. This is a strengthening of the "checks and balances" and is a method of governmental operation already employed by large local units of government throughout the state. The state treasurer will continue to receive and spend the money as authorized by the governor with the approval of the legislature. He will be appointed by the governor and will be responsible to him.

The state superintendent of public instruction will be elected by an eight-man state board of education which will be elected by all the people.

The state highway commissioner will be replaced by a state highway director who will serve under a bi-partisan highway commission that will function as the state civil service commission has functioned in the past with two members of each major political party appointed by the governor to serve as guardians over the highway director's activity.

Supporters of the new constitution contend that much of the current antagonism would not have materialized had the Constitutional Convention delegates buckled under great pressures to keep these offices elective.

But the delegates were determined to streamline state governmental operations by modernizing management procedures. And NewCon supporters point out that not only former Gov. Williams, but at one point early in the Con-Con discussions, former Gov. Swainson supported measures to eliminate certain of the administrative officers from the complex ballots that tend to perplex and confuse voters throughout the state.

4-in-1 Vaccine Available For Children

Lansing — State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis announced that the four-in-one vaccine which provides immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, and polio is now available in limited quantities to Michigan physicians and local health departments, making Michigan one of the first states in the nation to provide a quadruple antigen for the protection of children.

Work on the production of this vaccine has been going on at the health department laboratories since 1960, when the legislature first provided funds for the project. A number of production problems had to be overcome before the vaccine was perfected.

In effect, the new vaccine adds the protection of Salk polio vaccine to the three-way vaccine for diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus which has been produced by the state health department and distributed without charge to physicians and local health departments in Michigan since 1948.

The Laboratory Division plans to provide enough of the vaccine to immunize all of the nearly 200,000 children who are born in Michigan each year. A $99,000 legislative appropriation is being used to purchase commercially produced Salk vaccine to combine with the other three vaccines which are produced in the health department laboratories.

Last year in Michigan there were four cases of diphtheria and two deaths, 1,756 cases of whooping cough and two deaths, seven cases of tetanus and three deaths, and 19 cases of polio and one death.

"The deaths and suffering from these diseases were needless, as there is an effective vaccine against each one," Dr. Heustis said.

"We hope that the availability of the four-in-one vaccine, which further simplifies an already simple procedure, will greatly increase the number of Michigan children immunized against these health-dealing diseases."

Requests for the new four-way vaccine are now being processed by the state health department. Distribution is through local health departments.

Requests for the new four-way vaccine are now being processed by the state health department. Distribution is through local health departments.

Lansing — State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis announced that the four-in-one vaccine which provides immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, and polio is now available in limited quantities to Michigan physicians and local health departments, making Michigan one of the first states in the nation to provide a quadruple antigen for the protection of children.

Work on the production of this vaccine has been going on at the health department laboratories since 1960, when the legislature first provided funds for the project. A number of production problems had to be overcome before the vaccine was perfected.

In effect, the new vaccine adds the protection of Salk polio vaccine to the three-way vaccine for diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus which has been produced by the state health department and distributed without charge to physicians and local health departments in Michigan since 1948.

The Laboratory Division plans to provide enough of the vaccine to immunize all of the nearly 200,000 children who are born in Michigan each year. A $99,000 legislative appropriation is being used to purchase commercially produced Salk vaccine to combine with the other three vaccines which are produced in the health department laboratories.

Last year in Michigan there were four cases of diphtheria and two deaths, 1,756 cases of whooping cough and two deaths, seven cases of tetanus and three deaths, and 19 cases of polio and one death.

"The deaths and suffering from these diseases were needless, as there is an effective vaccine against each one," Dr. Heustis said.

"We hope that the availability of the four-in-one vaccine, which further simplifies an already simple procedure, will greatly increase the number of Michigan children immunized against these health-dealing diseases."

Immunizations . . . (Continued from page one)

Physicians from the various communities in the county donated their time to serve in the clinics. They administered a combined vaccine which protected against diphtheria, tetanus, and polio, plus a separate smallpox vaccination to those students whose parents had completed the necessary request slips. The Washtenaw County Health Department furnished the materials for the clinics, as well as the necessary nursing and administrative services.

Dr. Teed noted that immunization is the principal factor in reducing the incidence of infectious diseases in Washtenaw county and in the entire nation. Other factors, such as improved nutrition, sanitation, better living standards, and the application of other knowledge from the field of preventive medicine have also contributed to this reduced incidence. No cases of diphtheria, tetanus, or polio have been reported to the Health Department in the past three years.

