Two Ladies Retire

AWAY FROM SNOW AND ICE: Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilbert Smith of W. Middle St., recently returned from a cruise aboard the completely air-conditioned luxury steamship Aridene, sailing from Port Everglades, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. They were called at Nassau, where they enjoyed a day of shopping, swimming, and time to enjoy Bahamian night life.

Senior Citizens will hold their meeting at their new hall, corner of Main and Middle Sts., Friday, April 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Chelsea will be hosts to an invitational league track meet starting Wednesday, April 7.

A request was entered for the rezoning of a specific piece of property located on Washington St. from Agricultural to R 1.

The Chelsea Fire Department was called out Monday evening to assist in a grass fire along the railroad tracks.

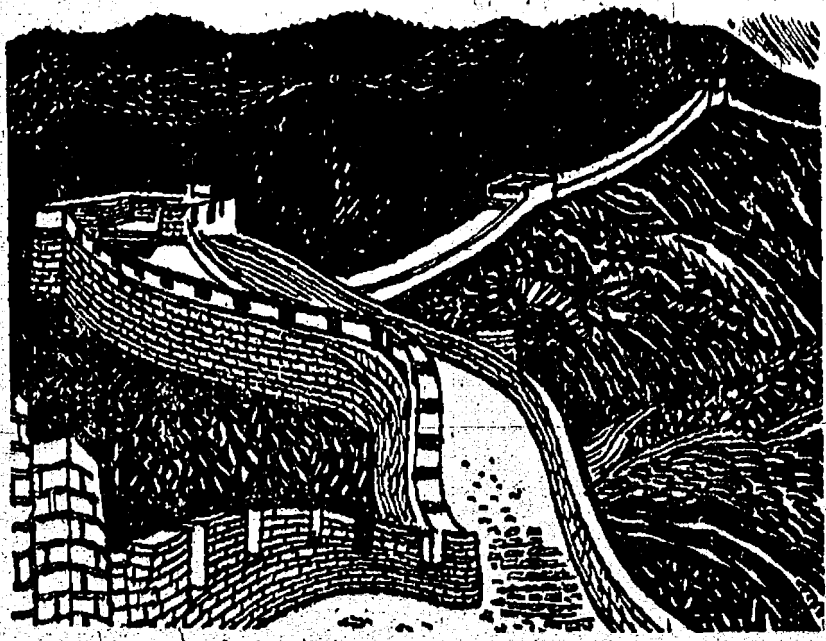

TWO LADIES RETIRE: Mrs. Mary Nagley left, and Miss Margaret Holmes, right, in front, have retired after 22 1/2 years and 22 years, respectively, from Rockwell-Standard.

TWO WAYS TO TREAT YOUR NEIGHBORS

The Great Wall around China—traditional symbol of contention between nations.

A typical highway crossing on the boundary between the United States and Canada.

For more than 500 years, the 1500 mile Great Wall around China has been a symbol of international fear, distrust and misunderstanding. In dramatic contrast—the 3000 mile border between the United States and Canada has been unfortified for 148 years. The scene above pictures a lonely boundary post and a Kiwanis International Peace Marker.

Kiwanians Lead in Marking Canada-U.S. Good Will Week

Kiwanians on both sides of the border are spearheading the 42nd annual observance of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week, April 26-May 1, according to Don Turner, president of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea. April 28, which falls within Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week, is the 148th anniversary of the signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement which demilitarized this long border that the late Sir Winston Churchill described as "an example to every country and a pattern for the future of the world."

THE LETTERBOX

Dear Editor:
 In reply to the letter of the Chelsea student... well-paying secretarial jobs are quite often filled by people with experience or more than a high school education (sometimes both). Most well-paying professional jobs require anywhere from two to seven years additional training. Taxpayers just voted to have a community college in this county and one of the promotional reasons given was that this would better prepare people for the work they are interested in without taking four-year college courses.

