Major Improvements Noted in Review of Village Activities

A review of accomplishments of the past year and tentative plans for 1964 for Chelsea Village includes the major 1963 project of construction of the new fire hall at 200 W. Middle St., also extensive street, and sidewalk work, parking lot improvement; establishment of a Chelsea Recreation Commission; and improved contracts with the townships for sharing costs of fire protection.

Tentative plans for 1964 include resurfacing East Park, Jefferson, Harrison, Congdon (from Jefferson to Summit) and Taylor streets; seal coating of Wilkinson St., blacktopping parking area at the new fire station; landscaping of fire station area; new sidewalks in Pierce Park area; expansion of parking areas at both village parks; repair of several sections of sidewalks in the business area as well as in residential areas; replacement of walks where necessary; increased rubbish pick-up; increased recreation program; and improvements to the village skating ponds.

Total budget for 1963 was $221,947.61 with a cash surplus of $5,000 remaining in the general fund at the end of the year.

During 1963 the street improvement program included widening, digging out, new gravel and sand base and first coat of blacktop on E. Middle St., together with new curb and gutter the entire length of the street and new asphalt approaches to all driveways along the street.

New base and one coat of blacktop was applied to Pierce St. from Maywood to Main St.; Railroad St. from East to McKinley St.; and Grant St. from W. Middle to Chandler St.

Van Buren St. received the second and final coat of blacktop.

In years past any street that had been dug out and a new gravel base applied was left for more than a year to allow for proper compacting and grading. Dust was a major problem for the residents living on these particular streets and repeated grading and hauling of gravel was necessary by the public works crew. In an attempt to alleviate these problems, a program was initiated several years ago providing for the blacktopping of any newly dug street the same year and this method has proved to be very successful and will be continued in future village planning. Any defects detected in the first layer of asphalt can be patched and then the second coat of asphalt can be installed to leave an unbroken surface.

During 1963 the Village Council asked a group of area residents to form a Recreation Commission to provide planned activities for all age groups in the village. To date, groups have been established and are functioning as follows: two guitar classes, two knitting classes, an art class, men's volleyball group, three age groups for boys' recreation and one girls' recreation group.

Relative to fire protection costs, the village has entered into agreements with area townships which provide that each township and the village will be charged a fair share of necessary expenses incurred by the Fire Department.

Each township will pay on a percentage basis compiled on actual time spent in that township on fires for the whole year, and will pay labor and material costs on this basis. In addition to the percentage cost, each township will pay into a fund to be set aside for the purchase of new equipment and 1964 will see a new four-wheel drive fire truck to be used primarily for fighting grass fires. This new truck will allow the firemen to drive into areas that have been inaccessible to the present fire fighting equipment.

Approximately 500 feet of new sidewalk was installed on S. Main St. in 1963 and new sidewalk, curb and gutter installed on the north and east side of the Post Office.

In addition, approximately 2,500 feet of sidewalk was removed and replaced and 250 feet of storm sewer was constructed. The latter project was on E. Middle St.

With the co-operation of the Chelsea Milling Co., a parking lot was graded and lighted in the area immediately east of the milling company's new storage bins on Main St. south of the New York Central railroad tracks.

Listed, however, as the major accomplishment of 1963 was construction by the village of the new fire station at 200 W. Middle St. Credits for its ultimate construction during the past year, however, must be shared with Village Councils of past years, present and former Fire Department personnel and others. The Council's report on the fire station project states that "credits for this construction would be too numerous to mention"—the building is the result of many years of planning.

Present fire personnel are especially mentioned for the contribution of $1,240 in funds and "countless hours of labor" to furnish additional refinements which had not been included in the contract price in order to keep construction costs at a minimum. The 1963 appropriation included in the Council's budget was $15,000. The remainder of the $24,000 cost included $13,000 which had been accrued during the past few years and a contribution of $1,240 from the Chelsea Fire Department as well as their volunteer labor for interior painting, paneling, floor tiling, office and meeting room, lavatories, installation of radio equipment, antenna and tower and a flagpole.

Dedication ceremonies are to be held at the new fire hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock and open house for the public is scheduled from 2 until 5 p.m.

Haselschwardt Unopposed on Village Ballot

Six Candidates Named for Three Trustee Posts

Howard Haselschwardt, outgoing village councilman, was named as candidate for village president by the Independent party caucus Monday evening.

Robert Daniels, village president for past three years, had declined to run for office this year.

Others named on the Independent ticket are George Winans, clerk; Wallace Wood, treasurer; Thomas Smith, assessor; J. V. Burg II, Duane Crouch and Frederick Weber, trustees; and Jean Dancer (Mrs. E. W.) and John Hutchinson, library board members.

The People's party named candidates for the three trustee posts to be filled this year but did not name anyone for other offices. The officers named are Alex Mshar, Ted Spnecker and Joseph Scott.

Those named on the Independent ticket who are new are Crouch and Weber—one replacing Haselschwardt whose term as trustee expires this year and is a candidate for president; and the other replacing Stephen Clark who chose not to seek re-election.

All others on the Independent ticket are incumbents.

Councilmen whose terms do not expire this year are Larry Chapman, Clarence Wood and Paul Bolzer.

The village election is scheduled for Monday, March 9, and it was noted out that persons who had not voted in village elections for two years and who failed to register with the village clerk before the deadline date, Feb. 10, will be ineligible to cast their ballots at this election.

Construction Results from Joint Efforts of Many Coucils, Firemen

Chelsea's new fire hall will be dedicated Sunday, Feb. 23, at special ceremonies scheduled for 4 p.m. with Sergeant Joseph Terze of the Michigan State Fire Marshal's office as guest speaker.

Also expected to be present for the occasion is Forrest Holcomb, president of the Southern Michigan Association of Fire Chiefs.

Open house will be held from three until 6 p.m. and all people of the community are invited to attend.

Others who will be participating in the dedication ceremony are the Rev. R. A. J. Livingston, pastor of the Congregational church who will give the opening invocation; Chelsea Village President Robert Daniels, Fire Chief James Gaken, the Rev. Fr. Francis Malczewski, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, who will pronounce the benediction, and the Chelsea High school pep band.

Flags will be presented to the Fire Department by the Ladies' Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4076 and by the Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Chelsea's new, modern fire hall, located at 200 W. Middle St., is the result of the effort and cooperation of village officials and Fire Department personnel.

The $28,000 construction project was financed by means of a $15,000 appropriation included in the 1963 budget by the Chelsea Village Council and $13,000 which had accrued over a period of years in anticipation of the building of a permanent fire station.

In addition, Chelsea firemen, themselves, spent a total of $1,242 for finishing details not included in the contract price in order to keep costs at a minimum.

The cost, after blacktopping the parking area, completing landscaping and other finishing details, is expected to reach approximately $34,000.

Countless hours of work were also contributed by firemen in the work of interior painting, paneling, floor tiling, installation of radio equipment, etc.

Fire Department personnel includes, in addition to Chief James Gaken, Charles Hafner, assistant chief; George J. Atkinson, captain; Mac Packard, first lieutenant; Arthur Paul, second lieutenant; David Longworth, secretary; and Paul Bollinger, Ray Johnson, Marvin Schiller, Claude Spiegelberg, Donald Hafner, Merle Leach, Paul Hankerd, Richard Rogers, Donald Mshar, Ronald Branham, David Elkins and Lavern Hafner.

