Early Harvest Indicating Big Wheat Crop

Yield, Quality Reported Much Above Normal

The drought didn't bother one of growers: the wheat raising crop is one crop that "didn't get dry weather," Bill Bliss, Bliss Elevator says, "it's a blessing. It looks like a good wheat crop this year."

The yield is running far above normal, 40 bushels per acre, Bliss said. "We've had a good crop in some 30 loads the week. Test weight has been in the No. 2 class—most per bushel."

Bliss said, before being in the rain. "While moving, it means a 24-hour delay-week for the elevator," the farmer doesn't exactly during that period either. It lasts for about 10 days, depending on the weather in this of the country. In Texas, it doesn't come in until member.

According to Bliss, in the belt—"out Kansas way," it's usually assumed the crop comes in—the "best" is quantity-wise. As for quality, Michigan growers far out the "20-25" bushel-per-acre in the wheat belt. And this out-way up from the 10-15 bushel yield they used to have they resorted to fertilizers," as added.

The United States schedule puts the county's average at just under 32 bushels, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in Ann Arbor, which is more than Bliss' estimate of 30 bushels.

Steeplejacks Repair Village Flag Pole

The municipal flagpole at the corner of Main and Middle St. is believed finally to be repaired so the flag may be raised and lowered.

Steeplejacks from the Midwest Steeplejack Service of Detroit have been here three times in recent months to make adjustments to keep the rope from slipping off the pulley.

Former Village Councilman William Chandler and Merla Barr repaired the pulley the first time the steeplejack removed it. After it was in use a short time, the rope slipped off the opposite side and became wedged in the pulley and the steeplejack was called a second time.

The flag remained aloft until the steeplejack came this long exposure to the weather damaged the flag and Mrs. M. J. Baxter has been given the task of mending it before it is used again.

Monday when the steeplejack went aloft he removed the top of the pole and took it to a garage where a U-shaped metal guard was welded over the pulley to prevent the rope from slipping off. It is believed this will remedy the situation and the flag will be flown again as soon as repairs on it are finished.

School Will Build Track

At a special meeting of the Chelsea School District Board of Education Tuesday evening, approval was voted for construction of track facilities at Chelsea High school and the contract for its construction was awarded the low bidder—the Ann Arbor Construction Co. The low bid was $9,800, with completion date set for Sept. 3.

Girl Guides Visting in Area

The last lap of a busy two-and-a-half month schedule for the visiting Girl Guides from India, Miss Rupa Trivedi, 17, Miss Sumita Bhargava, 18, and their chaplain, Miss Violet Caley, is to be spent at Chelsea with Mrs. Warren Eisenbeiser—"mostly resting."

At least the girls are "resting" between a tea that was given for them at North Lake by Mrs. Leon Shutes Friday, July 19 and the Open House that Mrs. Eisenbeiser plans for July 29 for the numerous host families who have entertained the girls since they arrived May 14 as guests of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

The trip from India was financed by a $10,000 donation from each of the 8,000 girls in the many troops that make up the Huron Valley Council. It was their way of celebrating Girl Scouting's 50th anniversary. Two of the troop leaders will drive the Indian visitors to New York via Niagara Falls July 31 from where they will take a plane back home by way of London.

For four days before they leave, the girls will visit the girl scout camp at Cedar Lake.

Mrs. Eisenbeiser, who is a Girl Scout troop leader says, "they are very tired but have had a good time—they've visited the scenic spots in every neighborhood where they've stayed," and they will take a tour of this area with the Eisenbeisers while they're here "resting." They speak excellent English," Mrs. Eisenbeiser said, "and even manage to understand my slang!"

Recreation Basketball Team Unbeaten in Jackson League

The fourth week of the Summer Recreation program showed a total of 1,013 area children attending in spite of the program being rained out Friday, July 19.

There were 408 who took advantage of the swimming, but only 25 attended the Friday night dance. At North School 80 enrolled during the week, at South School, 120, and at Junior High, 155. Baseball enthusiasts numbered 185 for morning games and 100 for evening contests with 40 participants in evening basketball.

Junior League baseball teams played Tuesday and Thursday. Team B defeated Team A, 9-2, on July 16 with Danny Allan having two doubles to lead the victors at the plate. On July 18 Team C won their first game of the season by defeating Team A by a close 8-7. Team C's Scott Foster scored the winning run in the top of the seventh.

Wolverines Still Leading Little League

The Little League's Wolverines played a 10-inning game against the Falcons on July 15 and came out winners, 7 to 4. Tom Wojcikowski and Ted O'Neill each had two singles.

In a night game on that date the Flintstones beat the Badgers a mere 4 to 3 with Carl Schwieger having a double and a home run. Doug Weatherwax had two singles and Ken Dove one single and a double.

On July 17, the Flintstones took on the Wolverines, defeating them by one point, 7-6. Mike Harvey had a double that drove in three runs to win the game. He also had a single, and Ron Erskin had a single and a double during the game.

The same day, the Badgers beat the Falcons, 2-1, with James McDonald coming through with a single when the bases were loaded to secure the win. Doug Weatherwax had two doubles, Jeff Reynolds a double and a triple, and Craig Houle two singles during the game.

Summer Theatre Closing Session Friday Evening

Homestead Acres Theatre Camp at 18450 Jerusalem Rd. will close its summer session Friday by presenting the play "The Tempest" at 7:15 p.m. Described as "Shakespeare in A Barn," the program will be preceded on Thursday night (tonight), by an invitational dress rehearsal.

Director of the summer theatre production—a presentation by the camp boys and girls 9-17 years old—is Janet O'Brien of Ann Arbor. She has as her assistant, Sherry Frisinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Frisinger of Homestead Acres farm.

Philip Rusten serves as technical director. Tomorrow's play concludes the second session of the summer workshop program. The first session was for a two-week period and the second was three weeks. During the Ann Arbor Street Fair last week the summer theatre group made daily appearances.

Re-Surfacing Completed on Old US-12

Adrian Jones, Chelsea District foreman for the Washtenaw County Chelsea Yards crew and equipment have completed application of a bituminous concrete surface on Old US-12 from the Main St. intersection east to I-94, a distance of slightly more than two miles. Also done during the past week was the road shoulder work on this stretch of highway and the final seal coat will be applied over the bituminous base within the next week, completing the project.