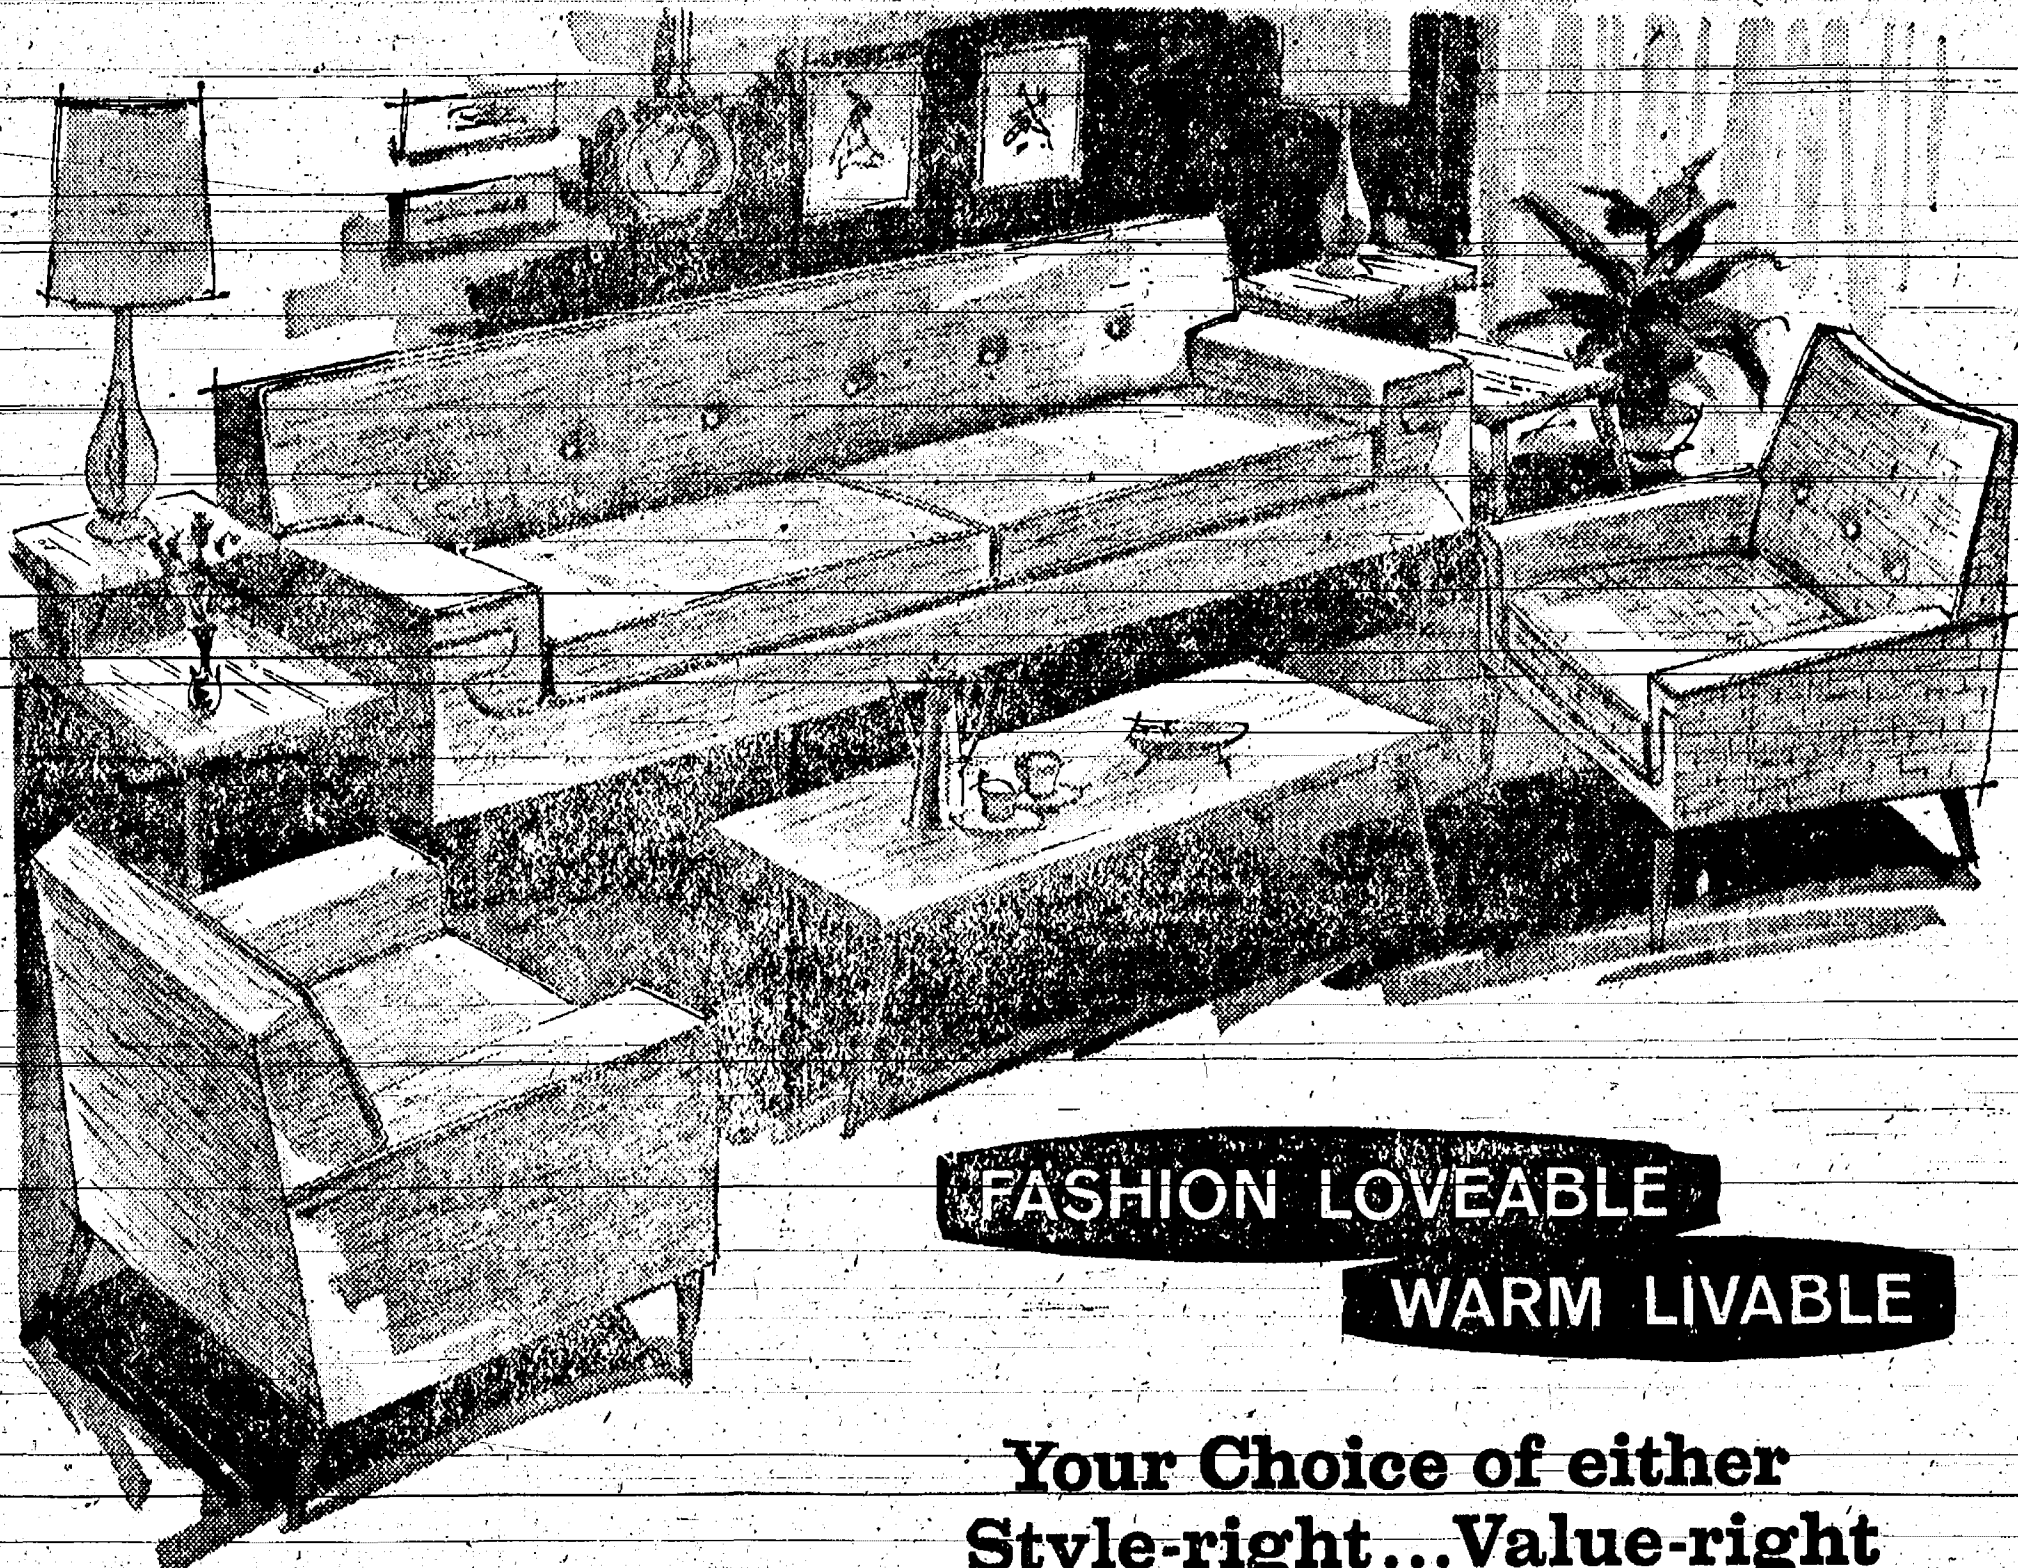

However, Dr. Teed noted further that the battle against common infectious diseases has not ended. He emphasized the importance of adequate immunization.

Have Seed Tested Before Selling

The seed purchasing season is approaching, and the Michigan Department of Agriculture advises that sellers of seed must comply with the state law regarding the ability of seed to germinate and its freedom from weed seed.

Michigan law requires that seed sold for planting must be tested for germination and purity. Seed must have a germination of 60 percent or higher and be free of noxious weed seed.

Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre says the Department's seed section at Lansing will make such tests at a nominal fee for farmers, seedsmen or local elevators. Hundreds of such analyses are made each year by the Department's skilled seed analysts.

Michigan's seed law protects a farmer to sell seed he produces on his own land to neighbors without complying with the tagging requirements of the seed act. But if he advertises for sale seed he has produced by posting signs, in publications or by exhibiting samples in elevators or other places of business, the farmer must comply with the testing and labeling part of the law.

The purpose of the seed law is to assure persons who buy seed they wish to sow is free of noxious weed seed and that germination of the seed is high enough to be expected.

Chief Seed Analyst John Garver advises seed purchasers to read the tag on the bag or container to judge the quality of the contents. He believes that bargain priced seed is seldom a bargain and certified seed is usually a better buy because it is grown and processed under strict regulations and has genetic purity.

MICHIGAN FARM STEERING

★ Rules on Home-Rule

Tilden Mason is Public Information Director for the Citizens' Research Council, a non-partisan group that is greatly concerned with better Michigan government. Recently, worried farmers asked his opinions about the home-rule provisions in the proposed new Constitution. Some have feared a loss of local government control.

Mason outlined to them in one-two fashion, some of the rules for establishing an "alternate form of county government" as outlined in "New-Con." First, an act of the legislature would be required to provide enabling legislation and set the ground-rules.

Next, where a change is desired, a vote to elect a county charter commission can be placed on the ballot by either five percent of the county voters in petition, or it could come to a vote by an action of the Board of Supervisors.

Mason was careful to point out that there is nothing mandatory about the "home-rule" provision in the "New-Con." That counties content with the traditional form of government would still continue to have it. That, in fact, this is specified for all practical purposes in the proposed document, and would continue without basic change.