It is quite interesting to note that the reason for the classroom shortage is that 10 (not 8 as stated) classrooms were cut off from the high school building plans which the taxpayers voted on about 8 years ago. If this was an error on the part of the architect, as stated, it was a big one and it would seem that he would have been requested to re-draw the plans, making a less costly school and not cut off the very thing the school was being built for—classrooms.

To the Editors:
 In the March 18, 1965 issue of The Chelsea Standard the following was in the School Board Briefs, quote:
 "Discussion of date for special meeting of the Board to determine the date of an operation millage election and the number of mills to be requested."
 In the past it has been customary to have separate elections for voting on millage and for School Board members. As an economy measure why can't we combine these two elections as some of our neighboring communities do?
 A few years ago I asked Mr. Cameron why this procedure could not be followed and his reply to me was, "It would be too confusing to the voters to vote on the two issues at the same time! I wonder?"
 Jane Miller.

Dear Editor:
 At the public meeting at the high school on March 23 I learned that the school board has complete working plan on the proposed new high school addition at a cost, I am told, of about $12,000... and the issue has not yet been passed. I believe it is necessary to have preliminary plans before voting, but that the working plans which must be paid for whether they are used or not, should not be obtained until the issue is passed and the preliminary plans have been approved by the voters.
 I consider a recommendation by the administrator to obtain these plans and acceptance of the recommendation by the board a completely irresponsible act. I read the "School Board Briefs," but failed to see any mention of this at the time it was done. Even now the cost of these plans has not been published. Now I wonder if the same procedure will take place on the proposed new Junior high school, which plans would cost several times the above amount.
 Leroy Heller.

Frequently The Chelsea Standard reaches my desk, and is always read with interest. After reading the last issue with its review of the recent production of Chelsea High School, of the Musical "Oklahoma," and since Mrs. Creal and I also saw the production of Friday night, I would like to also commend the group of students who did such a splendid job. Having seen the musical done professionally several times it seemed remarkable that the real flavor of it could have been captured so well by a group who spent their spare time for weeks, no expenses from class work, to accomplish what they did. I understand that several of the young men had their first experience in "acting" and also dancing. Having a family of boys this was greatly appreciated and their efforts were well received.

How to control giant foxtail in corn all season without carryover problems.

One spray of Atrazine 80W gives you effective control of giant foxtail for the entire season. Just broadcast Atrazine right after the first flush of foxtail has emerged and follow with a rotary hoeing or shallow cultivation. Full season control with Atrazine prevents foxtail from germinating late in the season and producing seeds that will make your foxtail problem even worse next year. Avoiding a carryover problem is easy. Just be sure you apply Atrazine at the rate recommended for your particular soil type and do not exceed 3 3/4 lbs. of Atrazine 80W per acre broadcast, or 1 1/4 lbs. per acre in a 12-14 inch band. You'll stop giant foxtail and increase your yields. Ask your local dealer for Atrazine 80W herbicide. Geigy Agricultural Chemicals, Division of Geigy Chemical Corporation, Ardsley, New York.

 I do feel the review did not properly cover the dream dance number which I considered exceptionally well done. For those who know the play there is no difficulty in realizing that the dance scene is part of the development of the mood, as Shakespeare often does in his plays. Since I understand that most of the choreography was done by one of the students it is all the more remarkable. It is my opinion the young lady was not only beautiful, but did the number in a very professional way.
 The ability of our present day students to carry through an idea with good direction and the willingness to expend both physical and mental efforts for a project which has meaning for the community as well as real fun in a sense of accomplishment, is one of the fine things in today's education.
 My compliments to the director whose adaptation to a small school group and limited facilities, without losing the feeling of the play, was remarkable.
 In short, it was a real "production," a fine teaching project, an accomplishment for the community and fun for all. Let's hope that Chelsea supports more of these fine things. Official Ann Arbor salutes your fine community.
 Cecil O. Creal, Mayor, City of Ann Arbor.

