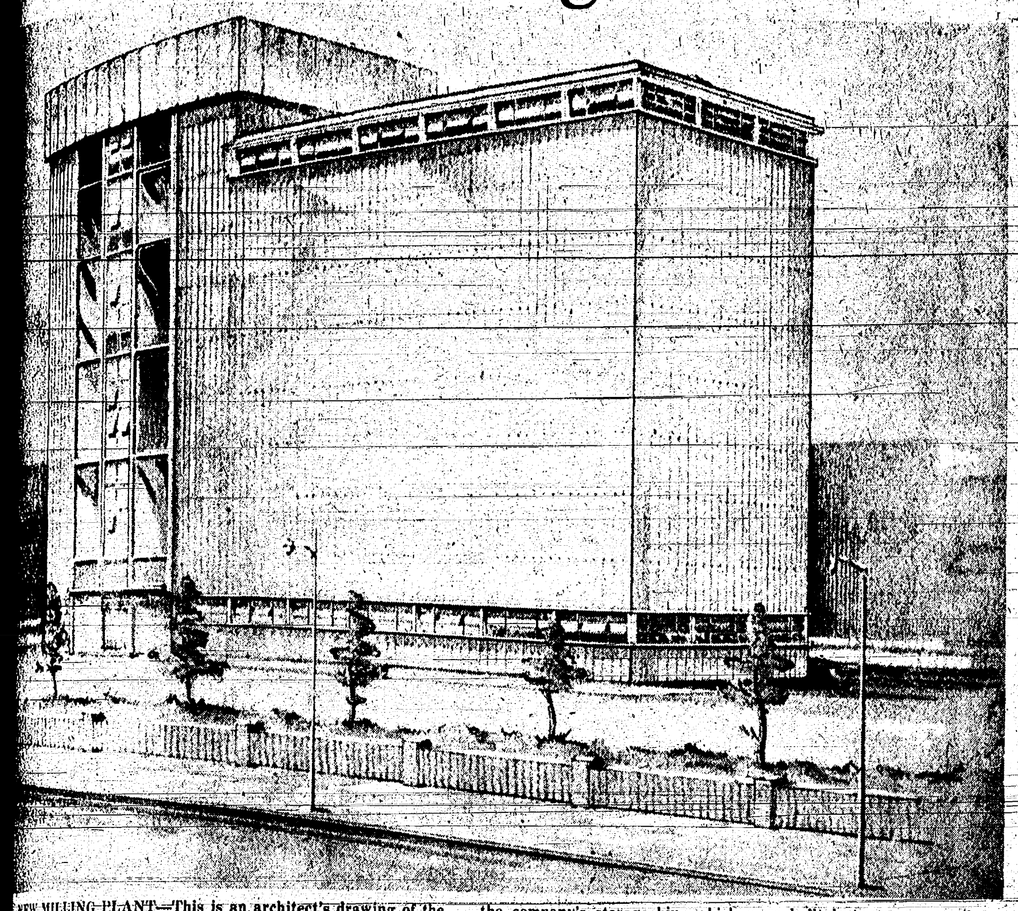
ew Flour Milling Plant Is Planned By Chelsea Milling Co.



NEW MILLING PLANT—This is an architect's drawing of the Chelsea Milling Co. building on which construction will begin in the next two or three weeks. The taller part of the structure will reach a height of 80 feet while the remainder of the building will be 70 feet high. This will be the appearance of the milling structure facing south. To be of the same type of construction as the company's storage bins which were built last summer on the south side of the New York Central Railroad tracks at Main St., construction men will work around the clock when once the forms are ready to begin pouring the concrete. Stout Construction Co., of Sylvania, O., builder of the storage bins, is also the contractor for the new mill building.

Chelsea Milling Co. announced this week that a new mill building will be built on the company's property south of the present office building and storage bins which adjoin the present mill on North St.

Construction is to begin within the next two weeks and it is expected the mill will be completed and in operation by the end of the year.

The new building will be equipped as a pneumatic mill—all stocks will be handled, processed and conveyed by air in enclosed bins and conveyors. It will be impossible for foreign matter of any kind to come in contact with the product during the manufacturing and packaging process — from the time the grain is taken in for milling until it has been converted to flour, mixed with other ingredients and comes out as one of the 14 Jiffy Mixes now manufactured by the company.

The new milling equipment is coming from the firm of Henry Simon, Ltd., Cheadle Heath, Stockport, which is near Manchester, in England. The firm has designed and planned the installation of the new Chelsea milling and processing equipment.

The pneumatic milling process is an efficient and highly sanitary method of production, assuring purity of the finished product. Because the flour products are completely controlled by air forces inside of the conveyors, no dust can escape into the surrounding area, thus eliminating the nuisance of flour dust which finds its way into all parts of a building in other methods of milling.

The new mill is part of the company's long-range plan to provide space and equipment for its greatly expanded business.

New storage bins were constructed on Main St. south of the New York Central tracks last summer in anticipation of the need for large quantities of grain for the new mill which will be capable of operating at three times the capacity of the present mill. Current capacity approximates 1,300 100-pound bags of flour products per day.

As the new mill gets into operation it is expected the output will be 3,000 hundredweights per day with the eventual goal being 4,200 hundredweights.

Annual output of Jiffy Mixes will reach a total of 600 million packages when the maximum production goal is reached. Currently 200 million packages of Jiffy Mixes are produced for distribution in all parts of the United States and Canada and for use at military installations throughout the world.

At the time the business became the property of the Holmes family before the turn of the century, the mill's capacity was 200 100-pound bags of flour per day. With the addition of new equipment, the capacity by 1921 was increased to 600 100-pound bags and later to the 1,300 hundredweights which has been the daily capacity production since 1958.

Howard and Dudley Holmes, third generation members of the family, and their mother, Mrs. H. S. Holmes, Sr., are still owners of the mill —Howard Holmes being president and secretary; his twin brother, Dudley, vice-president and treasurer; and their mother a vice-president of the firm.

The company's Jiffy Mixes now include six kinds of cake, three kinds of frosting, corn muffins, honey date muffins, chocolate brownies, pie crust and biscuit mixes. The company's entire business is now the production of these mixes.

Their first Jiffy Mixes were introduced in 1930, pioneering in the production of the ready-mix type of baking products which now are considered standard staples in homes throughout the country.

The new mill building will be 100 feet long from east to west and 44 feet wide. Height of the east end will be 80 feet while the remainder of the building will be 70 feet high.

It will be constructed of monolithic concrete. Movable forms will be made for the entire four walls of the building, similar to those used in last summer's construction of the company's new storage bins on the south side of the railroad track. Workmen must continue work around the clock in all kinds of weather when concrete pouring gets underway. The form is gradually raised as the walls take shape.

This unique building process drew hundreds of sightseers to Chelsea last summer while the grain bins were under construction.

After the walls of the new mill are completed to their full height, the floors will be added. The lower portion of the building will have five floors and the 80-foot section will have six floors.

Conveying equipment which passes high above the railroad tracks will carry the grain from the storage bins south of the tracks to the new mill. There will be a double row of square storage bins on the inside at the south side of the 70-foot-high section of the new building. From these bins (eight in each of the two rows) the mixes will be processed at the various floor levels through the pneumatic milling equipment. Each of the 16 bins will have a capacity of 1,000 hundredweights, an indication of the vast production levels possible.

The present mill will be used for additional production space; however, the actual milling, processing and mixing will all be done in the new building with the new pneumatic equipment.

Stout Construction Co. of Sylvania, O., the contractor who constructed the Chelsea Milling Co. storage bins last summer on Main St. at the Railroad tracks, is the construction contractor for the new mill building.

