School Board Calls Public Meeting To Discuss Budget Cuts

School district residents are requested to come forward Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. to the Chelsea High School auditorium for a public meeting to discuss the school budget for the 1966-67 school year.

The Chelsea School Board is holding the meeting at that time because it is at that time that cuts in the budget in the school district are made. The school board is expected to operate on the reduced budget resulting from the defeat of the recent millage proposals. The board will indicate whether or not the cuts should be made and if not, it should make a third attempt to pass an operational budget for the 1966-67 year.

Director of the meeting will be Robert Daniels, who speaks for the school board. He will attempt to pass a preliminary budget proposal.

In a related action, the Chelsea School Board established a new election date, with the election to be held on Tuesday evening, June 21, at 8 p.m. in the High School cafeteria in order to accommodate the group of approximately 50 citizens attending the session.

All the members of the Board of Education were present, including two newly-elected members, Herman Koenn and H. Charles Powers, and two members whose terms will expire July 1, Luther Kusterer and Don Alber.

A 4% millage proposal went down to defeat by a vote of 507 to 364 on May 16 and again on June 13 by a vote of 598 to 748. The defeat means a loss of $165,000 in operating funds for the next school year. Although the 4% proposal represented an increase of only 1 1/2 mills over the present budget, the "no" votes in effect deprived the Chelsea schools of operating funds authorized in previous years.

Supt. of Schools Charles Cameron opened the discussion of the school financing problems by reviewing the Thursday, June 16 meeting of the Board of Education. The marathon session began at 8 p.m. and lasted until 3 a.m., he said, and resulted in no conclusions on the part of the Board.

A lengthy discussion had taken place at that time on possible cuts in the school program.

Mentioned as ways of slashing the budget to conform with the reduced funds were a reduction of 19 teachers from the present 100, elimination of the school music throughout the secondary system and art at the physical level, typing and some for high education from the high school curriculum, half-day or doubled classes in the elementary schools, elimination of reading improvement classes, re-selling three new school buses, elimination of an elementary school secretary, textbooks, teaching supplies and library books and changing the roles of the school counselors to special education teachers.

In order to vote on Aug. 2, notices must be posted by Thursday, June 23, Cameron stated. He explained that the Board could go through the formality of asking for an election on Aug. 2 without designating any millage amount. It would not be necessary to go through with the election if the Board did not believe sufficient public interest was being shown to bring the proposal to the voters for a third time.

Sharp questioning ensued as members of the audience quizzed the two new school board members.

Koenn, and Powers, on whether or not they were in favor of the millage proposal. Koenn answered that he was in favor of the millage proposal and in fact had voted for it. He stated that he has reservations about financing school operations through assessments on real estate but that under the present system of assessment the School Board has no other choice for raising operating money. He said he believed the Board should be supported in the operation of the school system.

He went on to state that he believed the "no" votes were an expression by the people of other problems and that the millage vote gave these people a chance to express their dissatisfaction. Koenn stated that he believed constructive free expression was helpful and recommended a "you-come-tell-us" public meeting where people in the district could come to the School Board and express their opinions on future Board actions.

Powers stated that he was convinced after last Thursday's Board meeting that an operational millage was needed by the Chelsea schools but that he still was not certain whether 4% mills — or more or less — was necessary and questioned whether or not the millage could be presented in another manner.

"I am certainly in favor of at least more than nothing," he said, then added that he would be "popular with no one when this controversy is finished."

(Powers had stated, in reply to a Chelsea Standard question, that he was not in favor of the requested millage increase for the proposed year. At that time he stated: "The choice seems to be to add improvements to our present system or restrict it heavily — paralleling a choice of buying a new car or walking.")

He stated that he did not think the voters realized what they were voting on in the June 13 millage proposal.

A member of the audience, Mrs. Paul Mann, in view of the seriousness of the cuts, stated that she believed the School Board had no other choice but to bring the issue before the voters again.

Robert Daniels pointed out that the cuts would scar the school system for many years. Superintendent Cameron reaffirmed this, stating that in his opinion, the school system will suffer for years if the children in the elementary grades are put into crowded classes and do not receive solid background in reading, writing and arithmetic.

Board member Robert Foster stated that he believed the people of the school district let the School Board down in the second millage election. He said that he is so committed to the program that he thinks the people should rise up and demand another election.

Another member of the audience asked what programs were available in the school for students who do not intend to go on to college. Superintendent Cameron mentioned a vocational agriculture program, a mechanics course, home economics, industrial arts classes and electronic classes, as well as commercial subjects. The Chelsea School Board had also planned to add a program to teach graphic arts and auto mechanics during the coming year in conjunction with the Dexter and Manchester school districts.

Outgoing School Board member Don Alber said that if he were going to be on the board another four years he would vote to cut the $105,000 from the school budget. He said he would never vote for deficit spending in the Chelsea School District and the proposal had already been defeated twice by the voters.

The proposed business manager for the high school also came under discussion. Luther Kusterer said he thought the business manager would save the school district a great deal of money and enumerated several specific savings including the supervision of the janitorial staff, for which $5,500 was paid during the past year; the co-ordination of the Federal Aid programs, for which $1,000 was paid this past year; and investigating Federal programs and making applications for available Federal funds; to act as a purchasing agent to take advantage of county group purchasing, which Kusterer said he thought could easily save the district $1,000 the first year in reduced prices; and to correlate the purchasing of janitorial and teaching supplies between the different schools.

Kusterer said he would supervise and co-ordinate the bus system, which he said he believed could save the district $2,500 in bus maintenance and in more efficient bus routing.

to co-ordinate the hot lunch program between the three schools, which may necessitate hiring new personnel in that department if the business manager is not approved.

The salary of the proposed assistant superintendent would be approximately $10,000.

The possibility of a three-year millage proposal was also discussed briefly but Board members indicated that the lack of time before the Aug. 2 election date would not be adequate time for planning a three-year proposal.

Foster pointed out that industry is carrying the heavy load of the millage levies in the Chelsea school district and that Chelsea residents would be paying nearly double their present levies if that were to happen here. He stated that the taxes in Chelsea are considerably lower than in surrounding areas.

Superintendent Cameron was instructed to prepare figures comparing the taxes in surrounding areas with the Chelsea area and to bring them to the public meeting on June 23.