There are also 10 auxiliary firemen—Glenn Erskine, W. D. Brown, Philip Roy, Alton Gieske, Ishmael Pickelsimer, Robert Dorer, Jim Hafner, Don Alexander, Richard Harvey and Byron Smith.

Planning for a new fire hall began some years ago during the time Ted Balmer served as chief. Because of health reasons, he was forced to give up his connection with the department about two years ago.

Chelsea's new fire hall is a far cry from the first one built in 1888 behind Sylvan Town Hall. That building was 20x40 feet in size and was covered with corrugated sheet iron. Cost of that building was less than $350 and its first use was to house the hand-operated hook and ladder truck and its equipment—a dozen rubber buckets.

Organization of a volunteer fire department here occurred at a meeting of approximately 50 men on March 10, 1889. The first fire chief was J. A. Palmer.

Designated as a great improvement to the fire protection of the Chelsea area, was the purchase of two chemical wagons for the sum of $1,108.45 in May of 1930.

Location of the fire department headquarters changed through the years from the first building behind the town hall to a wood frame building behind Merkel Brothers store until 1918 when motorized equipment was purchased and stored at Palmer Motor Sales for a rental rate of $7 per month.

This was the practice until remodeling of a three-story building into the present Municipal Building at 104-106 E. Middle St., was

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

This week is being observed throughout the country as Brotherhood Week, an annual event in which Americans are urged to rededicate themselves to the brotherhood of all men of all races and all religions.

I am wholeheartedly in support of this event, although it strikes me as unfortunate that such a reminder should be necessary nearly two centuries after the Declaration of Independence firmly committed our young nation to the idea that all men are created equal.

But a strong argument can be made that while such a reminder is not necessary, it is highly advisable at a time when the tides of hatred are running strong in many parts of the country.

We in Michigan can be proud of our record in recognizing the brotherhood of man. Congress is now debating a civil rights bill which, among other things, would guarantee equal access to public accommodations for all men. We have had an equal accommodations law in Michigan since 1885.

As a result of the new Constitution which took effect January 1, Michigan has a new Civil Rights Commission with far-reaching powers to combat discrimination in housing, in employment, in education, and in all areas of life in which it still survives within the boundaries of our state.

Our proud accomplishments in the field of civil rights are not those of government alone, however.

Much of the credit for our enviable record in civil rights should be accorded the thousands of individual citizens in our state who have accepted their responsibility to live and work peacefully together with those of different races and religions.

Michigan has very large minority groups, but it has not had a serious racial disturbance since World War II. Still, we cannot afford to be smug. Much work remains to be done.

If we are to transform into reality the ideals of equal education, open occupancy, free access to places of public accommodation and equality of employment, then we must have the general support and participation of all citizens.

The state's chief executive and the Civil Rights Commission cannot do the job without active, continuing citizen involvement at every level.

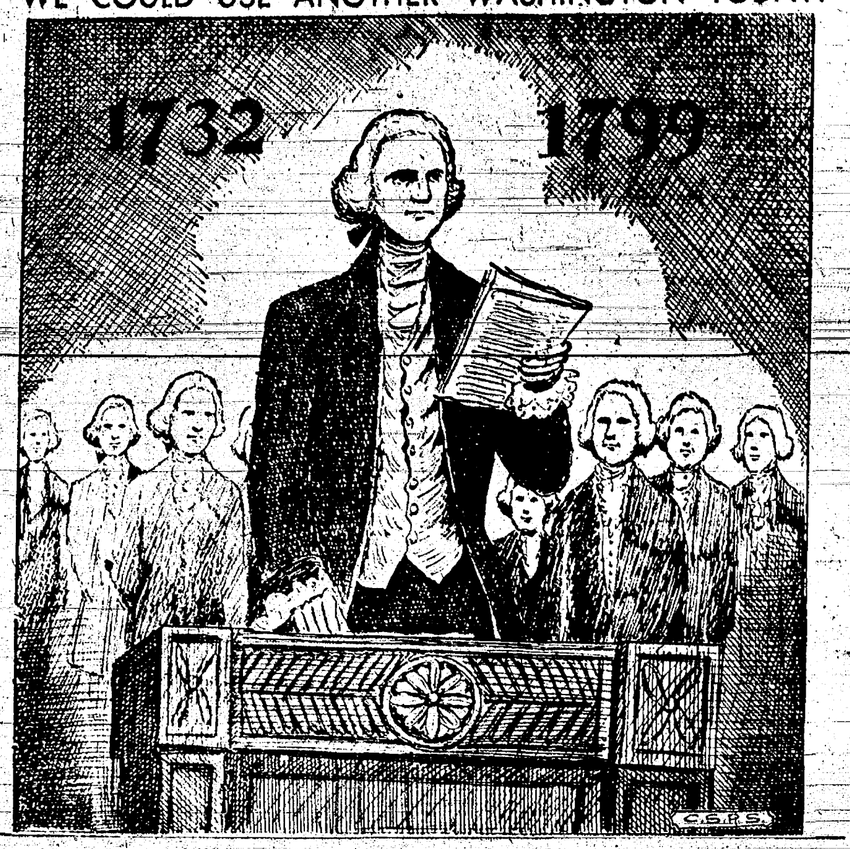

Our participation in the continuing American Revolution must go beyond the support of laws and regulations designed to eliminate discrimination.

It must involve the attitude we have toward all of our neighbors and coworkers—an attitude which springs more from the heart than from the mind.

I believe that we are all children of God and I believe that we are all brothers and sisters, regardless of race, color or creed.

This concept is firmly embodied in the Judeo-Christian heritage upon which our country was founded. The more quickly all Americans find it in their hearts to accept it, the sooner Brotherhood Week will become a relic of the past.

Color It Green

Simple solution sometimes help with complicated problems.

An example of such an idea is now before the legislature. It might help in dealing with juvenile problems.

The House has sent to the Senate for consideration a measure to issue a distinctive driver's license for minors. Introduced by Rep. John Toepp, Cadillac Republican, the bill called for a green dot on driver's licenses provided for drivers under 21 years of age.

Differentiating between a minor and an adult on a driver's license would be an effective deterrent to "doctoring" licenses for use as proof of age. Michigan licenses have been claimed as doctor-proof for several years, but many minors have been able to beat the system of the special paper used.

A different color license probably would make doctoring more difficult. Another effect likely in the color change would be to readily identify minors in traffic violations.

There is a move afoot in the legislature to bring juvenile motorists under Michigan's point system of traffic violations. With a different color license there would be no question, with or without the point system in effect, as to which motorists were in the juvenile range.

Introduction of the color license measure by Toepp appears in itself to have some significance. Toepp, a long-time radio broadcaster, has been working with youth for several years. He has teen-agers in his own family.

Toepp's approach to the juvenile delinquency problem seems to be a realistic one. He is not a proponent of the "this young'un generation is not what it used to be" school of thought.

Juvenile delinquency, like the school drop-out problem and a number of other questions facing state officials, is one in which some small effort could lead to a wise solution. Colored license plates might be the first major step in this area.

Drivers' license changes have been proposed in the past, however, and money to accomplish the aims has been a major obstacle.

Lawmakers and state administrators must weigh the question in this area of whether the investment in having different kinds of licenses is worth the corrections such a change might prompt.

The most recent example of proposed change not implemented is the license photo requirement enacted into law several years ago. Cost of the equipment needed has not been resolved yet.

Legislative thinking this year indicates both the color change for minors and use of photos might be a fact of life in the near future.

