Canst Thou Beat It?

In weeks such as this, interrupted by vacations, the weekly editor is a man without hope. He has little time to do the thousands of things forced upon him.

Occasionally at times like this the editor even has to "borrow" someone else's gems. The following journalistic masterpiece came to us from the Paw Paw Courier Northern, whose harried editor lifted it from the Castle Rock, Wash. paper, whose desperate editor borrowed it from the Galva, Ill., News, whose editor found it in some other paper. With an item this priceless your editor is not above compounding the theft.

"Consider the editor. He weareth purple and fine linen. His abode is amongst the mansions of the rich. His wife hath her limousine and his first born sporteth a racing car that can hit up to 80 in nothing flat.

"Lo! All the people breaketh their neck to hand him money. A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the bazaar. The physician getteth 10 plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremona.

"Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth into his paper a swell notice. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman, and of her exceeding comeliness. Like the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. The dressmaker getteth her two score and four irons. And the editor getteth a note of thanks.

"The daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column, solid. And the fair one remembereth him from far off with a picture postal card that costeth six for a nickel.

"Behold, she returneth and the youth of the city fall down and worship. She picketh one and Lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our most promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto him a bid to the wedding feast and behold, the bids are fashioned by Muntgomery Hawbuck, in a far city.

"Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth 10 bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a 12-month subscription.

"All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered into the silo. The minister getteth his bit. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read poof on the head, and the darned thing cometh out 'Gone to Her Last Roasting Place.'

"And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceedingly great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions and they swing their hammer unto the third and fourth generations.

How It Works

The political workings of the legislature in Lansing gives it something in common with the U.S. military forces; it's wonder that either functions as well as it does.

In both House and Senate each party names a floor leader, or whip, and an assistant to him. In addition, each party has a caucus chairman.

During the recent session, however, the title borne by certain men did not exactly match the duties of the positions, particularly in the Senate majority ranks.

The floor leader is charged with the responsibility of directing his party's debate whenever possible and making sure his colleagues stay in line on party questions.

The caucus chairman is more strictly a presiding officer of the closed-door party meetings.

though he must be a strong-voiced leader.

In the Senate this year, for example, Sen. Stanley Thayer of Ann Arbor was named caucus chairman and Sen. William Milliken of Traverse City held the title of floor leader for the Republican majority.

But it was Grand Lodge Republican Sen. John W. Fitzgerald, son of the former governor, who exhibited most of the leadership for his party in the Senate.

Fitzgerald, one of the organizers and still chief spokesmen for the Senate group commonly known as the "Young Moderates," is the oldest of the trio of leadership in Senate service. He has served since the cash crisis session of 1959. Milliken and Thayer are both in the second terms.

Democrats named Sen. Raymond D. Dzendzel of Detroit as their leader.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I got from page news for your paper this week, fact is you might want to get out an extra edition about it. Our community is fixing to get a airport special for helicopters. The details was worked out by the fellers at the country store Saturday night.

You will recollect about the U.S. Department of Agriculture setting up a program here a while back to loan farmers money for branching out from growing so much stuff. It was called the Agriculture Act of 1962, and it was aimed to encourage farmers to take crop land out of production and use it for other things. Well, Secretary Freeman has announced the first 10 loans.

The first one was to a farmer in North Carolina. He had 135 acres and told the Department of Agriculture that if they'd loan him $32,000 he would take 80 acres of production and build a golf course and take 5 acres and build a picnic grounds and swimming pool. The officials in Washington figured this would be a sound proposition, so they let him have the money.

Now Ed Doolittle announced Saturday night that he's got 10 acres laying as level as a floor that would be ideal for a airport for helicopters. The fellers was helping Ed work out the details and Zeke Grubb advised Ed to remind them Agriculture officials that the Defense Department was building more and more helicopters and his airport could come in mighty handy for emergency landings. That way, claimed Zeke, it could be tied in with the national defense program and it was hard to tell how much Ed could borrow; maybe $75,000.

Clem Webster allowed as how he had his doubts about the project, said they wasn't enough helicopters flying around to need this special airport. Zeke claimed this wasn't no argument, said Clem's thinking was in conflict with our national stockpiling procedures, sound physical policy, and preparedness for the future. Farthermore, argued Zeke, a country that's got enough canned ham-burger stored away for its Navy to last 50 year and 2 months would be strong in favor of having a few spare airports scattered around for helicopters.

