Price Support Loans, Re-Seal Corn Program Announced

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced June 20, a corn re-seal program under which farmers may obtain extension of current price support loans on farm-stored corn, and earn storage payments, after the loan maturity date, July 31. There will be no re-seal program for 1962-crop soybeans.

The corn re-seal program provides for extension of price support loans on corn of the 1962, 1960, and 1960 crops also under the re-seal program announced June 20, farmers may convert purchase agreements on their 1962-crop farm-stored corn to re-seal loans.

Loans on the 1961-crop farm-stored corn was made extendable last year to July 31, 1964.

Price support loans on 1962-crop stored corn will not be extended beyond July 31 this year.

Loans extended on farm-stored corn under the re-seal program, announced June 20, 1963, will mature July 31, 1964.

The corn re-seal program has been made available in Michigan on the determination by State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. In making their decision, the State ASC Committee considered the feasibility of safe storage of corn on farms for the re-seal period and whether it would be advantageous to producers and the Commodity Credit Corporation to make re-seal loans available.

Farmers who desire to participate should so inform the county office before the loan maturity date of July 31 with formal application for re-seal to be made not later than Oct. 31, 1963.

Storage payments are made to producers on corn under re-seal. Re-seal storage payments for the 1963-64, 12-month storage period, will be 14 cents per bushel.

During the Senator Kefauver investigations of boxing, the senator took time after a cross-examination of Kearns to remark, "He's the most honorable man I've met in boxing."

With Kearns (or McKernan) when he died was his son, Jack, and his daughter-in-law, also his sister, Helen McKernan. Another son, Jerry, a Baton Rouge, attorney, left for Miami immediately. Funeral services were held Wednesday from the Phibbrick Funeral Home in Coral Gables, Fla.

Fifth in acreage and production Michigan marketed 2,559,000 hundredweight of onions in 1962, valued at $6.4 million to growers.

Puppet Shows Set for Kiddies At State Fair

A new free attraction at the 114th annual Michigan State Fair this year will be the Children's Puppet Theater featuring the Dorothy Oden Marionettes in a musical version of "Little Red Riding Hood" plus a puppet variety show.

A special theater for the troupe near the familiar Kiddle Barnyard will seat 500 children, according to Walter A. Goodman, State Fair general manager.

Shows the first evening of the State Fair, Friday, Aug. 23, will be at 7 and 8 p.m. Thereafter, shows will go on hourly on the hour from noon to 8 p.m. each day until the fair closes, on Monday, Sept. 2. "Little Red Riding Hood" and the variety show will be presented at alternate performances.

The former, of course, is a musical adaptation of the well-known fairy tale. The variety show features a roller-skating cat, a dancing skeleton, a monkey on a flying trapeze and other acts.

Mrs. Oden, who has a "string" of some 200 puppets, is a veteran of 17 years in the puppet field. She has been a professional puppeteer for 14 years.

Michigan Traffic Claims 767 Lives In Six Months

Michigan's 150 traffic deaths in June brought the state's road toll to 767 for the first six months highest for this period since $20 in 1960, according to State Police provisional figures.

The first-half toll was 108, or 16 percent, higher than 659 for the first six months last year. Delayed death reports will increase somewhat the provisional totals for June and the first half of the year.

The June deaths were 12, or eight percent, more than 147 in the same month in 1962. It was the sixth month in a row and the tenth in the last 12 of increased deaths compared with the same months in previous years.

Final figures for May showed 135 persons killed and 9,959 injured in 18,928 accidents. These were increases of 12 or 10 percent in deaths, 1,720 or 21 percent in injured, and 2,505 or 15 percent in accidents compared with the same month a year ago.

Injuries were increased for the 19th successive month in May, compared with the same months a year earlier, while accidents were up on the same basis for 17 of the last 18 months.

The accumulated record for the first five months included 613 killed and 45,656 injured in 108,709 accidents, increases respectively of 20, 22 and 32 percent over the same period in 1962.