REPORT from LANSING
State Representative
Thomas G. Sharpe

The Democrats promised us the 1966 Legislature, which they control by a two-to-one margin, would be a "Go, Go, Go" session. Instead, it is a "Slow, Slow, Slow" session. Compared with the progress of the Republican-dominated Legislature of 1963 and 1964, the current session is moving at a snail's pace.

The majority party seems intent on keeping this one-party Legislature by muzzling any opposition to their programs and policies. They ignore all orderly legislative processes.

Only this morning, House Speaker Kowalski (D-Detroit) appointed a senior citizen tax relief conference committee without a single Republican member represented thereon. This is without precedent! Other high-handed moves by the majority party include attempts to expunge explanation of "no" votes; the refusal to recognize points of order; and not granting fair representation to the Republican Party on major House Committees.

Because of space limitations, I have felt it more important to keep you posted on these overall and dangerous developments in Lansing, rather than to dwell on one or two individual matters which have come before us for consideration.

However, I hope you will feel free to write me whenever you have problems concerning which I can be of assistance.

the floor, without having these women remind me every second of the day that I am different from everyone else. Just because I am a teenager, have adults the right to treat me like a fugitive from a sideshow? If my teenage friends can accept me without giving my missing leg a second thought, why can't our supposedly more mature and "understanding" adults do the same?"

OUR REPLY: Many adults could well take a lesson in kindness and understanding from the average teenager. You can bet these thoughtless adults manage to stifle their curiosity when they encounter another adult who is handicapped in some way. You apparently have the strength it takes to make the most of life despite a handicap. This should help you to overlook the weakness of other human beings.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, MI.

Madison, Ga. — Sheila, a 10-year-old black rat terrier has her own bank account and her paw prints are in the signature file. The pet dog, owned by G. E. Booth, a bachelor, recently caused some excitement when she put her paw print on a check for $297 to pay for some new furniture.

CLEVELAND, O.—Although Warren H. Ledsy suffered a broken leg in an accident and was confined to a hospital bed, he was married as scheduled. The wedding took place in the solarium of Huron Road Hospital where only 16 of the 200 invited guests were permitted to attend.

This is more than a mere game with numbers, of interest only to statisticians. If the premise is accepted that our economy needs corrective government action whenever unemployment is above some target figure, we had better be sure the target is within range.

Drop in Rate Unlikely

At this point in time, it seems unlikely that we will be able to reduce the unemployment rate much below its present 5 percent. The feasibility of cutting it, in the next few years, down to 4 percent is doubtful. And a target as low as 3 percent appears entirely unrealistic.

These conclusions may seem surprising, since we did attain unemployment rates substantially below the present level during the Korean War and again in the capital goods boom of 1956-57. But the structure of the labor force

IN THE OPEN
 By Lee Smith

Compiling a list of animals that inhabit a big city has become an annual ritual with this column. Urban wildlife populations keep increasing mainly because the frontier custom of shooting any bird or mammal on sight, anywhere, any time, has pretty much died out. Around the turn of the century Ann Arbor became famous for its tame fox squirrels. At that time in most towns a squirrel would be under fire as it approached the city limits. Nowadays squirrels are part of the scene in most city neighborhoods.

Fox squirrel nests are visible in almost every Detroit neighborhood. A squirrel occasionally becomes a traffic victim, but otherwise it would seem that they enjoy a long life expectancy. Fox squirrels travel from block to block on overhead cables. They dig holes in lawns to bury roasted peanuts. They have a lot of fun "cussing" at dogs that can't get at them.

It would take the energetic efforts of a team of juvenile vandals to equal the damage that one fox squirrel can cause if it finds itself confined in a house. Trying to catch the squirrel simply inspires the animal to greater destructiveness.

In only one section of Detroit are gray and black squirrels found; Indian Village out East Jefferson, close to the river. It is presumed that they came from Belle Isle. Blacks and grays are color phases of the same species.

