Governor Romney Reports

We concluded last week a very successful meeting of the Midwestern Governors' Conference. The Governors of ten of the 12 member midwestern states attended this three-day meeting at Mackinac Island. Many important steps were taken to strengthen state government.

Some of these include:

Calling for a joint meeting of the Midwest Resources Association, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Site Selection Committee of the National Academy of Sciences to present the compelling reasons why the accelerator research laboratory must be located in the Midwest.

Encouraging in principle:

(a) The linking of Midwestern universities and industries.

(b) Consideration of a plan whereby a portion of the venture capital in the Midwest is systematically used to start small industries based on new technological ideas.

(c) The development of plans for the future use of Midwestern resources.

(d) The coordination and the completion as soon as possible of the interstate highway system.

(e) The review of possible new conventions of military bases on the basis of a region depending upon such bases will make the transition to civilian use efficient and with a minimum of hardship.

Adopting a resolution requesting the Interstate Commerce Commission to review transportation regulatory law and rate structure, particularly as they affect the Midwest.

Asking the Council of Midwestern Economic Development Directors to bring together a coordinating committee on Midwest transportation, representing the transportation experts and experts in depth the transportation and rate problems facing the Midwest and to work cooperatively with the Interstate Commerce Commission in their solution.

Encouraging a coordinated effort among the many modes of transportation and the various carriers so that the public may benefit from the efficiency inherent in each type.

Adopting a motion that the physically handicapped and mentally retarded be exempted from the provisions of the Fair Labor Act, provided that provision for the protection of such handicapped or retarded persons from exploitation is made.

Urging the further amendment of the federal welfare laws and regulations to permit inclusion of AFDC foster care mothers in the extension of income exemptions and stipulated that state welfare departments should not be required to document detailed expenditures.

Calling for a meeting of Midwestern Welfare Directors and Economic Development Directors to review current programs designed to employ marginal and unemployable persons and recommend to the Conference the best of such programs.

Requesting the Midwestern Welfare Directors to submit their recommendations on the implementation of welfare.

Endorsing the proposed Interstate Compact on Mentally Disabled Offenders, and suggesting its introduction in the next legislative session in each Midwestern state.

Calling for a Conference on Water Resources and Pollution. One of the prime proposals of the Conference would be to consider ways and means of consolidating the various state and local agencies involved in water resources and pollution and an efficient and effective administrative unit within each midwestern state.

Endorsing the concept of a regional nuclear energy compact.

Adopted a resolution reaffirming the action of the National Governors' Conference at its 1965 Annual Meeting in Minneapolis, Minnesota, which called for a Special Study Committee on Revenue Sources on State and Local Government.

Amending the Articles of Organization of the Midwestern Governors' Conference to provide membership for the State of Kentucky, thus increasing the Conference membership to thirteen states.

Add fertilizer sparingly to house plants this winter; a little goes a long way, say horticulture specialists. Use an analysis that is high in potassium and phosphorus.

Doctor in the House
 Finding a doctor in a night-time emergency is difficult, at best, partly because of a shortage of men in this profession.

One attempt to relieve this situation will be made next year when Michigan State University enters the medical education field. Starting with its first class in a new College of Human Medicine, it will provide training for students who drop out of full-course medical schools before the third year. Later, as the public need grows, it is likely MSU will provide its own four-year program.

Michigan is now served by medical schools at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University. The former is at capacity enrollment and Wayne officials have room for only a small number more with present staff and facilities.

Although there has been some opposition to MSU's effort to establish the first two years in medical training, officials have progressed with plans for more than two years.

The new college will utilize several existing departments at MSU, such as anatomy and physiology, and add a department of medicine to round out the course work necessary for preliminary medical education.

Original plans were aimed at opening the new unit this year, but problems in staffing, building construction and funding pushed it back a year.

"Most people in Michigan have been troubled to one degree or another in trying to secure medical care, so there's a little disagreement about the need for more doctors."

The location of the training facility has been more of an argument.

Now, however, MSU officials have completed arrangements with Sparrow Hospital in Lansing for cooperation in the various clinical training requirements.

While financing the new college may still pose some problems, the national medical school accreditation agency has given MSU enough assurance of recognition to enable university officials to seek available federal funds. They have already received indications of substantial amounts.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The folks at the country store has final found out what's wrong with the national economy. Ed Doolittle explained it to me Saturday night.

