Chelsea High Will Host Band Event

Out of 65 possible locations, Chelsea has been chosen as the site for the fifth annual All-Star Band. This event will take place Feb. 19-20, and is sponsored by the Lansing Conservatory of Music.

Two bands, one composed of students from class AA, A and B, and another from Class C and D, will participate. Students are nominated by their directors and chosen by an impartial committee.

Patricia festival ratings determine how many students will represent their individual schools. Chelsea will be represented in the Class A, AA and B band by five instrumentalists.

Selected students from all classes will meet at Chelsea High school Saturday, Jan. 22, to try out for approximate seating positions in the two bands.

The two bands, each having 100 members, will have separate guest conductors and guest soloists. Guest conductors will be Ronald Gregory, director of bands at Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind., and Norman Dietz from Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant, Leonard Falcone, director of Michigan State University.

Bands in East Lansing will be one of the guest soloists. Also scheduled to appear as soloists are a professional flutist and a percussionist.

On the week-end of the event, the 200 musicians will try out for final seating positions and rehearse all day Saturday, Feb. 19. A short party will be provided on Saturday evening before the students go to the homes of Chelsea band members.

On Sunday morning, brief instrumental clinics and final rehearsals will take place before the students and band members are taken to local churches for worship services.

A banquet for All-Star Band members, band directors and guests will precede a concert in the high school gymnasium at 4 p.m. Sunday. Following the concert, all the bands and directors will return to their homes.

Chelsea will be represented by Kington, flute; Carolyn Wilkerson, flute; Marianne Edwards, bassoon; Dave Blaess, trombone; and John Collins, baritone.

Knitting Class To Start Sessions Next Wednesday

A 10-week knitting class under the sponsorship of the Chelsea Area Recreation Commission will begin Wednesday, Jan. 19. Persons interested may register by calling Commission Director Alan Conklin at 475-5151.

The class will be taught by Mrs. Clara Ewald and will meet in the High school home economics room at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday evening for the next 10 weeks. The two-hour sessions will include both beginning and advanced knitting. Two classes may be formed if enough persons are interested in the course.

The fee for the 10-week class, $7.50, may be paid at the first session of the class on Jan. 19. The Modern Math for Parents class which started last week has 28 persons enrolled.

Another class of physical education for men which meets on Wednesday evenings in the Junior High gym has also gotten off to a good start, but Director Conklin reports that there is still room in the class for others who are interested.

Bulldog Cage Team Sunk By Dexter

In a rematch of the final game of the Christmas Holiday Tournament the Dexter Dreadnaughts overwhelmed the Chelsea Bulldogs 72-49, to make their record 6-1 for the season. Chelsea's record is now 4-4.

Friday night the Bulldogs will travel to Lincoln to play the Rail Splitters once again. The two teams met before in the Christmas tournament with the Bulldogs coming out on top 38-28. Both are 1-2 in Southwestern Conference play.

Superior shooting—44 percent to 22 percent, and rebounding, 36 to 23, gave the Dreadnaughts the victory. The Dreadnaughts hit for 23 of 50 shots from the field and 20 of 41 free throw attempts. All the Bulldogs could manage was 15 of 66 shots from the field and 19 of 38 from the foul line.

The Bulldogs opened up with a revised line-up due to a severe ankle injury sustained by guard Tom Wojcik in practice earlier in the week. Junior Kim Flintoft took over Wojcik's position and Tom Kern, another junior, started at a forward position to provide the Bulldogs with some outside shooting necessary to break the Dexter zone defense.

Dexter opened the game by moving to a 17-12 first quarter lead. Most of the Chelsea scoring came from Mike Tarasow, with six, and David Clark, with four. Earl Miller scored nine for Dexter on five foul shots. Miller continued to be a thorn in the Bulldogs' side the entire evening as he scored 27 points—15 of the points on foul shots.

It was evident that the Bulldog zone defense was not doing the job it was designed to do as Dexter scored all of its points inside the foul line. It was the hope of the Bulldogs to be able to pre-

Junior Varsity Wins Thriller From Dexter

The Chelsea Junior Varsity clinched up its second win in five starts with a thrilling 61-50 victory over the Dexter Dreadnaughts last Friday.

Trailing 47-34 with 22 seconds left, the Little Bulldogs collected four points in the next 12 seconds and then held off the Dreadnaughts' attempt to score to save the victory.

John Liksey dumped in two free throws to put the game on ice after Jack Risner had brought Chelsea within one point with a pair of free throws.

The game was close all the way with Chelsea trailing 14-16 at the end of the first quarter, leading 29-27 at half-time, and leading 37-36 at the end of the third quarter.

Jack Risner led the scoring with 10 points on seven field goals and five free throws. John Liksey dumped in 17, Larry Gaken 7, Ken Blaess 6, and Jim Boham 2. Danny Hoy led the Dexter scoring with 19 points.

The Bulldogs out-rebounded the Dreadnaughts—35 to 29. Larry Gaken turned in a fine performance by grabbing 16 rebounds while John Liksey gathered in 8. Risner 4, John Freeman 4, Jim Boham 2, and Jim Lyveria 1.

The next game will pit the Bulldogs against the Ypsilanti Lincoln Rail Splitters Friday (tomorrow) at Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Bure Hospitalized

Mrs. Mary Bure of 315 Wilkins Ave. suffered a stroke on Jan. 2 and has been a patient at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor since that time. Although she cannot have telephone calls or visitors, cards and letters are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. David Colquhoun of Chelsea were Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hamp.

Mrs. Elmer Haub is a patient at Foote Hospital, Jackson.

Manchester Dumps Dull Bulldog Team

After leading at half-time, 41-40, the Chelsea Bulldogs blew a game Tuesday night to the visitors, the Manchester Flying Dutchmen. Final score was 87-76.

Manchester rolled in 25 points in the third quarter to Chelsea's 12 to take a commanding 65-53 lead going into the final stanza.

Poor rebounding and shooting in the third quarter spelled doom for the Bulldogs, as Manchester hit 11 of 15 shots to surge ahead.

Terrible shooting by Chelsea from the free throw lane may have been the deciding factor in the game. The Chelseaites managed to hit only 16 of 38 attempts, while Manchester scored 23 of 36. 52 fouls were called in the wild game, 26 on each team. Both teams

Although the primary system was to go into effect in the 1960 (Continued on page six)

Senior Citizen Tax Relief Help Offered

Sylvan Township Supervisor Maurice Hoffman and Chelsea Village Assessor Thomas Smith will be at the Korner House on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 18 and Jan. 25 to help persons over 65 fill out their senior citizens tax exemption papers.

Assessor Smith emphasized that if persons are eligible for the relief but fail to fill out the proper papers, they will have to pay the full village and township taxes. The tax relief will amount to approximately $20 in township taxes and $10 in village taxes.

Smith also emphasized that local townships and villages will not lose this tax money but will be reimbursed by the state. The tax exemption is not a lien on the property of senior citizens in any way, Smith added.

The forms must be filled out, notarized, and signed by Hoffman and Smith. The deadline for filing the forms is March 1, but due to the rush of business in February, persons desiring help are urged to come to the Korner House on Jan. 18 and 25.