Waterfowl and game birds are year-around residents in metropolitan Detroit. Mallard nest on Belle Isle and in Waterworks Park.

Drive around Belle Isle during spring or fall migration and you are likely to see eight to ten species of waterfowl.

Phensans rear their broods close to shopping centers. Not infrequently a covey of quail appears in a city backyard. Last winter we fed a lonely hen quail that somehow got marooned in a parking lot at the foot of Griswold St., close to Woodward Ave.

Mourning doves, protected at all seasons in Michigan, are the most popular game bird in the United States. Mourning doves nest in cities, and a few of them patronize backyard feeding stations.

One of the most graceful flyers is the Nighthawk, gulping insects on the wing at dawn and dusk. Nighthawks nest on the roofs of skyscrapers. The Nighthawk lays its two camouflaged eggs on the ground normally. A flat roof suits this bird better than any natural terrain.

From Walter P. Nickell, of the Cranbrook Institute of Science, I have a 10-year survey report on birds of the Detroit-Windsor area, compiled by Cranbrook naturalists and the Detroit Audubon Society; a total of 169 species identified in this center of massed humanity! The book notes a little rocky island in the Detroit River, almost in the shadow of industrial plants, where Egrets nest in company with Black-crowned Night Herons and great Blue Herons.

Crows have learned that nearness to massed humanity guarantees safety. Crows are increasingly common in the heart of Detroit. They nest in parks and cemeteries. Crows may perform a valuable service, in raiding pigeon nests. There are too many pigeons and pigeons carry dangerous infections.

Mammals are inhabiting a big town range from the little brown bat to white tail deer. Fresh deer tracks can be found in suburban back yards where raccoons upset garbage cans. Cottontails live anywhere they can find a patch of cover. Skunks keep coming to town.

Alongside a downriver steel plant is a woodchuck paradise, a railroad embankment honey-combed with burrows, adjacent to lush feed. John Siegel of the Detroit Zoo and I visited this suburban community one early spring morning and collected 20 odd non-venomous snakes of four species. We let them all go. John was in quest of an over-size fox snake for the Holden Museum of Living Reptiles.

THE NATIONAL OUTLOOK

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

★ Unemployment Objectives . . .

The unemployment rate — i.e., the percentage of the labor force without jobs — is widely regarded as the most significant gauge of the economy's health or lack of health. In February that figure stood at 5.0 percent.

A good many people, including the President's Council of Economic Advisors, think this is still too high. The Council has repeatedly urged that the country should strive to reduce the rate to 4.0 percent, as an "interim target."

Other government spokesmen have intimated that the goal should be an unemployment rate of only 3.0 percent.

This is more than a mere game with numbers, of interest only to statisticians. If the premise is accepted that our economy needs corrective government action whenever unemployment is above some target figure, we had better be sure the target is within range.

Drop in Rate Unlikely

At this point in time, it seems unlikely that we will be able to reduce the unemployment rate much below its present 5 percent. The feasibility of cutting it, in the next few years, down to 4 percent is doubtful. And a target as low as 3 percent appears entirely unrealistic.

HERE'S A RACE RIOT you won't want to miss Saturday night, April 10, 7 p.m. at Dexter High school gym: the riotous race on donkey-back between Dexter and Chelsea's Jaycee Auxiliary presidents and their vice-presidents. But that's not all. DRS teachers—Al Torp; Paul Cousins; and Dave Millar will not only race on donkeys, but into girdles—and back onto the donkeys! Don't go 'way. That's just the beginning. The gals from the two groups will battle it out in a basketball game before the final bout: Dexter Jaycees vs. Chelsea Jaycees in a basketball contest for the trophy. Proceeds go toward civic enterprises of the organizations.

County Soil Testing Lab Discontinued

Effective as of April 1, the Washtenaw County Extension Service will no longer maintain a Soil Testing Laboratory...