Estimated mileage for the first four months—the latest information available, totaled 10.9 billion, a rise of seven percent over the corresponding period last year, while the death rate of 4.2 per 100 million vehicle miles was up 11 percent on the same comparative basis.

GOOD AND BAD BREAKS

Pittsburg, Pa. — Robin West, 9, was proud of his good fortune when he peaked at his report card and found that he had passed. So overjoyed was he that he leaped into the air and yelled: "Yippee, I passed." But bad luck struck when he landed at the bottom of the stairs receiving a broken ankle.

USDA Tells Payment Rate For 1962 Wool Market Year

The U. S. Department of Agriculture today announced that shorn wool payments for the 1962 marketing year, to bring the average wool price of 47.7 cents per pound up to the previously announced incentive level of 2 cents per pound under the National Wool Act, will amount to 30 percent of the dollar returns each producer received from the sale of shorn wool during the year. This will result in an incentive payment to producers of $30 for each $100 received from the sale of shorn wool during the eighth year of the program. This compares to a payment of $44.50 per $100 of marketings for the 1961 marketing year.

USDA also announced a payment rate of 57 cents per hundredweight on unshorn lambs to compensate for the wool on them. This payment on sales of live lambs that have never been shorn is based on the shorn wool payment and is designed to discourage unusual shearing of lambs before marketing. This payment rate compares to 76 cents per hundredweight for the 1961 marketing year.

Deductions of 1-cent per pound from shorn wool payments and 5 cents per hundred pounds of live weight from lamb payments will be made for advertising, promotion, and related market development activities on wool and lambs. This self-help program, under Section 708 of the National Wool Act) is carried out by the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., which was established for that purpose.

Washtenaw county ASCS office will be making their wool payments sometime in the third week of July.

AGRICULTURE In ACTION

by M. L. Woolf

★ Applesauce

There is a saying in the fruit-growing business that "a small crop tends to get smaller, and a big crop gets bigger."

This surely applies to this year's Michigan apple crop, which has been compared to the 1945 year, considered by many growers as the worst year they ever had. Heavy frost damage in some areas has severely cut the crop, now down about two million bushels from the customary 12 million. "Early estimates" are all that crop statisticians have to work from, and these, they point out, tend to exaggerate the size of the crop in a bad year.

According to Robert Braden of the Michigan Agricultural Co-operative Marketing Association (MACMA), the short crop places Michigan farmers in a challenging spot. He points out that competing fruits, particularly cherries, have also been hurt by frost, that carry-over stocks of both processed apples and cherries are small, and that other parts of the country report similar difficulties beginning with the earlier orange crop failure to Florida.

Add to this a poor crop of West Coast peaches, and what appears to be a short national crop of tomatoes, and the spotty fruit picture is nearly complete.

The challenge to Michigan farmers comes in marketing their smaller crop of apples, up to 70 percent of which normally sell on the higher priced, fresh-apple market. But there is a disturbing note, for nationally, U. S. housewives have been turning away from fresh apples, preferring them for apple-pie mixes, apple sauce and similar pre-prepared foods. Last year, Michigan housewives bought two million cases of apple sauce, and nationally orders for sauce have risen by about half million cases in each recent year. But housewives, being women, have the usual ability to change their minds, and "if the price is right" will continue to buy Michigan's better-than-most fresh apples.

Naturally, the "right" price for her is not necessarily the right price for growers, something that Michigan farmers will have to keep in mind as they bargain with packers and processors for a price that is realistic, but not so high that it causes substitutes to be used, or puts apples into storage instead of stomachs.

The University of Michigan was the first U. S. institution of higher education to own a large wind tunnel, in 1924.

MOVE OVER, TIGERS — Thirteen Dexter Kiwanians were guests of the Chelsea club Monday evening and then went to the Chelsea High school athletic field—where new lights were in operation—and vanquished Chelsea players by a decisive score, 10-4, in a softball game. The umpire, at left in both photos, was Chelsea's Anton Nielsen. In the upper photo Dexter's Chuck "Long-Ball" Hurst was getting ready to bat the ball heading toward him (far right of photo at arrow) while Chelsea's catcher, Bill Rademacher, is prepared to receive it, should Hurst miss it. (He didn't. It drove in a run for Dexter).