Test of X-Ray Machines

The danger point in human absorption of radiation has never been officially set by scientists, but every attempt is made to keep this exposure at a minimum.

X-rays, one source of radiation, are constantly under study to find ways to reduce the already slight amount of radiation emitted.

In dentistry, for example, a survey has been made throughout Michigan to protect the public where x-rays are concerned.

Test pictures were taken on about 3,500 dental x-ray machines in Michigan to measure the amount of radiation to which the dentist and his patients were subjected.

Beam size was measured in tests conducted by the State Health Department and dentists whose machines indicated excessive beam size were given a lead disc or filter to reduce the intensity.

Less than half the machines tested required adjustment, said Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis. The machine test is still under way and officials expect that the total reduction in radiation as a result of the program will amount to well over 1.5 million roentgens per year, at an average of .5 roentgens per film.

Warning on Debts

Post-Christmas "debt pooling" can be a fool-hardy gimmick, warns State Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

"Ads which offer to help you retain peace of mind, get your creditors off your back, avoid garnishments, get out of debt without a loan, protect your job and your credit, all by turning over $15 or $25 a week to a debt pooler, sound good but the results can be most sad," said Kelley.

Recent complaints to the attorney general's office indicate some persons have had as many creditors at the door as ever, even after conscientiously paying debt poolers the agreed upon sum for months.

Kelley emphasizes each person has a right to hire a budget manager or debt adjuster. "But you should know that if the person you hire does not satisfactorily adjust your debts and carry out the glowing promises so often made, there is little the law can do to help you out of your troubles."

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was discussing this romance affair atwixt Liz Taylor and this feller Burton and that calls fer a heap of discussing.

First off, Mrs. Burton allowed as how Mr. Burton was the kindest man in the world for allowing her to git her divorce on the grounds of him being extreme cruel. Ed Doolittle said nobody but a Solomon could figure that one out.

Then Liz, that changes husbands to match her wardrobe, has been married in four different brands of religious faiths and ain't found one yet that has stuck. In the meantime, her and Burton has been living together fer two year in what they was calling a "courtship" arrangement. The whole thing was so confusing that the fellers just decided Liz and this feller deserved each other and let it go at that.

Clem Webster was of the opinon that Liz was a good example of how the wimmen folks was getting to be more of a problem ever day. At his house, fer instant, Clem said it was automatical fer his old lady to have the last word, but what was gitting him down was them thousand words afore she got down to the last one.

Bug Hooxum allowed as how the law said a husband was the head of the house, and he had noted where the courts has ruled a pedestrian has the right of way, and Bug was of the opinion that both was safe if they didn't try to demand their rights.

When the fellers at the country store git to discussing wimmen, Mister Editor, things can go in any direction. Zeke Grubb claimed we needed a new law again a woman having a hair-do more'n one foot high. He said he might compermise fer 18 inches and that was his ceiling. But it was general agreed they ain't nothing in the Constitution again them space hairdos. One of the fellers recollected New York passed a law again the tatto business but the big court held again the law, claimed it was infringing on personal liberty.

Josh Clodhopper figgered maybe the fellers was too hard on the wimmen folks, said he was reading a piece in the papers where a couple was celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary and the husband claimed in all them years his old lady ain't never changed the furniture around in the parlor. If he's telling the truth I'd have to say he got hisself a gem of pure gold.

Personal, Mister Editor, the only thing I know fer certain about a gal is that the first thing she notices about a feller is whether he notices her.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Scientific Formulas Helpful in Driving

Scientific formulas are helpful in many ways. Here are two simple formulas about driving and car care which could save your life! Maintain one car-length between your car and the car ahead for every 10 miles per hour of speed; and one ounce of pressure against the windshield for every inch of windshield wiper blade length.

In other words: don't ride the other fellow's bumper, and be sure your windshield wipers are capable of doing a good job for you. Then you'll be able to see trouble while you still have room to do something about it.

Have your garageman check your windshield wiper; your following distance you can check for yourself.

Senator Philip A. Hart's REPORT from WASHINGTON

A few evenings ago, a very young lady invited me to play with her a game she'd received as a Christmas gift. It seemed a simple game. There were dice to roll and pieces to move along a set course toward an end goal.

But first it was necessary to read a formidable set of rules, printed in thick, numbered paragraphs. They turned out to be almost impossibly complicated and the reader found himself hacking through them as if through a jungle, with an undergrowth of obscure sentences closing in behind him at every step.

Finally, I gave up. It was too much like a workday in the Senate.

As this letter reaches you, the Senate will be approaching—or already engaged in—a filibuster on the Civil Rights bill, a bill that seeks to extend to the nation protections already on the books in Michigan.

So I thought it might be useful to you to have some insight into the rules by which this legislative contest will be played.

The filibuster is a device whereby a minority can thwart the will of the majority by talking a measure to death. A filibuster can't happen in the House because that body has strict rules limiting debate.

But in the Senate, a filibuster can be broken in only two ways:

1. By a two-thirds vote of the Senate (this is called "cloture").

2. By wearing down the filibusterers until they are no longer able to speak.

In previous civil rights filibusters, a coalition of Southern Democrats and conservative Republicans has made the first course impossible.

Although I hope cloture might prevail, let's assume the majority falls short of 67 and we must rely on physical exhaustion to wear down the obstructionists. What happens then?

Well, in order to have any chance at all of wilting the filibusterers, the leadership would have to call round-the-clock sessions. Let's say that 18 Southerners—convinced of the merit of their cause—carry on the filibuster. They could spell each other with only two or three men on the floor at any one time.

But at least 5 of their opponents would have to stay on hand. Because 51 constitutes a quorum. And if the Southerns call for a quorum, say at 3 a.m., and fewer than 51 Senators answer—then the rules say that the Senate must adjourn for the day.

Now, as long as the Senate stays in continuous session, each Senator may have only two turns to talk. But if the Senate adjourns, then the filibusterers not only get a rest, they also get another two turns.

So clearly a filibuster can go on forever unless the 51 Senators needed for a quorum stay close to the chamber, sleeping on cots and chairs. The question then becomes: Who wears out whom?

Moreover, the chances are there will be at least two filibusters: one, on the motion to consider the bill and; two, on the bill itself.

The bill can get through but only with strong determination by its supporters.

The Senate rule on debate, however, is only of the many archaic regulations that govern Congress, slowing its work and making it often unresponsive to the will of the citizen majority.

Congressional reform, I have come to believe, is one of the most urgent national issues before us. Undramatic? Yes? Hard to explain? Yes. This discussion has centered largely on the debate mittees and other functions are equally in need of repair.

Only Congress' 535 members play by its inscrutable rules. But every citizen has a stake in the game.

Sheriff's Dept. January Report Lists 1 Fatality

The drivers' license bureau of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department issued a total of 1,567 licenses during January according to the monthly report of activities of the department by Sheriff George A. Peterssen.

The number included 60 duplicate licenses, 287 chauffeur renewals, 1,074 operator renewals and 146 originals. Fees collected amounted to $4,118.25.

The report lists a total of 754 complaints answered during the month resulting in 238 arrests. A total of 111 warrants were closed; 476 civil papers were served; 139 accidents were investigated and a total of 109 traffic violations were recorded and handled.

Of the 139 accidents, one was listed as involving a fatality (one person was killed), 46 were listed as personal injury accidents with 77 persons injured, and 93 were called property damage accidents.

