Fairgrounds Clean-Up Bee Set June 25

Jack Merkel, special projects committee chairman of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that he is planning a work "bee" at the Chelsea Community Fair dining room and kitchen located in the former Red Schoolhouse on the fairgrounds. The "bee" is scheduled for Thursday, June 25.

A general clean-up and paint-up project will be carried out such as painting the dining room ceiling, the entry way, the cement block wall outside of the screened porch, the screens and other parts of the building which may need freshening up in preparation for the 1964 fair.

Anyone in the community who is willing to contribute the time and effort needed to complete the job is urged to help.

Madness Sale Draws Huge Crowd

Chelsea merchants and shoppers alike declared Monday's "Midnight Madness" sale another great success. Large crowds of shoppers were on hand as the stores reopened at 8 p.m.

An innovation at this year's sale was the "mystery shopper," later identified as George N. Vance, a graduate student at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Acting for the co-operating merchants, he distributed gift certificates at random as he "shopped" in the stores.

Mrs. Millie Wheaton of Jackson, was shopping in Schneider's Store when the "mystery shopper" handed her the one $25 gift certificate among the 11 certificates he had been given to distribute.

Mrs. Wheaton, a frequent Chelsea visitor, was shopping with her son-in-law, Philip Roy, one of Chelsea's city mail carriers, when the "mystery shopper" surprised her by handing her the gift certificate. Later, her son-in-law, himself, was given a $5 certificate by the "mystery shopper."

Those who received $10 gift certificates during the evening are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Rappette, 22 Sycamore Dr.; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Gill, 1121 Beaufort, Manchester; Mrs. Orville Moore, 1217 Kernwood Dr.; Mrs. Donald Bussler, 15 Sycamore Dr.; and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sweet, 119½ S. Main St.

Five-dollar certificates were handed to Emerson Wheeler, 133 W. Middle St.; Wanda Fletcher, 428 W. Middle St.; Mrs. Rhea Winchester, 313 Railroad St.; Philip Roy, 220 South St.; and Mr. and Mrs. Wynn Boyce of near Stockbridge.

The presentation was made at Fort Bragg, N.C., where he is stationed as a member of the Sixth Special Forces Group.

M. W. McClure returned home Saturday after being a patient for almost four weeks at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Dale, of the Detroit District Sales Office. The equipment, a rear axle assembly and a ... assembly, valued at approximately $500, were a gift from the Ford Motor Co. for use in auto mechanics classes at Chelsea High school. The gift was presented through Palmer Motor Sales here. Dale is shown at rear in the photo and George Palmer appears at right. Presentation of the equipment took place last Friday.

MADNESS SIT-IN: Carl LaRoe, shown behind the wheel of the car in the photo, made sure he would comply with the terms of the "Midnight Madness" sale of Palmer Motor Sales who had advertised the sale special price of $5.00 for the car, the car to be sold at that price to "the person behind the wheel at 10 p.m. Monday." LaRoe took up his position behind the wheel of the car at 10 p.m. Saturday and except for brief periods away from his post while his wife substituted for him behind the wheel remained there for the full 48 hours. The car was parked in the used car lot at the corner of Main and Orchard Sts.

37th Among States

Less than half of Michigan's high school graduates last year went on to continue their education in college, according to a national survey.

The 44 percent figure ranked Michigan well below the national average, in spot No. 37 among the states. The national average was 51 percent. California, with 81 percent, lead the list. Two of Michigan's border states, Ohio and Indiana, had the same 44 percent of high school graduates enroll in college.

Officials in the U. S. Office of Education emphasized the study justified few conclusions because many factors affect college enrollment in the various states.

Skepticism over the value of the national report has been voiced by some Michigan schoolmen because of its incomplete nature.

Educators say the survey shows very little since it does not include comparative information such as the proportion of young people attending high school in each state, the dropout rates, and the extent of vocational training available in the schools.

The availability of college facilities, economic status of the students' families, opportunities for jobs without higher education, and many other factors would need to be studied to draw any real conclusion from the national survey.

Growing Bigger

While fighting hard for the No. 2 spot in Michigan business, the tourist industry has received some encouraging words.

One source predicts the industry is headed for its first billion dollar year, combining both direct sales of services and the indirect product sales which makes a vacation enjoyable.

In the past couple years the best estimates on the business done by the tourist industry in Michigan have ranged between $500 and $725 million.

With a well-rounded tourist program throughout the state, Gov. George Romney has urged members of the industry to pool their efforts to emphasize the appeal of the state as a natural wonderland.

"What we must grasp is the relatedness of all these natural attractions, events, developments and services," Romney said. We must consciously cluster our attractions. They are not in competition with each other, but instead each supplements and reinforces the appeal of the other."

A well-rounded offering of resources to the traveling public is constantly being broadened in Michigan.

Farmers are encouraged to enter the recreation business as a means of turning poor or marginal farmland into productive use.

More leisure time, better roads, finer equipment more within the reach of modest purses combine to give the tourist industry a great potential for continued growth.

Another Call

Need for consolidation and revision of Michigan's election laws may force a special session of the Legislature this year.

Mid-summer is the most likely time, despite the November election. Legislative leaders quashed the idea of a June meeting to give members a chance to cool off from the long, hot session which ended in late May.

Michigan's legislators seem to make a habit of leaving something important undone in regular sessions.

Special sessions have become a regular occurrence in recent years. In the past seven years, only two have passed without the governor calling a special session.

In those two years, however, only legislative maneuvering kept special sessions off the record books. These were 1959, the year of the "cash crisis," and 1962. Both were years when lawmakers kept the sessions going late into the year to avoid the possibility of a special call.

At least one special session has been held in 10 of the last 18 years. Two special calls were issued in 1951, 1955, 1960 and last year.

Some of the special meetings have been very short, as would be expected in this election year. Any action to fill the void for township elections would have to be accomplished quickly to provide for orderly balloting in November.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Once again, it's high school commencement time in Michigan and before the next few weeks are gone, some 110,000 Michigan young people will have walked across their high school auditoriums for the last time.

Graduation from high school is one of life's most exciting events The good times shared, the memories, the friendships formed during high school, all come flooding back to mind when the proud graduate accepts his diploma.

When I received my diploma from a high school in Salt Lake City, U., I felt much like you must feel at facing a somewhat unplotted future.

Because I couldn't possibly attend even a small number of all the graduation exercises that are taking place in Michigan this June I would like to take this occasion to extend my sincere congratulations and best wishes for success to each graduate receiving a diploma this month.

Your commencement speaker will probably point out to you the world you are entering. You will be impressed with the fact that it is a rapidly changing world, a world of promise and also a world of hidden pitfalls.

As governor of your state of Michigan, let me add a few words to what you have heard already.

You graduates have reached an important first goal. Many of your earlier classmates have not joined you in reaching that goal. The high school drop-out rate is still astonishingly high: about 1 of every 4 students falls to complete the 4 year high school program.

I would urge you, the class of 1964, to continue your education. Approximately 35 percent of high school graduates will go on to college and another 8 percent will continue some kind of post-high school training. I wish we could raise these percentages even higher.

Learn as much as you can, as best you can, in college, on the job, in trade schools or in extension courses. Retain the knowledge you have; this cannot be taken from you. As you continue to learn and use the knowledge already gained, you will be ready to take your place in society as forthright leaders and as responsible adults and concerned citizens.

Don't be afraid to confront things head-on. Face the difficult with confidence and courage. Develop your talents and abilities to the full. The tragedy of wasted energy and untapped talent is a tragedy American cannot afford.

Many of you are already planning your careers. Money or great wealth do not mean success. To succeed, you do need drive and initiative; you do need a will and a desire to succeed. The important thing is to do the job you face as well as possible.

Sargent Shriver, as director of the Peace Corps has said: "The only thing I ever wanted to be was the best at anything I got into."

When the door to opportunity is open, even a crack, don't be afraid to push it all the way so that you may walk through. But first you must earn the right to walk through that door.

It is popular to say that the hope of America lies in its youth. But I want to add something else: To be leaders in your state and community and even the na you must work at it consta You cannot afford to lag in fast-paced world we live in. cannot afford to get by with minimum effort.