(See School Board briefs for an account of other Board action.)

Benefit Activities Net $4,575 To Help Melvin Lamb Family

Area residents raised $4,575 in a community effort last weekend to help one resident in his struggle against a serious kidney ailment.

The resident, Melvin E. Lamb, known in the Chelsea area as "Red the Barber" when he worked in Sam Brown's Barber Shop, which is operated by his uncle, has already had both kidneys removed and is awaiting a kidney transplant at the Cleveland (O.) Clinic. His mounting medical expenses are estimated at $20,000.

Herbert Upton, Jr., who is the general manager of Double-A Products in Manchester, attended the University of Michigan with one of "Red's" surgeons, Dr. Bruce H. Stewart. Red is a former Double-A Products employee. Dr. Stewart wrote to Upton just prior to the operation for the removal of Red's kidneys, and he said, in part:

"Both of Melvin's own kidneys, which have now deteriorated beyond recovery, will be removed sometime within the next couple of weeks in order to get him in better condition for transplantation. All of this will entail multiple dialyses and prolonged hospitalization, and of course, it is a tremendous financial burden to the patients and their families. With this in mind, if you know of any way in which financial support can be fostered in Melvin's community, it would probably be a great help to him. We are deferring part of the cost through research funds, but these are limited, and the patients often undergo a real financial hardship for these procedures."

When Red's friends and neighbors heard about his plight, they united to sponsor a dance last Saturday evening at the Manchester High School gymnasium. Approximately 850 persons attended the dance and the net receipts from the ticket sales totaled more than $3,400.

A tape recording from Lamb and his wife, Jeanette, was played

Townships Now Required To Name Candidates in Primary Elections

Township voters have until 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 5 to register to vote in the Aug. 2 primary elections.

Summer Reading Program Begins Monday at CHS

A summer reading program for students in grades 2 through 8 will begin Monday at Chelsea High School. The instruction will continue through Aug. 5 and is available free of charge to both public and parochial school children.

Anyone interested in the program may apply Monday at 9 a.m. in the High School Library. More information may be obtained by calling 475-3401.

The special program is a continuation of a program offered during the past semester under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Four teachers, Dave Knisley and James Hoeft, both Junior High school English teachers, Mrs. Susan Dale, fourth grade teacher at South school, and Richard Duseau, physical education teacher at the High School, will each teach four one-hour classes each day, for a total of 16 one-hour classes each day. Students will be divided into groups of five to seven students who will meet daily for one hour for small group instruction.

The small groups will allow the teachers to give a great deal of individual help to each student and permit them to work with any particular problem which may be hampering an individual student. An extensive library of materials will be provided.

Sea Scouts in A Pickle Since Losing Uniforms

Sea Scouts camping at Brin Lake Scout camp this week are in something of a predicament.

Mrs. Gene Schultz of Brighton said that she brought laundry from the camp to Chelsea Tuesday evening. She washed the several washer loads of clothes at the Wash 'N' Dry Laundromat on W. Middle St., but unfortunately she overlooked one washer full of navy blue Sea Scout uniforms from the camp she left the building at 10:40 p.m.

When she returned the next morning at 8 a.m. to pick up the trousers, the washers were empty. Mrs. Schultz is appealing to whomever may have accidentally picked up the uniforms to take them to the Chelsea Police Department so that they may be returned to the campers.

Lee Fahrner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fahrner, was not present when the picture of the 1966 honor graduates which appeared in last week's Standard was taken.

NEW SHELTER FOR PIERCE PARK was started Saturday by Chelsea Jaycees as a community project. Constructing the shelter were Ron Branham, George L. Steffen, Ed Ahlin, Lloyd Swan, Bob Updegraff, Jim Jedele and Boy Greenleaf. Some of these volunteer workers are shown in the photo while others were working on the back side of the shelter and not visible. When this photo was taken the roof hadn't yet been started and darkness came before it was completed. Jaycees say the job will be finished Saturday of this week.

Turner's Alaska Capers

Editor's Note: Don Turner has arrived in Alaska. The following letter has been received from him which should be of interest to his friends in the area.

PART II
Turner's Alaska Capers
Since the last article I have seen many things and traveled many miles. Prince Rupert in British Columbia holds much history in the development of this part of the world. The people were very friendly throughout Canada.
I sailed on the Alaska Ferry "Taku" for Ketchikan, Alaska on June 3. I didn't see much of the coastline that day as the fog and rain hid all the mountain peaks which I was told look so pretty when the sun shines. Ketchikan is quite a modern city with a population of 8,000. It is called the salmon capital of the world. In the past there were several salmon canneries here and much salmon lore has been written about this part of the world by some of the great authors. The salmon are not running yet so the canneries are closed except for the ones that have the cold storage facilities and those process "halibut" and ship to all parts of the world. The halibut stinks.
The shrimp and crab canneries are quite an operation to watch. One thinks of shrimp as coming from the Gulf States but they process them by the tons here at Wrangell.
Wrangell, Alaska is one of the oldest towns in Alaska. It was founded in 1894 or about that time and one of the original buildings still stands. It used to be a hospital in those days.
The school here teaches all grades from first through high school. There are 14 miles of road that connect the city with the logging camps and five miles out is an Indian school. It's called Wrangell Institute and it's run by the Interior Bureau of Indian Affairs. The main buildings were built in 1932 and it is well staffed and well kept. The purpose of this Institute is to give education to children in remote areas of Alaska that do not have schools. They are brought here and boarded and taught through the ninth grade.
There are two industries here at Wrangell—lumber and fish. Everyone flies in Alaska and some use the plane like we do the family car. Some say the housewife uses the plane to go to the store. Castal Ellis Air Lines serve this area with transportation. They use small seaplanes and fly in any and all weather.
The newspaper, the Wrangell Sentinel, gives quite a scope in world affairs.
One has to change his habits a bit here. I am just getting ac-