Jones said the Chelsea Yards crew will be doing blacktop repair and corrective work in coming weeks on parts of Wexner, Stoffer Rd., Waterloo Rd., Cavanaugh Lake Rd. and North Territorial Rd.

He said the long dry spell has caused some of the gravel roads in the district to become rather rough. Recent rains have made it possible to get some scraping done to correct the situation. Jones said all roads will be gone over as soon as possible when there is sufficient moisture.

Dexter-Pinekey Rd. is now the responsibility of the Chelsea District, Jones explained; however, extensive work on that will not be possible before next year, according to present indications.

Complaints Received on Sales Tactics

Village officials have been receiving complaints that salesmen of various kinds of so-called safety equipment for home use, as well as other items, are using high-pressure methods in attempting to force sales.

Salesmen who call at homes after first telephoning for appointments are not included among those who are required to purchase selling permits and thus cannot be controlled in this manner; however, it is pointed out that whether or not the salesman is in the home by appointment, if the householder feels he is being high-pressure or finds the salesman's tactics objectionable in any way, he should ask the person to leave at once. If he (or she) does not do so a call should be made immediately to the police department.

Unscrupulous magazine salesmen have also been reported again. Magazine salesmen do need permits to call house-to-house and they should be asked to show them. Even though they have secured permits, if their sales methods are objectionable in any way they should be reported to village officials or the police department.

Thefts reported as having occurred over the week-end in this area include one in Sylvan township and one in Lima township. The former occurred at the home of Mrs. Judy Cook on Musbach Rd., where items reported taken Saturday are a .22 caliber rifle and a camera. Entry was gained by breaking a window near the front door and reaching in to open the door.

The Lima township theft was reported from the Dale Hepburn farm on South Lima Center Rd. A number of carpenter tools and a quantity of nails were stolen.

Mrs. Martha Nelson of Chicago, Ill., was a week-end guest of Mrs. Emma Seltz at her home here.

Funds Being Used for Purchase Of Former Beach Rural School

A report from the finance committee of the Florence Howlett Memorial fund-raising campaign shows a balance of approximately $105 yet to be raised in order for the Nursery building to be paid in full. Anyone desiring to contribute may do so by sending a check to either Mrs. George Williams or Mrs. George Palmer.

Crowds Jam Local Stores For Bargains

Chelsea's first attempt at staging a "midnight madness" sale event was declared by participating merchants to be "a smashing success" Monday.

Several stores reported the heaviest traffic in their history; saleswomen at one store said "it was just like Christmas," and others said the crowds on hand for the event were in a happy holiday mood and clerks and customers alike had a lot of fun.

Bargain items were sold out almost as soon as stocks were put on sale at the hours designated between 8 and 11 p.m. A light rain failed to deter the crowds on hand in the downtown area throughout the evening. At one time people were lined up on the sidewalk waiting to get into some of the stores.

Altogether, the committee in charge of arrangements for the event felt well repaid for their efforts.

Sponsored by the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce, the arrangements for the "midnight madness" sale were made by the organization's retail committee which included Charles Lancaster, David Strieter, Robert Foster, John Merkel and Wes Howes.

Cub Scouts Plan Ice Cream Social Next Thursday

Cub Scout Pack 125 is having an ice cream social Thursday evening Aug. 1, at the Community Fair Building, starting at 6 p.m. and serving until 9 p.m. The committee has expressed the hope that many will plan to attend.

They are serving hot dogs, potato chips, and beverages so that a complete supper may be had along with the ice cream and cake. Proceeds from the social will be used to help carry on the work of the Pack for the coming year.

Parents of Cub Scouts who have not yet been contacted by the committee are asked to get in touch with their sons' den mothers by this week-end.

Race Relations Address Set For Church Women's Picnic

Mrs. Donald Tracy, co-chairman of the Christian Social Relations Department of United Church Women of Michigan, as guest speaker at a pot-luck picnic dinner tomorrow (Friday) at the home of Mrs. Ben Donaldson, will speak on the topic "Chelsea Church Women and Social Justice."

The picnic is sponsored by United Church Women of the Chelsea area, and all women of Chelsea are welcome to attend. A committee will furnish coffee and tea but those who attend are asked to bring their own table service in addition to the dish of food for the pot-luck meal. The Donaldson home is at 136 Cavanaugh Lake. The dinner is scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Tracy's talk will be a follow-up of the May Fellowship Day theme as it was presented at the United Church Women's meeting at Salem Grove Methodist church. It pertains to race relations which is a major concern of the UCUW Christian Social Relations department.

The total amount needed for the school is $2,600. To date $1,335 has been contributed by pupils and friends. The Nursery has available in its funds, the amount of $1,000, $800 from its emergency fund and $400 from its emergency fund would not need to be used for the initial purchase since several projects at the school are desirable but it was the feeling of the nursery parents that the building should be paid in full if at all possible.

During the finalization of the paper work involved in the transfer of the property it was discovered that the land upon which the school is located was not properly deeded to the several succeeding owners of the school. Legal opinion was that the matter could most easily be resolved by a quit claim deed to be signed by the children and heirs of the original property owners. One-half of the land was donated originally by Mr. and Mrs. John Lucht and one half was donated by the former owner of the land now owned by Joseph Taylor. In order to save the Nursery organization much time and expense, the several heirs were contacted and the deed is now in the process of being signed. The several people involved at this time are—Mrs. Henry Merkel, Sr., Mrs. Harry Stoffer, Mrs. John Stueckemann, Mrs. Della Strieter for one parcel of land, and Joseph Taylor for the other. The Nursery expressed appreciation to those people for their cooperation in this matter.

STOLEN AND WRECKED—Dave Aldrich, and Donald Knoll, right, take a look at the damage done to Knoll's convertible after it was wrecked on an embankment on Jackson Rd. early Friday morning, July 19. A teen-age trio stole the car, and pursued by Chelsea Patrolman Earl Willis at 4 a.m., they were reportedly driving in excess of 100 mph, during the chase before it was wrecked.

Detroit Teen-Agers Steal, Wreck Knoll's Convertible

Chelsea man's 1962 convertible, stolen earlier by them, was wrecked and crushed the median and crashed on an embankment while it was driven by a 19-year-old from Detroit early last Friday morning after he and two 16-year-old companions stole the car from Donald Knoll home.

