MEMORIAL CORNERSTONE DEDICATION

This was the scene Sunday at the service of dedication of the cornerstone at the new St. Paul's church which is under construction on Old US-12, east of S. Main St. The congregation first attended a service at the present church on E. Summit St. at which the Rev. Gilbert Weidman of Chicago was the speaker, and then went to the new church site for the cornerstone dedication. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Warner H. Siebert, is shown at center, officiating at the dedication. At left, next to the pastor, is Charles Lancaster, chairman of the cornerstone committee, and on the other side of the pastor is J. Raymond Setz, a member of the committee.

The two men participated in the dedication service on behalf of the entire cornerstone committee — Mrs. Emma Setz, Mrs. Lowell Davison, (Martha), Mrs. Waldo Kusterer (Katharine), Harold Widmayer and Jack Weidman. The installation is not the customary outside wall cornerstone — it is placed in the floor of the narthex of the new church and includes the 1965 stone as well as the original 1868 cornerstone and the material added when the present church was built in 1892. Sunday's cornerstone ceremony concluded the centennial observance of the founding of St. Paul's congregation.

E. Leigh Beach, 76, supervisor of Lima township for almost 39 years, died Sunday afternoon at his home, 10410 Chelsea-Dexter Rd.

Although he had been in failing health for several months he had continued to carry out the duties of his office.

Duane D. Luick, Lima township clerk serving his second term in office, said yesterday, "I'm sure I speak for the entire Lima township board in expressing my admiration for Mr. Beach—his vast knowledge of every phase of township business and the 'know-how' about procedures for any matters which came before the board are well known, not only to us on the board but to everyone who found it necessary to contact him regarding township matters. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him."

Elected in 1927, Beach had served continuously until the time of his death. He was named chairman of the Board of Supervisors in 1940, 1949 and 1950. During his years in office he had served at one time or another on practically every standing committee of the Board.

Kiwanians Serve 425 at Pancake Supper

A total of 425 persons were served "all the panaceas and sausage" they wanted at the annual Kiwanis pancake supper Monday evening. The supper took place at the Chelsea High school cafeteria.

All Kiwanians work at the supper and proceeds are used for the club's community service projects. Key club members assisted by carrying trays for the patrons and returning the trays to the cafeteria counter.

The Key club at Chelsea High school was formed under sponsorship of the Chelsea Kiwanis club.

UNICEF Collection in Chelsea Area Totals $187.99

United Church Women of the Chelsea Area, sponsors of the UNICEF project here, have completed their evaluation of the program and submitted the committee's report.

Mrs. William Travis, general chairman, said success of the project was the result of cooperation of the members of the steering committee, the children and parents who participated in the annual Halloween collection of coins during their "trick or treat" visits among neighbors and friends; and the many others who took part.

The committee's report stated that total contributions this year amount to $187.99 and that 110 children participated.

Among others commended by the steering committee are the young people of the Luther League of Zion Lutheran church whose efforts accounted for $71.70 of the total received.

Also recognized are seven young people and their accompanying adult, Mrs. Jay (Betty) Hopkins of the North Lake Methodist church, who received contributions of $23.35 to add to the Chelsea area fund.

Mrs. Travis said "the committee feels that the many young participants reflect the degree of community-wide adult interest and it is hoped that a more extensive educational program will result in even greater participation at Halloween time next year."

Mrs. William Travis, too, that the members of the steering committee and their respective churches were a great help. She expressed appreciation for their efforts as well as the efforts of all who helped in any way.

The librarians at McKune Memorial Library assisted greatly, the committee pointed out; they distributed the official UNICEF boxes and listed the names of the children who received them.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

By Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken
I am pleased to have the opportunity to write this column while Governor Romney is traveling in Japan.

Last week I vetoed three bills—one on supplemental aid to education, one providing tax relief for senior citizens, and one increasing the veterans' homestead exemption.

Since Michigan has a $135 million surplus, it is only reasonable to expect that some, or perhaps many, people will say that another $10 million, added to an $84 million surplus, would be a prudent, already approved for next year, is not unreasonable.

Well, this might be true, except for two factors: (1) we already have substantial programs in all three of these areas; and (2) that $135 million surplus is melting rapidly and will be gone within two years unless we provide additional revenue. The legislature, so far, has refused to take up fiscal reform, even though bi-partisan experts and leaders of both political parties have said such increases must come if the state is to continue to meet its responsibilities.

The legislature, earlier this year, passed a bill, signed by Governor Romney granting tax relief to senior citizen homeowners. The legislature should have taken care of centers at the same time, and raised the money to pay for it, but they didn't.

From a technical point of view there were many problems. Also, people who rent mobile homes would not have been covered because the Attorney General has ruled that mobile homes don't come under the ad valorem tax. And furthermore, in the case of married couples, both had to be over 55 years of age. So if you had a husband who was 67 and a wife who was 62, it would be three years before they were able to qualify.

As for disabled veterans, they are receiving help now on their taxes. Briefly, they were getting substantial help; then, in 1964, the amount of this tax relief was reduced considerably and the present bill would restore some of that. Unquestionably, there are strong arguments for the bill, but once again it's a matter of money.

I also want to point out that many disabled veterans are this year being given additional tax relief through enactment of the senior citizen tax exemption law. In 1964, 43 percent of all claims paid under the current veterans' homestead tax exemption law were paid to veterans age 65 years or older. They are therefore entitled to the new exemptions permitted under the senior citizens' homestead tax act.

We have raised state support for higher education to more than $200 million. The $12 million we're talking about now would have provided extra money for the present enrollment that was greater than had been anticipated by the colleges.

But good planning for higher education necessarily involves taking into account the desirable size of institutions, the balance of students among all types of institutions, including community colleges and other factors. The bill I vetoed, and Governor Romney vetoed earlier, would in effect, underwrite the cost of enrollment beyond previous estimates, undercut future planning, and encourage the haphazard development of higher education which we are trying to correct.