Bug Hookum sided with Zeke, said our Government always took the long view about providing for the future, sorter like a merchant friend he has got over in town. Bug said his friend didn't drink no whiskey but always kept a bottle on the pantry shelf on account of him never knowing when a snake might crawl in the kitchen and pop him one. Same way with helicopters, argued Bug, the Department of Agriculture never knowed when one might want to set down on Ed's airport. Personal, Mister Editor, I see one drawback, Ed is a Abe Lincoln Republican and the New Frontier is allergic to them fellers.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Items Taken from the Files of The Chelsea Standard

4 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, July 2, 1959—Maj. Gen. Dwight E. Beach appointed Commanding General of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C. He had been serving as director for special weapons and requirements in the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations, Dept. of the Army, Washington, D.C. since 1955. Rehearsals now underway for giant anniversary historical pageant "Remembering When" with a cast of 515, celebrating the 125th birthday of Chelsea, under the direction of James Egbert.

Mrs. Anna Hoag, Chelsea's oldest resident died at the age of 103.

In the 14 Years Ago column (July 5, 1945) Edmund Gentner, custodian of Chelsea public schools the past 23 years, retired June 30. During all these years he has not failed to open the school building a single day arriving customarily at 8 a.m. (4 a.m. in the winter).

In the 34 Years Ago column (July 4, 1901), quite a few people from Sylvan went to Grass Lake, Sunday, to see the new electric cars run from Grass Lake to Jackson, a number making the trip to Jackson and returning.

Burgs claim distinction of wearing anniversary attire farthest away while visiting in Germany, Rome, Switzerland and Lichtenstein before returning here in time for the final week of Chelsea's 125th Anniversary celebration.

14 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, June 30, 1949—21 foxes in eight days were taken in a fox hunt by David Mohrlock. Among the 21 were three grown red foxes and 18 pups. The fox hunt was begun as a result of many farmers complaining their poultry flocks were being raided.

Early Monday morning, about 12:30, while catching frogs around the edge of Crooked Lake, a pike jumped into the boat of Vincent Burg and his son, Jerome. In about 10 minutes, another pike jumped into the boat to join the first one. The third surprise of the night was when Jerome caught two frogs sitting in the croch of a bush three feet above the water.

Migrant Care

Michigan could "well be" in for extensive Federal funds if a migrant labor aid program is approved by the U. S. House. The measure recently passed in the Senate.

As one of the leading states in the use of migrant laborers to harvest the crops, Michigan has several times come close to initiating a program of this type on its own.

Former State Rep. Edgar Currie, Detroit Democrat, tired for 10 years or better to get legislation adopted to require services and improved care for the migrant farm families working here.

Now Congress is giving serious consideration to four bills which would allow the outlay, in separate appropriations, of an estimated $60 million for improved education, sanitation and working conditions of migrant laborers.

The bulk of the effort under the Senate plan would provide more than $35 million in matching funds to states to pay the cost of educating migrant children and establishing adult education programs for the workers.

Additional funds would be set aside for states which provided day care services for young children of migrant laborers, and sanitation facilities in field work areas.

These areas are almost precisely those which Currie attempted to get Michigan money for in past years. He met strongest opposition from legislators who feared the cost it would incur on farmers who employ the temporary labor. With Federal funds forthcoming the votes could shift.

Sneezein' Season

The onset of summer brings to thousands of Michigan residents a problem known to non-sufferers as the sneezein' season.

Individuals bothered by hay fever or asthma during the hot, humid weather when the pollen count jumps sky high do not take this season as lightly, however.

Bozette City, a popular spot for winter tourists, issues an open invitation to allergy sufferers to spend their summer there.

The community near Lake Charlevoix boasts the purest air in the Midwest. In several years of testing, Bozette City never recorded a day the pollen count went over the distress point.

In a population study of heart attacks, overweight men developed two times as many heart attacks as men who were not obviously overweight, the Michigan Heart Association says.

24 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, June 29, 1939—A double-deck truck containing approximately 80 hogs overturned on U.S. 12, about four miles of Chelsea, with all but 13 hogs being thrown from the truck. A number of animals were killed and others were so seriously injured, it was necessary to kill them.

Supervised playground activities for children of the village became a reality as a result of planning and promotion work by the Recreation committee. Miss Ruby Maurer of Ann Arbor is to conduct the activities at the public school grounds.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, July 4, 1928—Jewish organization to spend $1,000,000 on Lyndon project. A camp modern in every respect, to be used primarily as a summer school for children will be established on what was formerly known as the Martin Elsie farm.

In the 34 Years Ago column (July 11, 1935) while workmen were engaged in excavating at the Spove works this week, they came upon a piece of mason work about 12 feet long and six feet high and five feet thick. The wall was torn down and embedded in it was a skeleton, portions of which resembled a human being. There is considerable speculation as to who made the tomb and how long it had been built.

About 100 taxpayers met at the annual school meeting which was held in the town hall, Monday evening. The directors' report showed that $11,802.55 has been expended during the year for teachers' salaries and other necessary expense. It was voted to raise $5,300 by direct tax.

THE VILLAGE of Branson, England is for sale. It includes cottages, 10 farms, a forge and bakery, all located on the 1 acre estate of Clement Ford.