The three youths had abandoned the car stolen earlier by them, and it was developed that they were pursued in the car by Chelsea Patrolman Earl Willis at speeds estimated to be over 100 mph. An hour before the car was wrecked, the teen-agers were driving on Jackson Rd. near the intersection of Jackson Rd. and Beyerly, the driver, Earl Willis, the driver, control of the car.

Officers sped to the scene to assist Officer Willis. They said the two teen-agers who were riding with Beyerly leaped from the wrecked car and fled on foot. Ann Arbor police captured the trio after an all-area search at about 5 a.m. Friday morning. The youths were treated for minor bruises at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Before the Knolls went to bed a few hours before the car was stolen, Mrs. Knoll asked her husband to "put the car in the garage." It was only six weeks old and she was "afraid I might dent it." She admitted she "sat down and cried" when she saw the "denting" it got at the hands of the thieves that night.

The had siphoned the gas out of the Knolls' older car in order to fill the convertible, apparently dissatisfied with the half tank full it contained. When Officer Willis came upon them on one of his frequent routine patrols, they were pushing the car down the street. Willis recognized it as Knoll's and gave chase. It was several hours later when Knoll, who operates a wrecker service, got a phone call from the Sheriff's Department to "come in and pick up a wrecked car." Knoll told him that because of the distance from Chelsea, perhaps he should call an Ann Arbor wrecker.

"But this is your car," the caller told him. "It can't be—mine's in the garage." "Well, this one has your identification in the glove compartment." It took a scrutiny of the garage to convince Knoll. His wife said, "To think I polished for two hours on that car just this morning. It looked beautiful. No wonder they wanted it!"

It was a lopsided score July 16 when the Yankees beat the Panthers, 11-3 in the Midget League. Mark Wright had four singles that night. Wayne Welton had three and Charles Cook, Tim and Kim Wilkerson each had two singles while Steve Knickerbocker hit two triples and Doug McDonald had one of each—plus a home run.

The Railroaders won over the Buccaneers, 20-18, that night, and on July 18, the Buccaneers lost again to the Panthers, this time, 21-19. The Railroaders had another win on July 18, 12-10, over the Yankees.

Lightning Is Still Dangerous But Simple Precautions Offer Protection

The National Safety Council recently warned that hardly anyone is concerned over the danger from lightning any longer.

The fact that four people are killed each week by lightning in the United States, and more than this in the summer (the average is about four per week for the entire year) and some 30 injured each week, shows we should take proper precautions and have greater respect for the power of lightning. One statistician recently figured out that during the April-October lightning season, the average person could expect from 40 to 80 lightning bolts to strike within one-half mile of his house. The same statistician claims that more than one-third of all fires in rural areas are caused by electrical discharges such as lightning.

In general, there is one simple rule to avoid the primary danger of being struck by lightning. Never let yourself become the high object in the area, or be caught on the highest object in the area, as a thunderstorm approaches.

The safest places to be, in a lightning storm, are in protected homes, steel-framed buildings, or in an automobile with the windows closed. If you are out in the open, get into a low place, such as a ravine, under a cliff, or maybe in a ditch or a cave. If you cannot do that, lie flat on the ground.

As a final note, remember that television antennas do not keep your home safe. Actually, these antennas are often an open invitation to lightning and many sets are struck each year by lightning.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR-MISTER-EDITOR:

Crab grass, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture is running a race to see which can get there fastest with the mostest.

I got some figgers here put out by someone called the Tax Foundation that puts a feller to thinking. It says that today we got half as many farms as they was in 1935, and half as many farmers. It explains that so much land has been put in the Soil Bank, so many small farms combined with big ones, and the use of power tools is the reason for this 50 per cent decrease. But the piece from the Tax Foundation says the number of workers in the Department of Agriculture has jumped since 1935 from 85,114 to 121,538, or 42 per cent while farms and farmers was decreasing.

This piece says in 1935 they was one employee in the Department of Agriculture for ever 80 farms in the nation. In 1952 we had one employee in the Department of Agriculture for ever 28 farms. The piece goes on to show that the ratio of employees in the number of farms was increasing faster every year and by 1952 they would be one employee in the Department of Agriculture for ever farm in the United States.

I won't be here, Mister Editor, in 1982, but I hope you'll recommend to your Congressman that each employee get assigned to his special farm, required to live on it and pay for his room and board. It could be that right now crab grass was a little ahead in this race, but them figgers from the Tax Foundation shows the Department of Agriculture is closing the gap fast.

Incidental, in my latest pamphlet from the Agriculture folks they was disturbing news. It says Americans is about to quit eating sweet potatoes. In 1937, it says, the per capita consumption of sweet potatoes was 23 pounds, and now it's down to about 7 pounds. It's mighty hard for the wimpy folks to get candied sweet potatoes covered with hot brown sugar syrup and a piece of yellow butter melting at the top from them froze food counters and I reckon that's why this item is getting extinct at the family table.

Speaking of the family table, I haven't ever saw if Senator Philip Hart has got his ruling yet from the Food and Drug Administration. I mean how many cherries was required in bakery pie to make it legal. You will recollect he was complaining in the Congress that the bakery folks was mighty skimp with the cherries they was putting in pies for sale to the American housewife. While he's investigating the figgers on cherries, Mister Editor, he might ask the Department of Agriculture about the percentage of jackasses running loose in Washington.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

SATURDAY'S BIG PROBLEM ALWAYS WITH US

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Why It's High
Motorists under 25 years of age have been paying premium rates for auto insurance for several years now although few appreciate the reason behind this penalty against them.

High rates, especially for male drivers, are almost a universal practice.

Lee T. Matthews, general manager of the Michigan Insurance Information Service, notes that insuring the accident-loss experience of young male drivers is one of the "most difficult situations challenging the insurance industry."

Most insurance companies have removed women under 25 from the higher rate, Matthews notes, although this group formerly paid it also.

The insurance industry spokesmen notes that young males account for only about 8 per cent of the driving population. The group has an accident-loss ratio three times that of all other drivers, however.

In Michigan, Matthews said, the uneven ratio of drivers-to-accidents results in some $22 million losses greater than would occur if the 25-under group had the same accident ratio experience as drivers in other age groups.

The problem to the industry arises because exceptions to the high premium rate are rarely made, even to the young driver who maintains a good record.