Dollars for Scholars Nets $520 in Drive

The "Dollars For Scholars" one-day campaign for funds last Friday netted a total of $420 in contributions in addition to a $100 life membership.

Donations may still be mailed in to Chelsea State Bank, addressing them to Chelsea Community Educational Fund.

Volunteers who assisted in the "Dollars For Scholars" project Friday included members of the Kiwanis-sponsored Key club of Chelsea High school and members of the Chelsea Teachers Club, as well as representatives of other organizations.

The $520 proceeds of Friday's campaign will be added to the $1,253 available for student loans at the time the Chelsea Community Educational Foundation was incorporated.

The fund is now an available source from which qualified and deserving graduates of Chelsea High school may borrow in furtherance of their advanced education or for the acquisition of a trade or profession.

Arrangements for the mechanics of administering these funds are now completed and applications are available through the office of the Chelsea High school student guidance counselor.

Members of the Foundation's board of directors expressed appreciation for the co-operation of people of the community in making Friday's project a success.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. W. Lyons of Kalamazoo spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Henry Werner, and all attended the Knights of Columbus dinner at Manchester.

Cancer Fund Collection Hits $1,073.50

Mrs. Dudley Holmes, Chelsea cancer chairman, this week announced results of the April campaign for funds in the Chelsea area.

Mrs. Holmes said that total receipts amounted to $1,073.50 of which industry contributed $655 and area residents $418.50.

This compares with a total of $1,515.51 collected here in 1963 and Mrs. Holmes suggested that if there are residents who might have forgotten to send in their contribution they may still do so and have it credited to Chelsea's quota. She said the contributions may be sent directly to the American Cancer Society, Ashley St., Ann Arbor.

This year no personal contacts were made to solicit contributions from residents; however, letters were sent to everyone asking that contributions be mailed.

Mrs. Holmes said she wished to express her appreciation to all who contributed in any way to the annual appeal for funds.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

★ Orderly Election . . . or Chaos . . .

Michigan faces the possibility of election chaos this year, even though there is no valid reason for it.

Unless the legislature agrees on congressional and legislative districting plans, voters may face the unhappy prospect of elections-at-large.

If this is allowed to happen, the blame will fall squarely on those who would rather see chaos than orderly elections.

Congressional and legislative districting plans already developed clearly indicate that remaining differences are slight.

There is no reason why these differences cannot be overcome in the short time that remains before it is too late.

Members of both parties have worked hard to develop reasonable solutions to what is admittedly a complex issue.

The problems are intensified by the entirely understandable determination of congressmen and legislators to preserve their own districts in a way that will permit their re-election.

I have worked hard to help develop plans which would be fair to members of both parties while meeting the expressed and implied requirements of both the State and United States Constitutions.

The remaining stalemate is only one of the problems which must be resolved to assure that the fall election is held in the most efficient and orderly way.

Other matters under consideration include postponement of primary dates and additional election bills that still require action.

The Massachusetts ballot also has been under consideration. Experience in other states shows that it is a superior election procedure. It does not prohibit an individual from voting a straight party ticket but it does require voters to select between the candidates individually rather that to vote a straight party ticket blindly.

These and other election matters are of the utmost importance if Michigan is to be sure to have an orderly election this year.

UCC Delegates Urge Passage of Civil Rights Bill

The 103 ministers and laymen of the United Church of Christ from 24 states who interviewed key senators in Washington, D.C. March 16-18 report that it will be necessary for the churches to put heavy pressure on all members of the Senate to assure passage of the civil rights bill without crippling amendments. They also said that most senators welcomed their expressions of opinion and took ample time to discuss the bill with them. Many senators expressed a wish for more letters from church people back home, since the bulk of their mail has come so far from extremist elements.

At a special service in First Congregational church the delegates, physically weary from walking the corridors of the Capitol and the Old and New Senate Office buildings to find and talk to their senators, heard a warning against "political shortsightedness" from UCC President Ben Mohr Herbster. "The people arrayed against the cause of Racial Justice Now are not going to tire," he said. "The United Church of Christ has enlisted in this great enterprise for the duration," he added. "There can be no turning back."

The Council for Christian Social Action and the Commitee for Racial Justice Now in emergency meetings held in connection with the Witness adopted a statement declaring: "We have reached a time when we must use law to the limit of the law's power to emancipate our country from the evil of racial segregation and discrimination."

What People Want

The soaring death and accident rate on Michigan's highways concerns some, but not enough people. Ways to cope with the latest upturn in fatalities are sought by safety experts, but there is growing indication they are frustrated. All discussions lead back to the same place and not many people are willing to point their finger. One person who sat through a meeting where remedies were carefully considered said: "It boils down to the public citizen. He will have to decide whether he wants to pay skyrocketing insurance premiums and take growing chances he will become a traffic victim himself or if he prefers to insist on stricter traffic enforcement and respect for the law."

Police officials state that their officers are discouraged in giving tickets to offenders because too often sentences are light or the ticketed people are not convicted.

State officials are equally discouraged with the mechanism to suspend or cancel driver licenses. A high percentage of those who appeal license revocation to circuit courts get their license back. Others simply drive without licenses. Most of those who are caught without licenses are punished in only a minor way. Drunk drivers do not go to jail. A high percentage are found not guilty of this serious charge.

As legislators will, today's elected representatives get no more excited about this problem than their constituents. In the session just finished there was no rush of interest or action to deal with worsening traffic picture.

Remedies will be found when the public wants to stop the killing and damage on the highways, not before. All that has to happen is for a sizable percentage of people in each community to let local judges, policemen and politicians know they care enough to support constructive action.

Sore Point

The number of college students from other states has been an increasingly tender issue between legislators and administrators for a long time. How real an issue is it?

Latest figures from the U. S. Office of Education show that in 1963 all Michigan colleges and universities enrolled 26,896 students from other states. The same year 18,664 Michigan students attended college in other states. This is a difference of 8,232.

Other states show differences much more pronounced. California had 12,000 more students cross into the state than leave. Indiana had 20,361. Massachusetts had 25,662 more, Utah had 12,034, which might represent many of the Mormon faith. Missouri had 10,365 and Tennessee had 10,935.

Chief among states with more leaving than entering is New Jersey with 56,507. New York, with a much larger population base, had 36,232 more young people seek came there.

Highest percentage of out-of-state students at Michigan institutions is at Michigan Tech in Houghton. About 30 percent of their students are "from the outside."

University of Michigan has 28.2 percent out-of-state students, a 1962 study showed, down 1 percent from the previous year. Michigan State University had about 20 percent, according to the same survey.

Advantages of out-of-state students are pointed out by college administrators. The variation of backgrounds and outlooks they bring with them helps broaden Michigan students. They bring sizable amounts of money into the state, not only in the increased tuition rates, but in expenditures for Michigan-produced goods and services. Many stay to become residents.

According to Dr. Gordon A. Sabine, vice-president of MSU, out-of-state students have not crowded Michigan young people out of a college education. He said that no Michigan high school graduate who is academically capable of receiving a college education has been deprived of it. He did concede that all qualified students might not be able to attend the college of their choice.

Somewhat reluctantly, however, it appears that Michigan institutions will bow to the wishes of the legislature administrators feel a strong pressure and are willing to bring about further reductions in out-of-state students. But they also seem to feel that the move will do little to solve the basic problem of providing top grade college education for Michigan youth or reduce substantially the cost of that education.

Michigan is the hub of the Great Lakes Region, the world's greatest market for consumer and industrial goods. Think of it! In these five states, 21 percent of the people of the United States occupying 8 percent of the land produce 33 percent of the dollars added by manufacturing.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The session at the country store Saturday night wasn't quite up to our usual high stundards on account of Ed Doolittle was absent. Ed has been in pore health now fer a couple weeks. First off, he come down with a Virus the morning his old lady started the annual Spring cleaning. He got over his ailment about the same day his old lady finished up the job and when she took to painting the kitchen and front porch Ed had a small relapse and was now suffering from indigestion, which is liable to keep up fer the duration of the painting.