On the more positive side I vetoed 18 bills last week and will veto more this week. Among these were a half dozen bills designed to significantly revise our programs of social welfare and medical care of the aged. For example, we approved the merger of county boards of social aid with county departments of social welfare, increased the state support of local welfare programs, broadened the application of nursing home care under the Kerr-Mills program, and made ourselves eligible for federal matching funds. The result of all these steps will be about $85 million extra in federal aid and over $7 million in savings to county government at a net cost to the state of about $700,000. This certainly is a good investment for the taxpayers throughout Michigan.

Governor Romney and I discussed these bills very carefully and we were in complete accord as to the action which has been taken. It would be inappropriate for me, in his absence, to give him the credit, or the blame, for these votes. I am acting in his stead, and the action taken completely reflects my own views.

Regardless of possible political consequences, we cannot permit large deficits and a possible financial crisis to darken Michigan's reputation again.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Two Tests

Church-state separation questions arose twice in the 1965 legislative session.

One involved Michigan's Amish community which wants to educate its children with its own teachers, who necessarily lack the requirements for state certification. Since Amish believe in no more than an eighth grade education, their teachers do not meet state standards.

The legislature took no action on this but left the matter to the State Board of Education, which said the religiously-oriented people must send their children to a proper school.

The second question brought the lawmakers in more deeply. A law was passed, called the school auxiliary services law, which apparently will now go through a full court test on the question of constitutionality.

At issue is the provision of state funds to local school districts which furnish a number of non-instructional services to private schools. Among these services might be street crossing guards, bus service, or special counselors for handicapped children.

The question of constitutional validity was raised even while the bill was in the early debate stage, but proponents urged this be left to the courts to decide.

Legislators on both sides of the question thought they could satisfy all by specifying that their intent was to assist children as citizens rather than give public aid to religious groups which operate schools.

By requiring school districts to supply these non-instructional services to private institutions if they are provided to public schools, many lives were stepped on.

A court test on constitutional grounds could easily put this bill aside for a long time.

Tighter Traffic Law

The better part of the mountain of laws enacted this year will not become effective until some time next March, some 90 days after the session is formally adjourned in December.

Headline-getting legislation was just a small percentage of laws, most of which took effect immediately upon signature by the Governor.

Previous to the next session, some attention will be given to the other measures such as an important change in the motor vehicle code.

Reckless driving has long been a serious charge under the law and will remain so. In many cases it was difficult to prove and enforcement officers held back except in instances of serious injury accidents or repeated law violations.

This year the legislature decided to carve a mid-step in the traffic code to provide an offense to be known as careless driving. It will describe violations—essentially similar to reckless driving but of lesser degree of severity.

In the law careless driving is defined as operating a vehicle on a highway or other public place, including parking lots, in a careless or negligent manner or without the use of ordinary caution and prudence.

To distinguish between the two, reckless driving is defined as driving "in willful or wanton disregard for the safety of persons or property."

Whether the definitions will ease the difficulty of proof is very questionable, but lawmakers saw the change as a means of meeting more situations with greater equity.

A reckless driving conviction carries a mandatory minimum maximum jail or fine sentence of 5-90 days or $25-$100. The maximums set under the careless driving law.

ing section are the same, but no minimum penalties are set.

It happens every year and this is no exception. Michigan skiers again will have more winter resorts to choose from, than ever before.

This year some 87 winter sports centers open will keep Michigan high on the state rankings in terms of ski area numbers.

Estimates are that the number of persons using the facilities for skiing, ice fishing, skating, tobogganing and sledding will also reach a new record.

Pre-season count last year was 85 winter sports areas in Michigan. This year the list shows three new centers, two which will be in their first full season, and two others are opening after being closed for several years.

Most areas of long standing seem to be increasing in business volume, as evidenced by several major expansion projects to add slopes, instruction programs, convenience equipment, eating facilities and lodging places.

Going into the 1966 season, 50 of the centers will be open daily; 42 will feature night skiing; 38 have snow-making equipment; and nearly all have some type of eating facilities. The lure to learn is also great. Equipment can be rented at 65 cents and 61 offer expert instruction.

The expansion of this business has been state-wide. There are now

Whitmore Lake

BTS Investigation

Making Progress

The investigation of conditions at the Whitmore Lake Boys Training School by the Department of Social Services, undertaken upon the urging of Representative Thomas G. Sharpe (R-Honolulu), is continuing.

Representative Sharpe, who has been keeping in close touch with R. Bernard Houston, Department Director, indicated that the number of walkways in October was considerably less than those in September. "However," commented Rep. Sharpe, "the investigation is far from completed."

"The reports we have received to date," commented Sharpe, "have revealed several factors contributing to the problem, including: (1) Lack of adequate connection between the administrative staff and staff to establish discipline."

(2) Problem of food preparation and transportation (meals are prepared in one location and transported, over rough roads to the dining area—procedure also resulting in meals which appear unappetizing but palatable).

(3) Inadequate recreational facilities.

(4) Inadequate textbooks and library facilities.

(5) Lack of adequate window reinforcement to prevent escape. Although the investigation has not been completed, Sharpe said that Social Service Department officials are continuing to refer reports and compile information which will ultimately lead to taking the proper corrective measures.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, Education for the children of all the people constitutes one of America's noblest contributions to civilization;

WHEREAS, Time and experience have demonstrated that universal education is essential to national progress;

WHEREAS, Education contributes not only to the development of a fuller and more useful life for the individual citizen but also to the safeguarding of the freedoms and ideals which we cherish as Americans;

AND WHEREAS, The setting aside of a special education week each year provides a fitting opportunity for the public generally to visit schools, colleges, and other educational institutions, to express their appreciation of the work of our teachers and school officials, and to exchange views upon educational problems and progress;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Howard Haselschwardt, President of Chelsea, do hereby designate Nov. 7-13, 1965, as American Education Week and urge all citizens to enter fully into its observance in order to demonstrate their appreciation of the work of our teachers, and to show their active support for every program designed to improve our schools and colleges, and to think of education not only in terms of its cost but also as the means to develop the greatest abilities of all our citizens.

