School Costs Not Immune to Price Increase

Chelsea Still Spends Less for School Operation Than Any County District

Like everything else, the costs of education are going up. Even in Chelsea school district which is less to operate its educational system than any other in Washtenaw county, this is true. Voters will be asked to approve a tax increase of 1.22 mills (going from 23.7 cents per $100 assessed valuation in Waterloo to 24.92 cents per $100 in Chelsea) in the annual operational budget election set for Monday, May 17, citizens were told in a public meeting Tuesday night. By township, the increase per $100 of assessed valuation is: Sylva 34.7 cents, Dexter 37.5 cents, London 25.6 cents, Lima 32.7 cents, Lyndon 30.4 cents, Sharon 28.1 cents, Grass Lake 25.4 cents, Waterloo 23.7 cents. When all this is put together, it will amount to $82,795.33 more for last year's operation costs, a total of $800,170.33.

School Vote On Millage Slated May 17

On Monday, May 17 the electorate of the Chelsea School district will be asked to vote on an operational millage of 2 1/2 mills. In keeping with the Board policy of the last few years, this number of mills is for a period of one year; and only that amount required to meet the budget will be levied. At no time in the last four years has the board levied the entire amount voted by the electorate.

All eligible voters are urged to show a real interest in the education of their children and support this admittedly conservative program. Those eligible to vote are: (1) All residents of the Chelsea School District whether property owners or renters. (2) You must be properly registered to vote in your respective townships. Further information will be published next week, but anyone who is interested may contact any Board member or the superintendent of schools. These same persons are still available to speak to any group upon request.

Championship Track Meet Rained Out

Dexter and Chelsea were declared co-champions of the Chelsea Invitational Tuesday when the meet was called before it was completed because of rain. Dexter was leading, 21-20, at the time it was called.

Paul Katona won the shot put at 41'10" with Chelsea's McCalla placing second. Bob Schefer won the broad jump at 18'5" with Dave Heckman coming in second. The pole vault was won at 10'6" by Chelsea's Wojcicki, while Paul Scherdt and Huber of Chelsea tied for second at 10 feet. Dexter's 880 relay team won first place in the shortened meet. Because no time was available for either team to make up the meet later the tie decision was made by mutual consent.

Your Petitions Circulate for School Board

Arthur Kuhl and Paul Mann, who are completing four-year terms on the board, have indicated they will not be candidates for reelection. The deadline date for filing petitions is 4 p.m. May 15. The election is scheduled for June 14. Petitions now being circulated are for Robert Koch, Mrs. Harold Koch, Jr. (Barbara), Charles Foster and Robert Taylor.

Invited to attend are members of the school board, school administrators and teachers. The prom, which this year is themed, "Harbor Lights," will be held in the solarium area. An Ann Arbor dance band will provide the music for the dancing which is scheduled for 9 to 12:30 a.m. Students in charge of the prom are Lauralyn Johnson and Duane Schroen. The present building committee, comprised of Mrs. Louis Burghardt, Mrs. Henry Karner, Howard Flintoft, Lawrence Gorton, Ernest Guenther, Julius Bliss, Paul Schable, Jr., Carl Mayer, and George Knickerbocker, chairman, has been working nearly two years to attain this goal. Their duties included the selection of A. J. Smith of Tecumseh as architect and the reappraisal of all previous study groups' recommendations. These preliminary study groups started functioning in 1963. St. Paul's new church will be located on Old US-12, approximately one-third mile east of M-52. The property includes 6 1/2 acres, purchased about two years ago from A. H. Pommerening. The successful bidders were as follows: Goodrich-Hazen of Adrian, general contractors, who are presently engaged in construction of a new dining hall and kitchen facilities at Cassidy Lake—Technical School, northwest of Chelsea; Young & Ost of Milan, mechanical work; and D. R. Electric of Jackson, electrical work. It is hoped that ground-breaking ceremonies will take place within the next 30 days. Jess Meininger, president of the Church Council, announced at the opening of the meeting that St. Paul's newly-elected pastor, the Rev. Warner H. Siebels, of Chicago Heights, Ill., will assume his duties here on June 27.

Michigan Week Mayor Exchange Set with Sturgis

Merle Leach has been appointed by Village President Howard Haselschwardt to head the festivities and programs which Chelsea will contribute to the state-wide observance of Michigan Week, May 16-22. The week's events will begin with special mention among the area churches at the Sunday, May 16 services. An exchange of mayors with Sturgis will highlight Monday's events. Mayor Ross Lower of Sturgis, accompanied by Mrs. Lower and Sturgis commissioner Carley Kitson and Mrs. Kitson will receive the key to Chelsea and visit a number of the village's leading firms. Michigan Week was originated as a promotion for the Wolverine State's many assets and resources—its industrial, business and recreational facilities and potentials. Its greatly expanded programs are designed to make known to the rest of the nation and the world the growth and development of one of the nation's foremost states. The theme for Michigan Week for 1965 is "Michigan-Dynamic in World Progress."

Kiwanians Hear Talk On 'Law Day'

An explanation of Law Day (May 1) and how it came into being was the topic discussed by William Rademacher at the Monday meeting of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club. Pointing out the inconsistency of this year's slogan "A Citizen's First Duty is To Uphold the Law," Rademacher said that perhaps a citizen's first duty is to develop his moral conscience and then apply it to the law. "This can be most effective," he continued, "through careful selection of those we elect to represent us and being equally careful in studying proposed bills and legislation before voting." The evening's program, which was headed by Louis Burghardt, included several reports and announcements. The members recently participated in a successful Canada-United States goodwill program. Visiting Dexter Kiwanian George Camp was introduced by the Rev. Edwin Weiss and Jack Fowler presented his guest, his son, Dean, of Anchorage, Alaska. The annual Mother's Day flower sale will be held Friday and Saturday. The next Kiwanis meeting will be at the Methodist Home at 6:15 p.m. Monday, May 10.

More Volunteers Needed To Help at Alumni Banquet

Additional volunteers are needed before plans for a Chelsea High School Alumni banquet for this year can get underway. Robert Merkel, Alumni Association president last year, announced more committee members are needed to work on the arrangements necessary for such a get-together. He urges all alumni interested in participating and lending aid to such a project contact George A. Staffan, chairman of the nominating committee appointed last year. Although Chelsea High school lists some 2,000 alumni, the average attendance at the banquet runs between 200 and 300. Merkel and Staffan regretfully (Continued on page six)

Secretary of Labor W. Wil-

 FROM senator GIL BURSLEY

People often ask me about the daily life of a senator in Lansing. It's hard to describe a "typical" day. For the serious legislator it can mean 15 hours of duty beginning with breakfast at 7:30 and running into committee meetings late at night. And there is an endless amount of reading just to keep abreast of legislation. We have 1,680 bills to know about and hundreds of resolutions, departmental reports, university and institutional budget requests, proposed constitutional amendments, resolutions by organizations such as the Farm Bureau, the American Association of University Women, the Grange, the League of Women Voters, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Manufacturers Association, the AFL-CIO—all these things and many more must be scanned, if not studied, and filed where they can be reached at just the right moment.