The department's cars were driven a total of 44,756 miles during January, the report stated.

It was also mentioned that 6,629 meals were served to Washtenaw County Jail inmates during the month.

Also included was a report of the dog control division stating that a total of 118 dogs were picked up and 93 complaints were handled.

CHANGE IN AID

Under President Johnson's orders, a blue ribbon panel of Administration officials have been conducting a reappraisal of the foreign aid program. Their aim is to change it into something more acceptable to Congress.

Representative Passman (D., La.) is against any proposal to give the foreign aid program a new look. One idea is to absorb the present aid organization into other agencies of the State Department. Another is to separate the military assistance and the economic aid components of the controversial program.

A VISIT to the exhibit of youthful inventor Alexander Graham Bell at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876 by Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil, helped gain public acceptance of Bell's new-fangled invention—the telephone.

Brazilian Emperor Helped Telephone Gain Acceptance

Preparations for the New York World's Fair in April recall how the visit by the Emperor of Brazil to another famous fair 88 years ago helped pave the way for the development of a new-fangled invention—the telephone.

It was 1876 and the telephone was still in its infancy when Alexander Graham Bell took it with him to the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition.

Bell set up his telephone, regarded by many as a toy, on a table in the Massachusetts Educational Building. Above the table, he placed a sign that read, "Telegraphic and Telephonic Apparatus by A. Graham Bell."

The day for the judging of the exhibits was a hot one in June. By the time the judges reached Bell's exhibit they were tired and bored. They had seen many exhibits and probably were anxious to go home.

The judges, hurriedly walking through the building, probably never would have seen Bell's telephone had it not been for the Emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro. The Emperor had attended one of the inventor's lectures in Boston and when he saw Bell he called out to him. This greeting from an Emperor caused quite a stir and attracted the attention of the judges to Bell's exhibit.

While Bell was explaining the telephone to Dom Pedro, the judges collected around the exhibit. Bell had strung a wire the length of the room, and to demonstrate the new invention, Bell moved to the transmitter at one end of the room while the Emperor listened with the receiver to his ear.

Bell spoke a few words, and the Emperor amazed, exclaimed, "My God, it talks!"?

One of the judges, a Bristish physicist named Sir William Thomson, took up the receiver next. He nodded solemnly as he listened. "It does speak," he said emphatically, "It is the most wonderful thing I have seen in America."

The judges took turns talking and listening until late that evening. The next day, after presenting an award to Bell, they moved his exhibit to the judges' pavilion where it attracted large crowds.

Thus, this first exhibit of the telephone, which had attracted Dom Pedro, the Emperor of Brazil, helped gain public acceptance of the telephone and aided its development for useful purposes.

Ever since that reception at the Philadelphia Exposition, the Bell Telephone System has participated in fairs and expositions throughout the world, showing new advances in communications.

This year at New York, the new "Touch-Tone" telephones, the latest push-button models, will be a part of the Bell Telephone exhibit. But, it's doubtful they'll cause as much of a stir as did Bell's invention in 1876 in Philadelphia.

Notaries Have Long History of Service in State

Lansing—With well over 80,000 notaries public in Michigan, few of us have to travel a great distance to avail ourselves of their services.

But when notaries first came into being in Michigan . . . at least 160 years ago . . . our pioneer forefathers had to travel many miles, often through hostile Indian territory to have a document notarized.

According to Michigan records, back in 1805 when Michigan first became a territory, Samuel Abbott of Michillimackinac was appointed a notary by territorial Governor William Hull. This was 32 years before Michigan became a state.

The job of commissioning notaries in Michigan has grown since that time, however, and the Secretary of State's office reports that in January of 1964, an all-time high monthly total of 2,281 notaries received commissions, 50 more than the previous record. Michigan has been averaging more than 20,000 commissions each year.

Open House Slated Today At School for Handicapped

Today (Thursday) is Open House at Sullivan school. Classes will not be interrupted, but conducted tours will be made through the building.

On Feb. 17, Dr. Otto Engelke will speak about first aid and emergency measures as they are related to epileptics and the retarded child.

The school, according to Phyllis Garner, editor of their Newsletter, is looking for a volunteer typist-secretary for one-half day a week. The principal qualification seems to be patience—as for pay: "coffee furnished."

The senior class at Sullivan will be working on a letter-stuffing project whereby they can earn money to invest in raw materials for their major project for a spring bazaar. They need donations of clip clothespins, plastic bottles, half-bushel baskets, old greeting cards other than Christmas cards, scrap pieces of felt, old buttons, and scrap material at least 8"x8" in size to use for their bazaar.

The Intermediate school is starting to study about growing plants and have planted seeds in a plant stand. Primary children have placed bird feed and are watching for birds outside their window. They are also learning to say "Pledge of Allegiance."

Because the number of handicapped children served in Michigan and the number of professional special educators in public schools have both increased 150 percent since 1959 when the State Legislative Act 18 was enacted which put $12,000,000 limitation on Special Educational Programs in the state, Sullivan school joins with the Washtenaw Council for Exceptional Children in asking that concerned persons write their legislators in an effort to remove the $12,000,000 limitation.

State Revenue Team Recovers $29,000

Lansing — Close co-operation between a pair of state departments, Secretary of State and the Department of Revenue, has brought nearly $29,000 back into state coffers, in the form of collections of use tax in certain isolated vehicle transactions.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose office announced the recoveries, these "collections involved several hundred persons who were either attempting to evade or avoid their just and equitable use tax payments on vehicle transactions and others who, likely, did not know the law which governs these situations."

Collections resulted when the Revenue Department reviewed several thousand cases that did not fall within allowable exemptions outlined in the statute, Hare said.

In a complicated age, we sometimes forget that the simple way (if not the easy way) to gain what we want may be the only effective way. So next time you have a desire for something, don't hint, don't hope, don't procrastinate—simply ask for it. And don't be shocked if you get it.

Traffic Toll Continues To Climb

Michigan's present provisional road toll of 1,867 deaths for 1963 may climb as high as 1,895 when all delayed reports are in and there may be some increase as well in last year's new record highs of 123,749 persons injured and 257,694 accidents, State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs has reported.

The death total, sixth highest in 31 years of record-keeping, was also the worst, since 1955 when 2,016 were killed. The provisional count is 296, or about 20 percent, greater than 1,571 fatalities in 1962.

The new injury and accident records exceed the previous marks of 108,143 and 233,078, respectively, set in 1962, and include December's totals of 14,707 injuries and 34,916 accidents which were the highest ever reported for any month in Michigan.

Final figures, expected in March, will probably raise 1963's provisional totals by one to two percent.

The increases in deaths, injuries and accidents last year can be attributed largely to greater accident exposure as new highs also were set in vehicles, drivers and mileage. Topping previous marks set in 1962, registered motor vehicles gained 147,300, or four percent, to 3,646,080; licensed drivers increased by 78,000 or two percent, to 4,285,495; and estimated mileage rose seven percent to 35.5 billion.

The death rate of 5.3 per 100 million vehicle miles was 13 per cent more than 4.7 in 1962, the all-time low also reached in 1958.

Estimated cost of the 1963 accidents was $340 million.

The state's 144 traffic deaths in January this year were 37, or 34 percent, more than 107 in the same month a year ago. It was the third worst January in 32 years and the highest since 166 were killed in that month in 1956.