In the lower photo the ball was sailing past Don Baldwin's head toward the catcher, Floyd Layton, of Dexter, after the Chelsea batter had swung and foul tipped it. Everyone had lots of fun, anyway, and it was rumored several Major League clubs had scouts in the stands. The weekly dinner meeting took place at the Masonic Hall with 42 Chelsea-Kiwanians attending. The new lights at the athletic field are a gift from the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea, the village co-operating by having village crews do the work of installation.

Delegates Attend Convention Of Kiwanis International

Wallace Wood and Anton Nielsen of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club attended the 48th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Atlantic City, N. J. from June 30 through July 4.

Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Nielsen accompanied their husbands to the convention. A total of about 15,000 persons were on hand for the affair, one of Kiwanis' largest, and the fifth to be held at Atlantic City. Kiwanians and their families heard from top personalities during the four and a half day meeting: Merle H. Tucker, Gallup, N. M., president of Kiwanis International; Max Freedman, widely-syndicated Washington newspaper columnist; Ward L. Quaal, vice-president and general manager of WGN, Inc., Chicago, Ill.; and Dr. Noah Langdale, Jr., president of Georgia State College, Atlanta, Ga.

Business scheduled for transaction included the election of international officers and trustees for the year ahead, adoption of convention resolutions upon which the organization's community service programs will be based, and the recognition of top Kiwanis clubs and districts from throughout the organization for excellence in community service and administration.

Featured on the program, also, are some 30 amateur musical groups and performers sponsored by Kiwanis Clubs; the appearance of Miss America for 1963 and her court; the flag pageant team of the Naval Air Basic Training Command; Pensacola, Fla.; and Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians.

Kiwanians present celebrated the launching of their new international extension program which has seen the chartering of Kiwanis clubs in Mexico, the Bahamas, Austria, Switzerland, and Belgium.

PROOF ENOUGH

Macon, Ga. — Robert Lee Terrell, needing proof of his age for social security benefits, brought in a 60-pound tombstone.

Not knowing his age, Terrell brought in the tombstone from his mother's grave showing she died in 1901. He said this would prove he was at least 62, and officials agreed with him.

WATER TRAIL

The St. Joseph river in Berrien county is one of Michigan's most popular canoe trails, says the Michigan Tourist Council. Pike, bluegills, bass and rock bass are waiting for those canoeists who have the time to interrupt their travels down this scenic stream.

The Great Lakes form the largest body of fresh water in the world. Their combined area is greater than that of the Black, the Baltic, the Red, the White or the Caspian Sea, and as great as the Adriatic and Ionian Seas combined.

Barn, Granary Destroyed by Flames on Rha Arnold Farm

Dexter's largest and earliest fireworks display occurred before 1 a. m. on the Fourth of July when the Rha Arnold barn, granary and corn crib at 9500 Island Lake Rd. burned to the ground. The red reflection from the three pyramids of flame was visible until dawn for miles around.

The fire started from unknown causes in the barn that was filled with more than 1,000 bales of newly-cut hay.

Perched atop the nearby house, firemen kept the wildly burning blaze from spreading to the adjacent unoccupied house in spite of heavy gusts of wind.

The Arnolds live about half a mile away in a new house on the farm. They had gone to sleep about an hour earlier and were unaware of the tragedy until someone awakened them. The barn was a centennial farm and had been in the Arnold family for a great many years.

Packed away in trunks in the granary were irreplaceable keepsakes from another era such as high button shoes and the antique clothes of an aunt.

"Of course, it's a total loss," Mrs. Arnold said, "but we can't begin to tell the Dexter firemen how much we appreciate the wonderful job they did. They not only kept the old house from burning but kept the fire from spreading through the dry fields to our new house and to the farm behind ours as well as to the wood at the other end of the field."