Ed brings along a magazine some feller had sent him with a piece in there marked for him to read. The name of the magazine was The Atlantic and this piece was written by a expert named Truman Moore. The piece was taking the stand that, after everything in this country was cut and dried, manufactured and sold, hauled and delivered, the farmer was the real backbone of the nation on account of nobody could eat if it wasn't for the farmer and when folks can't eat that is all she write.

Well, this feller Moore took a example from McAllen, Texas, where a truck farmer averaged $68.85 per acre for his tomato crop and then some tomatoes bring a net total of $5,000 a acre sold over the country of stores in Denver. The difference between that $5,000 and $68.85, claimed this writer, was what was wrong with the American economy and was the cause of the dot-ey-away programs and the national debt.

It could be, Mister Editor, that this feller has got a point, but you would know more about these matters than me. But I do know on the other side of the fence they was a heap of so-called farmers that ain't actual contributing nothing to the national food box but that was sharing in the hand-out benefits. Bug Hoblum, for instance, is so lazy it makes him break out in a sweat to whistle a short tune and when he gets to whistling on a piece of soft pine he breaks out in a sweat all over. He don't raise nothing but a few chickens and then his old lady has to gather the eggs. Actual, if the Government keeps insisting on taking over the farm business, they had ought to make Bug sell his chickens and take a job at the sawmill.

But Clem Webster of the Great Society was of the opinion that sooner or later the Congress would get the farm problem worked out. He claimed the day was coming when the farmer from McAllen would get more for his tomatoes and the consumer would pay less.

Clem said he could recollect one when old Vice President John Nancy Garner said that Congressmen, if they put their mind to it, could "air condition hell."

I don't know, Mister Editor, how they was on the air conditioning business but I recollect when they passed the Stabilization Act a few year ago it took 'em 7 months to stabilize prices and the steel industry come along and unstabilized 'em overnight. I got a bunch the tomato business was going to stay unstabilized a long time.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

'Literary Cavalcade,' a magazine devoted to contemporary creative literature, is used for supplementary reading in Mr. LaCoc's and Mrs. Stock's senior English classes. 'Cavalcade' has been successful in stimulating student interest in and awareness of good modern writing. Each issue of the monthly magazine contains excellent articles on preparing for college, sample quizzes from college entrance exams, and examples of award-winning high school students' creative writing.

One of the most startling and significant facts of our time is the extremely rapid pace at which scientific knowledge is being accumulated. At the current rate we will double all we know about science in the next 10 years, and since the year 1900 we have twice doubled the amount of all previous knowledge. Because of this tremendous increase in the amount of information available it becomes virtually impossible for any one person to assimilate it and to master a given field of study. Thus the emphasis on teaching what are called 'facts' has shifted to teaching the 'method' by which scientific knowledge is learned. What is a 'fact' today may be entirely false tomorrow. No doubt it was once taught in Athens high school that the sun moved around the earth and the earth was the center of the universe. But the methods of science are still based on experiment, observation, interpretation, and formation of theories or models which explain natural phenomena. This year's chemistry students are taking an entirely new approach to the subject. It is a program called CHEM Studies (Chemical Education Materials Studies).

'Paris Match' is used in Mrs. Sally Gray's French classes. It contains conversations in French (similar to articles in 'Life'). The magazine serves as a pivot for class conversations and gives the class a chance to practice speaking and reading in French. Also included in the magazine are articles on the 'French government and culture.

'Time' magazine is used in Mr. Bechtelheimer's class to give a greater awareness of current events. The magazine provides background which leads to greater understanding and awareness of how government influences our lives directly. Also to give students an appreciation of the importance of civic awareness to an effective democracy. It is used to let the students recognize their own opinions and the channels through which they may influence their desires in their country; to give them more basis for intelligent opinions and to show how past legislation influences our lives today. The textbook will be used for the basic structure and procedure in local, state, and national levels of our government.

House Tour Arranged By Friends of Dexter Library

Dexter-Chelsea residents who enjoy visiting beautiful homes have a big treat in store for them on Oct. 10.

Friends of the Dexter Library have made arrangements for viewing five star attractions on Sunday, Oct. 10, between 1 and 6 p.m. The five homes on the 1965 Country House Tour are the Eugene Young residence, 480 Tiplady Rd.; the Mary Crain Allen residence, 11764 Dexter-Pineckey Rd.; the Peter Kozlowski residence, 8680 Scully Rd.; the C. H. Dykeman residence, 8870 Morrill Rd.; and the Ralph Smith residence, 7306 Jennings Rd.