Meanwhile, final figures for December showed 183 deaths, 71 or 63 percent more than 112 in the same month in 1962. This was the highest December toll since 1955 when 190 died.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Starts Feb. 28

More than 7,000 Girl Scouts of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council will be selling some of the 55 million boxes of Girl Scout cookies available in the United States to help raise money to support camping programs.

The 7,191 Girl Scouts of this Council, which is an agency of the United Fund, and includes Washtenaw, Livingston and Western Wayne counties, will be taking orders from Feb. 28 through March 15. The cookies will be 45 cents a package and this year they will offer five different varieties including Savannahs, Chocolate and Vanilla, Four Flavor Shorties, Scot-Teas and Mints.

The Barry Co., which is supplying the cookies in our area is one of five bakers licensed by the National Girl Scouts to make and box the cookies.

Cookies will be delivered April 20-22.

Girl Scouts have divided the cost of the package as follows: 15½ cents goes for camping; 1½ cents goes into a contingency fund; 1 cent used for national and international events; and 22½ cents, cost of the box to the Council.

All the Girl Scouts will be in uniform and the Brownies will be accompanied by adults when they ask for your orders.

ASCS Urges Early Reply to Wheat Cards

Farmers in Washtenaw county who have wheat acreage allotments on their farms have been mailed postal cards which they are asked to complete and return to the ASCS county office as soon as possible, Max Kalmbach, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

While postal cards have been used in previous years in connection with wheat allotment programs, the chairman explained, their return this year is more important than ever.

Since marketing quotas are not in effect for 1964, farm measurements of 1964 wheat acreage will not be made unless requested either by returning the card or by calling at the ASCS county office to furnish needed information. Upon request, the farm visit to measure the wheat acreage will be made without cost to the farmer.

The card asks (1) how many acres of wheat will be harvested for grain on the farm in 1964, (2) whether the farmer intends to apply for price support on the 1964 wheat crop, and (3) if the allotment is more than 15.5 acres and the farmers will not apply for price support, whether he wants the wheat measured to preserve maximum acreage history credit.

Chairman Kalmbach urges that farmers return the cards as soon as possible so that the county office may obtain measurements and give producers an opportunity to adjust excess wheat acreage before the final disposition date. This date in Washtenaw county is June 10.

★ Spreading Fertilizer

For the fourth year in a row, we have written this story. Another year, another report of Soviet farm failure. Again, the Mad Man of the Kremlin is mad. Again, heads will roll. Three hours of talk, talk, talk, by Khrushchev himself.

This time he slipped closer to truth, for continuous crop failures are driving him there. But there still is no sign that he or the Central Committee of the Communist Party intends to give farm people the kind of freedoms they must have to get the job done. The key is personal initiative, the tender loving care of a farmer for his crops, for his livestock and machinery.

But let Comrade Khruschev illustrate his problem in his own words, delivered before a conference of frightened "agricultural workers." He is talking about the use of fertilizers:

"Unfortunately, the following shameful practice occurs: A farm is allocated mineral fertilizers; they are delivered from the plant to a railroad station and are thrown from the car straight down the embankment, and this wealth lies there for months and loses its value.

"The bourgeois press criticizes us, with full justification, for this lack of thrift. I read an article in one American publication describing how, at some railroad stations in the Soviet Union, mountains of mineral fertilizer accumulate; snow falls and covers them and children slide down them on sleds.

"This is inconceivable to an American farmer. He pays money for fertilizers and knows that if they aren't used he will, as they say, 'go broke.' Therfore the farmers store mineral fertilizers in sheds, while the industry packs them in polyethylene bags. The farmer takes care of his fertilizer as an extremely valuable aterial.

"From time to time, state and collective farm officials receive telegrams from production administrations threatening them with reprimands, if they do not remove their mineral fertilizers from the stations . . ."

Finally, when he had shouted himself out, No. 1 Communist Khrushchev hit on the nerve of his problem when he said, "We must adandon the principle of a little bit for everybody." He is so right. Unfortunately, he was still talking only about fertilizer.

Social Security Number Required On Tax Returns

Taxpayers are now required to include their social security number on tax returns, R. I. Nixon, District Director of Internal Revenue, today reminded all those who file returns in the Detroit District.

Nixon said that individuals filing joint returns need supply only the social security number of the husband if he is reporting his income and the wife has no income. If both husband and wife report income from wages, dividends, interest, etc., then both of their social security numbers must be put on the joint return.

However, cautioned Nixon, taxpayers should not delay filing their returns if the wife does not have a social security number.

Applications for numbers may be made on Form SS-5 or Form 3227. These forms may be obtained from the local Social Security office or Internal Revenue Service office.

New Rigid Plastic Foam Has Promise As Building Material

East Lansing — A new material called rigid plastic foam should have a bright future in the building industry, a Farmers' Week audience at Michigan State University.

"No new material has captured the imagination of architects and structures designers more than rigid plastic foam," said C. Herbert Wheeler, Jr., housing research engineer for Curtiss-Wright Corp.

According to Wheeler, the new material is lightweight, transparent and thin; has good insulating qualities, and is easy to handle.

Mrs. George Ellenwood, the Jaycee Auxiliary's representative to the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children, reported at Tuesday's meeting and Auxiliary members plan to save Betty Crocker coupons to help the Junior High special education class in Chelsea obtain a set of silverware.

Announcement was made that all Chelsea Jaycee and Auxiliary couples are invited to attend the Charter Night dinner and program of the newly-organized Dexter Jaycees on March 7. The state Jaycee president, Merritt Martin of Saline, will be present.

Also announced was the Jaycees spring district meeting at Saline March 23. Reservations for the meeting must be made by March 16.

The bigger the author, the smaller the words he tries to use.

What's more, it is attractive and can cut building costs.

He told of a rigid foam igloo on Baffin Island, Canada. In subfreezing temperature, the foam was such an effective insulator that with only the small lamp normally used to heat an igloo, it became so hot that the inhabitants had to leave after three hours.

One Indiana auditorium using rigid foam was produced at half the cost of a conventional auditorium seating the same number of people, he said.

Put Landscape Plan on Paper As First Step

East Lansing — The first and most important step in developing a home landscape is to put your plan on paper, a University of Illinois landscape architect said this month at Michigan State University.

Speaking before a Farmers' Week audience, William R. Nelson said that "most home landscapes are the result of impulsive selection in planting without forethought of overall effect." The result is money wasted on disappointing landscapes.

"A plan will show you the position and size of everything on the property and everything you wish to place there," he said. "It will allow you to make changes easily so that you can get the best possible organization for your lot and your family's activities."

The ideal plan, he suggested, coordinates the indoor public, work, service, living and private areas with the outdoor public, work, service, living and private areas so that you can pass easily from one to the other.

Good Lighting Found Everywhere Except at Home

East Lansing — Good lighting is all around us—till we get home. According to Doris Wolfe, home service adviser for Consumer Power Co., Jackson, too many homes are poorly lighted. And, poor lighting can contribute to eyestrain and accidents and can detract from the interior design.

Speaking before a Farmers' Week audience at Michigan State University, Miss Wolfe said that offices are well-lighted because office managers have recognized the value of lighting to keep up employee morale and speed production.

"Today's school children study in beautifully lighted classrooms because architects and educators realize that children's eyes, as well as their minds, are in the formative stages and need extra protection."

Free Bulletin Helps in Choosing Automatic Washer

Selecting an automatic washer isn't easy. Because of new developments in textile fibers and finishes, washer manufacturers are giving us more choices of cycles and features, according to a new bulletin, "Choosing and Using your Automatic Washer."

