School Officials Studying Need for Vocational Training

Governor's Committee Member Outlines Possible Joint Area Program

Ralph C. Wenrich, vocational education director at the University of Michigan, former state director of vocational education and member of the four-man committee appointed by Governor Romney to study the need for vocational education in the schools of the state, was in Chelsea Tuesday to outline a plan for the establishment of a vocational education center in this area.

Wenrich was School Superintendent Charles Cameron and School Board members of the Chelsea District Board of Education.

A meeting took place at the high school with School Board members and school officials present.

Wenrich explained the need for vocational education in high schools and the importance of training students for the job market.

Verl Fouty Home Hit By Bad Fire

The Verl Fouty home at 17417 Cavanaugh Lake Rd. was extensively damaged shortly after noon Friday when fire broke out at the rear of the structure. Although the actual fire was confined to the kitchen and upstairs bedrooms at the back of the house, the entire house was severely damaged by smoke and water. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, according to Chelsea Fire Department records.

About 5 p.m. Friday Chelsea firemen were called out to extinguish a grass fire on the property of Mrs. Chris Fitzsimmons on Goodland Rd.

Monday evening, a spectacular oil fire near the Michigan-Onto Oil Co. storage tanks at Sager and Klingler Rds. was quickly extinguished by Chelsea firemen.

An accumulation of oil in a ditch became ignited; Chelsea firemen said the big storage tanks were not threatened, however, since the blazing oil was some distance away. Billowing smoke from the blaze drew many people to the scene in the belief a disastrous fire was in progress. Chelsea firemen said they were able to put the fire out in short order when they reached the scene.

Fawn Survives Severe Injuries By Hay Mower

Larry Bott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bott on Boyce Rd., while mowing hay on the family farm, accidentally injured a young fawn, cutting both forelegs. The fawn was so small it was hidden by the tall grass.

The mishap occurred Thursday. The Botts immediately took the fawn to Dr. W. C. Lane, Chelsea veterinarian, who treated the injured legs and kept the fawn until Saturday when the Botts returned it to its mother. At last reports, it appeared to be getting along well.

JCC Auxiliary Plans To Organize Dexter Chapter

Arrangements have been made by the Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary to begin the project of extension of the Dexter Jaycee Auxiliary at a meeting to be held Tuesday, June 30, at the home of Mrs. Jan Tupper of Ann Arbor. The district vice-president, Mrs. Jan Creswell of Tecumseh, and Mrs. George Eilenwood and Mrs. Charles Popovich of the Chelsea Auxiliary are to be the special speakers at the event.

Plans for the Dexter Jaycee Auxiliary extension were discussed at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Auxiliary, held Tuesday, June 16, at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Norris.

At that meeting the Chelsea Jaycee president, Mrs. Don Bush, announced that MAEDC (Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children) will continue to be the state service project for 1964-65. Mrs. Bush also mentioned that a benefit performance for MAEDC at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit on Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. and all Jaycees, wives and friends are invited. ## St. Mary's Parish Picnic Scheduled Sunday Afternoon

Among the games for children and young people of all age groups planned for St. Mary's parish picnic Sunday afternoon are relay racing, shoe scrambles, balloon breaking, egg-throwing and various others.

For adults there will be a tug of war, a pancake race, and cards. Prizes will be awarded the winners in each of the age groups.

Additional entertainment for young people and adults will include horseshoe pitching, badminton and softball.

Donald Aker is general chairman in charge of the games. With plans practically complete for the picnic which is to be held at the Ann Arbor Co-Operative Family Camp grounds at Clear Lake, it appears that the affair should prove a grand success, providing the weather is favorable.

Relatives and friends of former parishioners, as well as committee members, have received word that many of them are planning to attend the picnic here Sunday. Thus, the affair will serve as a reunion, as well as a general family picnic.

Swimming is also on the program for the afternoon with competent supervisors on duty. Jack Curl is in charge of supervising the children's swimming.

Families who attend may bring their own picnic lunch or they may purchase refreshments at the picnic grounds.

Arrangements for the picnic have been in the process of extensive planning for the past two or three months and committees believe all details have been worked out to the degree that the project should prove to be a complete success.

Paul Niehaus To Be Cited At St. Paul's

Paul F. Niehaus will be honored at a recognition ceremony to be held during the 9 a.m. worship service Sunday at St. Paul's United Church of Christ where he recently concluded more than 50 years of service with the choir. For more than 40 years of that time he had served as choir director.

Former choir members of St. Paul's church are especially invited to be present for the occasion.