The national goal this year is $22 million.

She pointed out that Washtenaw County received more than $388,000 last year in National Foundation funds for work at the University Hospital and the School of Public Health.

The national goal this year is $22 million.

Understanding your HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director
 Michigan Department of Public Health

Some babies may become mentally retarded from prenatal feeding. This bizarre and almost unbelievable statement is fact—an unhappy fact for about one out of every 20,000 babies born right here in Michigan.

The disease involved has a whopping name—phenylketonuria. It's an inherited defect in the body's chemical processes. Because of the difficulty in pronouncing the scientific name, the disease is usually known simply as PKU.

PKU infants' bodies have inherited from their parents an inability to digest certain protein substances contained in everyday foods. Although the parents are not directly affected with the condition they pass on defective genes to the infant.

As a result, a toxic amino acid accumulates in the baby's body. It is the excess of this amino acid called phenylalanine that causes permanent mental retardation. Only by avoiding foods containing this substance—and that includes meat, milk, eggs, cheese, biscuits and such—can the PKU child be saved from progressive retardation.

We at the state health department are actively involved in helping to solve both the problems of recognizing PKU infants and the problem of safely feeding the youngsters to prevent the disease from occurring.

The disease can be recognized by a special blood test about two days after the baby begins his normal feedings. The test involves taking just a drop of blood, collected in a special way from a pin-prick on the infant's heel. Blood samples are then sent to the state health department for analysis without charge.

Michigan law requires that the physician in charge of the birth of each baby see that a PKU test is done and report the results of the test to the child's parents or guardian.

Once a PKU child has been tentatively identified in this screening program, the diagnosis must be confirmed by further testing. The problem of this special diet is then worked out which enables the child to develop normally and outgrow the abnormality.

In any situation where the doctor advises us that the family needs help in obtaining the special foods, the health department provides the special diet to the family.

K. L. Hallenbeck Cited for Work in Recreation Field

The former Washtenaw County Road Commission manager, Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, was among the six southern Michigan residents cited for exceptional service to the field of recreation by members of the Recreation Association of Michigan (RAM) at their annual meeting ending Jan. 7 in Lansing.

Hallenbeck has been director of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority since 1951. He is well-known throughout the United States because of his work with the Authority and has appeared as a speaker at many local, state and national conferences on roads, tourism, forestry, parks and recreation.

He joined the Washtenaw County Road Commission in Ann Arbor in 1921 and successfully served as its chief clerk, deputy clerk and superintendent-manager.

The Special Award Citation given to Hallenbeck noted that since becoming director in 1951, he has capably directed the regional park authority, serving the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne in developing one of the finest park systems in the United States.

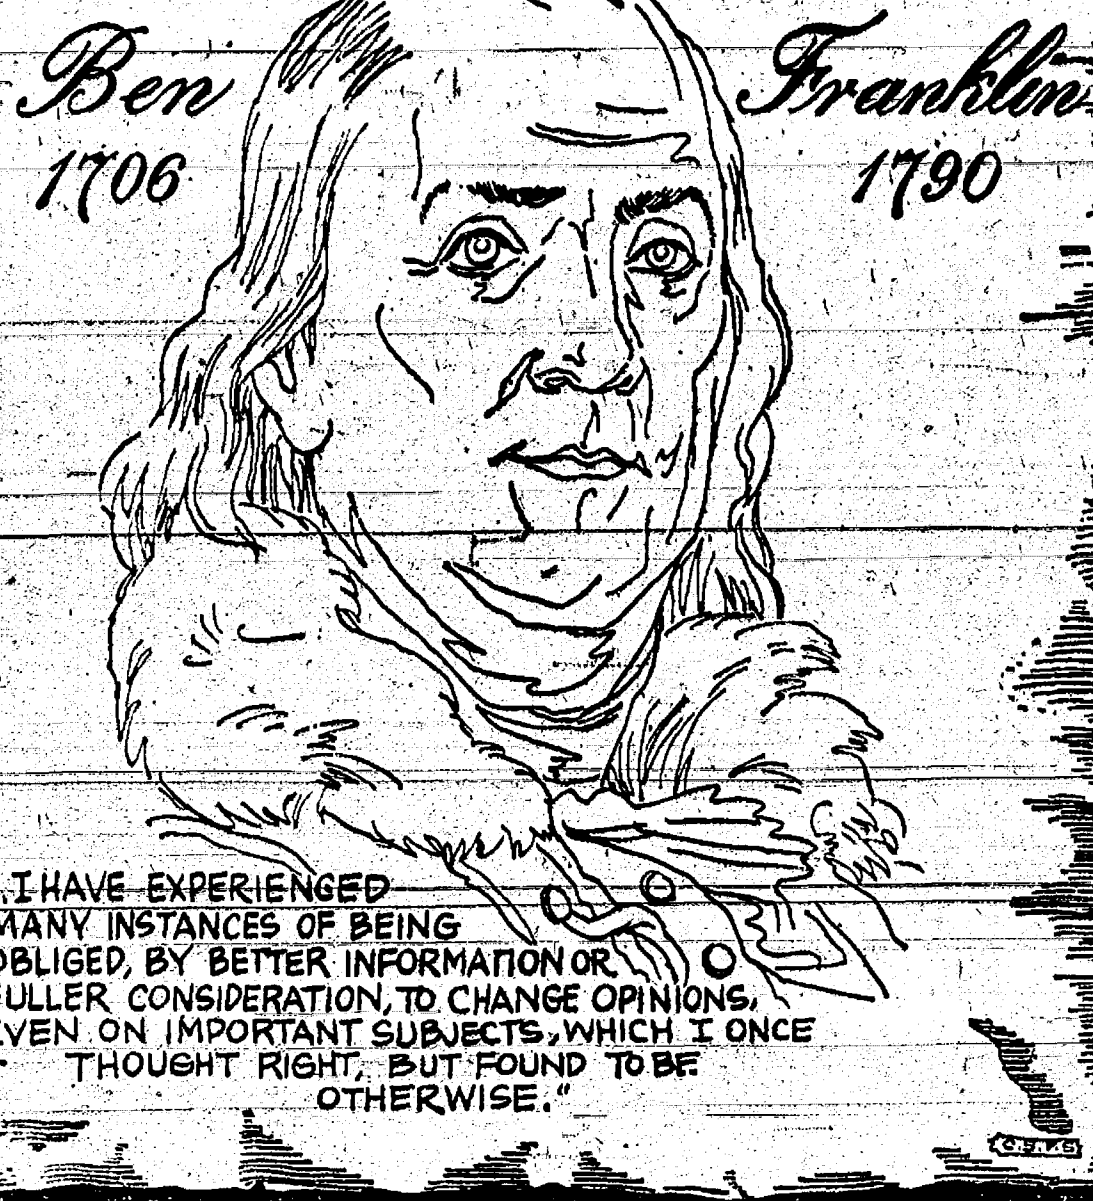

The RAM has built eight parks in the Huron-Clinton climatic valleys, including the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Area and serving more than four million persons.

