Bulldog Cagers Keep Pace with Saline Victory

Roosevelt High Will Play Here Friday Evening

Chelsea's basketball coach, Terry Fiela, commenting on the Chelsea-Saline game won by Chelsea at Friday, 73-55, said Chelsea took a 22-12 first-period lead and "coasted in" from there. He said Bart Farley scored 10 of his 21 points in that period and Jim Hanson, six.

Substitutions were made before the first quarter was over by both coaches—Pokela for Chelsea and Don Jaeger for Saline. All of Chelsea's players saw at least two quarters of action before the game was over.

Eight Chelsea players scored—Farley with 21 points; Jim Campbell and Jim Hanson, 14 each; Carl Walker, 7; Dick Lauhon, 5; Jeff Flintoft and Mike Tarasow, 4 each; and Jock Crawford, two.

Highest points made by Saline players were eight each for Jim Griffin and Bruce Neithammer.

Other Saline scorers included Harold Kuder, Ron Tucker, Al Hartman, Gary Kind, Lawrny Steiner, Ron Callison, Jim Feldkamp and John Harvey. They scored from a high of seven to a low of two points for the final total of 55 for the Saline team.

Saline's lack of height and inability to score consistently made it a relatively easy night for the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs did have their problems however, as Saline used a full-court press throughout the game and Chelsea lost the ball 13 times on bad passes, etc. Chelsea players had worked against a press earlier, in practice, and seemingly were able to penetrate it with ease; having the game it was a different story.

Bowl for Polio Tournament Nets $273

The "Bowl for Polio" project, concluded Sunday night at both the Chelsea Lanes and Sylvan Lanes, netted the Chelsea March of Dimes campaign a total of $273. That amount was donated by bowlers in the tournaments the past two weeks.

First-place winners in the men's and women's divisions at Sylvan Lanes are Ren Hutzel whose final standing was 600, and Patricia DeHaven, whose score was 573.

At Chelsea Lanes, four men and four women qualified.

Women and their final standings are Mary Lou Westcott, 662; Peg Poertner, 642; Mildred Brietenwischer, 637; Betty Smith, 637.

Men's final standings for the four highest scorers are Ted Roberts, 709; R. V. Worden, 685; Russ Maurer, 663; and Don Woods, 663.

The ten winners listed in the Chelsea "Bowl For Polio" event are now eligible to compete in the county finals on Feb. 8 and 9 at Huron Lanes in Ann Arbor.

R. V. Worden and Edwin Green-Leaf, co-chairmen of the bowling events for the Chelsea March of Dimes, thanked the bowlers who participated in the tournament and said "We hope that the $273 contributed by bowlers will make possible another step forward, however small, in the campaign against crippling diseases."

Mrs. Gladys Babcock of Akron, O., accompanied by friends, spent the week-end here at the home of her father, George Hafley.

Registration Reminders Being Mailed

Township and village clerks are busy checking over their registration rolls and, in accordance with voting regulations, are mailing out cards to electors who have not voted at elections the past two years; these voters' registrations will be automatically suspended if they do not return the cards, properly filled out, within 30 days, and they will not be permitted to cast their ballots at the next regular election, or at any future election, until they re-register.

In the case of township, county and national elections they must re-register with their respective township clerks; for village elections they must re-register with their village clerk.

Duane Luick of Lima township last week mailed out cards to approximately one-quarter of the people registered in the township. A total of 150 people in the township will be ineligible to vote at the next election unless they reinstate their registration by returning the card at once or reregistering with the township clerk before the final registration date prior to the election.

Richard Kern, clerk of Sylvan township, expects to have cards ready for mailing to approximately 500 people in the township who will automatically become ineligible to vote if the cards are not returned to him within the required 30 days.

The Lyndon township clerk, Mrs. Emma Goodwin, will need to send out approximately 50 cards to that many voters who will be dropped from the roll unless they make the necessary effort to reinstate their registration status. Lyndon township's total registration is approximately 360.

Robert Wheeler, clerk of Dexter township, lists approximately 215 township residents to whom it was necessary to send the cards notifying them of imminent suspension of their registration unless they respond by signing and returning the card.

The Dexter township residents have only until tomorrow (Jan. 31) to return the cards since Wheeler mailed them out Dec. 31. By Tuesday of this week only 60

Additional Knitting Class Organized

Mrs. Ronald Lentz, instructor for the beginners knitting class sponsored here by the Chelsea Recreation Commission under its adult education program, has agreed to teach two classes instead of the original group of 15.

The knitting course proved so popular with area women that Alan Conklin, Recreation Commission director, set up a second class with both classes scheduled for Thursday evenings.

The first sessions for both classes are being held this evening from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. and the other from 8 p.m until 10 p.m.

Both classes are to be held in the high school home economics room. It is a 10-week course.

The sketching class, with Jack Curl as instructor, began last night (Wednesday) in the high school art room. Twelve persons had registered for the class.

Another class which gets underway this week is the auto mechanics course. The first work session is being held tonight (Thursday) from 7:30 until 9:30 pm. in the industrial arts building at the high school. Matt Villemure is the instructor.

Guitar lessons are in full swing each Wednesday evening from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. in the high school library, and the men's physical education program is held each Thursday from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Saturday morning and afternoon basketball is held each Saturday for younger boys.

The Chelsea Recreation Commission will hold a meeting Monday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p.m., in the Municipal Building for advance discussion of the summer swimming program and an evaluation of all recreation activities of area churches.

All area ministers are being invited to attend Monday's meeting.

Junior Varsity Adds Victory at Saline's Expense

Last Friday night the Little Bulldogs gained their seventh victory in nine games with a 61-56 win over Saline.

The loosely-played contest found the Chelsea team out in front, 22 to 14, at the end of the first period and ahead at halftime, 33-20. A tight defense held Saline to only 7 points in the third quarter while Chelsea tallied 14, putting the home team ahead by a 46-36 margin.

The Little Bulldogs again showed balance in team scoring with Gary Houle taking game honors with 20. Oren Wireman scored 12, Tom Steele added 11, and Dave Clark had 10. Austin led Saline with 13.

The next game is at home, Friday night with Roosevelt. Starting time is 6:30 p.m.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Weir were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dill of Jackson.

Youth Week Service Set By Young People

Jaycees Seek Outstanding Young Man

Chelsea Jaycees annual Bosses' Night, Banquet will be held Tuesday, Feb. 4, at St. Barnabas Episcopal church.

Bosses' Night derives its name from the fact that each Jaycee takes, as a guest of the chapter, his employer, with the intention that the respective "Boss" will get a more functional understanding of the Jaycee organization, and of its demands on the individual members.

The highlight of the evening is the announcement and presentation of the community's Outstanding Young Man of the Year. This distinguished award is made annually to a young man in the area, under 35 years of age, who has:

(1) Made a significant contribution to the welfare of the community during the preceeding year.

(2) Has shown evidence of leadership ability in his respective organizational affiliations—church, social, civic, or professional.

(3) Has given evidence of progress in his business life.

The man must be nominated by his employer, or another in a position to know his capabilities and achievements, and the winner is picked from among the nominees by a panel of impartial judges.

Perfect Attendance Records Announced At St. Paul's Church

Announcement was made this week of perfect attendance records for the past year at St. Paul's Sunday school.

Mrs. Herbert Paul heads the list with a total of 20 years of perfect attendance. The 20 years do not run consecutively; however, 13 years of that time have been consecutive.

Others recognized for perfect attendance records are Judy Schneider, credited with 10 years; Janet and Diane Schneider, nine years each; Daryl Passow, six years; Donald Passow and Mrs. Willis Heydlauff; five years each; Miss Dorothea Pielemeier and Joan Dietle, four years each; and David Heydlauff, two years.

Area Churches Uniting To Give Special Program

In observance of Youth Week young people of area churches will unite in presenting an ecumenical service Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Methodist Home Chapel. Young people and adults are invited to attend.

The program will include a service of worship and song and a half-hour moving picture designed to help church youth and all youth groups be more successful not only as groups but as leaders and inspirers to others in Christian living and in understanding the adults and the world around them.

The movie, "Deeper Root," was commercially made but used young people from an Ann Arbor church and some of the scenes were taken at a nearby Mill Lake camp. In color, it is designed for national interdenominational use.

The seven churches represented by the young people who planned the special service at meetings held at the Chelsea High school library once or twice each week since the holiday vacation are Salem Grove Methodist, North Lake Methodist, St. Barnabas Episcopal, First Congregational (UCC), Roger's Corners Zion Lutheran, First Methodist and St. Paul's United Church of Christ.

All young people are invited to attend; adults and all freinds of youth will be welcomed. Signs will be posted at the Home directing those who attend to the chapel.

Sponsor of the original idea for the youth service is the Chelsea Ministers Fellowship.

An offering is to be taken at Sunday's service and is designated for united youth work in Chelsea.

Wrestling Team Hosting Clinton in First Home Meet

Chelsea High's wrestling team plays host to Clinton High school at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 30 in the Chelsea High gym. The public is invited to attend the meet.

Chelsea's team has a 1 and 2 record, losing by only four points to Clinton in their first meet of the year.