In addition to his work with the choir, Niehaus formerly served as a Sunday school teacher for a number of years and was active in other areas of church work. He formerly directed the plays which were given by the choir to raise funds for the purchase of music, purchase of a piano, etc. For many years under his direction the early choirs of the church were practically self-supporting.

During the years Niehaus has been connected with the choir, four pastors have served the church—the late Rev. A. A. Schoon, the Rev. G. W. Kruse, the Rev. P. H. Grabowski and the present pastor, the Rev. Paul M. Schnack.

Cereal Leaf Beetle Quarantine Covers 6 Area Townships

Lyndon, Sharon, Sylvan, Freedom, Manchester and York townships in Washtenaw county are included in a quarantine order signed June 22 by Director G. S. McIntyre of the Michigan Department of Agriculture which has the responsibility of preventing spread of plant pests and plant diseases within the state.

The quarantine was ordered following discovery by survey crews of the presence of the harmful pest known as the cereal leaf beetle.

Seventeen Michigan counties had already been under quarantine since July 1, 1963, and the Washtenaw county townships and Lyndon township in Oakland county were included in an area added at this time. In addition to these townships, the following counties are placed under quarantine as of June 22: Clinton, Genesee, Gratiot, Isabella, Lenawee, Livingston, Mecosta, Monroe, Montcalm, Newaygo, Oceana, Saginaw, and Shiawassee.

Those quarantined since July of last year are Allegan, Barry, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Eaton, Hillsdale, Ingham, Ionia, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Kent, Muskegon, Ottawa, St. Joseph, and Van Buren.

The beetle was first reported in this country in 1962 at Gallen in Berrien county. How it arrived there probably never will be known. It has been a destroyer of growing grain in Europe for more than a half century and has been found in Siberia and as far south as Morocco in Africa. Some years half the grain crops have been destroyed in certain countries.

The purpose of the quarantine is to prevent spread of this tiny destroyer of such growing grains as oats, wheat, rye, barley, and other crops. Indiana has 30 infested counties, and there are nine in Ohio and parts of two others. Three of these infested Ohio counties border on Michigan.

Articles that cannot be outside of a regulated area in a quarantined county without an inspection certificate include the insect in any stage of development, barley, oats, wheat, and other small grains, corn, uncultivated grass and forage, crop seed, hay, straw, fodder, plant litter of any kind, sod, or harvesting machinery. An exception to this is that small grains may be moved during the period of Dec. 1 to the following June 1 without certification.

FOUNDATION BEING POURED: This was the scene, early this week, at the new Chelsea Milling Co. construction site just south of the present mill. Excavation had been completed last week and workmen are now putting in the foundation walls, a project which is expected to take several weeks to complete in preparation for putting up the building. Part of the new building will be 80 feet high with all walls constructed of monolithic concrete. Pouring of the walls is expected to begin the end of July. Once the walls are begun, the work of pouring the concrete must continue on a 24-hour basis until the full height is reached. Stout Construction Co. of Sylvania, O. is the construction contractor for the new building.

Fishing memories
 Hearing oldtimers tell of filling a washtub with grayling in a Sunday afternoon on the Au Sable, sometimes fishing on a hole, with a long cane pole and a can of worms. Worms weren't too easy to come by in many parts of northern Michigan. George Shiras, III, writes of importing angle worms into the Marquette area from Pennsylvania in the last quarter of the 19th century.

There were productive trout streams in every Michigan county, streams stocked with specks mostly. Originally there were no native trout in the lower peninsula except for a few streams at the tip of the mitten.

Trout were relatively easy to catch, and the rod pressure didn't amount to much. A kid fished the Sturgeon every Sunday, all one summer, and not once encountered another fisherman. There were stretches of trout streams — not to mention remote beaver ponds — where a camping party would run into no competition from one week to another.

Of course you didn't wheel into such a camping site in a station wagon. There were no station wagons and no roads a station wagon could travel had there been one. You got there by a long day's jolting in a wagon, or by back-packing, or by coasting along the shores of Lake Superior in a boat that could be beached in a hurry.

There was a fabulous fishing in the interior lakes. As a teenager it was my joyful job to assemble tomorrow for bus expeditions conducted out of Charlevoix by an Indian-Canadian foundryman. Two skills would be needed in a lumber wagon as we headed for a lake in hard-wood country. I recall how the wagon wheels were sprang to get down a steep hill to lake, a spring run through the spokes serving as a sure fire brake. Sometimes we hit bass water, but not always. We found lakes that swarmed with northern pike, distinguished by anglers of that period who called this "the game fish snake."