The largest parks of the Authority include Metropolitan Park along Lake St. Clair near Mt. Clemens, Stoney Creek Metropolitan Park north of Utica, Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford, Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park near Dexter and Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville.

Fred Merrill, chairman of the RAM awards committee, stated that these awards are given annually on the basis of experience in the recreation of parks, field service in the local, state or national level and exceptional contributions to the recreation profession. Fellowship Awards are given only to RAM members and Special Awards are presented to nonmembers who have also made a significant contribution to Michigan recreation. Merrill, a Mt. Clemens resident, is recreation supervisor at the UAW-Retired Workers Center in Northwest Detroit.

Political Roundup

Long legislative sessions are getting to be the rule rather than the exception, but the 1965 meeting came close to some records. This year, lawmakers say they will get their work done before summer starts. In an election year a short session is always the aim but it has not always been achieved.

Historical statisticians note that last year's 126-day session was the second longest in the past 50 years, surpassed only by the cash crisis meetings of 1959.

In terms of productivity, last year's activity put more new laws on the books than were enacted in a single session since 1919 when legislators passed 432 acts in 82 days. Last year 419 acts, including three local ones, were put on the books.

In six of nine election years since 1948 the legislature has met in either extended sessions or held special meetings for specific purposes.

Current valuation would indicate both the Republicans and Democrats will try their best to stick with the present plan for a short session.

Democrats face the two-headed monstrous problem of opposing Gov. George Romney in his anticipated bid for a third term while keeping party peace by avoiding a potential fight over the U. S. Senate nomination.

Republicans will look for a strong campaign to put Romney back in the executive office by an even bigger vote than he pulled against the national Johnson slide. They also admit an uphill battle in attempting to get back some of the legislative seats lost in the 1964 tally.

Finally, if legislative apportionment is changed again, new districts will make both parties' jobs that much tougher as a new territory is more difficult to gauge.

Crime Rate Up

Recent emphasis by law enforcement officials throughout the state on a concentrated battle against crime has been well-timed to coincide with the start of the 1966 legislative session.

The discussions have involved a wide range of ideas, including a central clearing house on crime-fighting programs, state support of policemen's pay, and uniform police training standards.

Crime is on the increase in Michigan (and the nation). About this there is no doubt. Figures just recently compiled for 1964 showed a rate of 1,393.6 major offenses per 100,000 population, a 12 percent boost over 1963.

Prosperity is blamed by some for part of the increase. When prosperity is high, the criminal element sees more opportunity for activity and crime appeals to more individuals.

Others cite declining moral values, usually also linked to economic well-being and changing times, as largely responsible for the rise in crime rates.

They support this by showing the change in age levels of the criminals. In 1964 more than 77 percent of the major offenses were committed by persons 21 years old or younger.

Michigan's healthy $136 million surplus is now expected to be essentially intact at the end of the current fiscal year because of constantly rising revenue income.

With this in view, the various law enforcement agencies and officials, with chief spokesman Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley in Lansing, will surely be looking to the legislature for funds and regulatory methods to attempt to stop the rising crime rate.

Traveling Frogs

Michigan's Historymobile went into winter hibernation late in 1965 but will be back on the road this spring taking its colorful story to additional thousands of state residents.

Solan Weeks, director of the Michigan Historical Commission museum, said the first year of the display unit was considered a worthwhile venture.

The three-fold purpose of the mobile unit is to stimulate interest in Michigan's heritage, publicize the museum resources of the state, and acquaint the general citizenry with local history.

Developed through co-operation of a number of businesses with 14 Michigan museums, the Historymobile is visited by local historical society members.

The 19 exhibits included in the 1965 presentation portrayed the state's development from the time when mastodons roamed the state, through the French and British eras, the territorial years and eventual development into the present industrial status.

Motorists Urged

To Buy Plates Now

Lansing — Now that the holidays are over and the things getting back to normal routine, Secretary of State James M. Hare is entreating all vehicle owners who still have not purchased 1966 plates to do so in early January if possible.

"There are going to be plenty of distraught, angry persons in late February when Michigan faces a rush period like we've never seen before," Hare said.

He noted that license sales are taking longer this year because of collections for the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, in some instances up to three times as long.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

"I'll soon be 70 years since I came into this world and as we get going for 1966 I look back on the changes and agree with Ed Dooley that we ain't handled a heap of them right."

Per instant ways of spreading news and getting acquainted with others has gone all the way from two women talking over the back yard fence to bouncing pictures off one of them things they got anchored in court. And the more we learn about one another, the harder it seems for us to get along together.

I bring this matter up at the country store Saturday night and Zeke Grubb was of the opinion of it all. He said he could recall when his next meal came from the garden patch, canned fruit and vegetables in the pantry, the chicken coop and the cow over in the pasture. But now, claimed Zeke, farmers and ranchers won't eat much that is home grown. They grow it and raise it, sell it and buy it back after it's been purified, pasteurized, homogenized, vitamin-enriched, condensed, cooked, froze, preserved and filled with chemicals to keep it fresh tasting. It has got to the place, allowed Zeke, where peanut butter ain't even made out of peanuts no more.

Clem Webster was agreed with Zeke, said he was reading in his pamphlet from the Department of Agriculture where American farmers could raise enough to feed the world and still go fishing two days a week, but they won't eat what they raise. A feller would think, claimed Clem, that bread was bread and milk was milk, but ever bakery and ever dairy made 'em different. Take that Irish potato, for instant, said Clem. A farmer sells 'em by the bushel, then he buys 'em back in little sellofane packs, all sliced up and fresh frozen. He pays more for a peck of potatoes in the store than he got for 5 bushel in the field.

Bug Hookum was lamenting he had saw a piece in the Farm Journal saying agriculture production has went up 50 per cent in the last 35 years, but the farmer and rancher profits has gone down 10 per cent in the last 15 years. He claimed things has got to the point where farmers and ranchers got to sell what they raise and buy it back to keep the money spread out and going round to keep the country moving.

They ain't nothing in this world, Mister Editor, that can git as wet as the crying towel when the fellers at the store git together. Personal, I didn't say too much for the record on account of my old lady says she can buy a hen already killed, cleaned and cut up cheaper than she can bulldoze me into helping her raise her own.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Gelman Featured in Time Story on Young Millionaires

A recent feature in Time, the nationally known magazine, featuring the story of young millionaires, has placed Charles Gelman, 33, of Chelsea, in a position of particular interest to the magazine's readers.

Gelman, who is one of the youngest of the young millionaires, is featured in the magazine as a "millionaire under 40." He is the son of a prominent businessman and has built up a fortune of nearly $100,000 in a matter of a few years.

Gelman's success is attributed to his early start in business and his ability to identify and exploit market opportunities. He began his career in the real estate business and has since expanded into other ventures, including the development of a large commercial building in Chelsea.

The magazine's story on Gelman highlights his remarkable rise from a young man with no significant assets to a man who has accumulated a substantial fortune. It also touches on the challenges he has faced and the lessons he has learned along the way.