Yours is a tremendous forc peace—a force for good. Your in keeping America strong a ready being set for you.

Have faith in your country in this nation's institutions. has been said, "youth wi faith is a day without sun."

Decisions will confront you rapidly now. Some will be hard to make. Your earlier-e tion and training should have pared you to make some of decisions more easily. You an age of decision.

Where are you going? high school education is a able tool. But job competiti keen and tomorrow even training and education will b quired. You should equip yo to face a competitive world.

Now, as you enter college o the work force, or start m your own homes, I urge yo participate fully in helpin keep America strong. Your ci ship rights are a precious modity.

Class of 1964, Michigan s you.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

They was a number of items in the papers last week that I aim to put on the agenda at the country store come Saturday night.

First off, Congressman Neal Smith of Iowa keeps plugging on his bill to make it unlawful for Guvernment officials, including members of the Congress, to hire their kinfolks. This is a bad bill and I'm shore the fellers will vote agin it unanimous Saturday night. It would cut the population of Washington in half. Our "prestige" in them foreign countries would take a big dip if it got out that folks was deserting our nation's capital. It might even git us throwed out of the United Nations and we wouldn't have the honor of making up that $62 million Russia owes in back dues and which they say they ain't going to pay.

Then they was a couple want ads in the papers that might call for some discussion amongst the fellers. The police department in Dayton, Ohio, was advertising a second-hand tombstone fer sale. They said it was a good buy fer "a-person-named-Murphy." I'd say offhand that it'll still sell to somebody named Jones or Smith if they'll put it on sale fer a dollar down and a dollar a week.

And a woman in Louisville was asking the Judge fer a divorce on account of a want ad her husband run in the papers. The ad said, "FOR SALE, complete set o erence books. Never been My wife knows it all." I ain't yet how the Judge ruled i case but I'm shore the fel urday night will hold fer th band.

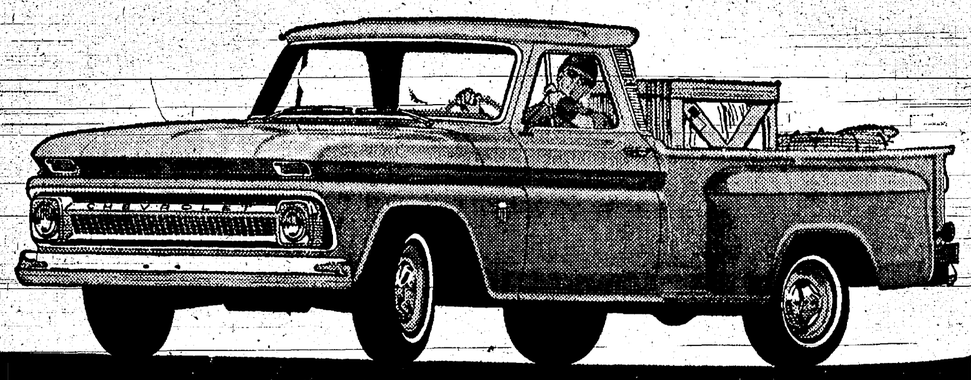

But some husbands, Miste itor, can say real mean about their wives. I recollect ling here a while back wher feller's old lady weighed pounds and went on a die was losing 5 pounds a wee told around town that he she would keep it up fer 40 and he would git rid of her plete.

Some folks has a knack fe talk and Bug Hookum is the best. I heard Bug say o had a neighbor with buck so bad he could eat corn cob through a screen door. gered at the time that when to low-rating a neighbor, th about put the stopper in-th But the very next week B lowed as how he was feedi his pigs on account of not w them to associate with his bor's kids. Bug ain't never able to git along with his bors on account of him never ing sugar will catch more than vinegar. I perdict, Mist itor, Bug's neighbors will his funeral in considerable bers and with much relief.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

★ The Dollar, at Home and Abroad

Fears, both here and abroad, for the safety of the American dollar have greatly diminished in recent months. Not only is the flow of dollars overseas being reduced, but the willingness of the rest of the world to absorb dollars is simultaneously growing.

The main factors behind these developments are not such as to give us much satisfaction. The not-yet-enacted interest equalization tax has played a role in restraining the outflow of funds. But this is the sort of interference with the free flow of capital that we have decried when other nations used it.

Even more important in explaining the increased strength of the dollar is the development of a strong inflationary trend in many of the other hard-currency countries. The dollar is becoming more attractive as a form in which to hold liquid funds, simply because the alternative of holding them in certain other currencies has become less attractive.

Mixed Blessing

Relief from the constant pressure of a nagging concern over our ability to preserve the dollar's value may be a mixed blessing. In past years, fears for the safety of our currency have had a salutary effect on the course of events within the United States.

The year 1958 marks the point at which our balance-of-payments deficit began to assume substantial proportions, and preservation of the dollar's value became a matter of serious national attention. It is surely no coincidence that the post-World-War-II uptrend in commodity prices reached a peak in that year and there has been no rise to speak of since. The discipline of the dollar problem deserves much of the credit for the comparative stability of U. S. prices in more recent years.

It would be an exaggeration to say that U. S. inflation came to a dead stop in 1958. There has been a continuing upward trend in prices of consumer services and in construction costs, for example. But we have not had the pervading inflationary atmosphere of pre-1958 in which cost increases could be passed on without too much resistance in the marketplace.

Practically everyone would agree that domestic inflation is undesirable, whether or not it poses a threat to the position of the dollar internationally. But it sometimes offers a temptingly easy way out of certain economic difficulties at home.

New Turning Point?

The post-war record strongly suggests that more dislike of inflation on principle is not enough to prevent it from happening. It was not until an external threat to the dollar began to develop, in 1958, that progress was made in halting inflation.

If we are correct in our belief that the position of the dollar vis-a-vis foreign currencies is becoming much stronger, we must then ask what is going to happen to the price level within this country. In the absence of pressure from outside, will we have sufficient will-power to resist inflation because it is bad in itself?

If not, 1964 (or perhaps 1965) may come to be regarded as a new turning point — the year the inflationary trend was resumed after a six-year pause. Paradoxically, increased international strength for the dollar might create the background for a weakening of its purchasing power at home.

ITEM: Cheese food is a product made from a mixture of one or more varieties of cheese with added milk solids, salt, and up to 3 per cent emulsifier. These ingredients are pulverized and mixed with the aid of heat. The moisture content of a pasteurized cheese food is somewhat higher than that permitted for process cheese and the milk fat content is lower.

ITEM: A flower preservative can lengthen the life of many cut flowers to almost double the original life expectancy. The preservative supplements sugars the flower can no longer manufacture and retards the growth of bacteria in water. Adding preservative to the water just before putting flowers in gives best results.

* * *

ITEM: Retirement should not be an end, but a time for continued growth and for activities which satisfy the individual and society. The man who retires today at 65 has approximately 50,000 hours of free time ahead. The reservoir of functional and creative manpower among the elderly could be significant in the years to come if churches, schools and other segments of society could better encourage the growth of individual potential.

ITEM: To deflect sun from a large exterior wall space, festoon it with a variety of clay-potted vines, ferns and flowering plants that like sun. Many types of brackets designed to hold clay pots can be found at your garden or hardware store.

Michigan's No. 1 crop in value is corn with production attaining 110 million bushels in some years. Second to this comes hay and pasture, and from these crops stem livestock and livestock products that make up 54 percent of Michigan's agricultural income.

Michigan has pioneered in the development and use of heavy motorized equipment for fighting forest fires. The Federal government and other states are now using ideas developed at the experiment station near Roscommon, only one of its kind in the nation.

IT'S AN IDEA HOME DECORATIONS

The lady who has a handyman around the house has no problem, but for the girl who has to do everything herself such things as hanging something on a basement wall can present a perplexing problem.

At least, so it was before the introduction of a new Shure-Set tool which enables the housewife to fasten a fire extinguisher to a concrete block wall in her basement in seconds. All it takes is a couple of blows on the drive rod of the tool.