Chevy II Wagons—

The heart of a suitcase. The rustle of road map. There's something about one of these spruce, surprisingly spacious wagons that can turn even the roughest of your trip.

Take that old bugaboo of packing, for instance. No bother. With the kind of room you get in that easy-loading cargo compartment, you can just about toss things in any old whichway and come out with space to spare. The load won't dampen the spirits of the spunky 6-cylinder engine either. It just hums along passing up gas pumps (there's also a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models) like it didn't have a care in the world. Fact is, it has far fewer cares than most engines—knock Chevrolet engineers have for dependability and ease of maintenance.

Like a car with ginger without a lot of needless gingerbread? Your dealer's got a full line of Chevy II's to pick from. Why not drop down and check now while the trading and the traveling are especially good?

Brides Advised To Feed Husband Foods for Slimness, Good Health

When the June bride dons a kitchen apron, she'll have some questions about how and what to cook to keep her new husband happy, healthy and trim-waisted. She'll want to know about fats, cholesterol and heart disease.

Here is some advice from Dr. Sidney E. Chapin, president of the Michigan Heart Association:

"A moderate amount of fat in the diet is good and even necessary for health, but too much leads to overweight. Many doctors consider obesity the most widespread health hazard in American today.

"If a person consumes more calories than he uses, he becomes overweight," Dr. Chapin explained. "The excess calories are stored in what might be termed warehouses for fat; a double chin, a paunch, the so-called 'middle-aged spread' or all three together.

"As for cholesterol, it is a fatty substance found in many foods and also is made by the body. It is one of many substances in the blood, and its amount can be measured. Researchers have found an association between high levels of blood cholesterol and atherosclerosis, a condition in which arteries are clogged. If this clogging is in the coronary artery, it can lead to a heart attack; if in the arteries to the brain, it can lead to a stroke; if in leg arteries, similar trouble in the legs.

"Two questions we are often asked—does a person's diet affect the amount of cholesterol in the blood, and can diet prevent heart attack and strokes," Dr. Chapin continued.

"The first answer is yes. A diet low in fats and substituting a substantial amount of liquid vegetable oil for solid animal fats does tend to lower blood cholesterol. The second answer is 'we don't know,' and this is in spite of all the research that has been done or is now under way.

"Fats usually account for about 45 per cent of the total calories consumed; we feel today this could be safely cut down to about 30 per cent," he said.

"As for the kinds of fat, a wife should know the three groups: first, Saturated, animal fats, usually solid, which tend to increase blood cholesterol; second, Polyunsaturated, mostly vegetable oil or fish or poultry, which tend to lower blood cholesterol. The second answer is 'we don't know,' and this is in spite of all the research that has been done or is now under way.

"Fats usually account for about 45 per cent of the total calories consumed; we feel today this could be safely cut down to about 30 per cent," he said.

"As for the kinds of fat, a wife should know the three groups: first, Saturated, animal fats, usually solid, which tend to increase blood cholesterol; second, Polyunsaturated, mostly vegetable oil or fish or poultry, which tend to diminish blood cholesterol levels; and third, Mono-saturated, olive oil for example, which have no specific effect.

"Broiling, roasting, and baking are methods of cooking that help take out excess fats in meats, yet produce meals a girl can be proud to set before any bridegroom. A bride should remember overweight and malnutrition often go hand in hand, because so many Americans eat 'empty calories,' foods with little vitamins and lots of weight. She should choose food with lots of vitamins and less calories," Dr. Chapin urged.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

In last week's column, I discussed some aspects of fiscal reform, concentrating on the need for a thorough revision of Michigan's antiquated tax structure. This week I would like to examine more closely the need for spending reform, which is as essential to fiscal reform as yeast is to bread.

It would certainly appear from some of the remarks I have heard at the current series of regional tax meetings that there is widespread sentiment in favor of curbing or reducing state expenditures.

And this sentiment is entirely understandable. Economy in the operation of a government is just as desirable as economy in the operation of a private business or of your household.

But it should be remembered that while people generally support the most prudent use of tax money, they are also vocal in their requests for maintaining or improving state services.

The conscientious governmental leader must strike a balance between these pressures: The pressure to keep government solvent by operating it within its means and the pressure to meet the reasonable demands of the people.

During my first six months in office I have taken many steps to control expenditures and assure Michigan taxpayers that they are getting a dollar's worth of services for every dollar spent.

Even before I took office, I asked a team of top accounting and management experts to give me their advice on making Michigan's tax dollars stretch to the limit.

They have already submitted many recommendations, and they are continuing to examine the operation of all state departments in an effort to find additional ways of saving money.