Koch Sentenced on Charge Of Illegal Spring Device

Grover Koch, 70, part owner of the Windmill Trout Pond at 6040 Wulsh Rd., Dexter, and a life-long resident of the area, received a sentence in Circuit Court on Jan. 12 of $55 fine and court costs of $400. In addition, he was placed on probation for two years.

Sentencing came after a three-day trial which ended Dec. 10. The jury deliberated a little over an hour before convicting Koch of setting a spring electrical device causing an explosion and leaving the device without any competent person present, a violation of Michigan law.

In handing down the sentence, Judge William F. Ager, Jr., told Koch that the statute prohibits any type of spring trap device, regardless of its intent.

Grover Koch's problems began early last summer, when his trout pond was broken into and vandalized twice. The latest theft and vandalism occurred in June, when Washtenaw County Sheriff's officers arrested 11 Wayne youths on charges ranging from simple larceny to carrying concealed weapons.

The young men had broken into a concession stand at the Windmill Trout Pond, stolen fishing tackle and caught fish from the pond with the stolen gear.

Because of the burglaries, Koch was prompted to set a "warning alarm" system to alert him to the presence of vandals. Testifying in his own defense at his trial, Koch said he did not set it with intent to harm any person or property but felt justified in protecting his property in the light of past incidents.

Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Casper H. Kast refuted the defense plea of no intent to harm by quoting the law which provides that "prior burglaries, trespass or depredation do not justify the owner or occupant of land in resorting to the use of spring explosive devices to prevent the repetition of such burglaries or other acts."

The warning system which Koch devised consisted of a pair of buried heavy-duty wires leading to the windmill building from where dynamite was planted in a swampy area 50 feet away. Inside the building one wire led to an electric outlet and the other to a spring device on the door and on a window.

Sheriff's deputies Terry Helgren and Robert George Shaw discovered the system on July 15 at approximately 11 p.m. during a routine patrol of the premises. Helgren, who lives at 3245 Broad St. in Dexter explained that because the stand had been broken into before, the sheriff's office was making routine patrols of the area.

In a preliminary hearing, Helgren explained that the door "looked suspicious." He explained that his partner, Robert Shaw, took the shotgun out and covered him from the far side of the pond car as he proceeded to the door. Helgren said he flashed his flashlight around the area, and when closer I got I was sure that somebody had broken into the trout pond, so I walked up to the door and put my hand in this little latch there to pull the door out with...

he would get another gun or something and try to—and there was no—there was no—just to save the situation, we took him just as he was."

At the time of his arrest, three sheriff's officers, including the Sheriff, were present. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koch, Grover Koch's grandson with whom he makes his home, were vacationing in Tawas when the incident occurred.

The official weather report states that the temperature was 53 degrees on the evening of July 15. Koch said that he was not given any clothing until a jail attendant brought him a pair of coveralls at about 5 a.m. the next morning and that he was not provided with any blankets during the chilly evening. Koch said that a prisoner at the jail offered his shoes to him.

In an interview, Koch stated that he requested permission to call his son, Walter Koch of Ann Arbor, at 5 a.m. the next morning, before Walter left for work. Permission was denied and the younger Koch heard about the incident on the radio as he was leaving for work.

Mrs. Robert Koch was also disturbed because her home was left open and the dog unsecured for, despite the vandalism that had previously occurred on the property.

Koch was booked on two counts: assault with a dangerous weapon, a felony, and setting a trap operated by an explosive, a high misdemeanor. The first charge was later dropped.

Helgren testified that Koch, who will be 80 in April, was transported to the Washtenaw County Jail wearing only his pajamas and no shoes. Koch said that he requested permission to dress first, but that permission was denied.

When questioned at the July 6 hearing, Helgren said that the reason Koch was transported to the jail in his pajamas was because he had already "walked all the way down there in his bare feet" approximately the 200 yards in his pajamas, he wasn't worried about how he was dressed. I mean, he considered it warm enough, and the other fact is I didn't know if Mrs. Koch, if his wife was in the house, if we would take Mr. Koch back he would get in a big ruckus there with the family and maybe

Congressman Wes VIVIAN

Reports from WASHINGTON

For many months now, the Atomic Energy Commission of the United States Government has been preparing to select a site at which a major scientific laboratory for the study of nuclear physics would be established. A giant proton accelerator would be constructed at the laboratory. Much interest and excitement has been generated over the choice of the site.

In Michigan, two sites have been proposed: one near Fort Custer between Battle Creek and Kalamazoo, and the other in Northfield township, Washtenaw county, in the Second Congressional District which I am privileged to represent in the United States Congress.

1. WHY all the excitement? WHAT is a proton accelerator? 3. HOW will the final site be selected? 4. WHAT are the chances of the Second District Site being chosen? I will try to answer these four questions.

1. WHY all the excitement? The accelerator will cost about 400 million dollars to build and equip. A yearly budget of about 50 million dollars will be expended to support the over 2000 persons who will be required to staff the laboratory. The AEC estimates a thousand visitors will be at the facility each day. I am sure that all citizens of this area can appreciate what a great economic boost this laboratory would mean for our District.

2. WHAT is a proton accelerator? From a distance, the accelerator will look like a giant earth-covered donut. The main component would be a slender, mile-in-diameter ring composed of about 6,000 electromagnets spaced at intervals along a thin chamber threading the magnets. Protons, the nuclei of hydrogen atoms, would travel over this magnetic pathway 60,000 times in one second.

and Mrs. Dancer called on Mrs. Leonard Loveland Thursday afternoon and also on Mrs. Eva Notten. Mrs. Truman Lehman was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Notten.

FOUR MILE LAKE

Mrs. Ernest Girbach of Saline was a Friday visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lindemann.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wright and family of Chelsea, and Mr. and Mrs. Robin Wright and son, of Lima Center, were Sunday afternoon visitors of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wright.

Mrs. William Weirich entertained on Sunday honoring her grandson, Rudolph Weirich, five years old, at a birthday dinner. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Weirich and family, attended the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Fischer of Ypsilanti were Saturday dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fischer.

HEALTHIER CHILDREN

The American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation has facts and figures to prove youngsters are healthier than they were seven years ago. The group, a department of the National Education Association, gave athletic tests to boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 17.

About two-thirds of Kalamazoo College juniors are studying in 18 cities in 11 foreign countries this fall and winter.

Hardy Hyacinths Push Blooms Through Snow

Two hardy hyacinths have poked their heads out of the frozen earth and have even ventured a blossom or two at the Donald Baldwin home at 1028 Freer Rd.

Undaunted by Arctic temperatures and snow, two tiny plants measuring only an inch or an inch and one-half pushed their way out of the ground and are thriving in the shelter of the shrubbery in front of the Baldwin home.

The bulbs were planted this fall and are producing blossoms, according to Mrs. Baldwin.

A daughter, Valerie Lynn, Jan. 9 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie A. Keleman, 14017 Ridgemoor, Chelsea. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lashman of Livonia and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keleman of Detroit.

vent Dexter from scoring from the middle and also gather more defensive rebounds than in the previous game. Neither result came about.