The bulletin is made available by the Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service.

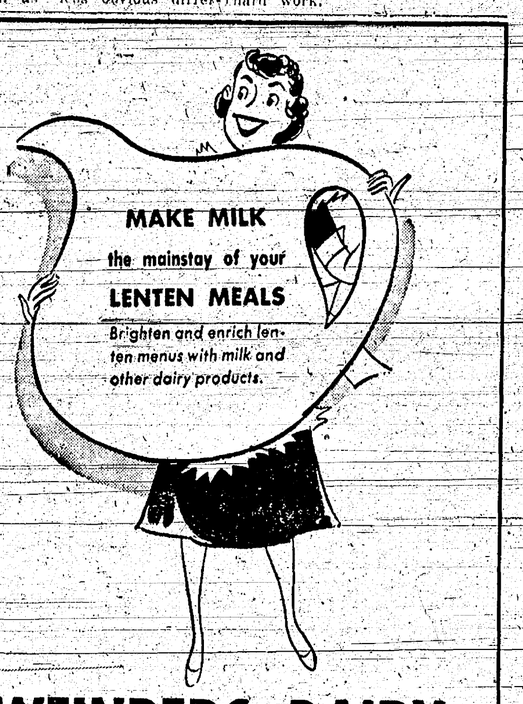

In order to help you make a selection, the bulletin explains "obvious differences between models such as price, controls, and cycles, as well as "less obvious differences," such as the water fill system, rinsing and lint removal.

"An automatic washer is a convenience," states author Constance Burgess of the University of California. "It is also a time and energy saver, but it is something of a luxury if your first consideration is money.

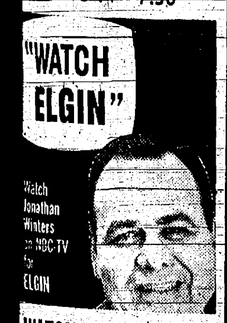

The author also discusses the cost of installation as well as service and operating costs.

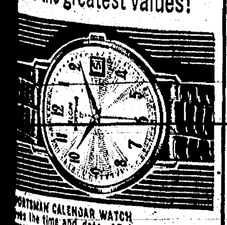

You may order the bulletin from Mrs. Alice Epple, your county extension agent in home economics, at Washtenaw County Building. When you do ask for "Choosing and Using Your Automatic Washer," E-866. There is no charge.

The best laid plans in the world will not produce dollars unless they are backed by energy and hard work.

Herman Koenn Re-Elected To Head Michigan ADA

Herman Koenn of 2010 Hayes Rd., Chelsea, was re-elected president if the American Dairy Association of Michigan at a meeting of the association's board of directors held at Kellogg Center in Lansing. The board meeting was held Thursday evening, Feb. 6, preceding the 22nd annual meeting of the association, held on Friday. Official announcement of the election was made this week.

Newly-elected as vice-president was Charles Davis of Onondaga and re-elected were George Austin of Ovid, treasurer, and Boyd Rice of Lansing, secretary-manager.

Seated as new board members were William Van Frank of Muskegon, Jack Budd of Belleville, Arthur Walgamoud of Sturgis, and Reginald Turner of Sault Ste Marie.

C. L. Reynolds of Pinconning, a charter member of the board, announced his retirement.

Lunch was served to 700 people at the membership meeting on Friday.

Among the speakers at the meeting were M. J. Framberger manager of the American Dairy Association at Chicago, Milton Hult, president and manager of the National Dairy Council, and Boyd Rice, secretary-manager of the ADA in Michigan.

Rice pointed out that 70 percent of the state's dairy farmers support the American Dairy Association's sales programs through a set-aside of two cents per hundred pounds of milk marketed.

Framberger's talk included the statement that milk now represents more than one-third of all beverages consumed in American homes. He said the organization has a budget of $7,500,000 to promote sales of milk and dairy products in 1964.

Hult, during his talk, told the convention that dairy farmers must not underestimate public interest in health. "Our job," said Hult, "is to establish the need for milk for health and well being."

In line with this thinking, Koenn said, the ADA of Michigan has hired a full-time home economist, to work throughout the state to promote food education through personal contact programs and by means of television and radio broadcasts. She is Miss Mary Jackson, a graduate of Michigan State University, formerly employed by Consumers Power Co.

Koenn, a Chelsea area dairy farmer is a member of the Michigan State Grange, the Dairy Advisory Committee to Michigan State University and a member of the Market Committee of Michigan Milk Producers' Association.

He gave his annual report at the ADA convention.

Who Fares Worst in Inflation?

...flation redistributes the na...l wealth in some peculiar and ...reen ways.

...ose who warn against the in...nary effects of government ...ts are sometimes regarded as ...y trying to protect positions ...renched wealth. But a new ... of the effects of inflation ... 1949 shows that, by and ..., it is the less-prosperous groups who suffer most from the wealth-transferring effects of inflation. The better-off groups are not affected as severely, and sometimes even gain through inflation.

The new study is an examination of the national balance sheet of the United States, and is published under the sponsorship of the National Bureau of Economic Research. Like all the National Bureau publications, it is a thorough, detailed, and completely unbiased analysis of its subject matter.

The process of inflation does not create any real wealth nor does it, directly, destroy any real wealth. What it does is transfer wealth from one group of holders to another. The direction of such transfers, as revealed in this study, contains some surprises.

The way an individual family is affected by inflation depends on a number of factors: its debtor or creditor position, its status as a home owner or renter, its ownership o fstocks, etc.

The chief beneficiary of the rising price trend during the past 15 years has been the federal government. It has gained in net worth because its liabilities, in the form of public debt, are in effect reduced by inflation.

But this gain to the federal government had to come out of somebody's pockets. It turns out that it came mainly out of the pockets of lower-income families who rent their living quarters—especially older people in this classification. This would include a large number of the less-prosperous urban families who are the cause of so much concern by advocates of welfare programs.

Persons owning mortgaged homes and to gain on balance from inflation. Inflation reduces the real burden of their mortgage debt.

Upper-income families, whether they own or rent their homes, are as a class protected from the transfers of wealth involved in inflation. Typically such families own corporate stocks and a rising trend in prices exerts an upward leverage on the value of their holdings.

These are of course broad generalizations to which there may be many individual exceptions. But they make it clear that in a war on poverty a holding action against inflation must be an important objective.

Leap Year Proves Helpful To Calendar, Young Ladies

Ann Arbor — Whether you believe in "leap-year proposals" or not, the extra day in February has nothing to do with romance, its purpose, simply, is to lessen the degree of error in our calendar, claims University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

In developing calendars, man has tried to combine natural measures of time—the solar day, the lunar month, the year of the seasons—in the most convenient ways. But great difficulties have been encountered, because these measures do not fit evenly one into another," Professor Losh notes.

For example, "the year for our calendar" is set up in terms of the tropical or the year of the seasons. It is defined as the interval between successive arrivals of the sun at the vernal equinox, very nearly 365.2522 days.

"But the fraction is not known exactly, and probably the precise value could not be expressed by a finite number of digits following the decimal point."

To correct the situation, Julius Ceasar in 46 B.C. decided to add an extra day to every year evenly divisible by 4 (for example, 1964) However, by 1582 A. D. it became known that under the Julian Calendar three too many leap years for every four centuries had been added.