Why would counties want or need this "alternate" form of government? Tilden suggests consideration of these points: At present, all counties are organized alike in spite of tremendous differences that exist. Differences in population, in assessed valuation, and special needs and problems that arise from metropolitan areas.

Many counties, especially metropolitan ones, have county-wide needs that demand a revised and strengthened county government, but the present Constitution gives no means to tailor county organization to these circumstances.

Cities and villages have had home-rule for better than half a century, and according to Mason, "This has injected a tremendous vitality into local Michigan government which has been nationally recognized." The same potential would be available at the county level, if the voters wanted it, under the home rule provisions of New-Con.

At every stage, Mason indicates, a majority of county voters have a full voice in each decision. They elect the charter commission, approve or reject the charter itself, decide on any amendments to it, and can repeal it if they want to.

CON-CON REPORT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series about the proposed new Michigan Constitution. Additional articles will appear in subsequent weeks.

Preposterous charges that the proposed new Michigan Constitution somehow works to the disadvantage of the state's Civil Service System have been refuted in recent weeks by two leading advocates of a strong state civil service.

They are Prof. James K. Pollock of the University of Michigan, known as "the father of civil service," and Mrs. Dorothy J. Judd of Grand Rapids, a member of the present civil service commission. Both were delegates to the Constitutional Convention.

Provisions in the new document which keep the system strongly independent include:

1. The bi-partisan civil service commission whose members have long overlapping terms.
2. The requirement that the commission must give prior approval before anyone can be hired or promoted.

3. Mandatory appropriations for administering civil service.

4. The requirement that all civil service provisions must be complied with before any wages can be paid.

5. Permitting any citizen to force the observance of civil service requirements by instituting court proceedings.

One change in the new Constitution permits executives to reorganize their departments. Appointing authorities will be allowed to create and abolish positions, for reasons of administrative efficiency only, without commission approval. Protection for employees is provided by allowing any employee who considers himself aggrieved under this process to appeal to the civil service commission.