Hug Hookum was lamenting that indigestion was gitting to be more of a problem ever day on account of people didn't eat right. Bug allowed as how in the old days a feller et all his meat, then he et all his pertaters, then he et all his vegetables, then he drunk his coffee and went to the fields. Nowadays, claims Bug, everybody eats by taking a dab of this and a dab of that and it's mighty hard on the mixing machine in the stummick. Bug is a authority, Mister Editor, on matters of health and medicine.

The main reason things was a little off when Ed can't git to the Saturday night sessions is on account of Ed is the only feller in the community that has got a dictionery and most of the time he fetches it along in case matters comes up calling fer words the one-gallus boys can understand.

Saturday night, fer instant, Clem Webster had a item he clipped from the papers where Congressman Scott was claiming the foreign aid folks had throwed $9 million down the drain fer highways in Turkey and Iran and ain't never been built. This project was supposed to be carried out between 1957 and 1962 and up to now they ain't done nothing but grade a few roads that don't go no place. the foreign aid folks claims it ain't so, and according to this clipping, the "project is broadly pragmatic and successful."

None of the fellers at the country store Saturday night could recollect that they was ever on a highway that was "broadly pragmatic" and without Ed and his dictionery, we was in deep water.

Zeke Grubb figgered if them roads was "broadly" they was plenty wide, maybe wide enough fer six-lane traffic. Some of the fellers thought if they was "pragmatic" maybe they didn't have no curves or maybe the curves was banked real good like a race track.

You can see, Mister Editor, how the fellers was in a bad fix without Ed and his dictionery. It's gitting so a one-gallus feller can't understand nothing out of Washington no more without a dictionery or inciklopedia.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

IT'S TRADE 'N' TRAVEL TIME AT YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER'S

Five different lines of cars—forty-five different models to choose from. Come early and trade great!

Now that spring's in full swing, you'll find new Chevrolets perfect for picking.

Luxury—First, there's the big Jet-smooth Chevrolet. Sumptuous and soft riding. Over 700 sound stoppers throughout the car to blot out noise. Interiors luxuriously done up in the newest and softest vinyls.

Trade what you're driving for one of these, and you won't want to trade seats with anybody else on the road.

Spirit—Next, Chevelle. The beautifully in-between size car that combines small car handling oomph with big car comfort. Eleven different models that you can equip with just about any extra-cost option you can imagine. No place to go this summer? Get a new Chevelle—you'll think of something.

Economy—Chevy II—the car that takes to inexpensive vacations naturally. It just goes and goes, and where it stops nobody knows. Eight models to pick from, including wagons with enough room to swallow up an eight-foot Christmas tree. (Plan ahead, we always say.)

Fun—Then there's Corvair. The fun one with the engine in the rear for unbelievable traction. Spring mud, summer sand, winter snow—nothing stops it.

Corvette. The enthusiast's car. Sting Ray Sport Coupe and Convertible. Still America's only true sports cars. They do for your driving what holidays do for kids.

Performance—And with any new Chevrolet you choose, you can pick from a wide range of standard or extra-cost high performance engines.

Either way, whether you've got some place special to go this summer or not, when you trade for one of Chevrolet's five great highway performers—you'll travel!

Citizenship Awards Will Be Given

Announcement was made at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening that the annual Kiwanis citizenship awards to students will be made at next week's meeting. One student each from the seventh and eighth grades at St. Mary's school and from the seventh grade through the 12th grades of the public schools of Chelsea will receive the Kiwanis awards. The meeting will be held in the social center of the Methodist church, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

At the May 11 meeting the evening's program was presented by Paul G. Schaible, Jr., who introduced William Windle, Boy Scout executive. Windle showed pictures of the Philmont Ranch at Cimarron, N. M., an area more than 200 square miles devoted exclusively to youth camp activities. Boy Scouts are among the youth who go to the camp.

During the business session, Harold Jones, chairman of the Kiwanis Mother's Day flower sale gave his report, showing that the project was a success.

It was also announced that in observance of Michigan Week Chelsea and Ann Arbor Kiwanis clubs will exchange presidents for their Monday meetings next week. Chelsea Kiwanis President Wallace Wood will preside at the Ann Arbor club's noon meeting and the Ann Arbor club president, Frederick E. Oliver, will preside at the Chelsea club's evening meeting.

Also to be guests at the Kiwanis club meeting are the Elk Rapids mayor, Ward Bobcock, and his party who will be in Chelsea for Mayor's Echange Day, and all Chelsea village officials and their wives.

Vic Parks, a Chelsea High school Key club member, was a guest at Monday's meeting.

Kiwanians were told that Charter Night meetings have been announced for this month for six European clubs—in Iceland on May 12; Norway, May 14; Germany, May 15; and Luzerne, Berne and Zurich, Switzerland, May 19, 22 and 23, respectively.

Area Woman Wins Gift Certificate in State-Wide Contest

Mrs. R. Boone of 2188 Sylvan Rd., Chelsea, was one of eight persons who won $25 gift certificates in a state-wide Pepsi Shopping Spree drawing conducted by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Detroit, Inc.

Grand prize winner for this area is Mrs. A. O. Halton of Jackson, who has won a free 10-minute shopping spree in her favorite food store — the right to keep all the foodstuffs she can grip from the shelves and counters in the predesignated time.

Michigan offers industry the greatest pool of labor skills and management knowhow to be found anywhere.

WIN TOURNAMENT TROPHY: Mike Schrader and Warren Porath, co-captains of Chelsea's track team, accepted the Chelsea Invitational Tournament Trophy at the conclusion of the tournament here Tuesday, May 5. The Chelsea team's record was 4-0. Since then, after make-up meets were held because of rained-out events, the Chelsea 880 and mile relay teams also won the tournament trophies offered for the top winners in the two events. In the photo, from left, are Coach Jack Curl, Mike Schrader, Warren Porath and Neil Celley, Chelsea High school athletic director.

CHS Trackmen Win Their Own Invitational Tourney

At the close of the Chelsea Invitational Tournament, Chelsea remained in first place with a 4-0 record and Chelsea's 880 and mile relay teams also won the trophies offered for those two events. Chelsea had been presented the team trophy at the final meet here May 5.

Because some of the meets of the tournament had been rained out, some events were held later; however, records of Chelsea's 880-yard relay and mile relay teams remained the highest for the tournament after all make-up events had been held.

The 880 team — Jim Ortbring, Dave Dietle, Warren Porath and Tom Sharrard — finished at 1:36.1, while the mile relay team — Warren Porath, Scott Smith, Mike Schrader and Jim Cameron — finished in 3:36.1.

Dexter was in second place with a 3-1 record; Pinckney third, 2-2; Manchester, fourth, 1-3; and Roosevelt with no wins in fifth place.

In a regular season event held here Friday, Jackson Parkside — a class "A" team — won, tabulating 75½ points to Chelsea's 33½. Parkside took firsts in 10 events and seconds in six events.

Chelsea's Curt Farley, however, bettered the Parkside contestant, Booker, in the high jump. Farley's jump was recorded as 5 ft. 10 in., and Booker's at 5 ft. 8 in.

Chelsea's Gary Houle tied with Parkside's Moore for third place with a jump of 5 ft. 6 in. in the high jump event.

Jim Cameron came in second at 4:55.6 in the mile run; Bruce Hoover took second in the pole vault at 10 ft.; Warren Porath was second in the broad jump, 18 ft. 7½ in., and Hartmut Henning third, 18 ft. ¼ in.