As I recall, on almost every lake or pond it was possible to find a dug-out canoe, made by Indians, that had become public property. White men pitched old dug-outs by opening up tin cans and tacking tin over cracks.

In the southern counties there was a great abundance of bass and panfish and on lakes of any size there would be a farmer with a home-made skiff to rent, at 25 or 50 cents a day. I recall fishermen coming back to town with gunlocks of perch, which they sold, door-to-door, starting at five cents each and dropping the price to a penny if they didn't sell out in a hurry.

Now what has become of all this wealth of fish? We know that pollution, the filling of marshes, erosion, siltling have decreased somewhat the fishing resources of Michigan. However, our stock of game fish holds up better than most of us are willing to believe.

There is an exclusive fraternity of Michigan fishermen — hatchers, fly-catchers, still-fishing devotees — who regularly catch limits of what they go after. They have what it takes; exceptional know-how, patience and diligence. They acquire a stock of local knowledge — the where and when to seek trout, bass, pike, bullhead, carp or whatever.

Meanwhile rod-pressure is falling off, in general, as shown by a decline in the sale of fishing licenses. Management technicians refer to this as diminishing endeavor. It goes into effect when ever returns from a sport decrease.

Colorful Fruit Desserts
 To 1/2 cup of syrup from canned peaches or peaches add an equal amount of red jelly and the juice of a lemon. Heat, pour over fruit and chill before serving.

Poach canned dark cherries in their own juice, flavor with grated orange rind, serve hot over vanilla ice cream.

Have you ever tried a double berry shortcake? Like strawberries with raspberries or blackberries? Or peaches and strawberries, apricots and red raspberries? It's delicious, especially when you have to extend one fruit or berry with another.

Carry a home-baked cake to a picnic in its own pan. For an easy frosting, place chocolate peppermint candies over cake as soon as it comes from oven, let stand to melt, then spread over top.

Use a quick-pudding mix and peaches as filling for a cake. It's best to slice off part of the top of an angel food cake, then hollow it out. Fill, replace slice on top and frost with whipped cream and extra fruit.

Helen's Favorites

- 6 hamburger buns
- 7 ounce can tuna
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup diced American cheese
- 1/2 cup chopped ripe olives
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 small onion, minced

Mix all ingredients. Add salt and pepper to taste. Split buns, butter and sprinkle with paprika. Fill with tuna mixture, replace tops and place in waxed paper sandwich bags or aluminum foil. Just before serving heat on baking sheet in moderate (350° F.) oven 15 to 20 minutes.

APPRECIATION
 Olean, N. Y. — Firemen answering an ambulance call struggled down two twisting flights of stairs, cautiously carrying a man on the stretcher.

Reaching the bottom, they put the stretcher down to catch their breath, when the victim, seeing some mail in his box, got up and removed it. Returning to the stretcher he remarked: "I might want to read this in the hospital."

FORGETS HIS RETURNS
 Topeka, Kan. — Federal Judge Arthur J. Stanley, Jr., imposed a fine of $1,000 on an attorney who claims he was so busy making out income tax returns for clients he failed to file returns on his own income for 1957 and 1958.

A one-year prison term was suspended when Roger W. Lovett pleaded guilty. The Government contended he made $31,750 in the two years.

AND ABOUT TEENAGERS
He's Mad At Girl Who Won't Go Steady
 By G. D. Smith

want to date you again, only that she did not want to go steady. You choose to get mad about it, so it appears the question of what you should do depends entirely upon your willingness to accept this fact.

No one can deny the popularity of "going steady," but the boy or girl who is popular, and who can get plenty of dates, often thinks for a long time before going the "steady" route.

Remember that the girl had not agreed to go steady with you, so you had no reason to be unhappy with the fact that she was going out with someone else. And, if you really give it some serious thought, you will realize that you should not be mad at her because it doesn't please her to go steady.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, write to: LETTERS TO THE EDITOR, CHELSEA STANDARD, P.O. BOX 100, CHELSEA, MICHIGAN.

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I am honest with you and you have no reason to be mad at her. She either doesn't want to go steady, for the reason she explained, or she doesn't want to go steady with you, and this was her opinion of a nice way to say "no." Either way, you should appreciate her attitude rather than condemn her for it. She didn't say she did not

SCIENCE TOPICS

Atomic Detectives Rout Moonshiners

ATOMIC TECHNIQUES, enlisted in the war against moonshiners, helped the Department of Justice convince a federal judge that illicit whiskey seized on a tractor-trailer in New York had been transported from Georgia. Soil samples scraped from the bottom of the truck were subjected to irradiation and shown to match specimens collected from ground around the Georgia still. The new method is called activation analysis.