The second quarter further demonstrated the Dexter power and strength as they widened their lead, 35 to 23. The Bulldogs could score only one field goal in this period. By half-time the shooting percentage of the Bulldogs hit a new low as they scored five of 34 shots from the floor.

The third quarter started with the Bulldogs running up eight quick points to Dexter's two and out the margin to 36-31. But Miller and Ron Mull cut in for easy baskets to seal the Bulldogs' fate. A full-court zone press did not bother the Dreadnaughts as they continued to ring up the scores. The quarter ended with Dexter leading, 50-41.

The fourth quarter saw all of the Chelsea players get into action. The starting five had been removed early in the period. Even with victory secure at the beginning of the quarter, Dexter continued to play as possible until the last two minutes of the final quarter. Mull and Haight fouled out in the fourth quarter. The reserve Bulldogs had no better luck hitting the hoop than the starters as they garnered but eight points in the fourth frame.

Scoring for Chelsea were Mike Tansow, 13; David Clark, 16; Don Salyer, 8; Dan Parsons, 8; Tom Kern, 2; Jim Orbring, 2; Duane Schroen, 2.

Dexter scorers were: Ron Mull, 18; Earl Miller, 27; Tom Haight, 3; Dean Samuels, 7; Jon Crocker, 11.

Mrs. Mattie Miller of 208 South St., recently spent three weeks in Riverside, Calif., visiting her son, Jack and his wife, Joanne, and their four boys: Ronny, Gerry, Donnie and Greg. She returned home Jan. 6, flying by airplane both ways. Her son works on the Riverside Press and Enterprise, a morning and afternoon daily newspaper.

To Manchester, Too!

left the game with much anger toward the officials who allowed the contest to get out of control. It was not a factor in the Chelsea defeat, though.

Manchester was led by center Jim Fielder's 29 points and forward Pat Wallace's 21. Chelsea was sparked by three men hitting for better than 20 points. Tom Wojcik's 23, Mike Tansow's 22 and Don Parsons' 21. David Clark failed to score a field goal but hit for five foul shots to end up with five points.

To make the Manchester sweep complete their JV's defeated the little Bulldogs, 63-46. John Lixey leading scorer for the Chelsea JV's was absent because of the mumps.

elections, village officials recently received notification from Robert M. Montgomery, director of elections, stating that the new law (Act 212 of Public Acts of 1965) was not given immediate effect because the legislature has not yet adjourned. The law is expected to go into effect in March. The provisions of the act could have been disregarded in the 1966 elections and villages were notified that they could nominate by caucus if they preferred.

Because the letter was received after arrangements had been made to employ the primary system, Chelsea village officials decided to use the primary system this year.

Just A Minute...

By the Rev. James A. Craig
A couple of hundred words can't really say all that needs to be said. Not even a couple of hundred every day.
But it does need to be said if only briefly and without the details.
Have you noticed people holding their breath the last week or so? They're beginning to have some hope that the present lull in the bombings of North Vietnam may mean something important.

You can almost feel the hope growing and the conversation becoming more restrained.
A woman at a Twelfth Night party threw her greens into a fire with the wish that the war would end soon. It was a wish that was felt in the minds of others who were present. It's a wish that all of us share also.

You can't believe that anyone desires this war. You can believe that people want it ended as soon and as successfully as possible.
A politician in Boston in a recent interview said that in his opinion the most common desire of people today was peace. As a goal it has surpassed all other wants we might have.

Peace is a deep thing of the heart and the mind. It may mean that all of the goals for which we presently are at war may not be accomplished. It may mean that we shall have to settle for something less than the whole loaf. One wonders if we are ready.

One also wonders what will happen if out of this hope faintly stirred nothing happens. Will we then be ready to attack with every weapon at our command determined to obliterate the "enemy"?

Highway Dept. Announces 1966 Building Program

Lansing — Michigan's 1966 Department of State Highways road-building program will call for starts on $133,442,000 in new construction, State Highway Director Howard E. Hill reports.
"Bid-takings on projects in 44 counties are scheduled during the year and their estimated cost, plus expenditures for right-of-way acquisition and engineering costs of future projects will put the Department's total program at about $265 million for the year, Hill said.

"This is the pace we must maintain through 1972 in order to take full advantage of the federal aid program ending in that year and meet the minimum needs of the state trunkline system," Hill said.
"By that time, we must complete a program that will cost a total of $1.3 billion. Thus, the total cost of projects awarded annually in the next six-and-one-half years should average $200 million annually."

"Maintaining such a pace depends upon approval of an increase in the motor vehicle weight tax and the gas and fuel tax."
"A proposal for a one-cent increase in the gas tax and increases in weight taxes will be placed before the legislature this spring."

"The proposal has been endorsed by the Michigan Municipal League, the County Road Association of Michigan, the Michigan Good Roads Federation, and numerous other groups."
"Increases would accrue to both local and county units of government. Through a change in distribution formula, local revenues would increase 30 percent, county revenues 19 percent, and state revenues 20 percent."

"Thus, not only would the Department of State Highways' program expand to meet needs, but hampered local programs also could be geared up," Hill said.

BIBLE VERSE TO STUDY

STOLE A HOME
Salford, England — Vincent Linnane, an employee at a building contractor's firm, has been given a one-month jail sentence for virtually stealing a home for his family. He began taking small things such as light switches and continued until he'd taken everything needed for the house except the main structure.
Nine out of ten Kalamazoo College students study abroad before graduation.

Ours. Theirs.

You can dry more than five loads in a Gas dryer for the cost of doing one in an electric. Which means your Gas dryer will pay for itself in just seven years. And most Gas dryers last for more than ten years.

What's more, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will connect new and used Gas dryers free in the areas we serve. And maintenance expense is negligible. In a survey of more than 300 families who owned their Gas dryers an average of five years, * total maintenance costs averaged out to less than 20¢ per year per dryer.

During Gas Dryer Dividend Days, prices are reduced to save you even more. So see the latest Gas dryer models at your dealer or Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showrooms.

*Survey conducted by an independent research organization.

That's The Payoff!

You may be able to load the bases every inning — BUT — If you don't cross home plate, you don't score a run!
THAT'S THE PAY-OFF!
You may have the best golf clubs, clothes, and stance — BUT — If you can't sink your shots, you don't get the prize!
THAT'S THE PAY-OFF!
You may have the best car and win all the trial heats — BUT — If your motor falls in the big race, you don't get the purse!
THAT'S THE PAY-OFF!
You make twice as many first downs as your opponent — BUT — If you can't cross the goal line, you don't get a point!
THAT'S THE PAY-OFF!
You may have an excellent education — You may have a host of friends — You may have a top-paying job — You may have a good reputation — You may give much to charity — You may have perfect health — BUT — If you haven't settled your account with God — If you haven't accepted Jesus Christ as God's Son — If you haven't asked Him to forgive your sins — If you won't win the prize! — If you won't have real peace! — If you won't get to heaven!

