Black & White Show Rated Big Success

Washtenaw County Holstein-Friesian Association officials rated the first Black and White Show held under the lights as the best ever held. Although entries in the show, 88 head, was not a new record, the audience attendance was the best in recent years.

An estimated 300 people watched as Wilbur Harris of Goffredson Farms of Grass Lake made the official placings.

The closing event of the show is the fat stock sale at 8 p.m. Friday.

The 4-H office personnel at Ann Arbor, when asked yesterday about the number of entries expected, said there were so many that there just hadn't been time to compile a list.

All clubs in the Chelsea area are busy preparing their exhibits and entries for the show where winners are selected to show at the State 4-H Show at East Lansing later in the month.

Some of the highlights of the 1963 fair will be a children's parade on Wednesday, Aug. 28, the first day; a pony pull Saturday evening; the big parade on Saturday afternoon; and the horse show which customarily follows.

WHEAT HARVEST—Scenes like this have been common at Chelsea Milling Co.'s new elevators on N. Main St. the past two weeks as area farmers brought in their wheat. This picture was taken Friday night after the peak of the harvest season had passed. However, the trucks were still coming, although the long waiting lines were no longer in evidence. This week-end should see the wheat harvest almost completed. Chelsea Milling Co. and Black's Elevator at Four Mile Lake both have been working on a 24-hour basis while the wheat harvest was at its height. The photo shows the truck owned by Jim Ford, of Munith, waiting while Kenneth Ford of Grass Lake is preparing to unload his wheat. Rains have held up the harvesting several times—Sunday's drenching causing some farmers further delay in getting their crop in.

Recent Scientific Discoveries Add to Belief of Life on Other Planets

Dr. Carl Sagan, assistant professor of astrology at Harvard University, has reported that recent discoveries in the field of science lead us to believe that life may indeed be possible on planets other than the earth.

He says in the last decade many discoveries have been made which hint at the "probable processes leading to the origin of life on earth." Many of the conditions which were present on the earth when life began may now be in existence on other planets or might have been in existence on other planets many years ago, Sagan believes.

It may be that very soon—that is in a period of a decade or two—we will be able to say whether there is life on any of the nearby planets. For many decades the possibility of life on Mars has fascinated scientists. Sagan believes the answers to such questions are rapidly approaching.

A great many philosophers and scientists are prepared to accept the discovery that there are, indeed, forms of life on planets other than the earth. This should not alarm anyone.

After all, why should we assume that in this great expanse of space which we are currently beginning to study, a space that includes billions of planets like the earth, many so far away that the light from them requires a million years to reach us, that we are the only chosen planet on which there is life?

It may be that one day we will look back upon the mid-1900's and recall how silly it was that man thought the only life in all of space and the universe was that on the one, small planet, earth.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: In case you forgot to mark it on your calendar, we got the Buckle Decision coming up this month. You will recall that back in 1901 the basis in the Buckle Decision was that the Buckle Decision was made in different colors.

The experts on such matters got together in a telephone booth and decided it would save the taxpayers a heap of money if all belt buckles were made to the same specifications. After a long conference, it was decided that all belt buckles would now be black.

In 1962 the experts decided the black buckles wasn't satisfactory, they were chipping around the edges. Natural, this caused a stir in the Pentagon and the Quartermaster Research Center was called in on the case. It was decided to conduct "exhaustive tests" in the matter and a committee was set up. Clem, Mass., was assigned to the belt buckle testing program. Last month it was announced that the belt buckle testing program had moved along real good, that all instruments were green, all systems go, and we could expect a decision sometime in July.

In the meantime, Senator Harry Byrd announces that all the time the testing has been going on, we been stockpiling the four old type buckles, added a fifth to the stockpiling procedure, and that boys at Natick was also testing two new ones. He now estimates that we got enough belt buckles stockpiled to hold up the pants of ever man, woman, and child in the nation for the next half-century. It will be interesting Mister Editor, to see what happens.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

LODGE AN AMBASSADOR
 President Kennedy has chosen Henry Cabot Lodge to be Ambassador to war-torn South Vietnam. It is believed America will stiffen its relations with the Government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

It may also be an effort to keep the troubled situation in Vietnam from becoming an election issue by naming a ranking Republican to the Saigon post.

IT'S A LONG SUMMER FOR THE YOUNGSTERS

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Extra Work

The prospect of a long fall session of the legislature is strongly indicated when one views the subject matter to be discussed.

First and foremost, the Governor's special call to the legislature sometime after Labor Day will ask for consideration of fiscal reform. This vast project has been an aim of the two Democratic predecessors of GOP Gov. George Romney.

There is still no real indication that Romney will get the full cooperation he needs from legislators in his own party for his fiscal reform program; still to be spelled out in detail.

Secondly, the legislature will have before it a number of bills designed to bring Michigan law into conformity with the new Constitution which will take effect next Jan. 1.

Much of the implementation of the new document will take place next year and in successive sessions, but some sections of the state's recently adopted basic law require immediate changes in the statutes.

A committee headed by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin, Tipton Republican, given bi-partisan credit as the legislature's tax expert, has been studying the Constitution this summer.