And letters!! There have been several times this year when I've had from 300 to 400 letters in just one day. And as a matter of policy, I try to answer every one. Sometimes though a letter, requests information that it takes a couple of weeks to develop. Please remember too, that each senator does not have a private secretary. Fortunately, I share a very superior secretary with just one other senator and a 60 to 70 hour workweek for her is commonplace.

Let's review my appointment book to give you an idea of daily life in Lansing. To begin with, last week was not typical because although the legislature was in recess, the Senate Appropriations Committee on which I am a member, met each morning, afternoon and evening to listen to the budget justification of each college president and his fiscal advisors.

But let's take the week before that. There was a breakfast with the Michigan Retail Hardware Dealers Association, another morning the Governor's Prayer Breakfast, another morning a breakfast meeting with Governor Romney and some of his staff. The Senate mail room opens at 7:15 a.m. and I usually check my own mail by 8:30 and urgent matters are tended to then.

At 10 o'clock each morning the Appropriations Committee meets. We listened to budget requests and justifications from mental health hospitals, the state police, the public health commissioner and the superintendent of public instruction in these morning committees throughout the week.

Lunches were with the Mental Health Advisory Committee, legislative representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, members of the Higher Education Assistance Authority and the president of a lake insurance company. Another day I flew from Lansing to Saginaw to address the Rotary Club on "Foreign Trade Zones" and was back in Lansing a few minutes after the afternoon session began.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon our Senate sessions ran from 2 o'clock until 5:30 p.m. but the week before when we were considering the workmen's compensation legislation the session ran on after dinner until 1 o'clock in the following morning.

The "unsung" heroes are the journal clerks and the staff of the Senate Secretary who have to work on after each session—no matter how late it is—to get all actions properly recorded and delivered to the printers so that the following morning the printed journal of the previous day's proceedings will be on each senator's desk.

It's very rare in Lansing that you eat dinner by yourself. Either you eat a smaller affair at which several members of a specific legislative committee are present. After dinner we have public hearings in the legislative chambers at which we sometimes have over 100 persons who want to testify on a given legislative item. If the Senate is quiet enough I work there or else back in my hotel room. About twice a week it's necessary to drive back to Washtenaw or Lenawee county in the evening for

Need Civil War Stories
 Stories based on Civil War activities in demand currently by the State Civil War Centennial observance Commission concludes its five years of work.

The Commission was appointed by former Gov. John B. Swainson to bring to light the contributions of Michigan people in the war between the states.

Life of the commission ends this year. A part of its work has been the publication of a series of books on Michigan's participation in the war.

Still in progress is the preparation of a book entitled "Twice Told Tales of the Civil War" to be edited by Mrs. Mildred Millbrook. She performed a similar job on another commission publication, "Michigan Women in the Civil War."

Floyd L. Haight, commission chairman, is looking for between 150 and 200 stories of the war which are recalled by relatives or friends of Civil War veterans.

"Most of us have heard some of those stories but it is a job to get individuals to sit down and write them out so that Mrs. Millbrook may put them in shape for publication," said Haight.

"We no doubt will find that some of these stories will approach what we might call mythology, but most of them do have some basic truth," he said. "Our company meeting or to give a talk. In my first year in Lansing I gained 20 pounds in two months but now skip certain dinners and this year I have actually lost weight since the session began."

On Mondays and Fridays the routine is a bit different. The Monday session is at night from 8 p.m. until—on Friday morning—from 10 a.m. until—two weeks ago on Monday I went to a luncheon at the Detroit Economics Club and from there direct to Lansing to meet with three different groups during the afternoon and also to catch up on some correspondence. Hopefully Friday afternoons and Monday mornings a senator can be back in his own district.

On week-ends at home the phone rings and rings and there are calls to make on various individuals and groups. Also although much of our mail goes to Lansing I usually have a pile a foot high at home on Friday when I get there. I try to read every newspaper in my district and although many are only weeklies, this still takes time. Reading the papers I find very rewarding because the press does a wonderful job of highlighting matters with which a legislator should concern himself.

I've only begun to tell about some of the things a senator does each day but if I don't stop now this column will be too long for any editor to utilize.

Compare Tax Notes
 A "helping hand" in checking state tax resources has been extended by the Revenue Department by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service.

Clarence W. Lock, revenue commissioner, says his department has an arrangement with the federal unit providing for an exchange of tax information between the two agencies.

Lock emphasized the information exchanged on a request basis would be used only for tax purposes. Both governmental agencies are bound by secrecy provisions which guard against improper use of tax information.

Tax returns made available to Lock's department would be only those specifically requested and would be issued only to authorized personnel.

The department chief stressed the fact that the exchange plan would provide greater certainty that persons would be discovered if they failed to file complete returns with either state or federal authorities.

Some 37 other states have similar agreements with the Internal Revenue Service. District Director R. I. Nixon in Detroit said the program has been of mutual advantage in the other states.

The states release information to the federal service from various state tax returns, such as those required under estate and corporate laws.

Big Work Bite
 Despite deadlines already set for legislative action, including a mid-summer adjournment date, most observers agree a long session is in the offing.

With government reorganization and fiscal reform still hanging in the air without form, there appears little hope these major areas can be acted upon along with other pending controversial legislation by the scheduled adjournment.

As in previous sessions, it is expected this year will find the legislature extending its work time indefinitely when summer arrives. Best guess is the majority of the work will be accomplished by early or mid-July in time for the new budget to take effect.

An adjournment is then expected for a month or longer before resumption of a fall session to deal with such weighty problems as fiscal reform.

From present indications, at least that much time will be needed before any firm plans for new or revised revenue measures to be drawn and ready for consideration by the entire legislature.

Licensed Drivers Now A 4.3 Million Mark
 Lansing — Michigan counted 4,369,447 licensed drivers in 1964, an increase of just under 100,000 from the previous year, the Secretary of State's Department reported. This means that nearly one in every two Michigan residents has a license to drive a motor vehicle.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where the "bridal gown" industry is getting in a bad way. At a convention the other day in New York the folks was in this business claims sales has dropped from $42 million a year to $40 million and was still dropping.