So a reform of the calendar had to be considered and our present system, the Gregorian Calendar, was proposed by Pope Gregory XIII. It was decided that the division by 4 should be kept but that of the century years (1600, 1700, etc.) only those exactly divisible by 400 should be leap years.

"This system cut down the error considerably, the length of the calendar year averaging out to 365.2425 days, differing from the tropical year by only .0003 days. This small inaccuracy still remains in our calendar, but is considered practically inconsequential," Professor Losh says.

JOHNSON AND PEARSON

President Johnson and Canada's Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson concluded two days of talks with a show of harmony—the signing of two United States-Canadian pacts.

One is an agreement designed to carry out the aims of the Columbia River Treaty. The other is an agreement for an international park at Campobello, the Canadian island summer home of the late President Roosevelt.

ON NIKE ANTI-MISSILE

This may be the year of decision for the Nike-X anti-missile system.

If President Johnson and Defense Secretary McNamara decide to permit production, it could mean spending ultimately as much as $20,000,000,000 . . .

President Kennedy approved the Nike-X project a year ago and indications are that progress has been swift.

Ministers Group Plans Community Lenten Series

At the special meeting of the Chelsea Ministers Fellowship Thursday at the Methodist church the ministers looked over the chancel and made arrangements for the Community Lenten Series planned for Wednesday evenings in Lent.

Present were the president, Mr. Schnake, Mr. Full and Mr. Weiss, Mr. Craig, Mr. Smucker and Mr. Livingston. Other ministers are welcome at any time and should plan on the next meeting which will be held after Easter at St. Barnabas at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, April 7. They contribute 25 cents to the cost of a light breakfast.

Arrangements for the Community Lenten Series were planned. Miss Mary Jane Endersby will play the organ and is to be paid from offering. The host minister is to have the order of service at the Methodist Church by Thursday of the week before for the organist. The host church is to furnish and print programs, and to provide five ushers and to arrange publicity for the service. It was repeated that the Methodist church was selected as the site for this ecumenical Lenten series to demonstrate Christian unity and for the convenience of the attenders since it provides easy parking and one location.

Mr. Stanford, chaplain of the Methodist Home asked the ministers to bring their Community Lenten Series messages to the Home Chapel for the Tuesday services there. Several will be able to do this.

Good Friday Community Services will be at 1:30 p.m. and the ministers decided to ask Kiwanis Club members to usher. Kiwanian Fall will contact them. Also it was decided to ask the high school choir to sing for the Good Friday service.

Mr. Smucker was elected treasurer of the group to take charge of the offerings.

The ministers decided to put off a much-postponed meeting with the Village Council until April 14 because of busy Lenten schedules and elections.

Mr. Livingston reported that representative high school youth had put on a successful celebration of Youth Week at the Methodist Home Chapel, and afterwards decided to organize a United Christian Youth Council of Chelsea. Their next meeting will be Monday, March 2 at 4 p.m. at the School library to discuss purpose and methods. Each church is invited to send two youths.

CFM Group Are Guests of St. Barnabas

Members of the Christian Family Movement (CFM) group of St. Mary's Catholic church were guests of St. Barnabas Episcopal congregation at the monthly family night supper at the church Thursday evening. They were accompanied by the group's chaplain, the Rev. Fr. Umberto Mellare.

Jack Merkel, acting as chairman of the CFM group, conducted a demonstration of a typical meeting which included reading of Bible passages, a panel discussion of the Scripture presented, the liturgy and life of the church and a discussion of various social problems.

From these discussions, it was pointed out, concrete action by the group results and various projects in the area of social concerns have been instigated.

The demonstration meeting was followed by a discussion period. Thirteen members of the CFM group were present for the evening.

Just A Minute . . .

By the Rev. James A. Craig

The rush and clamor of the hotel lobby seemed to multiply the number of people. With an amazing regularity the man at the desk punched a bell and called "front."

Everytime someone neatly uniformed responded. And another guest was shown to a room.

Watching, one was impressed with the ease with which people were summoned to carry suitcases. For some it was with the studied ease of the amateur traveller. For some it was the confidence of a person long accustomed to service. The bellboys (none of whom were boys) even took on a look of similarity. Dressed the same, smiling, with similar mannerisms, it was only tall or short, light or dark, thin or fat, that distinguished them. They all responded quickly to a bell.

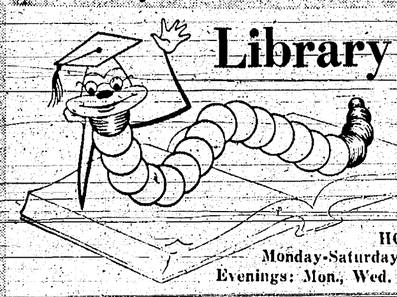

In much the same way we, rushing along, summon God to our service. We seek a celestial bellboy to carry our load. We think all that is required of us is a tip.

In Grand Central Station a porter offers to carry bags and burdens. He knows of a God who comes before we call to take our load on himself.

Prayer "Lord, teach us to pray."

Good manners is good form even on the highways.

Bulldogs Set Scoring Mark With 110 Total

Hapless Pinckney Squad Victims Of 'Hot' Night

The Chelsea Bulldogs established a new scoring record by making 110 points in the victory over Pinckney at Pinckney Friday night.

Curt Farley, Gary Dresch, Carl Walker, Mike Tarasow and Jim Cameron rang up an early 28-2 first quarter lead over the hapless Pirates.

The second quarter was played by Jock Crawford, Dennis Stoffer, Dick Lauhon, Charles Schmunk, Jim Hanson, Ed Windell, and Jeff Flintoft. They completely demoralized the Pinckney squad by scoring 30 points in that quarter. Dennis Stoffer accounted for 10 and Jock Crawford picked up 8. Aggressive rebounding by Crawford set up many fast-breaking opportunities. Before the game was over he took down 15 rebounds.

The third quarter was played by the starting five and they proceeded to stuff 30 more points in the basket. Farley scored 8, Dresch 7, and Walker 6.

The final quarter was a long period. The Bulldogs visualized scoring 100 points for the first time in history. Finally, with two minutes remaining in the game, Jeff Flintoft passed to Jim Hanson on a fast break, and Hanson scored the 100th point. The tension was off and the Bulldogs scored 10 more points before it was over.

Coach Terry Pokela said later "I hate to score 100 points against anyone but the kids were hot and playing the style of ball we have been waiting for all year—fast-break. There certainly was no intent on my part or that of the players to run the score up as high as possible. Pinckney happened to run into us on a hot night and that was it. We scored on 50 percent of our shots—46 field goals out of 92 attempts."

Five Chelsea players scored in two figures—Curt Farley, 21; Gary Dresch, 17; Dennis Stoffer, 16; Dick Lauhon, 12; and Jock Crawford, 10.

Other Chelsea scorers included Carl Walker, 9; Jim Cameron, 8; Jim Hanson, 6; Charles Schmunk, 4; Mike Tarasow, 3; and Ed Windell and Jeff Flintoft, each 2.

Cagers Lose Tuesday to U-High, 70-76

Tuesday night's basketball game at U-High, Ann Arbor, went to the Ann Arbor team by a score of 70-76.

U-High jumped to a 26-20 first quarter lead and maintained the lead throughout the game. Chelsea tied on several occasions but never could get ahead even though, at times, it began to look like the game would turn in Chelsea's favor only to be denied by a quick two points or foul shot by the big U-High forwards — Laughna and Freeman.