Voting Lack

Voters who either overlook or deliberately fail to cast ballots on machines for local issues and special questions may one day get biennial lessons in exercising their voting right.

The recent recount of the new Constitution and a survey of the vote on the document has prompted Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose department administers Michigan's elections, to ask for ways to eliminate this practice.

Hare said a study of voting habits on machines as compared with tallies in paper precincts showed many machine voters consistently fail to cast ballots for minor offices and special questions.

The reason for this sharp difference is not known, of course, but Hare and many others think lack of familiarity with the machines could be a major factor.

Normally when a person first votes on a machine, a precinct worker will demonstrate on a sample ballot. The succeeding elections, however, often find the voter not looking at the sample machine which shows the various offices to be filled and questions to be decided.

A refresher course in operating the voting machine at each election likely would increase the percentage of votes cast for the ballot questions other than major offices.

The Secretary of State said a study of the Constitution vote last April indicated one substantial fact: if most of the voters who failed to had cast their machine ballot on the document it could have been defeated or approved by such a margin that the costly recount would not have been sought.

The case pointed out by Hare is similar to the many stories heard before every election of how one man's vote has meant the difference in many tallies.

Council Drafting Ordinance at 1901 Meet To Control Saloons

The ordinance was drafted by the Standard's legal department and was presented to the council on April 18, 1961. The ordinance was adopted by the council on April 18, 1961, and was signed by the mayor on April 18, 1961.

The box in which the frozen pie came pictures a wedge with 34 visible cherries.

Bigness Not Necessary for Successful Farm Operation

You don't have to be big to be successful in farming today.

That's the philosophy behind the two Barry County families who will host the Michigan Farm-Management Tour Aug. 7. The two farms are the Robert Gaskill dairy farm near Bowling and the Coats livestock farm at Coats Grove.

The tour will start at 9:30 a.m. at the Gaskill farm and move to the Coats farm in the afternoon.

Visitors will find many new ideas dealing with efficient farm management at both of these farms.

Both farms are operated by managers who feel that doing a quality job with what is available is more important than just trying to obtain the same results by getting bigger.

Proof that a small-sized dairy farm can succeed with highly efficient management lies in the Gaskill's dairy herd. Their herd which averages 30-40 cows per year has had an average production ranging from 12,000 to 13,000 pounds of milk per cow during each of the past three years. Robert Gaskill bought his father, Lloyd's, interest in the farm last year.

Also contributing to the success of the dairy farm has been the low machinery and operating costs of the farm. They make extensive use of silage and forage, although grain has been fed more liberally during the last year. There are 177 tillable acres on the farm.

The afternoon stop on the tour is a farm which has been operated by the same family since 1876. The start of the present partnership was worked out by George Coats and his son Kendall back in 1932.

Max joined Kendall in the partnership with their father in 1936. They each held a one-third partnership with their father, George, until he retired from the farm in 1940. Max's son, Ronald, currently works on the farm and his daughter, Rhonda, who is 2, is the sixth generation of the Coats family to live on the farm.

Crop yields which are 50 percent above the average for farm account cooperators in the area are part of the reason for the success of this farm. The Coats produce the necessary feed to handle 250 head of choice steers and around 400 feeder pigs each year. A high degree of mechanization keeps hand labor to a minimum.

There are 315 tillable acres on the Coats farm with 230 planted to corn. The Coats depend on high yields of both grain and silage to feed out their hogs and steers.

Following lunch at Charlton Park, located midway between the two farms, Dr. Lowell S. Hardin will speak on "The Man in Management." Hardin is head of the

Dangling Objects in Car Windows Forbidden by Michigan State Law

The police photograph showed the crashed car almost sheared in half by its impact with the roadside pole.

One paw on the rear view mirror, a fluffy toy monkey, covered with blood, dangled grotesquely before the shattered windshield.

This scene could be duplicated in any Michigan village or city as hundreds of thousands of motorists disobey the law on dangling ornaments. One need only look at the flow of vehicles at any intersection, rural or urban. Car after car will pass with objects hanging from sun visors or rear view mirrors.

There are big cloth dice, raccoon tails, Kewpie dolls, fur covered kittens bobbing and jumping, impeding the vision of motorists, young and old.

On dashboards or on rear window shelves one finds awaying hula-skirted dancers, reclining tigers, or rolling hootenanny singers; all in one way or another obstructing the driver's clear view of the road ahead or the road behind.

James M. Hare, chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, points out that such dangling ornaments are both dangerous and illegal. At a recent safety conference he said, "As highway accidents and fatalities rise, enforcement officers are aware that minor elements in a driver's habit pattern, in his vehicle, or on the highway may be responsible for a deadly crash. Anyone who observes carefully knows that there are thousands of cars on Michigan highways which carry dangling ornaments which endanger driving by impairing vision."

Michigan motor vehicle laws clearly state that, "No person shall drive any motor vehicle with any sign, poster, or other non-transparent material upon the front windshield, side windows or rear windows of such vehicle which obstructs the driver's clear view of the highway or any intersecting highway, or with any dangling ornament or other suspended object except as authorized by law which in any way obstructs the vision of the driver of the vehicle."