They was lamenting that in the good old days couples stayed engaged for a year or two, then had a big church wedding in style and the bride gown business was booming. They was decided at this meeting that what they called "quickie" weddings was ruining business and they aimed to do something about it. The meeting broke up afore they could solve the problem and I got a hunch, Mister Editor, the bride gown business was in fer a long dry spell.

I bring this item up at the country store Saturday night and Ed Doolittle said the answer was easy. He claimed divorces and weddings was running about even these days and if they'd start a style fer the woman getting the divorce to throw a sort of farewell unwinding ceremony where everybody was dressed up formal it would put the bride gown business back on its feet.

The feller that runs the store butted in and reported that on account of him getting married in the office of the Justice of the Peace, he didn't know nothing about this bride gown business, but he was agreed with Ed that divorces was now getting about as much attention in the papers as weddings. He said he had saw in the papers where they was trying to get a divorce law in Georgia that would fit in with other states but things had got so fur out of hand that they couldn't find no two states alike.

 Amateur burglars entered a public school building Tuesday night, forced their way into the office of Supt. E. L. Clark and a good job of jimmying the safe. A crowbar was used in trying to open the safe and both the safe and handle were broken off. It was impossible to open the safe. The only thing not readily counted for was a fountain pen. After the safe was opened Wednesday morning the contents were found to be intact.

Cleansing Agents May Be Deadly If Mixed at Home

Civil Defense Director Elwyn Beach warns housewives of the dangers inherent in mixing two or more cleansing agents.

Unfortunately, he says such mixtures can produce large volumes of poisonous gases. For instance, a cleanser containing sodium hypochlorite when mixed with household ammonia produces large volumes of ammonia gas. When sodium hypochlorite and vinegar are mixed they produce large quantities of deadly chlorine gas.

All household cleansing agents are mixtures of otherwise safe ingredients, but when some of these agents are brought together in a home-made mixture they can do great damage to the housewife who inhales the resulting gases while working in a poorly ventilated area.

Do read warnings and instructions attached to all household cleaning agents. And don't mix them!

SENIOR CITIZENS of Chelsea held their first get-together in their new meeting place Wednesday, April 28. Arrangements for the pot-luck dinner and program of games, attended by 72 members, were under the direction of interim president Joseph Protz. The new location is the former Grove's Dime Store at the corner of Main and Middle. The next meeting for the Senior group will be held Monday, May 10, at 8 p. m.

52 Children Take First Communion At St. Mary's

A Mass celebrated Sunday by the Rev. Fr. Francis Maliszewski, 52 children from St. Mary's Catholic school and parish made their First Communion.

In his sermon, Fr. Maliszewski reminded the children and their parents that this occasion marked the beginning of a new and grace-filled time in their lives. He said that this was not the conclusion of a set of instructions; but rather an intensification or renewal of their responsibilities as Christians. Everyone in the church joined in the singing provided by the seventh and eighth graders.

The children are David Alber, Kimberly Alder, Colleen Altwater, Karen Bassett, Michael Blalock, Ronald Boham, Charles Buckingham, Gregg Burg, Leslie Bury, William Clark, Kevin Dorer, Kathy Dunn and Cindy Frisbie.

Also there were David Foytik, Francis Grohner, Anthony Hafner, David Keiser, James Lantia, Richard Lutovsky, Matthew Marzee, Thomas Maynard, Kim Marie Miles, Randy Musbach, Elaine Musolf, Melinda Newcome, Todd Orbring, Suzanne and Wendy Osinski, Mark Pennington, Joanne Popovich, David Proctor, Michael Quigg and Michelle Rappette.

The list concludes with Debra Rosbach, Lori Ann Schrader, Charles and Michael Schulte, Basil Scott, Thomas Shanahan, Shawn Spaulding, Elizabeth Tobin, Anne Treudo, Juanita and Mario Trevino, Duwana Villanore, Jeffrey Weber, Matthew Wengren, Darryl West, Christine Westcott, Daniel Williams, Ralph-Windle and Paul Wood.

He is spending a month here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fowler, before returning to make his home in Alaska.

MERRY MAIDS

Reatha Treudo and Carol Ewald gave a brownie demonstration at the April 28 meeting of the Merry Maids 4-H club. The sampling of baked goods will continue through the summer as the girls gain experience for the entries they plan to submit to the 4-H fair the first week in August.

Mental Health Week

May 1 through 7 is Mental Health Week in Michigan and the rest of the nation. The State of Michigan has particular reason to recall these dates, for it was the Michigan Jaycees who in 1942 passed the first resolution commemorating what is now a national observance.

A hard task is eased by the application of immediate energy.

will continue for months. As one farmer said, "What do you do with a 20-acre field of wheat that has sticks driven into it every few feet?"

Thousands of acres of crop-land were covered with such splintered boards, tin, wire, trees, shingles—all of which must be removed.

Farmers in Kalamazoo, Livingston, Calhoun, Eaton, Jackson and Ingham counties are joining those in stricken Branch, Lenawee and Hillsdale in "Operation Clean-Up" with county Farm Bureau offices serving as "home-base" for grouping and assigning work crews.

Extremely too much is said about the divisions found within agriculture. The Palm Sunday tornadoes have shown the world once again how really united farmers are.

A graduate of Stockbridge High school, Corporal Carpenter entered the Marines in October 1960.

Few people have the courage to resist the crowd, even when they know the crowd is off base.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell

"Brother's Keeper"

It is good to know that Michigan farmers still think of themselves as their brother's-keepers...

Those who think of farming these days as only a cold-blooded business should know of the work of carloads of farmers who recently moved into the tornado-stricken areas of Michigan to help total strangers.

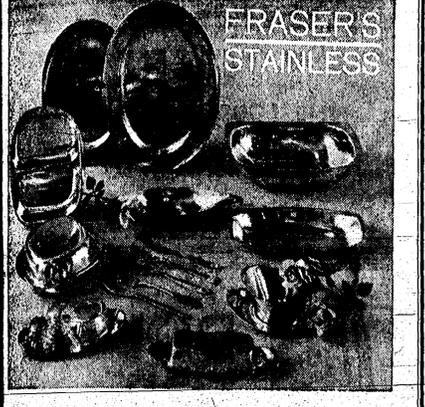

School youngsters are to be commended for the work they did, too. At the suggestion of Lenawee county Farm Bureau president, Ivan Hunt, students from the Crested High school organized into salvage and clean-up teams. Later, older students from all parts of the county organized into teams to work in the tornado areas.