THAT'S THE PAY-OFF!
What is a man profited if he gains the whole world and loses his own soul? — Matthew 16:26.
For bodily exercise profiteth little; but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise for the life that now is, and of that which is to come. — 1 Timothy 4:8.
And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares. — Luke 21:34.
For the hour is coming in which all that are in the graves shall come forth; they that have done good unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil unto the resurrection of damnation. — John 5:27, 28.
Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. — Acts 16:31.

Rare Pipe Organ Installed in Congregational Church

An unusual pipe organ, of a type last believed built in the 1800's, has been installed in the sanctuary of the First Congregational church. Parishioners will have a chance to hear the instrument this Sunday.

The small Ward Organ Company of Louisville, Ky., built the instrument, which was the organist until 1962. The organ was installed by the church's organ committee, which had been working for a position he had filled for many years. He came from the area to install the instrument on Tuesday.

The present organ has been installed only temporarily, awaiting completion of the church organ. It is estimated that the new organ will be delivered by the end of the year. The Rev. Robert A. J. Livingston, who has been organist since the long-suffering organ committee were on hand to welcome the instrument and its maker. The Rev. Livingston reports the unusual organ compensates for the 16 pipes and space for 84 tiny high-pitched pipes often not desired in a church. The organ has one manual with 42 keys, made of rosewood and dogwood, and three control stops. Volume is regulated with dampers in the cherry wood case.

The tiny organ is unusual in that it has visible bellows on top for a reserve supply when the demand is great. Ward, who built the organ, said he never has seen an organ with such bellows, but read of one in a 17th century manuscript.

Ward said he believes that no one has built a small self-contained pipe organ like this for more than 150 years. With all of its pipes in, he said, it probably has more pipes than any other small one ever built.

It is called a "Positiv" type organ and was built in the 17th and 18th centuries for wealthy patrons and the royalty. He says that hardly any working models of even museum pieces exist and that this one is insured for $15,000.

John Ellis, a student in the school of music at the University of Michigan from Fargo, N.D., is the organist and choirmaster at the First Congregational church (U.C.C.). According to the Rev. Livingston, his "patience and impatience" with the other interim organ will come to an end this Sunday when the new instrument will be put into use.

New Leaders Named Sunday For Congregational Church

The First Congregational church at its annual business meeting Sunday elected officers, set major activities for the year and established goals and aims.

After a pot-luck dinner at noon the business meeting was called to order by retiring Moderator of the church, William Tite. A worship service with symbolic slides was led by the Rev. Robert Livingston. Following this was a visual review of the activities of the year through color slides taken by the pastor.

Mrs. Andrew Dyson presented the annual reports as collected and printed by her and her committee. Each group reported by the printed sheet and then also by a headline activity they reported on vocally.

The deacons presented two aims for the year, one in the area of "spiritual growth toward maturity" as a step in revitalizing the congregation and the other to help youth in church and community "discover and enjoy creative relationships with one another, with adults, and with their God." Robert Jacobs presented these and there was a consideration of each of the sub-goals and finally the entire report was adopted.

The church Council's recommended schedule of special events for 1966 was presented and after some discussion about a few programs, it was adopted as a whole. Historian, Mrs. Andrew Dyson presented her year book with its clippings from The Chelsea Standard and other papers, with its collection of Sunday Bulletins, a complete file of the "Open Door" newsletters and with photographs of special events. She explained that she had been appointed by the pastor at the beginning of the year to see if such a position and its resulting record would be helpful. The group approved the idea and established the post of historian for 1966.

The nomination committee's report was presented by Chairman Mrs. Walter Wolfgang. There were nominations called for from the floor and several "open spots" were filled in this way. Moderator Tite handled the election procedure and the following leaders were elected: Mrs. Franklin Gee replaced Mrs. Larry Chapman as clerk; Mrs. Parker Sharrard replaced Mrs. Mae Grossman as financial secretary; Mrs. Louis Bernath was re-elected treasurer of the church and Vern Parks was also put back in as secretary-treasurer of the church school. Mrs. William Van Riper was selected to head the church school succeeding Mrs. Franklin Gee. The moderator of the church is selected by the deacons from their own membership, and they will do this at a special meeting at the parsonage Friday night.

Newly-elected deacons are Garland De Yoe, Lionel Vickers and Vern Hiltz. Continuing members are: Andrew Dyson, Kenneth Runciman, Richard Smith, Vern Parks, Robert Jacobs and Parker Sharrard.

New deaconesses are Mrs. Charles Lane, Mrs. Andrew Dyson and Mrs. Edwin Dickelmann, who will join Mrs. Stanley Beal, Mrs. Robert Wagner, Mrs. Caroline Brooks, Mrs. Hazel Spaulding, Mrs. Elba Gage and Mrs. Helen Harris on the new board.

Mrs. Lauryn White was re-elected to the board of trustees and Max Heppburn was put on to complete the term of William Chandler who resigned, while Edwin Dickelmann replaced Edward Viskel. The continuing trustees are Charles Powers, Merle Leach and Howard Anderson.

Mrs. Ron Eder and Mrs. Evan Knott were placed on the Christian education committee, along with Ray Peppers, Mrs. Jerry Satterthwaite, Mrs. Merle Leach and Mrs. Alfred Johnson.

The benevolence committee is now made up of Mrs. Helen Lindemann, Mrs. Cora Downer, Mrs. Sylvia Ferguson, Mrs. Lucile Olson, and Mrs. Gladys Parks. The nomination committee is composed of Ron Satterthwaite, Vern Hiltz and George Frisinger. Mrs. Paul Mann, Miss Grace Penhalligon, and Mrs. Ray Peppers make up the music committee. Paul Mann is the auditor again. On the budget and finance committee are Ron Eder, Darwin Downer, Mrs. Gene Coltre, William Tite and Charles Lane. Mrs. Larry Chapman is to be historian for 1966 and Mrs. Lauryn White and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dyson will compose the delegate committee.

Sunday, Jan. 16 will be Installation Sunday for all the leaders of the church. Old and new leaders alike will stand to be consecrated to the work that they selected and have been elected to perform for their church. New member reception has been put off for several weeks. The Junior Choir which sang last Sunday did so under the direction of choirmaster John Ellis.

Kiwanians See Film 'Call To Leadership'

The Jan. 10 Kiwanis Club meeting was opened by President Floyd P. Fowler. The theme of the meeting was "A Call to Leadership."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Niehaus led the opening song "America" and the pledge to the American flag. Dinner was served in a cafeteria style, with seconds on desserts.

Secretary Niehaus read a letter from Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Anderson from California and also a thank-you note from Dr. Shadom thanking members for get-well cards and the plant from the club.

President Fowler was in charge of the program which was a film, "Focus," which told of the activities of Kiwanis International. Kiwanis is moving into its 51st year in 1966. Leadership in local communities and the participation in democracy by individuals was emphasized. Kiwanis clubs and individual Kiwanians have countless opportunities to become involved in the nation's agenda at the community, state, provincial and national levels.

Rockwell-Standard Offering Award in Industrial Arts

Competition for the annual Rockwell-Standard Award for Excellence is again being conducted according to a recent announcement by William Marsh, general manager of the sponsoring company and Chelsea High School Principal Chas. Lane.