Industry support of driver education programs is one of several means being attempted to reduce or eliminate the high risk ratio in the group.

Exceptions which are made usually come after the first year of insured driving, if a good record is established. Married drivers and the incidental operator of family car often pay less than the high rate, Matthews notes.

Losses of the under 25 group usually come in two phases, the industry spokesman said. This is one of the reasons for hesitancy in making exceptions to the premium rate.

One group of losses usually results from inexperience in the earliest period of driving. The second comes when over-confidence and immature actions set in after mechanical driving skill has been acquired.

Wage Problems
Promises of further study to a minimum wage law will be carried out late this summer by a joint legislative committee.

The Governor's proposal for enactment of a minimum wage law was shelved in the waning days of the regular legislative session in favor of further study of exemptions.

Rep. Don Gordon, freshman house member from Leland, is chairing the committee. In addition to holding 12 hearings in various cities to get the public's view of minimum wages, Gordon's committee also has been studying the laws now in operation in other states.

The 1953 legislature considered minimum wage proposals ranging from $1 to $1.50. Most members finally agreed $1.15 would be a reasonable amount.

The big hitch in the measure came when sections to exempt certain businesses from the minimum wage were considered.

Some members felt resort operators should not have to pay the minimum wage. It might discourage development in the tourist industry, they said. Others sought to exempt such persons as car washers, golf caddies, shoe shine boys, newsboys, and all hotel and restaurant workers.

Gordon's committee has planned hearings in Lansing, Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Escanaba, Traverse City, Manistee, Cadillac, Grand Rapids, Grand Haven, Kalamazoo, and on Mackinac Island.

Presumably the committee will be ready to report to the session early next year with a measure aimed at satisfying the various interests which opposed a minimum wage bill this session.

Most of the committee members were full supporters of the proposal this year.

Rocket Rules
Youthful adventures in space exploration may be dangerous if necessary precautions are not taken, according to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett.

In addition to the well-known problems arising from young people's interests in home-made rockets, there are official regulations to be learned. These are set by the Federal Aviation Agency, Bartlett said.

The federal agency prohibits the firing of rockets within five miles of any airport boundary or controlled air space. It also is against regulations to fire a rocket into any clouds, or to altitudes where clouds cover more than half of the sky.

The FFA's regulations, set to protect people in the area as well as the would-be scientist, also prohibit firing a rocket at night or during the day if horizontal visibility is less than five miles, or within 1,500 feet of any person or property not associated with the firing.

Bartlett said the FAA rules do not apply to rockets made of paper, wood or breakable plastic weighing less than 10 ounces, but these also should be operated in a way that does not create a hazard to aircraft, persons or property.

Lightning Storms Are Most Frequent In Southern States

Michigan doesn't have a monopoly on thunderstorms. In fact, storms with thunder and lightning are most frequent from Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico eastward over the southern portion of the country.

Michigan State University climatologists report that thunderstorms are most numerous in Florida (usually 80-90 a year) and least numerous along the Pacific coast (2-5 a year).

Lightning kills about 230 persons each year in the United States and causes property losses exceeding $100 million. It strikes somewhere on the earth about 100 times every second.

The most damaging lightning strike of record hit the U. S. Naval Depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., January 10, 1926, causing property losses of $93 million.

Two-Thirds of Unemployed Are Those Without Diplomas

Ann Arbor — People without high school diplomas are in rough shape when it comes to the acid test of the labor market, Seymour L. Wolfbein, director of the Office of Manpower, Automation and Training, U.S. Department of Labor, said at the University of Michigan. "Two out of every three people unemployed don't have a high school diploma," he said. Wolfbein spoke at a guidance workshop session sponsored by the School of Education. "A high school diploma is becoming a requirement for an increasing number of occupations," Wolfbein noted. "In spite of the growing need for this level of education, the U. S. Department of Labor has estimated that about 7.5 million young persons will be entering the labor market during the 1960's without completing high school. "About 1.5 million young men and women without a high school education, who may be entering the labor market in 1964 and 1965, will be competing for jobs. Many of these young persons will not even have completed grade school. "One out of four dropouts was unemployed in 1962," Wolfbein said. "This is one of the highest unemployment rates for any group in the labor force. Unless these young persons are able to secure additional training, they will probably become the nucleus of the future hard core of unemployed workers." Wolfbein said many dropouts occur because the vocational courses are not up to date and sensitive to what industry needs. "In the vocational arena, we need more responsive communication. Anything you can do to endow the school with a communication system which tells what is happening in the work-a-day world is tremendously important. Many dropouts, after experience in the cold world of work, are coming back and asking for more education," he added. Noting the need for skilled manual workers in the country, Wolfbein said, "We need five million more of these people and we are not getting them. We need just as many manually talented as we need academically talented. We need to endow the vocational school with the status we want academic courses to have. "Don't underestimate the skilled blue collar worker. He gets relatively high wages and is in tremendous demand. If something doesn't go off at Cape Canaveral it is not so much the scientific formulas that went wrong. It's the translation of those formulas into working models."

Discussing automation, Wolfbein said America is caught in a dilemma. "We have to support and accelerate automation or we will lose our competitive position among the other countries. For our own domestic growth, too, we have to keep up to date and even push ahead. Most of the trade unions feel the same way because they know their jobs will be lost if we don't keep up to date. We must push automation on the one hand; at the same time, we have to try to bring it about that there is as little hurt as possible to the workers." Concluding, Wolfbein said current statistics show the average person will make six career changes during his working life. You can't prepare for an occupation and just go on in it. The changes occurring in our society are up-ending the occupational structure."

Wheat Harvest...

normal averages and much lower than the anticipated '63 yield. The 1959 yield according to Don Johnson, was roughly over 1/2 million bushels or a million and a half dollars in the county. The ASCS figures show that there should be about 35,148 acres of wheat in this year and $1.69 per bushel, if the yield is in the 55-60 bushel range that Blaess estimates, it means wheat will bring closer to $2,000,000 to Washtenaw county in '63. Even if the county's allotment of 29,291 acres holds true, wheat is obviously not "peanuts" here. Four hundred growers out of the 2,780 wheat farms in the county are signed up with the ASCS office under the stabilization program and have agreed to divert 2,258 acres from wheat. These participants will be paid at the government rate of $1.83. Last year's wheat price was $2.03 compared to $1.69 this year (for non-participants). "The government is not a factor in the price fluctuation," Blaess pointed out. "It's just a normal market fluctuation—there's a big crop... a lot depends on the weather, too." Many farmers store their wheat three to four months, on an average, to wait for higher prices. And Uncle Sam's inspectors make mighty sure that every ounce of it is in the elevator when those farmers are ready to sell.