Now being introduced, the tool enables weekend hobbyists and do-it-yourselfers to drive a steel fastener through metal or wood into concrete with a few hammer blows.

In 1957 Michigan united its two great peninsulas with the $100 million Mackinac Bridge, the world's longest suspension bridge—its span 8,614 feet, its total length five miles, its cable towers rising above water the height of a 40-story building.

The Tahquamenon Falls in the Upper Peninsula is one of the most beautiful waterfalls anywhere in the world. It is 200 feet wide, with a drop of more than 50 feet. The Tahquamenon river is the famous "Golden Stream" of Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha."

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bear and children, Kim and Mark, of Lowell, Ind., were week-end guests of Mrs. Bear's parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Paul. Mr. and Mrs. Bear attended the Chelsea alumni banquet and the 10th anniversary reunion of Mrs. Bear's graduating class.

Mrs. Audrey Savickas of Lantana, Fla., is expected to arrive here Sunday for a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Merkel, and other relatives. The Merkels' other daughter, Mrs. David Douglas of Bellevue, Wash., has returned home after a recent visit with her parents here.

Mrs. Henry Schneider, who has been spending some time at Reno, Nev., at the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Getz, is now visiting another daughter, Mrs. Don Bartlet and family at Rockford, Ill. She plans to return to Chelsea June 28 and will reside at the Methodist Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elva Gage returned Tuesday from a 10-day vacation trip during which they visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fletcher at Asheville, N.C.; the Glendon Bovees at Anderson, Ind.; and the Donald Bardens at South Haven.

James Boylan returned home Sunday from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he had been a patient since Wednesday.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Nick Carpidies, their son, Lee, and niece, Mary Ann, were guests at a birthday dinner honoring Mrs. Mike Misailedes and son Malatyos. Also present were Mrs. John Chrysoula Hofhanesian and children, Dorian and Melanie. Sunday's dinner was a belated celebration of the birthdays which occurred the last week in May. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Hofhanesian entertained at a dinner, a feature being a cake decorated in blue and white in honor of Malatyos who was observing his 21st birthday.

Victor Parks and David Winans left early today for the Adirondacks Woodcraft Camp at Old Forge, Vt., where they will be employed during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Winans, the latter's grandparents, took the two youths to the camp.

BARRY AND IKE

Senator Barry Goldwater does not believe the Republican Presidential pattern set down by former President Eisenhower is designed to derail his conservative campaign for the White House. Goldwater was said to believe that if Eisenhower was out to stop his bid for the GOP Presidential nomination, the former President would have told him.

The second busiest waterway in the world is the famous locks at Sault Ste. Marie. More tonnage passes through these locks in an eight-month Great Lakes navigation season than either the Panama or the Suez canals normally handle in a full year.

All but two counties in Michigan have inland lakes, and seven boast in excess of 300.

Gelman Undertakes Army Research for $1 Token Fee

But vital germ warfare detection research is being performed by a Michigan company in return for a one dollar token fee from the U.S. Army Chemical Corps.

Gelman Instrument Company's laboratories have embarked on a year-long research and development program to provide the army wth a filter that isolates disease-bearing bacteria. It will be used to help determine the presence of bacteria in water supplies, or in the air.

Peacetime epidemics, as well as death and disease from germ warfare, might well be completely avoided with the end product to result from Gelman's filters as used by the army.

Success of this project would reduce bacteria detection time from as long as a week down to 1 hour or less.

Tests at the army's Fort Detrick, Md., chemical warfare center will collect air and water samples on Gelman filters, then add high-nutrient food so any bacteria collected will grow rapidly. The relatively large growths of bacteria then will be easy to identify under a microscope. From these tests, the most desirable filter will be selected for use in the army's final version of its bacteria sampling kit.

Of simple design, the kit will be operated by one man. Filters to be used in it must have pores with sizes controlled down to about one millionth of an inch.

"This is not necessarily an easy job the army has undertaken," said Company President Charles Gelman. "Others have tried it before, in fact. However, we believe it's for a very worthwhile purpose. Final development of the project will constiute a basic technological advance, as well as a contribution to human welfare. We are pleased to have this small part in the army's bacteriological detection program."

Of course, we expect commercially used products to emanate from this project, too. The army contract gives us full patent rights to all developments," Gelman said.

Gelman is one of two United States companies that research develop and manufacture microporous plastic membrance filters. Made of cellulose acetate, the filters are used under the trade name Metricel by medical and chemical laboratories, for chemical, pharmaceutical, petroleum and missile fule process filtration, and for a host of other applications.

Family Pot Luck

BY HELEN HALE

Main Dish Magic

A wonderful casserole for casual entertaining uses cooked rice with cooked chicken or turkey, chicken broth, sliced celery and mushrooms. Color note can be added with chopped pimiento. Bake and heat in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

Toast bread, spread with deviled ham and top with a poached egg and cheese sauce. That's a presto-quick main dish.

Tuna Souffle fakes on speed if you use heated cream of celery soup with a can of flaked tuna and fold 4 beaten egg yolks, then the stiffly beaten whites. Bake 50 to 60 minutes in a slow (300°F.) oven.

How about a three-in-one salad for a hot day? Three lettuce cups on a plate will hold shrimp salad, cottage cheese with plum tomatoes and orange sections with rosy strawberries.

Macaroni is a favorite salad ingredient. Try one of the new shapes and blend with salmon, cucumber, green pepper, parsley and mayonnaise.

Helen's Favorite:
Creamy Orange Dressing (For Fruit Salads)
3 ounce package cream cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon paprika
Blend all ingredients together. Chill and serve on fruit or herry salads.

Michigan has four times as much water area as any other state—11,037 inland lakes, 36,350 miles of streams, and 3,251 miles of Great Lakes shoreline. Nearly half of Michigan's 83 counties have frontage on the Great Lakes.

NATION'S BIRD IN TROUBLE: More than a match for most wild foes, the majestic bald eagle appears headed on a one-way flight to oblivion throughout much of the United States because of people, progress, and pesticides. Its numbers have nosedived and today only 550 pairs of breeding birds remain in this country, not including Hawaii and Alaska. Michigan is one of the bald eagle's last strongholds, but here as elsewhere the forces of "civilization" are seriously working against our great national emblem. Studies are not conclusive, but there are indications that DDT poisoning is blasting the eagle's reproduction. There is also evidence that the birds pick up lethal doses of pesticides in the food they eat. Large numbers of bald eagles are illegally shot each year. Highways and resort developments have ousted these birds from their favorite haunts. Questions are cropping up over the possible effect pollution may have on the bald eagle.

Bald Eagle Having Trouble In Long Battle for Survival

On the 20th of June of 1782, the Continental Congress of the 13 colonies decreed the design for the Great Seal of the United States. For ages, an eagle had been considered a token of strength. Thus "the distinctly American white-headed or bald eagle" became the emblem of a new nation.

To some future Congress of the new 50 states, however, may fall the task of selecting a new symbol of freedom for the Great Seal. For the bald eagle appears headed on a one-way flight to oblivion.

And nowhere is its plight more graphic than in Michigan.

Item—20 years ago, there were 12 nesting pairs of bald eagles in the southern Lower Peninsula . . . along Saginaw Bay, at the St. Clair Flats, in Monroe and Allegan counties. By last summer, just one pair remained, on Otter Creek near Monroe. Last fall, one of these two surviving birds was shot.

Item—There were, in 1963, a total of 81 active eagle eyries in Michigan. The outcome is known for 76 nests. Only 23 were successful, and only 31 eaglets were reared.

Item—Bald eagle reproduction near the Great Lakes is nearly non-existent.

Item—In the past three years, eight bald eagles are known to have been shot in Michigan. Three are still alive but crippled. In the same period, 15 other eagles were found dead of unknown causes, and two more were killed by cars.

Total extinction? That's unlikely, for there will be bald eagles in the wilderness of Alaska long after the last of its kind has vanished from below the Canadian border. But it is also probable that your grandchildren or their children will never know this majestic winged hunter except in textbooks and in museums.