Fortunately, few livestock were injured. Here and there sheep could be seen grazing among their dead, and whole flocks of chickens walk around in shocked nakedness, their feathers plucked out by the capricious winds. To illustrate the power and freak strength of the funnels, a herd of hogs, one of nature's most indestructible, mud-living animals, were killed when winds solidly packed mud down their throats, suffocating them.

But most cattle and horses rolled with the wind (literally) and later shook themselves off and began wandering home. Some farmers, left without barns or buildings of any kind, drove their herds to neighboring farms for milking and feed. Lenawee farmer Alton Brooks is doubly sold on the value of amateur radio; for after the storm had removed power-lines to the Brooks dairy, his son used their "ham" set to talk to friends outside the storm area. By daybreak, these friends had arrived with a portable generator capable of running the milking machines on schedule.

Buggy Tongue Found In Tornado Drop-Out

An aunt who spent the week-end with the Roland Helms on Lima Center Rd., reports that in addition to the usual assortment of oddities left in the wake of the recent tornado — like cancelled checks from another state, pages torn out of books and magazines, and such — they found a tongue from an old-time buggy. Broken at a sharp point, had it struck anyone instead of the ground it could have inflicted severe injuries or even caused death.

Researchers Follow Deer With Transmitter in Collar

Lansing — The miracle of electronics, which has man-reaching for the moon, is now being called upon in Michigan to play a down-to-earth role in probing unknowns about game.

ON THE BEAM: Research biologists of the Conservation Department are on the threshold of gaining an electronic "edge" in studying the movements and habitat needs of game.

Under a radio telemetry project being readied by the Conservation Department, it will serve as the eyes and ears of a super-streamlined study aimed at tracking game movements and measuring wildlife habitat needs.

To launch this study, research biologists are "bugging" 12 white-tails with transmitter-equipped collars at the Department's Cusino wildlife research station near Shingleton in the Upper Peninsula.

After the dozen deer are released inside the station's mile-square enclosure, biologists will tune in on their travels this spring by manning directional receivers to pick up signals from tiny transmitters powered by mercury cell batteries.

Each of these electronic gadgets, with a range of one mile or more through heavy cover, produces a signal on separate frequencies for each deer so that researchers will know exactly which animals they are tracking at any given time.

Actually, the signals are beamed off a wire sending antenna looped inside each collar. They are then picked up on frequencies assigned to the research station by the Federal Communications Commission.

After using the Cusino station's enclosure as a testing ground for the next year or so, the Department plans to expand its radio-telemetry study to cover deer, bear, coyotes, and possibly bobcats on wild lands in the Upper Peninsula.

Also, Department plans call for using planes with directional receivers (about the size of wall telephones) to conduct an air-ground study on elk this fall in the Pigeon River area of the northern Lower Peninsula.

These big animals will be captured sometime this summer by shooting them with sedative loaded darts. They will have their age determined and sex recorded before collars with transmitters are slipped around their massive necks.

At the Department's Rose Lake wildlife research center near East Lansing, workers are re-erecting lookout towers which have been replaced by airplanes under the fire detection program in northern Michigan. These towers will be used as listening posts for radio-telemetry studies on deer and such small game as pheasants, rabbits, and squirrels.

Eventually, the Department expects to track white-tails in other parts of southern Michigan, with portable receivers in aircraft.

"This business of radio telemetry is brand new to us and we've already run into some wrinkles during our early experiments," says David H. Jenkins, chief of the Department's research and development section.

"However," he goes on, "we think this project has red hot possibilities for telling us a lot of things we still need to know about game. For one thing, our men will have instant contact with animals that have transmitters, and that will give them a big edge in charting wildlife movements at all times."

Previously, game researchers have not known what happened to animals between the time they were first captured and later recovered by hunters or recaptured by the Department.

"Now, by radio telemetry, we will know where animals range from season to season and consequently what type of habitat they use and need the most."

"In the case of deer, we hope to learn where the animals that eat up an orchard in winter or a strawberry patch in spring spend the fall so hunters can take these problem white-tails during the fall hunting seasons."

"We also want to define the range of deer which are becoming an increasingly serious hazard to motorists. This will tell us how far out we have to reach with our southern Michigan deer seasons to hold down the highway toll in certain danger zones."

Hunters, as well as orchard owners, farmers, and motorists, stand to gain from the findings of radio telemetry, according to Jenkins.

With better information to go by, the Department can make more accurate predictions of game populations and behavior patterns to let hunters use wildlife more fully.

"In other words, the more we know about game, the more sport we can provide under our hunting regulations," Jenkins explains.

To give another example of what the researchers are shooting for, Jenkins points out that they need to know what happens to young

Future Farmers Take Part in State Judging Contests

The Chelsea Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was well represented at the State Agricultural Judging contests at Michigan State University last Saturday with eight teams from the local chapter participating in nine contests.

Results will not be known for another week. However, since Chelsea won the livestock judging last year and represented Michigan at the National Finals in Kansas City last October, hopes are high for equally successful results this year.

The participating teams include Jim Grisson, Bob Kushmaul and Larry Barnhill, dairy; Larry Bott, Bill Watkins and Jan Hibbs, dairy products; Don Hinderer, Doug Young and Dick McCalla, farm management; Ben Stajish, Barry Boone and Leon Barnhill, soils; Jim Bristle, John Fullerton, Don Koengter and Don Clark, livestock; Dan Eder, Ron Montagne and Ron Cubberly, meats; Chuck Wenk, Gary Hughes and John Hafner, poultry; and Bill Wenk, Dave Clark and Greg Kuhl, forestry.

Road Commission Engineering Director Max Royce Retires

Organizational changes have been made in the Washtenaw County Road Commission with the retirement of Max Royce of Ann Arbor, director of engineering, on April 30.

The resulting changes include the appointment of Walter Lewis, maintenance engineer, to the office of road engineer, and construction foreman Orval Throne to superintendent of maintenance.

Royce, who began his career in the Commission's Ann Arbor office in April 1926, progressed through all the phases of highway engineering until attaining his present position. A dinner in his honor will be given by the commission later this month.

Cantaloupes were first grown in Cantalupo, Italy.

Animals which are so vulnerable to natural mortality.

"There are," he says, "over 400,000 whitetail fawns born in Michigan each year. Half of them disappear between June and November. Where do they go? We hope to unlock this mystery by 'bugging' some young deer."