"Safety experts," Hare said, "believe this to be a sound motor vehicle law. It was adopted several years ago after studies showed that windshields cluttered with stickers and decals and cars with dangling dolls and other ornaments were involved in an increasing number of accidents. This law should be enforced. Better still, nobody should even drive or ride in a car where dangling toys can cause an accident."

Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan and sons, Larry and Gregg, of Littleton, Colo., spent Friday here at the home of Mrs. Morgan's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rowe.

They have also toured Europe and Asia with this act. Gaby, Fofa, and Miliki will appear nightly, Aug. 5-10, along with Buster Keaton in the Ionia fair's $100,000 grandstand show, "The Best of Everything." Joining them will be Johnny Desmond, Aug. 5-7, and Molly Bee, Aug. 8-10.

College Athletics Grow Professional, Charges U-M Ex-President Ruthven

Ann Arbor — Intercollegiate athletics is the one activity most likely to give a university prestige, according to Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president emeritus of the University of Michigan.

Dr. Ruthven, Michigan's president during the 22 years of its greatest growth (1929-1951), tells why in his autobiographical book "Naturalist in Two Worlds," published by the University of Michigan Press.

"Intercollegiate athletic competitions inevitably become involved with educational standards, the hiring of athletes, and large capital investments for physical education," Dr. Ruthven explains. "They arouse the emotions of the alumni, often to no good purpose. They attract a large public following interested only in the games as spectacles or as a source of profit and distort the true image of institutions of higher learning."

Well known as a zoologist before turning to university administration, Dr. Ruthven recalls that even then college sports were fast becoming big business whose pressures caused schools to subsidize athletes and juggle entrance and scholastic requirements. He took up the subject in his first address as president in 1929.

"In the years following I continued to observe signs of creeping professionalism in the nation's schools," the author recalls. "In spite of protestations of purity, evidence accumulated that students refused admission to Michigan were admitted to sister institutions, sometimes with substantial stipends."

"I even had the record of a young athlete who was admitted to a sister institution before graduating from high school. This lad played on the college teams for four years and failed each year to meet the published academic requirements."

As competition increased, rivalry for promising athletes increased, Dr. Ruthven writes. Proclamation efforts were stepped up, there was more pressure for "athletic scholarships," stadia were enlarged, and commercial interests entered the "Bowl" business.

"When one surveys the whole scene, the situation becomes obvious," he continues. "In some schools academic requirements (as enforced, although often not as published) are absurdly low for athletes. More and larger athletic scholarships are available. Bowl games, all-star games, and charity games extend the football season practically through the first semester. Cases of bribery are uncovered."

"More and more emphasis is placed in intercollegiate sports on developing the talents of the few—the best players. In short, the schools have become to some extent inexpensive farm clubs for the professional leagues."

Dr. Ruthven, a one-time football player himself (Morningside College in Iowa) and a sportsman who continues to raise Morgan horses, says:

"I am sure that most people watching a professional game in any sport must feel today, as I do, that the participants are not playing the game for fun or for Detroit, Chicago, or Philadelphia, but like trained seals—for fish. Are the colleges encouraging in our students the same reaction to intercollegiate athletics? I hope not, but I am not sure."

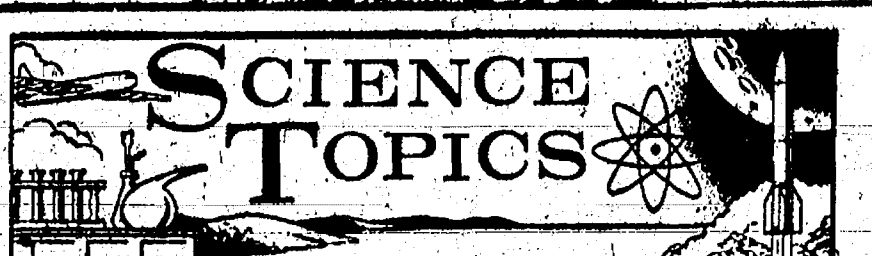

"I enjoy team play and appreciate its educational values. At any rate, professionalism in college athletics is now coming into the open, encouraged by commercial interests. It can be scotched, not by directors and coaches, but only the faculties."

★ Earth Underpopulated, Scientist Maintains

AMERICA could double its population and enjoy a still higher standard of living, says Director Karl Brandt of the Stanford Research Institute. Brandt, who maintains the globe is underpopulated, says that contrary to popular belief world food production has outpaced population gains in recent years. On a world-wide scale, he adds, there is overabundant space and opportunity to civilize and utilize the wilderness. Human resources, says Brandt, are "the only truly creative sources of wealth on this earth."

WANT to clean 32,000 fish an hour? Work at Texas A&M indicates this rate may be possible by dunking the fish in an enzyme bath that "digests" viscera, scales and eggs. Water rinses away the digested material. Object of the study is to permit use of fish not now considered edible.

TRADING STAMPS are being redeemed with good will by a Kentucky firm. Stamps received with purchases made by men traveling at company expense are accumulated by Tube Turns to be used by Children's Hospital, Louisville, to acquire toys, table lamps and other needed items.

WATERS of Rotorua, New Zealand, a famous spa, are noted for their curative powers, especially for rheumatic diseases. But, alas, only living tissue seems to benefit from immersion. Bath buildings erected over the years have been corroded by chemicals in the water to such an extent that constant repairs are necessary. The New Zealand Ministry of Works has approached about 60 firms throughout the world seeking materials that are proof against this corrosion. No luck yet.