This change merely restores civil service as it was originally instituted by the people. It was a court decision which held that language used in the original civil service amendment required approval of the commission for the creation or abolition of a position. No other civil service jurisdiction in the country has this power for determining how many jobs and what kind of positions are needed. Delegates to the Constitutional Convention believed that sound administration requires that reorganization responsibilities be vested in the governor and the executive branch.

As at present, the new document gives the commission power and the duty to classify all positions, fix pay rates, determine by "competitive performance exclusively on the basis of merit, efficiency and fitness" the qualifications of candidates for positions, make rules and regulations covering all personnel transactions and regulate conditions of employment.

NEW SPORTS COMMISSIONERS SOON

Both professional basketball and baseball may soon have new bosses. Maurice Podoloff's term as Commissioner of the National Basketball Association expires at the end of this season and the search is well under way for a successor. Ford Frick still has three years to go on his contract as baseball Commissioner, but Frick is 68, and not in the best of health.

Behind this drive to find new commissioners is one basic fact—both sports are in trouble. Baseball is losing ground to pro football, which has two energetic, able commissioners — Pete Rozelle for the NFL; Joe Foss for the AFL.

Professional basketball, the critics say, isn't even big league. It's gotten so bad in fact that even the players are spouting out against the NBA. Bill Russell, the Boston Celtics' center, is particularly outspoken in the February issue of SPORT. "So many things are ridiculous about this league," Russell says, "that I wouldn't call it a major league." Bill hits out at the lack of competent referees, the schedule, the failure to get a national television contract, and other shortcomings.

Leading candidates for commissioner in both sports: Baseball — American League president Joe Cronin; Judge Robert Cannon, the players' representative; and as a darkhorse, Richard Nixon. Pro basketball — George Mikan, executive of the Minneapolis Lakers; Ben Kerner, owner of the St. Louis Hawks; Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Warriors when they were based in Philadelphia.

PIERSALL AND THE PRESIDENT. Last summer, Jimmy Piersall and his family rented a house in Hyannis Port, half a block from the First Family. In the February SPORT Jimmy tells what happened on the day his four-year-old daughter, Kathy, waved to President Kennedy as he drove by.

"The President stopped," Piersall said, and he asked Kathy, "Who are you?"

When she told him her name, he got out of the car and went in to talk to Mary (Jimmy's wife). When my wife told me about it, I called Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, the President's secretary and said, 'I'd appreciate it if you thank the President for being so nice to my family the other day.'

"Thank him yourself," Mrs. Lincoln said. "He's just coming into the office."

"He got on the phone and we talked for several minutes. At last I said, 'Mr. President, hadn't you better get back to work? They say I'm lousing up baseball. Now, if anything goes wrong while you're talking to me, they'll say I'm lousing up the country.'

"SHORT TAKES. Last winter, Ralph Houk fainted while dining in a New York restaurant. He was taken to a hospital and found in good shape. Later at the major-league winter meetings, Minnesota manager Sam Rice spotted the Yankee manager having breakfast with a group of reporters. Rice scribbled a note on a piece of paper and dropped it in a newsman's lap. It read: "Houk passes out when the check comes."

Paul Adams
Will Be Visiting
County Friday

Paul L. Adams, candidate for Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court on the non-partisan ballot April 1, will be in Washtenaw County Friday, March 15.

Justice Adams, a former Regent of the University of Michigan and Attorney General of Michigan, was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1961 and is seeking to regain the position which he lost to Justice Michael O'Hara in November, 1962.

A native of Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Adams was mayor of Sault Ste. Marie before holding office on the state level. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and holds an LL.B. degree from the Michigan Law School. His wife is the former Ruth Karpinsky of Ann Arbor.

A luncheon at the Michigan Union, University of Michigan, is to be followed by a tour of the Ann Arbor business district and several coffee hours in the county.

4-H Clubs Seek Safer Living for All

"Imagine if you can a row of new homes placed 600 feet apart on both sides of a 90-mile stretch of highway," suggest 4-H leaders on the local and state level.

The value of these homes would about equal Michigan's annual home fire loss, according to Richard Pfister, Michigan State University agricultural safety engineer.

Fire prevention is one of three safety areas to be stressed by Michigan 4-H clubs during 1963, it was pointed out.

The second problem is preventing falls. About 380-400 Michigan people die in home falls each year, placing this category second only to traffic mishaps among all causes of accidental death.

The third area is accident reporting. Many 4-H clubs are digging up information about local accident causes as well as the people involved.

"Such organized reporting provides much interesting information, but that's not all," Pfister states. "4-H members and their parents are often astounded at the frequency of accidents and fires in their communities. Such concern often leads to greater care," Robert McCrory, county extension agent, 4-H, reports that adult 4-H leaders throughout the state have recently received the new 1963 Michigan 4-H Safety Guide.

Organized 4-H safety work leads to many awards such as scholarships and educational trips. While awards are fine, Pfister and McCrory feel safety activities should really be carried out for their benefits to family and community. "What's more, they are fun," they said.

More than 1,700 youngsters in 55 Michigan counties are enrolled in safety projects. That includes home and farm safety, fire prevention and bicycle safety. In addition, automotive, tractor, gun and most other 4-H projects deal with safe practices.

Also to be honored at the banquet are two Washtenaw county 4-H Dairy Club members—Marilyn Frey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Frey of 6890 Seio Church Rd., and Archie Bradbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradbury, 3830 Easton Rd.

Miss Frey's award is for placing third in the State of Michigan in efficient milk production contests based on the number of animals and official testing records.

Miss Frey graduated from Dexter High school in 1962. Currently she is enrolled at Cleary College, Ypsilanti.

Archie Bradbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bradbury, 3830 Easton Rd., a junior at Dexter High school will receive a camera awarded by the Washtenaw Dairy Council for his outstanding success in 4-H dairy cattle judging competition. He placed third in the Washtenaw county contest, fourth in the Michigan 4-H dairy judging contest and was a member of the Michigan 4-H dairy judging team competing in the National Dairy Exposition held in Chicago in December, 1962.