Free throws hurt the Bulldogs in the final quarter as U-High scored on 14 of 15.

Curt Farley played an outstanding game for Chelsea and led the scoring with 9 points. Charles Schmunk and Mike Tarasow contributed some good shooting and rebounding at critical times.

Scoring for Chelsea was as follows: Farley, 34; Charles Schumnk, 13; Mike Tarasow, 10; Jim Cameron, 7; Gary Dresch, Jock Crawford and Jim Hanson, each 2.

Coach Terry Poekla, summarizing the game said "The small size of the U-High court definitely hampered the Bulldogs. The close quarters reduced our fast break to nothing. The taller U-High players surely benefitted by not having as much area to cover on offense and defense. Hometown teams usually have the advantage on their own court but in this case the advantage was tremendous."

Manchester comes to Chelsea for a game tomorrow night (Friday).

JV Cagers Win At Pinckney, Lose to U-High

After extending their winning streak to eight games with a 78-38 triumph over Pinckney on Friday night, the Chelsea High school JV basketball team was defeated, 50-49 by the University High Junior Varsity Tuesday night at Ann Arbor. The Little Bulldogs have won 11 and lost 3 for the season.

In the Pinckney game Chelsea jumped off to a 21-5 lead at the end of the first quarter and increased the margin to 39-15 at intermission. A 27-point third quarter put the home team ahead, 66-24, before Pinckney outscored their hosts, 14-12, in the last stanza.

Tom Steele led the scoring for Chelsea with 21 while Oren Wireman and Dan Parsons each had 11. Mike Stevenson was high for Pinckney with 13.

Failure to convert on free throws was a contributing factor in the Little Bulldogs' loss to U-High. Chelsea outscored the Cubs by 12 points in the field goal department but U-High converted 26 of 39 charity tosses compared to 18 of 24 for Chelsea.

Holding leads of 18-10, 30-26, and 41-37 through the first three quarters, the Little Bulldogs were outscored 13 to 3, in the last period.

Dave Clark was high-point man for Chelsea with 14, Gary Houle added 13, Oren Wireman and Tom Steele had 8. John Landecker took game honors for U-High with 16.

The JV's will play their last home game of the season Friday night against Manchester. Starting time will be 6:45 p.m.

Intensive Recruiting Drive Underway for State Police

An unusual opportunity for young men to enter upon a highly interesting professional career with security has been opened up with Governor Romney's recommendation that the Michigan State Police enlist 200 more Troopers. Sgt. Hrebec, commander of the Jackson post, states.

An intensive recruiting drive is now underway to obtain recruit candidates, and interested young men are invited to call at any State Police post or write to the State Civil Service Commission at Lansing for details and application forms.

Additional officers are needed because of the shortened work week, rapidly mounting traffic toll, interstate expressway patrols and increasing volume of criminal activities, Sergeant Hrebec said.

"Not only the new five-day week, but the present fine pay scale which the Civil Service Commission recommends be increased four percent in July are among the attractions," Sgt. Hrebec said. "Also there is a daily subsistence allowance, paid vacations and paid sick leave, longevity pay, free uniforms and equipment and a pension plan which permits the officer to retire at the end of 25 years of service with half pay. If his wife survives him she also receives the same pension."

Right at the beginning of the training school the recruit goes on the payroll and in the trooper rank alone, with regular step increases, earns more than $7,200 annually. Promotions bring higher pay.

To be eligible young men must be between 21 and 29 years of age, single or married, not less than five feet 10 inches in height and have a high school education or its equivalent.

"This is a prestige career and young men are urged to inquire about it and fill out an pplication form, but do it right now," Sgt. Hrebec said. "Although applications may be made at any time, they must be received by the State Civil Service Commission by Feb. 28 to enter the next school, which starts in May."

A small school already scheduled begins March 9 with the big school opening in May and others following later to bring department strength up to 1,339.

Attend National Meeting Of School Administrators

School Superintendent Charles Cameron and Dr. Clare Warren, a member of the Chelsea School Board, are to return today from Atlantic City where they attended the annual meeting of the National Association of School Administrators. They left here Saturday.

A man is really getting old when he realizes that he is getting old.

Careful With Door-to-Door Salesmen

Chelsea residents are again being advised by village officials that they should exercise caution in dealing with door-to-door salesmen; residents should sign nothing without the advice of a competent person such as an attorney or other person familiar with contracts and sales agreements.

Door-to-door salesmen are required to secure a license from the village clerk before they begin calling at homes here. The permit, however, does not mean that the village authorities make any guarantees for the salesmen; it means only that his credentials appear to be in order and that apparently the firm he represents is legitimate.

In spite of the fact that a door-to-door salesman has a license, should he appear to be employing high pressure sales methods or remain persistent after being told that the householder is not interested, the police should be notified.

Police should also be notified at once if a door-to-door salesman does not have a license from the village clerk.

In any case, no soliciting is permitted after 9 p.m.

Some salesmen have resorted to making appointments with residents by telephone. In this way they do not require a license and householders should be doubly cautious about agreeing to buy anything or signing any agreement or contract.

Latest Statistics Reveal Michigan's Highway Carnage

Lansing — Michigan's highway blood-bath of 1963 was reflected in the latest accidents statistics released by the National Safety Council which found Michigan with the second highest percentage increase in the nation.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, chairman of the Michigan Safety Commission, the state's death toll was 20 percent over 1962 totals, second only to New Hampshire which increased 27 percent.

Among the bigger states, Hare said, Michigan had the largest increase in highway deaths. California was up five percent; Illinois showed an increase of seven percent; Ohio, eight percent over 1962; and Texas and Pennsylvania both 13 percent up.

The best record among the larger states belonged to New York which decreased 1 percent from 1962 totals.

Michigan presented a much better picture in the two-year period from 1961 to 1963, however, with 16 other states recording a higher percentage increase than Michigan's 21 percent, Hare said.

The death total country-wide in 1963 was 43,400, a six percent increase over 1962 totals and a hike of 14 percent over the two-year period.

★ Russia Ahead on Shelter Construction

Claim "Shelters would make nuclear war more likely, because they would (a) divert and weaken our efforts for peace, (b) make us feel more secure and therefore more reckless, or (c) provoke the Soviets, or at least increase their suspicions."

Answer "Our moderate U. S. shelter program is spread over five years, and it frankly does not purport to offer protection to millions of Americans from immediate blast and fire effects. Such a program is not likely to make the Soviets think we plan an attack; the announcement of the new shelter program in 1961 had no effect on them. The Russian civil defense program is far more extensive than ours.

Reducing our potential losses in a nuclear war from 100 million to 50 million Americans, as an effective fallout shelter system could do, would certainly not make this nation and its leaders feel secure or act recklessly. In fact, it would have a sobering and maturing influence on public attitudes toward the cold war.

For many years, the U. S. has actively sought the way to peace with the Soviet Union while strengthening all our defenses. With our civil defense outlays now amounting to less than .005 percent of our total defense budget, there is no reason to believe this passive-defense effort is weakening our national will for peace or draining off men materials that would aid peace efforts.

MEDICARE OPPOSITION

The health problems of the aged have grown more critical during the six years Congress has been discussing a social security-based system of care, AFL-CIO President George Meany said.

The House Ways and Means Committee was reported still predominantly opposed to a health care system based on the social security pay roll tax. But Chairman Mills (D., Ark.), an opponent of the measure, has given assurance it will be allowed to come to a vote.