Tickets and maps of the tour route are available at the Dexter Library or from Friends of the Library board members, Mrs. Norman Wilner and Mrs. John Ayers. Information may be obtained by calling 426-4442 or 426-8387.

The five homes range from the grandiose to small and intimate, according to Mrs. Albert A. Phillips, publicity chairman. She added that each house has its own appeal and the beautiful fall colors surrounding it.

All of the homes this year are north of North Territorial Rd. Two the Young and Allen residences, are on the Dexter-Pineckey Rd. just beyond Portage Lake. The Kozlowski, Dykeman and Smith homes are between Scully Rd. and Jennings Rd. north of North Territorial Rd.

The two homes pictured belong to the Eugene Young's and the Peter Kozlowski's. Descriptions and pictures of other homes included in the tour will appear next week.

COUNTRY HOME TOUR, sponsored by the Friends of the Dexter Library, will feature five homes on the Oct. 10 tour. Pictured here are the Eugene Young residence, 480 Tiplady Rd., a 100-year-old home reminiscent of the ante-bellum South, and the Peter Kozlowski residence, 8680 Scully Rd., built in 1911 of fieldstone from the fields behind the house. Pictures and descriptions of three other houses included in the tour will appear next week.

WATERLOO

Mrs. Arthur Watz spent Sunday with her daughter and family, the Kenneth Stanfields of Stockbridge. In the afternoon they called on Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Malcho and daughter, of Dansville.

Wilbur Pluck returned Saturday from a business trip to New York and Boston.

Callers on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Rothman were a nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rothman of Indianapolis, Ind., and their son, the Rev. Everett Rothman of Benton Harbor.

NORTH FRANCISCO

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Notten and Mrs. Eva Daner called on Mrs. Eva Notten and Mrs. Leonard Loveland Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Esther Waddell was a caller one day last week of Mrs. Eva Notten.

Mrs. Loren Hinderer and daughters, Jeanne and Barbara, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Nina Wahl, Mrs. Edith Seeger, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCullough of Jackson were Sunday afternoon callers of Mrs. Wahl.

Mrs. James Clark and Mrs. Nina Wahl attended the funeral of Harold Amb at Our Lady of Fatima church at Michigan Center Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lotridge and family of Detroit called Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lehman.

Mrs. Leonard Loveland was a guest Tuesday afternoon and for supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Herrick at Cavanaugh Lake.

OLD ROSE— The rose is one of the oldest cultivated flowers. In 600 B.C., the Greek poet Sappho called this plant "queen of flowers." Cleopatra bathed in rose water, and probably slept on a mattress stuffed with rose petals.

County Hospital Auxiliary Members Plan Oct. 20 Meet

"Granny's Heels and the Wife Doctor" will be the topic of Dr. C. Howard Ross when he addresses the semi-annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Hospital Auxiliary Oct. 20 in the general dining room at the hospital.

Everyone is invited to come, meet the members of the auxiliary board, hear about plans for the year ahead to Dr. Ross and see the staff dining room, according to Mrs. Joseph C. Huston, 7048 Forest Ave., Dexter, past-president of the group.

Auxiliary trustees include Mrs. Lottay Mosher, 8505 Mast Rd., Mrs. Daniel Wheeler, 4500 Jennings Rd., both of Dexter; and Miss Ida Dattling, 1525 Jettich Rd., Mrs. Thomas Masterson, 17769 North Territorial Rd., and Mrs. Leigh Palmer, 74 Cavanaugh Lake, all of Chelsea.

The Washtenaw County Hospital serves 10,000 patients, according to Mrs. Huston. More are in boarding homes when their condition improves enough to permit release from the hospital, she added. She said the hospital is maintained by the Washtenaw County social Welfare Department.

The Auxiliary assists the hospital in numerous ways, she explained. Patients are visited regularly under a program known as the Friendly Visitors. Auxiliary members do volunteer work in arts and crafts in the Sheltered Workshop, a craft shop where patients make objects from wood and other materials, do simple jobs such as assembling and packing goods for various factories and thereby earn a little money; a Cart Service is maintained by the Auxiliary to provide candy and other extras for the patients.

In addition, the Auxiliary shops for Christmas gifts for some 150 hospital and boarding home patients and sponsors monthly birthday parties.