Jim Ortbring was second in the high hurdles with a time of 0:17.2.

Scott Smith placed first in the 880 run on which his time was 2:04.4.

Chelsea's mile relay team also took first place, the time being 3:41.3. On the team were Warren Porath, Scott Smith, Jim Cameron and Mike Schrader.

In the 100-yard dash Chelsea's Tom Sharrard and Dave Dietle came in second and third, respectively, their time being 0:10.8 and 0:11.0.

Dietle also came in third in the 220. His time was 0:24.3.

Dietle and Ed Lauhon tied for third place in the shot put at 40 ft. 5½ in.

Jackson St. Mary's came to Chelsea Monday, Chelsea winning the meet with 67½ points while St. Mary's had a total of 41½ points.

Chelsea's 880 relay team set a new school record — 1:35.4 — although they placed second. Jackson's time was 1:35.3. Team members who made the new Chelsea record are Jim Ortbring, Dave Dietle, Terry Hudgins and Tom Sharrard.

Chelsea's mile relay team also placed first at 3:38.2. On the team were Warren Porath, Scott Smith, Jim Cameron and Mike Schrader.

Curt Farley again won the high jump at 5 ft. 10 in., Chelsea's Gary Houle was second at 5 ft. 4 in. Other Chelsea trackmen placed as follows in the Chelsea — St. Mary's meet:

Broad Jump — Hartmut Henning, 2nd, 18 ft. 4 in.; Warren Porath, 3rd, 17 ft. 10¼ in.

Pole Vault — Bruce Hoover, 1st, 11 ft. 0 in.; Paul Hubor, 3rd, 9 ft. 6 in.

Shot Put — Ed Lauhon, 2nd, 40 ft. 2 in.

Mile Run — Jim Cameron, 1st, 4:55.65.

High Hurdles — Jim Ortbring, 2nd, 0:17.6; Terry Hudgins, 3rd, 0:17.9.

880 Run — Scott Smith, 1st, 2:00.6 (new school record); Mike Tarasow, 3 ard, 2:07.5.

440 Dash — Mike Schrader, 1st, 0:52.6 new school record); Warren Porath, 3rd, 0:53.7.

100 yd. Dash — Tom Sharrard, 1st, 0:10.5; Dave Dietle, 2nd, 0:10.6.

Low Hurdles — Terry Hudgins, 2nd, 0:22.4; Jim Ortbring 0:22.9.

220 yd. Dash — Tom Sharrard, 1st, 0:23.2; Dave Dietle, 2nd, 0:24.1.

The conference track meet will be held here next Tuesday, May 19, with preliminaries scheduled for 4:40 p.m. and finals for 6 p.m.

The track season closes May 23 with the state finals at Michigan State University.

Lees makes the s in blue and green.

It's really an area rug fr Lively Arts Collection, by L It's all wool. Very high shaggy and feels something St. Bernard.

It comes in pumpkin and too, brown and beige, and hot and cool colors.

The Lively Arts Collecti very big. For a good reason Good designs are hard t by and when we finally de one, we want to do it justice way.

So we take our time.

Before an area rug gets our mill, it has to be as pe a rug can be, otherwise it get our name.

We put Lees, bold and cle label on the back.

When you see it don't about the rug. It may look work of art, but you don't treat it like one.

For a lot of good down reasons "Those Heavenly by Lees."

The massacre of the British at Fort Michilimackinac, the exact replica of which is in Mackinaw City near the Mackinac Bridge, will be reenacted May 29 and 30.

Photos show similar presentation on the 200th anniversary of the 1763 Massacre. Top picture: the British under Captain George Etherington, raise their flag over the Fort. U-M Hospital Plans Public Open House

Ann Arbor — University Hospital will hold a public open house at its new $1½-million rehabilitation facilities Sunday afternoon, May 17.

The event coincides with National Hospital Week.

Scores of medical instruments, and research and treatment apparatus will be demonstrated for visitors from 2-5 p.m.

Exhibits range from huge hydrotherapy tanks with their mechanical hoists for moving patients, to tiny carbon dioxide muscles used by victims of nerve or muscle damage.

Research and diagnostic implements will include a $12,000 Electromyograph which measures the speed of human nerve impulses. The U. of M. apparatus is one of the first four such instruments brought into the United States. Physicians use it to pin-point the location of nerve damage.

Sharp contrast between old and new will be seen in a display of artificial limbs. An old "peg-leg" will be shown with modern limbs custom-built to the patient's own measurements.

The rehabilitation area occupies a complete floor on the east side of the U-M Medical Center, with its entrance facing the Women's Hospital. Nearby parking lots will be open, without charge, for Sunday afternoon.

One striking exhibit from the research laboratories will be "Paul Bunyan's Finger," a segment of a giant hand employed during studies of arthritis and finger movement.

Open for public inspection will be eight different areas associated with the department of physical medicine and rehabilitation. They include, also, orthetics, prosthetics, social work and vocational rehabilitation.

In the occupational therapy section, visitors can see a model apartment built within the hospital where handicapped patients are taught to be self-sufficient.

Close by is a prevocational evaluation unit: an office and machine shop designed to test an individual's potential for job placement.

Planning work for University Hospital's rehabilitation area began more than three years ago to help meet the nation-wide demand for skilled doctors and therap in this field.

Michigan Rainfa Varies Sharply With Location

Now we know what the weath man means when he talks ab "scattered showers."

Michigan State University entists report that annual Mi gan rainfall varies as much eight inches between rain ga set only six miles apart. And so times there's more than two inc difference between gages in one day.

E. H. Kidder, MSU agricult engineer, has been studying ra fall variations in the Sloan Deer Creek basins in Ingh county for the past 10 years. claims that the tremendous ferences in precipitation from place to another makes it di cult to calculate the runoff fro given area.

"Runoff information is nec sary for the design of drains flood control and erosion con facilities for agriculture," Kid explains. "Its also helpful for design of storm sewers and pressways.

"Weather bureaus can so times miss high runoff areas cause rain stations are too s tered. A single gage cannot the real distribution of rainfall

Kidder illustrates this point referring to rainfall differe recorded in his study of the S and Deer Creek basins. Last for example, one station repo 17.73 inches of rainfall, while other station—only six miles a —reported 25.44 inches.

Some daily rainfall differe are even more startling. For ample, during one storm on A 9, 1956, rain accumulation va from a 2.27 inch "cloudburst" 04 inch "sprinkle" between stations six miles apart.

And these differences oc nearly every year in nearly ev part of Michigan, says Kid "That's why some folks are porting "adequate" moisture some areas, while the weather reaus have been claiming "d conditions for the state dur the past four years.

Before the guidance director talked to him, Peter sat in class and paid little attention to what was taking place. He exerted even less energy in his studies. Tests given to him by the school counselor revealed the youngster to be a potentially bright student. The counselor talked to Peter and his parents and told them of the child's actual abilities and how he might use them. Gradually, an improvement in Peter's study habits and grades became evident. Fortunately for Peter his school had a guidance program which met his needs.

Schools with active child guidance programs help students discover their own abilities and show them how they can be developed to their fullest capacities.

An important part of the child guidance program in elementary and secondary schools and colleges is the counselor who functions in a highly personalized relationship with the student of limited intelligence, the gifted student and the student with academic and personal problems. "As the twig is bent, so shall it grow."