UNDERGRADUATE and graduate degrees in science writing will be offered this fall by the Illinois Institute of Technology "to help solve the growing communications needs of business, industry and scientific research organizations."

A NEW bathyscape ("deep ship" in Greek) will soon be completed to replace the Trieste which has been searching for the ill-fated nuclear submarine Thresher. The first diving ship, invented by Prof. August Piccard, was launched 10 years ago in Italy.

Cereal Beetle Threatens Food Supply

Michigan farmers are shouting for help from city folks in their battle against the cereal leaf beetle. Along with Ohio and Indiana farmers who border Michigan, they are in an all-out war against what has been declared the most serious threat to American food supplies in history.

"Farmers need all the support and understanding they can get from urban people in this fight," reports the August issue of the Michigan Farm News, official publication of the state's largest farm organization, the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Cereal grains which the beetle consumes in great quantity, provide more than bread and breakfast foods. They are also animal feeds which convert into milk, cheese, ice cream, meat and eggs, the publication points out.

The big farm organization thinks the threat to the nation's food supply is so serious that it has scheduled the new beetle as the August topic for discussion in the 1,500 Community Farm Bureau groups that hold regular meetings in all parts of the state.

"Farmers cannot fight such wars as this alone; the menace is a public one," the groups are told. "Public funds are needed to support the total effort which includes identification and quarantine control measures, education and means of finally eradicating the pest."

"Consumers need to be reminded that they face higher prices, even hunger, if the beetle breaks loose to sweep America's granary lands. Losses to food resources will mount to $1,300,000 annually, research shows."

The Farm Bureau calls for public understanding and support to continued programs of agriculture research.

CLUB NEWS

BLUE RIBBON FLORISTS Blue Ribbon Florists 4-H club met Wednesday, July 24, at the home of Gail Kuhl.

Plans were discussed for the club exhibit at the County 4-H Show, also for the picnic July 30 at Wolf Lake to which parents were invited for a 1 p.m. luncheon. Members brought their own hot dogs and rolls.

Demonstrations were given by Judy Bollinger, Gail Kuhl, Judy Wiseman and Laurie Reddeman. Club members were advised by their leader, Mrs. Glen Wiseman, to attend yesterday's flower demonstrations from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. at the Washtenaw County Building, Ann Arbor.

ordered to pay $13 fine and costs after he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Also reported by Boyer was the fact that two young spotted fawns were struck and killed by cars, one at Dancer and Trinkle Rds. Monday night and one on Dexter Township Rd., Wednesday of last week. Both jumped directly in front of approaching cars.

WATCH OUT FOR WHITETAILS—Summer is a prime time for Michigan motorists to drive more defensively, because thousands of deer are attracted to roadsides by the season's greenery. With this in mind, drivers are urged by the Conservation Department to "go slow" in posted deer areas, and to expect the unexpected at all times. Motorists are reminded that whitetails don't think like people and naturally they don't know the rules of the road. These animals often seem to be fascinated by headlights at night—a curiosity which many times kills. If you approach deer which are nibbling grass along the highway, don't assume they won't dash into your path of traffic at the last moment. Don't "step on the gas" as soon as you've passed the first deer or two; it's a good bet there are more nearby. The danger of deer-car accidents is not limited to Michigan's north country. On the contrary, the ratio of accidents to whitetail numbers is much greater in the southern lower peninsula where vehicles claimed 1,643 deer last year, an all-time high for any part of the state.

State Police Are Now on 5-Day Week

The traditional State Police six-day 56-hour work week came to an end Sunday, July 14, as the department instituted a five-day 48-hour maximum work week with a normal working day of nine hours.

The 48-hour week is in accordance with a State Civil Service Commission directive in January which provided that there must be over-time pay or compensatory time for any hours worked in excess of the maximum.

Whereas State Police officers in the past were given one pass day off in seven, they now receive two consecutive days off.

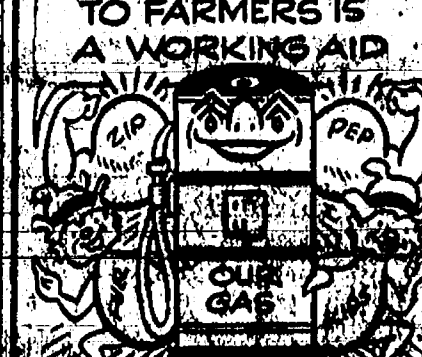

The five-day week, which puts the State Police virtually on a par in this respect with other private and governmental employer units, required considerable planning by Commissioner Joseph A. Childs and his administrative officers because of a severe shortage of personnel.

It necessitated a mass transfer of troopers, also effective July 14, from larger posts to smaller ones so that the latter could operate daily.

It also resulted in shifting control of the freeway patrols from headquarters to post level to give more flexibility in assigning officers.

International Payments Balance Is Dilemma...

The President has proposed to ease the enactment of a temporary tax on American purchases of foreign securities, as a measure for relieving the pressure on our international payments balance. This has the ear of a desperate proposal for what has become a desperate dilemma.