THE LETTERBOX

Tuesday (Nov. 9) the Girl Scouts of Troop 47 went home with notes reading "Due to the poor co-operation of the parents, the trip to Saline Valley Farms, has been cancelled."

I imagine that the first thing that the 80 percent of parents who made no effort to attend said was "how disgusting of the leaders, to disappoint our daughters like this." Just who do they think they are? Well, the leaders are thinking the same thing of you!

The reason this trip was planned in the first place is as follows: the girls must have an overnight in a lodge before they are allowed to camp. Think of the leaders who are taking 22 girls on this overnight. Some of you have never seen us, yet you would pay $1.25 and send your daughter to stay 24 hours as far away as Saline. How do you know what kind of people we are? — because we are Girl Scout Leaders!

True it was the mothers we asked to attend but your fathers are just as much to blame, you could have insisted they go, or perhaps you could have offered to sit with the rest of the family, but did you do it?

It is not the fault of the leaders for not taking the girls, it is your fault as parents. We have younger children at home, why should we take our time from them and hire baby-sitters to care for them until their fathers get home when you won't spend one hour a year for your own children? "You didn't feel well," you say or perhaps "I had a sick child at home," or perhaps "I work all day." Well, we had a mother there who has seven children, one of which had mumps, the husband works nights and she belongs to a club which also meets on Thursday nights, yet she came! We had another mother who had been on her feet working in a hospital 10 hours, plus getting dinner for the family, but she came. We had another mother who had been working and came as the others were leaving, but she did come. Then on the other hand, we have a mother who hasn't been to a meeting for the four years her daughter has been in our troop. I wonder what her excuse is?

This is not the only troop that has this kind of co-operation, the Girl Scouts, Brownies, Boy Scouts, and Cub Scouts parents as well as other organizations are getting the very same co-operation. We are not baby-sitters, we are mother and fathers with exactly the same problems you have, yet we are trying to make it possible for your children to belong to these very worthwhile organizations, but how long can they continue without your co-operation? We not only do not get paid for these jobs, it costs us $1.00 for registration and insurance, but we use our own cars, also maintenance, for instance, two-thirds of a day was spent at Saline Valley Farms checking details.

If you simply didn't think it was worth your time and energy, why not ask some of the five mothers who did come? We outlined the whole program for the coming year, had refreshments, which was taken from the troop treasury and also spent several hours cleaning up the meeting room. If you had even called us to explain it might have helped. Now do you still wonder why we cancelled the trip?

Michigan Nurse Week Proclaimed By Governor

"Accent on the Michigan Nurse" is the theme of the week beginning Nov. 7 and extending through Nov. 13. The week has been proclaimed as Michigan Nurse Week by Gov. George Romney.

In issuing the proclamation, Gov. Romney said: "Nurses in our community and throughout the state are constantly striving to give us and our loved ones better patient care. We ask a great deal of nurses today. They must possess many complex skills. They need the interest and co-operation of every citizen to meet the challenges of the future. Join Michigan's nurses in their efforts to give our people the finest health care possible."

U-M Geography Students To Tour Mill Creek Area

A group of graduate students from the University of Michigan geography department will tour the Mill Creek area Saturday afternoon, Nov. 13. These students will be involved in an extensive study of the geography of the Mill Creek basin during the spring semester. John Trustad, local representative of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, will serve as tour guide.

The Mill Creek Research Council is assisting with arrangements for the trip which will begin at Harry Denham home on W. Liberty Rd.

The evening of Dec. 7 has been selected by the Mill Creek Research Council as the date of a very important meeting for area residents, according to a council spokesman.

Another meeting of local interest is the Huron River Watershed Council meeting to be Dec. 2.

HALF-PAST TEEN

IN THE OPEN

By Lee Smits

Nowadays few people can think in terms of rods and acres. A small town kid, just a little beyond the extreme effective range of his Zulu shotgun, price $8.50. He knew that four acres would serve as a playing field for one old cat, the Little League baseball of that era.

To visualize 65,000 acres, the extent of the Seney National Wildlife Refuge in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan—would be too much to ask of an average town person. The area includes marsh, ponds, creeks, canals, bogs and swamp, impenetrable in places. The twisting Manistique river cuts across the southeast corner with a system of sloughs and bays that would baffle Daniel Boone.

Throughout the refuge there are islands of relatively high ground, patches of lofty pine, thick growths of spruce. The Seney Refuge is a northern approximation of the Everglades, an inviolate wilderness, established 30 years ago and administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the United States Department of the Interior.

It was my privilege to be associated with Ding Darling, who was chief of the Biological Survey which established the Seney Refuge. FDR, who appointed Ding, an ardent Republican, said of the refuge program: "Ding and his muskrats are costing a lot of money."

What would have delighted Ding Darling is a breeding population of a species of Canada goose that had been regarded as extinct, the giant "maxima." John Hakala, refuge manager, has weighted geese during banding operations that went to 14 pounds in relatively poor condition. In winter plumage, with a normal amount of fat, these birds might weigh as much as 18 pounds—or even 20—twice the weight of the common Canada goose.

The refuge produces large numbers of a rather unusual duck, the ring-bill, in between the divers and the dabblers, a species whose nesting in northern Michigan ponds was revealed by Dr. M. D. Pirnie not too many years ago. Rafts of 7,000 to 8,000 ring-bill form on refuge ponds in late fall. Bird books say of the ring-bill "seen in flocks of 20 to 50."

Also breeding on the refuge are numerous black ducks, together with mallard, bluewing teal, wood duck, widgion, mergansers, sandhill crane, ruffed grouse, sharp-

All Boys Want To Get Married!