"Keeping the hospital open and keeping the public informed about the work of the hospital is one of our big jobs," Mrs. Huston concluded.

SALEM GROVE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schweinfurth entertained at a birthday dinner Sunday honoring the latter's sister, Mrs. Will Miles of Lansing. Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Miles; another sister, Mrs. Anna Smith of Rives Junction; and a niece and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Atkins and children, of Jackson.

The windows of leaded glass lend charm to the serene color scheme of soft green, gold and off-white, which are used throughout the house, according to Mrs. Phillips. Painted antiqued furniture appears in the dining room and master bedroom.

One of the most striking architectural details of the house is the beautiful spindled staircase leading to the four bedrooms and huge bath on the second floor. Another interesting architectural detail is the two-foot-thick fieldstone walls in the recreation room.

The master bedroom has a luxurious window-seated bay which Mrs. Kozlowski has adapted for use as a sewing area.

Male visitors will especially enjoy seeing the workshop which Kozlowski has created from a former chicken coop, Mrs. Phillips said. Thousands of nuts and bolts line the walls.

After leaving the house, visitors may drive by the scenic spring-fed pond which is around the corner on Valentine Rd. Considerable care has been put into this project, and this beauty spot affords the family with a private swimming beach and bird sanctuary. Hundreds of pine, Norwegian and Black Spruce have been planted for future landscaping.

Arrangements for showing the homes were made by Mrs. Paul Bosel and Mrs. Norman Wilner. Visitors taking the tour are invited to stop at the Dexter Library during the tour for cider and coffee. Visitors may follow any route they choose in touring the homes, which will be identified by signs.

In the event of bad weather, visitors will be asked to remove their shoes before proceeding through the homes. Visitors are also asked to refrain from smoking as a courtesy to the hostesses. The Friends of the Library also ask that no children under 12 be taken on the tour.

Fire Dept. Call . . .

The furnace started operating because of the lowering temperature. He said he called a furnace man at 8 p.m. to check and apparently everything was alright at that time; however, it is evident the furnace started again later after the lanes were closed for the night.

GreenLeaf commended Myers and the firemen for the way they handled the situation—Myers for his alertness in noticing the smoke and firemen for using the rear door for their forced entry since repair of the rear door will amount to much less than if the front doors had been damaged.

GreenLeaf said Monday that a furnace man was to check the furnace thoroughly and correct the cause of the trouble.

Opinions Differ as to Whether Teen-Agers Here Need Help

No agreement exists as to what problems Chelsea youth face, according to the Rev. Robert Livingston.

Dr. Ray Gibbons, Director of the Council for Christian Social Action of the United Church of Christ will speak Monday night, Oct. 4 to the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting and at an 8 p.m. public meeting at the First Congregational United Church of Christ, on E. Middle St.

Dr. Gibbons, an expert on helping communities organize to meet a common problem will speak to the Kiwanis on "Can We Educate for Tomorrow?"

The public meeting at 8 p.m. will emphasize the second part of the subject he has been asked to address himself to while here in Chelsea, "The Challenge of the New Learning."

Duane Schoren, president of the student council, as asked if the youth felt there were any problem areas that should get special attention during the discussion periods after Dr. Gibbons' talk. He reported no pressing need or problems voiced by the council this time. He added that two young people later suggested problems they felt were important.

A school publication, "Our Times," in its Sept. 22 edition has an article on the "Teen-Age Revolution." Both NBC and ABC are working on hour-long TV reports to the nation to be shown in October.

The steering committee for Dr. Gibbons' appearance agrees with the NBC editor who said that they didn't want to stress delinquency; but to look at the general picture. The Rev. Livingston reported. How about the ordinary teenager of average intelligence?

The Rev. Livingston reports that other researchers have discovered that teens are more or less unsettled, have serious reservations about "Adult goals, success patterns, marriage, and particularly schools." Teens think there has been a breakdown in communications between teens and adults and that adults aren't interested until vandalism and drinking reach a certain point. When they get that "choking feeling" they turn to themselves, early dating, marriage, drink, and above all, cars.

"The most universal escape mechanism of the age," NBC is filming its documentary in Lexington, Mass., and the editor says that if kids across the nation are the same, "it's bored, yearning, too worldly, too ignored, defiant, and secretly wanting to believe in life... the USA has a job to do."