The charge for testing samples is $1.50 each and the postage for mailing samples amounts to about 10 cents...

Those interested in ASCS payments for lime application, are reminded they must have a soil test from either the Michigan State University lab or an approved county operated laboratory.

In collecting samples be sure to supply the following information with the sample: sample number, previous crop, etc.

Farmers are urged to plan their soil testing and fertility program well in advance of planting time.

Test Set To Check Driver Tension in Detroit Traffic

Detroit—A test to determine the truth about driver tension in Detroit traffic is underway. Tell-tale devices to record reactions of drivers making test runs on both freeways and other principal routes have been put into operation by the Michigan State Highway Department.

Four seasoned male drivers selected by the State-Highway Department are making the test runs over a 10-day period. Calibrating their emotional reactions to the stresses and strains of traffic on various routes is a Galvanic Skin Response instrument.

"Double-checking on the Galvanic Skin Response instrument is a Driverometer, developed by University of Michigan and Ford Motor Co. technicians. It records and evaluates the driver's behavior by measuring maneuvers of the car.

The tests in actual driving situations, Edward F. Gervais, State Highway Department administrative engineer who is director of the National Proving Ground for Freeway Surveillance, said. The City of Detroit, Wayne County, Michigan and 11 other states are cooperating in the program with the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The Galvanic Skin Response instrument was developed by the Bureau of Public Roads, Gervais said. It records on tape, much in the manner of a lie detector, the responses of the driver as he proceeds over a given course.

Traffic Safety Area Conference Being Held Today

The one-day event to be attended by safety officials from Monroe, Washtenaw, Lenawee and Jackson counties will be held at Lenawee Country Club. It will deal with problems on county and secondary roads and is the last in a series of six conferences held throughout the state.

The conference begins at 9 a.m. with registration and ends at 2:30 p.m. following a panel discussion. The panel will be composed of the day's speakers.

THE LANSING REPORT FROM
GIL BURSLEY

The biggest single piece of legislation passed by the Senate last week was the bill concerning tax relief for senior citizens. The Senate bill that won approval was on a scale much narrower than that previously approved by the House. The House-passed measure would have cost the state somewhere between $20 million and $40 million a year. The Senate bill will grant maximum relief of $12.5 million. After a "conference" the House agreed to the Senate version eliminating a House provision extending the exemption to renters.

NORTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NOTES

The boys and girls are planning to make an Easter egg tree. They will bring blown eggs from home. Then they will be dyed at school. The branch is ready for the eggs. When the tree is taken down the egg shells will be used for planting seeds. They plan to plant sunflower seeds in them and watch them grow. When the plants are ready, they will be taken home and planted outside.

We are going to be really "newsy" this week. All the following is factual:
Becky Tibb has a new baby sister.
Tom Skittenhelm has a new cousin.
Friday, the second of April, is David Brassow's birthday. David's cat had babies but one died.
Janet Bliss has a new dog and he learned to sit.
Janet McClain is moving Saturday, April 13.
Bonnie Power's sheep herd is increasing.
Denise Bycraft has a calf that won't lead.
Luther Haab is studying prehistoric animals.
Robert Schelder is getting glasses.
Connie Wireman's birthday will be April 6. She will be 10.
Our imaginary pictures are improving we hope. In health we are planning meals. The entire class went to the musical "Oklahoma." We enjoyed it very much.
Extra News: North School's special thanks to Mr. Schultz for a very enjoyable and rewarding afternoon at "Oklahoma." We all secretly hope for a part some day when we get up "there" in high school.