Looking further ahead, Department researchers would like to see the day when transmitters will be refined enough to keep them posted on such fine details as the heart beats, body temperatures, and respiratory rates of animals under study.

"Just think what such an advance in technology would mean to us in deer research alone," Jenkins stresses.

"It would give us a right-now account of what happens to deer, physiologically, during severe winter weather, when does are fawning, etc. If we can find what goes on inside deer and other game, we may hold the key to providing healthier animals and cutting natural mortality losses among wildlife."

Jenkins admits it may be some time before radio telemetry becomes this exacting. Even so, no one can say the Department's new game studies aren't "on the beam."

Michigan Near Top In Total Sales of Hunt, Fish Licenses

Lansing — Michigan drew 1,740,611 licensed sportsmen during the 1964 fiscal year to boast the third largest force of registered hunters and anglers in the nation, according to figures tabulated by the U. S. Department of the Interior.

This state finished a shade behind front-running Pennsylvania with 1,178,681 hunting licenses, permit and stamps produced a pace-setting revenue figure of $6,027,726. Michigan's following of licensed fishermen totaled 897,748, good for fifth-place ranking among the nation's states. These sportsmen bought 1,078,901 licenses at a cost of $2,026,678. As the year before, California fielded the largest army of licensed hunters and fishermen, while Minnesota was second.

African Safari

Adventuresome Twosome Reaches Capetown

By Pat Merkel and Fritz Wagner

Editor's Note: Fritz Wagner and Pat Merkel of Chelsea, are touring the African continent on motorcycles. The following letter has been received from them which should be of interest to their friends in the Chelsea district. They left Chelsea Oct. 3 and are now awaiting for the return trip home.

Capetown, South Africa
 April 21, 1965

Dear Folks:

We enjoyed our stay in Bulawayo even though it was only for three days. The road from Bulawayo to Salisbury is an experience in itself. It is called a strip road, and reminded us of many old driveways in Chelsea. It is simply two strips of tar with gravel in between. It works well until another car comes along, then each takes a strip, leaving one side of the car running on gravel. Having motorcycles we could stay on the tar all of the time.

It was about here that our cycles began to give us trouble. Fritz's battery went dead and he began having electrical problems caused by a wreck in Ethiopia. My headgasket began to leak and the engine began missing. We didn't have any other choice but to keep moving and hope that the situation wouldn't worsen.

Salisbury was a must for us since it's the only city in Africa that an American can obtain a visa for South Africa.

We thoroughly enjoyed our stay in this new and pleasant city. The president of the University of Rhodesia was kind enough to put us up in his guest wing making our short stay even nicer.

Salisbury marked the end of dirt roads. It was clear sailing all the way to Capetown some 3000 miles away.

Our first city in South Africa was Pretoria. Pretoria has been proclaimed by South Africans to be the most beautiful inland city in the world, however, we would offer some disagreement. Granted it's a nice town and the people are friendly but, it is a mining town and it certainly shows.

This is one of the world's diamond centers and the home of the Premier diamond mine where the Star of Africa diamond was found in 1905. It was the largest diamond in the world until it was cut to make the British Crown Jewels. Fritz and I visited the mine and found it to be much like the copper mines. The main difference is on the ground level, where the rock is simply crushed into a very fine gravel and the diamonds are removed from it.

Our stay in Pretoria was a short one but we felt that we had seen the most important parts. From Pretoria we traveled 40 miles South to Johannesburg, the largest city in Africa. After one week sight-seeing here we traveled on across the country to South Africa's largest seaport Durban.

Once again we found ourselves homeless. After driving around the town we stopped at the Teachers Training College and much to our delight they asked us to spend our stay with them.

Durban is a large and modern city, hugging the coast of the Indian Ocean. Long white beaches and pretty girls are the main attractions. Of course, Pat and I concentrated solely on the beaches.

Before leaving we checked into shipping and the chances of going on to Australia. Things didn't look too bright but we weren't about to give up.

From Durban we went on to Port Elizabeth. In Port Elizabeth, Pat had the names of two Ford Motor executives given to him by Vern Salisbury of Chelsea. We struck up a happy friendship during our week's stay. Our motorcycles were in bad need of repair before we could continue the journey southward. Thanks to our Ford friends, our troubles were over. They took the bikes into the plant and took care of all of the pairs. Also during our week's stay Ford tried desperately to find a ship, for us, to Australia, but due to the fact that these ships to Australia carried only Asian crews and wouldn't let whites work on them our Australian dream ended.

From Port Elizabeth we began one of the most scenic drives in all of Africa. This long and beautiful drive is called the "Garden Route." Along this drive are breath-taking sights of the flora and beautiful South African flowers, displaying the exotic Proton flowering plants. The drive reminded me of driving along the East coast of Florida, but certainly having much more vegetation.

After two days travel along the "garden route" we arrived at our final destination in Africa "Capetown."

Capetown is nestled in the base of the Table Mountains. These mountains are so flat that Paul Bunyon would have enjoyed playing euchre on them. The mountains in the background dwarf the luxurious buildings but this adds to the splendor of the city.

Capetown has many wonderful sights to see and Pat and I have managed to see most of them. We have visited the Cape of Good Hope, the quaint fishing villages, the interesting K.W.V. winery and the Rhodes memorial. All in all Capetown is fantastic and deserves to be rated as one of the world's most beautiful cities. To make our stay even nicer the University of Capetown has asked us to lodge with them as guests.

At the present time we are

Tornado Alert Plans Studied By Village Officials

Methods and means of alerting citizens of Chelsea in the event of an approaching tornado was on the agenda at the April 28 meeting of city officials, held in the Chelsea Fire Department.

Among those attending were Howard Haselschwardt, village president; Vince Burg, councilman; James Gaken, fire chief; George Atkinson, assistant fire chief; John Palmer, chief of police; Elwyn Beach, Civil Defense director; William Chandler, deputy Civil Defense director; and Marion Longworth, chief emergency radio operator.

It was agreed that if a tornado or severe storm conditions head toward Chelsea the chief of police or officer in charge will instruct the police operator to sound the fire sirens for a full two minutes. In the event of power failure, citizens will be warned by fire truck siren.

Clare Fenn Retiring from Drug Store

Clare H. Fenn, former Chelsea resident and a descendant of Chelsea's pioneer Fenn and Staffan families, has retired after owning and operating Fenn's Drug Store in Ann Arbor for almost 35 years. He announced the sale May 1 of the store and business at 103 N. Forest, Ann Arbor, to James A. O'Sullivan, owner of the Food Mart and of the Food & Drug Mart, who hopes to reopen the Fenn store by May 17.