Results of a most recent census spearheaded by the National Audubon Society show that only about 550 breeding pairs of bald eagles remain in this country, not including Hawaii and Alaska. Largest concentrations of active nests are in Florida (190 last year), Michigan (81), Wisconsin (64), and Minnesota (40).

People and progress have played a major role in the decline of the bald eagle. The bald eagle has been protected by federal law since 1940, but it is still being shot in large numbers. There are other known problems. A nest near Houghton Lake was cut down because it was too near a freeway. Resort developments have ousted eagles from ancestral haunts.

These, however, are questions which conservationists can grasp, and sometimes answer, and perhaps do something about. In the Great Lakes states, Michigan included, the U. S. Forest Service forbids cutting and road construction in a buffer zone surrounding eagle nests on its lands. And tall trees — potential nest sites or roosts — are being saved from the chainsaw.

But the ultimate destiny of the national bird may be determined by today's intangibles, those factors little known or little understood or only suspected.

What effect has pollution and, perhaps, botulism as well, had on the health of the bald eagle? And what, really, is the role of pesticides in this great bird's decline?

As the president of the National Audubon Society, Carl W. Buchheister, has charged: "On the basis of the evidence at hand, we can only conclude that the eagle is having its reproduction systematically blasted by DDT poisoning." Pesticides may be responsible as well, naturalists believe, for many of the bald eagle deaths from unexplained causes.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell

★ Farm Labor Czar

If farm labor bills before Congress were to be enacted, labor leaders could turn into "Czars of the agricultural community, holding both farmers and workers in their grasp."

That statement, along with others equally pungent, was included in recent testimony given by a Michigan farm leader in opposition to Senate Bills 528 and 529—which would expand the Labor Management Regulations Act to include agricultural labor.

According to Walter Wightman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, and well-known fruit and livestock farmer, passage of the measure would give labor union officials the kind of powers that would inevitably be abused and which in time would degenerate into a racket.

The proposals would force farmers to deal in collective bargaining with labor unions in any hiring they do, they would legalize a "hiring hall" arrangement in which unions would become the exclusive source of farm workers.

In his testimony, Wightman illustrated what he called the "vulnerability of the farmer as an employer to any work stoppage on his farm." He said that although a strike of an industrial concern may result in a reduction in profits, a strike in agriculture during harvest time would result in loss of a full year's income, something which would bankrupt many farmers.

"Conditions in agriculture are so different, as compared with those of industry, that no union should be empowered to act as the exclusive bargaining agent of workers employed by farmers," Wightman said.

He pointed out that the farmer is in no position to stand a work stoppage because "come what may," he must get his crops harvested. Many fruit and vegetable crops have investments to bring them to harvest stage running upwards of $400 per acre or more.

"Collective bargaining would not equalize the bargaining power of farmers and workers—rather it would make farmers subservient to labor union leaders. . ." Wightman said.

Meppelink and children Debbie and Denise and eight-month-old David, were in Chelsea the past week-end for a brief visit while enroute from their home at Norwalk, Conn., to visit Mrs. Meppelink's relatives in Grand Rapids. The Rev. Meppelink, now pastor of the Parkway Assembly of God church at Norwalk, was formerly pastor of the Chelsea Assembly of God church.

Police Officer, Daughter Drown at Half Moon Lake

A 12-year-old Inkster girl and her father were drowned Saturday afternoon at Herman's Resort at Half Moon Lake. The girl, Barbara Fowler, was one of four girls who waded out into the lake and stepped into a "drop-off."

Three of the girls made their way back to shore while the Fowler girl's father, Robert Fowler, waded to her assistance.

Deputies called to the scene said no one there seemed to know exactly what happened whether the girl grabbed her father and both went under together or whether both were caught in an undertow.

The three girls who reached the shore and safety said they thought Barbara was just behind them as they managed to reach land.

Sheriff's deputies immediately called for the department's two boats and the Underwater Recovery Team, a group of civilian skindivers affiliated with the law agency.

But before sheriff's skindivers arrived at the lake, Burt Root of Ypsilanti, using his personal skindiving equipment, recovered Barbara's body near the spot where she went down. She was pronounced dead at the scene by a deputy medical examiner at 5:10 p.m., about 40 minutes after she was last seen alive.

A half-dozen sheriff's skindivers searched the bottom of Half Moon Lake for the next 90 minutes before the body of Fowler was finally found shortly before 7 p.m.

At the time the four girls got into difficulty in the water, Fowler, his wife and their four-year-old son were in a boat anchored close to the shore.

Also at the lake with them were two other daughters.

Fowler, who had been a member of the Inkster Police Department the past 14 years and for several years prior to his death had been the midnight shift desk officer.

St. Mary's Parish Picnic Plans Set

Committees in charge of arrangements for St. Mary's Parish picnic scheduled for June 28 at Clear Lake met Sunday and completed final plans for the event. Ticket chairman Jack Merkel reported that he was "very pleased" with ticket sales to date and said that "a good turnout is assured" for the picnic.

Merkel suggested that as many as possible purchase their tickets at Chelsea Drug Store or Merkel's Store as soon as they can. Tickets also will be on sale after all Masses at St. Mary's church Sunday, June 21.

"While tickets will be available after that date," Merkel said, "the committee would appreciate it if an earlier count is available."

Jack Curl, waterfront safety chairman, announced that the swimming program for the picnic is arranged with an adequate number of relinble lifeguards to be on duty throughout the afternoon. He asked, however, that parents do their part in safeguarding children by keeping their children out of the water until at least an hour after eating.

One of the highlights of the afternoon's program will be a concert by the Waterloo Band. Thier music appeals to all ages, the committee pointed out. Walter Bury, entertainment chairman, said band members requested that members of St. Mary's parish who play instruments join the band group for the occasion.

General chairman J. V. Burg, II, said he is hoping everyone in the parish will take advantage of the opportunity to enjoy the camp ground facilities which he pointed out are ideal for family outings such as the one planned for St. Mary's parish. Burg suggested that parish members contact friends and relatives who formerly were parishioners here and invite them to join present members of the church for the "day of fun and relaxation."

At the committee meeting it was announced that signs will be placed at points along Clear Lake Rd. directing those unfamiliar with the area along the route to the picnic area.

These who attend may bring a picnic lunch or may purchase refreshments on the grounds.

Most of Michigan's agricultural production with two exceptions is concentrated in the southern part of the lower peninsula below a line from Saginaw Bay to Muskegon. Cherries come from a fruit belt along Lake Michigan stretching as far north as Grand Traverse Bay while potatoes are produced in volume at several northern Michigan and Upper Peninsula locations.

BEER BABIES

Rome, N. Y.—Police thought 5 a.m. just a little early for proud fathers to be out pushing baby carriages. When they stopped the men for closer inspection, they found five cases of beer in the buggies. The men admitted they had stolen the beer from a grocery store and hoped to avoid suspicion by using the baby carriages to transport it.

Lions Games To Be Shown On Channel 6

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League has given his consent to Lions President William Clay Ford's request for WJIM-TV Channel 6 in Lansing, to telecast the entire schedule of Detroit Lions football games in 1964.

There was speculation that the mid-Michigan CBS station would not be able to telecast the Lions home games this year, because it had been included in the "black-out" area surrounding Detroit.

Any television station whose signal can be received in the home city can be blacked out in accordance with regulations established for all member cities of the National Football League. WJIM-TV, located on the outer fringe of this area, was placed on the "black-out" list for the first time this year. It has telecast all Lions games for the past 14 seasons.

William Clay Ford, president of the Detroit Lions ball club, was instrumental in securing Channel 6's release from the restricted list. In meetings with Commissioner Rozelle, Ford requested that Channel 6 be permitted to telecast all games due to the popularity of the Lions out-state. A black-out would result in thousands of mid-Michigan sport fans being unable to view the games. Commissioner Rozelle reversed an earlier decision and Channel 6 viewers can now look forward to a full season of Lions telecasts.

Harold F. Gross, president and general manager of WJIM-TV, expressed his pleasure with Commissioner Rozelle's action, stating, "All of us at Channel 6 are grateful for the opportunity to again bring the complete schedule of Lions foot-ball games to our viewers. We're especially indebted to President Ford and Commissioner Rozelle for their splendid co-operation. We're certain the thousands of Lions fans join us in thanking them."