Guest speaker at the banquet Saturday, Earl J. Hill, public relations administrative assistant at Consumers Power Co., Jackson, is described as one of Michigan's most popular dinner speakers. Hill has been with Consumers the past 36 years. His work through the years has included the positions of electrical distribution engineer, personnel and safety supervisor, general safety instructor, assistant general training supervisor and his present position as administrative assistant in public relations.

Lost Cost Homes Offered in Area By Local Dealer

A radically new concept in home building and finance is currently being offered in this area by State Homes, Inc., of Detroit, through its local dealer, Mary Wolter of Dexter.

This unusual program involves the offer of State Homes to build any of their 23 models in any location anywhere in the state of Michigan for only $50 down. Prices range from $4,250 to $9,800 with monthly payments as low as $43.

State's only other requirement is that the purchaser must own his property and have a good credit rating.

Prior to the advent of State's program it was often impossible to obtain financing for homes in rural areas or on lake property unless the purchaser could pay approximately 50 percent down. This single factor has made it impossible for most folks to build their new home in a rural area. The revalence of house trailers in Michigan farming communities is a phenomenon created by the lack of adequate low down payment financing for conventional homes.

State's 12-year first mortgage plan with low down payment of only $50 together with their offer to build their homes in any location, is bringing for the first time adequate, comfortable housing to the folks of rural Michigan.

Young married couples, senior citizens, owners of trailers and near "tumbledowns" are all finding the State Homes program the answer to their desire for a new home in a rural area or a cottage by the lake.

Senior Citizens' Get-Together Set For Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor will take an active part in the nationally observed Senior Citizens' Month in May by serving as host-city for one of 10 Recreation Association of Michigan-sponsored Regional Senior Citizens' Get-Togethers.

Mrs. Robert Pratt, chairman of the local program, said that Ann Arbor's Get-Together will take place on Wednesday, May 22, in the Michigan Union Ballroom.

Senior Citizens' Get-Togethers are now in Michigan," said Mrs. Pratt. "The Recreation Association has sponsored state-wide Get-Togethers in Lansing and Flint for the past eight years. With most of the participants coming from community-sponsored recreation programs for retired residents, the Get-Togethers have proven extremely valuable as a place to compare programs, pick up ideas for new activities, and have group fellowship.

"The Association is experimenting with regional meetings for the first time this year in an effort to eliminate travel problems for the many who would like to participate. Ann Arbor's program will include luncheon, informative talks, contests, dancing, and other planned entertainment."

Mrs. Pratt pointed out that participation is not limited to persons taking part in community programs. All individuals 60 years of age or older, as well as organized Senior Citizens' groups from Hillsdale, Monroe, Jackson, Lenawee, and Washtenaw counties are welcome. They are urged to contact Mrs. Pratt at the Ann Arbor Recreation Department, 330 Packard St., Ann Arbor, or call NO 5-5821 for further program information and registration forms.

Area Nurses To Hear Public Health Address

Dr. Myron E. Wegman, dean and professor of the School of Public Health at the University of Michigan, will speak to the membership of the Washtenaw Livingstone District Nurses Association on March 14, at 8 p.m. This meeting will be held at the Ann Arbor Public Library Auditorium at 249 South Fifth Avenue. Dr. Wegman's topic will be "World Health Organization - Nurses Contribution."

All area nurses are encouraged to hear this interesting speaker.

Boy Scouts All Survive Camp-Out

More than 100 men and boys slept on the ground in the cold and howling wind Saturday night at Bruin Lake Scout camp. It was not an endurance test but a thoroughly enjoyable camp-out, according to reports of those who attended.

The camp-out demonstrated the skills and knowledge of the Boy Scouts and leaders of the Troop District, formerly known as District IV.

Top honors for combined contest participation and overall Boy Scout camping performance went to Troop 70 of Chelsea and the Scoutmaster, Alvin Reinhardt.

Troops who participated are listed as follows: Troop 9, Whitmore Lake; Troops 25 and 79, Chelsea; Troop 28, Dexter; Troop 46, Sa-line; and Troop 49, Milan.

The outing was declared a complete success under the direction of Campmaster Bob Lambert of Troop 28, Dexter, assisted by activities directors, Cliff Traylor and Bob Wild of Troops 77, Dexter, and 9, Whitmore Lake, respectively, and by the registration chairman, Harold Baker.

The report states that it should be explained that by "complete success" it is meant that on this camp-out there were no cuts, no burned or frozen fingers, no horseplay or disobedience, no harsh words, no discontent, no damage to property, private or public, the campsite was left in its original neat condition, and each of the boys and men had a rich, educational and enjoyable experience in outdoor companionship.

In addition to the work at camp to make it comfortable for the week-end, there were contests with axe and cross-cut saw on 12-inch, hickory logs; fire building tests; and competitive wildlife observation hikes.

Saturday evening there was a campfire ceremony, including skits and entertainment by each troop, much singing and some serious discussion as well as announcement of contest winners.

The report is concluded with the statement that all the troops and their leaders did an outstanding job and deserve much praise and commendation from the Scouts' parents and their respective communities.

EVERYWHERE MEN ARE HUNGRY FOR LIVING BREAD. They are fed stones that glitter but do not satisfy. They long for the hope of a new world. They are offered the fear of world destruction or world dictatorship. In their hearts they know that if men continue to live like clever, greedy beasts, sooner or later they will be caged or shot. Man's attitude must change. The apple in the Garden of Eden was good. Somebody's attitude to it was wrong.

Science is good. But much of it now seems devoted to the art of destruction.

Education is good. But education nowadays seems to justify moral and spiritual bankruptcy and to destroy faith.

Wealth is good. But when it becomes the aim of great societies, the character of people decays.

More wages, shorter hours, better social and economic conditions are all good and all necessary. But in the hearts of millions of workers, white, black, yellow and brown, is a gathering disillusionment.

Freedom is good, and is coming like a flood to Africa. But where yesterday black men hated white, now black fears black. And tomorrow may see black or red imperialism where white imperialism reigned yesterday.

Asia hoped to teach the West the art of unity. For years India practiced a policy of "neutrality," which was praised to high heaven by the Red Chinese giant. Now that giant has crossed the nation's frontier and swallowed 30,000 square miles of Indian soil. The feet of invaders march on land that was successfully defended during 200 years of British rule.