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "Help me if you can! I am just a plain, ordinary girl, so why do I have this problem and what can I do? I don't have many dates, but when I do, I seem every guy I date falls in love with me. It happens every time. After about three dates they begin to talk marriage. I am only seventeen

I think I had better leave them all alone. Please help me!"
OUR REPLY: A line of girls from here to Shanghai would like to trade places with you. What's your problem? Do you think you "hurt" a boy when you tell him you don't love him and don't want to get married? Would you marry every boy that asked you (if it were legal) rather than hurt his feelings?
You have no problem, unless you lead boys along, giving them the idea you are more serious than you are, and then chop them down when it pleases you to do so. You are wrong if you give the current boy any hope when you have no intentions of marrying him, even if he waited ten years. Be honest with him. Tell him marriage just isn't in your present plans.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

State Leads In Fight To Control TB

Ann Arbor — A physician at the University of Michigan Medical Center praises the State Legislature for "taking a lead" in tuberculosis control. Dr. Winthrop N. Davey, Professor of Internal Medicine, says Michigan is pioneering in granting county aid to check and convalescing TB patients.

"This aid could prevent TB relapses and save precious hospital space," says Dr. Davey. The $200,000 aid follows years of county recommendations and—in particular—reports from the Surgeon General's National Task Force of Tuberculosis to which Dr. Davey was appointed in 1963.

Michigan now spends almost as much on tuberculosis treatment as does the Federal Government. According to State Health Commissioner Dr. Albert E. Heustis, the state's share of the cost of TB hospitalization is over $12 million this year. Dr. Davey said the Federal Government program totals only $15 million.

Dr. Heustis said, the $300,000 will be allocated on the basis of $6 for each visit by a public health nurse to a convalescing TB patient's home, or for each visit by a patient to a TB clinic.

"If, by intensive follow-up care of all discharged TB patients, we can prevent reactivation of their disease, it would be possible to reduce the hospital case load by one-fourth," Dr. Heustis said.

Twenty years ago, the U-M Medical Center began pioneering achievements in the TB control. Here, in 1945, Dr. John Adcock made the initial clinical studies of streptomycin. Streptomycin is one of the three drugs discovered in the last 20 years to fight tuberculosis. (The other two are isoniazid and PAS.)

"These drugs, in combination with higher standards of living, have reduced the average hospital stay of TB patients from 3 years to 8 months or less since 1950," Dr. Davey said. "University Hospital has reduced its TB ward from 98 to 25 beds since 1940 and sanatoriums in Detroit, Howell, and Gaylord have been closed due to the continuing decrease in hospital days for tuberculosis patients."

Following the more rapid recovery and release of patients from tuberculosis hospitals, county health departments have had to assume the "follow-up" care of these TB convalescents. To these counties will go the $300,000 aid, said Dr. Davey.

A home's heating system accounts for 8 to 10 per cent of its value. That's just one reason why it should be checked periodically to make sure it's in good working condition. Another is the fact that the efficient system uses fuel most economically — and, of course, offers the optimum in comfort.

Peace Corps Test Slated Nov. 13 In Ann Arbor

Area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 13 at the Civil Service Room, U. S. Post Office, Downtown Station, 220 N. Main St., Ann Arbor.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. (If test scores indicate a limited language-learning ability, for example, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking country.) The placement test requires no preparation and is non-competitive—an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of Volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

Northbelt Bypass Opens to Traffic

Lansing — The State Highway Commission today announced that a dedication ceremony will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, Nov. 12, in Ann Arbor to mark the opening to traffic of Freeway M-14 (Ann Arbor Bypass) in Washtenaw county.

Sponsoring and participating in the dedication are the Washtenaw County Road Commission, the City of Ann Arbor, the University of Michigan and the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce. A staff member of the Michigan State Highway Department has been scheduled to deliver the opening address.

The 3.5-mile segment of M-14 was constructed at a cost of more than $4.5 million. It is designed to carry traffic around the City of Ann Arbor from I-94 on the west to existing M-14 on the east.

Law Students Help in Legal Aid Clinic

Ann Arbor — University of Michigan law students are doing their part for "The Great Society" — putting their knowledge to work to staff the first legal aid clinic in Michigan.

More than 125 juniors and seniors are volunteering their time and services to help local indigent citizens with their legal problems.

The clinic, located in downtown Ann Arbor, is the first since the Michigan Supreme Court passed a rule last summer enabling law students to advise indigent persons when supervised by practicing attorneys.

The Law School is co-operating in the new project with the Washtenaw County Bar Association. Lawyers from Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, working the Law School faculty, played a key role in getting the rule passed.

Students responded generously, formed the Michigan Law School Legal Aid Association and selected a student executive committee.

Committee chairman George Newman, senior law student, believes there are three reasons why so many students have volunteered to spend at least two hours a week at the clinic—helping the poor with their legal problems.

First, the scope of the Supreme Court ruling of last July 13. "The breadth of this rule could enable the students to render a substantially broader kind of legal aid than in most states," he points out.

In addition to allowing students to advise, the rule permits them to negotiate and appear in the courts in civil and criminal matters involving indigent persons under the guidance of attorneys and with approval of the judge.

The second factor is the opportunity which work gives students to work in the field. "Students are pretty hungry for some kind of bread-and-butter experience," says Newman. "They will get it in the clinic."

Then there is the public service aspect. Charles Patterson, law student in charge of membership in the Legal Aid Association, told fellow students: "You won't get any gold-embossed plaque, but it's going to be tremendously rewarding. . . 7 in social work, you'll be accomplishing something valuable."

This expression was made by the Supreme Court itself, in announcing the rule. The Court stated it was enacting "for this clinic and others which may be developed elsewhere 'because it is important to society to provide adequate legal service for all persons.'"

Asst. professor James J. White, who co-ordinates the students' participation in the clinic, has hopes that it will become significant for law students as the Law Review now is. And the clinic service is open to more students, since superior academic achievement is not a criteria.

The law students volunteering for clinic service will, however, be required to receive extra instruction in Michigan civil and criminal law procedures. This extra instruction will be supplemented with lectures by local attorneys covering practical problems and situations the students may face.