DOLL FROM TURKEY

Ankara, Turkey — Maria Zulaica of Topeka, Kan. wrote Premier Ismet Noman of Turkey asking him to send her a Turkish doll and she would sell her bicycle to pay for it.

The Premier sent her a letter and directed an aid to send her a doll right away so Maria would not start selling her bicycle. The 79-year-old Premier was impressed with the little girl's letter and desire to add a Turkish doll to her collection.

Fishing Violators Continue Efforts On Area Lakes

Fishing the past week has been "outstandingly good" at various nearby lakes—bluegills have been plentiful in the deeper areas of Four Mile Lake, most fishermen getting their limit catches, according to Conservation Officer Donley Boyer.

Fishing violators continue to be apprehended by conservation officers.

One of these, John D. Wilson, 49, of Inkster, was found guilty of fishing without a license in a trial Saturday before Sylvan Township Justice of the Peace Chandler Rogers and was ordered to pay fine and costs of $13.

On Friday, Leon K. Schabie, 47, of Ann Arbor, pleaded guilty to taking undersized black bass on North Lake and was assessed fine and costs of $12.80. Schabie appeared before Dexter Township Justice of the Peace David Doig.

Conservation Officer Boyer also reported that a deer was killed at 7:10 a.m. when struck by a car in the Manchester-Clinton area. State troopers shot the badly wounded deer. The car that struck the animal, a dog, was not seriously damaged, Boyer said. This was the first traffic deer kill reported in some time.

PARKS PROGRAM MAKING PROGRESS

Recreationists will discover some big changes when they wheel into their favorite state parks this summer. Since last fall, some $1.3 million worth of new construction projects have been contracted under Michigan's parks permit-bonding program. Most of these are already underway and many more capital improvements are scheduled to start shortly as a result of a recent $2 million bond sale. At some parks, projects have been completed and will be open for business during the 1963 season. The bulk of constructed improvements, however, will not be ready for use until late 1963. This summer's busy schedule of work is going to produce some inconveniences for some campers. Nearly $850,000 has been spent to acquire key park lands under the permit-bonding program.

★ Pocket Rocket Seen Possible

THE COMMUTER of the future won't be restricted to a train schedule if rocket propulsion engine side autos. Stephen Springer of near Wendell F. Moore is right. Moore believes the businessman will put on hat and topcoat, pick up his furling umbrella, strap on a rocket belt and zoom home to the suburbs. The U. S. Army has adopted Moore's invention (1953) to transport infantry men across canyons and rivers, scale cliffs, take buildings and do rescue work. A rocket in the pocket is the coming thing, Moore says, and reminds scoffers that people laughed at the early airplane, too.

IT COSTS more than $25 billion a year to clothe the American people and takes more than seven billion pounds of textiles, chiefly cotton and wool... The complete status of oxygen, and the, vacuum or air piping systems can be monitored with a new alarm system developed by NCG, Chicago. Panels located throughout the building immediately indicate servicing requirements with audible and visual signals.

THE MARKERS at 640 and 1240 on your radio dial will be meaningless soon when the CONELRAD (Control of Electromagnetic Radiation) system of wartime communication among the civilian population is abandoned. It will be succeeded by the new Emergency Broadcast System which will open the entire AM broadcast band to broadcasters authorized to stay on the air during an attack. CONELRAD, in use 11½ years, was designed to prevent enemy planes and missiles from navigating by commercial radio beams, a possibility made obsolete by modern navigation methods. ABOUT 25 billion packs of cigarettes were sold in the U. S. in 1962.

Cucumbers, Anyone?

A small crop of 1,600,000 bushels in 1962 placed the state in the 8th spot in yields of this flavorful fruit, although in the past, Michigan has been 3rd. Worth of last year's crop to the growers was estimated at $8,616,000. Pickled, canned or fresh, they are delicious. Styles change in peaches. For more than a half century the state's production was mostly late varieties. Today the fashion has changed to earlier maturing sorts, some of which were propagated right at South Haven. Increased plantings indicate heavier yields before long.

8,237 Trucks Registered in County for '61

Washtenaw county plays a vital role in making truck transportation Michigan's fourth largest industry, according to data compiled and released by the Michigan Trucking Association.

Based on figures reported by the U. S. Department of Commerce, Michigan State Highway Department and by the Michigan Secretary of State, this county is "one of the vital cogs that does so much to keep our agricultural, industrial and commercial machinery running smoothly."

Three methods by which Washtenaw county participates in the over-all value of the trucking industry are reported in a new booklet published by the Michigan Trucking Association, entitled "Truck Transportation in Michigan."

One fact was that 8,237 trucks, valued at $9,078,550, were registered to owners in Washtenaw county in 1961, the latest complete compilation available. This compared to 384,827 truck registrations with a value of $427,485,550 throughout the state.

In the same year, 5,922 persons were gainfully employed in this county with the total earnings of $32,825,646, from various types of direct or indirect service to the trucking industry. This figure compared to 292,163 truck employees, earning $1,619,459,509 throughout Michigan. Statewide, trucking pays one out of every eight Michigan paycheck-earners an average of $7,302 per year. In addition to wages paid and trucks and other supplies and equipment purchased in this county, trucks also account for a substantial portion of taxes paid into Washtenaw county revenue coffers.

This money was derived from Michigan motor vehicle owners who paid $224.5 million in special state highway user taxes. Of this sum, Michigan's trucks paid $68.7 million or 30.6 percent, although they constitute only 11.5 percent of all vehicles registered. These figures do not include an additional $41.0 million in special federal taxes of various descriptions. Of the sum total of $5,627,727, which represents the truck portion of all monies returned or expended in Washtenaw county in 1961, $646,209 represented the truck portion of the county's share of user taxes and $2,981,518 the truck portion of state, federal and bond fund expenditures.

Michigan Black & White Show Slated

Spectators are reminded of the 15th annual Michigan Black & White Show on July 26 at McCurdy Park in Corunna. The show attracts cattle enthusiasts each year, from all over Michigan and other midwestern states.