Child guidance is handled by highly skilled, specially trained persons who keep in close contact with such specialists as the school psychologist, workers in mental hygiene clinics, visiting teachers, school physicians and nurses who work together to assist every student in attaining his maximum personal development and achievement.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM: This is a composite photo put together by Guenther Studio of scenes at the Junior-Senior Prom at Chelsea High school, held Saturday evening in the high school gymnasium. Decorations, table settings, the menu and all appointments carried out a French theme, all in red and white. The gym was centered with a replica of the Eiffel Tower surrounded by planters filled with red geraniums supplied for the occasion by Chelsea Greenhouse. The legend "Au Revoir" was used on program covers, on the front of the speakers' table and at various places throughout the dining area. A canopy of red and white crepe paper streamers extended the full length of the gym and smaller canopies of the same material were over tables at the sides. Red and white checked tablecloths, a realistic fountain in the adjoining court, dancing in the adjacent lounge and halls to the music of an orchestra all added to the illusion of an "evening in Paris."

On Sunday, the body of a newborn baby girl was found in Letts Creek near Fletcher Rd, in Lima township and sheriff's detectives called to the scene are investigating the possibility that the baby was murdered.

A deputy medical examiner's report gave the opinion that the body had been in the water about 10 days and that the baby was apparently normal when born.

The tiny body was found just south of Trinkle Rd., about two miles south of Four Mile Lake and about four miles east of Chelsea.

The Sheriff's Department has asked that anyone who, in the past three weeks, may have seen unusual activity in the area where the body was found contact the County Jail at NOrmandy 2-2505.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

Economic Advice, German Style . . .

Practically all countries the use of economic experts plays role in the formulation of national policies. This is of course how it should be. The real question is whether the official experts should work with an independent council or whether it will be their function to provide the economic rationale for government policies as they are established.

The West German Federal Republic has recently appointed its first Council of Economic Experts. This group has the responsibility for preparing an annual report on the state of the German economy and on problems which may be developing, together with general suggestions for dealing with them.

This Council bears a certain resemblance to the Council of Economic Advisers, established in the United States by the Employment Act of 1946. There are, however, important differences.

Modes of Operation Differ

The new German Council will apparently have a greater degree of independence than its American counterpart. Our own Council of Economic Advisers reports to the President and is part of his official family. The German Council is appointed by the President of the Republic, on recommendation of the Government, but it is not in any sense a unit of the Chancellor's staff.

The American Council's annual report usually serves mainly as supporting material for the recommendations in the President's own Economic Report to Congress. The German Council will transmit its report to the West German Government, which is required to pass it on unaltered to the legislature. The Government may, however, transmit its own comments at the same time.

In this country it is inconceivable that the Economic Advisors would ever issue a report which could offend or embarrass the Administration. Such a situation is at least possible under the German system.

Notable Contrasts

More important than these operational details is the difference in the climate of economic opinion which lay behind the establishment of the two councils. The main concern which motivated the passage of our Employment Act in 1946 was the fear of a postwar deflation leading to mass unemployment like that of the 1930's. Recent economic reports under the Act still give primary emphasis to the need for maintaining "adequate demand."

By contrast, the 1963 law which set up the new German Council was based on fear of possible damage to Germany's competitive position arising from the very rapid wage increases of recent years. The Council is instructed to discuss, in its reports, means of preserving price stabilization and balance-of-payments equilibrium — mentioned explicitly in our own Employment Act.

The German experience will be worth watching. Our Employment Act is not beyond all possibility of improvement.

By their expanding and amazing research programs, our industries and universities together are fast making Michigan the leader in space age advancement.

A delight fresh, as a sauce, or as a pie filling, blackberries, or dewberries are a delicious, although minor, crop. Slightly more than 600,000 quarts, worth $200,000 were sold by growers in 1961.

Alcohol, Driving Proven To Make 'Deadly Mixture'

Lansing — "The mixture of alcohol and driving can be a deadly one."

This was the statement of Secretary of State James M. Hare as he released a report of post mortem studies conducted by the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office on highway deaths in Wayne County.

"The report confirms our hunch that many persons who die in auto crashes are 'dead drunk before they become dead,'" Hare said.

Of the 244 cases of drivers studied, Hare said that only 111 could be considered as definitely sober. In 133 or 54.5 percent, there was scientific evidence of drinking. And in 105 or 43.0 percent of the cases there was evidence of drunkenness as defined by Michigan law.

SNAP BEANS

Michigan growers in 1963 raised a $1.9 million crop of green and wax beans, placing the state 12th in the volume raised for the fresh market and 6th in the volume going to processors. Green bean varieties, rather than wax beans, are in the majority.

Chemicals Listed for Use On Tomatoes

Chemicals cleared for weed control on transplanted tomatoes have been announced by the Sodus Agricultural Experiment Station of Michigan State University.

None of these materials injured the crop, nor did they affect plant growth or yield. In recent tests conducted by John Downes, Michigan State University horticulturist.

Among those cleared for use are Diphenamid, Solan, Randox and Tillam. Of these, Diphenamid seems to give the best over-all results by providing good grass control and fair protection against broadleaved weeds.

But Downes reminds growers that chemicals are specific and that no one chemical will do an excellent job of controlling all weeds under all circumstances.

For tomato transplants, MSU horticulturists recommend that Diphenamid should be applied either immediately after transplanting or after the first thorough cultivation at a rate of 4-6 lbs. per acre. This is especially good for annual grass control. Rain or irrigation is needed for best results.

Solan may be applied on very small weeds, since, unlike some of the other chemicals it will kill by contact. Large weeds, especially grasses, will not be killed by the chemical. If small weeds in tomatoes are growing rapidly due to high moisture and temperature, growers should apply 2 lbs. of Solan per acre (of a half-gallon liquid concentrate).

Under slower growing conditions, Solan should be applied at a rate of 3-4 lbs. per acre (of a three-fourths to one gallon liquid concentrate). Residual activity is short and repeat applications may be needed if new weeds become evident.

Growers are warned not to apply the chemical within 30 days of harvest.

Hudson Mills Park Offers Unusual Nature Trail

One of the features of Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park along the Huron River northwest of Dexter is the "Acorn" Nature Trail.

Bill Hopkins, chief naturalist for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, states that this trail is in a heavily wooded area and quite different from the trails familiar to Washtenaw county and Detroit area residents visiting Kensington Metropolitan Park near Brighton or Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville.

Acorn Nature Trail is 1¼ mile in length and edges the waters of the Huron River and plant life is labelled so that persons may take self-guided hikes. Hopkins said that by May 15 the Flowering Dogwood should be in bloom as well as many wildflowers such as Trillium, May Apple and Woodland Phlox. Birdlife is especially interesting in this area.

Many persons visiting Hudson Mills enjoy strolling along the Huron River and the park is known for its scenic appeal, wildflowers, wooded areas and wildlife that inhabit the area.

The entrance to Hudson Mills is located along North Territorial Rd., between Huron River Dr. and the Dexter Pinckney Rd., and the park is located five miles northwest of Dexter and 12 miles northwest of Ann Arbor.

For additional information persons may contact the park office by calling HAmilton 6-8211.

In Michigan... after a swim, beer is a natural

On a hot summer day, a dip in a cool stream can be wonderfully refreshing. Equally refreshing when you're relaxing afterwards with friends is a hearty glass of beer. There's hardly another beverage around that suits what you do for fun as much as beer. Camping, hiking, or just lounging on a lawn chair—beer brings to each just the right touch of extra good living.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Michigan...beer goes with fun, with relaxation

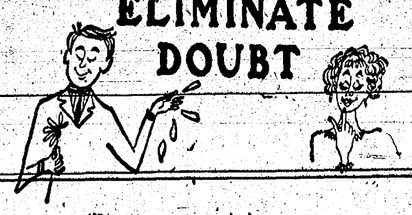
ELIMINATE DOUBT



Plucking petals from a rose won't really tell you what is in a lady's heart. It's much better to ask her and be sure.