Association members serve the legal aid clinic under auspices of the Washtenaw County Legal Aid, chartered as the official supervisory body for operation of the clinic, spearheaded by attorneys of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and the U-M Law School.

College Students Do 'Good Turn'

The tables were turned and the Boy Scouts received a "good turn" from some 95 students of the University of Michigan.

The college fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, sent their members to Camp Newkirk near Dexter and the Brum Lake Scout camp last Saturday for several hours of hard work in the form of a "good turn."

The SAES painted buildings, moved railroad ties for a rifle range backstop, transplanted trees, and many other jobs. One student topped and assisted in taking down many dead elm trees that were becoming a hazard for the camp.

Schuler Proposes Restaurant, Motel Near Ann Arbor

Plans for an Ann Arbor Restaurant and Motel complex were announced last week by Michael E. Hurst, executive vice-president of Win Schuler's, Inc. The proposed site at the corner of Plymouth Rd. and US-24 must be annexed by the City of Ann Arbor and zoned accordingly if the Schuler plans are to be carried out. An application for this annexation and zoning has been filed. A request for a license has been discussed with City Officials. Formal application will be made once annexation is completed.

Details of the plans will be announced later. It was announced that construction was expected to start in early 1944 with completion scheduled within a year.

ON STEELWORKERS' PAY

Government figures show that the Labor Day settlement made the steelworker the highest paid industrial employee in the nation by nearly one dollar an hour. The average straight time hourly earnings is $8.46 per hour.

SHIFT CHANGE

The reason ship bells ring every half hour is because in the old sailing days helmsmen were changed at this interval. The bells were rung to call the new man to duty.

Romans Paved the Way for Today's Modern Highways

America's awesome road system would not impress Julius Caesar, the Apostles Peter and Paul, or any Romans of 2,000 years ago. The Romans built 53,000 miles of highway stretching from Rome to the English Channel, linking all parts of Britain, and driving deep into Africa and Asia. Thousands of miles of their roads still are used.

Even the cost of today's super-highways, which range from $350,000 to $1 million a mile would not surprise the Romans. The Appian Way, still in use in Italy, cost the equivalent of $300,000 a mile.

In building roads, the Romans used whatever hard materials were near at hand: hard lava set on a bed of gravel (as for the Appian Way), stone blocks, flints, iron slag, pebbles. They were 15 feet wide, cambered, and with drainage ditches. Road beds were sometimes three to four feet deep, a practice that would cost too much today, for experts use 15 to 18 inches of roadway today.

Driving licenses were issued in ancient Rome. The fee was based on axle loads, much as trucks today are taxed. Roman law required that inns be established along highways, from six to 13 miles apart. Larger places were put up every 25 miles, usually near public baths.

Traffic congestion was a problem long before the mass production of automobiles. Julius Caesar once banned all parking in Rome's business district.

They had road maps and guidebooks, which furnished information on historical sites and natural wonders. The roads were well marked by signs giving mileage.

Grass Fires Keep Fire Dept. Busy

Grass fires and an overheated furnace kept the Chelsea Fire Department busy during the past week.

Two trucks were dispatched Nov. 3 to put out several small grass fires that started along the railroad tracks between Chelsea and Dexter. The call came at 1:22 p.m. and fire was burning in eight or 10 spots, according to Fire Chief James Gaken. The fire fighters were gone about an hour and a half. According to Chief Gaken, the Dexter Fire Department was busy fighting fires along the railroad tracks on the other side of Dexter at the same time.

At 11:05 a.m. on Nov. 5 the fire department was called to extinguish a fire on Cavanaugh Lake Rd. near the railroad tracks. Later the same afternoon an overheated oil furnace at Cavanaugh Lake resulted in a small fire at the home of Dick Schell. Chief Gaken said no damage was listed as a result of the fire.

Plans Completed For St. Mary's Public Fall Dinner

Plans for St. Mary's annual fall dinner are going full speed ahead, according to Mrs. Edward Orlovski, ticket chairman.

All indications point to a full house, she said, but due to a new method of serving the tickets will not be sold at the door. The dinner will be served at Chelsea High school cafeteria.

This year tickets are being sold for three dinner hours at 12 noon, 1 and 2 p.m. This method is being tried to eliminate standing and waiting. Mrs. Orlovski said she will be happy to fill any ticket orders up to Saturday.

The menu includes roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberry salad, cabbage salad, french green beans, rolls and butter and a variety of pies.

There was a time, not too many years ago, when Labor Day marked the end of the Michigan vacation season.

Today the holiday marks the beginning of an appealing time for the many people who have vacation time left and are not affected by the school bell.

Michigan in autumn is a perfect vacation spot for the sight-seer, the photographer, the camper, the fisherman and hunter.

Float trips or canoe trips down some of the state's 3,000 miles of rivers and streams take on an traveler will be passing under multi-colored "honey arches" that turn the road into a tunnel of lights.

Another popular tour, far from the beaten tourist trails along Michigan 72, down the beautiful A. Sabel River Valley from Graylyn to the Lake Huron shore. After the way there are as many sights, attractions as the fun.

Mason Chapel, the shrine of the Lady of the Wounds at Mio is the Lumberman's Monument.

In southeastern Michigan visitors in autumn have a variety added flavor as the tree-lined shores turn from green to gold, red, brown and scarlet.

Fall foliage, of course, adds to the enjoyment of the season but there are many reasons why the months of September, October and November have a great deal to offer Michigan vacationers and week-end visitors.

Warm days and cool nights combine with attractions that are less crowded and accommodations which offer lower rates to make the season a valuable extension of summer.

Sight-seeing in the famous Keweenaw Peninsula of Michigan's Upper Peninsula is making an Huron or a trip to the historic Irish Hills area on the old peninsula road between Detroit and Chicago.

Autumn campers get an added bonus in Michigan with less crowded campgrounds and longer time limits, 45 days in one park or resort.

Full moon festivals and harvest friendliness add to the joys of the season and assure a variety of activity for week-end guests and vacationers.