The President has maintained the past that he is opposed to governmental restrictions on the free flow of capital between nations. He argues that his present proposal is "fully consistent with free capital movement." This is hard to take seriously, since taxation often is, and in this case is clearly intended as, a form of economic regulation.

The dilemma which has given rise to this proposal is the conflict between our desire to maintain low long-term interest rates for domestic purposes and the need for higher interest rates to prevent an outflow of capital. A substantial rise in longer-term interest rates might put a crimp in home building and business investment. On the other hand, keeping such interest rates as low as they have been invites foreign borrowers to raise their funds in the U.S.

The dollars borrowed by foreigners will presumably be spent. Some, but not all, of these dollars will be spent in the U.S. since we do not in all cases offer the best bargains. The result is a further accumulation of dollars abroad which become potential claims against our gold stock—already dangerously depleted.

This dilemma is the result of our failure to establish an economic climate at home which encourages business expansion. If profit opportunities were good enough the demand for capital within this country would be so great that it would itself raise interest rates to a satisfactory level. But union action keeps labor cost high and income taxation impairs business incentives—as a result our capital is attracted overseas.

Our past sins have caught up with us and here we are. The balance of payments is in a serious deficit position, and the raising of long-term capital by foreigners in this country has recently become a significant element in the deficit. But whether the proposed tax is the best method, or even an effective method, for meeting the problem is at least questionable.

Of necessity, certain foreign nations, and certain forms of foreign lending, would be exempted from the tax. These exemptions may provide escape hatches which could partially frustrate the objective of the proposal. Curtailing foreign loans would have an indirect effect in reducing our exports but to an extent not precisely calculable.

The proposal appears to be in conflict with the Administration's efforts in other directions to establish closer economic ties among the nations of the free world.

Production Record Told For Elton Frey Holstein

Dibble Crescent, Black Gem, 460030, a four-year-old, owned by Elton Frey, Ann Arbor, produced 14,387 lbs. milk and 606 lbs. butterfat in 335 days.

Michigan State University supervised the weighing and testing of production as a part of the official breed-improvement programs of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

In announcing the new record, a spokesman for the national Holstein organization said that it compared to the average cow's annual output of 7,211 lbs. of milk containing 270 lbs. of butterfat.

Michigan's deer population is estimated at 600,000.

AGRICULTURE ACTION

by M. L. Weir

★ For Peat's Sake!

To see about peat. That's why the Michigan group is going to Russia to the "International Peat Congress" in Leningrad. Peat is big business in Commie-country. The Soviets currently account for 95 percent of the world's total peat output and last year shipped 525 tons to the United States for the sake of capitalistic profit on a product to which most Americans hardly give a second thought.

What do they expect to see? Among other things, some of the big, weird machines that Russians are fond of "inventing," sometimes it seems as much to impress foreign visitors as for any practical purpose they will fill. Past visitors have reported monstrous hay devices and "showcases" combines that looked as impressive as they appeared impractical.

Heading the American team is Joseph Hartman, president of the Peat Producers Association of the United States, and vice-president of the Michigan Peat Co., largest American producer. Others on the tour that ends with the nine-day Russian conference includes Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, representing the Anderson Peat Co. of Inlay City, Melvin Stummam of Capne and Dr. Robert Lucas of the soils department of Michigan State University.

Not long ago the Soviets sent a trade expert to the United States with a catalog of unusual peat removal and processing equipment which he hoped to sell to American buyers. One, a peat brick compressor, sounds good but photos of the finished bricks show them poorly compressed or falling apart. Again, the machine appears far too huge for the kind of job it is supposed to do.

Why peat bricks in the first place? Therein lies a story that more Americans should know: Peat is "big" in Russia because it is the poor man's fuel. Peasants burn it in their hut braziers where it is the poor man's companion. Peat, in Commie-country, fills much the same place in the farmer's (peasant's) economic scale as does cowdung in India.

How significant that the one area in which Russian agriculture has us beat, is peat! And how symbolic of the vast difference between the two economic systems!

Nancy Carter, Stanley Dyer, Jr., Exchange Vows at St. Paul's

Nancy Lee Carter and Stanley A. Dyer, Jr., exchanged wedding vows during a candlelight service at St. Paul's United Church of Christ at 7 o'clock Friday evening. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul M. Schnake in the presence of approximately 150 guests. The traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Carl Mayer.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Julius Blaess of N. Fletcher Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Dyer, Sr., of E. Summit St.

The bride's floor-length gown was of white silk organza with a slightly scooped neckline and long sleeves. Lace was used for a yolk at the bodice and front panels on the skirt. The lace was trimmed with iridescent sequins. Wide folds at the back of the skirt gave a bustle effect and extended to form a chapel train. Her shoulder length veil was held in place with a small crown trimmed with seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible with a flower arrangement which included a white orchid and Stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Patricia Carter, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her street-length dress was of mint green taffeta with white lace covering the entire bodice. Back interest was provided by a large bow at the waistline. Her headpiece was fashioned of matching taffeta to simulate flower petals and secured her tiny circular veil. A bouquet of white roses and white baby carnations completed her ensemble.