School Board Briefs

At a regular meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday, June 21, bills were approved as follows: $12,144.02 from the general fund; and $40,173.91 from the building fund.
It was agreed to participate with Cassidy Lake Technical School in their educational program mainly so the conventional school might be eligible for state aid on a per pupil basis. There are approximately 120 students enrolled in the classes at Cassidy Lake. The Chelsea School District will be reimbursed for its part in administrative costs and any others incurred.
Bids on the Junior High School will be opened June 30 at a public meeting at the high school cafeteria.
Herman Koenn and Charles Powers were sworn in by the president of the Board, Luther Kusterer. The newly-elected board members will take office July 1.
It was approved to send in the membership fee to retain our membership in the Michigan Association of School Boards.
Discussion was held on the request of this senior class (1966) that they send a large contribution to a library fund in Greece sponsored by the YMCA. It was moved and approved to have the senior class committee attend the next regular Board meeting to discuss the matter more fully.
All members were present including the newly-elected members.
Many citizens (approximately 50) attended a portion of the meeting and expressed their deep concern that large cuts in next year's budget may hurt the educational program very drastically. After much discussion, the Board moved to present a millage request to the electorate on Aug. 2. The exact nature of the issue need not be determined for another week. It was decided to hold a public meeting on Tuesday, June 28 at which the Board will listen to concerns and recommendations.
Never try to imitate somebody else; he may be doing the same thing.

11 Heifers Perish in Barn Fire

Elven Holstein heifers perished in a fire Sunday which leveled a hip-roofed livestock barn and destroyed 30 bales of hay and three tons of corn stored in the barn.

Owner of the barn, William Van Riper of 1187 Huist Rd., has estimated his losses at $10,000. The loss is covered by insurance.

The barn was located on a farm now occupied by the Roy Clemens family. Clemens first noticed the smoke at approximately 6:15 p.m. The Chelsea Fire Department sent three fire trucks to the scene.

Eight cattle were saved by an unknown person. Van Riper stated, who released them from the barnyard and prevented the cattle from running back into the flaming barn.

Van Riper said that the barn burned quickly — "as if it were saturated with oil" — and that the black smoke was visible for some distance.

Undersheriff Clare M. LaPerriere of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department was driving in the area and saw the barn burst into flames. He radioed his office to send deputies to the scene.

Van Riper said that the fire attracted so many spectators that the fire trucks had difficulty getting through to the burning building.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beach, accompanied by their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Beach and children, of Gettysburg, Pa., spent the past week at a cottage at Clear Lake, near Gaylord. They returned home Sunday and Monday morning to their home.

A foolish idea a day keeps the mind working, at least.

Sharrard Family Moves to Plainwell

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Sharrard, Carole and Lisa, moved Tuesday, June 21, from their home at 315 Garfield, Chelsea, to Plainwell, where they will make their home at 436 Allegan. Dr. Sharrard gave up his practice of veterinary medicine in Chelsea to accept a position with the Michigan Department of Agriculture in Kalamazoo. He had maintained a veterinarian practice in Chelsea for nearly 23 years.

Dr. Sharrard had served on the Sylvan Township Board of Trustees, the McKune Memorial Library Board, was a past president of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club, the Board of Trustees of the Congregational church and the Board of Deacons.

The Sharrards have two other children — Sandra, a junior at Wayne State University, and Tom, a freshman at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. George Winans and sons are on a three-week vacation to Lancaster, S.C., to visit friends.

Mrs. Keith Boylan and children, with Mrs. Joseph Steele and children, of Ann Arbor, and their uncle, Herman Weber, spent last week at Hytower Lake, near Shelby. Mr. Boylan spent Sunday and Monday there.

Mr. and Mrs. James Yoxall and daughters, Laura and Linda, of Detroit, and Mrs. Yoxall's mother, Mrs. Bertilla Forner, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forner of Francisco. Later, they called on the Keith Boylan family.

A foolish idea a day keeps the mind working, at least.

Questions & Answers

How can one determine whether an egg is extra large, large, medium, or small? When just "eggs" are designated in a recipe, which size should be used?

To determine the size of an egg, weigh it. Large eggs are considered to weigh two ounces each, or, as is most frequently indicated, especially in area where eggs are sold by weight, one and a half pounds per dozen. A dozen extra-large eggs weigh just under one and three-quarters pounds, to be exact one pound eleven ounces. Medium-sized eggs weigh in at one pound five ounces to the dozen, and small eggs one pound two ounces. Unless otherwise indicated in a recipe, use the large or two-ounce eggs.

Understanding your HEALTH

tuberculosis germs if any, a test tube and in a live guinea pig. These results take a little longer to come in—about six weeks. Should either of these tests show the presence of germs, then further tests must be made to identify the germ so as to determine the antibiotics to which it is sensitive.

The importance of early diagnosis cannot be overemphasized.

Department to discover presence of active tuberculosis. These x-rays tests show the possibility of infection from the laboratory tests. However, these tests differ from the thousands and of them, many people healthy and active. These tests otherwise have false results of this serious respiratory disease. The tests are available through a tax supported service, residents of the state through their physicians or doctor.

What happens to the specimen sent in for testing? We make a microscopic examination of the sputum and examine it for tubercle bacilli. These results are returned to the doctor in 24 to 48 hours, usually mailed to the doctor. The doctor must him in making the diagnosis. A combination of a skin test, a positive chest x-ray, and a positive laboratory test for tubercle bacilli in many cases tuberculosis can only be proved by using the laboratory tests. You have mentioned. So I'm sure you see the great value in our TB analysis laboratory. Although you seldom hear about their efforts, they may be sure they are working for your benefit through the year.

Finally, I would like to urge you and your family to see your doctor or your local health department about having a tuberculin skin test. Anyone with a positive reaction to the skin test should also have a chest x-ray at least every year. In cases where there is an indication of tuberculosis, your doctor will send a specimen to the state laboratory for detailed analysis.

DEVIL ISLAND
Most 16th century mariners believed the islands of Bermuda were inhabited by devils. Historians believe a Spanish or Portuguese explorer landed there because of a rock on the south shore with an inscription "1643."

THE COUNTRY PULPIT:

Jesus Christ, Son of God or Greatest Liar?

A good man? A great teacher? One who died for his convictions? One who was kind to everyone? A good example?

NOT! Jesus Christ was either more than that or less than that.

Jesus Christ is either the Son of God or the greatest liar that ever lived.

Jesus Christ is either a worker of miracles or the greatest faker that ever lived.

Jesus Christ is either the Saviour of the world or the greatest failure that ever lived.