Tickets for the Lions two pre-season games with the Cleveland Browns on Friday, Aug. 11 and the Baltimore Colts on Friday, Aug. 28 will be available to out-state fans at the WJIM Country House.

PAYS WITH PENNIES

San Bernardino, Calif. — When the Internal Revenue Service told a native of this city it had refunded him $260.04 in error and he must repay the money, the angry man got his revenge. He put 25,004 pennies on the counter of the tax office and walked out.

More red tart cherries are raised in the Grand Traverse area of Michigan than in any other place in the United States. Michigan's red tart cherry production has amounted to at least one-half of the nation's total during each of the past 10 years.

Trout Planted in Washtenaw Waters

Lansing — Conservation Department field workers recently released nearly 1,000 keeper-sized trout in Washtenaw county waters to promote fishing action during the 1964 season.

Plantings totaled 600 rainbow trout in Paint creek and 375 brook trout in the Lower, Middle and Upper Sylvan ponds.

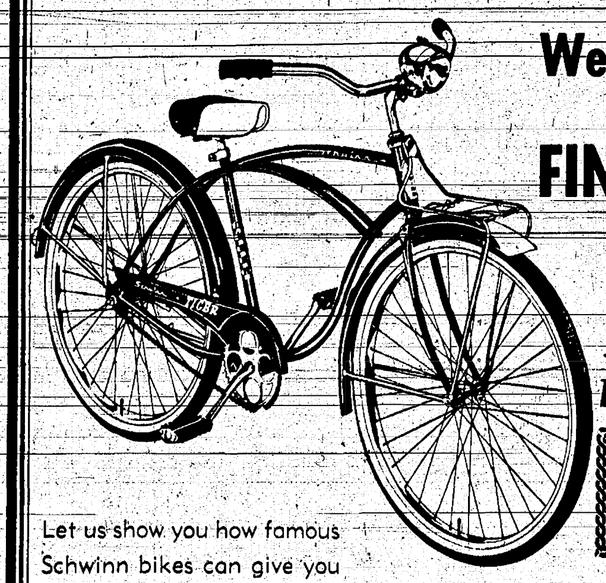

The fish, averaging more than nine inches in length, were planted at this stage of the spring season to yield best catch results.

Michigan produces two-thirds of the nation's supply of soft white winter wheat which is used for commercial cake mixes, pastries and crackers.

TODAY'S FREEDOMETTE

By legalistic maneuvers venal politicians rob the people of their property, their rights, control of public employees, and control of public affairs. These maneuvers are accomplished by trades with other venal politicians and with the help of well meaning but unperceptive dupes.

NEW CHURCH PRESIDENT

Edward Frederman was named president at the Christian Science Annual Meeting in Boston, June 8. Several thousand members traveled to attend the meeting, held in The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist. (Dome shown in background). The new president, Mr. Frederman, was once vice-president of a Chicago bank, but resigned 15 years ago to enter the public practice of Christian Science healing. He is currently a Trustee of The Christian Science Publishing Society.

Just A Minute . . .

By the Rev. James A. Craig

A church celebrated an anniversary. Former clergymen returned. Local clergymen were present. The congregation included visitors from several churches.

The service was well thought out, the message well presented, the people attentive. The joy of the occasion was evident.

The celebration was as well planned as it could be.

Leaving, one was struck with the quiet of the evening; the stillness so near to such a celebration.

One could look back with the detachment of an observer from another world—recall the happiness—remember its history.

Anniversaries are sometimes quickly forgotten. But one should be remembered.

One small group got together to celebrate an anniversary. While there they felt the strangeness of a new conviction.

They didn't go out into a still evening but into a noisy street. They were so excited they were accused of being drunk. One of them began to speak, telling of being discovered by God.

Ever since Christians have left their celebrations to go home, this time in quiet, the next in the noise of the street. Every time they carry the same message, the same hope, the same faith.

"He who has ears let him hear, and who has eyes, let him see."

FIRE TRUCK ON FIRE

Phoenix, Ariz. — While enroute to a fire, fireman Howard McMillian radioed the fire department to report his fire truck caught fire. The truck was equipped with 5,000 feet of hose to handle a big fire but did not have small equipment to put out the blaze on the truck caused by an electric short-circuit. Fellow firemen came to his rescue and put out his blaze and the market blaze which was also caused by a short-circuit.

Michigan ranks among the top five states producing celery, onions, asparagus, pickling cucumbers, canning beets and carrots.

Polish Farm Youth Visits Washtenaw

A Washtenaw county family is doing its share to improve world understanding by hosting an International Farm Youth Exchange delegate.

Norm Brown, Washtenaw county 4-H Club agent says this county is fortunate in helping to sponsor a grassroots ambassador from a foreign country. Marian Sosnowski from Poland is sharing his European culture with Michigan farm folks in an effort to open avenues for programs in the widening field of world affairs and understanding. He is currently living with the David Gordon family, 4620 Willow Rd., Saline.

Five other IFYE exchangees are visiting Michigan farms this summer.

The IFYE program is dedicated to a better understanding among the people of the world. Marian Sosnowski is gaining valuable knowledge about the "American way" while he is teaching his host family something of his own country's culture.

Marian is active in his native country as an inspector of dairy breeding. He has lived on a general farm for 22 years. His special study interests include cattle feeding and rural cooperatives. Active in youth work for several years, he was sponsored by the Rural Youth of Poland.

Exchange delegates will spend about three months with different farm families in Michigan and then travel to another state for about three months. IFYE is operated in behalf of the Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. 4-H club members throughout the nation support the exchange. Michigan 4-H groups help to orient and finance its delegates. No tax funds are expended in support of the program.

Michigan ranks seventh nationally in the production of sugar beets, according to Michigan State University agricultural economists.

Dr. Springer Will Appear at Beulahland Bible Conference

Dr. Harvey Springer will return for another year at Beulahland as a result of the many requests of those who thrilled at his unusual ability and benefitted by his sound Bible preaching when he preached to a packed house when last here.

Dr. Springer is pastor of the First Baptist church of Englewood, Colo. (suburb of Denver), and is known over the world as "The Cowboy Evangelist." He is editor of "The Western Voice," a weekly christian newspaper, president of Silver State Baptist Schools, Silver State Homes and Hospitals, Director Silver State Youth Camp and is a member of the executive committee of the International Council of Christian Churches. He is a strong prophetic preacher and will be bringing messages vital to the needs of our churches and country. He is a fearless crusader and his messages will be informative as to what is happening in the churches of our land and in our government to turn us from "the faith of our Fathers" and American Way of life."

Recently Dr. Springer had a long interview with Madalyn Murray the self-confessed atheist who carried the Bible reading case to the "Supreme Court" of our land and won the ruling so now it is illegal to read the Bible or pray in the public schools. He will give facts on the total aims of the atheists and communists and show that many are aiding them in their attempt to destroy us who claim to be christians and Americans. Christian and Patriots need the information, diabolical as it is, and to know what we should do about it.

The conference begins on Sunday, June 21 at 3 p.m. with the director of the conference, W. C. Standridge, speaking, who will also speak at night and Monday night. Dr. Springer starts on Tuesday night, June 23 and will continue nightly through Sunday, June 28.

Sunday evening services start at 7:00 and week nights at 7:30 p.m. with afternoon services each Sunday at 3 p.m.

Large delegations from area churches are planning to attend and will have charge of the music each night. The Grace Baptist church of Belleville will have the Tuesday night music and Jim Steenson will be the featured musician on Friday night with his famous trumpet.

A later conference will be held Aug. 23-Sept. 7 when Major Bundy and Dr. R. T. Ketcham will each return for a week.

Beulahland is located three miles east of Pinckney on Whitewood Rd. at M-36 (Happy Day Camp Grounds).