Carol Dancer and Linda Koengter, former classmates of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were gown like the maid of honor, their bouquets, however, being of all-white baby carnations. Judith Blaess, sister of the bride, and Vickie Sager, a niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. Carrying out the green and white color theme of the wedding, they wore white organza dresses with mint green sashes.

The bride's mother wore a lime colored silk sheath dress with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

The bridegroom's mother, in royal blue chiffon, chose black patent accessories. She also had a corsage of gardenias.

Tim Whitesall of Chelsea and Jim Millis of Webberville, served as ushers, while Jerry Abdon, also of Chelsea, assisted the bridegroom as best man.

At the reception which followed in the church hall, the bride's cousin, Linda Blaess, cut the wedding cake. Mary Ann Hanson poured punch; Sue Lofquist poured coffee; and Linda Jacob was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception at the church, a party was given by the bridegroom's parents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lake.

When the couple left for a week-end trip to the western part of the state, the bride was wearing a coral linen suit with white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. They are now residing at 233 Jefferson St.

The bride is a graduate of Chelsea High school and attended Michigan State University at East Lansing. She is employed at Chelsea Drug Store.

The bridegroom who is manager of the Sun Oil Co. service station at Fletcher Rd. and I-94, is also a graduate of Chelsea High school and attended Michigan State University.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Ann Arbor, Jackson and Lansing and from points in Ohio and New Jersey.

Pre-nuptial parties for the bride included two showers, one given by Mrs. Beverly Sager and Mrs. Ernest Norman and one by Carol Dancer.

Romine - Canine Vows Exchanged Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. Elvora Romine and Raymond Canine exchanged wedding vows at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon during a ceremony performed at the home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sanford of Ann Arbor. The Rev. Jesse D. Northweather, pastor of the Southern Baptist church of Ann Arbor, officiated in the presence of approximately 35 relatives and close friends.

The couple's attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson.

For her wedding, the bride wore a light blue silk street-length dress with matching colored hat and veil and had a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Johnson, in pink, also had a corsage of white carnations. The bride's mother, Mrs. Eliza, both Ridge of Ann Arbor, wore a blue lace dress and also had a corsage of white carnations.

Following a dinner at the Sanford home, an evening reception was held at the Chelsea Rod and Gun club's clubhouse.

The Mr. and Mrs. Canine are traveling in northern Michigan this week and when they return will make their home at 541 N. Main St.

Newlyweds Honored Saturday at Reception

Mr. and Mrs. James Stokes, who were married July 5, were honored at a reception given Saturday evening at the American Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leggett. Mrs. Stokes is the former Linda Leggett.

Guests were the immediate families and close friends of the couple, those present coming from Traverse City, Detroit, Dearborn, Jackson, Grand Rapids, Chicago, Gregory and this vicinity.

The bride wore for the reception a pink and white eyelet-embroidered dress and a corsage of pink roses.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out in the table decorations which included pink candles, white mums and pink Shasta daisies as the centerpiece. The hall, itself, was decorated in the same colors, featuring streamers and wedding bells.

Air Force Offering Special Inducement for Machinist Trainees

A limited number of chances for rapid advancement in the U.S. Air Force are open to mechanical area machinist trainees. Sergeant Dennis H. Howe, local recruiter, said today that youths who qualify can receive one stripe of airman third class upon enlistment and the second stripe of airman second class upon successful completion of basic military training. "This is a special test program," Sergeant Howe said, "being conducted only in the Central Great Lakes area to give qualified machinist trainees a chance to earn two stripes in as little as 18 months. 'Normal' length of time to make the two stripes," the sergeant said, "would be more than a year." The applicant must have a general knowledge of the principles, procedures and techniques of machine work. Knowledge in the field may be obtained through a course of instruction given by technical high schools, vocational or trade schools, technical institutes or through apprenticeship in industry. Information and tests to qualify in this limited quota program may be obtained at the Air Force Recruiting Office, 406 E. Liberty St., Ann Arbor.

My Vote To Close the Church

IF I AM NOT AT THE SERVICES OF MY CHURCH, I VOTE . . .

- To close its doors and stop its witness.
- To close the Bible on its pulpit, and stifle its testimony: a testimony given to us by the blood of martyrs who died that we might have the Bible to read.
- To have our minister stop preaching the Gospel of saving grace.
- To stop the children from singing the Gospel songs and choruses.
- To stop the joyous voices of the choir and the congregation, as they sing His praises.
- To call home every missionary of the church.
- To close every hospital, every school and every dispensary in foreign lands, places that my church helps to support.
- To close our Bible institutes, seminaries and colleges where our youth are trained to give forth the Gospel.
- To encourage the false religions, who zealously hold forth their pernicious soul-destroying teachings.

THEREFORE, I will be in the house of God every Sunday during the week, and do my best to support the work of the Lord, by my presence, my service, my prayers, and my offerings!

Drastic Action Needed To Curb Michigan's Continued Increase in Traffic Accidents

(One of a series of articles on Michigan's critical traffic accident problems by F. George Wells, editor of The Post-Huron Times-Herald and for 10 years chairman of the Traffic Safety Committee of Michigan Press Association.)

Michigan needs swift, courageous action on the part of its officials to halt the promiscuous blood-letting on our highways.