Fenn plans to spend coming winters in Arizona and summers at his 1131 E. Huron home in Ann Arbor and his Cavanaugh Lake cottage. Fenn, noting he has lost 60 pounds since contracting a serious illness last year, said the fact he has been "partially incapacitated" since suffering severe injuries in a 1947 automobile crash influenced his decision to retire.

Fenn began his career as a pharmacist by working in the former Fenn Drug Store in Chelsea, owned and operated by his father, Henry H. Fenn, Michigan's oldest practicing druggist at the time of his death in 1950. He later worked in or owned drug stores in Jackson, Michigan Center and Detroit before opening his Ann Arbor store in 1930.

His wife, the former Agnes Webber, also of Chelsea to whom he was married here in 1923, has assisted him in the Ann Arbor store. Their only son, Howard, is a deputy probation officer in Orange county, California.

A World War I veteran, (Aviation Section, Signal Corps) he was instrumental in organizing Chelsea's American Legion Post No. 31, and still retains his charter membership.

He served as a member of the Ann Arbor City Council, to which he was first appointed by former Mayor William E. Brown, Jr., on Aug. 2, 1948, to fill a vacancy and then won re-election to two successive two-year terms.

Legion Will Elect Officers Tonight

All members of Herbert J. McKune Post 31 of the American Legion, with sons or other eligible members interested in joining the group, are urged to attend the regular meeting at the Legion home at 8 p.m. tonight. Election of officers for the coming year will take place.

An organization dedicated to upholding and defending the Constitution of the United States, membership in the Legion is open to all male descendants, adopted sons and stepsons, and such male descendants of the veterans who died in service during the two World Wars and the Korean War.

Ypsi Township Leads County in Tax Collections

Ypsilanti township heads the list of Washtenaw county townships in percentage of 1964 county taxes collected by township treasurers, according to figures compiled by the office of County Treasurer Sylvester A. Leonard. The figures include only the county taxes collected for operation and County Building bonds and interest—school taxes and any other levies are additional to the table of figures released by the county treasurer's office.

The total tax levy in Ypsilanti township (county operation, County Building bonds and interest, school etc.) is approximately $4.6 million. Of this total amount General Motors pays $2.457 million and Ford Motor Co., $379,000. Thus General Motors pays 53 percent of the total tax and Ford pays 8.6 percent—the two firms accounting for a total of 61.6 percent of the entire levy in the township.

Next highest in percentage of collections are Sylvan township with 97.4 percent and Lima township with 96.9 percent.

Percentages collected by other area townships are as follows: Dexter township, 89.8; Freedom, 95.2; Lyndon, 91.1; Scio, 93.6; Sharon, 94.3; and Webster, 90.1. Total levy for county taxes (exclusive of school taxes and other levies) for 1964 was $3,534,910.40 as compared to $3,397,372.46 for 1963. Total percentage collected in 1964 was 95.56 percent as compared to 95.05 percent for 1963. Townships with lower percentages of collection, such as Dexter, 89.8, and Northfield, 86.7, have areas where there are many lake cottages, it was explained. Own-

Just A Minute . . .

By The Rev. James A. Craig

"The Earth Shook, The Sky Burned" is the story of the San Francisco earthquake. It describes the utter devastation of the earth's convulsion. Alaska's Good Friday earthquake is a more recent example.

Even all of that destruction seems little when compared with the power nations have learned to use at will.

The foundations shake and man's mightiest monuments tumble. A tragedy of our time is our willingness in order to bring enemies to their knees.

In his own time Samson's power shook foundations. It was like the nuclear power we have now. Samson's confidence in his strength first led him to arrogance and then to destruction.

And we, with our strength, what do we do? We feel a growing confidence in the increasingly we depend on it for the solution to national problems.

Enough military force here, or there, and we have peace.

No one will argue with the goal of peace.

But, hauntingly, there crosses the backs of our minds a sentence faintly remembered. "He who lives by the sword, dies by the sword."

The speaker we have called the Prince of Peace.

We have yet to hear him speak. Prayers: We have ears O Lord, let us hear thy word. Amen.

BIBLE VERSE TO STUDY

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold."

1. Where is this verse found?
2. Who is the author?
3. Who was his mother?
4. In what language was it written?

Answers on page 16)

Child molesting cases were included in the 553 sex offense complaints investigated in Michigan in 1964 by the State Police. Parents should instruct their youngsters to stay with companions when at play outdoors and the youngsters should never be sent alone on errands. A lone child outside can too easily become a molester's victim.

Variety Keynotes Michigan Activities Scheduled for May

Lansing — The month of May signals the beginning of spring events in Michigan as communities throughout the state prepare for an expected record influx of visitors, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Highlighting the first week in May is the traditional Blossomtime in the twin cities of St. Joseph-Benton Harbor May 2 through 8. The festival begins with the Blessing of the Blossoms ceremonies Sunday, May 2 and concludes with the Grand Floral Ball, Saturday evening, May 8.

Interspersed throughout the week are blossom-trail tours, fashion shows, parades on Thursday and Saturday and contests.

Further north, visitors will be trekking toward the valleys in search of succulent sponge mushroom, Saturday and Sunday, May 8 and 9. Two communities pay tribute to the morel on that week-end with the Mushroom Festival, Lake City and the National Mushroom Contest at Boyne City.

The following week is a great week for the Dutch and their guests as the annual Tulip Time festivities begin in Holland, Wednesday, May 12, and continue through Saturday, May 15.

For the first time this year, visitors to the annual celebration will be offered the opportunity to see the newly-restored windmill, "De Zwaan." The 200-year old mill was recently dismantled in the Netherlands and shipped to Holland where it was re-assembled for permanent display at the new Windmill Island.

Included in this year's Tulip Time are a variety of musical programs, dancing, parades, contests and entertainment.

At Greenfield Village in Dearborn, the Country Fair of Yesterday is scheduled Thursday, May 13 through Saturday, May 15. A family attraction, the fair features marching bands, farm animals and a children's midway. Prizes will be awarded boys and girls during games and contests.

Early events which will be an exciting play include elder pressing, sheep shearing, butter churning and wool currying.

May events conclude on a historical note with the staging of the Fort Michilimackinac Massacre at Mackinaw City, Saturday and Sunday, May 29 and 30.

Festivities begin with a parade of town people dressed in 18th century costume and ends at the reconstructed Fort Michilimackinac. The ensuing program includes a game of lacrosse during which the Indian massacre of 1763 is re-enacted. The two-day event also includes Indian dance demonstrations and muzzle shooting exhibitions.