The Communists say that the free world is divided within itself. That is true. But has the Communist world an answer? A Communist Ambassador from Eastern Europe said recently, "There is deep division in the Communist world. Khrushchev has moved beyond Stalin. He does not want to force his ideas on humanity by pointing a bayonet at their bellies. But Mao Tse-tung believes war not only inevitable, but necessary, in order to carry mankind into Communism. He has told us we must risk 300,000,000 lives to do it."

Khrushchev thinks the most dangerous anti-revolutionaries are the Chinese. Mao Tse-tung thinks the most dangerous anti-revolutionaries are the Russians. And this peril is projected into Europe where Albania and Yugoslavia growl and bare their teeth as they follow their separate paths.

Ordinary men look on the policies, or lack of policies, which brought the world to the brink of war over Cuba as insanity. They would cry "Halt," but do not see the way.

The answer lies in the character of men.

It remains true that unless we deal with human nature drastically and thoroughly on a colossal scale, man will follow his historic path to violence and destruction. Capitalism, free enterprise and democratic socialism have failed to cure the selfishness that permits too few to have too much, while too many have too little. The Communist states have failed to answer the hate and bitterness that drive men into danger.

Hating Russia or hating America or hating another class, color, race or country multiplies the problem and cures nothing. The free world as well as the Communist world needs help, not hate.

Squatting in the streets, protesting about the atom bomb and running to a safer place when danger threatens does not seem an intelligent reply to the challenge of the century.

Those who would be willing to die for their country in war but meanwhile insist on living comfortably, selfishly, undisturbed, do not answer the challenge of world revolution.

Men who at international conferences talk about unity, when at home family life, politics and industry are divided by ambition, fear, jealousy and greed, do not convince or change anybody.

Some criticize the "godlessness of Communism." But they make excuses for promiscuity, homosexuality and indulgence in high places. This increases security risks. It also confirms the cynicism of those who look from outside at self-styled, God-fearing Christian societies that have become corrupted. Men deny the power of God to cure the disease because they are in love with the disease itself.

An answer is at large in the modern world.

It is moving massively throughout the world and changing the outlook of continents.

Japan—"New men, new nations, a new world"

Prime Minister Ikeda of Japan in October opened a new Moral Re-Armament center at Odawara. He told the conference there that his objective as Prime Minister is to double the national income. He said, "The foundation for this should be new men who are right and true. MRA is working to create new men, new nations, and a new world." Japan's senior post-war statesman, Shigeru Yoshida, said, "I want to study MRA so that I can make it my own and become a part of it."

To Odawara came 6,500 people from 42 nations. One of them was Colonel Kim Chong Pil, second man in Korea, a country with a 60-year-old hatred of Japan. Yomiuri Shimbun, Tokyo daily, said, "Japanese-Korean negotiations are at an impasse. This meeting between Ikeda and Kim will be a climax to lead these negotiations to a conclusion." Colonel Kim said at Odawara, "You have demonstrated the possibility of creating one world family by transcending political, national and racial barriers. Coming here has recalled me to God's purpose for my life—to restore the moral standards of my country. I pledge myself that I will always be with you, any time, whatever the circumstances."

Italian workers, almost entirely Communist, absorbed in the Latin American play El Condor, near Naples, November, 1962.

"Space Is So Startling"

Leaders of Japan planned for the new space-age musical, Space Is So Startling, to travel the land. A special train was contributed free by the National Railways for this journey. The play drew crowds to the theaters in Tokyo, Hokkaido province, Osaka and Yokohama. Millions across Japan saw it on television. Mainichi, with its four million circulation, writing under the headline "Setting Theatrical Precedent," described the staging, music and choreography as unique and said, "The play shows the road that humanity should choose."

The leaders of the Zengakuren students, men who thought Khrushchev and Stalin as reactionary as the leaders of the West, came to picket the theater in Hokkaido. They were out to cause a riot. But they were stunned to silence by the passion of the MRA force for a social, economic and global revolution far swifter and more penetrating than their own. They called off the riot and saw the play instead. They filled the theater with their friends. They were still talking with members of the cast two hours after the final curtain. In the dormitories where Marxism and rioting were discussed until 4 a.m. they now discuss Moral Re-Armament. These students organized showings of the MRA films in their university. With the money made they travelled 712 miles by train to Odawara for training in MRA.

The world longs for unity. In Japan Socialists and Government supporters, trade unionists and industrialists, the youth in universities and armed forces are accepting the discipline of unity necessary to enlist both the Communist and non-Communist worlds in the greatest revolution of all time.

India—"Every division can be solved"

From the Odawara Assembly, seven members of the Parliament of the South Indian State of Kerala returned to a country at war and "waking to reality." They were some of the men who wrested the State from Communist control three years ago, at a time when many in New Delhi were out of touch with reality. These seven men, representatives of bitterly opposed democratic factions, now say, "Anti-Communism united us to throw out the Communists, but within two months of victory we were fighting each other again. Anti-Communism is no basis for permanent unity. We needed a superior ideology, and this we found in MRA."

These men of Kerala saw Archbishop Makarios, President of Cyprus, who was on a state visit to India. K. M. Cherian, Chief Editor of the largest Kerala newspaper, told him, "We bring you a message of hope—that through MRA every division and problem can be solved. This has been our experience in Kerala." Archbishop Makarios replied, "I greatly appreciate the action and purpose of Moral Re-Armament which is at work in our country also. You have our blessing. Yours is a right and just struggle."

Italy—"A complete Revolution"

In Italy, the home of the Church and of the largest Communist Party in Western Europe, a Latin American force is carrying MRA from city to city. The force includes students who were militant Marxists planning bloody revolution. Also generals, industrialists and workers' leaders. Thousands are massing to their support in towns and villages where poverty and bitterness have ruled, to hear them and see their play El Condor.

In Naples, where some of the audiences were 80 per cent Communist, a Communist Professor of Philosophy said, "MRA takes half-hearted Christians and bitter Marxists and enlists them both in a complete revolution."

The Naples paper Roma headlines a page on the world development of Moral Re-Armament, "A Banner of Hope—Millions in the World Fight for Moral Re-Armament."