If the trend for this year continues, roughly one of every 10 Michigan drivers will have an accident—one in 20 will be injured—one in every 2,500 will die in traffic.

In my book this is an emergency situation calling for immediate and drastic action, namely a special session of the legislature. The safety experts have clearly in mind what should be done at this special session. What they propose is taken up in part in the series of articles to which this is an introduction.

The traffic problem has been getting more complicated since 1958 when fatalities hit their lowest post-war level—1,382. More cars, more drivers, more travel have aggravated the situation.

But accidents do not have to happen. They are caused—and almost always by a driver, or two drivers, ill-equipped to travel on high-speed freeways, uninformed about traffic regulations and the limitations of the vehicle, grossly negligent or momentarily careless behind the wheel, or any one of which deficiencies may cause a life to be snuffed out, a body to be racked unceasingly by pain.

Aug. 5 Will Mark 85th Anniversary Of Phone Service

Aug. 5 will mark the 85th anniversary of exchange telephone service in Michigan.

It was on Aug. 5, 1878 that the original switchboard was placed in operation in downtown Detroit. Connecting 53 telephones, the crude box-like switchboard with small manually-operated switches to provide interconnection of telephones. Boys who were messengers for the American District Telephone Co. also served as the first operators. Early reports say the boys freely passed customers who insisted on quick connections. In 1880, the boys were replaced by girls whose patience made them more adaptable to the work.

On Sept. 15, 1881, Michigan's first long distance line was placed in operation between Detroit and Port Huron. It passed through Mount Clemens, Richmond, and St. Clair. During the next three years, long distance lines were extended from Detroit to Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Coldwater, Hillsdale, Flint, Lansing, and Saginaw.

From those early beginnings, the telephone industry in Michigan has grown to where today there are more than 3,500,000 telephones throughout the state, 3,138,000 of which are in the territory served by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Michigan was in a similar accident situation in the early 1950's. Accidents spiraled up until 2,016 persons were killed in 1955.

Substantial measures were imperative to halt the holocaust and they were forthcoming!

A special session of the State Legislature was called then and out of this came a number of highly important measures that bent back the rising trend and made Michigan highways substantially safer for a number of years. These measures included 200 additional Michigan State troopers, a central driver license file to keep a historical record of the violations of all Michigan drivers, a high school driver education program, an absolute 65-mile per hour speed limit and establishment of the Michigan State University Highway Traffic Safety Center.

Michigan needs the same bold action today. The impetus from the 1955 traffic safety package has ground to a halt. Michigan today actually has fewer State Police troopers on highway patrol than in 1957. It is encouraging to note that Governor Romney and safety authorities recently discussed the request for more State troopers, better driver licensing procedures, compulsory vehicle inspection, strengthened high school driver education programs and reactivation of the Michigan State University Highway Safety Center.

There have been numerous discussions. Now we have to face facts head on.

Time, cold cash and lives are being wasted with every day of delay. Let's cut the preliminaries and get down to brass tacks.

PROWLER FOOLED

Kansas City, Mo. — Mrs. Marilyn Schudy's quick thinking led to the arrest of a prowler she caught rummaging through her home.

Mrs. Schudy told police she came home and found Lee D. Rimmer in her home, so she went to his car parked nearby and removed the keys and called police. They arrived and arrested the prowler.

IMPROVEMENTS INSTEAD OF CLEAN-UP

CONSTRUCTION INSTEAD OF REPAIRING

BUILDING INSTEAD OF FIRE-FIGHTING

OUTDOOR ETHICS MAKE BIG DIFFERENCE—Michigan's outdoor seekers are again being urged by the Conservation Department to "pitch in" on the upkeep and protection of recreation facilities they'll soon be enjoying. No, the Department isn't suggesting that they load up with rakes and shovels for their vacation trips. It is simply asking recreationists to bring along good outdoor ethics on their summer sojourns—to treat public lands, campsites, and other facilities as they would their own. And, indeed, all of these things do belong to Michigan residents who will be using them. By keeping areas free of litter, tourists will save time and money on clean-up work that can be used to make new improvements. As damage to picnic tables and other such items goes down, the Department is able to add facilities rather than merely repairing or replacing them. Taking a few moments to make sure your cigarette or campfire is out will mean fire fighters can spend more time building roads to provide recreationists and loggers with access to wild lands.

LABOR RIGHTS
Senator Goldwater plans to offer an amendment to President Kennedy's civil rights legislation that would deny National Labor Relations Board and other benefits to unions which practice discrimination.

Goldwater, as a possible Republican opponent of Kennedy in 1964, said he will support most of the proposals made in a bill offered by Senate Republican Leader Dirksen (Ill.) and Senate Democratic Leader Mansfield (Montana).

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The 1968 National Governors' Conference is now history. Of course, this was the first Governors' Conference for me, and my reactions in general are favorable.

First of all, the conference gave me the opportunity to meet the other Governors of this country, and to visit with them about mutual problems and methods used by others to meet these problems. An exchange of ideas and viewpoints is always helpful.

One of the major accomplishments of the Conference, it seems to me was adoption of a Conference position favoring automatic judicial review of federal administrative decisions. The conference had expressed concern in this area in earlier sessions, but this year it adopted our suggestion that a committee of Governors actively seek changes in law to permit this.