At this event more than 300 purebred Holsteins will compete in the ring while onlookers enjoy themselves under a shade tree. There will be a lunch stand available at McCurdy Park. Outdoor tables will be provided for picnickers; and the Michigan Holstein-Friesian Association and the American Dairy Association of Michigan will provide cold, delicious milk.

Co-chairmen of the show this year are George Pardonnnet, a Corunna dairyman and Glenn Casey, owner of the Wolverine Purebred Livestock Sales Pavilion in Williamston. They say that because of its popularity last year, there will again be a cattle judging contest for juniors from 10 to 21 years of age.

There will also be an annual showmanship contest for 4-H and FFA members who have their own cattle at the show. They will show in the 10 through 13 and 14 to 21 year age groups. There is always strong competition for the awards.

The show starts at 9 a.m. Bulls and heifers are judged in the morning. The juniors start their judging at 10 a.m. The showmanship contest starts at 12:30 p.m. Aged cows will be judged at 1:00 p.m. and judging of the other various female classes will continue the rest of the afternoon.

Pardonnnet and Casey announce that this year's spectators will be provided with an official program so they can follow the show proceedings.

This is the 25th anniversary of the Shiawassee county Holstein-Friesian Association so that the show committee plans on recognizing the pioneer breeders by making the show day also an "Old Timers" day.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

Man on the Moon vs. Better Mouse Traps . . .

Scientific and technological research has become a significant activity in this country. According to the National Science Foundation, approximately $15 billion was spent for that purpose in the year ended June 30, 1962. Of this, about $10 billion was provided by the federal government and spent for purposes specified by the federal government.

In this age of high prestige for science and scientists, a layman feels on the defensive in criticizing money spent for research. Certainly, this column is not qualified to pronounce judgement on whether we are spending the right amount or spending it for the right purposes. But when two-thirds of the annual expenditure on research and development is spent through government channels the ordinary citizen has the right to raise a question. Are all possible precautions taken to assure that the projects sponsored by the government represent the best possible use of the money and talent they consume?

We can't simply adopt the attitude that research is a good thing and the more that is spent on it the better. Whatever part of our national income is taxed away to pay for research is not available for other purposes which might also contribute largely to the national growth, prosperity and safety. For example, money left in the hands of the taxpayers can be devoted to investment for expansion and modernization of productive facilities and this too should have a high priority among our national goals.

Even within the field of research, we cannot regard money appropriated for that purpose by the government as a net addition to the amount of research going on in the country. The chief bottleneck is competent scientific and engineering manpower. Persons equipped by training and innate ability to make constructive contributions to scientific and engineering knowledge are a rare breed. When their efforts are largely concentrated in areas of interest to the government they are not available for the broader purposes of improving technological efficiency and developing new civilian products.

There is at present active competition for research manpower between the government agencies and private industry. Inevitably business is handicapped in its efforts to provide better and cheaper products and to compete more effectively with foreign producers.

One can sympathize with the feeling of helplessness when they are asked to appropriate large sums for research in the areas of defense, space and atomic energy. Too often they must rely on the experts from the executive branch who are urging these expenditures on them.

What is suggested here is that Congress should also, as a counterbalance, consult with research people from private industry. These should be persons who, in addition to a high degree of technical competence, have an understanding of the economics of research. In other words, they should have skill and experience in judging the potential usefulness of research proposals and establishing priorities among them.

RAIN HALTS SUICIDE

Guatemala — An unemployed handyman, Lucas Camey waited for the rain to stop and the sun to shine before he jumped to his death from the 1500-foot high Belice Bridge outside the Guatemalan capital.

"This accident was to take place June 22, at 5 p.m. But it was raining so I postponed it until today. Goodbye, friends," a note left by Camey stated.

Michigan, among all the states, presents an unmatched combination of industrial empire, recreation paradise and diversified agriculture.

MICHIGAN'S NAMESAKE

Michigan is called the "Wolverine State," but no one is sure if its namesake ever lived here. Back in the early days when trapping flourished, Detroit traders bought wolverine furs taken from forests north of the state and that's probably how Michigan came by its nickname. The wolverine's absence in Michigan is a puzzle to wildlife biologists. He's as tough and smart as animals come. He can usually outfight wolves twice his size and has been known to travel long distances without rest (40 miles on one recorded sojourn). Cold weather doesn't seem to bother him. As for food, he prefers meat, but will eat anything he can get with his big, powerful paws. Early trappers were all too familiar with his cunningness (they called it cunningness). Many a time they found their traps raided of game and bait by wolverines.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

There is a widespread feeling that the annual Governor's Conference, which I am attending this week, is essentially a high-level garden party that allows the nation's chief executives to meet each other and introduce their wives.

While some socializing takes place in the natural course of events, most of my time is spent at working sessions which afford the governors a rare opportunity to analyze some of the problems which they have in common.

At this year's conference, the governors are devoting much of their attention to civil rights and the increasingly complex problem of federal-state relations.

The problem of defining the proper roles for the federal and state governments is far from new to the Governor's Conference. The governors have wrestled with it before, but it has come back to haunt them again.

In 1961, the Governor's Conference adopted a resolution which put the conference on record as "deploping the tendency of federal agencies to dictate the organization form and structure through which the states carry out federally supported programs."

In 1962, the governors adopted a second resolution which urged establishment of an appeals procedure so that unilateral decisions of federal officials could be reviewed by the judiciary.

Unfortunately, little resulted from either of these resolutions.

Arbitrary decisions by federal bureaucrats continue to be a problem for conscientious state officials trying to administer welfare programs as the people of their state want them to be administered.

An outstanding example of this arbitrary approach by certain federal officials occurred this year when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare rejected Michigan's Aid to the Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADC-U) program.

This program, adopted with bipartisan support by the Legislature, adhered precisely to the spirit and the letter of the federal law which established the aid.

The department's rejection of this plan has caused hardship for Michigan communities and their taxpayers, who had looked forward to shifting about $8 million of the local welfare load to the federal-state ADC-U program.

Although the needy families who would receive the aid continue to receive state-local general welfare assistance, the level of payments is slightly lower than the ADC-U scale.

I believe that a court test would uphold the constitutionality of the Michigan program and also find that the department of Health, Education and Welfare had acted without authority.