Many other events are scheduled in May in communities throughout both peninsulas. A detailed listing may be obtained by writing for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Events, Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 48026.

'Make Way for Lila'

Far above the Arctic Circle of by most people as a snow-covered desolate wasteland, hardly a place to live let alone make a movie.

But amid this land the hardy, wonderfully rugged Laplanders live and from this land of the Northern Lights and the fabled Midnight Sun comes "Make Way for Lila," a warm, beautiful new picture presenting a totally unique way of life to the screen.

Directed in blazing Eastmancolor on location in Norway, Sweden and Lapland, "Make Way for Lila" is a captivating adventure of a Lapland girl, found as a baby in a snowy wilderness after her parents were attacked and killed by wolves, and raised by a childless Lapland couple as their own. Growing to maturity, Lila is caught in the conflict of the love of two men from two different worlds.

"Make Way for Lila" is a fascinating film with wide audience appeal. It is a new and exciting experience for the young and old alike—the danger of the wolf pack on the prowl... vast herds of reindeer stretching as far as the eye can see... the warmth and gaiety of the Laplanders... the spontaneous thrill of the strangest sleigh race ever held... colorful... unusual... as big as the land where it was filmed.

"Make Way for Lila" is truly a new dimension in family entertainment. The photography is breathtaking and the people magnificent. But even overshadowing all of this is the riliance and charm of Lila as played by the popular and beautiful Austrian star Erika Remberg. She brings such believability to the little role that she may well come to be known as "Lila" rather than by her given name.

Joachim Hansen and Birger Malmsten are effective as Lila's two suitors and Edvin Adolphson and Isa Quensel are genuinely convincing as her parents. The youngsters are certain to laugh with glee at the antics of Alfred Maurstad, Lila's self-appointed, and lovable guardian.

A pleasant romance and a fresh insight into a land, its people and their traditions and customs, "Make Way for Lila" as presented by Riley Jackson and Robert Patrick, is as it is billed—an unforgettable adventure into the land of the Midnight Sun. The picture fulfills its promise... and in doing so, audiences will make room in their hearts for Lila—a girl they will remember forever.

Federal Land Bank for Area Loans $10 Million

Credit is playing an increasingly important role in the growth and progress of Michigan agriculture, according to Richard Peckens, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Ann Arbor.

Farmers continue to substitute capital for labor and to make adjustments which will enhance their income. To do this, they turn to borrowed money and use their farm land as a basis for borrowing, he explained.

"The reason for the increased use of borrowed money is quite obvious when you consider the trend in size of farm businesses and the substitution of capital for labor," Peckens commented.

Farms are much larger today in acreage and size of business than 25 years ago. Also, capital accounts for more than 60 percent of all inputs of agriculture today compared with about 32 percent in 1940. At the same time labor has been reduced from 59 percent to 30 percent, he added.

Peckens noted that the Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul loaned $144,745,700 to farmers last year. This is the largest volume of money loaned by the bank in its current history, he added. Farmers in Michigan borrowed $43 million of this total: Wisconsin, $25 million; Minnesota, $46 million; and North Dakota, $31 million.

The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul had more than 58,000 loans totaling $181 million outstanding Dec. 31, 1963, Peckens stated.

Farmers in Washtenaw, Livingston and Wayne counties which are served by the Federal Land Bank Association of Ann Arbor used borrowed money for a wide range of purposes last year to make their farm business more profitable. Manager Peckens said that, as of Dec. 31, 1964, the association had 949 farmer-members with loans totaling $10 million.

Directors of the Federal Land Bank Association of Ann Arbor are Andy Luckhart, Al Ruhlig, Floyd Chamberlain, Glenn Hanson, Edward Holmes, Lee Geigley and Bert Meyritt.

State Flags Available at Modest Cost

Lansing — For years, flags which have flown over the nation's capitol in Washington, D.C., have been a big hit with groups and organizations. Now, it is possible to also obtain a Michigan flag which has flown over the state capitol in Lansing.

Under a plan worked out by Secretary of State James M. Haro, chairman for the promotion of the state flag during Michigan Week, and the George P. Johnson Co. of Warren, which manufactures flags, such state flags may now be purchased at a public sale.

"We're hopeful that organizations and school groups are interested enough in Michigan history and lore to buy state flags and fly them along with Old Glory," Haro said.

He said that a wholesale, prepaid price of $4.00 for a 3 by 5 foot cotton bunting flag from the Johnson company had been worked out. "This low cost handles the purchase of flags as well as shipping charges," Haro stated.

Other Michigan flags are also available and the price list may be obtained by writing direct to the George P. Johnson Co., 23171 Grosbeck Rd., Warren.

Orders for Michigan flags should be placed as early as possible so that delivery may be in time for commemorating Michigan Week, May 16-22, Haro said.

Candy, gifts or money are some times used by molesters as bribes to lure youngsters for walks or rides, say the State Police. Molestation increases in warm weather months when children play more outdoors. That's why parents should explain to their youngsters now the dangers possible in such situations. Help protect your children.

Community College Named Washtenaw School Officially

The community college approved by voters last January was officially and unanimously named last week Washtenaw Community College.

There will be a public hearing on the college's first budget on June 1, after which the board will officially adopt a budget. Trustee Edward Adams, Jr., who serves as trustee, has previously submitted an estimate of needed tax levies, a type of preliminary budget, calling for $850,000 in tax collections.

Because of a larger than anticipated rise in the county's equalized valuation, as set last week by the County Board of Supervisors, Adams indicated that he will revise the budget upward to approximately $900,000. The board previously made its decision to levy the full 1.25 mills of taxing power approved by voters in January.

The board will meet in executive session to screen candidates for the presidency on May 10, and hold a regularly scheduled formal session on May 11.

Jaycees Project

Mental health is a nation-wide project of the Jaycees. For the Michigan Jaycees, it is the No. 1 project this year. Educational mental health workshops have been held throughout the state to tell Jaycees just what they can do in their own communities. Many groups already have taken on both small and large tasks involving the mentally handicapped. The Jaycees Auxiliary has been working with emotionally disturbed children in the state this year.

A banquet will honor the winners.

After a scoreless fifth inning by both teams South Lyon was put down in order in their half of the sixth. Dennis White then opened Chelsea's sixth with a walk, but was erased by a fielder's choice by Bill Harvey. Then Gary Dresch singled with Harvey stopping at second. David Blass ran for Harvey and came home in front of Dresch when Gary White hit a long double to left field.