Himself. Either he is or he is a liar.

When he said, "I have power to lay down my life and I have power to take it again; he is either the Son of God or a liar."

When he healed the sick, cured the blind, and raised the dead, he was either God or the devil — no more man ever did that.

When he died at the early age of 33, he either had some purpose in mind or he was a failure by every human standard.

If he was merely a man, he was a liar, a faker, and a failure, and surely could not rise from the dead, and the hundreds of eye-witnesses who saw him after his resurrection pulled the greatest hoax in the history of mankind. It is strange that they would stick to their story while they were being killed for it — if it were a hoax.

If he was more a man, not only was he a liar, but millions of people who have claimed that they felt a change in their life because of him are also liars. Those followers are not only the common people, but count in their ranks many of the world's leaders whose words on any other subject are confidently accepted.

If you think he was a liar, an imposter, a devil, you are not the first to do so. So Christ was called even when he was still on earth: "To all these the Bible says: 'Who is a liar but he that denieth he is the Christ?'" I John 2:22.

No, Jesus Christ is the very Son of God. He came to earth for the express purpose of dying. His death satisfies God as payment for the punishment due sinful man. Since He is God, He rose from the grave and ascended to heaven. At the end of time He will judge everyone individually as to his attitude toward Him.

If you have been thinking and living as if Christ were unimportant, ask God to change your heart before it is too late.

Your refusal to accept Him as He Himself claims to be is equal to calling Him a liar. Only hell and eternal damnation await you. Choose now for Christ!

Just A Minute...

By the Rev. James A. Craig

It has been claimed that a Biblical text can be found to prove most anything. Proof, texting (as it has been called) has resulted in most people thinking rather than of the Bible because proving everything, it proves nothing. What the mistake is made is in thinking that it does prove everything. It doesn't.

What it does prove is that people are still people no matter what the age or race to which they live. They are still pretty much the same no matter how the externals change.

We can drive faster, fly higher, know quicker, live better, and enjoy it less.

The Bible doesn't tell you how to deal with the world you're in. It helps you know that people are people and the best way to get along with them is to understand them.

It helps you know that in spite of how much you think of yourself you're just people too and need understanding as much as any other.

It helps you know that forgiveness is one of the true forces of life and all that makes society possible.

The Bible does this without trying to prove everything.

It wants to take you from the school of engineering in which most of us live and enroll us in the humanities which most of us need to learn.

HOPE AGAINST CANCER
Lung cancer is increasing rapidly. Cigarettes are considered by the American Cancer Society and by the leading medical and public health organizations of the world as the cause for the increase. It says: "If you don't smoke cigarettes, don't start; if you do smoke, stop. Those who 'break the habit' gain real health benefits."

Babies, boys, and men average 1½ pairs of shoes a year. Women and young girls buy 4½ pairs.

Tornado Bulletin Now Available

U. S. Representative Wes-Vivian announces that a new 16-page brochure entitled "Tornadoes" is available from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, at 20 cents each. Tornadoes was published by the Environmental Science Services Administration of U. S. Department of Commerce. It contains detailed information on how to protect yourself from the dreaded twisters. It was prepared as part of ESSA's continuing effort to protect the public from all kinds of natural disasters.

The 16-page brochure explains what tornadoes are, when and where they occur, how they produce their destructive effects, what they look like, and what to do when tornadoes threaten. Its numerous illustrations show various forms of tornadoes, as well as certain harmless phenomena which look like tornadoes.

Commenting on the new publication, Representative Vivian said, "Some people think that tornadoes happen only to other people in other places. Actually, these violent storms can occur anywhere in the United States. In 1965, 498 tornadoes struck 42 states, killing 299 Americans."

The brochure describes the work of the ESSA Weather Bureau's National Severe Storms Forecast Center at Kansas City and defines the terms used in alerting the public to the possible development or actual existence of tornadoes.

Also included are suggestions for establishing a community warning network; directions for constructing a tornado shelter; and the Weather Bureau's official Tornado Safety Rules.

Tornadoes is available for 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

APOLOGY

When it is necessary to comfort a friend or acquaintance who has suffered a great loss, we almost invariably fall back upon two simple words, "I'm sorry."

Yet, there are times when these two little words are difficult to say. When we know that we have, intentionally or otherwise, caused trouble or discomfort to someone with whom we come in contact, we feel the urge to speak these words. But they don't come easy. We force ourselves to try to think of other things or to pretend that whatever happened didn't really happen at all; we try to become involved in other things; we try to apologize without really doing so — by showing our "road intentions" in some other way.

Someone has said, "never apologize — it is a sign of weakness." This cannot be true. It is, instead, a sign of strength, of fair play, of a willingness to admit to being just a little bit human.

We make mistakes, all of us. The man who never made a mistake never did anything worthwhile. The individual who claims to be "never wrong" is right with no one but himself.

N. Ianni Chosen To Head Intermediate School District

Washtenaw County Intermediate School Board announced the appointment of Nick A. Ianni as Washtenaw County Intermediate School Superintendent to succeed Julius A. Haab who is retiring July 1 after serving the county for 27 years as superintendent.

Ianni served the county as assistant superintendent for legislation and special projects since last fall when after serving as Dexter's superintendent for two and one-half years he resigned two weeks after school began in a surprise move.

Six other candidates were considered for the position including Howard Phayer of Pinckney who has served as assistant superintendent for the past 24 years.

Phayer had made last-minute application for the superintendent's position in the last few days of his term when several persons outside the county were also being considered for the opening. He said, however, when it became obvious that the Board had narrowed the selection to those on the present staff, that he would prefer to bow out of a long career in education with some lessening, rather than added responsibility.

Phayer is an active Kiwanian in Pinckney and a trustee on the village council. Before coming to the Ann Arbor area, Phayer was principal of a Lansing school for 11 years. In total, he has dedicated 42 years to the educational field.

Ianni has 14½ years experience with seven in superintendent's positions at Byron and Dexter, two as principal in Byron and five as a teacher in the Livonia schools.

He, his wife, Gerry, and six children live at 7730 Forest St., in Dexter.

Businessmen

Oppose Proposed Reservoir Project

Concern has been expressed over the proposed Mill Creek Reservoir project by the Jackson Road Business Association, which represents 55 businesses in the Jackson Rd. area.