But the hidden barriers and procedural sandbanks of a long court case might sink Michigan's suit before it could be decided on its merits.

That is why I am asking the conference to work for amendments to every federal grant-in-aid program involving state and federal governments now on the books.

These amendments should give every state the right of immediate review in the federal courts, so that the arbitrary decisions of federal officials need not be law in themselves.

The Governor's Conference should back such amendments with all of the energy and resources at its disposal.

By doing this, the governors can show the nation that the steady drift of power to a central government should and can be stopped.

Third in national production, our annual crop of 12 million bushels brought over 21 million dollars in to our state last year. The Big Four in MICHIGAN, Jonathan McIntosh, Northern Spy and Delicious account for 75 percent of all apples produced and supplied to 22 other states. MICHIGAN is second largest user of controlled atmosphere storage facilities. So, October-fresh apples can be marketed in May.

FRENCH DANCE FEATURED AT IONIA FREE FAIR
The popular "Apache Dance" of French cafes will be featured at the Ionia Free Fair Aug. 5-10, according to fair manager, Allan Williams. "The dance will be done by the famous dancing trio that appeared with Frank Sinatra in the movie 'Can-Can'," Williams said. The male dressed as a Parisian-tough seemingly mistreating his two women partners in a brutal fashion. This is the characteristic of this Apache dance. At the height of the act, he even has knives at the two women and really treats them rough. The known as the Appletons, will appear nightly, Aug. 5-10 in Ionia fair's stage show, "The Best of Everything."

COMMENT on SPORTS

BASEBALL ★ ★ ★

By Pete Fritchie

Washington, D.C. — With respect to Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, he gambled heavily on Charlie Dressen to manage the Tigers, after firing Don Moss.

Dressen is not popular. He has been a success in recent managerial efforts, and most notably a stunning failure at Milwaukee. Campbell says he had known Dressen a long time, and they were personal friends. This was not quite enough. He also says Dressen is the man to perk up the faltering Tigers.

So far he hasn't perked them up—in fact—he has brought no change in a losing pattern. Maybe the results aren't there.

The Tigers were a great disappointment this year, as has been custom off and on for years. It would seem that John, the owner, would insist on a change in the script. The Tigers have so often played under their potential it is surprising the fans still come out to see them.

When it appeared that the draw this year might dip below a million for the first time in years, Scheffing got the axe. He was a popular manager. The Tigers have been accused of liking easy-going managers. They play great ball against the Yankees and tougher clubs and lose to the weaker clubs.

They have had great pitching in recent years, but this year are without Frank Lary. Jim Bunning is not consistent, gives up homers. Hank Aaron can't last the full nine, is off and on. And so it goes. But the potential is there. The Tiger front office thought a drastic change was needed, which was indisputable. Whether Dressen is the man is highly debatable. Seldom has the selection of a manager been greeted with such a chorus of surprised reactions from sports writers and baseball people, as was this selection.

Jim Campbell is squarely on the spot. Scheffing hoped to win a flag. Charlie talks about the first division. The Tigers play mean while as if satisfied with ninth place, where they may finish even with Dressen's genius, which few baseball people recognize as such.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell

★ Rats To Live While People Die?

When Grandmother went to grade-school 70 years ago, a popular article was a small, fine-toothed "mouse" comb. In the hands of the experienced, the comb could capture lice which at the time were fairly common on the heads of most Americans. One problem—the mouse-comb usually missed the tiny "nits"—or louse eggs, which later hatched out and other, itchy, crop. Ever wonder where the expression "nit-picking" came from? Now you know.

A first act of sanitation by American troops in World War II when they entered occupation areas was to "do-lice" local residents with a liberal dusting of DDT. Next they killed off the rat population. Usually they set up programs to feed the hungry people. War or peace, starvation and lack of sanitation go hand-in-hand.

Let's add a modern note. The first World Food Congress has just been held in Washington, D.C. More than 1,000 delegates came from 100 nations. Their targets were starvation and malnutrition.

Each minute they talked, seven persons died from hunger somewhere in the world. Each day, 10,000 persons died from hunger or malnutrition. In the two weeks of the Congress, 140,000 people died somewhere on the globe from either not enough food or from the wrong kind of food.

How can world-acres be made to produce more in the areas of hunger? Knowledge is one answer. "We have tremendous agricultural know-how in the United States, and we are going to have to use it for something besides feeding ourselves if we expect to maintain peace in the world," is the opinion of Walter Wightman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

How else to get more food? By use of agricultural chemicals. By more, (not less) use of rat, louse, tick and worm killers, during growth, in storage and in transport. In some areas pests take over half of the food produced. Rats live; but people die.

Such conditions are a warning to those who call for banning insecticides because they might be potential harmful to humans. So, they should be reminded, is starving to death.

RFK'S PLEA

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy has appealed to "the basic sense of justice in the hearts of all Americans" in urging Congress to approve President Kennedy's civil rights program.

The plea before a House Judiciary subcommittee by the President's brother kicked off the administration's battle to propel the civil rights bill through the long, tough congressional mill.

Student Styles Not Important Says Ex-College President

Ann Arbor — A man who serves nearly a quarter of a century as president of a major university is well qualified to comment on students and the process of educating them.

Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president emeritus of the University of Michigan (in office 1929-1951), describes three major types of students in his autobiographical book "Naturalist In Two Worlds," published by the U-M Press.

The noisy ones: "From the time they entered college they are determined to be heard. Posing as authorities on almost everything at home and abroad, they insist they should run the University. They are so vociferous that they sometimes annoy the public, the alumni and the legislature. They usually claim to be liberals and boast of disrespect for authority. Common status symbols are solid shoes, jeans, shorts, untidy hair, and occasionally many beards. These students should disturb no one. One can usually assume that their activities represent growing pains. My disappointment with them as I have seen them later as alumni is that very few become liberal leaders and many become distressingly ultra-conservative."

The playboys (and girls): "Much has been said and written about the young people who go to college only on the insistence of their parents or because it is 'the thing to do.' Complaints are often heard about the waste of money and time of instruction in trying to educate those whose ambition is to get nothing more than a 'gentleman's grade' or to get married. In my experience this group has always been a small one at Michigan. The critics fail to take into consideration the number of these students who find themselves after they have entered college and go on to success as alumni and citizens."