TWO NEW bird species have been discovered by zoologists. The Smithsonian Institution reports that a hummingbird, discovered on little-known Isla Escudo de Veraguas off Panama, is highly prized because of its varied colors and small size. An expedition in the Andes of South America discovered the second bird, a species of wood-quail that thrives in the Aviation Agency. The list of customers who have deposited advance royalty payments of $200,000 each for "delivery position," includes most major American and foreign lines, according to FAA.

A STINGING DEFENSE

against the annual summer onslaughts by flies, beetles and other insects is being developed by entomologists at the University of California. The bug experts are working with hybrid wasps that deposit eggs in adolescent flies. The host fly then becomes food for the stinging wasps offspring.

SECRET OF LONG LIFE

Burlington, N. J. — If you want to live to be 101, don't marry, boys. David E. Huffman offered this advice on the eve of his one hundred and first birthday.

Retired now from farming and watchmaking, Huffman, living at the Masonic home says he credits bachelorhood for his longevity.

Scholarships Offered 4-H Students in Agri-Science

College graduates with degrees in the agricultural sciences are being sought by agri-business. One West coast firm is launching a recruiting program "to entice young people into following agricultural careers."

This company also encourages students to major in agronomy, entomology, plant pathology, horticulture and related courses by annually offering two scholarships of $800 each to college sophomores. They cover the areas of crop production and protection.

One of the qualifications for the grant is that the young man or woman must have been a 4-H club member for at least three years. The scholarship donor is California Chemical Co., Ortho Division of San Francisco.

"Talented young people will be needed in increasing numbers," said Dr. M. H. McVicker, California Chemical's manager of agronomy, "so we may continue to enjoy the prosperity which starts with economic food production."

An East-coast manufacturer is equally interested in attracting young people to agricultural careers. Homelite, a Division of Textron Inc., Port Chester, N.Y., offers four scholarships of $1,000 each to former 4-Hers who will major or minor in forestry. These scholarships are available to college freshmen.

In pointing up the need for continuing to develop agricultural sciences, Dr. Daniel G. Albritton, internationally known agricultural educator at the University of California, said: "If this well-fed continent were called on to support its people with the tools of a century ago, we could very well rival India and China in poverty and human suffering."

He pointed out that Americans have the best food available at bargain prices. Russian and Japanese families spend about 50 percent of income on food compared to an average of about 23 percent in the United States.

Population in this country is expected to double by the year 2,000. Education, science and industry will have to surpass its present efficiency to feed, clothe and house the 400-million men, women and children, say the scientists. It is predicted that the size of our agricultural land will shrink to about 1.5 acres per capita.

The national 4-H scholarship program is administered by the Co-operative Extension Service and the National 4-H Service Committee. More information may be obtained from the State 4-H Club office or from the county extension office.

THANK YOU
 Many, many thanks to my relatives and friends for the many acts of kindness extended to me, stay at the hospital and since my return home for all the cards, flowers and gifts and a special thanks to Pastor Paul Schmale for the many calls he made. I am deeply grateful and appreciate every thing that was done for me.
 Henry Engelhart.

Macomb County Circuit Judge Seeks Post on District Court of Appeals

Circuit Judge Howard R. Carroll of Macomb county has announced his intention to become a candidate for the Second District Court of Appeals. Judge Carroll has served eight years on the Circuit Court Bench. He was a member of the Michigan Legislature for 10 years. For eight years he was chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Michigan House of Representatives.

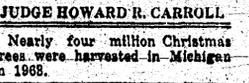

He graduated from Michigan State University and Detroit College of Law with highest honors. He has been an attorney for 28 years. He is 58 years of age. Judge and Mrs. Carroll have five children.

Personal Notes

Mrs. D. R. Hopps who had spent the winter at Clayton, Calif., and Mrs. Faye Palmer who has been staying in San Francisco, Calif., returned to Chelsea together Tuesday evening, June 16, for an indefinite stay.

Henry Engelhart returned home Saturday from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, having been a patient there for four weeks recovering from a serious operation. His family reports his condition is now much improved.

"Tailgating" is dangerous business. When driving on your vacation, stay a safe distance behind the car in front of you. Multiply your speedometer reading by two and keep at least that many feet behind the car you are following.

TRICKS ARE FUN

Most of us enjoy the performance of a good magician or sleight-of-hand artist. We know we are being deceived and amuse ourselves trying to see just how the artist makes things appear, disappear, and seem to be what they are not.