The resolution passed said: "Be it resolved that the Jackson Road Business Association expressed concern over the Mill Creek Reservoir Project now under study by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"It is the opinion of the membership that the alternative solutions to possible future problems of water supply, waste water disposal and flood control are readily available and have not been given proper and thorough consideration. In the light of corrected flow rate data, there is ample time to give thorough evaluation to all aspects of the problems and their possible solutions.

"There is growing evidence that reservoirs of this type are wasteful, expensive and, as in this case, a mis-use of land which has high value for other purposes.

"Therefore, until greater need can be proven, the use of this portion of Washtenaw County for a fluctuating reservoir is unjustifiable and since the decision to build the reservoir forces an irreversible decision upon our heirs, it should not be constructed at this time.

"It is further resolved that copies of this resolution be sent to the appropriate elected and appointed officials on county, state and federal levels."

Most worth-while projects are not worked out at the bridge table.

Older 4-H Club Group Visiting In Pennsylvania

The opportunity to learn and to have a good time doing so, provides a sound objective for the 24 older 4-H club members from Washtenaw county who have journeyed this week to Montgomery county, Pennsylvania.

The 4-Hers are staying with families of 4-H members in and around the Philadelphia area during the week. In addition to learning about the 4-H program there, the club members are visiting many of the historical and cultural sites in Pennsylvania.

Area 4-H Youth Agent, Ed Poole from Washtenaw county, is supervising the exchange trip which began Sunday, June 19 and which will end this Saturday evening, June 25. Enroute the group will tour the Gettysburg area.

Uninsured Vehicles Near 150,000 Mark At End of May

Lansing — Registered uninsured vehicles in Michigan rose to nearly 150,000 at the end of May as revenue in the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund climbed to new highs of $8.3 million.

The new totals are close to being out Secretary of State James M. Hack's predicted estimates that there are between 150,000 and 200,000 uninsured drivers in Michigan.

In announcing the totals of 145,982, Hack said he believes there are thousands of drivers who are driving without liability insurance and who have not paid their $35 uninsured tax as mandated by Michigan law.

Percentage of known uninsureds went from 3.25 percent in March to 3.86 at the close of May. Of the revenue in the Fund, there were $8,785,750 insured fees from a like number of owners with liability insurance and $4,963,388 from registered uninsureds.

Hack said that a "little more than $20,000 in total claims had been paid out, most of them involving property damage.

The Fund has paid out $11,374 in property damage claims and an additional $9,041.88 in bodily injuries, $8,000 of which went to pay a single claim of a Kalamazoo blind man, struck by an uninsured motorist, while a pedestrian.

Aspirin Still Top Poisoner In Michigan

Lansing — Aspirin again led the list of causes of accidental poisonings in Michigan last year, according to figures prepared by the Poison Control Center of the Federal Health Service.

The Michigan Department of Public Health, which is evaluating the statistics, reported there were a total of 1,694 cases of aspirin poisoning in the state in 1965. Of this total, 1,028 involved children under five ingesting baby aspirin. In addition, 160 five-year-olds were poisoned by adult aspirins, and another 270 took unspecified averages of aspirin.

Soaps, soap powders, and detergents were a low second in the number of poison cases, according to the report. A total of 506 incidents were reported, including 418 involving children under five.

Third in the list of poisoners were vitamins, and other mineral preparations. Some 365 cases were listed in the report, of which 320 represented children under five.

The remainder of the 10 most prevalent poison agents reported in Michigan in 1965 were: berries and beans, 340; tranquilizers, stimulants and depressants, 240; insecticides, 238; perfumes, cologne, and toilet water, 230; hormones and estrogenic preparations, 210; pain relievers, other than aspirin, 203; and barbiturate sedatives, 200.

The total number of accidental poisonings from all causes in the state was 10,087, of which 8,117 involved children under five, the report concluded.

Teal Permit Requests Accepted After July 1

Lansing — Michigan duck hunters who might be getting eager about applying are reminded that the Conservation Department will not accept permit requests for this fall's early teal season until July 1.

Department game officials explain there is no point in taking applications now because they will receive the 15,000 federal shooting permits allotted for this state's Sept. 12-20 teal season.

Simple postcard requests for the permits will be accepted at the Department's Lansing office during July. After July 1 permits will be issued on first-come, first-served basis.

Walker Co. Tells Plans for New Research Center Near Grass Lake

The Walker Manufacturing Co. announced Friday plans to build a $1,000,000 Engineering-Research Development Center in Grass Lake Township about eight miles east of Jackson. The 60,000 sq. ft. center will be constructed on a previously acquired 200-acre site adjacent to Interstate Highway 94 and less than one hour's drive away from Walker's major automotive customers in the Detroit area.

The site is part of the former Watson estate and is located southeast of the intersection of Willis Rd. and Knight service road. It extends south to the northernmost point of Tim's Lake and includes about 350 of lake frontage.

According to Robert A. Heath, manager of product engineering and research, Exhaust Systems Group, the center will be used in co-operative development programs on exhaust systems and related products for both new car applications and the replacement markets.

The facility will be devoted to product engineering, research, original equipment sales engineering and related activities.

It will include 18,000 sq. ft. of office area housing original equipment sales and research and development engineering. The 32,000 sq. ft. test area will include model and prototype, speciality and pipe shops as well as the most modern and comprehensive specially designed and equipped acoustical testing facilities.

Heath said the test area will include two chassis and two engine dynamometers capable of handling any four wheel automotive vehicle up to medium size trucks. Also included will be a completely enclosed anechoic chamber utilizing the geometric center of the cube for absolute sound control and a metallurgical laboratory for durability and material testing of muffler components.

The area has been rezoned from agricultural and residential to commercial to accommodate the research center.

College Receives First Scholarship Gift from Business

The first scholarship gift from a business organization to Washtenaw Community College has been made by the Washtenaw Asphalt Co.

The $500 gift will be used to assist students working their way who have an additional financial need, according to Richard H. Baxter, vice-president of "Washtenaw Asphalt Co."

In addition to the gift, the company will make available to Washtenaw Community College students a number of summer jobs and several work-study stations throughout the year, he said. This is proposed as an annual program.