The Bulldogs won it in the seventh, inning when Duane Schroen reached first on an infield error. After the next two batters had been retired, Dennis White singled with Schroen stopping at second. Eammy Allen ran for Schroen and scampered home with the winning run when Bill Harvey singled to right off losing pitcher, Cash. The winning pitcher was Chelsea's Dennis Kyte, now two and one for the season.

Baseball Team Downs South Lyon

Chelsea's Baseball team scored its second victory Tuesday afternoon at home, by defeating South Lyon, 3 to 2.

The game was delayed due to rain for approximately 25 minutes and it looked as if Chelsea would lose by the score of 2 to 0, but the recent good work by the custodian staff on the ball field paid off, allowing the game to resume within a matter of minutes.

CHOOSE CHEESE

Cottage cheese is becoming one of the nation's favorite dairy foods and is often called "one of the cheapest meats you can eat." About a half cup serving gives a man about 1/4 of his daily protein requirements. Cottage cheese is at its flavor peak when used a few days after purchase. Keep cottage cheese tightly covered and refrigerated.

National Magazine Features Story Fishing in Michigan

Lansing — One answer to that age old question of where the fish are is found in a feature article on fishing in Michigan appearing in the May issue of Field & Stream, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The article, by Jerry Chiappetta, Lansing outdoor writer, is an up-to-date list of Michigan's consistently good fishing spots.

Material for the story was obtained from personal notes, information compiled by the Michigan Department of Conservation and interviews with fishermen.

Chiappetta observed that getting a successful fisherman to tell about his favorite spot "is a science in itself, involving subtlety, flattery, bribery, and occasional alterations. Naturally, fish are going to be caught where 'fishermen fish,' he said.

The article says that lakes and streams named represent a solid investment in time, effort and money.

You as a free citizen have the right and, perhaps you will agree, the obligation to read the news—to know what is going on.

Congressman Wes VIVIAN Reports from WASHINGTON

Assistance Speeded for Tornado Victims

There are, it seems to me, two major parts to a Congressman's job. In earlier columns, I have discussed the best-known aspect of the job: representing the District in the National Legislature.

I began a tour of the Lenawee county disaster area in the morning with Mayor Bohm, Lenawee county Sheriff Germond and Capt. Dye of the Michigan National Guard.

On to Tipton, another of our Second District communities struck by the tragic Sunday storms, to review the Federal assistance available to our friends there.

We held office hours on Wednesday morning at the Milan Post Office and visited with Warden Paul Sartwell of the Federal Correction Institution in Milan.

At an evening meeting at the Blissfield Library, I met some farmers and processors discussed their urgent concern about an impending shortage of harvest labor this year, due to termination of the migrant farm labor program by the Congress in 1964.

Tuesday lunch was the Monroe Rotary club and a discussion of current legislation and my work on the House Science and Astronautics Committee.

The twister damage in Milan was principally in the industrial section of the town; three plants had been damaged. Saturday morning, Village President John Tschirhart, Milan township Clerk Wy-up. The problem is that they can't repair everything at once, and the buildings must take priority. I called the Department of Agriculture in Washington to see if I could obtain an extension on the March 28 deadline for signing up acreage under the Federal Feed Grain Program.

Thursday began with a breakfast reception at the Dexter Methodist church with members of the Christian Concerns Committee. The Rev. Theodore Halsted, Virgil Walling, the Committee members, and I had a frank and informative discussion; I found it both stimulating and inspiring.

Later in the morning we held office hours in Whitmore Lake, and in Plymouth, in the afternoon. Thursday evening I attended a testimonial dinner for my "ex boss" at the University of Michigan, Dean Stephen Attwood, retiring Dean of the College of Engineering.

Friday morning I had the privilege of moderating a meeting attended by superintendents of school districts throughout the Second Congressional District. We discussed the various federal programs of assistance to local school systems, including particularly the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act which has just been signed into law.

At noon, I discussed current legislation with members of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce, in response to the very kind invitation of Donald O. Ruffer, manager of the Ypsilanti Chamber.

The Italian government preserves the entire town of Portofino as a national monument. Strict controls are imposed to retain the charm of the former fishing village on the Italian Riviera.

The farmers around Britton took a terrible pounding from the twisters. When I talked with some of them Wednesday afternoon I found that they had some special problems. Barns were down, houses damaged and fields littered to such an extent that they are unworkable without a good deal of clean-

REPORT from LANSING

State Representative Thomas G. Sharpe

Come, Visit the Capital

I am becoming more and more concerned over government's usurpation of lands for public use, thereby shrinking our tax rolls and leaving heavier and heavier loads for taxpayers to carry.

Right now, the federal government alone owns more than one-third of all the land in the continental United States, including nine percent of Michigan's 38,402,000 acres.

In a recent survey, the Michigan Chamber of Commerce noted that 92 percent of Michigan's "tax-paying" forest land is open to hunting and 97 percent to fishing, with more than 100 private companies having built public picnic areas.

real possibility that the land would not fill by a spring runoff as planned by the Department, that we would be left with dead streams.

Although the county does not receive any money from the state in lieu of taxes, the state does not pay for land improvements like private property owners do.

During the controversy over proposed development between state and local officials, it has been brought out that Livingston county is being turned into a playground for residents of the surrounding metropolitan area.

Because of my concern over the dwindling township and county tax base, and the need to encourage private, tax-paying residential developments, early this year I introduced a bill to prohibit tax agency from creating or expanding any park or recreational area which would remove property from the tax rolls, without first securing the approval of the affected county board of supervisors.

Recreation Area Personnel Shifted To Increase Staff

The Conservation Department has recently transferred two Parks and Recreation Area personnel to strengthen the service force in southern Michigan Parks prior to the onrush of what appears to be a record tourist season for Michigan.

Lawrence L. Kern becomes Assistant Supervisor of the Waterloo Recreation Area, transferring from the Prond Lake Recreation Area, and William W. Smith from the Pinckney Recreation Area is promoted to Assistant Supervisor of the Brighton Recreation Area.

Kern, a graduate of the Port Huron area schools joined the department in 1954 in a clerical position and has served progressively as a park ranger and park manager until his recent transfer.

A native of Rochester and a graduate of the University of Michigan, Smith joined the department in 1963 as a park ranger at Pinckney following three summer seasons of park work while completing his education. He and his wife, Helga, and son, Robert, will live in the Howell area.

The transfers have been approved by Warren W. Shapton, regional manager for the Conservation Department and are in accordance with Civil Service procedures.