In other things, none of us like to be "fooled" or to have things misrepresented to us. This is particularly true of the things we buy and of the services which we require for home or business.

That's why the wise folks around here believe in doing business with the reputable, established local merchant. It pays to do business with people you know, folks who have earned the confidence of the local citizenry through dedication to service and satisfaction.

If, for one reason or another, you have gotten out of the habit of shopping local stores, take our advice and visit these friendly people. You'll be glad you did.

Beetle Quarantine

Other articles which may require inspection or treatment are any other farm products, equipment, trucks, railway cars, or other means of conveyance, used crates, boxes, or bags, soil, or any other products that may transport this insect. Information on this is available from county extension directors, the Michigan Department of Agriculture's plant industry division, Lansing, or the U. S. Department of Agriculture's plant pest control division. The latter two agencies operate the suppression program.

This spring the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the USDA's plant pest control division operated a joint aerial treatment program in Berrien county, achieving excellent results in destroying overwintering adults and later the larvae.

Since then, an intensive survey program has been conducted in other parts of the state to determine the perimeter of the infestation. Determination of this has resulted in the extension of the quarantine put into effect June 22.

Michigan is known as a "deficit" meat producing state as three-fifths of the red meat consumed must be imported from other areas.

BLUNT WORDS FROM RUSK

Secretary of State has accused Red North Vietnam of aggression against Laos and South Vietnam, and declared the South Vietnamese may be expanded "if the Communists persist in their course of aggression." The blunt words from the usually mild Rusk were taken as a possibility of action directly against North Vietnam.

And then there are politicians who like to hear themselves talk about themselves.

The NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

★ Unemployment in Perspective

The ability of any economic system to keep its manpower busy at useful work is certainly an important determinant of its welfare and progress. The unemployment rate is one measure, although not a complete one, of the effectiveness of the American economy in that respect.

Unemployment is much in the news at this time, and it may be helpful to put the subject in some perspective by looking at the historical record. Over the long run, there has been any perceivable tendency for the unemployment rate to increase, or to decrease? Obviously we should not expect unemployment to reach zero, but does history give us an inkling as to a figure which could be taken as a reasonable goal for national policy?

Historical Survey

In a recently published book Professor Stanley Lebergott, of Wesleyan University, has given us the basis for such a historical survey. He has estimated the percentage of the labor force unemployed in the form of decade averages going back to 1800. While his figures, especially for the early years, are admittedly crude, they are a safe guide to more literary description.

For the decades between 1800 and 1840 Professor Lebergott finds that unemployment averaged between 1 and 3 percent of the labor force. This is substantially lower than recent rates, but that is hardly surprising since the labor force of that time consisted mainly of independent farmers and slaves.

For the three decades between 1840 and 1870, unemployment is estimated at between 3 and 6 percent. This looks more like the figure for more recent times, and reflects the gradual shift toward an economy of wage earners.

The period since 1870 includes three decades of severe depression. In the 1870's and the 1890's it averaged a whopping 18 percent.

But leaving these three crises decades aside, the unemployment rate has shown a remarkable stability when year-to-year fluctuations are averaged out over ten-year periods, and rounded off to the nearest percent. In the six remaining decades since 1870 unemployment has averaged either 4 percent (in two decades) or 5 percent (in four decades). In no ten-year period since 1910 has it averaged below 5 percent.

In the 1960's so far the unemployment rate has averaged somewhat higher, but the latest monthly figure has come down to 5.1 percent—very close to the historical norm.

Difficult Task

All this suggests that attempts to keep the unemployment rate permanently as low as 3 or 4 percent—advocated in some quarters as a national goal—will be extremely difficult. The danger is that two kinds of devices might be used in such an attempt—massive government intervention or systematic inflation. Either method would be like chopping the tree down to get the last bit of fruit at the top.

Professor Lebergott's book is entitled Manpower in Economic Growth and is published by McGraw-Hill. He is, of course, not responsible for the comments made in this column.

JETS FOR INDIA

India is asking the United States to sell it three squadrons of F-104 Xabre jet supersonic fighters as part of the Indian defense build-up against Communist China, diplomatic sources report. There was indication such a sale was running into State Department resistance on the grounds such a sale would upset United States relations with Pakistan.

Petty honors feed the ego of complexes.

Michigan Showboats Ready Annual July Performances

For some people nothing quite matches the thrill of seeing a gaily-lit showboat majestically appear around a river bend in the quiet dusk of a summer evening with the strains of, "Here Comes the Showboat," drifting over the water.