In acknowledging the gift, David H. Pontz, college president said, "It is gratifying to receive this kind of support from the business community. We are very pleased that Baxter and the officers of the Washtenaw Asphalt Co. are aware of the emphasis we are placing on occupational training.

The work-study stations they are proposing will assist our program of providing work experience as students are being trained. Many students will benefit from this generous gift and the job opportunities offered by Washtenaw Asphalt Co."

Many a one-bathroom home can be upgraded by installing a compact bathroom under a stairwell, at the end of a hall, in a roomy closet or an old pantry.

Bruce Waggoner Named To Head County Red Cross

C. BRUCE WAGGONER

U. S. Food Prices Rated as Today's Biggest Bargain

Food is a bargain and some impressive government figures indicate that food consumers are being subsidized by farmers, according to Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

"If prices received by farmers had increased proportionately to prices of all other products since 1952, American housewives would have spent $7 billion more for food than they did in 1952," Director Ball said. "In fact, prices received by farmers in 1955 were 14 percent lower on the average than they were in 1952."

Measured against income, Americans spend less on food than do people anywhere else in the world. Cost of food in relation to average family income is lower this year than five years ago. Only about 18 percent of the average family's income goes for food today, as compared with 20 percent five years ago, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics cited by the director.

"We'd be spending even less for food if we bought the same food as we did five years ago, but we've upgraded our food purchases while spending a smaller share for food," Director Ball said.

"In addition to getting a bargain in food, consumers enjoy a huge variety of products processed and packaged to suit their desires in taste and convenience," the director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture added, "and never before has the wholesomeness of food been more rigidly guarded for consumers."

VIETNAM REPLACEMENTS

The Army is preparing to send more than 100,000 replacements for Vietnam this summer and fall. Other services face the replacement problem, but the Army will need the greatest number of troops since the buildup began last July.

Arthur Gallagher, chairman of Service to Military Families, pointed out that Red Cross is with our Servicemen wherever they are, in training camps, in exercises, at overseas bases and in combat zones. Gallagher showed slides of Red Cross services in Vietnam and on hospital ships.

W. de St. Aubin, executive director of the Chapter, spoke of the work of the Red Cross in behalf of prisoners of war and stated that the Red Cross is a

New Bulletin Now Available on Outdoor Cookery

Summer appetites are sharpened by fresh air plus the sight and aroma of meat sizzling over the hot coals. Since much of the preparation may be done in advance, cooking out in the summer is a friendly, casual way to entertain.

However, outdoor meals need as careful planning as other meals or type of entertaining. A revised bulletin published by the Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service, titled, "Outdoor Cookery for the Family," suggests that it is best to plan only two courses.

Start with a meat or main dish which may be cooked over the coals. With this serve a vegetable or salad, or both, and bread. The second course consists of a simple dessert. Fresh fruits in season are a perfect choice.

Plan a menu that will be quick to prepare and serve and easy to clean up. Most important, plan on foods which won't spoil in hot weather. Spoilage may occur very quickly with the right combination of warmth, moisture and food.

Keep all perishables in the refrigerator until needed. Avoid creamed dishes, cream sauces, gravies, and custard and cream pies. Meat and fish salads and sandwich fillings must be kept cold. Sandwiches made at the picnic spot taste better and are safer than ones made at home, especially when mayonnaise or salad dressing is used on them.

Remember that all pork products should be thoroughly cooked. If hamburgers are served rare, be sure to use an all-beef mixture.

Sample menus, recipes, tips on barbecuing meat, cooking equipment, and outdoor cooking terms are all featured in this new bulletin. Copies may be obtained from the office of your county Co-operative Extension Service for 10 cents, or from the Bulletin Office, Room 10, Agriculture Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Free Navigation Guide Available To Any Mariner

Navigate Safely! — a new pocket-sized booklet published by the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA), U.S. Department of Commerce, is a convenient guide to the many products and services the agency provides for mariners.

The creation of ESSA in July 1965 brought together in one agency the functions of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Weather Bureau. Both offer services which are indispensable to safe navigation.

Previous editions of Navigate Safely! were published by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. The new booklet, issued for the 1966 and 1967 boating seasons, is the first to include the valuable marine services available from the Weather Bureau.

The 12-page booklet describes the various types of nautical charts issued by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. Among these are harbor charts, general sailing and small-craft charts, each serving different navigational needs. Supplementing the nautical charts are coast pilots (sailing directions), tide tables, and tidal current tables. Sources are given for all publications.

Navigate Safely! describes Weather Bureau services to boaters, including the meaning of weather warning display signals, and lists the charts published by the Bureau which show the location of coastal warning facilities.