The winning student will receive a certificate acknowledging his accomplishment. Further, he will receive a set of Rockwell Compac-tools, consisting of a bench saw, a jointer and a drill press, all with integral motors.

Judging of the competition will be under the supervision of local school officials. The recipient will be named and awards presented at Class Night in June of 1966.

Rules governing the competition have been established by school officials in such a manner as to provide a fair and equitable chance for each Industrial Arts student to win.

Marsh said, "Rockwell-Standard Corp. hopes that the annual award will stimulate our young people studying vocational courses to greater effort. We also want to reassure the student of the necessity of developing his skills to the best of his ability, so that he might be better prepared for later life."

Families Attend 69th Anniversary For W. Robbinses

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Robbins and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robbins and son, Mike, spent the week-end in Rockford, O., and were present Sunday at a celebration of the 69th wedding anniversary of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Robbins.

William Robbins, who has been retired since 1947, was the founder of the Robbins & Robbins Chevrolet agency and garage in Rockford.

He and his wife are 80 years old. They were married in Rockford, Jan. 8, 1897, and have always lived there—the past 45 years in their present home. They have made a number of friends in the Chelsea area during frequent visits with relatives here.

In addition to the son, Boyd, Chelsea relatives include three grandsons: Bill, Bob and Don and their families.

A family dinner was held Sunday at a restaurant at St. Mary's O. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Robbins, the couple's immediate family present included Mr. and Mrs. Darst Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rhodes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Balzeli. One son, Don, of Robbins of Saginaw, was unable to attend.

The William Robbinses have eight grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Plans were discussed for a celebration of the couple's 70th wedding anniversary next year.

MANY FABRICS AVAILABLE

Type of fabric plays an important role in modern dress. There are at least 200 brands of man-made fibers on the market, and hardly a wardrobe is without several all-synthetic garments of cotton with a polyester or acrylic. Bewildering as this array of textile technology may be, there's comfort in the assurance that nearly all are bleachable. This means you get optimum cleaning in most washloads by laundering with liquid chlorine bleach.

Methodists Host Discussion on Use of Leisure Time

The WSCS of the Methodist church were hosts Jan. 5 at a general meeting and program on the topic: "Automation and Leisure." The Wesleyan Service Guild, and husbands of WSCS members were invited guests. Approximately 38 attended the meeting in the social center of the Methodist church.

The meeting started with the singing of hymns. Mrs. Clare Warren played the piano for the group singing. After a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. James Hoffmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels presented the program.

Mrs. Daniels started the colloquy with devotions taken from Genesis and Isaiah. She began by saying that the industrial revolution has resulted in increasing leisure time which provides opportunities for recreation. Although the fun side is important, it was pointed out that the seventh day was provided for rest and reflection and should be used for these purposes. It was also emphasized that leisure should contain a balance between fun and constructive time. The speakers pointed to local, state and national ways leisure could be used constructively.

Quotations from Carl Sandburg's "The People, Yes," were read to stress that people do run the country and should know what works need to be done.

The speakers discussed whether church members were doing all they can to provide for man's leisure time, including adult recreational facilities. It was mentioned that persons not actually affiliated with the church might be gained in the church through recreational facilities.

The presentation closed with a prayer, followed by discussion. Refreshments were served by the Marion Kline Circle.

Mercy is all right, and we commend it, but not to those who drive automobiles while under the influence of alcohol.

Young Farmers Meet in Lansing With Farm Bureau

Lansing — More than 80 young farmers, husbands and wives, from all parts of Michigan gathered in Lansing Jan. 4-6 as guests of the Michigan Farm Bureau and affiliated companies, for a three-day work and study program.

Mr. and Mrs. David Wolfgang of 2840 S. Fletcher Rd., Chelsea, and Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Geiger of South Lyon were area farmers attending the meeting.

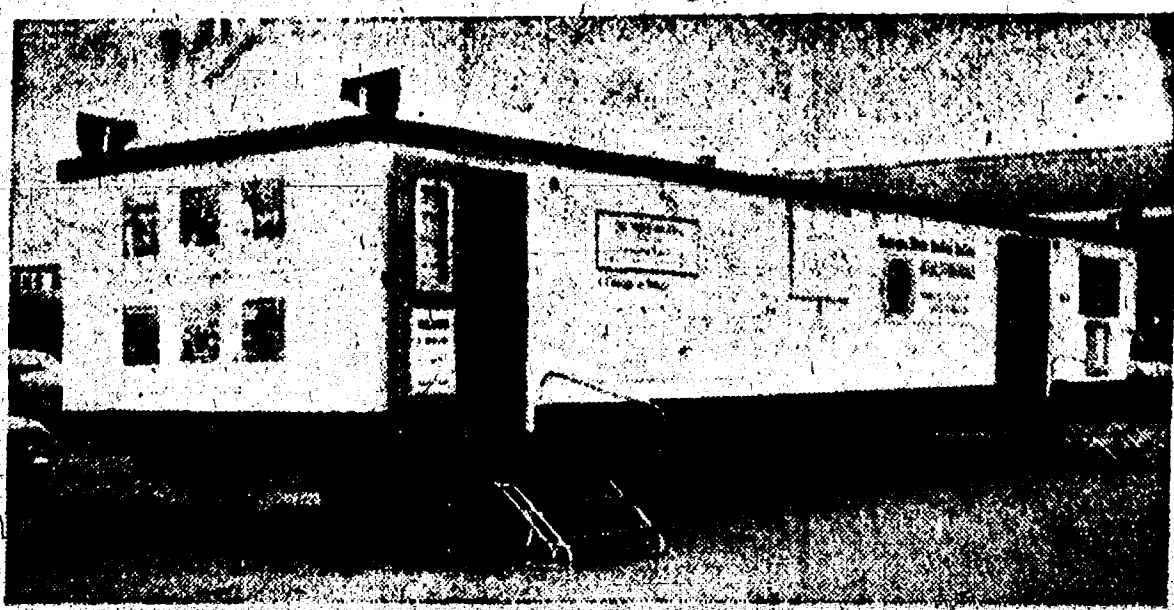

Specialists in rural legislation, information, marketing and citizenship were featured, and a number of "economic" farm service programs were also examined. One conference highlight was a bus tour by the young farmers to new marketing facilities in the Saginaw and Brighton areas.

At a new grain terminal complex on the Saginaw River, the group saw modern grain and bean processing and handling equipment operated by the Michigan Elevator Exchange division of Farm Bureau Services.

At Brighton, they visited a modern egg packaging plant, where automated machinery checked the eggs and cartoned them in one high-speed, continuous operation, producing quality controlled and federally-inspected eggs.

Farm legislation expected in the current "second session" of the 73rd Michigan legislature was outlined by Legislative Counsel Dan Reed. Plans for an expanded farm market program and for a new "Contract-Vegetable" crops division were explained by Marketing Specialist Noel Stuckman.

Active more important than actually are usually has its advantages.