None of us like to rely too much on guesswork. We like to be sure about things. This is particularly true when we buy something for the home or the office. We always feel much better if we feel we have purchased a quality product, at a fair price, and with a reasonable guarantee of service and satisfaction.

May we suggest that, whatever your needs, you shop local stores first. We believe you will find the reputable local merchant quite ready to discuss quality, service and guarantees. He likes to be sure too, sure that your satisfaction today means more business for him tomorrow.

Highway Death Toll Jumps 50% In Two Months

April's 131 traffic deaths, although 11, or eight percent, less than 142 in the same month last year pushed Michigan's accumulated toll for the first four months to 621, a new all-time high for this period in 32 years of record keeping, according to State Police provisional figures reported by Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

The four-month count is 153, or 30 percent, more than 468 for the same period in 1963 and 14, or two percent, greater than 607 in 1957 when the state marked up its worst annual toll of 2,175 deaths.

April averages were 125 for the 10 years of 1954-63, and 110 for the period of 1933-63. High for the month was 160 in 1955 while the low was 44 in 1943, a war year.

Delayed death reports will raise the provisional April and four-month totals somewhat.

More complete figures for March showed 162 killed and 10,887 injured in 22,348 accidents. These were increases of 31, 19 and 12 percent, respectively, compared with 124 deaths, 8,756 injured and 19,018 accidents in the same month in 1963.

First quarter totals included 488 killed and 31,053 injured in 67,547 accidents. These were increases of 50 percent in deaths and 14 percent in injured while accidents were down one percent compared with that period last year.

Estimated mileage for the first two months, the latest information available, totaled 5.6 billions, five percent more than in the same period in 1963, while the death rate of 5.7 per 100 million vehicle miles increased 50 percent.

BEANS, BEANS, BEANS

Beans are an internationally-famous Michigan crop that totaled 8,480,000 hundredweight, worth $54 million to growers in 1963. Your state raised more than 90 percent of the total national crop of navy beans. These are the tiny, nearly-round, white beans. Processors buy 75 percent of Michigan's navy bean crop because Michigan navy beans will not "mush" when canned commercially.

Heredity Clinic at U-M Gives Worried Parents Some Answers

Ann Arbor — There are usually no simple explanations for the puzzles of heredity.

Two brown-eyed parents could have a child with blue eyes. But a browneyed baby born to blue-eyed parents is rare.

Body size and structure tend to even out, genetically. But you can't take a 5'8" father and a 5'4" mother and expect all their children to be 5'6.

"I always try to explain the essentials of probability to a couple," says Dr. Richard Juberg, a pediatrician at the University of Michigan Medical Center and a counselor at the U-M Heredity Clinic.

If there is a 25 percent chance that a particular child may be color-blind, it doesn't stand to reason that after having three normal babies, the fourth will definitely inherit the disease. Neither does it mean that all four children can't be colorblind.

Dr. Juberg compares the genetic law of averages with the law of averages in baseball. "A player batting .250, who's already struck out three times in one game, won't necessarily get a hit on his fourth time up."

Averages are computed for huge populations and as a result of many times at bat. They can't always hold true in a given instance, he explains. "Although the risk for a given brith may be calculated from previous births, it is, in itself, an independent event."

Counselors at the U-M Heredity Clinic are either physicians specializing in the problems of heredity or graduate students working on their doctorates in human genetics.

"If a couple fears the birth of an abnormal child, we attempt to determine how great the odds are that a defective infant would be produced," Dr. Juberg says.

"Then we usually emphasize the chances for a normal baby, but do not advise the couple to have or not to have the child."

"After the couple understands the risk involved, we suggest that they discuss it themselves, with their family, perhaps with a religious adviser, and then come to their own decision."

The couple who has had one normal baby is often unduly concerned about having another defective child, he says. "An awful lot of misinformation about heredity comes from very well-meaning, but genetically unsophisticated, friends and relatives."

When Timmy was born with an enlarged heart, his grandmother suddenly "remembered" that her third cousin had a defective heart too. She passes on the information to Timmy's parents, who concludes that heart disease is an hereditary trait in their family. They may be entirely wrong.

When such couples seek the advice of counselors at the U-M clinic, a counselor's first problem is to determine whether a particular abnormality is, indeed, a genetic trait, says Dr. Juberg.

Some disorders, such as cystic fibrosis and phenylketonuria, run in families. But others like leukemia, cancer, and certain heart disease only rarely are based on hereditary cases, according to the U-M doctor.

Dr. Juberg stresses that the clinic does not practice "eugenics": the promotion or discouragement of mating to produce the most intelligent, physically-fit offspring.

Couples who have experienced the birth of an abnormal baby are not the only ones who seek advice of heredity counselors. "Many who have not yet had children may recognize defects in themselves or their families and be concerned about their future children and grandchildren."

Medical Center hereditary counselors also guide unmarried couples—perhaps two distant cousins—who fear hereditary defects in their children if they should marry.

Getting rich quickly often turns out to be the worst way.

Just A Minute . . .

By the Rev. James A. Craig

Eyes and mouth wide open in astonishment, Jack watched the growth of his beanstalk. It's a good story though one of which we can only dream.

There are no plants around like Jack's; nor any gardens to match his wonderful garden. All we have are seed catalogs Jack must have inspired and the vague hope that in some package is a seed whose growth will amaze us.

One store, taking advantage of our hopes, offers seeds for sale with a warning. "After planting —step back quickly." Not really believing, we buy them. Not fully convinced, we check the garden each morning to observe progress so slowly made.

The truth we know—a garden has to be tended, cared for. The seeds are not magic even if we do hope so.

We know the truth about another hope also yet we aren't convinced it needs to be tended, cared for.

The seeds of a religious faith, planted in some distant Spring, are too often left to grow on their own. Thinking them tended from on high we neither water nor weed, expecting miraculous growth. Thrown into the garden of a person's life we think to find them sometimes great and strong like Jack's beanstalk.

Unless you've been working ground, all you've got are weeds and wishes neither of which will hold your weight.

Not much canning of sweet corn in the state, but Michigan is seventh in the amount raised for the fresh market. Last year the crop is estimated to have brought growers $2.4 million. Strangely, Wayne County (where Detroit is located) leads the state in sweet corn production.

The first air mail flight was made from the Michigan State Fairgrounds in 1915. As early as 1926 there were 12 commercial airlines in America and five were using Michigan built aircraft. Eight of the 12 were conceived and largely financed by Michigan businessmen.

We drove 3,243 miles to make a point about our Super Turbine transmission

You can do it on the way to the grocery store

Would we drive a Buick with a Super Turbine transmission* all the way from Pasadena to New York City just to win Class C in the Mobil Economy Run?

Of course. And just in case anyone failed to get the message, we did it twice again. And won Class D and Class G. In all, Buick entered 4 classes, and won 3—more than any other make of car. (Remember when people used to think Buicks used a lot of gas?) Did we make our point about the Super Turbine transmission? You bet.

Obviously you aren't planning to drive 3,243 miles to prove your new Buick is economical. And you can't expect to get as many miles per gallon as the experts in the Economy Run. Still, it is nice to know you can win the economy run around town. And the good looks prize at the same time. See your Buick dealer about it. No doubt he'll think of a number of other reasons to drive a Buick.

Because a line of type was inadvertently omitted in the story of St. Mary's Altar Society Mother-Daughter breakfast story, the name of Mrs. Richard Harvey was not mentioned among those honored. She was the recipient of flowers as the youngest mother present at the breakfast.

Olivet College Preparing For Student Mock Electio

One political convention this summer won't get the nation-wide attention accorded the Democrats and Republicans but it promises to command the rapt attention of some 200 high school students. These students will be converging upon the campus of Olivet College July 20 to begin three weeks activity in an unusual blend of academics and politics called the Modern America Workshop.