Skating Ponds Provided With Sheltered Benches

Village Councilman Larry Chapman, assigned to handle matters pertaining to the skating ponds provided by the village, announced this week that sheltered benches have been constructed and put in place at the three ponds—one shelter each at the Pierce Park pond, the South school pond and at the Veterans' Memorial Park pond.

At the Veterans' Memorial Park area, there has been some controversy between bigger youngsters who like to play hockey and the smaller children who wish to slide and skate on the ice. The skating area there is distinctly divided into what is known as the smaller pond at the south end and the larger pond at the north end nearest the park.

It has been the established rule since the pond was prepared for skating, that the larger area was reserved exclusively for skating and for the use of younger children while the so-called smaller pond was the area where skaters could play hockey if they wished to do so.

It has come to the attention of village authorities that some of the older groups of youngsters were ignoring the rule and were playing hockey on the larger pond making it unsafe for younger children and for those who wished to enjoy skating there. Complaints were also registered by area residents, that snowballs had been thrown at the smaller children to drive them off the larger pond.

Councilman Chapman said area residents also objected to bonfires built at random around the skating area.

In an effort to correct the situation, the Village Council has provided oil barrel containers where bonfires may be built. The barrels must be left where they are placed and bonfires may be built only in that location and in the containers.

A sign listing the regulations was put in place last week at the skating pond at Veterans Memorial Park.

PORCH LIGHT PARADE—Scenes like this were repeated many times Tuesday evening all over the Chelsea area as the annual Mothers March of the March of Dimes campaign was held from seven until eight o'clock. First reports listed a total of $627.15 collected; however, Mrs. Leo Bishop, Mothers March chairman, said some additional contributions are expected to be added to the amount; she has received several calls from people, not at home at the time of the Mothers March, who said they were sending in their donations. Mrs. Bishop said she was "very much pleased" with the co-operation she had received and was particularly appreciative of the efforts of all the women who took part in the march. She said she also is gratified with the amount contributed by Chelsea residents in this major fund-raising project of the March of Dimes campaign. In the photo are Mrs. Richard Collins, (left) and Mrs. Stanley Weir (right), marchers in their Dewey street neighborhood, as they called at the home of their neighbor, Mrs. Blanche Barkley, 144 Dewey St.

Medical Profession Reports New Success in Transplants

The medical profession is making great strides in transplanting vital organs of the body, according to frequent reports lately of such events being successfully performed.

The latest success reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association is the first known transplant of a human lung by a University of Mississippi medical team.

Although the patient died 18 days later of kidney failure, the lung transplant was considered a success, according to the Journal. An autopsy, it said, revealed no signs that the body was rejecting the foreign tissue. The normal rejection mechanism had been suppressed by drugs, the report stated.

The lung was taken from a man who died of a heart attack at the University Hospital. The man who received the lung was a 58-year-old life-term convict. In prison he had repeated bouts with pneumonia.

Doctors had determined that the patient would have a very short life if not treated. The patient said he preferred the risky surgery to radiation treatments, which could only promise a slightly extended life.

A day after the three-hour operation, the lung was shown to be working, doing a share of the patient's respiration. The chronic kidney diseases, however, had lowered kidney function so much the man gradually lost strength and died.

The Journal said that organ transplants, such as this, are being advanced rapidly through better ways of joining blood vessels, cooling techniques and methods to reduce the oxygen lost from tissue during the operation.

It is now "technically" possible to transplant virtually all organs, the Journal said, and the outlook for suppressing the body's attempt to reject the new tissue are "encouraging," the report states.

Too Few Books

More than half Michigan's population had no library service at all in 1962 and one million more had inadequate service. Records of the State Library Board also show that more counties had no service than received service.

In a time when knowledge is increasingly important, this is considered a sad situation, indeed. Consequently, a plan is proposed to the legislature which would make the valuable benefits of books available to more people.

At present the state directly supports only $1.5 million of the $13.2 million needed to operate libraries at their existing level. The difference comes from local sources, penal fines and federal funds.

The plan proposed would double state support over the next three years. The cost would average about 37 cents per person per year, or about $2.9 million if all areas of the state organized library systems which qualified for the program.

This would call for specific grants for individual libraries and book systems which served areas of high population.

Intent of the detailed plan proposed by the MLA and State Board is to encourage improvement of the quality of library service and expansion of this service to areas not now reached by libraries.

Last year's attempt to get a state aid formula for libraries through the legislature didn't get far. There was little apparent interest voiced by the public, and other legislative proposals which drew more attention gained precedence.

This year advocates hope more individuals will provide local support for libraries and will write or call their Senators and Representatives about the library bill.

The State Board argues that library needs are left out in the cold so far as financial assistance is concerned. Statistics seem to support this contention.

The Board notes that about $2.5 billion is allocated annually for public services in Michigan such as sewers, water, police protection, health, education and welfare benefits at all levels of government. The Board believes its province should get more than $13.2 million of this public service expenditure, and that the public sorely needs services of libraries.

Limit Outstate Students

A decision to set a flexible quota system on out-of-state students from certain areas at Michigan State University should make many members of the state legislature happy.

A recent announcement by MSU President John A. Hannah was basically what some legislators have been attempting for several years.

Hannah said studies indicated four Eastern states were not doing their share in providing public higher education for their college age youth. The states he listed were New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

The new policy at MSU is to list enrollments from applicants from these four states. Hannah said an overload of Eastern region students would not benefit the University population.

Legislators have objected to the number of out-of-state students, particularly from New York, for several years. There have even been threats of decreased appropriations if some method were not found to cut down out-of-state enrollments, which legislators believe increased Michigan costs.

Basically, the legislators used the same argument Hannah has cited. They said New York and several other states did not provide sufficient public education, and the influx here of Eastern students was due to the cheapest tuition rates here as compared to private Eastern institutions.

While legislators likely will be pleased with Hannah's decision, it is also possible it could result in heavy pressure for all other Michigan colleges and universities to set similar quotas.

The alternative to this pressure for a quota system could be the imposing threat of the wrath of the legislative pursestring holders.

Gold in the Backyard

Each individual would undoubtedly deny it, especially at the end of the month when bills roll in, but Federal statistics show Michigan is a wealthy state in terms of individual income.

Michigan is one of 13 states in the nation in which average income reported in the 1960 census averaged $5,000 or more annually. The national average was $5,700.

A good part of the hike in average income as compared with a state level of less than $4,000 some 10 years ago was due to the fact that the number of working women increased sharply during the period. Today, census figures show 28 percent of Michigan's married women are working.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was discussing preachers and religion. Fer the most part, they know about as much on them subjects as a hog knows about Sunday.

We had a feller out here a few year back named Pat Barnwell that claimed he was a authority on these matters. He was always telling everbody how to git to Heaven. He was so ignorant he spelled Jesus with a little "g" but he was a expert on how to git to Paradise and afore long they give him the nickname of "Paradise Pat." But ignorance ain't never been no drawback to conversation when the fellers convene at the country store.

Saturday night, fer instant, Ed Doolittle give the opinion that preaching was a harder job in the old days than it was now. He said when he was a boy they walked 2 mile and back from his house to the church twict on Sunday and onct fer prayer meeting ever Wednesday night and the preacher had to be good. He recollected onct when the preacher told 'em if they heard any member of his congregation snoring to come up in the pulpit and wake up the preacher.

Zeke Grubb allowed as how he'd have to vote fer the preachers of today. At his church, fer instant, Zeke reported a feller could back slide and git back as good as new. In the old days, claimed Zeke, when a feller backslid he either had to change churches or wait till they got a new preacher. Furthermore, Zeke claimed his church had the biggest parking lot in the state and they was working on a plan to give trade stamps fer perfect attendance.

Personal, Mister Editor, I think the preacher of today has got the hardest job on account of we got more ways to sin and more confusion than in the old days. Fer instant, we got a family down the road a piece where the wife is a Methodist and a Democrat and her old man is a Baptist and a Republican. Any preacher that can keep religion on a even keel in that household is a Solomon come to judgement.

I didn't take sides Saturday night on account of I learned a long time ago they ain't but one thing worse than being on the wrong side of a arguement and that is gitting caught in the middle of one. When it comes to arguing about churches and preachers, I'm like the feller that said he belonged to the Round Church —he didn't let none of them git him cornered.

How the so ever, I will have to say they ain't no finer calling in life than being a rural preacher. I recollect reading onct this statement made by William Jennings Bryan: "Doubtless God Almighty could make something better than a country preacher, but doubtless he never did."

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

MORALE CODE IN KOREA

The United States commander in Korea has decreed a stern moral code for the 50,000 American troops stationed in that bleak land.

"I wish to make it perfectly clear . . . that I will not tolerate improper conduct or lowered moral standards," General Hamilton H. Howze said in a letter circulating throughout his command.

The standards also apply to Defense Department civilians working in Korea.

LIKES BUSES

New York—Freddie Dicks liked to ride on buses. While his mother was buying him a ball in a store, he wandered out on the street and entered the back door of a bus.

The driver didn't see him and he rode 4 miles to the terminal before the driver found him fast asleep.