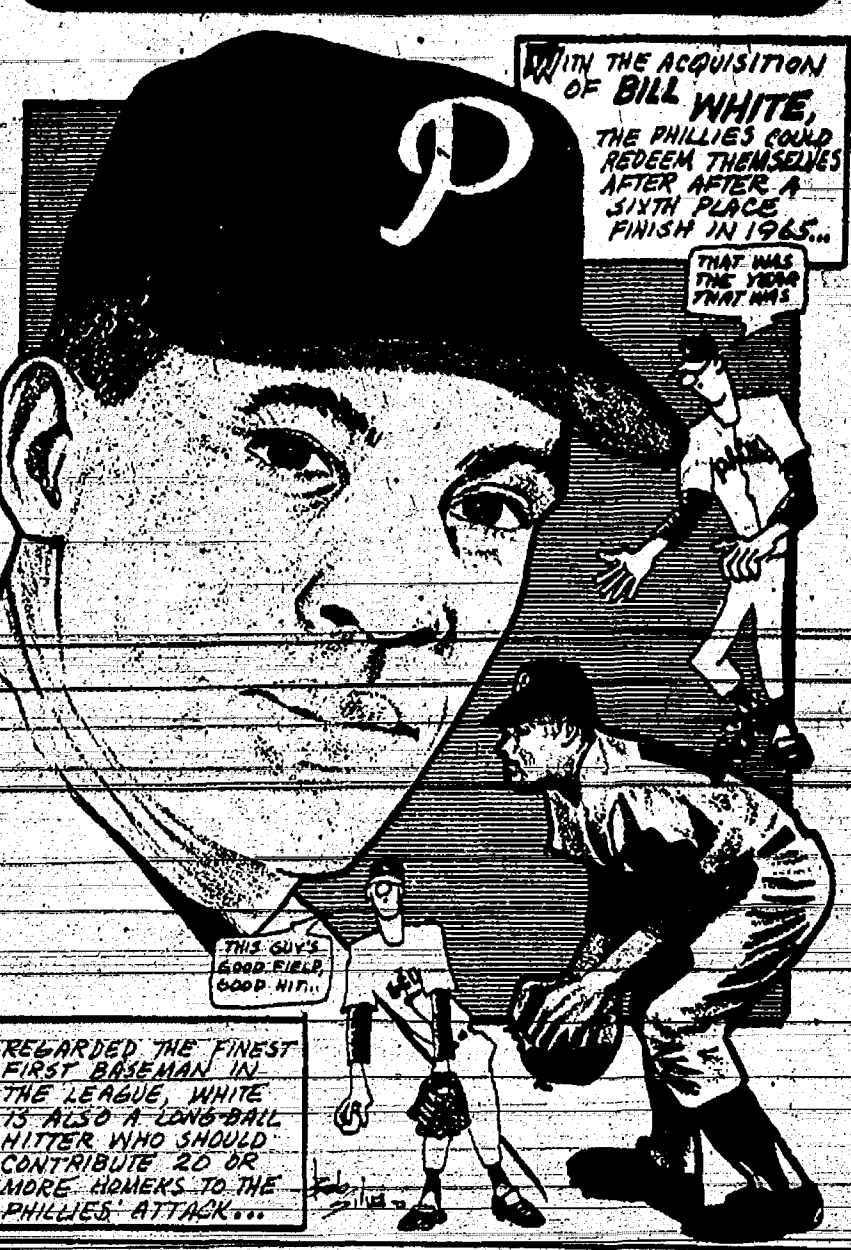

Also included are some practical suggestions on the use of nautical charts and guidelines for avoiding bad weather.

Navigate Safely! may be obtained, free, from the Environmental Science Services Administration, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Sandhill Crane Squawk May Be Genuine Startler

Ann Arbor — The sandhill crane doesn't like people and has a squawk that's a real jolt, says a University of Michigan man.

George Hunt, associate professor of wildlife management, reports that the squawk is so loud that at about 100 yards "you just about jump out of your skin, especially if you don't know the bird's there."

"The loud deep voice of this great bird may be heard for more than a mile," he says. "A person hearing them in a flock in the air might mistake them for a flock of geese, but the crane is much larger than the goose."

"You can spot a sandhill crane easily because it always flies stretched out into a straight line — neck way out front, legs trailing behind. It can't be mistaken for herons and greets, which fly with head and neck pulled back in a curve."

Hunt describes this crane as standing about four to five feet in height, with a wingspread of six or seven feet, and weighing from eight to 12 pounds. Adults are a general grey color except for a reddish patch on the forehead. The young, up until the second year of their life, remain brown in color with a reddish tinge.

"Almost a rare bird in Michigan," but becoming somewhat more common than in the past, the sandhill crane has been protected by law for many years throughout.

"In Michigan they breed in some numbers in the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula, and in small numbers in the south central part of the Peninsula. Once very common, they were widely hunted for their meat."

"Apparently shy, these birds do not tolerate the presence of humans, especially during the nesting season, but withdraw to remote and marshy areas. Now that the marshes have been invaded by man, birds are considerably reduced in number."

"The birds spend the winter in the Gulf states, cross to southern California and southward into Mexico as far as Mexico City. They arrive in Michigan in late March and start nesting shortly after. The nest may be a pile of loose vegetation or an old muskrat house. They lay two eggs. The young are born covered with down and are able to run about just after they're hatched."

Doubleheader Bill Excites Tiger Fans

Detroit — The Tigers are looking forward to an exciting home stand, punctuated by a brief trip to California, before the traditional break in the schedule for the All-Star game which will be played in St. Louis, July 12.

A variety of baseball attractions and some interesting special events, topped by Free Ball Day, are in store for the fans starting June 24.

There will be two two-night doubleheaders (both created by postponements), three single night games, and two Saturday afternoon games during the two-week period.

Free Ball Day will be Sunday, July 3, with the Tigers playing the Kansas City Athletics in a doubleheader. Every youngster 14 or under entering the stadium on a full paid admission will receive a free baseball.

This is the second of three free days for youngsters this season. Free Ball Day in May attracted a crowd of 52,315 and about as many are expected for Free Ball Day, for which tickets are now on sale in advance at regular prices. There also will be a Free Cap Day for the boys and girls Aug. 7.

In addition to Free Ball Day, the next home stand will include a Retirees Day and a Rally Day for the Hudson's Tiger Dugout Club, Saturday, June 25; a Ladies Day, Saturday, July 2; and a Freedom Festival patriotic observance, Monday, July 4.

The Minnesota Twins, fighting back from the second division in defense of their 1965 American League championship, will open the home stand with a two-night doubleheader, June 24, followed by a 3:00 p.m. game July 25 and a Sunday doubleheader July 26 and a Saturday game will be Retirees Day, with senior citizens admitted for 50 cents and Rally Day for Dugout Club members, who must have special admission tickets from club headquarters.

The California Angels are scheduled for three night games, July 4-5-6, and the Fourth of July game will be preceded by patriotic ceremonies arranged by the Freedom Festival committee.

No Bovine TB Found in State During May

Tuberculosis incidence in Michigan cattle reached an all-time low during the month of May, 1966, when not a single animal was found to be a reactor, according to Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. In 46 years of testing for bovine tuberculosis since the program's inception in 1921, there has never before been a reactor-free month.

Bovine tuberculosis in humans, once common and a major cause of bone defects, resulting in hunchbacks, is now a medical rarity. In addition to human health dangers, TB in cattle could cost the livestock industry an estimated $150 million annually if unchecked. Director Ball credited the cooperative state-federal animal health programs headed by Dr. John F. Quinn, state veterinarian, and Dr. C. L. Hendee, federal veterinarian, with the big step toward eradication of bovine TB.