Two Michigan communities have successfully capitalized on the dramatic impact and nostalgic entertainment value of the Mississippi River showboat, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

First to stage a showboat in Michigan was the community of Lowell, located on the banks of the Flat River some 15 miles east of Grand Rapids. Headed by local industrialist, Carlton H. Runciman, the attraction was started at the height of the depression in 1932.

Five years later, in 1937, Chester M. "Chet" Howell, then owner and editor of the Chesaing Argus and a former auto racing promoter, undertook a similar venture on the Shiawassee River which flows through his community near the southern border of Saginaw county.

Alike in many respects, both showboats have been highly successful and self-supporting. Both were established with the goal of giving the local townfolk something to do and to simulate community interest. Neither was originally conceived as a tourist attraction, but today both showboats boast vacation visitors from all over the nation.

The program format for the showboats has become traditional. At dusk the boat rounds the bend of the river and ties up a combination dock and stage accompanied by the singing and dancing of the performers aboard.

Once the craft is docked, the performers take their places on the stage and the show begins, following the original Mississippi showboat minstrel theme.

Most of the chorus, end men and other performers are recruited from the community and nearby areas. Some of them have appeared in their respective roles for many years and have become well-known for their speciality.

Local talent is augmented by professionals which account for the bulk of the shows' expenses. The showboats budget is in excess of $10,000 for the professionals for each one week's stand.

Staging, costuming and lighting is accomplished with a professional touch. The entertainment, mellowed by years of performances, is superior and to distinguish between the professionals and local talent is often difficult.

Control of both of Michigan's showboats is through incorporated

Washtenaw 4-H Youth Attend Shooting School

More than 40 Washtenaw county 4-H members and leaders attended the Williams Shooting school at Davison last week. This educational event included instruction in gun safety and marksmanship. The group traveled to Davison on a chartered bus provided by the Ann Arbor Kiwanis Club. Erwin Steeb, of rural Ann Arbor, a local 4-H leader, was in charge of the trip.

The Washtenaw participants joined more than 400 young people from all over southern Michigan who were participating in the event.

In marksmanship competition's activities a 4-H member from Washtenaw county received the third-place medal. Steven Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Arbor, was the medalist. Steeb is a member of the Wide Awake club of Ann Arbor, of which he is leader.

Total Eclipse Of Moon Seen Last Night

Ann Arbor - A totally eclipsed moon rose last night.

The moon first touched the earth's shadow at 6:09 p.m., and the totality of eclipse then began at 7:16 with the middle of eclipse coming at 8:08—all before the moon was visible above the horizon.

This, when the moon rose at 8:10, it was already in total eclipse. The totality ended at 8:57, and the moon's final emergence from the earth's shadow came at 10:04.

During the totality period, the moon shone with a dull reddish copper glow, as it was illuminated by sunlight which filtered through the earth's atmosphere, being bent and refracted into the shadow and on the moon.

University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh says.

"Its closeness to the horizon also enhanced its reddish tint. As the moon began to emerge, the earth's circular shadow was seen against the moon."

For a total lunar eclipse to take place, the moon must be at full phase and in direct line with the sun and earth, so that it will pass through the earth's shadow. Because of the five-degree tilt of its orbit to that of the earth, the moon usually misses the shadow.

On June 24 the moon was rising at about 33 degrees south of the east point of the horizon.

Senator Philip A. Hart's

REPORT from WASHINGTON

War On Poverty

Until recently, poverty was a word that too many Americans had dismissed into history along with other word-reminders of an unpleasant time — words like "depression," "stock market crash" and "bank holiday."

The poor? Sure, it was generally assumed that there were poor people. Aren't there always? Anyway, when you are in the mainstream of national prosperity, it is easy to imagine that everyone is being borne along by the same current.

The illusion was all the easier because the poor have remained so obligingly "invisible." In the country, they were pushed gently out of sight by the wide rights-of-way of turnpikes and in the city they are hidden by the walls of the deep-ditched expressways, their neighborhoods ringed and screened by the businesses on main streets.

Poor men are not quoted in newspapers because news is made by men of substance and influence. Advertising writers are not likely to seek out a poor man's testimony for cigars or toothpaste or underwear. Even the Beverly Hills billies were not considered fit for television until they had struck oil.

So, understandably, it came as a shock to many when President Johnson reminded all that 10 million American families get by somehow on less than $60 a week and 6 million have an income of only $40.

Stirred by this disclosure, the press began to seek out some of these families, some of these "pockets of poverty."