Immediately p-r-e-c-e-d-i-n-g this workshop will be the second annual Creative Arts Workshop, June through July 18, which enjoyed a highly successful debut last summer. Both workshops are sponsored by the Community Education Department of Olivet College.

In the Modern America Workshop, each student will choose one of five academic areas — [illegible], economics, journalism, [illegible], or political science — for intensive enrichment under the tutelage of outstanding college professors and high school teachers. Concurrent with these academic activities, the students will be exploring the interrelationship between the profession they are studying and the Government. Helping them explore the implications of [illegible] aspect of modern America will be a slate of exceptionally well qualified guest lecturers headed by [illegible] president of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Fred[illegible] Seitz.

These politico-academic explorations will culminate in a [illegible] political convention on Au[illegible]. During the convention the students will attempt to build a platform and choose a presidential nominee based on considerations made during the preceding three weeks.

The staff of this year's Creative Arts Workshop is again a [illegible] of highly qualified college professors and nationally known artists and lecturers, including Dewitt Snodgrass, Pulitzer [illegible] winning poet.

The divisions of this workshop are creative writing, art, [illegible], vocal music, and orchestra. [illegible] appreciated as a feature of [illegible] year's workshop was the informal atmosphere which students [illegible] allowed free interchange of ideas among the arts.

Capable high school students in grades 10 through 12, throughout Michigan and from various parts of the nation are being sought as participants in both or either of the workshops. A number of scholarships are available to qualified students.

IN THE OPEN

By Lee Smits

Now the Four-Way Lodge is opened, now the Hunting Winds are loose—
Now the Smokes of Spring go up to clear the brain;
Now the Young Men's hearts are troubled for the
Whisper of the Trues,
Now the Red Gods make their medicine again!—Kipling.

This verse has been a lifetime favorite with me, although I always figured that Kipling was off the track about Hunting Winds getting loose in the spring.

There was a time, 50 years wo, when wildfowl, on their way to their way to their breeding grounds, were pounded heavily all along the way.

There is spring bear hunting in Ontario. It is exciting and it holds the possibility of a bearskin rug, with prime fur.

Although in general we think of the hunting winds blowing in the fall, well just take the Kipling rhyme for its ringing beauty, its natural timeliness.

Spread out before me is another team, a saga, in the form of four large scale maps. They come with the compliments of P.O. Rhynas, chief, operations branch, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, who is held in high regard by the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association and warmly esteemed as a friend by individual members of that august body.

The four maps show in detail the wilderness country lying between the Lake of the Woods on the west and the border of Quebec on the east, the north shore of Lake Huron on the south and the lower part of James Bay on the north.

The names of the district are music; Rainy River, Kenora, Algoma, Timiskaming, Thunder Bay. The blue spaces, splatterings, streaks and blobs, indicating water, are almost equal to the land area in the enormous wilderness domain. There are a few wavering lines marking highways and railroads, with hundreds of miles of nothing in between; that is, nothing except wonder and mystery, a wealth of wildlife found in no other part of the globe; Indians still taking their livelihood from fish, game and fur; hunting and fishing of a fabulous kind.

Big portions of this country are uninhabited. It has played a dramatic part in the early history of North America. There is lumbering, mining in some places, little islands of agriculture. The business that beckons the Feet of The Young Men—and men of all ages, and kids and women—is based on the call of the wild. There is every kind of lodge, camp, motel imaginable; some reached only by plane or boat; some are tents pitched on the shores of lakes where months roll on without human intrusion; many of them, even in the wildest parts, equipped with every modern convenience.

This was treasure country of the fur trade. In its most remote spots the fur trade has left its dim monuments, and some not so dim, because there are Hudson Bay posts still operating.

The place names are clues to a pageant of history that opened with French explorers and missionaries, went on to the French and British traders and now, in the third century of the white man, includes more outdoor marvels than Kipling ever dreamed of. Such adventures as Len Barnes, of the AAA Motor News, had flying in, on a long-week-end, taking four-pound speckled trout in quantity, returning with movies to prove it, leaving the trout behind, alive in the water.

"Where was this?" Len was asked.

"We never knew. The guy who flew us in wouldn't tell anybody the name of the lake."

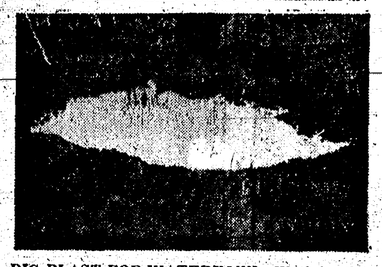
The lakes and rivers have magic names, together with some names as banal as any could be, such as Rocky Lake, Rush Lake, Big Pine Lake. But many, many more have such names as Manitowik, Confusion, Skiwamkwa, Kabinakagami, Otterskin, War Club, Flintstone. The white man names are names of rugged Scots and Britons who took months to reach places a float plane can get to now in an hour or so.

But even with planes, fast motor boats, the few roads and rail lines, this bush country, as the Canadians call it, is not family picnic, not for amateur explorers, except with the best guides available.

You can, of course, savor its wildness, at close range, from a camp as comfortable as any hotel; see moose every day; catch a lot of fish.

The four maps from Phil Rhynas are more thrilling than Kipling, even though an old-timer knows he has made his past portage.

Mr. Smits' column is presented through the courtesy of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. Mr. Smits will be pleased to answer any questions sent in.



BIG BLAST FOR WATERFOWL: Work by the Conservation Department will literally blast off again this spring to create small nesting and feeding places (lower left) for waterfowl, particularly ducks. Taking a few cues from rock quarry operations, the Department will open up new water areas for these birds by detonating explosive charges in dry marshes of northern Michigan. The charges are made by pouring ammonium nitrate, a common fertilizer, into water-tight plastic bags after it has been treated with fuel oil. A half or full stick of dynamite is placed in each bag; blasting caps and/or explosive-type cords are used to set off charges. Bags are buried at various depths, depending on the soil and the hoped-for size of the pothole. This earth-blasting technique packs an important punch in marshes where complete flooding is impractical, and in areas that cannot be reached by draglines and other heavy equipment.

No Single Spray Yet Developed Which Will Control All Weeds

Don't throw away that garden hoe . . . yet!

Science, with all its modern advancements, has yet to come up with a single chemical that can do a complete job of controlling weeds without killing your garden crops.

Stanley Ries, Michigan State University horticulturist, explains that all chemical weed killers now on the market are specific. That is, they can control weeds for one crop but are likely to injure another. This makes spraying nearly impossible in small gardens where corn, beans, radishes, etc., grow side by side.

Of course, says Ries, the home gardener can fumigate his plot to protect crops from weeds and nematodes. But this is an expensive proposition, usually costing about $1.00 per square foot.

There is some hope, however, that science will take some of the hand-weeding chores out of gardening. Ries says that in two or three more years a chemical will be released that will control all garden weds, but it will have to be applied before any crops emerge from the ground.

A mighty big frying pan would be needed for Michigan's 1963 volume of eggs. The total was 1,265,000,000 eggs, worth $34 million to producers. This is about 48 percent of the eggs eaten in our state. Michigan was 24th egg production last year.

Detroit Advertising Man Sees Vast Strip City in 80's

Detroit has the potential to become the capital of a vast strip city of 37 million people by the 1980's, Charles F. Adams, executive vice-president of MacManus, John Adams, Inc., told a Wayne State University advertising industries marketing conference in Detroit recently.

The Detroit of the future, he said, will be strategically located at the center of a vast marketing area bounded by Green Bay, Wis., on the west; Albany, New York on the east; Bay City on the north, and Cincinnati on the south.