Freddie was taken to a police station, while his mother was explaining his disappearance to police at another station.

They finally got together—Freddie was only 2½ years old.

Needlework Guild Chapter Will Be Disbanded Here

Announcement was made this week that the executive board of the Chelsea Branch of the Needlework Guild of America has decided to disband the Chelsea organization. The decision was reached after considerable discussion; the group met three times in the past month.

A letter was written to national headquarters of the Guild, stating the decision of the Chelsea group and Miss Mildred Michener of Philadelphia, Pa., the national Guild's executive director, in her reply, said, "Please extend the sincere appreciation and gratitude of the national officers and board of directors to the members of the Needlework Guild in Chelsea for their Guild service in their area."

She also stated that "if the needs of the local welfare work should change in the future and there is again a need of Guild garments we hope that your members will again decide to work through our organization."

Miss Michener commented further that she considered the Chelsea Branch one of the national Guild's best small town groups.

When the Chelsea Branch was organized 11 years ago there was a Social Service Committee composed of a group of members of the Woman's Club of Chelsea. To help this committee secure garments for distribution to needy families the Chelsea Branch of the Needlework Guild was organized.

Later, this committee was succeeded by Chelsea Social Service, Inc., under the direction of Mrs. Louis Ramp, as a community project.

The Guild continued to supply clothing but recently the needs have changed; more money for shoes, boots and outer clothing were needed.

The national Guild rules governing branches are not flexible enough to adjust to these changing needs, national requirements being that a certain number of garments per director, plus money for shoes, national dues and emergency funds on a national basis be accumulated. Since this plan no longer fits the needs of the Chelsea area, the executive board acted to disband.

Final reports of the Chelsea Branch ingathering last fall show that a total of 500 garments and $100 in cash was contributed to Chelsea Social Service.

A balance in the Chelsea Branch treasury, specifically donated for the purchase of shoes, boots and outer clothing, will also be turned over to Chelsea Social Service; it was announced.

To help provide future needs, it was suggested by Mrs. Ramp that former directors and Needlework Guild members may donate directly to Chelsea Social Service.

Many directors of Chelsea groups have stated their willingness to re-activate the Needlework Guild if a need for it is indicated at some future date.

BEAUTY QUEENS AND DOGS

Barnham, England—The judges of the annual beauty queen contest will now judge dogs instead of girls.

The chairman of the organization explained that there were many beautiful girls but in the past three years only seven had entered the contest.

The contest will be held as scheduled but dogs of both sexes will be judged and they will receive the same sort of cup the queens received.

The man who flashes large bills at every opportunity is obviously not accustomed to much money.

MSU President Hannah Urges Continued Growth To Serve State

Michigan State University has reached a position of eminence but it cannot afford to stop and rest, President John A. Hannah told an MSU faculty convocation Friday, Jan. 24.

In his annual State of the University address, Dr. Hannah noted that some persons have said MSU should now coast and consolidate its gains.

"Some," he said, "honestly advocate that we stop growing physically, that we limit our enrollments and that we concentrate our future efforts on our present programs.

"I am sure that they do not intend it, but they are actually advocating that we cease to carry forward the responsibility for which this university was created, and concentrate tomorrow's efforts on meeting yesterday's problems."

He likened MSU to man who has attained success and is tempted to slow his pace "least some bold action should ejopardize his hard-won gains and status."

"In the case of universities," he maintained " . . . there really is no honorable choice but to forge ahead."

The MSU president said MSU could take pride in its growing contributions to science and the economic development of Michigan and the nation.

"But" he cautioned, "our very success in this area should make us all the more careful not to forget that our continuing primary responsibility is to provide a high-quality well-balanced program of undergraduate education for the young people who come to us from Michigan and elsewhere.

"This is not to minimize the great importance of graduate education and of research.

"It is to remind us that the people of Michigan who support this institution with their dollars look to it primarily as the place where their sons and daughters will be educated to be productive, responsible citizens."

Dr. Hannah quoted John Gardner, president of the Carnegie Corp., as saying that universities should look at themselves with a "cold eye" and that the "diseases" of which universities die are "complacency, myopia, an unwillingness to choose, and an unwillingness to lend themselves to any worthy purpose."

Dr. Hannah said that MSU has extensively and is relatively free from those "diseases."

He noted, however, that too much self-study tends to emphasize only weakness and that the faculty can be proud of many MSU strengths.

He listed as university assets:

—"A student body comparing favorably with that of any state university in American by any measure.

—"A faculty of strength, of depth, and of versatility, a faculty doing exciting and important things in many areas, a faculty capable of doing far more, and possessed of a will to do far more."

—Excellent facilities including new buildings completed or under construction in chemistry, biochemistry, veterinary medicine, engineering, international programs and psychology.

—Experience of working as full partners with other universities in many cooperative projects. This includes a cooperative program in international studies supported by a $3.5 million Ford Foundation grant.

—Acceptance of constant ferment as "the hallmark of a live, vital, progressive university."

Dr. Hannah stressed the work ahead of Michigan State.

Better ways and means he said, must be found to attract the best teacher-scholars, to provide more assistance to faculty and to find dollars to support university activities, not only from the legislature, but from foundations and federal agencies.

MSU, he added, needs to find a better way of allocating faculty time to non-teaching assignments to improve its system of academic advising of students, to emphasize its research without de-emphasizing its undergraduate programs, and to reduce the time devoted to the mechanics of starting a school term.

He said MSU should make an all-out effort now to identify the best young scholars with a view to adding them to the faculty later.

He criticized the practice of one university raiding another to secure top professors and said that colleges should seek young men for their faculties and encouraging them to grow, as Michigan State has done.

As a result of this practice, Dr. Hannah noted, out of 542 full professors, only 120 started at MSU with that rank. He added that 126 started as associate professors, 162 as assistant professors, 129 as instructors and 5 in some non-academic capacity.

He reminded the faculty that high schools this year will graduate 20 percent more students than a year ago and this is only the beginning of the great crop of postwar babies on whom Michigan taxpayers have spent some $1.7 million for classrooms in local school districts.

In reviewing accomplishments of the past year, Dr. Hannah observed that:

—MSU was selected by the Atomic Energy Commission to do large-scale plant research.

—The university is well on its way toward a two-year medical school which will accept its first students by the fall of 1965.

—A revolutionary new program in veterinary education will start soon and will permit better utilization of time and staff and produce more veterinarians.

—Splendid progress has been made in the construction of the science complex and that a Control Data 3600 computer has been put into operation.

Other accomplishments he added, include a new curriculum in the classics, establishment of a humanities research center, increasing interest in foreign languages, and formal creation of an Art Gallery.

PLEASED WITH ONE SON

Adrian, Mich. — He was a happy father when the nurse told him just one son was born to his wife, Mrs. Louis Krutz.

Previously they had welcomed one set of triplets and three sets of twins. They had expected triplets this time.

KENNETH BAUSHKE, manager of Michigan Artificial Breeders Co-op will speak at the Chelsea ABA annual meeting Jan. 30 at 8 p.m. at Lima Center Community Hall. Election of this year's two new directors will take place that night also, and a movie will be presented by Field Man Jack Sailer.

It isn't to be expected that everybody will think you are perfect; just be satisfied if you are able to fool one or two human beings.

Expressway Night Patrol Is Resumed

Fifty Michian State Police troopers assigned to 25 posts are now operating special nine-hour night expressway patrols covering approximately 1,000 miles of the state's interstate freeways and other limited access highways, according to Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

The night patrols, operating from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. are under East Lansing headquarters supervision similar to the around-the-clock coverage initiated by the department in July, 1962, and discontinued last July as a result of a cutback in the State Police work week to 48 hours following a Civil Service Commission ruling on hours and overtime. Resumption of the patrols was made possible with the recent graduation of 39 troopers.

Childs pointed out that other State Police patrols as part of routine activity are, as in the past, also out on these highways during the other hours of the day but not as special expressway patrols.

Already supplementing the expressway patrols are State Police plane flights which radio to the nearest post any motorist observed in trouble.

"Bull horns" or public address system speakers are on the underwings of the two planes so that a pilot observing a car pulled up at the side of the road but not showing a distress signal can ask the driver to raise the hood of his car if in need of help. In other instances when it is already observed that assistance is needed the driver will be informed that it is on the way.

Other requests for help for drivers in distress are relayed to State Police posts by state employees traveling the freeways and expressways, as suggested by Governor George Romney, in addition to calls made by other motorists who have noted drivers in trouble.

The nighttime patrols cover I-94 from Detroit to New Buffalo and from Metropolitan park in Macomb county to Marysville; I-96 from Detroit to Muskegon; US-23 from the Ohio line to I-75 at Flint; US-131 from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo; US-10 from Bay City to Clare; I-75 from the Ohio line to the Straits and US-27 from Ithaca to south of Grayling where it joins I-75.

Michael Scholtens Will Take Naval Academy Exam

Representative Neil Staebler (D., Michigan) today announced that he has nominated Michael J. Scholtens as one of several outstanding Michigan young men to take the examination for entrance to the United States Naval Academy.