The picture I remember best appeared in a national magazine and showed the inside of a West Virginia schoolhouse. The walls were lined with newspaper and flattened cardboard and around a cracked coal stove was grouped a dozen self-conscious children smiling at the camera with wan politeness.

The parents of these children, the story said, couldn't afford the taxes to provide a better school. It seemed a dramatic illustration of a basic premise of the War on Poverty program: people are often poor because they are poorly educated and they are often poorly

FLOODS

Having been a lowlander the greater part of my life, I have a first-hand knowledge of floods. Along the Mississippi men have been wont to speak of the June rise. And of late other sections of the country have known the disasters of flood.

Once when there was a great flood along the Atchafalaya River the Southern Pacific kept its track open west of New Orleans. A passenger on the train one day, about twenty miles west of Morgan City I saw a native who had paddled out in his pirogue and was gathering "roasting ears" from half-submerged corn. Heroic thing? It was the practical thing to do.

Another time I made a trip in overflooded country along the lower Red River. Embarking in a slim flatboat with an outboard motor, several men and I had quite an interesting day. At one point a man shot at a rabbit perched on a limb. I was glad he missed. Shortly afterward, a great bird came crashing through the treetops. "That's an eagle!" exclaimed my hosts.

Finally we came to a houseboat with a line of clothes stretched over the water for drying in the sun. The boat-dwellers welcomed us and his wife served the blackest and strongest of dripped coffee. Then my flatboat host proposed a religious service with myself as leader. And I had literally the opportunity of cast bread upon the waters.

Diploma Shouldn't End Education, U-M Prof. Says

Ann Arbor — The high school and college diploma, which now imply the completion of studies, should give way to a "Certificate of Transfer" to further instruction, declares Prof. Rowland Y. McClusky, of the University of Michigan.

"We need to scrap the impossible notion that in 12, 14 or 16 years one can acquire enough knowledge to last a lifetime," says McClusky, a consultant in adult education.

The ultimate test of formal schooling for youth should be the extent to which it contributes to a lifetime of learning, he states. "The growing technology of our society allows us no alternative."

The school dropout represents a tragic loss in a continuously "learning society," according to the U-M educator. "He might withdraw temporarily to work, with a built-in plan to return for later study, or he might drop out of one program in order to 'drop in' to another."

"But in a learning society the act of dropping out could never be accepted as determining the final status of the pupil as a learner. The student would be presented with multiple opportunities for instruction until he finds something that interests him and keeps alive his interest in learning."

"The days are gone when a dropout could secure a respectable foothold in the economy. Dropping out of school today too often means the end of organized learning. The early dropout is usually condemned to a low social status. A much closer link is needed between the school and the agencies in the community," says McClusky. "We must surround the pupil with a knowledge of the connections between what he has started in school and the program he can turn to for continuing these pursuits in later years."

"He should be constantly reminded by administration, guidance personnel and his teachers that somewhere in the adult program of his own school system, correspondence study, the military services, business, industry, churches and labor unions there is an attractive array of facilities waiting to be used for a late-blooming interest."

Gerald E. Faye Enters Democratic Race for Congress

Temperance — A vigorous, full-time campaign was promised Thursday by Gerald E. Faye, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Congress.

Faye, 34-year-old Ann Arbor physical scientist, pledged to the Second Congressional district, following recent redistricting, now includes the counties of Monroe, Lenawee, Livingston and Washtenaw, as well as the city of Plymouth and Northville township.

Faye, who recently completed a year's internship in the State Senate, told Bedford Democrats that they had a shining opportunity to capture the Congressional seat which had been denied them for the past 30 years.

Driver's License Photos Pose Many New Problems

Although it is now Michigan law to place the motorist's picture on his driver's license, it will be at least several months, perhaps a year, before the program goes into effect.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose department manufactures and distributes drivers' licenses, said he hoped Michigan residents did not get the impression that they would begin getting photo licenses just as soon as the bill was passed.

"It's a tremendous job in getting the program operational," Hare asserted. "We have to decide on the kind of equipment that will do the job best; the type of process to use, and then see that equipment is installed and persons are trained to use it in nearly 250 stations throughout the state."

"There are a host of processes and companies in the photographic ID field, and our officials are presently discussing the many ramifications with all the prospective vendors," Hare stated. "After we decide on the type of process to be used, specifications have to be written, bids taken, and a company or companies designated to do all or part of the job, in accordance with state purchasing procedures."