Then Adams posed this question:

"Will Detroit or Chicago function as the regional capital for this coming Great Lakes urban complex?

"If predictions of population growth and expansion patterns hold true," he pointed out, "these two cities will, by 1980, be in direct competition as the hub of the Green Bay-Albany-Bay City-Cincinnati metropolitan market.

"This does not mean that there will be one continuous city from Green Bay to Albany without any open land. Rather, it will be one continuous region with the majority of its population composed of urban communities interlocked with several neighboring communities in a long, endless chain.

"Presently, of course, the odds seem to favor Chicago. Detroit ranks second to its Lake Michigan neighbor in population, industry, transporation, and in most of the key indices of economic stature.

"And yet, a really searching analysis of the future indicates that Detroit could take the honors—and lay claim to leadership of this great market in the years ahead.

"For we are making great strides forward—and at a much faster rate than many people might have imagined in the early 1960s.

"And if present trends continue Detroit could replace Chicago in its importance to the over-all area."

Adams then noted the factors he thinks favor Detroit's emergence as the Capital of the Great Lakes urban complex:

—A five-year drop in unemployment from 15.6 percent of the area's population to 3.5 percent—most dramatic in the nation.

—Forty percent of Detroit's labor force is either skilled craftsmen or technicians — twice the national average.

—Transportation — with our central location on the St. Lawrence Seaway; the second largest freeway system in the country and the best state highway system; the city's central location as an airline crossroads.

—The second fastest-growing population in the country with a projected 17 percent increase in the next decade.

—The Detroit area is blessed, too, with a vast complex of cultural institutions including libraries, museums, art institutes, and auditoriums in Detroit's Cultural Center at Oakland University in Rochester, at Wayne State University at University of Detroit, at University of Michigan, and at Cranbrook. These facilities attract the "best minds" and help keep them in the area.

Adams also pointed to Detroit's rapidly expanding urban redevelopment, a banking system he called second to none, widely diversified industrial base, great research potential, impressive retail buying power, burgeoning youth market that comprises 1,500,000 children and young people today.

He also cited a rapidly expanding convention and tourist business with the biggest and best facilities in the country; considerable new industrial construction and a spate of new hotels, restaurants and recreational attractions, and energetic burst of construction in commercial, medical, education, research, and port facilities.

Adams concluded: "These signs are all good. Five years from now, 10 years from now, or in 1980, Detroit should still be on the upward climb if all the accepted criteria for metropolitan success are valid. Tomorrow Detroit could well be known as the great regional capital of the Midwest."

Michigan is the state where they flew bombers straight from the assembly line to the battle line, where they manufacture everything from automobiles to xylophones, where they put you in a bus to tour an industrial plant because it's as big as a city, the state whose shoreline is as long as our Atlantic coast and longer than our Pacific coast.

Tulip Festival Heads Michigan Week-End Events

Lansing — It's Tuliptime in Holland, Mich.

The famous festival concludes a four-day run on Saturday, May 16, with street parades featuring Klompen dancers, sidewalk scrubbing and concerts. Each year the festival turns Michigan's Little Netherlands into a major tourist destination as thousands of tulips brighten the landscape.

Another top event on the Michigan Tourist Council Calendar of Events which concludes on Saturday is the County Fair of Yesteryear at Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Bands, farm animals, children's contests and displays of turn-of-the-century crafts are featured at the Village and adjacent Henry Ford Museum.

The Village Fair at Birmingham will be underway all weekend opening Centennial Week in the Detroit suburb.

Sunday, May 17, has been set aside for the Bear River Canoe Race from Walloon Lake to Petoskey. A Dawn Patrol breakfast at Owosso is also scheduled for Sunday.

The Mushroom Festival at Harrison is scheduled for Sunday and Monday, May 18.

Michigan is 8th in the production of cabbage, with a 1963 harvest of 776,000 hundredweight which is estimated to have brought growers $1,653,000.

Hell C. of C. Offers Scouts Use of Site

The Portage Trails Council, Scouts of America executives have accepted the offer of the Hell Chamber of Commerce for use of 100 acres of camping area in Satan's Hills.

Lucile Reinhard, president of the Chamber will also deed a parcel of land on Kelly Rd. in this area to the Scouts for a terminus for their two-day hiking programs through Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

In addition, Devil's Island in Hi-Land Lake will be turned over exclusively to the Scouts for use in their canoeing trips through the Chain of Nine Lakes, which terminate at the Dam in Hell.

This area is an excellent one for summer recreation purposes and many families of the 1,000 scouts will take advantage of the nearby facilities at Bruin, Half Moon and Silver Lakes operated by the State of Michigan. It is planned to open Half Moon Lake State Park early this summer for the first time to the public. It is accessible from the dividing line of Hell at Glen Brook and Patterson Lake Rd., or from North Territorial Rd., on the south.

Hell, Mich., is the hub of a rapidly expanding recreation area. The Girl Scouts of Detroit will develop a camp over a square mile of land, six miles to the north of Hell. Bishop Lake is another new state park that is developing into an ideal summer sports center. The Hell Chamber estimates more than 100,000 visitors will be entertained this summer.

Correction Made on Fraser Identification

Because of incorrect information given The Standard, Douglas Fraser, UAW-CIO International executive board member was identified in last week's issue of the paper as "the son of the late Douglas Fraser" active in land development in the North Lake area some years ago." The Standard has since been informed by friends of the family in the North Lake area that this is not true.

Fraser's photo appeared in the May 7 issue along with those of area Union delegates and national Union officials. The picture was taken at the international convention at Atlantic City.

Faculty Research Discussion Slated Tuesday Afternoon

Superintendent Charles Cameron announced this week that all classes will be dismissed at 3 p.m. Tuesday, May 19, to give faculty members an opportunity to meet and hear a report on innovative classroom practices. The report is connected with a study being sponsored by the Institute for Social Research of the University of Michigan Research Center for Group Dynamics.

The Chelsea school is one of four included as pilot schools for the research project aimed at improvement of classroom teaching. The other three schools are Romulus, Belleville and Brighton.

The initial survey — which is the basis for the reports at Tuesday's meeting — included interviews with teachers in all four schools on practices the teachers had found effective. To date, approximately 35 such practices have been selected. These will be presented and discussed at Tuesday's meeting with a view to eventual selection of recommended practices to be printed and presented to all teachers.

The Chelsea committee who will be reporting at next week's meeting includes Mrs. Lucile Kelly, James Hoffmeyer, Junior High School Principal Alan Conklin and Superintendent Cameron.

Co-Op Nursery Hears Reports, Elects Officers

Chelsea Co-Operative Nursery Mothers held their May meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. R. Seitz in Chelsea. Annual reports were given and a slate of officers was selected for the coming year.

New officers are Mrs. J. V. Burg, II, president; Mrs. Robert Daniels, vice-president; Mrs. William Starkweather, secretary; Mrs. William Herring, treasurer; Mrs. Merle Leach, membership chairman; and Mrs. George Palmer, area representative.

After other committee reports and business the group heard the nursery teacher, "Miss Jane" (Mrs. Raymond Schairer) report a very successful Fathers' Night, held recently and announced that the event might become an annual affair. Refreshments were served by co-hostess, Mrs. Burg and Mrs. George Palmer.

APPLES PLENTIFUL

Michigan, the nation's third largest apple producer, had a commercial crop of 12 million bushels in 1963. This was valued at $25 million to the grower. Chief varieties are Jonathan, McIntosh, Northern Spy and Delicious. A new development is controlled atmosphere (C-A) storage in which the state has the second largest capacity in the country. This makes it possible to have a crisp, juicy apple in late spring or early summer.