HEALTHMOBILE: This mobile unit tells the story of Michigan medicine from the wooden stethoscope of 100 years ago to the modern machines used today. Theme of the exhibit, "A Century of Service in Michigan Medicine," helps portray Michigan's contributions to medical advances. Residents of the area are invited to visit the Healthmobile Jan. 17-22 when the unit will be in Ann Arbor.

Healthmobile Brings History Of Medicine to Ann Arbor

A unique traveling exhibit called a "Healthmobile" will visit Ann Arbor Jan. 17-22 to tell the story of Michigan medicine.

The public is invited to visit the exhibit on Ann Arbor's Main St. The Healthmobile will be open from 2 to 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 17 and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Jan. 18-22.

The Michigan State Medical Society Healthmobile describes the exciting Michigan development in medical research and health care in the first of its kind in the nation also will seek to interest young people in careers in the health field.

The unit's brought here by the Washtenaw County Medical Society and its auxiliary.

The Healthmobile, a 12x50 foot trailer, describes the story of Michigan medicine from the wooden stethoscope of 100 years ago to the gleaming health and lung machines of today. The slogan, "A Century of Service in Michigan Medicine," is developed by colorful, authentic displays that begin with the work of Doctor William Beaumont at Mackinac Island, into the Civil War period, and on through the turn of the century to date.

Helping to portray Michigan's contributions to medical advances during the century are special exhibits prepared by the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan State University, the State Department of Health, the Michigan Health Council, and the two major Michigan pharmaceutical companies.

One of the exhibits provided by the American Medical Association is the transparent human figure with a panel of buttons keyed to various organs and muscles which light up as the appropriate button is pressed.

Michigan's medical education is traced from the founding of the University of Michigan Medical School in 1859, and from the founding of Harper Hospital in Detroit in 1888 as the first-run of the present Wayne State University Medical School, to the new developments at Michigan State University.

The work of the Michigan State Health Department in protecting the health of the public is told in one of the exhibits.

Contributions of both the Upjohn Co., at Kalamazoo, and the Parke-Davis & Co., Detroit, are recorded in a display of their development of "Orinase," an oral anti-diabetic agent, and Parke-Davis for its streptomycin development.

The contrast between medical practice today and a century ago is vividly told through the displays. There is a wooden stethoscope used 100 years ago, a doctor's stethoscope from 80 years ago with scores of tiny vials of powder, and a hand-carved ivory dentures.

Michigan contributions during the decades include the modern heart-lung machine used in open heart surgery and developed by Michigan physicians at Harper Hospital with General Motors Laboratories. Photographs show the first electrocardiograph developed in Michigan in the 1930's. Other exhibits tell about the latest in the care and treatment of stroke, hemophilia, goiter, diabetes, and other illnesses.

Watch Out! College Life Not So Safe

Ann Arbor — Now add sun-lamps, swings, shoelaces and kite flying to the hazards of modern college life. Each of these has been implicated in accidents which sent University of Michigan students scrambling for medical attention, a five-year study shows.

The law of gravity waged a vendetta all its own. Thirteen students were injured by dropping meal trays; 20 fell off curbs; and 10 fell out of bed. Eighteen tripped over shoelaces and sidewalks, while one poor fellow slid off his lab stool. Forty-four more were "crushed" by another person or object.

According to Health Service records, hazards indoors and outdoors, while one poor fellow slid or object.

Cycle accidents topped football injuries, 163 to 151. Basketball, with 136 hurt and six hospitalized, ran a close third.

Lesser sports also trapped the unwary. Five frisbee players, one kite-flyer, two rifleman and a billiard player hobbled off to Health Service.

A physical education course on Movement Fundamentals put one coed on the casualty list, while Modern Dance sent one into University Hospital and three others to the doctor for "unkinking."

Meanwhile, back in the dorm — 19 pallid scholars laid under sunlamps too long, and 38 bookworms walked through doors and windows. There were 120 student casualties attributed to "horseplay." Eight more were "slugged." Animals bit 11 budding scientists and 23 were injured while washing dishes.

During the five years, there were 1,993 student injuries of all types reported by physicians with 1,022 occurring on campus. Most were treated by the Student Health Service, but the emergency room at University Hospital handled 392. Only 102, about five percent of the total, required hospitalization.

William W. Joy, head of the Health Service's Department of Environmental Health and Safety, compiled the data in the survey from information furnished by accident reports. He estimates these reflect about one-fifth of all student injuries treated by the Health Service.

All told, it seems the best chance of getting safely through college would be to stay in the library. Unless, of course, you are really accident prone and can injure yourself "in the act of sitting down" as did 14 U-M students.

Branch offices had received many inquiries from persons who thought they had misplaced their titles when they had never received them in the first place, Hare said. Registration certificates are usually easier to produce since most motorists either carry them in their cars or on their persons.

The honor roll is composed of undergraduates who earn a grade less than C with a B average. Three hundred and forty-six students were listed on the honor roll. Seventeen of these students made all A's.

The dean's list also released at the same time, consists of juniors and seniors whose grades average 2.5 or better and with no grade below B. Fifty-nine upperclassmen were named to the fall semester dean's list.

THE LANSING REPORT

GIL BURSLEY

The Senate Committee on International Commerce, of which I am chairman, completed a three-week trade study mission to nine western European countries in early December. An 85-page report complete with findings and recommendations has already been completed and was submitted to the legislature on Dec. 30.

An illustrated version of this committee report is being prepared with funds from private sources and will be widely distributed throughout the state within a month. The committee believes its findings and recommendations should be brought to the attention of all Michigan businessmen and farmers who are actual or potential exporters.

This Tuesday noon I spoke to the Adrian Chamber of Commerce and pointed out the relevance of the committee's observations to Lenawee county. On Wednesday noon I spoke to the Ann Arbor Civic Club, a businessmen's group which meets Wednesdays at the Michigan League. On Monday I spoke over a Detroit radio station on the same subject. I have asked members of the committee to play a similar active role because we believe that follow-up is essential to see that our recommendations are implemented.

At our first committee luncheon in London the Commercial Attache at the American Embassy drew attention to the fact he had purchased some cake mix from the Chelsea Milling Co. at a London grocery store the night before. This same Chelsea Milling Co. has exhibited at U. S. Trade Centers in Europe.

One of the most active companies in participating in U. S. Trade Centers, and in various international commercial and trade fairs is the Tecumseh Products Co., which in the past few years has exhibited its products and made sales at fairs in Izmir (Turkey), Osaka (Japan), Bangkok (Thailand), Tokyo (Japan), Frankfurt (West Germany) and Salonic (Greece).

Also from Lenawee county it should be noted that Reeves, Inc. from Deerfield has exhibited products at Moscow and Osaka.

From Washtenaw county the committee found several companies actively promoting their products in the international markets through participation in international trade fairs. Applied Dynamics of Ann Arbor has exhibited at Sydney (Australia) and Zurich (Switzerland) in addition to U. S. Trade Center shows featuring date processing equipment at Milan (Italy) and Frankfurt (Germany).

Argus Camera has been in trade shows at Belgrade, Moscow, Calcutta, Leningrad, Poznan, Zagreb and Tokyo.