In Lexington more than 1,000 people showed up at a December mass meeting to discuss the means of making Lexington more aware of its responsibilities to youth. The steering committee in Chelsea is inviting the public to a similar meeting on Monday, Oct. 4, at 8 p.m. at the Congregational church.

Steering committee includes representatives from the J.C.s, the Village Council, the Police Dept., the Kiwanis Club, The Student Council, Congregational and St. Paul's United Church of Christ, the Assembly of God church, the Catholic, and the Episcopal churches.

Communities sometimes get the complacent feeling that if things go along and are no worse than other towns, then everything is fine," the Rev. Livingston stated. "In Chelsea the steering committee believes that even one drop-out needs community help, and even one reckless driver or one vandal is important. And for every one that is known there are many unreported who will not get official punishment and correction, or official counseling and advice."

Dr. Gibbons is the head of a department with eight subdivisions who work with the more than 7,000 churches of the United Church of Christ. He has been active in helping churches mobilize for Christian Social Action for more than 20 years, first in the Congregational Denomination and now in the United Church of Christ.

His Council conducts research and stimulates action to make Christianity more effective. His experience in working with communities and churches from all parts of the country and all faiths will give his words more weight when he is in Chelsea next Monday, the Rev. Livingston added.

Community Calendar Questionnaire

All organizations in the Chelsea area are being asked to co-operate in a plan to formulate a "community calendar." Such a calendar would prove a convenience in planning future projects so that conflicting meetings or events would not be set for the same dates.

Every community club, church group and organization is asked to fill out the form below and mail it at once to The Chelsea Standard, 300 N. Main St.

A mimeographed copy of all the events scheduled will be mailed to each group responding. It is hoped that this will help each group to organize its own program to better advantage.

Woman's Club Hears Address on Camp Crile Goals

Lloyd Thompson, president of the Michigan Society for Epileptic Children and manager of the society's Camp Crile on Joslin Lake, Rd., was the guest speaker at the Women's Club meeting Tuesday evening at McKean Memorial Library.

Extension Specialist Will Discuss 'Relationships With Older Parents'

One of the least discussed areas of family life is the relationship between the middle and older generations of a family. And yet, as our population grows...

such a way that meaningful and satisfying relations for both generations are established? What is involved in building these relationships?

The group decided to compile a letter to the state representative expressing feelings about this legislation. The group will show ample concern and try to tell him "Why We Like Extension."

Thompson related the history of the Michigan Society for Epileptic Children and the camp north of Chelsea; the aims and purposes of the society in meeting the needs of children afflicted with epilepsy; and future plans for the camp.

Among the specific questions to which the meeting will be addressed is the matter of responsibilities between generations. What, for example, are the responsibilities of adult children for their parents? In turn, how can older parents relate to adult children in a primary cause of home plant failure, so the sure to water them less frequently during fall and winter, say horticulturalists.

Overwatering is a primary cause of home plant failure, so the sure to water them less frequently during fall and winter, say horticulturalists.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 14 at the home of Mrs. Earl Tison with Mrs. Mylin Leach assisting.

The search for truth is the highest form of human endeavor. We believe most people are ready for autumn this year.

Michigan's spectacular autumn color show is nearing its peak in the Upper Peninsula, according to the Michigan Tourist Council. U.P. colors are expected to be at their best during the next week to 10 days.

Some color is also reported in northern lower Michigan forests as the foliage change continues southward across the state. Color in southern reaches of the state is expected to reach its peak in mid to late October.

Free copies of the Michigan Autumn Color Tour Guide, featuring 24 color tours throughout the state, may be obtained by writing the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, 48926.

Indicative of the broadened family and sports appeal of the 1966 Fairlane is the new model selection — four series instead of two and 13 models instead of eight. The two new Fairlane series — the Fairlane 500XL and the Fairlane GT — are available in convertible and 2-door hardtop models designed for sports- and luxury-oriented customers. Exports May Double In Next Two Decades

Last January — A long-time importer has predicted that exports will double by 1985 for the major American firms now selling about one-fourth of their products overseas.

Writing in the current issue of Business Topics, a Michigan State University publication, Bryan Test of New York City says that manufacturers will find that the major profitable growth areas in the world are moving toward more trade unhindered by boundary restrictions.

Get Introduction to American Rural Life

Last January — Foreign students at Michigan State University have a chance to experience American rural living first-hand through the efforts of a group of hospitable families.