Besides the hay, the barn contained some tools and a baler. The man who works the farm on shares fortunately had recently removed his elevator. The corn field adjacent to the burning buildings was scorched and will be unusable, and two bins of oats were destroyed.

The Arnolds, not completely covered by insurance, still cannot estimate the amount of their loss.

REPORT from WASHINGTON

Civil Rights Crisis Hits New Peak

For generations now the nation has suffered from a serious internal disorder. But it has been only recently that the fever chart has begun to edge steadily upward.

Each day's news events bring it to a new peak and each peak is just a little higher than the last.

In Birmingham, a lurching police dog is captured in a picture that gives the entire country a cold shudder. In Jackson, Mississippi, singing school children line up to be arrested. In Philadelphia, picketers protest job discrimination.

One event is hardly posted on the nation's bulletin board before it is covered by a dozen others. Clearly, all these symptoms are not isolated sneezes brought on by local drafts. They are signs of a grave social disturbance and no state is immune.

But it is not surprising that racial incident should pile upon incident. Events have always had a way of accelerating as they near their logical conclusion.

Historians tell us that American independence was already inevitable by 1776. The main purpose served by the revolution was to move up the date by several decades.

Slavery had been debated for years and was already waning rapidly when the Civil War brought the problem to a swift conclusion.

The trade union movement—its need solidly established—was already gaining success and recognition when the "labor troubles" of the '30s began.

Each aspirant—the Yankee colonist, the abolitionist and the factory worker—became increasingly impatient of his goal with each step he took toward it.

Now it is the Negro who is justifiably impatient.

The harsh truth is that only in the past 10 years has the nation begun to face up to the principle that the Negro is entitled to equal rights of citizenship, education and economic opportunity. History

Manchester Chicken Broil Slated Thursday, July 18

The 10th annual Manchester Chicken Broil is expected to attract thousands, July 18 on the Athletic Field.

This Manchester event has become a showcase for the country, a demonstration in the proper method of serving hot chicken to 5,500 or more guests in five hours or less.

Although it is sponsored by the Optimist Club and Junior Chamber of Commerce, it has become a community event. Taking in the help of all businessmen and 60 willing farmers.

This event started 10 years ago with 1,500 people and has grown to 5,500 last year.

Besides the delicious eating of a slow charcoal-broiled chicken, it is a sight for the diners to see the three pits, each 150 feet long, each pit accommodating 1,800 chicken halves at one time. The chicken being turned on grid racks, continually being basted with butter and slowly browning without blistering with each chicken half weighing about 18 ounces.

It takes an hour and a half for slow broiled chicken to reach the point where the chef will gently turn a drumstick in its socket and pronounce the chicken done.

One of the 22 committees is a special crew converting one ton of chilled cabbage heads into a slaw on old-fashioned Dutch cabbage slicers.

The cooking is under the supervision of Dr. Howard Zindel and his crew from the Poultry Department of Michigan State University. They will have on display different types of broiling and barbecue equipment. Also, the famous seven-foot Paul Bunyon Skillet, large enough to cook eggs for 500 people at one time will on display.

Two baseball games will entertain spectators during and after dinner.

Tickets may be obtained in advance from any Optimist Club member or Jaycee, from most Manchester stores, or they may be bought at the gate.

This year, the sponsors hope to devote their profits to the building of family shelters on the Park and adding to the bleachers on the Athletic Field.

Statistics of the Manchester Chicken Broil: six and one-half tons of chicken; one ton of cabbage; 80 pounds of butter; one ton of charcoal; 200 pairs of gloves for chefs.

Mrs. Kittie Winslow of Ed Rapids, cousin of Mrs. Judson G. Goltz, has been staying with Mr. Goltz while her husband is at Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. Mr. Goltz hopes to be home next week.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

Where Do We Go from Here?