Michael Scholtens, 175 E. Summit, will compete with several other Michigan youth for one of three vacancies at the Naval Academy. Staebler said Michael was chosen because of his excellent character. Michael has already taken scholastic record and outstanding en and passed a preliminary Civil Service examination.

The Congressman said that he is using the competitive method for filling the several vacancies at each of the Academies so as to "give each of these young men an equal chance to win their appointment on the basis of ability and merit."

As Congressman-at-Large from a new district, Representative Staebler had the opportunity to make several appointments at each of the Academies.

The young men will take a further examination at the Academies in the Spring. The Academies will then select for admission the best qualified candidate on the basis of all-round ability and likelihood of success in a military career.

The value of all crops produced in Michigan in 1963 was $468.3 million, one-tenth above 1962, according to Michigan State University crop scientists.

CHANCE TO BOOST LOCAL ECONOMIES—Michigan has a bargain-priced opportunity to lay the groundwork for greater wood use and economic growth in local areas under a three-year survey to be started by the U. S. Forest Service early in 1964. The forest inventory, originally planned to provide information on a statewide scale, can be intensified with state funds to yield much-needed facts and figures on a county-by-county basis. Such a detailed survey would answer questions to promote better industrial planning by communities, and show the way for development of new and existing wood-using firms. The Forest Service will contribute $321,000 toward the study, reducing Michigan's share of the cost to $146,000. Conservation Department foresters look upon this figure as a very small investment compared with its potential returns to an industry that already adds more han $700 million a year to the state's economy. The Department is seeking a legislative appropriation of $52,000 to launch the first year of this work.

LUCKY BOY

Karjen, N.Y.—A six-year-old boy received only scratches when he was dragged 1½ miles by a car.

When Daniel Balduf alighted from a car, his foot caught in a loop of heavy twine and the driver drove off unaware of the boy's predicament. Icy conditions and the boy's heavy coat allowed the boy to slide which probably saved him from further injury.

Scout Leaders Given Details of New Day Camp

Chelsea Girl Scout Neighborhood association had as a special guest at the monthly meeting Monday evening, a Girl Scout District No. III advisor, Mrs. Ivy Reed of Ann Arbor. Mrs. Reed specifically reported on a new camping plan, an advanced day camp, which is to be initiated here this year.

Previously day camps were a project for Brownies only.

Mrs. Warren Eisenbeiser reported, on a Huron Valley Girl Scout Council meeting she had attended Jan. 23, at which the new day camp program was discussed.

Mrs. Eisenbeiser mentioned that camp applications must be turned in four weeks in advance. She also announced a "Savings Stamp" plan by means of which girls may save money for camping.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Wilbur Yocum, Chelsea Neighborhood Girl Scout calendar chairman, that 540 of the calendars were sold here and that Troop 47 of which Mrs. Carmer Slocum and Mrs. Melvin Leach are leaders sold the largest number of any troop in the Chelsea Neighborhood. They sold 95 of the calendars.

Total net proceeds for the Chelsea Neighborhood Association on the 540 calendars sold is $81.

Troops 77 and 82 are to be assigned the responsibility for Girl Scout exhibits in downtown store windows during Girl Scout Week, March 8-14, it was decided at Monday's meeting.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to the 15 G.S. Association members present by Troop 84 whose leaders are Donna Sherman and Mrs. James Pichea.

TO SEE OR NOT TO SEE—Every Feb. 2 the question of the day is: "Will the ground hog see his shadow?" According to legend, six more weeks of winter are in the offing if he does; when he doesn't, the cold weather is supposed to be over. Actually, Mr. Ground Hog is a deep sleeper during the winter. In his snug underground hideaway, he couldn't care or know less about the world outside. So, the odds are heavy against his being up and around to do any weather forecasting on Feb. 2. Instead, he'll come out to stay when the snow is gone and tender shoots are popping up in the fields, casting a much thinner shadow than when he made his exit last fall.

NEWS from HOLLYWOOD

Eddie Albert is doing a bit of trapeze work in his new film "The Loser." Albert has taught himself and is far from a professional but in this part he will not use a double.

Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Winstone Affair," has a brand new name "Man In The Middle." The story concerns a court-matial and stars Robert Mitchum, France Nuyen, Trevor Howard, Keenan Wynn, and Barry Sullivan.

John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara star in the ready to be released "McLintock." It is the rousing story of a cattle baron who runs the town by his name, but not his high-spirited wife played by Miss O'Hara.

Formerly her leading man, Paul Henried is directing Betty Davis in "Dead Ringer." Miss Davis is trying to persuade Mr. Henried to co-star with her in another motion picture.

Film Revue . . .

"RAMPAGE"

This film concerns a safari in the jungles of Malya. Portraying a trapper for a West German Zoo, Robert Mitchum is commissioned to capture wild animals for a famous zoo. This is another part that seems to fit Mitchum—for he does his best in the tougher-type roles.

This is a strange but interesting adventure because his companions are a hunter, Jack Hawkins and his girl friend, Elsa Martinelli. Miss Martinelli is a beautiful woman, always dressed appropriately and feminine enough to carry a formal dress in a plastic bag all through the jungles—just in case the right occasion comes along.

Mitchum captures his wild tigers and the legendary half-leopard, half-tiger known as The Enchantress. But friction grows between the hunter and trapper as the hunter realizes he is losing his girl to the trapper and a different kind of hunting starts. Jealousy enrages Hawkins and he tries to lock Mitchum in a freight car but instead the prized animal escapes.

The story climaxes when the animal is captured on the roof of an apartment building.

FEDERAL JOBS CUT

The next two years will see almost 6,000 jobs eliminated from the Federal pay roll, the White House reports.

Andrew Hatcher, press aide said that the heads of 47 departments and agencies have chopped 3,291 government jobs for the fiscal year ending June 30, and an additional 2,708 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965.

Foresters Start Inventory of Michigan Timber Resources

A once-in-a-decade opportunity is in the offing for Michigan counties whose economic growth has been held back for want of information about their timber supplies according to the Conservation Department.

This chance to perk up local economies is pinned to a three-year general inventory which will be started early in 1964 by the U.S. Forest Service. Originally planned to provide forest information on a state-wide basis, the study can be intensified—with additional funds—to give facts and figures on a county-by-county basis.

Specifically, Michigan will have to come up with $146,000 during the next three years if its communities are to be tuned in for a close-to-home look at their timber resources. The U. S. Forest Service has already announced it will contribute $321,000 to help do the job if Michigan will pay for the remaining costs.

Is such a detailed study really necessary? Would it be worth the money? The answer on both counts is "yes," say Department foresters.

Currently, Michigan's wood-using industry channels more than $700 million each year into the state money belt. From 1950 to 1960, its pulpwood production jumped 112 percent, some 40 percent ahead of the national average.

In spite of this boom and the already bigness of the industry, there is plenty of room for expansion. Thanks to effective fire protection and early reforestation plantings, many areas of pole-timber are reaching merchantable size. Forest growth is changing rapidly.

These things are probably best reflected by the fact that the state's annual cut of all timber is far less than half its yearly forest growth.

But here is the catch: To bring this harvest into closer line with the allowable cut, Michigan must have an updated picture of its wood supplies on the county level. It knows in general that cuttings are lagging behind growth. But exactly where? How much? What types of trees are involved? The general survey is not designed to provide answers to such questions.

That's where the detailed forest study comes in. It would measure the type, quality, location, and growth of timber in each county to lay the groundwork for developing and expanding forest-based industries. It also would answer questions about the kinds and amounts of wood already being harvested in these areas.

This information is a must to wood-producing companies, both old and new. Some established firms have had to forestall expansion for not knowing if there was enough timber to serve their operations over the long haul. New industries often have been forced to delay selection of plant sites because they lacked data about the volume and quality of timber that could be cut in areas they were eyeing.

A fresh look at forest resources on a county basis is also important to Michigan's Rural Area Development Program and to various federal-state projects. For example, federal funds are partially allotted for forest fire control according to the state's forest area.

Local forest information is also needed by counties to administer such federal cost-sharing activities as the Agricultural Conservation Program. Self-help efforts by planning boards and chambers of commerce call for detailed data on their areas' timber supplies to attract new industries, and boost existing wood use.

From all sides of interest, the county-by-county inventory would be well worth the time and money. Michigan's share of the survey costs—$146,000—is looked upon by Conservation Department foresters as a very small investment compared with its potential returns.

To launch the first year of this work, the Department is seeking a legislative appropriation of $52,000.

Better Farming Gets Good Crops In Dry Years

How did Michigan farmers produce good crops in the driest two consecutive years in a third of a century? That's what many are asking after looking at both the state crop and weather reports for 1962 and 1963.

Dr. Ray Cook, chairman of the Department of Soil Science at Michigan State University gives this answer: "New and better crop varieties, greater use and better placement of fertilizer and more moisture conserving practices by farmers."

Leyton Nelson, MSU crop science extension specialist agreed and added: "Most of Michigan got some moisture at a very critical time in July that helped produce our second biggest corn crop in history." He added, however, that hay crops in general were short after a good first cutting.