Mr. Benedict's Fifth Grade
One of the science subjects we studied from television is birds. We learned about how birds have adapted themselves for different ways of life by having different kinds of feet, bills, wings, and tails. To help us notice the different kinds of birds we have in Michigan, we have started a chart showing the birds we have seen in and near Chelsea this spring. So far this spring we have seen: sparrows, starlings, robins, cardinals, blue jays, red-headed woodpecker, a mourning dove, and a gold finch. We hope to notice as many of the different birds that stop here that we can.
For our study of animals we each have selected a kind of animal to study. Each of us is making a habitat from a cardboard box to show the environment where our animal lives. When we are finished with them, we will ask someone to come in and judge our work.

White Swans Seen on Pond at G. Weir Home
Mrs. Garnet Weir reported Thursday the arrival of eight white swans on a private lake on her property. The previous Sunday, neighbors had observed 20 or 25 of the white birds flying around and lighting on the lake. Speculation at first was that the birds were geese but on further investigation and phone conversations with several interested parties it was determined that they were swans. They have gray or blackish feathers with a reddish or pink bill and coal black legs and feet. Swans are noted for their black feet, thus the belief that the birds are swans. The bulk of the body is snow white. Weirs throw corn out for the birds and the swans were eating around the lake and sticking their long necks down in the water after kernels of corn and possibly a minnow here and there in the lake.
Mrs. Weir spotted two more of the beautiful snow white swans, Friday morning.

Re-Zoning Hearings Set on To Scio Township Parcels

Scio Township Planning Commission has tentatively set May 4 as the date for two re-zoning hearings to be heard at 7:30 p.m. at the township room in Dexter Fire Hall.

The first hearing is for the Thetford Engineering, located at the corner of Stabler and Jackson Rds., has applied for permission to build an addition, but the property has never been formally zoned commercial even though it is in the midst of several commercial enterprises. Re-zoning must be approved before the addition permit can be granted.

Jacob "Farmer" Grant has requested that the property from Staebler Rd., 650 feet deep, past his establishment on Jackson Rd., be zoned commercial. Starting out on a small scale, Grant has been operating on a home occupation zoning, but has enlarged each year until the property should be zoned commercial. Grant has a new construction underway at present.

Louis York, chairman of the commission, announced at Saturday's township board meeting that they had held 21 meetings since the last board meeting, that the Washtenaw County Planning Commission, with whom they have been working closely, has presented them with first, and in two cases second, drafts of their land use program. Within the next two months, York said, the Scio Township Planning Commission will begin to hold meetings in different corners of the township to get public opinion on the plans, York explained.

Peggy Lennon and husband Dick Cathcart, both members of the Lawrence Welk musical family, are the proud parents of a daughter. She is their firstborn and arrived on St. Patrick's Day.

Immunization Clinics Set for County Schools During April

"The Washtenaw County Medical Society and the Washtenaw County Health Department will conduct booster immunization clinics for county school students in the junior high schools during April" announced Dr. Gerhard H. Bauer, president of the local Medical Society. The clinics will be conducted for 9th and 10th grades in areas where there is no separate junior high school.

The schedule calls for immunizations to be given in Chelsea on Thursday, April 29, in Dexter on Tuesday, April 27, and in Manchester on Thursday, April 8.

Students will be offered a booster injection which protect against diphtheria, tetanus and polio (Salk Vaccine) and a small-pox vaccination.

There is no charge for the immunizations. The physicians who serve the children donate their time and the Health Department furnishes the necessary administrative and nursing services as well as materials.

Every junior high student will bring home a letter and two request slips this week. Parents are reminded that if they wish their children to participate in the immunization clinic they must sign the request slips.

Immunization provided to children in physicians offices, well child clinics, and the junior high booster program has been a factor in reducing diphtheria, polio and tetanus in Washtenaw county.

There have been no reported cases of polio or smallpox in Washtenaw county for more than five years. Since 1955 there has been one reported case of diphtheria.

The booster immunizations offered to junior high students are important to ensure that the child is protected against polio, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox. The protection that children receive from the original series of immunizations gradually decreases by the time a child reaches junior high school. The booster immunization raises the child's immunity to the maximum point again.