Many Governors have had experiences similar to Michigan's with our ADC-U law, where federal administrators take it upon themselves to tell a state what it can or cannot do. The problem, such as we face now, is how to get the legal parts of the question settled, because we cannot start a court suit against the federal government unless the government permits it.

With the law change we proposed, Michigan or any other state could take such a controversy into court immediately and get it settled.

We also received unanimous backing of the nation's Governors for Michigan's bid to be the site for the 1968 Olympic Games. Gov. Brown of California, who originally had opposed Michigan's bid, joined me in sponsoring the resolution backing the Detroit designation for 1968. We rounded up signatures of 47 Governors on our resolution, and those we didn't get either weren't there or we couldn't locate them at the right time. This unanimous expression will be meaningful backing for Michigan when the International Olympic Committee makes its decision in Nairobi in October.

Another important happening at the Conference was the entire discussion on civil rights. Although the Conference did not take an official position on civil rights, it did authorize its Executive Committee to be active in this area in the coming year and assured that civil rights will receive top priority at the 1969 Conference.

The discussion also afforded me the chance to point out Michigan's advanced public attitude on human rights and equality. I told the Conference about our new Civil Rights Commission, approved by the people in our new Constitution. Our record and our programs put Michigan in a position far superior to that enjoyed by any other state.

Or perhaps the greatest long-range significance, however, was the clear expression of concern by the Governors about the encroachment of the federal government in matters that are clearly state and local government functions or individual responsibilities.

The present Administration in Washington sought to get the Conference to endorse flatly its welfare and health programs now before Congress. Working along with Gov. Hatfield of Oregon and others, we managed to sidetrack this endorsement. The vote (25-16) clearly indicated to me that Governors of both parties share my concern about the erosion of state and local responsibility in dealing with citizen problems.

Certainly there are some Governors who believe that the states are in the position of going hat in hand down to Washington, standing around outside some bureaucrat's door, and waiting to see how much help and advice and money we can get from the federal government.

But I personally believe we must be concerned instead with what the states can do to strengthen themselves and to help their own citizens.

And I think the states can do much more than just run down to Washington to offer advice or pick up grants-in-aid on the basis determined by all-powerful federal administrators.

And I think the action of the Conference indicates that a majority of Governors feel the same way.

All in all, my first Governors' Conference was an enlightening and a rewarding experience.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP

The acclaim given President Kennedy in Europe was welcomed by congressional leaders, but Republicans cautioned against weighing the lasting success of the trip until all the results are in — particularly from France.

Senator Humphrey (Minn.) assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, saw the President's statements of United States policy "direct answers to the most damaging arguments" of President de Gaulle of France.

Research Shows 25% of All Families Owe Medical Bills

Ann Arbor — Forty percent of all U. S. spending units reported in 1962 that they had large medical expenses the previous year according to the University of Michigan Survey-Research Center (SRC).

Almost half of the people (spending units) who incurred large medical expenses reported having no medical insurance at all, or insurance which did not cover any of the expense. Yet almost seven in 10 were insured.

National statistics compiled in the Center's "1962 Survey of Consumer Finances" indicate that about one-fourth of all spending units (families and individuals) owed money to a doctor, dentist or hospital in early 1962.

Debt to financial institutions or other lenders for medical expenses is not included.

The average amount of medical outstanding in 1962 was $175, an increase of approximately $80 over 1957, according to the report.

The incidence of large medical expenses is somewhat higher among spending units whose head is 65 years or more. This has added significance since the exposure of this group is lower than for any other group, as measured by the average number of persons per spending unit, said Charles Lininger, director of the survey. The very young and those in the 55-64 year age group reported somewhat lower incidence of medical expenses than other age levels.

The frequency expenses for hospitals was greater among younger people; and expenses for drugs were more prevalent among senior citizens.

More than half of young families with children under six, however, reported large medical expenses. Of these, four out of five reported hospitalization, reflecting the high frequency of children born to this group and the almost universal use of medical care and hospitalization for childbirth in this country, it was pointed out.

Sixteen percent of all spending units reported large medical expenses during 1961 not covered by insurance ranging from $200-499, and six percent reported expenses ranging from $500-999. About three percent had medical expenses not covered by insurance of more than $1,000.

Nearly one-third (30 percent) of those reporting large medical expenses had no medical insurance, and an additional 16 percent had insurance which did not cover any of their expenses. More than half of those 65 years and older who had large medical expenses reported having no insurance for medical or hospital expenses.

Translated in terms of U. S. population, about 1,800,000 spending units had personal medical expenses of $1,000 or more during 1961 which were not covered by insurance.

Most of the people with large medical expenses paid in part out of current income. One in 10 "borrowed money" and one in four "took money from savings." Public assistance was reported by about three percent of the spending units with large medical expenses.

At least one-third of the units which had $500 or more of uninsured medical expenses in 1961 still owed $200 or more to doctors, dentists, or hospitals when figures were gathered in 1962.

Older people were more apt to use savings to pay medical bills since they often have fixed incomes and have had more time to accumulate savings resources. Naturally, the better able to pay medical bills out of current income.

Men and women, who learn to laugh at themselves, even pray, are on the road to self-improvement.