A. H. Eichmeier, state climatologist, says the two-year dry period in 1962 and 1963 produced deficits of from 13 to 18 inches in the southern third of the state and 10 to 12 inches in the Upper Peninsual. This is as much as 25 percent below average for the two years.

Shortage of moisture in Michigan and other Great Lakes states allowed Lake Michigan and Lake Huron water levels to reach all-time low-water marks. Eichmeier reports good water recordings at low levels in south-central Michigan.

January and February in 1963 were the coldest two consecutive months in history. On the other hand, October and November were the warmest two consecutive fall months in 33 years. Then December set a record for low temperatures.

Soil borings show the sub-soil moisture inadequate in many localities.

Easy Winter for Deer Herds Throughout Most of Michigan

Deer in northern Michigan generally made the most of mild temperatures by ranging widely during the week of Jan. 14-20 while whitetails in the southern part of the state began causing damage to agricultural crops and nursery plantings.

Conservation Department field men report that deer in the Upper and northern Lower peninsulas are still easily able to roam for food, except in the deep snowbelt of northern Baraga and Escanaba districts.

In the southern Lower Peninsula the animals are showing up in their usual winter concentrations, especially along the western part of the region where snow is deepest. Deer damage complaints are beginning to reach the Department from southern Michigan landowners. Some of the most severe losses are to nursery stock in Ottawa county and orchards in Livingston county.

Congregational Youth Give Unusual Scripture Lesson

This is Youth Week and its beginning was celebrated in churches over the land by youth conducting part or all of the morning worship in co-operating churches last Sunday.

Perhaps one of the most unusual was here in Chelsea where the Youth Group of the First Congregational church (United Church of Christ) took over the service under the direction of the Rev. Robert Livingston.

Everything followed the regular order until after the Bible reading was announced by a youth. While two girls went to the chancel to read, two boys got into a "private" discussion on whether anyone listened to the Scripture reading in church, with one admitting he thought it was [illegible] or perhaps he was too tired. The other one asked if maybe it wasn't rather that he had stayed out too late the night before!

One girl read 1st Peter 2:9-10 from the King James Version of the Bible; only those two verses. Then the first boy said that this proved his point, that he couldn't understand it, what did it mean? The other youth told something of the background and then the second girl read the same two verses from the Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

After more discussion as to its meaning and what Peter was trying [illegible] God's people, the first girl read again. This time she read the two verses from the Phillips Modern English translation.

Finally the boys [illegible] youth group had studied the verses in a meeting using the "Parts and Precepts Study" method where each verse [illegible] own words and asked himself [illegible] I took this verse seriously [illegible] change my life?" The [illegible] completed the Scripture reading by presenting the two verses as a young person [illegible] it.

Those who participated in the Youth Sunday service are Rev [illegible], Dave Winans, [illegible], Tom Sharrard, Jay Livingston, [illegible], Judy Livingston, Ed [illegible], [illegible] Wiseman, Yvonne [illegible], [illegible] Henning, Laura [illegible], [illegible] Barry [illegible], with others present at the service. The Rev. [illegible] preached on "The [illegible] Ones," the National Youth Week theme.

Just A Minute . . .

By The Rev. James A. Craig

The light is short. Traffic is heavy, the wind sharp, the street busy. The street appears different than many others, approaching it through the maze one building dominates.

Down a stairway—one is almost past before he sees the words. Ancient and familiar, spoken, written, etched, engraved, striking on white marble, one pauses to read them again.

Here they speak again having both more and less meaning. Again they tell of a great hope and great failure.

Across the street more is said because in the tall building men work to lay the groundwork to do what they say. In the same place less is said since so many pay no attention.

Swords beaten into plowshares? Somewhere. Spears into pruning hooks? Maybe. Nations no longer learning war? More efficient armies and more efficient weapons are what we learn of war.

The words of the ancient prophet, gleaming in white marble, remind us how far we have come and how far to go.

In the tall building and in a low domed building beside it United Nations struggle to find a way to make plowshares, pruning hooks and peace.

Prayer: Lord, make me an instrument of they peace. Amen. (St. Francis of Assissi)

Club and Social Activities

INDER CLUB

Kinder Klub, a child study club, held a regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Roland Eder.

The evening's program featured a review of Betty Friedan's book, "The Feminine Mystique," given by Mrs. Alan Conklin.

There were 12 members present at the meeting and co-hostesses were Mrs. Robert Headrick and Mrs. Blaine Lytle.

The next club meeting will be held Feb. 11 at the home of Mrs. Duane Schiller.

OMAN'S CLUB

Woman's club members met Tuesday evening in the club room of McKune Memorial Library and before beginning the evening's program observed a moment of silence as a mark of respect for the memory of one of its honorary members, Mrs. John Hale, who died suddenly Monday morning.

Mrs. Thomas Smith, the club's vice-president, was in charge of the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. E. J. Weiss.

The customary business session was dispensed with for the evening and the program chairman, Mrs. Ruth Sodt, introduced the evening's speaker—Walter Zeeb, Jr., proprietor of the Chelsea Greenhouse. He demonstrated flower arrangements for various occasions and later presented three of the arrangements to the club.

Zeeb spoke of flowers as creations "nearest to God on earth" and mentioned various beneficial effects on those who grow flowers.

Following adjournment of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. E. W. Eaton and Mrs. Jay Ferguson.

It takes a good business man, these days, to be able to pay all his taxes.

CHILD STUDY CLUB

Chelsea Child Study club held its "husbands' night" meeting Tuesday evening at Inverness Country club with Wally Weber of the University of Michigan Athletic Public Relations department, as guest speaker.

Weber spoke entertainingly in reviewing the various sports and stressed a point that is impressed on players—it is "how you act" when playing that is important in any sports game.

A total of 26 members and two associate members, with their husbands, were present for the meeting and for a smorgasbord dinner which preceded it.

The next meeting of the club is scheduled for Feb. 11 at the home of Mrs. George Knickerbocker.

BEACON LIGHT EXTENSION STUDY GROUP

Twelve members and one guest responded to roll call by naming their favorite season of the year and a dish suitable for the season when Beacon Light Extension Study Group met Jan. 22 at the home of Mrs. Ellis Pratt for a regular monthly meeting.

A report of a program planning meeting they attended was given by Mrs. Reno Feldkamp and Mrs. Pratt.

"Time Management," the lesson topic, was very interestingly presented by Mrs. Floyd Parr and Mrs. Allen Alber who asked the members to form two groups, each group then offering suggestions as to how busy housewives may budget their time and still include recreational diversion.

The Feb. 26 meeting will be held at Sharon Town Hall; a silent auction will be held at that time.

Hostess for the February meeting is to be Mrs. L. Dean Sodt and the roll call topic is to be "Where I Would Go, Were I Taking A Trip."

VFW AUXILIARY

Mrs. Richard Kern (Catherine) formerly of Ann Arbor, became a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4070 at the meeting held Monday evening at the K. of C. Hall.

During the business session, money was voted out for the department president's special project, the children's hospital in Detroit and for the March of Dimes.

Announcement was made that the next meeting of the Auxiliary is the monthly social meeting to be held Feb. 10 at the home of Mrs. Wayne Harvey.

On the committee for that meeting are Mrs. Vera Holm, Mrs. Frank Warywoda and Mrs. Mark McClear.

ROGERS CORNERS EXTENSION CLUB

Rogers Corners Extension Study group, at its meeting Tuesday evening, Jan. 21, had a lesson on the topic, "Planning a Family Insurance Program." Lesson leader was Mrs. Earl Huehl.

Mrs. Loren Koengeter and Mrs. Charles Powers had attended an Extension program planning session in Ann Arbor Jan. 20 and they outlined some of the lesson topics and study materials available for the current year's programs.

Tuesday's meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Powers with Miss Elsie Hinderer as cohostess.

Koengeter Loses Out in All-Star Bowling Tourney

Charles "Chuck" Koengeter came home last week after taking part in the preliminary games at the national All-Star Bowling Tournament at Dallas, Tex.

Although he averaged 193 for the 20 preliminary games he failed to qualify for the semi-finals.

The competition was keen among the 288 bowlers from all over the country who took part in the preliminaries to determine 96 semi-finalists and from these the 16 finalists who competed Sunday, Jan. 26.

Two of the biggest names in bowling, Don Carter and Marion Ladewig, also failed to qualify.

It was Koengeter's first try; he told The Standard before he left for Dallas that he knew the competition would be great but that he'd "do the best he could."

Young bowlers, like Koengeter, made a good showing at the preliminary events, indicating that veteran bowlers will be facing more and more competition.

Public speaking is easy. It's the thinking before you speak that's difficult.

Cub Scout Pow Wow

Lieutenant George Simmons of the Youth Division of the Ann Arbor Police Department, was the guest speaker at the banquet.

The Chelsea people present were impressed with the advice he gave for adults working with young people, stressing the importance of good youth leaders in every field.

He suggested that leaders in Scouting keep in mind the following five points—how you look; what you say; how you say it; what you do; and how you do it.

He said young people often lose faith in adults or leaders who do not "practice what they preach."