Don't miss it! Contact your turn attraction, travelers along Brockway Mountain Drive gaze over thousands of acres of lake-dotted forest lands. A similar view awaits the visitor to the Porcupine Mountains, a short drive to the south.

Crossing the famous Mackinac Bridge, headed south, the autumn visitor can add to his Michigan vacation enjoyment by taking one of the many side trips the northern lower peninsula has to offer. A particularly popular trip leads from the village of Levering on U.S. 81 to Cross Village and then on Michigan 181 around the western curve of the northwest lower Autumn color fans may also subscribe to the Tomato Coast color reporting service which keeps tabs on the changing foliage.

Just A Minute...

By the Rev. James A. Craig

Looking serenely from the cover of a magazine is a man who has been considered a modern saint. His presence in the world was noted, though not often noticed. His absence is felt, not expressed. Hidden in a remote corner of a continent, often criticized, often praised, often glamorized, he was only sincere. More than anything else it was that sincerity that touched people around the world. He didn't look for anything for himself. And we admire that. He didn't advertise himself. And we admire that. He didn't want us to make any more of his choice than what it was. There was a place in the world where he was needed more than anywhere else. There was a place in the world where the God in whom he believed needed his skill. His life. He found his place. Many of the rest of us are still looking.

His name? Albert Schweitzer. His legacy? Life willing to serve is worth living. Jesus put it to a young man once when he said "go and sell all that you have and come and follow me." And you?

SUNDAY'S SERMON

SAY A PRAYER

When your world is darkest and despair rules for the moment, don't give up. Don't turn and walk away. Say a prayer. Lift your eyes up from the floor. Look trouble in the eye, and pray.

What kind of prayer? Choose your own. Speak to God, and God will listen. Don't be too proud to ask for help. Admit any mistake you may have made. Ask for a ray of light and you'll find a glimmer of hope. Know that God is forgiving; that God understands and does not ask too much of us. We are, after all, only human. We make mistakes. We do wrong sometimes unintentionally. So let us learn. Let us recognize weakness and failure, in ourselves and in others. At the same time, let us keep faith, and with it, hope. Prayer is the answer. It is not the last resort; do not use it as such. Pray because you believe.

BIBLE VERSE TO STUDY

"In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace; and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote."

1. Where is this verse found in the Bible?
2. Who was the king?
3. What was he doing at the time?
4. Who interpreted the writing? (Answers elsewhere on this page)

THE COUNTRY PULPIT

A "Modern" Girl Tells Her Sad Story

"Once I was an innocent, beautiful, virtuous, ambitious, religious girl. I went to school and had lofty ideals or doing big things in life. I hoped some day to have a good husband and a happy home."

"I loved my church; I believed my Bible; I went to Sunday School; I was inspired to help the needy. I was much loved and admired by many friends."

"Then, from other folks whom I thought to be my friends, too, I was made to believe that my happiness depended on being 'smart'; and that only popularity, pleasure and a sporty life was ideal; and was told that 'everybody was doing it.'"

SHE BECAME A "MODERN" GIRL.

"After hearing the cigarette ads on the radio, seeing them in the magazines and on TV, and watching my so-called friends indulging, I, too, was influenced to smoke, and got a 'kick' out of sitting in public places puffing smoke in other people's faces."

"Having lost my desire to go to church, to be with Christian folk, I went with the crowds to the dance halls, the road houses, the beer gardens and to the cocktail rooms."

"I soon became brazen enough to call for a drink at the bar. Sober, I learned to gamble, played the races and had many after midnight dates."

"Now I have had my fling. I have been a modern girl. I have had my personal liberty. My virtue is gone; my religion is gone; my beauty is gone; my pride is gone."

THE WAGES OF SIN.

"Here I am, an ugly, bleary-eyed, blotch-faced, cigarette-smoking, half-crazy, drunken sot. I have repented everything that was good, noble, refined, beautiful, moral and spiritual in my life."

"The few friends I have are as miserable as I am. My body is diseased, my heart broken; my noble ideals crushed; my motherly instincts dead; my good family name disgraced; my character ruined; my ambition gone, and my soul is lost."