The Secretary-General of the Communist Party in one town said, "What these people say is exactly what I would like to do for the world. Socialism and Communism are not the final thing. The final thing is what I have seen here."

Britain—"Next step for our people"

To Britain on December 19 came the new musical, Space Is So Startling, direct from its Japanese journey. It will be shown for six weeks at the Westminster Theatre. During the last year 160,000 people have paid to see plays which are doing for Britain the job which this musical play has been doing in Japan.

Miss Nora Swinburne takes the leading role in Music at Midnight, which had its 219th performance in Britain and is shortly to be launched as a play—and later filmed—in the United States.

Miss Swinburne says, "People from all over Britain write to me and say how much the play has meant to them and what a difference its spirit is making in the country. It is a play for every country."

The Vice-Chairman of 10,000 miners in a North-Eastern coalfield of England said after seeing this play, "I am absolutely prepared to put the same effort into the fight for the Moral Re-Armament of my country that I put into the Communist Party for twenty-six years. None of the major political parties has what our country needs. The workers are disillusioned with their leadership. What I have seen here convinced me that this is the next step for our people."

The American premiere is January 10th in Los Angeles' Biltmore Theatre, followed by a national tour that includes La Jolla, Palm Springs, Santa Barbara, San Francisco, through the Southwest and across the nation.

MRA gives the worker, the housewife, the statesman, the businessman and the ordinary man everywhere the chance to make modern history. Its aim is a world where all hungry are fed, all homeless housed, and where every color, class, race and background has a proper chance to work together in rebuilding the world.

The world will not stay the same. It will either be destroyed or changed. Many sincere Communists think force is the only means to change the system. Non-Communists, willing to create a revolution swifter and deeper than a revolution of force because it changes men, will offer a greater revolution to enlist the sincere Communists and bring hope to humanity.

Education of Public Must Keep Up With Scientific Discoveries

East Lansing — The big questions of the '60s, '70 and '80, says a distinguished biophysicist at Michigan State University, are "Why is man here on earth?" and "Should society set standards for the perfection of man?"

Dr. Leroy G. Augenstein, chairman of MSU's biophysics department, offers as an example the possibility that scientists might develop a virus which would enable young women to give birth to handsome, strong, intelligent children without hereditary defects.

"However," he asks, "suppose we find that these children are also 'wired' up to become alcoholics. Then what is to be done? Should the virus be used, and who decides?"

He declares, "Unless education of the public catches up and keeps

Education Level in Michigan About Average But Rising Rapidly

East Lansing — Utah's people receive the most education, people in Kentucky and South Carolina get the least education, and Michigan people get just a little above the average.

That's the educational picture reported by Dr. John F. Thaden in the latest issue of the Michigan Economic Record, published by the Michigan State University Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

The level of educational attainment is rising rapidly in Michigan, writes Dr. Thaden, MSU professor emeritus of sociology and anthropology. The median number of school years completed by Michigan residents 25 years old and over was 8.8 in 1940, 9.9 in 1950 and 10.8 in 1960.

★ Parking By Eye in Outer Space ...

AN OLD-FASHIONED instrument, the human eye, may prove the best guidance system for the rendezvous and docking of two spacecraft in orbit, says National Aeronautics and Space Administration physicist J. E. Pennington.

Visual space rendezvous, he believes, will lessen system requirements and increase chances of a successful mission. The astronaut would begin the parking maneuver by lining up the blinking light on his target some 200 miles away. NASA simulation studies have shown that a pilot can judge the closing rate to about 0.15 feet per second from a distance of 10 feet, roughly equivalent to inching your car in the garage at one mile per hour.

RADIO TRANSMITTING tubes that are as big as fire hydrants and that boil water to cool themselves off will power a new Voice of America station having almost 5,000,000 watts capacity. Construction by Votator of a special trailer-truck-size Thermex tube tester that can deliver continuous power of 1,200,000 watts was required to test the new tubes, which extend beyond the power and frequency ranges of previously available equipment.

THE NEW JERSEY Turnpike reports that more than 40 percent of all accidents on the road in 1962 were caused by driver inattention.

AIRPLANES will be barred from disaster areas unless they are part of search and rescue operations, carrying newsmen or persons on official business in connection with the disaster, reports the Federal Aviation Agency. The new FAA ruling is designed to prevent sightseers from interfering with the safety and efficiency of airborne relief operations.

EATING PETROLEUM may soon be helpful as a dietary aid. Research engineers have developed a biological process to make proteins and vitamin supplements from petroleum products. Immediate objective is food supplements for livestock and pets, but food from oil for humans may be just around the corner.

BEGINNING July 1, 1963, doctors, dentists and nurses will not be permitted to appear in television commercials, reports the National Association of Broadcasters, nor will actors and actresses be permitted to pose as such.

EYE ACCIDENTS are suffered by more than a half million Americans, many of them children, every year, reports the American Medical Association. PLASTIC TUBAS will soon be booming on U. S. playing fields and parade routes. Weight of the bulky bass horn is cut by 40 percent by replacing brass with polyester resin. In the new lightweight model only the mouthpiece is brass. The manufacturer claims greater protection, and greater power, also.

Civil Defense

The measuring of radiological conditions in Chelsea and the surrounding area, has been handled very efficiently by the members of the Chelsea Fire Department. These reports of radiation in the air have been checked and recorded every week for the last several months.

To date there are a total of 170 individuals trained in Washington county for this purpose.

Why? The reasons are as follows: To enable local government, county and state, to advise the public regarding radiological conditions. Let the public know when to enter fallout shelters and when to come out. To protect governmental personnel during outside emergency operations.

If you wish to help with this program, please contact your local Civil Defense director.

Everybody Loves Fat Men, But the Doctor Worries

Ann Arbor—The world may love fat men, as the saying goes. But the fat man's doctor worries about his patient's health.

The chief reason is the high death rate among those who are overweight, reports Dr. Park W. Willis, III, of the University of Michigan Medical Center.

"The obese patient is more likely to develop certain diseases that may be fatal or that may have fatal complications."

These include diabetes, hardening of the arteries, strokes, high blood pressure, heart attacks, and gall bladder, liver and kidney diseases. "Even cancer has been found to be more common in fat people," Dr. Willis says.