At mid-year we find the American economy all dressed up—and wondering where it will go. Our present economic situation is better than was anticipated six months ago. The momentum already generated could carry us somewhat further. But some of the factors which gave the economy its recent months are about worn out and will be either negative or neutral in the future. Stagnation of the second half of 1962 in which industrial production showed no gain whatever. By contrast, new orders of manufacturers have been rising continuously in 1963 and have been ahead of actual sales every month. The backlog of business thus accumulated will tend to keep industrial output rising for some months into the future.

The steel and automobile industries, of course, played a leading role in the 1963 expansion. With the removal of the strike threat, steel output is bound to decline from recent levels in the remainder of the year. The automobile industry has successfully disproved the cliché that it can't have two successive good years. The unexpectedly high levels of activity in that industry may continue indefinitely, but it is hard to see any further substantial rise.

The economic improvement this year went well beyond the automobile and steel industries. Still, to a degree we can't possibly assess, this might have been a secondary effect of the boom in steel and automobiles. Such special situations have ramifying effects on production and income in industries that are only remotely related to those directly involved. This can work on the minus side as well as on the plus side.

Despite the unexpectedly large increase in the gross national product in the first half of the year, we haven't made a dent in the unemployment rate. Unemployment averaged 5.8 percent of the labor force during the first five months of 1963, compared with 5.6 percent in the same months of 1962, and 5.5 percent in the second half of that year. We haven't even run fast enough to stand still in relation to our growing labor force.

If the question—"Where do we go from here?"—is taken to apply to the rest of this year the answer is: "Probably ahead, but not full steam ahead." If the question is taken to refer to the longer-range future the answer must be a forthright: "It all depends." It depends on what Congress does to release the tax-brake on business expansion. It depends on whether labor-cost increases are held in check sufficiently to improve our internationally competitive position.

One thing about these Washington revelations, not every five percent had the influence that the saps thought he had.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, the great American Methodist preacher, will be the main speaker at the Michigan State Fair 19th annual Sunrise Service to be held Sunday Aug. 25 at 8 a.m. at the State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Dr. Sockman, known to millions in the United States and Canada through the National Radio Pulpit program which he ministered for years, has consistently been chosen among the top six preachers in America by church and secular publications and groups.

The author of many best selling books, Dr. Sockman's activities include: Minister Emeritus of Christ Church, Methodist, New York City; president of Carnegie Foundation's Council on Religious and International Affairs; and Director of Hall of Fame for Great Americans.

Shall I Force My Child To Go to Sunday School & Church?

Many parents ask this question, and if we may be allowed to answer them, we will answer with an emphatic "YES!"

How do you answer Junior when he comes to the breakfast table Monday morning and announces rebelliously, "I'm not going to school today." You know, Junior goes!

How do you answer when Junior comes in very much bemuddled and says, "I'm not going to take a bath." You know, Junior bathes!

Why all the timidity, then, in the realm of his spiritual guidance and growth? Are you going to let him decide whether or not he wishes to go? Does he decide to go to public school and get an education—or whether or not he wishes to take the bath?

What will be the answer when Junior announces he doesn't like Sunday school or church? That's an easy one. Just be consistent: "Junior, in our home we ALL attend Sunday school and church; that includes you."

Your firmness and example here will furnish a bridge over which youthful rebellion may travel into a rich and satisfying experience in seeking Christ as Savior while young and then growing into a fruitful and Spirit-filled Christian.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

One of the blessings of our system of government is the extent to which people have access to their leaders, and the extent to which leaders have access to the people.

This idea may be hard to accept for many of you who have not seen me since the campaign, or who did not even see me then.

Certainly in a state as large as ours, with a population of eight million people, many people will never come into contact with their governor.

Yet from my point of view, the number of people that I see on an average day is a continual source of amazement.

This came home to me again a few days ago in Flint, where I was appearing at one of the 16 regional meetings. I have held around the state to hear views on taxation and fiscal reform.

As I was leaving the meeting, I was surrounded by a group of 30 women from nearby Flushing who asked my help in solving a critical water shortage in their community.