Following one of their recommendations, we are going to centralize all of the state government's data processing operations. Instead of maintaining eight or nine electronic installations in a single building, we will consolidate them to make the most efficient use of this equipment. In addition, we have established a permanent center for controlling state spending. This center is currently eliminating paper work in three of the state's biggest departments, rearranging work assignments and taking other steps to increase efficiency and promote savings.

We are also moving toward a new kind of budgeting called the performance budget, which measures services or production in terms of unit costs and makes spending control more effective. We are also studying the possibility of eliminating duplication of state laundry facilities, constructing out-maintenance work on state buildings and modernizing procedures in liquor warehouses and we will continue to seek new ways to save money.

In addition, when the new Constitution takes effect January 1, it will bring about further savings. For one thing, it will eliminate costly and unnecessary spring elections. For another, it will consolidate more than 140 agencies into 20 principal departments, eliminating much duplication and bringing savings.

No one can reliably estimate how much money these reforms will save. A reasonable guess would be from $5 to $10 million a year.

In any event, these changes are a big step toward governmental economy, and they recognize the fact that true fiscal reform is not just a matter of collecting more tax dollars more efficiently, but also a matter of putting them to the best use possible.

Although only 11th in wheat production, Michigan is unique. Most of its crop is of the eastern white winter type, which is not in surplus. Flour from this type, of which Michigan produces two-thirds of the national crop, goes into pastry, crackers and is also used as a blender for flour of other kinds of wheat. Sometimes this wheat sells at a premium. There is usually just enough raised to supply needs until the next harvest. In 1962 Michigan wheat production was nearly 30 million bushels, worth almost $68 million to growers.

They have already submitted many recommendations, and they are continuing to examine the operation of all state departments in an effort to find additional ways of saving money.

LET FREEDOM RING—July 4 will see a new tradition being established across the United States. Bells will ring for four minutes at 1 p.m. in a program called "Let Freedom Ring." In Michigan the Hi-Y Clubs of the Michigan YMCA, at the request of Governor Romney, have assumed the responsibility of coordinating the program. Directing the campaign are: (left to right, rear) Robert White, Mt. Pleasant; Rick Hoffman, Haslett; Robert Gazetti, Hancock; Gene Powers, Dearborn; (front row, left to right) Sue Labbert, Kingsford; David Dekker, YMCA.

Youth Governor, Chairman, Grand Rapids; Elizabeth Davies, Alma; Roger Mallette, Sault Ste. Marie, and Mike Evanoff, Grand Blanc. Already the young people have the assurance of co-operation by scores of organizations and communities. The bell ringing, "will serve as a solemn tribute to our country's founders and as a rededication to our national unity and our undying devotion to our country and for what it stands," said Governor Romney in his official proclamation of the celebration.

The average, presently healthy, middle-aged white male has been estimated to have one chance in 10 of developing coronary heart disease before he reaches the age of 65, the Michigan Heart Association says.

It is pork in which the state stands 17th as a producer. In 1961, the most recent year figures are available, the live weight of hogs sold was 236.3 million pounds, which was worth about $39 million to the producer. As impressive as the figures are, Michigan achieved only 17th place nationally. The top four pork producing counties are Cass, Clinton, Hillsdale and Branch. They have about 92 per cent of the state's production.

Check Floor Plan When Hunting for Your New House

Your key to a good home floor plan can be found in the heaviest traffic routes throughout the house.

Eunice Pardee, home management specialist with the Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service, offers these tests to spot the main routes:

1. Does the front door lead directly to the center of the house? It should, according to Mrs. Pardee. And the front entrance should be near the driveway.

"A coat closet near the front entrance is an essential," she adds.

2. Does the family entrance lead directly from the garage or driveway to the kitchen?

"This is convenient for unloading groceries," Mrs. Pardee explains. "The main entrance for a family is usually through the kitchen, but traffic should not run through the work area where food is prepared."

3. Is the kitchen centrally located? It should be near the front door and the family entrance. Mrs. Pardee adds that the homemaker should be able to watch the children at play outside, and the living room and the outside patio—all from the kitchen.

4. Is the living room a dead end? It should be, since this room is not meant to be a main highway for people coming in or out of the house. You shouldn't have to go through the living room to enter other rooms in the house. You shouldn't have to go through the living room to answer the front door or to go into other rooms in the house. Family members should be able to entertain guests, read or watch television in peace without someone running through every few minutes.

5. Is room-to-room circulation good? Can you go from one room to another without passing through a third room—except for the dining room?

Can you go from any entrance to any room without going through a third room? Can you go to the main bathroom from any room and not pass through another room? Can you go into any bedroom without going through another one to reach it?

6. Is it easy to reach outside areas? Can you go easily to the patio or outside play area from the house, Mrs. Pardee asks. A door to the outside or near the living room usually is needed for this.

Other tips on home planning are available from the local office of the Co-operative Extension Service in your county. Check with your extension agent in home economics.

Michigan has seven million acres of public lands open to camping.