Michigan Ranks Third In Hunting, Fishing License Sales Totals

Michigan ranked third nationally in hunting and fishing popularity last year with a total of nearly 1,765,000 license-buying sportsmen, according to final figures of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

For the fifth year running, this state placed No. 2 in hunter numbers, behind leader Pennsylvania. Almost 860,500 gunners and archers bought 1,142,745 licenses, permits, and stamps in Michigan at a cost of $4,775,400.

Last year saw the state slip one notch to the fourth spot for its licensed force of fishermen which totaled 903,190. These anglers purchased 1,079,322 licenses and stamps for $2,272,541.

California and Minnesota stood one-two in the country with their license holder totals. Nation-wide, nearly 34 million sportsmen paid more than $125 million for hunting and fishing licenses during 1963.

GUESS WHO: Recognize this fuzzy little fellow? That long bill and wide-eyed look are two good clues to his identity. Here's another hint. Come this fall, he'll drive small game hunters to distraction with his aerial acrobatics. Because this bird sticks pretty much to brushy lowlands, he has come by the nickname of timber doodle. If you haven't guessed already, our tiny friend is a woodcock. He will grow up to be one of the trickiest game targets that ever darted through the air.

Boy Scouts Blaze New Hiking Trail

Boy Scouts have blazed a new trail which was opened officially last week-end. Called the Golden Jubilee Trail, it is a 20-mile stretch over lands belonging to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, Ann Arbor city and private owners.

The general public is not permitted to follow the trail which begins at the Dexter Bridge on the Huron River and continues along the river to Silver Lake. However, permission has been granted by the owners for organized groups to use the trail. It connects with the existing Silver Lake Trail, which in turn connects to the Boy Scouts Potowatami Trail to Bruin Lake.

The Potawatomi Trail is a 16-mile hike in the center of the Pinckney Recreation Area which is located in Livingston and Washtenaw counties, southwest of Pinckney and to the northwest of Dexter. The area is marked with many high irregular hills, a large number of lakes varying in size from a few acres to 350 acres, and a number of clear streams. The trail is almost completely on undeveloped territory, following a gravel road only a few hundred feet.

The trail starts at Bruin Lake Scout Camp which is situated at the corner of Goodband and Bartell Rds. It circles Pickerel, Half Moon, and Blind Lakes as it wanders through dense woodlands, sunny grassland, luxuriant swamps; up pleasant slopes and across clear streams. The area abounds in wild life from the chipmunk to the white-tail deer. Canadian geese winter and nest in the area. Red steel posts mark the Potawatomi Trail.

The trail gets its name from the Potawatomi Indians who utilized this lake area as their summer hunting and ceremonial grounds. The trail twice crosses Portage Creek which once was a segment of the Indian canoe route across Southern Michigan.

Among the Indians of this area were the Algonquins, Potawatomi, Chippewa, Fox, and the Hurons. They were of a hunting and fishing culture which mainly used tools made of flint and wood such as spears, knives, scrapers, and drills. They also had some ability in weaving and modeling in clay. Housing was generally a bark-covered frame of saplings. The women grew the corn and made clothes from animal skins sewn with sinew. The clothing consisted of moccasins, leggins, shirts, cloaks, and frocks. The Indians had no iden of owning a piece of property because they believed it was given to everyone by the Great Spirit. They relied on magic and superstition to flatter their God. Because of this, the medicine man was very important in the tribe.

Vacation Aids

For anyone planning a vacation in Michigan, here are a few "must" publications available from the Conservation Department. The lineup includes the folder "Michigan's Shore-to-Shore Riding-Hiking Trail," featuring a map of a new route for recreationists. Also new is the directory "Michigan Water Access Sites" which pinpoints about 575 public entry points on lakes and streams. Next is "Michigan Canoe Trails" which lists and shows 59 paddling runs, their camping places and other features. For fishermen, there's the "1964 Directory of Lakes and Ponds Planted with Trout." Another folder full of help is the "1964 Campground Directory" which lists places to stay at state parks and forests, national forests, county and local parks. All of these folders are free from the Department's Publications Room in Lansing or any of its field offices. Serving as handy companions to each folder are the Department's new, improved maps which are available in single sheets and books from the Publications Room for all counties in the Upper Peninsula and southern Lower Peninsula. Map sheets can be obtained for most northern Lower Peninsula counties. Price of each book is $1 plus tax. Any person can get a single sheet for one county without charge; each additional copy costs 10 cents.

Gelman Awarded U. S. Contracts Totaling $100,000

Ann Arbor — A local area company will provide all radiation sampling instruments for a nine-state fallout control network being launched by he U. S. Public Health Service Radiological Health Laboratory at Las Vegas, Nev.

This is one of three U. S. contracts totalling $100,000 just awarded the Gelman Instrument Co., President Charles Gelman announced this week.

The samplers are a special design made o collect hazardous radioactive fallout from giant nuclear rocket engine tests at Mercury Atomic Test Site, Nev.

The initial 150 sampling machines will be delivered in he next few weeks by the Ann Arbor research and manufacturing company which is the nation's leading maker of air sampling instruments.

Simplicity is a major design requirement for these particular samplers—for they are manned in most instances by volunteer workers who serve without pay. Housewives, retired people and farmers and ranchers are among the people who tend the 9-state fallout sampling network.

Immediate plans for the Mercury Test Site sampling network call for complete fallout sampling in nine states — California, Nevada, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado. Expansion of the public health service program, expected next year, would at least double the 150 samplers slated for initial use.

Vandenberg and Edwards Air Force bases in California also are using Gelman sampling machines —of the Hurricane type—designed specifically to collect large volumes of air quickly, a feat often necessary when fallout is involved.

The Air Force is buying 300 Gelman beryllium samplers for use at the two California bases, to sample exhaust from its Thor and Atlas rockets. Such toxic dusts and gases as beryllium, hydrazine and flourine are emitted by the rocket engines.

Because of the hazard inherent in even minute amounts of beryllium, accuracy in sampling is an important factor. For example, compare beryllium with the poisonous lead: beryllium is 100 times more deadly, with 2 1,000th of a milligram per cubic meter being the maximum allowed for safe working conditions.

Total value of the current government instrument orders received is approximately $100,000, Gelman said, with $20,000 additional expected annually for the expendable filters developed by the company for use in the sampling machines.

Neurosis Theory Tested On Jekyll-and-Hyde Rats

THE THEORY THAT neurotic behavior has physical origins is being examined at DePaul University, Chicago, where researchers are literally driving rats crazy, then studying them in hopes of drawing conclusions about mental illness in humans. (A rat's metabolism resembles that of a human.) The biochemistry of a neurotic rat is studied before and after the animal is tranquilized to find out what organic changes accompany a switch from abnormal to normal behavior. How do you make a rat neurotic? You punish it, the scientists say, for making mistakes in simple tasks, then increase the difficulty of the tasks until the rat is thoroughly befuddled and frustrated.

A TELEVISION CAMERA smaller than a carton of cigarettes is being developed for use on the Apollo manned lunar mission. Pictures taken by the pint-size "magic eye" will be transmitted from outer space to a ground station, video-taped and scan-converted for commercial TV, and released within minutes to the public . . . PIGS and pipelines might seem an odd combination to farmers and consumers, but they make sense to pipeline maintenance crews. Unlike fourfooted porkers, pipeline "pigs" are inflated spheres pushed through the lines to clean out foreign materials. Because of the spheres' tendency to roll off course into branch outlets, Tube Turns, Louisville, developed a pipeline tee with a heavy steel grid that prevents their passage into the outlets. The closely spaced grid blocks spheres that might guard bars.

THE FIRST nuclear-powered lighthouse has been put into operation by the U.S. Coast Guard, in Chesapeake Bay, Md. Power is supplied by a 60-watt istopic generator, designed to operate unattended for 10 years, that has no moving parts and is heavily shielded to reduce external radiation to safe levels . . . COMPUTERS aren't killing jobs, they're creating them, Data processing consultants point out that their industry is growing so fast it could employ all the college graduates produced by our schools during the next 10 years. Computer authorities believe, however, that many people who haven't completed high school also can be trained to work with the mechanical brains and have launched a program to prove the point. A class of 30 unemployed men and women, ranging in age from 18 to 46, will serve as a test group in an eight-month course.