This informal meeting served a double purpose. It allowed the women to air their immediate problem and it reminded me of a long-range problem—the specter of water shortages in the Water Wonderland.

Chance meetings with individuals or groups in the course of my travels around the state are only one way in which I can better inform myself on what people are thinking, and improve their understanding of what I am thinking.

Every day in the course of normal office business I see dozens sometimes hundreds, of people who have made appointments with me to discuss a wide range of problems.

Since I took office last January, I have devoted Thursday mornings to citizens' sessions, in which any citizen can have a five-minute talk with me about any subject that concerns him.

I have also been to every corner of the state on speaking engagements. Since January 1, I have given more than 200 speeches, and requests for appearances continue to pour in.

I am flattered and amazed at the number of these requests and sincerely wish that I could accept every invitation.

But when I took office, and even before that, I decided to be a working governor instead of a continually campaigning governor.

If I were to accept all of the invitations which come into the

Partial Eclipse Of Sun Visible Saturday, July 20

Ann Arbor — A partial eclipse of the sun will be seen Saturday, July 20, reminds University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

She also reminds that looking at a partial eclipse without adequate protection can be dangerous.

How much of the sun will be blacked out by the moon, passing directly between the earth and sun, will depend on the location of the observer.

"At the peak of the eclipse, approximately 83 percent of the sun will be blacked out for Detroit viewers with slight deviations from this amount for other parts of the state, a little more being hidden for the more northern regions."

In Detroit, the eclipse will begin at 3:30 p.m., reach the peak at 4:42 p.m. and end at 5:46 p.m.

"In order to see the sun totally eclipsed, one would have to travel to the narrow path, which curves from Japan across Alaska, Canada, and Maine," Professor Losh says.

The U-M astronomer warns that "looking at partial eclipse can be extremely hazardous. The total light decreases, but a particular area on the exposed part of the solar disk is just as bright as it is when the moon is far from the sun."

"Therefore, heavily smoked glass, dense film or negatives, or appropriate filters must be used for naked-eye observations. To look at the sun through an optical instrument even the finder on your camera can burn your eye and cause blindness."

An eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon is in new phase and passes between the earth and the sun. Although the moon at new phase usually passes above or below the sun, at least two solar eclipses occur every year, visible from some part of the earth, and there may be as many as five, Prof. Losh says.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Schrader and son, Kevin, will be leaving this week-end after a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schrader, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris. They will return to North Carolina where Mr. Schrader is stationed with the Medical Division at Camp Lejeune.

THE FUN OF ANGLING

Ask any angler and he'll tell you fishing is fun for a number of reasons. When he takes to his favorite stream, a fisherman never can be sure what he will catch or how many—or even if he will come back with anything.

Even when a fish bites, the angler can't be sure of the kind of fish, or the size, until he really catches the fish.

It's a bit different when the angler dons his boots, puts on his Sunday suit and goes shopping. As a consumer, he knows what he wants and generally isn't interested in substitutes.

The wise shopper knows there aren't any real angles when it comes to getting value and first-rate service. And, there's no need to "fish" around here and there.

Begin by selecting an established, reputable merchant. Visit your local retailer, a man who has built his business firm and his reputation on doing a continuing business with the same satisfied customers year after year.

David Knisely Off to England For Summer Graduate Study

David Knisely, 22, of 9883 Leach Lane, Dexter, will be one of the 30 students to board a plane at Detroit Metropolitan Airport this morning, Thursday, July 11, for a six-week study program in England.

The study program is sponsored jointly by Eastern Michigan University, where Knisely is enrolled as a graduate student, and the University of Birmingham, England. Dr. Hoover H. Jordan, who will become head of the department of English language and literature at EMU on Sept. 1, will serve as the official instructor from Eastern Michigan.

Following two days in London, with headquarters at the Strand

Palace Hotel, the group will settle in dormitories in Edgbaston at the southern edge of the city of Birmingham for four weeks. Three class sessions daily will be held. Five plays, presented at the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre in Stratford-on-Avon, will be attended by the group; trips from Birmingham to places of special literary interest have also been arranged.