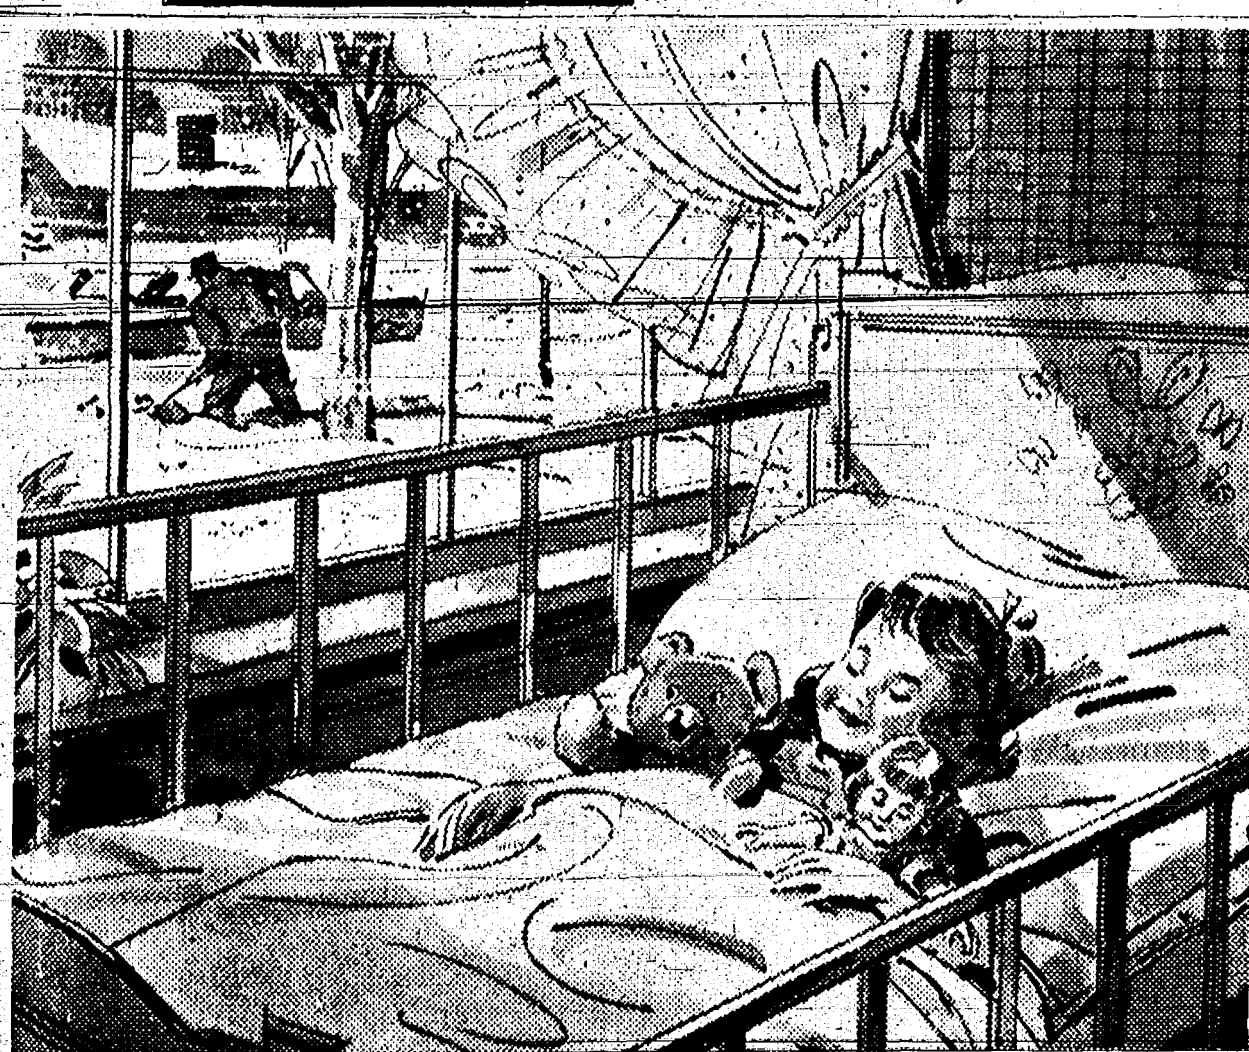

"My past is evil; my present is hell; and my future is dark. Here I am waiting for death to end it all, for I am nothing now but just a miserable wreck."

No one need remain a "miserable wretch" and a "lost soul." Jesus Christ came to "seek and to save the lost" (Luke 19:10) and can make the vilest sinner "a new creature" (II Corinthians 5:17).

4-H Clubs

The meeting Saturday of White Awake 4-H club was called to order by the president, Char Powers. Flieg pledges were said, led by Carolyn Wenk and Holly Powers. There was an attendance of 13.

The minutes were read and a correction was made on how much dues are to be. They are to be 50 cents.

The programs for the 1966-67 year were distributed and discussed and the hostesses for each meeting were chosen.

On Nov. 27 there will be a workshop. The girls are divided so that some go to Mrs. Hinders home and some to Mrs. Powers home.

Marilyn Hinders gave a demonstration on styles which look good on different sizes of people. Elaine Bristle gave a demonstration on how to choose colors to go with the wearer's complexion, hair color and eye color. Pieces of material were held up to different people and discussed as to whether they looked well or not.

Initiation of new members took place and then refreshments were served by Cindy Nahaas and Nancy Koemeter. The meeting will be held Dec. 4 at Elaine and Eileen Bristle's home.

Rhonda Kern, secretary.

THE LANSING REPORT

FROM

GIL BURSLEY

What is a VETO? And how does this relate to the Dec. 9 session of the legislature in Lansing?

A bill which is disapproved by the Governor is vetoed. These procedures are all carefully spelled out in the Michigan Constitution. A bill which is passed by the Senate with at least 20 affirmative votes and by the House with at least 50 affirmative votes is then presented to the Governor for consideration. He has 14 days in which to act. If he signs the bill it becomes law. If he takes no action during the 14 days it still becomes law without his signature. If he disapproves the bill within the 14-day period he then returns it with his veto message back to the legislature. This disapproval process is a veto.

It is possible to enact a bill into law in spite of the Governor's objections. To do this 2-3 of the Senators elected and serving and 2-3 of the Representatives elected and serving must vote again in favor of the legislation. This means a minimum of 20 Senate votes and 74 House votes. This is called "overriding the veto."

Currently there are 23 Democrats in the Senate and 74 in the House so some Republican votes will be necessary to override a veto.

During the first six months of the 1965 session about 400 bills were signed into law but Governor Romney vetoed 21 bills and appropriation measures in 2 other bills.

During the fall session another half dozen bills have been vetoed. So far no vetoed bills have been overridden by the legislature in 1965.

Three measures passed by the legislature during the fall session which called for expenditures—or loss of revenue—amounting to 10 to 15 million dollars annually were vetoed by Acting Governor Milliken and will be considered at the Dec. 9 session of the legislature.

One of these bills involving $8 million dollars—at a minimum—provided for cash payments back to senior citizen renters. Another law has already provided for senior citizen homestead owners. The veto message listed administrative imperfections and defects in the bill and suggested following the recommendations on the same subject made by the Pelham Committee last spring. The basic reason for the veto, however, and this applied to the other two measures as well, was the threat posed to the state's fiscal solvency.

The legislature this fall presumably returned to consider fiscal reform that would raise revenues. Instead it passed bills spending more money. By 1967 Michigan will be facing a fiscal crisis if no action is taken to curb spending or to raise revenues. Accordingly the Governor vetoed new spending measures.

The same basic reasoning was included in the message disapproving the Veteran's Homestead Tax Exemption bill and the bill giving more money to universities for taking more students than they had planned and budgeted for.