The group, called the Christian Rural Hospitality Council (CRHC) is a fellowship of rural families who want to promote better international understanding. Through 600 families in 45 communities throughout the Saginaw Valley and Thumb areas of Michigan, the council provides weekend visits by MSU foreign students to rural homes.

Rockwell-Standard Acquires Texas-Based Firm in Merger

Dallas, Tex. — The Murray Company of Texas, Inc., has announced a merger arrangement with Rockwell-Standard Corp., Pittsburgh, Pa., a major manufacturer of truck, bus and automobile components, filters and business aircraft.

Murray, a leading producer of cotton ginning equipment, also makes a wide variety of gears stocked and sold by a national network of distributors.

Murray's board of directors approved the merger arrangement today and called a special stockholders meeting to vote on it. The meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 29 at 10 a.m. at Murray's general offices.

J. Kirby McDonough, chairman of the board of Murray, said the merger would be accomplished in three stages. First, the Murray board today declared a five-percent stock dividend to increase the number of shares in the hands of Murray shareholders. All of Murray's assets would be exchanged for approximately 1,070,000 shares of Rockwell-Standard common stock. The Murray Company would then be liquidated, with its shareholders receiving the Rockwell-Standard stock on a ratio of one share of Rockwell-Standard for one share of Murray.

The stock dividend is payable Oct. 15, to shareholders of record on Sept. 15.

"The board of directors of Murray believe that Murray, its employees and shareholders would benefit substantially from a merger with Rockwell-Standard, an expanding, aggressive company with strong financial resources, varied engineering and marketing talent and other services that only a large company can provide," McDonough commented. "Our shareholders would gain participation in the rapidly growing truck, business aircraft and filters markets in which Rockwell-Standard is a major factor."

W. F. Rockwell, Jr., president of Rockwell-Standard, said, "This is another step to expand and strengthen Rockwell-Standard through diversification into products and markets that are completely different from our existing fields of operation. The highly respected names of Boston gears and Murray cotton gins are compatible with the Rockwell-Standard tradition of quality products."

Rockwell-Standard has had an investment in Murray stock since 1958 and now holds approximately 20 percent of Murray's stock.

Murray common stock is traded over the counter. Rockwell-Standard common is traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Neither company has any other class of stock nor any long-term debt.

In the five years, 1960-1964, Rockwell-Standard sales increased 45 percent, to $361,618,000, and profits increased 92 percent, to $24,929,000. For the first half of this year the company reported sales of $214,283,000 against 192,017,000 a year earlier, and profit of $14,753,000 or $1.31 a share, up from $1.13 for the first half of 1964.

The Murray Co. of Texas had sales of $44,500,000 in 1964, a 12 percent increase over 1963, and profit of $3,068,882 or $3 a share, an increase of 23 percent. The company reported 1965 first-half sales of $24,146,000, up six percent, and earnings of $1,500,350, a 12 percent gain over the same period of 1964.

Rockwell-Standard, with total assets of $223,013,000, has 23 plants in the United States and 17 affiliates in foreign countries.

Murray has assets of $30,377,761. Its divisions consist of the Cotton Division at Dallas, the Boston Gear Works Division at Quincy, Mass., the Carver Cotton Gin Co. at East Bridgewater, Mass., which makes linters and lint room equipment, and the Compressed Steel Shafting Co., Hilde Park, Mass. Murray also has subsidiaries in Canada and Mexico.

1965 Corn Loan Rates Announced

County price support loan and purchase rates for 1965-crop corn based on $1.05 per bushel national average price have been announced by USDA. County rates for 1964-crop corn were based on $1.10 per bushel national average price.

Price support is guaranteed only to producers who signed up under the Feed-Grain Program for 1965. Producers who signed in the Feed Grain Program also received a price support payment when the diversion payments were made.

County price support loan rates will be for 1965-crop corn grading No. 3, or No. 4 on the factor of test weight only, but otherwise grading No. 3 except for moisture. Premiums and discounts for other grades and qualities remain unchanged from those in effect in 1964.

The price support program for corn will be carried out through farm and warehouse-stored loans, purchases and price support payments. Loans will be based on eligible actual production. Loans will mature July 31, 1966.

CARS VS. SCHOOL GRADES
Houston, Tex. — Waltrip High school recently ran a grade survey on their 2,000 students. Of the 210 students who owned cars, none averaged an A, only 30 averaged a B and of the 15 dropouts 12 owned cars.