Hare stated that his Department first began talking with some of the companies in 1961 after legislation was passed providing for photos on licenses. Actual implementation didn't get under way until this session of the legislature when the lawmakers provided an appropriation of $500,000 to get the project started.

"And now, because of the changes and refinements in equipment and a revision in prices over the past three years, we are faced with getting estimates all over again," Hare said.

He said the money provided in the initial appropriation would be paid back to the state's general fund when each applicant for a license would be assessed 50 cents for his license.

Other problems which Hare said his officials are encountering are what type of reproduction methods to use, whether it should be a color or black and white picture, whether to affix the photo on the license or use some process which would photograph license data and the driver at the same time, and the type of substance to make the license out of, including the choice of plastics, metal, and certain types of paper.

According to Hare, the various camera companies are faced with the problem of producing custom camera equipment "built to our specifications."

"Also, because our examiners as a rule are not photographers, the cameras have to be simple to operate and still provide a high degree of consistency in the photos," Hare said. "I am going to insist on a fairly high degree of quality in this operation."

Approximately 250 examining stations are operated by sheriff or municipal police officials who are paid on a fee basis for their services. This means that the Secretary of State will have to provide at least 275 cameras.

Hare said his department had issued 1,800,000 driver's licenses in 1963, both originals and renewals. He said when the photo license plan becomes operational, that close to 2 million licenses will be issued yearly.

"The Department will be processing between 6,000 and 9,000 licenses per day, with an average day's output for about 8,000," Hare said. "We also must decide whether to set up our own processing plant here in Lansing, or to contract the film processing work with the stipulation that the plant would have to meet our daily workload of about 8,000 licenses."

"Since licenses come due on a person's birthday every three years, it might be several years from now before every Michigan resident has a license with his picture on it," Hare concluded.

Older Youth Conference Now Underway at MSU

Two 4-H members and a 4-H parent are attending the Older Youth Conference at Michigan State University this week. Chuck Avis of rural Ann Arbor and Marianne Staskievitz of Ypsilanti represented Washtenaw county at this event. Mrs. Clements Staskievitz, Ypsilanti, attended as an adult advisor.

Purpose of the conference is to train a team of two young people and an adult advisor to develop an older youth program at the county level based on teen-age needs and wants.

Joe Waterston, 4-H program specialist, says, "The teen-ager who is too busy to join a club is missing one of the essential ingredients of life. A few high school teen-agers are too busy, but many do not belong to even one organization. Research tells us that this age group is interested in planning their own program, and to a great extent, carrying it out by themselves with a minimum amount of adult guidance."

The back-home application of group techniques will be stressed throughout the five-day meeting. All sessions will give delegates a

Michigan Pioneered First Travel Information Service

Lansing — Michigan was one of the first states in the nation to provide travel information for the motoring public.

In the early 1930's, the Department began publishing highway maps that were distributed to the public free.

In 1935, Michigan scored another "first" in the travel information field when it built a Tourist Lodge on US-12 south of New Buffalo near the Michigan-Indiana state line. It is believed it was the first such facility, now called a Tourist Information Center, built anywhere in the nation.

The public acceptance of the New Buffalo Lodge was so favorable that two more lodges were opened on "Gateways to Michigan" before the start of World War II.

Two years later, a second facility on US-41 at Menominee on the Michigan-Wisconsin border was completed and in 1940, the State Highway Department opened its third Tourist Lodge on US-24 at Erie near the Michigan-Ohio border.

The State Highway Department also had plans to build a Tourist Lodge at Sault Ste. Marie and others at major points of entry, but these plans were shelved at the start of World War II.

After the war, the Highway Department was primarily concerned with catching up on highway construction and it wasn't until 1959 that another new Tourist Information Center, located at Mackinaw City near the south approach to the $100 million Mackinac Bridge was dedicated.

In 1961, the Highway Department operated two Tourist Information Mobile Units on an experimental basis. These units were placed at various locations throughout the State for periods of one, two or three weeks, and information gathered during the summer was used to determine the location of new permanent Information Centers.

In 1962, the Michigan state legislature approved an expanded travel information program for the State Highway Department and authorized construction of new Information Centers at Monroe and Ironwood.

The following year, the legislature again approved construction of new Centers at Port Huron and Sault Ste. Marie.

The Ironwood Information Center was opened on March 1 and construction is now underway on the new Monroe Centers. Plans are now being drawn for the Sault Ste. Marie and Port Huron Information Centers and construction is expected to be completed by fall of 1964.

Still in the future, but planned for construction are proposed Information Centers at yet-unidentified locations in Branch County, Central Michigan, and the Detroit area.