WOODEN NICKELS are no joke in one southern Wisconsin community. Because of a shortage of coins the local bank circulates nickels the size of poker chips. They won't fit parking meters, but anywhere else in the town the coisn are legal tender.

Chaffee Attending Convention of Holstein Breeders

Paul C. Chaffee is attending the 79th annual convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America in Washington, D.C., as an elected delegate representing Michigan registered Holstein breeders. In all, 208 delegates from 48 states and Puerto Rico will participate in the official business sessions.

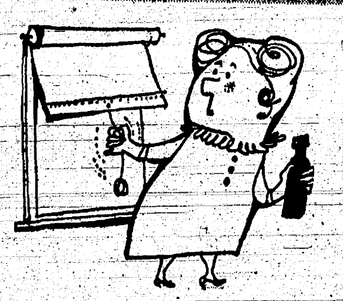

Convention week activities start Sunday, June 7, with registration of delegates and guests and board of director and committee meetings. A highlight of Monday's schedule is an open house tour of Irvington Farms, a nationally known Registered Holstein farm, located at Gaithersburg, Md.

More than 1,000 persons are attending the convention activities that include addresses from prominent dairy industry leaders, Association officers and special guest speakers. Discussion of new policy and possible bylaw and constitution changes takes place on Tuesday, June 9; actual voting on these proposals and election of four directors come the following day. Holstein convention week ends Thursday with a public sale of 65 registered Holsteins of all ages.

IF YOUR PHONE could talk, it might have a bit of a Southern accent! For one important part of most phones today is a small fluffy ball of cotton. The cotton is tucked into the hollow part of the handset, to prevent vibrations and echoes from the mouthpiece reaching the earpiece. This tiny addition contributes greatly to the amazing clarity with which today's phones transmit voices across town or over thousands of miles with equal ease.

"WE'RE ON OUR WAY!"

Planning a trip? Before you pack up, pick up the phone and let folks know when to expect you. You'll avoid the disappointment of finding them away from home when you arrive. And of course it's equally important to phone ahead when a hotel or motel is your destination. And when you arrive, why not phone the folks at home? They'll be glad to hear you arrived safely. It doesn't cost much to keep in touch by Long Distance—use it often.

BE OUT-OF-DOORS without being out-of-luck when the phone rings. Ever miss out on an important call because you were out in the yard and couldn't hear the phone ring? It won't happen again if you'll just ask your Telephone Man to install a Bell Chime ringer. This device can be set to ring extra loud when you're outside. Then when you're indoors the Bell Chime can be set to announce calls with soft, melodious notes that will soothe your ear—or set for your regular telephone "ring." Order yours today. The Administration's long-range plans call for a cut in excise taxes in 1966 and another reduction in the following year were revealed by informed sources. It is thought that President Johnson will announce this tentative timetable during next fall's Presidential campaign.

A LOOK AT THE RECORD—

David Gordon needs to average 46 pounds of fat for the next four months to break the 600 lb. barrier. With 91% of his cows milking he has a potential 9% to come fresh and they will help.

Don and Bob Stuart with only 84% of their cows milking, they have 16% to come fresh, these should help even more. I would venture a guess that the Stuart boys should make the 600 lb. class, even though they have to average better than 54 lbs. of fat.

Leonard Burmeister with 96% of his cows milking and only 4% to freshen must keep his cows now milking going strong. He did average 67 lbs. last month and I do not expect a fast fall here. He should also make it although he must average 55 lbs. of fat.

We have potentially three herds that could break the 600 barrier. There were only 27 600-lb. herds in all of Michigan last year.

Following are high cows for a 305-day lactation, with 500 pounds or more of butterfat.

Smoke-Cooking Made Easy

Sportsmen and campers, here's a chance to add a flavorful flair to your outdoor eating. Try smoke-cooking meat --- caught bought, or shot --- over a campfire, using any type of pot or pan that has a good snug lid. This is how it works: Put the meat on a circular wire rack with cooking foil laid beneath on the pan's bottom to catch drippings. Place sawdust around the edge of the pan, under the edges of the upturned foil. The heat turns the sawdust to smoke, which is trapped under the pan lid to flavor the meat. The time needed for smoke-cooking varies, depending on the thickness and type of meat and the heat of your fire. Use fine-grained sawdust, the kind that comes from sand-papering hardwood---preferably fruit or nut wood.--Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Michigan Features Extensive Variety of Camping Facilities

Lansing — The peak camping period in Michigan is at hand and, despite addition of several hundred campsites, the "No Vacancy" sign is expected to be hanging on the gates of some of the most popular parks soon.

Increasing interest in camping in recent years has kept the demand ahead of the supply although Michigan has more than 10,300 campsites in state parks ready for 1964 visitors.

The Michigan Tourist Council advises campers that they should consider the more than 4,000 campsites in state and federal forests and in county and township parks if they find their favorite state park full.

In addition camping is permitted on most of the more than seven million acres of public forest land in the northern two-thirds of the state even though there are no designated campsites.

State parks offer the most complete facilities, in most cases, with bathhouses, flush toilets, electricity and concession stores. For use of these facilities a $2 annual or 50 cent daily park permit is required in addition to a $1 daily camping fee and a 25 cent daily use charge for electricity if desired.

From June 15 through Labor Day campers are limited to 15 days in any one state park with an additional 30 days during other months of the year. No reservations are accepted for state park campsites.

Some of the county and township parks also charge a fee to cover maintenance and campers should inquire about these charges locally.

There are no fees for camping in state and national forest campgrounds most of which have pit toilets, picnic tables, fireplaces and a water supply. There are no attendants at these camp grounds but camping is limited to 20 days at one site in state forests and 21 days in federal forests.

In public forests outside designated camp grounds no permits or fees are required and there is no restriction on camping except during the November deer season when a registration card, available at license dealers, is required.

Many of the camping areas outside state parks offer spectacular scenery, excellent fishing and uncrowded conditions which more than make up for more primitive facilities.

A directory of Michigan camping facilities is available free of charge from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 48926.

Western Electric Co. Spends $31.6 Million in Michigan Last Year

The Western Electric Co., supply and manufacturing unit of the Bell System reported that it spent $31.6 million in Michigan in 1963 for supplies, services, and wages.

These expenditures, the company pointed out, were in addition to those made by the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. throughout the state.

Total payments for supplies and services amounted to $22.4 million and were made to 1,324 suppliers in 139 Michigan owns. More than 88 percent of these were classified as "small businesses" employing less than 500 persons each.

In payroll expenditures, Western Electric spent $9.2 million last year in Michigan.

Production Report Given for Area Holsteins

An official production testing report from the Holstein-Friesian Association of America at Brattleboro, Vt., includes the recently completed lactations of these area Registered Holstein cows.

Alfalfadale Leader June Pabst, 4367438, a six-year-old owned by Norman F. & Richard N. Brassow, Dexter, produced 16,256 lbs. of milk and 610 lbs. of butterfat in 326 days.

Mable Ray Apple Ormsby, 4269083, an eight-year-old owned by Darold Heidt, Dexter, produced 15,972 lbs. of milk and 567 lbs. of butterfat in 227 days.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 7,500 lbs. of milk and 275 lbs. of butterfat by the average U. S. dairy cow, notes the national Holstein Association.

Michigan State University supervised the sampling, weighing and testing operations in cooperation with the Holstein organization's herd and breed improvement programs.

Rep. George Meader Addresses Plymouth Group Saturday Evening

Representative George Meader (R. Mich.) addressed a Saturday evening meeting in Plymouth which becomes a part of the 2nd congressional district of Michigan under the Act recently passed by the Michigan Legislature. The meeting was sponsored by the Passage-Gayde Post No. 391 of the American Legion at Plymouth. It also included the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Auxiliary and the City Commissioners and the Township Trustees.

Representative Meader spoke on "Government — the Citizen's Responsibility," and discussed issues facing the 88th Congress, including civil rights legislation, prayer and Bible reading in the public schools, and efficiency and economy in government.

Meader said the citizen's responsibility in government was to be well-informed on major problems facing government, to let his elected representatives know his views and his reasons for them, to engage actively in party organization and campaigning and thus to exert his maximum influence on units of government at all levels.