David Senkpiel Named County Marriage Counselor

Circuit Judge James R. Breaker, Jr., last week announced the appointment of David P. Senkpiel of Dexter as court marriage counselor on the staff of the friend of the court.

Senkpiel, 27, head of the social studies department of Dexter High school for the past two years, was appointed to the post which has been vacant since June, 1960. The Washtenaw court under Judge Breaker was the first court in the United States to directly employ a marriage counselor. The position was created in 1952, under a two-year Foster Foundation grant.

Judge Breaker described the work of the marriage counselor as falling into two main categories. He said that among the most important work is counseling before the divorce trial to determine if reconciliation is possible and to help effect it.

A second major part of the case-load is counseling after divorce is granted, to help divorced parents with their new roles and to counsel divorced parties planning to remarry, he said.

All parties to divorce are immediately referred to the counselor by their caseworkers in the friend of the court's office. All parties with children are required by the court to participate in counseling and the counselor works with the children in their school and family adjustment, according to Mrs. Carruth Cook, friend of the court.

The confidential report of the marriage counselor is submitted to the judge before the divorce trial.

Senkpiel, who has been working part-time with the court from March 26 until beginning his full-time assignment, said that he has found a very good relationship between the friend of the court's office, other court-related agencies and the County Bar Association, "all of whom have one idea in mind, to help families in trouble as much as possible."

The new marriage counselor, a native of Saginaw, holds two degrees from Eastern Michigan University and has done undergraduate work toward a PhD degree at the University of Michigan. He holds a master's degree in educational and psychological guidance and counseling, and his doctoral work is in the counseling area. He has also been a pre-theology student.

While a student he worked in projects at Xpilianti State Hospital.

He has had diverse work experience in such fields as chemistry, weather forecasting, psychological testing, radio and television broadcasting and electronics. He has also been in the military service. Senkpiel, his wife, and two children, will continue to live in Dexter.

In Michigan we have one passenger car for every 2.8 residents.

House — as a permanent location for the library.

Mrs. and Mrs. Daniels were the donors of the new addition at the north side of the original building. In addition to her own personal contributions and efforts, many other people have become interested in promotion of the library program through her efforts.

Mrs. Eaton's work, as related by Dr. Fisher at Tuesday's presentation, began in 1932 as a member of the library committee of the Woman's club (then known as Child Study Club). The late Mrs. A. A. Palmer was chairman of the committee and other members included Mrs. P. G. Schable, Sr., Mrs. Walworth and Mrs. Daniels.

Mentioned as others active in the library work in the beginning were Mrs. Sidney Schenk, Mrs. Doris Richards, Mrs. D. A. Riker and Mrs. Alma Meserv.

Mrs. Eaton's record, as related by Dr. Fisher, mentioned "30 years of dedicated work, maintenance to service, anything that needed doing she claimed a pleasure to do."

Mrs. Eaton started the memorial shelf at the library, a constantly growing feature; she worked diligently to bring the library to the point where it became a public library, tax supported — it was taken over as a public library in 1938 after Chelsea citizens approved the proposal at an election which carried by six votes.

In an early report of the founding of the library was included the statement, "We started with 70 books given by the late Orrin Hoffman, father of Mrs. Waldo Kusterer, and two pencils and one eraser."

The library now has 12,018 books "and two pencils and one eraser." Tuesday's report stated. Last year's circulation figure was 22,012.

"Thanks are due many people for the growth of the library," Dr. Fisher continued, "but special thanks are due Mrs. Eaton."

Largely through Mrs. Eaton's influence and efforts it was explained the Chelsea library today meets the standards of the Michigan Library Association and the American Library Association.

Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Walworth and Mrs. Daniels were warmly congratulated by those who attended the reception Tuesday evening.

DISABLED RUSS SUBS

A member of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, Representative Daniel J. Flood (D., Pa.) has reported that at least six Russian submarines have had to be towed back to Russia by trawlers after they were forced to surface due to mechanical trouble. Expressing his views at a hearing, Flood said there had been six known cases of Russian subs in difficulty and unable to operate normally. He added that Russian submarines, even the nuclear powered ones, rarely venture out of home coastal waters.

Coronary disease (heart attack) is so widespread in our middle-aged population that Dr. Paul Dudley White, former President Eisenhower's heart specialist has called it the "modern American epidemic," the Michigan Heart Association declared.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

Federal Reserve Begins Tightening Money

The Federal Reserve System is to be taking its first tentative steps toward tightening the money and credit available to the nation. "Free reserves" of the member banks have been allowed to decline to about half the level of a year ago. In early June the interest rate on newly issued Treasury Bills rose above 3.0 percent level for the first time in three years.

No one, probably not even the Federal Reserve officials, knows whether this policy will be continued to a point where credit is severely restricted, and interest rates generally rise to substantially higher levels. Money management is still an art rather than a science.