Two weeks of free time following the study session will allow the students time to travel more extensively in England before they fly back to Detroit on Aug. 22.

This graduate class is a pioneering arrangement for Michigan students of English literature to study at an English university, and has been the result of collaboration between the English departments of the two universities and the Division of Field Services at Eastern Michigan University.

Knisely and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Holton Knisely, moved to the Dexter area just last month from their former home at North-Lake. He was graduated from Chelsea High school and attended classes at Albion College for a semester before transferring to Eastern Michigan University where he earned his bachelor's degree. He taught English classes for seventh and eighth grade students at Chelsea High last year, and will be returning from his European venture in time to be on hand for the opening of school at Chelsea in September. The students will be able to quiz him first-hand on his experiences in London and other places he visits during his six-week stay.

Cotton Bag Sewing Contest Open for Youth at State Fair

New competition in the Home Arts Department of the 1963 Michigan State Fair includes the teenage division of the Cotton Bag Sewing Contest.

Also for the first time the Michigan State Fair will participate in the National Wool Needlework Contest. Contestants may submit entries, either knitted or crocheted, in 10 different classifications including afghans, socks, sweaters and baby sets. State Fair winners become eligible for national competition for a top prize of $1,000.

The Richard Luers Memorial Award, given by Louise Hayward of the Michigan Weavers' Guild, is for the top entry of a hand-knitted wool garment.

Changes in the baking and cooking classifications include a new division for decorated candies such as marzipan decorated mints and popcorn balls.

Although the famous special yeast award-for-white-bread-rolls has been discontinued, such entries will still be accepted in the regular baking classifications. Homemakers already are making plans for taking part in the adult division of the Cotton Bag Sewing Contest where cash prizes are awarded in six categories—apron and potholder, pillowcases, child's play outfit, luncheon set, crib quilt and stuffed toy.

The new teen-age division, open for ages 13 to 19, is limited to entry of a dress, to be judged on the basis of workmanship, originality and appearance.

In addition to cash prizes in cotton bag sewing, the top winner in both adult and teen-age divisions will receive a sewing machine and be eligible to enter the national competition held at Memphis, Tenn.

For further information contact Betty Luers, Director of Home Arts, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 3. The 1963 State Fair dates are Aug. 23 through Sept. 2, and deadline for entries is July 31.

Northern Michigan's major attractions, including Mackinac Island, the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Wilderness State Park and the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, will be the background for five "Today" programs to be telecast on NBC-TV during the week of Aug. 5-9 (7-9 a.m.), according to the National Broadcasting Company.

Michigan's Governor George W. Romney and former Governor G. Mennen Williams will be guests on the programs, appearing Aug. 5 and 8 respectively.

From the fort can be seen the mainland and the five-mile long Mackinac Bridge as well as nearby islands and other landmarks.

The Tuesday, Aug. 6 program (to be taped Aug. 2) will come from the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, Michigan's most famous summer resort. On Thursday, Aug. 8 (to be taped Aug. 5), "Today" will visit Wilderness State Park, located on the northwestern tip of lower Michigan and fronting on Lake Michigan. Would you like cool, clean air coming from this hot air register all summer long?

It can, you know. All you do is add a Gas air conditioner to your hot air heating system... and you're all set. Cool, clean air will circulate throughout every room of your house... making your home a real retreat in summer. A Gas air conditioner not only cools the air, it dehumidifies it and removes dust and pollen, too. And—unlike electric air conditioners—Gas, of course, is economical to operate. A central electric unit costs almost twice as much to operate as a Gas air conditioner. And owners of Gas air conditioners get a reduced summer rate on their entire Gas bill. You really should investigate Gas air conditioning for your home. It makes a world of difference to live in an atmosphere that's refreshing. See the latest Gas air conditioners at heating contractor's or Gas Company showrooms. Easy terms.