Lieutenant Simmons stressed the importance of religion in the lives of youth and leaders, alike. He said he feels Scouting is a great force for good, stating he has never had to handle a case of any serious crime involving a young man who had been active in Scouting.

Scout leaders, themselves, as well as leaders in other youth groups, the lieutenant concluded, may never know or hear of the influence they had on young people with whom they worked; however, the influence for good is often far reaching in its effect.

Greetings extended to the volunteer leaders and den mothers at the dinner included expressions of appreciation and the wish that they might "enjoy many pleasant hours in working with the boys of your neighborhood, and ma these hours bear fruit in the d velopment of strong bodies, sto hearts and keen minds."

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

The Shorter Work Week in Disguise

President Johnson, in his State of the Union Message, comes out strongly against a reduction in the statutory work week, and for the right reasons. He points out that a 35-hour week "would sharply increase costs, would invite inflation, would impair our ability to compete and merely share instead of creating employment."

But he proposes an alternative which, to the extent it had any impact at all, would produce effects of the same kind. This is his recommendation for a tripartite committee to determine, industry by industry, where an increase in the penalty rate for overtime could be imposed so as to increase job openings without "unduly" raising costs.

It is difficult to see why this should not be regarded in the same category as the 35-hour week in that it merely shares instead of creating employment. There is nothing in such a step which would tend to reduce the aggregate of such demand.

The proviso that increased overtime rates would not be imposed where they would unduly raise labor costs is a recognition that they would inevitably have some effect in that direction. Just what criteria a tripartite committee would use in deciding how much of an increase would be undue is industries would perforce become a political football. It would be another source of conflict between labor and management with the third party on the committee becoming in effect the arbitrator. Both management and labor unions have consistently opposed government - imposed arbitration, and President Johnson's porposal seems to fall in that category.

The fact is that at this particular juncture any increase of labor costs, whether large or small, would have to be regarded as a negative factor in an assessment of our economic prospects. The reconciliation between the two objectives of increased employment opportunities at home and a stable dollar abroad will be difficult at best. Every rise in internal labor costs will make it that much more difficult.

One might object that an employer could avoid the increase in costs involved in a rise in the penalty rate of cutting down on overtime and hiring additional people. But clearly this would involve higher costs (all things considered) than the employer's present arrangements—else he would be doing it now.

A 35-hour work week would be a long step in the wrong direction. But that is not a very good reason for proposing a somewhat shorter step along the same road.

JOKE COSTS LIFE

Tampa, Fla.—Although he called for help, 11-year-old Elmo C. Scranton drowned when his friends ignored him.

Earlier his friends had responded several times to his calls for help only to find he was just pretending to drown.

This time, when he called, his friends thought he was joking again and did not go to him.

ON DEFENSE SUMS

President Johnson is asking Congress to cut spending on missiles and ships by more than $1,000,000,000 and to increase spending on planes by $300,000,000.

This was made known when the Defense Department sent Congress its authorization request for the 1965 fiscal year.

★ Color Blindness: A Hidden Threat

A COLOR-BLINDNESS test should be included in pre-school examinations, says D. H. C. Thuline, Buckley, Wash. pathologist, to prevent a child from having difficulties in the present educational system which utilizes color in teaching techniques. Most parents of color-blind children are not aware of their child's handicap, a circumstance that may lead to certain personality difficulties or school troubles, Dr. Thuline says. One boy out of 17 and one girl out of 180 have some degree of defective color perception.

ASTRONOMERS "fingerprint" stars, says the Boston Museum of Science, but not with an ink pad. The term means analysis of starlight to determine what the celestial body is made of and how hot it is. . . . ART A LA CART is offered patients at the University of Chicago Hospital. An aluminum cart holding 20 pictures is rolled from room to room, and a hospital volunteer helps each patient select a painting to hang on his wall. Paintings may not replace penicillin, hospital authorities say, but they do provide a warm atmosphere.

"INSANT" citrus juice crystals will be produced for the first time in South America at a 500-ton-per-day Argentina processing plant. Votator vacuum-dryer equipment produces pure crystals by removing more than 90 percent of the water from orange, tangerine or grapefruit juices. The crystals are light to ship, require no refrigeration and reconstitute instantly with the addition of cold water. . . . EVENING rush-hour traffic bothers home-bound motorists, but its effects are felt more at the airport than on the highway, according to a Federal Aviation Agency report. Airport surface congestion — inadequate runways, taxiways, ramp space and gate positions—is the principal cause of airline delay, says the FAA. Second major delayer is air traffic control. Bad weather is third.

HARDENING of the arteries and blood clotting in hogs is being studied at the University of Illinois because swine have a circulatory system similar to man's. Half a group of hogs on a high fat diet get regular workouts on a treadmill; the others do not. The theory being tested is that exercise increases the size of certain blood vessels and reduces the danger of arterial disease. . . . Parcel Post Rate Increase Will Be Effective April 1

An effective date of April 1 for the new domestic parcel post rate increase has been announced by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski.

The parcel post increase, approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and averaging about 13.1 percent, would produce about $764 million based on the volume handled in 1962, the year for which the most recent figures are available.

Catalog rates will be increased approximately 13 percent and produce added revenue of about $34 million if the 1962 volume is maintained.

The decision of the ICC will assist the Post Office Department in carrying out its objective of reducing the Department's drain on the Federal treasury by $100 million in Fiscal Year 1965," Gronouski said.

At present, the cost of operating parcel post and catalog service is about $741 million annually. It is estimated for fiscal year 1962, these costs exceeded the revenues by $146.5 million, or by 24.6 percent.

Public Law 88-51, enacted June 29, 1963, suspended for a three-year period the provisions of a statute which prohibits the Postmaster General from withdrawing funds appropriated for postal operations unless he certifies that the costs and revenues would not vary by more than 4 percent. During the three-year moratorium, Gronouski said, the Department must formulate its recommendations to the Congress on the future role of the parcel post service.

The last increase was on Feb. 1, 1960. Postage rates for most other classes of mail were increased Jan. 7, 1963.

The higher rates do not affect air parcel post or international parcel post.

Some examples of the increase and the effect it will have on the public are as follows:

The average six-pound parcel for local area delivery will cost 37 cents instead of 32 cents.

The same parcel going from East coast to the West coast, or Hawaii or Alaska will cost $1.53 instead of the present $1.40.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Last week I submitted a special message to the legislature on social welfare, believing that the subject was so important that it required detailed treatment.

The recommendations were designed to accomplish three things:

1. To enable us to participate in some national programs which will help solve state and local problems in helping people.

2. Support state action to fulfill past legal and moral commitments in strengthening existing state services.

3. Release some local funds, now used for welfare, to meet other needs.

It is a paradox that in the midst of an affluent society and a booming state economy, the impoverished, the helpless and the jobless are visible all around us.

One thing has become clear—Michigan is paying twice for many of its welfare programs. We contribute far more tax dollars to the national government than does the average state. On the other hand, we receive far less than the average state in federal grants-in-aid available for these same programs.

Last year, the legislature recognized the problems of the family and the local community where there is an able-bodied but unemployed wage earner. Our efforts were blocked by reversal of the federal approval given other states and promised Michigan.

Last week, I asked the legislature to amend the Aid to Dependent Children progam to include children deprived of parental support because of unemployment.

The definition I recommended meets the test of good legislation when related to the economic and social needs for which it is designed.

Part of the message was devoted to the problems of senior citizens who need and receive care in nursing homes.

The maximum state participation in the cost of this care has been the same $90 per month since 1956. But in the interim, costs have risen to an average of $200 per month.

To alleviate the situation, I recommended a statutory change in the maximum grant for recipients of old age assistance in nursing homes. The state grant should be raised from $90 per month to $150 per month. This will save $2,026,000 in local funds at a cost of $63,000 in state funds.

Other recommendations which I made in the social welfare message include:

1. Liberalization of eligibility requirements for participation in the Kerr-Mills program, providing hospital medical care and some other services to senior citizens. The effect would be to increase the potentially eligible group by 11,000 senior citizens.

2. Removing restrictions in the Aid to the Disabled Program to relieve local governments of an estimated $838,000 expenditure without cost to the state.

3. Strengthening the Aid to the Blind Program by providing more employment in stands operated by the blind and increasing funds for rehabilitation.

4. Improving the administration of local welfare programs by eliminating duplication where it exists.

If my recommendations are followed, Michigan will be taking important steps to solve the critical problems of the unemployed, the blind and the poor.

Volkswagen Is No. 1 Foreign Automobile On Michigan Highways

Lansing — "Have you ever heard of a Humber . . . or a Siata . . . or a Toyopet . . . or a King . . . or a Singer? Chances are that unless you're a foreign car buff, you haven't because they are nearly as scarce as the proverbial dodo bird here on Michigan roads.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose Department of State registers all foreign cars in Michigan, only one each of the above listed autos was registered in Michigan during 1963.

On the other side of the scale is the very popular German Volkswagen, which continued to outdistance all other foreign cars in Michigan registrations in 1963.