The background is of course the conflict between the desire to provide plentiful credit to get the domestic economy out of the doldrums and the need for high interest rates to keep our money from flowing abroad and thereby weakening the international position of the dollar. At the moment, economic conditions at home are buoyant while the international balance-of-payments deficit is causing increased concern. This apparently has thrown the balance in favor of somewhat tighter money.

The steps taken so far do not seem likely to raise interest rates to a point where they would seriously impede domestic business expansion. Their impact on the balance-of-payments situation is likely to be beneficial, partly for psychological reasons.

These developments raise several questions. Can we, in the long run, keep money tight enough to provide real relief from international pressures on the dollar without also starving the economy of the money and credit it needs to grow on? More immediately, what will happen if the current business expansion starts to run out of gas in the near future? Will the Federal Reserve have to reverse itself and go back to easier money? If so, will not the effect be a further serious weakening of the dollar internationally?

The real significance of these bothersome questions is that money and credit policy cannot possibly be successful unless other aspects of the economic picture are favorable. High interest rates will not deter expansion of business operations if prospects for profit are also high. The supply of money and credit can safely be increased to provide for economic growth if the opportunities for its profitable use within our borders are good enough to keep it here. A tax revision which improves business incentives can help to provide this kind of favorable background. Just as important is a climate of labor-management relations which keeps labor costs under control.

At best, the Federal Reserve has a difficult job ahead of steering between Scylla and Charybdis. It has a good chance of success if we remedy our past mistakes in the field of taxation and labor costs—which have made that channel so narrow.

Kiwanis Club Inducts New Member at Monday's Meeting

Forty Kiwanians and guests attended the club's weekly dinner meeting which was held Monday evening at the Masonic Hall.

V. O. Nelson, Ann Arbor realtor, was the evening's guest speaker. An Ann Arbor Kiwanian, his talk centered on his experiences in Kiwanis activities. He was introduced by the Rev. Edwin J. Weiss who was program chairman for the evening.

E. W. Eaton, who with Mrs. Eaton, returned the past week from a European trip, was welcomed back.

James Tryand was inducted into Kiwanis membership at Monday's meeting, the induction being conducted by Don Turner.

Announcement was made of a board meeting scheduled for last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels and of the club's July 8 meeting when Dexter Kiwanians are to be here for a ballgame with Chelsea Kiwanians at the high school athletic field.

Michigan uses an estimated 7 billion gallons of water each day, according to estimates by resource development specialists at Michigan State University. More than half the moisture of the state falls as rain between April and September. Nearly one third of all rainfall leaves as "run-off," while about 60 percent penetrates the soil and is lost through evaporation or plant use.

National Safe Boating Week Urges Use of Common Sense

What with Alfred Hitchcock, the Russians and the deodorant manufacturers all doing their damndest to frighten us out of our wits, it is indeed refreshing to find a group which could make a lot of noise with the "scare head" approach, but has always scrupulously avoided it.

"We refer to the people who back National Safe Boating Week, to be observed this year June 30-July 6," says Sheriff George Peterson who is adding his efforts to help publicize the event.

There's no self-conscious braying about alarming increases in the accident rate, no forebodings of dire disaster if we don't do this or that, no hysterical pleas from the boating people.

There's a good reason for this: For one thing, despite a whopping growth in the sport's popularity, there's been no increase in the number of serious boating accidents. And the people who are working to promote safe boating say most boaters just wouldn't pay any attention to the "scare head" approach.

Instead, the National Safe Boating Week committee makes this its big pitch to boaters: You'll have more fun boating if you do it right—and all it takes to do it right is the application of a little common sense.

Refreshing indeed—and maybe it helps explain why boating's safety record is so good.

The best thing for boaters to do in case of bad weather is to stay in port, advises the committee for National Safe Boating Week, June 30-July 6. However, here's what to do if you are caught out on the water by bad weather:

Head for the nearest sheltered shore. If the water is very choppy, seat your passengers on the lowest part of the vessel, keeping them as close to the centerline as possible and head into the waves at reduced speed.

Should your motor fail, or if the sea is so strong you cannot make headway, attach a sea anchor from the bow to keep the boat headed into the wind—a bucket or a shirt with the sleeves knotted together attached to a line will do the job in an emergency.

Satan's Holiday Festival Slated This Week-end at Hell

A two-day fun festival will be proclaimed by Satan when he arrives via Hellicopter at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 29, and after an impromptu parade in Satan's Hills, will be drawn by chariot and his court to the weather bureau station to hold mock court.

"Antique car members of the VMCCA will be on exhibition in the new dance area at playland on both days from 1 to 4 p.m. A flea market or antique goods sales will be conducted on the Pine Log Motel grounds on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Howell Community band will give a concert at the dam from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday and the Dexter High School band will perform at the Pine Log Motel from 1 to 2 p.m. as will the Hartland High School band at Playland.