There is merit to each of these measures individually but legislators must think of the best interest of the state as a whole. And at the present time I would think that reason and common sense are on the side of the Governor in his veto position.

Supermarket in

Germany Shows Shopping Trend

The way housewives will shop in the near future is already being practiced in West Germany.

There, a housewife cannot squeeze the tomatoes, rummage through a pile of packaged sirloins, compare the weight of one carton of eggs with another, or haggle over the price of bacon. Is the manager looking behind the cereal boxes?

No! The supermarket is fully automated, and everything is displayed behind glass. The customer enters by pressing a button which releases a turnstile and presents her with a "shopping token."

Inside, she wanders among machines displaying their wares. When she wants to buy something, she drops the token into a vending machine and presses a button. The machine delivers the goods and returns the token suitably marked. When the housewife leaves she drops the token into a payment slot and receives her bill. She puts the money into another machine which gives change.

Gone are temperamental clerks, shopping temptations, coupons, salesmanship, and the welcome sights and smells of future meals. But maybe there will be a machine to paste those trading stamps for the signal-sated shopper.

The hard work of other people often explains the success of other men.

Christmas Stamp Now Available At Post Office

Chelsea Postmaster Richard Schaules advises that the new Christmas 5-cent postage stamps are now on sale at the Chelsea Post Office on a first come, first serve basis.

The new holiday design is printed on sheets of 100 stamps, and it is suggested the special stamps be used on the envelopes in which Christmas cards are mailed. Cards mailed with 5-cent postage will receive first class handling. This includes forwarding as well as return to sender if the card is undeliverable and if the sender's return address appears on the envelope.

Postmaster Schaules also pointed out that it would be greatly appreciated if patrons would "mail early," and make use of zip code on greeting cards, gift parcels and special delivery or special handling parcels.

Cancer education films are also available on request for showing to interested groups.

Mrs. Karner is also co-operating with the Cancer Society in its sale of Christmas cards. Anyone interested may contact her.

TROOP 47—

Troop 47 of the Girl Scouts met in the Municipal Building Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 4 p.m. Because only five mothers came to the meeting, the Saline Valley Farms camping trip has been cancelled.

The leaders sent home notes to explain this to the parents.

The girls are going to work on the ToyMaker Badge as a troop badge. "Spool dolls" may be made by the troop.

Ann Murray brought treats and the Home Badge. The sixth grade patrol gave a part of the Hospitality Badge.

Demand Continues for U-M Business School Graduates

Ann Arbor — Demand — the best tribute a quality product can receive — continues high for degree recipients from the University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration.

At Michigan, visits from business and industry recruiters usually outnumber the available graduates.

During the past academic year more than 300 top companies sent recruiters to the U-M Business School. They scheduled more than 450 visits during the placement program in which 204 of the school's 243 candidates for the master of business administration (MBA) degree took part, as did 60 of the 172 candidates for the bachelor of business administration (BBA) degree.

Starting salaries for MBA graduates ranged as high as $14,500 per month, with the median at $700. Salaries for BBA candidates ranged up to $725 per month, with median at $590.

A. S. Hann, director of placement activities for the U-M Business School, compiled these figures. He said the most active recruitment during the year took place in the fields of accounting, banking, corporate finance, marketing, actuarial science, and quantitative methods. Demand tends to far outrun the supply of graduates in these areas, he added.

Hann said that an estimated 160 companies are expected to recruit Business School students this fall, indicating no decline from last year's record levels in terms of number of companies, number of interviews, students participating, job placements, and salaries offered.

He noted another trend toward increased numbers of MBA candidates. "The MBA degree is highly attractive to students now. Business is attaching increasing importance to the advanced degree in some cases to the degree that companies will not give people while they are still undergraduates and trace their progress through graduate school."

Hann said that less than half of the BBA candidates at Michigan register for placement. A majority of them continue their education, mainly at the U-M, until they earn MBA degrees. Last year the figure was 77 percent. This year it may reach 85 percent, he said.

Business School Dean Floyd A. Bond commented that "the blue ribbon character of companies that make annual recruitment visits to our campus underlines the strong reputation that the U-M Graduate School of Business Administration enjoys in the nation's business circles."

He pointed to the increase in the Business School enrollment, the high quality of its students, unsurpassed placement opportunities, and a faculty and curriculum of the highest order as among the school's marks of excellence.

What do the future business leaders look for when seeking a position? Again last year the placement office made a study of factors determining job selection by the school's graduates. At the top of the list for both MBA and BBA candidates was "type of work," while "opportunity for future growth" ranked second.

MBA candidates put "salary level" in third place, followed by "type of people" and "location."

BBA candidates ranked "location" third possibly due to desire

Welfare Merger Act Will Save Money for County

The passage of the Welfare Merger Bill, signed by Acting Governor William Milliken recently, will result in a savings for Washtenaw county, through the blending of the county social welfare and state social aid agencies, Senator Gilbert E. Bursley reported to his district today.

On the basis of the expenditures for the past 12 month period, ending June, 1965, Washtenaw county would have received $80,390.48, Senator Bursley noted.

The changes of the allocation formula from 30-70 percent to 40-60 percent would have increased Washtenaw county's money from $115,092.82 to $195,483.30. The new Act, effective Oct. 1, 1965, provides for matching funds of 40 percent direct relief, administrative and not operating costs of medical care facilities.

The Act further provides, Senator Bursley said, that with the state-county agency merger, if a county spent more than 1 mill of its assessed valuation on welfare, the state and federal government will assume all costs beyond that amount.

A literal application of the new formula in counties with costs exceeding 1 mill would probably result in a decrease, but the law is permissive which allows the state to pay more where local economic conditions warrant. Thus social welfare departments will pay more than 40 percent, so that the county would not have reduction in state funds, Senator Bursley said.

Total welfare costs in Washtenaw county, according to information received by Senator Bursley during the consideration of the bill, amounted to $488,708.26.