"To the extent well-informed citizens demand good government, they will get it. Indifference on the part of citizens leads to seizure of the power of government by those seeking personal gain or by special interests," Meader said.

The central Michigan area is noted for its quality dairy cattle, beef, hogs, corn and grain.

HIGHER EDUCATION

As never before, this nation is experiencing a dynamic upsurge of concern over our future supply of what is logically referred to as "specialized or leadership" talent. Accelerated economic and technological growth conflicting with international tensions has made us more aware of our dependence upon qualified scholars and leaders.

What do these facts mean to us as a nation? Quite basically, they mean that we must become more active in the areas of higher education as well as becoming to a greater degree more reliant upon our colleges and universities. It is from these sources that will rise the professional careermen who will operate or guide our schools, hospitals, plants, farms, churches and research centers. Now, and in the future, the 71 Michigan public and private colleges and universities, community colleges, professional and technical schools will train men and women for responsible positions within their communities and at the various state and national levels.

Currently, more than 178,000 students are filling the campuses and classrooms of Michigan's schools where they share the talent of 10,000 faculty members who "light the way to a brighter future for all of us." Your support is vital to the continued development of higher education in Michigan.

This is one of a series of education features published as a public service in cooperation with the Michigan Press Association, the Michigan Education Association and this newspaper.

Sylvan, Lima Near Top in Percentage of Tax Collection

Sylvan and Lima townships were in second and third place, respectively, in the percentage of 1963 Washtenaw county taxes collected by township treasurers of the county. Ypsilanti township, with 97.9 percent collected, was in first place.

Sylvan township's collection percentage is 97.2 and Lima township's, 97.1 percent.

Dexter township collections of 1963 taxes are listed at 18.7 percent; Freedom township, 95.2 percent; Lyndon, 90.3 percent; Manchester township, 94.1 percent; Scio township, 93.4 percent; and Sharon, 92.5 percent.

In Sylvan township the total levy was $98,115.89 with $95,343.75 collected, while in Lima township the levy was $31,791.04 with $30,883.97 collected.

Levies and collections in other area townships are as follows: Dexter township, $31,269.41 levied, $27,249.52 collected; Freedom, $33,383.28 levied, $31,767.81 collected; Lyndon, $18,446.94 levied, $16,053.65 collected; Manchester township, $37,240.42 levied, $35,049.04 collected; Scio, $126,915.87 levied, $118,528.23 collected; and Sharon $18,108.91 levied and $16,754.30 collected.

Total county levy in 1963 was $3,397,372.46 with collections of $3,229,259.61 or a total of 95.05 percent.

The figures were compiled by the office of Sylvester A. Leonard, Washtenaw county treasurer.

It is interesting to note that the total 1963 levy in the entire county was only $688.50 more than the $3,396,683.96 levied in 1962; total uncollected balance, however, is much less in 1963. The figure for uncollected taxes in 1963 is $168,112.85 as compared with $188,731.96 in 1962.

Southwestern Michigan counties located near Lake Michigan are heavy producers of apples, peaches, cherries, pears, plums, grapes, strawberries, raspberries, blueberries and muskmellon.

Caroline Smith Sails June 29 on International Living Experiment

CAROLYN SMITH

Carolyn Smith, a 1964 graduate of Chelsea High school, has been accepted to participate in the 1964 program of "Experiment in International Living." She will leave June 29 from New York City on the M. S. Aurelia and return Aug. 31 by air.

The Experiment in International Living is an independent, non-profit organization in the field of international education which helps to promote international understanding by a person-to-person approach. Since its founding in 1932 by Donald B. Watt, the Experiment has sent more than 15,500 Americans aboard to learn how peoples of other countries think, act, and live. This year, approximately 2,000 will travel to 35 countries on five continents. Each of these Experimenters will live for a month as a member of a foreign family and will spend another month traveling about the country visited.

Miss Smith, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Smith, 350 Washington St., will spend the month with a family at Heerlen, in the southeastern part of Holland. Her month of traveling will take her to the lower Benelux countries of Holland and she and her traveling party will be staying for a time at the seaside city of St. Anna der Muide in southwest Holland.

Experimenters travel in groups of about 10, under the guidance of mature leaders specially selected and trained by the Experiment. Before they are admitted to the program, every effort is made to assure that Experimenters are worthy representatives of the United States.

Members receive special instruction on the language, customs, history and culture of the country they will visit. After the homestay, they travel as a group, generally in the company of young members of their host families. Toward the close of the program, Experimenters include a visit to a major city and an opportunity (for those who qualify) for a few days of independent travel.

The Experiment administers three basic Outbound programs (U.S. to other countries): Regular groups; The Experiment Ambassador Program (through which communities and colleges raise funds to send select young people abroad as their representatives); and various Co-operative Overseas Programs with academic institutions.

Miss Smith is participating in the program with a regular group, paying her own expenses with money she has saved by working after-school and week-ends.

During 1964 the Experiment program will extend into all the major nations of Western Europe, and to countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

The Experiment in International Living, an independent, non-profit, educational organization, is financed by fees, foundation grants, gifts, and government contracts. United States' headquarters are situated at Putney, Vt., home of its founder, Dr. Donald B. Watt. Five regional offices are maintained in this country and international operations are conducted through national Experiment offices or representatives in more than 45 countries on six continents.

The Experiment's programs are based on the conviction that one best learns to understand another people and their culture by living among them as a member of a family. Accordingly, no matter how extensively the Experimenter is involved in travel or study, the heart of these programs is the experience of living with a family in another country, usually for one month. From this vantage point, each Experimentor has the opportunity to understand and appreciate a new culture by living it, and to develop respect and admiration for the people who have introduced him to it.

St. Louis School Serves 600 Persons At Spaghetti Supper

The third annual public spaghetti supper held Sunday evening at St. Louis School for Boys, was the final activity of the school year. Approximately 600 persons attended the supper with Chelsea area people adding their support to the success of the occasion.

This year's attendance doubled that of the second annual supper held last year.

Boys at the school gave their year-end program and Mrs. John Shada of Ferndale, mother of one of the school's students, was the guest speaker. She is a well-known speaker on educational topics.

The Rev. Fr. Louis Frangi, assistant director of a school for boys in Philadelphia, operated by the Servants of Charity, the same order of priests and nuns who founded the school here, is assisting at the school this summer. He will remain here until the Rev. Fr. Joseph Legnani, director of St. Louis school, and the Rev. Fr. Germano Pegoraro, one of the school's instructors, return from a visit to their former home in Italy. They left Thursday, June 4 and will participate there in the election of a new Superior-General of their religious order. They will also have a general audience with Pope Paul in Rome.

Michigan ranks second in plum production and third in apple production besides being among the top four states in production of strawberries, pears, grapes, grape juice, wine and fresh grapes.

Kiwanians See Film On Telstar Satellite

N. J. Prakken, Ann Arbor manager of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening in the social center of the Methodist church. He showed pictures of Telstar and how it transmits pictures for television, etc., in Europe and America.

Prakken was introduced by the program chairman, Floyd Fowler.

In addition to Prakken, Ann Arbor Kiwanians present included Ray McCalla, Wayne Abbott and Sheridan Springer.

Also guests at the meeting were Ralph Raiford of Dexter and John Steele.

James Merna of the University of Michigan is to be the guest speaker at next week's meeting when the program will center on the Winnewana Flooding near Chelsea.

Guide for Canoeists Now Available from Conservation Dept.

Free copies of a streamlined guide for canoeists are now available from the Conservation Department's Publications Room in Lansing.

The publication is "Michigan Canoe Trails," a joint effort of the Department and Michigan Tourist Council, which lists 59 easy-to-hard canoe runs on the state's streams.

Reprinted in a convenient pocket-size form, it outlines these canoeing routes on a map of Michigan, also showing landings, camping places, portages, and other features.

Each run is described in a short sketch which guides the canoeist from start to finish, telling him the length of his trip and tough spots he will encounter along the way. Supply points and fishing opportunities are also noted.