Featuring the Saturday portion of the holidays will be the western style square dance at Playland from 7:30 to 11 p.m. and the Amateur Show at the dam, starting at 8 p.m. Uncle Whitey's Amusement Rides will set up on June 27 and run for four days. Helicopter rides over Hell will be available on June 29 and 30 from 10 a.m. until dusk.

Sunday's program will feature another exhibition of antique cars, the best costumed lady of the period contest at 2:30 at the dam, followed by the Satan's Whiskers Brothers of the Brush Contest at 3:30 p.m. Many entries from Clinton, Howell and Charlotte have been received for the latter contest.

Free parking will be available in Satan's Hills and nearby farms and homes will set up fee parking systems. Bus service from Satan's Hills to the midway will be available and all pedestrian traffic will be channeled thru Easy St.

Crop Irrigation Can Make Bigger Yields Possible

Irrigation boosts crop yields and quality besides offering protection against frost, according to E. H. Kidder, Michigan State University agricultural engineer.

"Some growers double crop yields on irrigated compared to non-irrigated land during dry years such as 1962," he noted. "Yield differences are especially noticeable on shallow-rooted fruits and vegetables, but can also be seen on larger potato fields and orchard crops when droughts extend over long periods of time. This is particularly true in lighter soils such as sandy loams, because they will not hold as much moisture as heavy soils."

Kidder pointed out, for example, that strawberries have a root zone of only 8 to 12 inches. Thus, they only have about two inches of water available to each plant at any one time. When temperatures are in the high 80's or above, that supply can be used up in 10 days or less.

Another important benefit from irrigation is having the right amount of moisture available at the right time, says Kidder. Its important for crops such as cherries, pears and peaches to get their moisture at the time the fruit is filling out. Lacking moisture can mean small, low quality fruit.

During 1961, two million bushels of Haven peaches outsold their competitors by 61 cents a bushel. This amounted to a total of about $1,250,000 thanks to the development of these varieties by a Michigan State University scientist.

Granddaughter of Chelsea Woman Weds Recently in Indiana Ceremony

Dr. and Mrs. James Alan Tate are now at home at 4800 Georgetown Court, Indianapolis, Ind., following their return from their wedding trip. They spent a week traveling in Kentucky and several of the southern states.

Mrs. Tate is the former Sally Ann Reichert, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul P. Reichert of Tipton, Ind., formerly of Chelsea, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Anna Reichert, 12200 Old US-12.

Dr. Tate's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Tate of Vincennes, Ind.

The couple's marriage took place Sunday, June 9, at 2:30 p.m., at the First Presbyterian church in Tipton, Ind. The Rev. Harold Davis, pastor of the church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Accompanied on the organ by Mrs. H. V. Camren, who also played other traditional wedding music, Mrs. Ray Webster sang, "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore for her wedding a floor-length gown of white organza over tulle, enhanced with re-embroidered alencon lace around the scoop neckline and the apron-effect overskirt. The chapel-length train was attached at the waistline with a bridal bow. Her costume was completed with a waist-length lace mantilla. She carried a lace handkerchief which her mother had carried on her wedding day and also wore a small heart-shaped, diamond studded locket which had belonged to her mother.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Amazon lilies and sweetheart roses.

Hospital Auxiliary Assists in Acquiring Limb for Patient

At the Washtenaw County Hospital Auxiliary meeting Wednesday, June 19, announcement was made that a total of $120 had been contributed by various organizations and individuals of the county to help pay for an artificial leg for an 80-year-old infirm patient.

The man, whose leg was severed beneath the knee, had expressed the wish that he might in some way be provided with an artificial limb but with the cost being approximately $450 it was thought his wish was in vain.

At the May meeting of the Auxiliary, however, Dr. Edwin Smith spoke of the man's plight and expressed the conviction that in spite of his advanced age the man was well and strong and would be able to adapt himself easily to the use of an artificial limb. If the artificial leg could be provided the doctor explained, the man could again be "a useful, active person" for a long time to come.

Acting on the doctor's recommendation, the Auxiliary voted to purchase the limb and then hope to replace the amount later with possible contributions. The $120 was in response to the expressed hope for contributions and the remainder of the cost is being assumed by the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

It was reported at the Auxiliary meeting Wednesday that as soon as the man was fitted with the new artificial limb he was able to walk at once, justifying Dr. Smith's belief that he could adapt himself easily.

Auxiliary members expressed gratification because of the response to their plea for help in providing the artificial leg making it possible for the group to be of special service to one of the hospital's deserving patients.

EQUAL PAY APPROVED

Congress has approved the principle that women should be paid the same wages as men for equal work.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson commented that it had taken sixteen years of plugging to get this recognition of justice.