The dedicated ones: "The students who more than any others make life worth living for their teachers are those who come to college with their eyes firmly fixed on at least a general goal. They refuse to be discouraged by adversity or diverted from their course by the college's side-shows. Once called 'grinds' by the playboys and considered poor college citizens by the noisy ones, these men and women have in later years gained the more respectable title of 'eggheads.' Neither of these terms is appropriate."

Whatever their type, students tend to remember best those teachers who made them work, Dr. Ruthven declares.

"A few years before I retired I made a discovery about university teachers which surprised me. As every college man knows, students have ways of rating instructors. They are said to require more or less work, to mark low or high, to be strict or lax about class attendance, and in general to be easy-going or tough. In visiting with alumni I gradually dawned on me that with the passing of the years memories of the 'popular' professors tended to become dim—often even their names could not be recalled. On the other hand the hard taskmasters—even those who were said to be 'hated' by the students—were often remembered not in resentment but in sincere appreciation."

Though he was often "lonely"

Classes Slated for Expectant Parents

Record Set at Manchester Chicken Broil

A record number of persons turned out for Manchester's annual chicken broil last Thursday. Despite the turnout (estimated at between 6,400 and 6,500 persons) the supply of chickens did not run out which had been the case in the previous year when the supply fell about 175 short.

The committee this year prepared for the record crowd by ordering 500 "extra" halves. A crowd of about 6,500 was expected at this community's largest single yearly event.

However, in addition to the 500 extra halves ordered, local stores stocked more chickens in the event the supply should run short.

About 7,312 pounds of chicken were served.

The largest previous number of persons served at the chicken broil was 5,800 in 1962.

Proceeds will go to family shelter at Carr Park and for bleachers at the athletic field. Amount of money raised will not be known for several days.

TROOP 76

A total of 14 boys and one adult spent from Sunday, July 7, to Saturday, July 13, at Bunn Lake Boy Scout Camp.

Boys who attended are Robert Miller, Ricky Slane, Steve Slane, Sam Hoover, James Froehlich, Bill Boyler, Larry Poertner, John Bowling, Mike McClear, Ray Worden, Mike Tarasow, Jeff Spaulding, Wayne Stahl, and Paul Stahl. The one leader was Harold Baker.

Boys who achieved the most difficult mile swim were Robert Miller, John Bowling, Mike McClear, Wayne Stahl, and Paul Stahl who also got a Scout life award. Rating: Ricky Slane and Sam Hoover, both passed their entire second class requirements at camp; the other boys among them earned 28 merit badges.

While at camp the Scouts took an overnight canoe trip to Hell and stayed at the outpost camp site.

The troop tied for first place with Troop 82 from Ypsilanti in the water carnival in which a white canoe paddle properly inscribed was presented to the two troops. In the greased watermelon contest John Bowling took the watermelon in the swimmers class and Steve Slane in the beginners class.

The troop expressed appreciation to the committee chairman, Elmer Kiel, for bringing out two delicious watermelons.

The troop learned a lot from the safety demonstrations that preceded the shooting at the rifle and archery range.

The troop was fortunate in having all good weather and delicious food at the camp session.

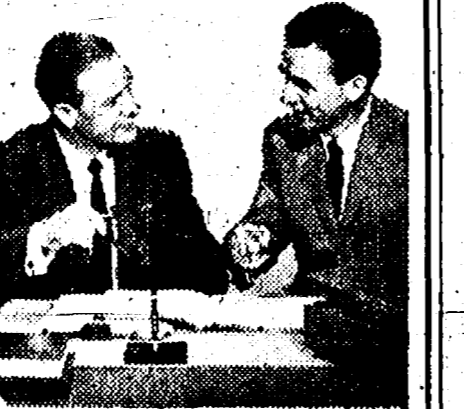

Larry Poertner, scribe.

At Greenfield Village

Henry Ford Birthplace Enshrined

As scores of communities across the nation pause this month to celebrate the July 30 birth centennial of Henry Ford, the simple midwestern farmhouse in which he was born will be seen by thousands of visitors to Greenfield Village at Dearborn, Mich.

At Greenfield Village, the famed American history shrine which he founded in the city of his birth, colorful pageantry and special displays will call attention to his contributions as an industrialist and as a pioneer in the preservation of historic Americana.

Among the historic buildings transplanted to Greenfield Village, visitors will see Ford's birthplace, the one-room brick school he attended as a boy, and the workshop in which he built his first car.

Hundreds of brightly polished Model Fords from a dozen states will chatter along today's crossways and turnpikes as they struggle to keep their temperatures down and their speeds up to reach Greenfield Village in time to star in a July 27-28 pageant, "The Creative Years of Henry Ford."

This colorful outdoor show will include a parade of early cars from the first Ford of 1896 through significant models of the late 30s.

An impressive display in a series of seven rooms traces Ford's life with exhibits ranging from his first home-made tools to the many honors and gifts awarded him during his years of success.

Both Greenfield Village and adjoining Henry Ford Museum are open seven days a week, the year around. Summer visiting hours are 9-6:30.

The University of Michigan was the first university in America to employ a full-time salaried alumni secretary, in 1897.

In this day and generation there is so much information that one finds it difficult to select what one believes.

ONE WAY

Success Street... Detroit, Michigan

One way. Up. That's the way sales of Chrysler Corporation cars have been going. Over 200,000 more cars and trucks sold this year than last. And, on June 21st, the millionth vehicle produced by Chrysler Corporation in North America rolled off the assembly line.

"Success Street" is actually a two-way street in Detroit. This year, Chrysler Corporation's expenditures in the Detroit area—wages, salaries, purchases—will be close to 900 million dollars.

And this year, sales of Chrysler Corporation cars by our Chrysler-Plymouth and Dodge dealers in Detroit are up 75% over last year... Dodge truck sales are up 58%! That's how you've shown you like our styling, performance and quality—backed by our great new 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty.

There's no stopping the 60,000 of us who work in the 38 Chrysler Corporation plants around Detroit, the automotive capital of the world. And our home town.

*Your authorized Chrysler Motors Corporation Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1968 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Chrysler Motors Corporation Certified Car Club schedules. Trucks are included, but are subject to additional limitations of 100 hours operation if mileage does not accurately reflect the extent of actual use and operation of parts covered by the warranty. Coverage will not apply to trucks subjected to prolonged power-take-off or off-highway use.