"The V-W's popularity can be attested to by the fact that it outstripped all the other foreign makes about two-to-one," Hare noted. A total of 10,054 Volkswagens were registered out of the entire Michigan foreign car registration of 15,218.

Next in line was the French Renault with 1,353 registrations, a sizeable drop from the 2,070 registered the previous year. The British Triumph stayed in third place with 764 registrations, an increase from 628 in 1962.

Witnesses Will Attend 3-Day Meeting at Hastings

The Chelsea congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will be attending a three-day meeting at Hastings, Jan. 31 to Feb. 2 stated Raymond Tyskiewicz presiding minister.

Tyskiwicz demonstrated the necessity for each Christian to have an understanding of the Bible, when he showed the results of a public opinion poll by George Gallup. According to this survey, 53 percent of the Americans interviewed could not even name one of the four gospels of the Bible.

Poultry scientists at Michigan State University have found that chickens produce as well on one and one-fourth square foot of space per hen as they do on the 3 to 4 square foot per bird which is presently recommended.

Survey Notes Higher Duck Population

Michigan's mid-winter duck population is at its highest level in five years, the Conservation Department reports.

Nearly 63,700 ducks were counted earlier this month in the state's established check areas by Department survey crews and members of the U.S Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. This January's tally, part of a continental inventory of waterfowl, is almost 24,000 birds above the year-ago figure.

Department officials are quick to point out that Mihigan's latest count cannot stand alone as a gauge for predicting an over-all upturn in duck numbers. Survey sightings must be combined from the nation's other states and Canadian provinces in sizing up this spring's potential brood stock.

Hopefully, however, counts in Michigan indicate that mallards and black ducks have fared well under shooting restrictions aimed at rebuilding their sagging populations of recent years.

An estimated 12,145 mallards and 14,200 black ducks were seen during the Jan. 6-8 inventory to account for the bulk of this year's increased waterfowl figure. Last January, survey teams tallied 4,800 mallards and 4,000 black ducks.

Canvasback numbers were up by 3,000 birds; redhead ducks showed a population drop from a year ago. Both species have been off limits to the nation's hunters for the last four seasons.

Some 7,626 Canada geese were observed this month, as against the 1963 count of 4,500 honkers. Only six incidental sightings of bald eagles were made during the waterfowl survey.

A concurrent and special check on gulls resulted in a total count of 19,329 birds. Only 46 live gulls were noted along the southern Lake Michigan shoreline from Holland to the Indiana state line where these birds were hard hit by a mysterious die-off last fall.

Federal Land Bank Association Reports Increased Loan Activity

The Federal Land Bank of St. Paul recently announced that the Federal Land Bank Association of Ann Arbor, in loaning more than $3,400,000 in Land Bank loans, exceeded all other Associations in Michigan in this respect during the year 1963.

It was also pointed out that the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul is owned by 87 associations in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota. The Ann Arbor office was second in the district to only Fargo, N.D., in dollar amount loaned during 1963.

The Ann Arbor Association, with a branch office in Howell, serves Washtenaw, Wayne, and Livingston counties.

Commenting on the increased loan activity during the past year, Robert Hall, manager of the Ann Arbor Association said that among the major purposes for which farmers obtained longterm credit in this area were construction of buildings, refinancing, and additional land purchases.

★ 'Grilled' Venison

It costs money to have venison hamburger "grilled" on the front of your car. There is nothing funny about a deer in your lap at 60 miles per hour as a growing number of Michigan motorists discover to their extreme discomfort each year.

It costs an average of $200 to hit a deer with a car. Five percent of the collisions result in personal injuries and there have been fatalities. If the accident occurs in southern Michigan, the venison-hamburger may be of giant size. One deer killed 10 miles north of, second largest antlers ever bagged.

Don't laugh at "deer crossing" signs — just because you have never seen a deer standing by one doesn't mean they aren't there. Bloody evidence proves otherwise. Further, where there is one deer, there usually are more.

Herds of up to 400 deer have been stripping orchards in some areas of southern Michigan. They edge into cities, gnaw on tulips and ornamental shrubs, wander into golf courses, and occasionally through the windows of department stores.

The Michigan Department of Conservation joins farmers of the state in concern over the 14-percent annual "growth rate" of the southern Michigan deer herd, now estimated at close to 50,000. "At the current rate, this means the herd will double every five years," one game biologist points out.

The Department has authority to increase the deer kill to check crop damage, but no authority to prevent excessive damage to cars. The Department may establish certain areas where a controlled number of hunters are authorized to shoot deer of either sex; in other words, a limited, special "antlerless" deer season.

Farmers, who are on the receiving end of the damage ask that the Conservation Department exercise their "special season" authority.

Anyone who has seen mangled fruit-buds, crippled nursery shrubs, and stripped corn stalks will understand.

Red Cross Chapter To Open New Blood Collection Center

The American Red Cross, Washtenaw Chapter, today announced the opening on Feb. 14 of a Blood Collection Center in its new building at 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor.

Established for the use of all county residents, including members of established blood clubs, blood donations may be made for a particular club or for the benefit of a patient in a hospital, through Red Cross Services. "This is part of a continuing effort to better serve the residents of our county," said Dr. A. James French, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Program for Washtenaw county. "It will give added support to our hospitals by having needed blood available."

"While Bloodmobiles for Blood Clubs will continue to be brought into our county through the Detroit Regional Program," Dr. French said, "this sub-center facility will be open on the second Friday of every month from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. This will take care of club members who couldn't, for some reason, donate during a Bloodmobile visit, or any resident wishing to donate for a particular patient."

Invited to the Feb. 14 opening, to observe and participate in this special kick-off "clinic," will be all of the hospitals in the area and the blood clubs which cover the needs of 179,000 people who live or work in Washtenaw county. Dr. French stated that this will help to keep up with the increased demand for blood, especially fresh blood for open heart surgery. He said that within the past five years the distribution of blood by the Red Cross Chapter has almost doubled. "Our objective is to see that every person in our county is covered when blood is needed," Dr. French said. He stressed that anyone 18 through 59 in good health may become a blood donor and may contribute as often as every eight weeks. He also pointed out that anyone wishing to donate blood at the clinic on Feb. 14 should call the Red Cross Center, NO 2-5546, for an appointment. This will ensure prompt handling and will avoid waiting time by donors.

Mrs. Margaret Price Meets With County Democrats

Michigan was the first stop in a four-state review of Democratic women's plans for the 1964 campaign by Mrs. Margaret Price, Democratic National Committee Vice-chairman and Director of Women's Activities.

The Michigan VIP Program (Voter Identification Program), designed to find unregistered Democrats and get them registered, has been the forerunner of a major Democratic women's telephone VIP Corps which Mrs. Price has been presenting to Democratic women of 50 states.

President Johnson, in a message to Democratic National Committeewomen meeting in Washington Jan. 10, told the nation's Democratic women that they are "laying the groundwork of victory in 1964 across the land with your VIP Corps.

"Democratic tickets in every state," the President wrote the Committee-women, "will benefit from enthusiasm and from your ability."

Mrs. Price's two-day Michigan Schedule featured appearances in Washtenaw and Wayne counties. She addressed a luncheon sponsored by the Washtenaw County Democratic Committee at 12:15 p.m., Friday, Jan. 24 in the Michigan Union. County Chairman is Peter Darrow, Ann Arbor.

At 1 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 25, Mrs. Price spoke at the Wayne County Democratic Women's Day luncheon in the Lee Plaza Hotel, 2240 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit. She also met Michigan Democrats at the Washtenaw County Democratic dance at 9 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 25 in the Ypsilanti Armory.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF WASHTENAW

In the Matter of the Complaint of BILLIE S. FARNUM, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw:

BILLIE S. FARNUM, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this complaint under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;

2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes which were assessed for the year mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and not deeded and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were bid to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;

3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands, there is contained (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the nonpayment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent and (d) $1.50 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;

4. That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid and have remained unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the amounts thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described, constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as provided by law upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;

b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final judgment in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;

c. That said judgment provide that in default of the payment of any of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;

d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

BILLIE S. FARNUM, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

Magnesium Needed for Good Yields

Potato growers should beware of magnesium deficiency if they're using high levels of potash fertilizers on sandy soils, warns Eugene C. Doll, Michigan State University soil scientist.

"Potash tends to supress the uptake of magnesium," he explains "Growers who use 200 lbs. or more of potash per acre should test soils often for deficiencies."

The MSU soil scientist says magnesium shortages can be easily corrected by using dolomitic limestone. He points out that magnesium is a secondary element not to be confused with manganese, which is needed by plants in only small amounts.

Tests conducted by Doll on the Streiffert farm in Antrim county, one of MSU's outstate experiment stations, showed that yields could be increased better than three-fold with magnesium plus liming. The magnesium alone boosted production from 68 cwt. to 180 cwt. per acre. With lime added to the treatment, yields were 221 cwt.

The tests were run on soils with a PH of 4.9 that had received very high levels of potash. "Admittedly, these were exaggerated conditions," says Doll, "but they indicate the importance of continuous soil testing.