Labor Secretary Wirtz called passage "a major step in the long struggle toward providing full equality for women on our society."

Let Your Butcher Help Stretch Budget With Special Cuts

Ann Arbor — With imagination, a great variety of meals may be planned within a small budget if homemakers have their butchers prepare meats to fit their needs, say food specialists at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

In recommending "more meals from meat" to cut family food costs, the dietitians report that several meals for a family of four may be obtained from one cut of meat.

Here's how:

—A generous beef arm pot roast will provide two meals for a family of four. It may be rolled into an ample boneless pot roast with enough left for hearty Swiss steaks.

—Three different meals may be obtained from a pork-boston butt. An easy to carve boneless roast and braised boneless steaks contribute to two delicious meals. Boneless cooked meat from the blade piece makes an economical third meal.

—A leg of lamb may provide a tasty center-cut roast, broiled sirloin chops and tender stew meat.

The secret is in having your retailer cut your meat to fit your needs, the U-M dietitians say.

Congressman Meader Urges Formation of State Recreation, Conservation Program

Congressman George Meader last week offered his assistance to Governor George Romney to effectively develop a State level program for Michigan's river systems and lake and park areas for recreation and conservation purposes.

In conference with Governor Romney June 20 in Lansing, Congressman Meader amplified views expressed in a letter to the Governor in urging the State Government to take the initiative and study the desirability of establishing regional recreation and conservation authorities patterned after the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

"Governor Romney and I have previously discussed the problem informally and a possible action program," Congressman Meader said.

"If such regional authorities came into existence, there are a number of existing federal programs which would enable the proper development of recreation and conservation."

Meader continued, "My suggestion to him was to have the State Government study the possibility of the Regional Authorities patterned after the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, and the passage by the State legislature of enabling legislation to establish regional authorities. Such a step is in concert with Governor Romney's belief that the States are more than just political subdivisions of the Federal Government and that there is still a vital and progressive role for states to play in our Constitutional Structure."

"There is precedent in Ohio for General recreation and conservation legislation called the Conservancy Act of Ohio."

"With regional authorities, such as the Huron-Clinton Authority, Michigan people, and particularly those in localities having the greatest interest, not only in the enhancement of their property values, and the enjoyment of recreation facilities, but in the development of the tourist industry, would retain control and help make the decisions shaping the character of recreation and conservation developments."

"Studies of the problem of an effective development of Michigan's river systems and lake and park areas for recreation and conservation is primarily a State and not a Federal problem, although the Federal Government can and should strongly support state and local efforts, through programs already in being, such as water pollution control, flood control, navigation, soil conservation and other related programs."

"If existing federal programs are inadequate, I will be happy to sponsor new laws or amendments to existing law to accomplish maximum federal contribution to state and local recreation and conservation programs."

"With the people of Michigan having a voice in the development of their recreation and conservation programs, we will have greater interest and equitable solutions to the problem."

"This is in contrast to the assumption of ownership and control of vast woodland areas of our State by the United States Department of Interior, such as proposed by Senator Hart in the establishment of the Sleeping Bear Dunes area as a 90,000 acre National Park. Under this latter proposal, hunters and fishermen might have to obtain their licenses from Washington."

"I see no reason why the nature and extent of Michigan's recreational facilities should be determined by someone in far-off Washington, who might have ideas about park and recreation and conservation development which would be wholly at variance with the wishes and desires of the people of Michigan."

Know Your MICHIGAN LAW

by Attorney General FRANK J. KELLEY

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law.)

Many of us are dog owners and enjoy hour after hour of pleasure from this ownership.

We have certain legal responsibilities in regard to these pets of which we should be aware. In the enforcement of these dog laws the safety of each one of us is made more secure, but at the same time the laws allow a considerable latitude to the dog owner.

The most commonly known legal restriction is the licensing provision of the dog laws. A dog of four months or older must be licensed. This provides public officials responsible for administering the dog laws with a record of each dog owned in the community.

In addition, the dog is to be collared and tagged. An exception is made when the dog is being used for hunting. Otherwise no dog may venture beyond his owner's premises unless under the control of some person.

Applications for licensing are to be made to the proper county officials or to one's local township or city dog authorities. In some counties the application must be accompanied by proof of recent rabies vaccination. If a dog is apprehended for straying beyond his owner's premises, certain precautions are to be taken by public officials to fairly determine the question of disciplining the dog. In those serious instances where a dog bites a person who is not a trespasser without provocation, liability attaches to the dog owner for the damages regardless of the former viciousness of the dog or the owner's knowledge of the viciousness.

Once these legal responsibilities are understood and met, those of us who own dogs can enjoy them and protect them.

The first Congregational church in Michigan was organized at Rochester in 1827 by a circuit rider, the Reverend Isaac W. Duggles.