The overweight person also has a harder time recovering from serious illnesses, operations and accidents, says the U-M physician.

In addition, he suffers other annoying physical symptoms and emotional difficulties.

—He tires easily, often develops flat feet and arthritis of the knees.

—Heat bothers him. He flushes and sweats and is prone to develop certain skin conditions.

—He has personality problems. A lot of mental stress comes from being teased or ridiculed.

and from lack of social acceptance. It has been reported that the suicide rate is much higher than normal in overweight people.

Dr. Willis lists obesity as the "commonest single disease in the United States today."

His solution: convince the overweight to eat less and maintain an "ideal" weight.

MICHIGAN PROGRESS PLEASES HODGES—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges (right) congratulated State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie on Michigan's progress in the construction of Interstate freeways when the two met recently in Chicago. Mackie told Hodges Michigan has more than 1,000 miles of freeway, including 630 miles of Interstate highway, open to traffic.

Extension Service Assigned Rural Civil Defense Program

"You can survive" is the theme of a rural Civil Defense educational program now underway in Michigan. The main task of educating rural people against disaster has been assigned to Michigan State University's Co-operative Extension Service.

V. L. Stine, recently named educational co-ordinator, will work with extension personnel and state and local agencies. Stine, a former Indiana extension agent, has his offices in MSU's Department of Agricultural Engineering.

In the past month, Stine has consulted with representatives from State and private agencies and state and local citizens' boards. The main objective is to teach rural people to protect themselves in time of major disasters. "Major disasters" could include floods, tornadoes and fires, as well as nuclear attack.

"Our thought is that if people know how to protect themselves in time of natural disasters, they will be better equipped to face a nuclear attack, should it ever come," Stine explained.

"With the help of the Co-operative Extension Service staff, information and training will be provided to enable anyone to understand the implications of disasters and to intelligently counter any direct effects," he continued.

The principal job of the extension staff will be to interpret and use educational material. Much of the material will be adapted from Civil Defense information already available, with a particular slant toward rural problems in time of a disaster or emergency.

In addition to educating people to protect themselves through shielding, food stockpiling and other measures, the program will aim toward the protection of good, feed, livestock and water.

"Most people think that, particularly in a nuclear disaster, livestock and food are doomed. This isn't necessarily true. There are many relatively inexpensive ways of protecting and redeeming food stuffs and animals," Stine emphasized.

"We believe that correct information is the clue to both understanding and direct action, and we plan to provide such rural defense information to the people of Michigan," he said. "All citizens have a stake in the preservation of water and food supplies."

Representatives of state and local agencies who have already met with Stine will co-ordinate their activities with those of the total rural educational program. Training sessions to be conducted by Stine and other MSU staff are also envisioned for personnel of some agencies.

Program features of the Extension Service will include: distribution of publications, project lessons for women's and 4-H clubs, instructional units for schools and outlines for general informational meetings. County extension staffs also will be provided with prepared materials for use in local press and radio.

"The scope is large, but, as was agreed upon at the recent regional rural defense meeting in Chicago, the extension service has been confronted with many great educational tasks over the years. We here in Michigan think that this one can also be successfully accomplished," Stine concluded.

RARE ART FOUND

Rome — When the floor in Tarquinio Scantena's house collapsed, he found a rare treasure in art. The house had been built over ancient Roman catacombs.

The cave-in disclosed a buried chamber whose walls and ceilings were painted in reds, blues, greens and yellows. Geometric designs, masks, birds and a woman's head were shown in the art designs, which were in excellent condition.

Farmers Urged 'To Get Better' Before Expanding

"Get better before you get big." That's the advice a Michigan State University economist gives to farmers considering expansion.

"No farmer should be encouraged to expand without first doing the very best job of managing and operating his present-size farm," according to Ray Hoglund, MSU agricultural economist. "Before expanding, figure the expected changes in receipts and expenses which will result from a larger farm business."

Many Michigan farmers are under pressure to expand their farming operations today or get out of farming, he points out. Less than half of the state's commercial farmers gross more than $10,000 yearly. "And a gross of $10,000 only means a net income of about $2,500 to $3,000," adds Hoglund.

Two methods of expansion are available to farmers. The first is to increase the output per acre, animal or man, while the second requires the addition of more acres or livestock.

An expansion of the dairy herd to the point where extra labor must be hired is not especially profitable with present milk prices and costs, says Hoglund. Milk sales per cow would have to reach 12,000 pounds and all phases of production would have to be operating efficiently to make expansion really pay.

Cash crops and beef cattle farms must sell even more total dollars worth of crops or livestock to maintain their current labor income due to smaller margins of profit, points out Hoglund.

County Residents Invest $3,395,723 In Savings Bonds

Washtenaw county residents invested $3,395,723 in series E and H United States savings bonds during 1962. It was announced today by John R. Meadows, chairman of the Washtenaw County Savings Bond Committee.

The 1962 total represented 82.6 percent of the county's Treasury-assigned goal for the year. The 1961 figure was $3,851,587.

In announcing the 1962 figures, the county bond chairman said he hoped for a substantial increase in purchases during the current year.

He said the Treasury is looking for a large volume of new business from taxpayers who choose to take refunds due on their 1962 income tax in the form of savings bonds, instead of checks. The option was made available for the first time this year.

The Treasury also is making a strong appeal for every American family to buy at least one savings bond before July 4, 1963, he pointed out. "Organizations and clubs of all kinds are being encouraged to get behind this effort. Members will be asked to take part in the drive, and if 50 percent of them buy at least one bond, the organization will qualify for a Treasury citation."

Redemptions in 1962, including $754 million earned interest on retired E bonds, totaled $4,638 million, 3.4 percent above 1961. This was the smallest amount of bond cashing for any of the past eight years except for 1961 when the figure was $4,484 million. Redemptions in 1962 as a percent of the amount outstanding averaged less than one percent a month.

Buying of small-denomination E bonds, accounted for in large measure by payroll savers, were at a near-record percentage level in 1962. The small sized bonds ($25-$200) accounted for 61 percent of the E and H dollar purchases of $50 bonds were at a percentage high, while the number of $25 bonds bought set a five-year record.

Michigan State University country to go on a non-stop quarters a year study plan.