"We also demonstrated that you can get an increase from liming alone on extremely acid soils. Potato growers need a soil PH of about 6.5 to get top productiop"

Doll says magnesium defiencies may be spotted by looking at oats grown in fields that had been used for potatoes the previous year. Yellow streaks may be seen in the oats where high potassium levels in the potato fertilizer band prevented magnesium uptake.

Deficiences of the secondary element have been reported in light textured soils in Montcalm and Kent counties northward along western Michigan to Presque Isle county. Shortages were also noted in some parts of the Upper Peninsula.

A detailed report of the effects of magnesium shortages on potatoes will be presented "Potato Day," Feb. 6, during Farmers' Week on the MSU campus.

MSU Contest Seeks Typical Food Shoppers

Have you ever wondered if you are a typical food shopper? Has it ever occurred to you that there is an average pattern of personal and family characteristics of shopping practices and knowledge of foods?

The Consumer Marketing Information Program of the Co-Operative Extension Service of Michigan State University will sponsor a contest to begin Feb. 3 to locate homemakers who most nearly resemble the average food shopper.

How old are you? What are the ages of your children? How much do you spend on food alone? If you wish to participate in the contest, the first step will be to send the answers of these three simple questions on a post card to: Shopping, Box 7085, Detroit, Mich., 48202.

All entries postmarked before midnight of Feb. 16 will be considered.

Immediately upon receipt of the entries, those who fall into the average pattern will be sent additional questions concerning family chracteristics, shopping habits and knowledge of food buying. All answers are being standardized at the university, and all of these final questionnaires mailed before midnight of March 15 will be accepted.

Representative home economists and members of the food trade will serve as judges. Prizes will be $100 savings bond, a $50 bond, a $25 dollar bond and seven small appliances and pieces of household equipment

Announcements of the winners will be made during the week of March 23 and the winners will be spotlighted during the whole Food Information Week, April 5-11.

Laff Of The Week

"Better put on your dark glasses before you inspect the finished job."

Auto License Dealers Take Service to Neighbor Towns

Secretary of State James M. Hare reminds prospective purchasers of 1964 car license plates that time to do this before the Feb. 29 deadline is growing short.

He explains that realizing that it is often inconvenient for some persons to get to existing branch offices to purchase plates, the Department of State is again offering license service to a total of 135 small Michigan communities this year by setting up a series of "one-day" stands.

In keeping with this plan, the Chelsea branch manager, Wallace Wood, arranged to be at Dexter last Saturday afternoon setting up a temporary office at Frank Grobs Chevrolet garage.

A week from this coming Saturday—on Feb. 8—he will again go to Dexter from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. For the Feb. 8 temporary office day he will be at the Al Gross Ford Sales garage.

The Michigan Center branch office supplied Grass Lake area residents with license service in their own community last Saturday. Temporary quarters were set up from 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. in the Grass Lake Municipal Building.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said his offices offer this "door-step" license-selling service "to make it relatively easy for persons living in smaller Michigan communities to get licenses."

Hare also reminded motorists that they should get their 1964 licenses "early" to avoid the rush to beat the deadline of Feb. 29.

The "community service" project, started in 1958, has proved so successful that it now has become an established practice of the Secretary of State. It is conducted in most of Michigan's 83 counties.

The program is possible because fee branch managers are willing to put in "extra evening and week-end" hours to bring license services to outlying communities so that persons will not have to drive miles to the nearest branch office, Hare said.

He praised newspapers, police, sheriffs, and others who "have cooperated in every way possible" and community organizations who have permitted the use of a variety of sites in setting up "our license sales operations."

Hare said fee managers provide this service at "absolutely no cost to the taxpayer" and that they receive only their regular fees for the extra work.

Michigan cattle feeders had 131,000 head of cattle on feed in April, 1963, but were operating at only 53 percent of capacity, say MSU animal husbandrymen.

Farmers' Week Will Offer Programs for Everyone

Farmers from all 83 counties will journey to the Michigan State University campus, East Lansing, from Feb. 3 through 7 for the 49th annual edition of Farmers' Week.

Special educational sessions—from A to Z—of interest to everyone, will be held throughout the week. A glance through the program indicates a wide range of topics including: alfalfa, beef, celery, diseases, eggs, fruit, goats, honey, irrigation, jobs, kidney beans, labor, mink, nuts, onions, potatoes, quail, rabbits, sugar beets, teenage marriages, urbanization, vegetables, weeds, x-rays, youth and zinc fertilizers.

Theme of this year's event is "Michigan Agriculture Grows with Michigan."

Large numbers of farmers and other people interested in agriculture are expected to attend more than 100 special sessions to be held throughout the week. More than 24,000 attended educational meetings, banquets and toured exhibits last year.

Youths will be able to attend a special program designed to acquaint them with careers and job opportunities in agriculture and related fields. This program is scheduled for Tuesday morning and will be repeated again on Thursday.

Many youths and parents alike will want to attend the program dealing with "starting tomorrow's farmer today" sponsored by MSU agricultural economists. The experiences and ideas of three farmers and three agribusinessmen working closely with young farmers will be presented. Some of the successful features as well as pitfalls that should be considered before youths plunge into farming today will be discussed.

A trio of men will receive Distinguished Service to Agriculture awards from Dean T. K. Cowden of MSU's College of Agriculture during a Wednesday program. A Saginaw dairy farmer, Edward J. Wright, a bank president from Pigeon, E. J. Clabeusch, and a Montcalm county potato grower, Arthur E. Sackett, will be presented with the awards given to outstanding Michigan agricultural leaders each year since 1954.

Exhibits will dot the campus from one end to the other. These will be of interest to all types of farmers, homemakers, young people and others engaged in agribusiness.

Crop scientists are bringing a weed control expert all the way from Europe for their meetings. The man is in charge of the weed research institute of Holland and will present his views of new herbicides, methods of application and the mode of action of herbicides within plants.

The events will also include the activities of some 40 agricultural organizations holding annual or special meetings during the week.

Ann Arbor Bank Stockholders OK Stock Dividend at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Ann Arbor Bank stockholders was held Tuesday, Jan. 21 in the bank's main office Board Room. Principal actions taken by the stockholders were the approval of the board of directors' proposal for a 10 percent stock dividend, re-election of all present directors, and the election of a new director, Joseph W. Edwards of Ann Arbor.

The new director is president of Edwards Brothers, Inc., printing company at 2500 S. State Rd., Ann Arbor. Edwards received his business degree from the University of Michigan in 1948 after serving as a first lieutenant in the Air Force during the second world war. Upon graduation he began full time work with Edwards Bros., and was elected to his present position of president in 1950.

Very active in a number of civic and printing trade organizations, Edwards serves presently as vice-chairman of the City Planning Commission, a director in the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, a director in the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and a director in the Ann Arbor United Fund. He is a past director of the Printing Industry of America, Inc., as well as of its executive committee. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards live at 1312 Cambridge Rd and have six children.

The stock dividend proposal originated at the bank board of directors' December meeting, and is the second 10-percent issued within a year's time, the last being in April of 1963. Bank president Joseph B. Foster indicated to stockholders that it would again be the board's intention to continue the same annual cash dividend rate of $2 per share. Approval of the dividend was unanimous from all shareholders represented at the meeting.

Foster reviewed operating results of 1963 for the stockholders present. He said the bank continued to be the leading financial institution in the county with the help of a 15.3 percent growth in assets. Operating earnings, stockholders were told, rose 19.5 percent to $5.51 per share, compared to $4.61 for 1962. Foster listed 1963's major accomplishments as being the opening of two new branch office buildings, merger with the Dexter Savings Bank, computer data processing system to process th bank's bookkeeping and accounting records in a highly automated manner.

Foster indicated optimism for the bank's continued growth and increasing profitability in 1964, based on a stable national economy and "the continued dynamic growth and development of the Ann Arbor area and the continued progress of our great University."

At the organization meeting of the Board of Directors following the shareholders meeting all present bank officers, and the Whitmore Lake and Dexter Offices' Advisor Boards were again appointed by the directors.

Origin of Groundhog Legend Lost

Ann Arbor — What's behi the old-wives' tale that if t groundhog ses his shadow wh he comes out of his den Feb. winter will stay for a while?

"Actually no one knows how th legend got into circulation," sa George Hunt, University of Mic igan assistant professor of wi life management.

"It might have something to with the animal's hormonal b ance, or reduced fat supply du ing the long hibernation perio which lasts from some time in N vember until early February this part of the county."

The animal's winter den is u sually built on the side of a h or wooded area and has only o opening. This permits good dra age so he won't get washed out bed during the long winter sle

"The groundhog is a true hib nator," he explains. "He goes in a very sound sleep from which can't be awakened unless he warmed up. His body temperat has been noted to go as low 37.4 degrees, close to freezing. H heartbeat is reduced to four five times a minute and his r spiration rate to perhaps once minute.

"The groundhog is about t feet long, ranging in color fr yellow-brown to almost black. T body is heavy with strong cla and feet for digging.

"Although the groundhog is va ously called woodchuck, ground and whistling pig, or just pla whistler, he is actually a memb of the squirrel family," H says. "He's called 'whistler' b cause he makes a shrill whistli sound when alarmed."