Dr. Quinn noted that TB reactor incidence throughout the past year has been the lowest ever — only seven one-hundredths of one percent. This is one-twentieth of the rate as recently as 1959, he added. Dr. Quinn is chief of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Animal Health Division, which is also responsible for the new state-wide meat inspection.

Water Accidents Claim 79 Lives So Far in 1966

Michigan's 108 water accidents have claimed 79 lives so far this year, according to information received to June 15 by the State Police. At least 21 others have been injured.

Compared with the same period last year, this was a decrease of four in drownings and an increase of four in accidents.

The breakdown on the 50 deaths, on which official reports have been received included 10 boat operators, eight boat passengers, eight swimmers or waders, 10 who fell through ice and 17 who fell from bridges, banks, docks or piers. Provisional information has been received on 20 other deaths.

With outdoor water activity increasing, the State Police suggest these safety precautions: Swimming and Wading: Patronize authorized, supervised areas; keep alert watch over youngsters; don't overestimate swimming or diving ability; make provision for rescue and resuscitation in event of mishap.

Boating: Operate watercraft according to safety rules; have life jackets for passengers; avoid standing in boats; don't overload or overpower your craft; respect the rights of other water users; and have rescue equipment aboard.

Archery Deer Kill Total Slips Last Fall

Lansing — An estimated 2,170 deer were taken in Michigan last fall by more than 50,000 bowhunters, the largest number of archers ever to stalk the state's fields and forests.

The kill figure, based upon the Conservation Department's annual postcard survey of archers, is down from 1964 when the bow-and-arrow harvest hit a record 2,810 whitetails. However, it ranks fifth best in the state's history and second highest since 1958.

In the Upper Peninsula, where 12.1 percent of the bowhunters were successful, last year's take totaled 430, as against 670 the year before.

Compared with 1964, archery deer kill slipped from 1,700 to 1,430 in the northern Lower Peninsula and from 440 to 310 in the southern third of the state. Shooting success totaled 4.3 percent in the first region and 2.2 percent in the southern-farmbelt.

State-wide, 4.3 percent of the state's archers got their deer. The 1964 figure was 6.3 percent.

An estimated 52,000 sportsmen bought archery deer licenses last fall, topping the previous record of 45,500 set in 1964.

Physical Exam Required for All Kindergartners

Children who are entering kindergarten this fall and who have not had a pre-school physical examination should see their doctor some time in July or August to avoid the last-minute rush in September.

Luther R. Leader, M.D., Detroit, president of the Michigan State Medical Society, urges that "each child should have a physical examination before entering school or kindergarten. To insure the best of service to the children, doctors recommend that appointments for the examinations be made early as possible."

Michigan physicians have the cards which the doctor will fill out after the examination. The card is to be presented when the child is registered for school this fall.

A certificate will be attached to the card stating that the child has received immunization against the common childhood diseases. Michigan law (section 370) states that all children entering school for the first time shall submit a statement signed by a physician that they have been immunized against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, polio, pertussis, and poliomyelitis; a statement signed by one parent or guardian to the effect that the child has not been immunized because of religious convictions or other objection to immunization; or a request signed by one parent or guardian that the local health department give the needed protective injections.

Parents should take their children now for the physical examination to make the process of registration efficient and easy.

Proper exercise and diet are important to health, but neither will counteract the telling toll of too much nervous strain.

Former BTS Inmate Has Volume of Poetry Published

United States Representative have had many appellations given them over the years, but perhaps Rep. Wes Vivian, (D-Anne Arbor, Mich.) has picked up a new one. In a book published last month by University of Michigan professors Daniel N. Fader and Morton H. Shaevitz, Vivian is referred to by one of the young inmates of the Boys Training School at Whitmore Lake, in Vivian's District, as "that cat from Washington."

The book titled "Hooked on Books," is the story of a new English language program which Fader and Shaevitz developed at BTS, and which has recently been adopted in other school systems, including the Cardozo model school program in Washington, D.C.

In "Hooked on Books," the authors tell of what happened to one young inmate at BTS who discovered a talent for poetry writing, and how Rep. Vivian became involved in "Lester's" (not his real name) story.

As the pages in his school journal filled with samples of his poetry, Lester asked the school authorities for permission to publish his work and distribute copies among the boys at the school. Although rather hesitant at first, the school authorities decided to allow Lester to follow through on his plan. The acceptance of the poetry was so widespread among Lester's schoolmates that Lester published two additional collections.

Here is how Professors Fader and Shaevitz recount the rest of the tale, in "Hooked on Books."

What began as an improbable story ends as an impossible fantasy. As Lester underwent the dramatic change from a passive to an aggressive human being, from a local laugh to a local leader, his aspirations changed as well. The world of the W. J. Maxey Boys Training School at Whitmore Lake became even smaller than it was. Lester wanted copyright to his extensive production of poetry.

Acting upon the advice of his English teacher, Lester wrote to Congressman Weston Vivian, Democrat, representing Michi-

Federal Screw Works Union Names Officers

New officers were elected Wednesday, June 15, to head the Federal Screw Works Unit of the Amalgamated Local 487 UAW-CIO during the coming year. The election was at the Union Hall, 113 S. Main St.

Charles Pierce was elected chairman by a margin of 87 to 46 votes cast for K. R. McMannis. Arthur Minix received 78 votes in the election of the vice-chairman to win over Gene Hagaman, who received 64 votes.

Elected to the bargaining committee were Gertrude Clark, Wayne Walbrook and L. N. Farley, who received 72, 56 and 42 votes, respectively. Other candidates and their tallies were: Pat Nazarak and Ott Risner, 41 votes each; Jack Joseph, 38; Home Kuhl, 30; Clifford Wolfe, 28; and Richard Scripser, 22.

Elected to a fourth term as recording secretary in an uncontested vote was Dorothy Eisenman, who reaped 116 votes. Gerry Sherwood tallied 110 votes for the position of night steward in uncontested balloting.

Because improbability is boundless, Lester's story has another episode. After his release from BTS, Lester called his teacher regularly to report on his activities. A few months after his release, Lester walked into the school library one afternoon to find her staring at the drugstore spinners full of paperback books, staring at nothing.

"Lester called this morning," I could barely hear the words. "What's wrong?"

"He says he just got a $500 check from a publisher for his poems."

It was true, improbable, impossible. Nevertheless true. Another BTS alumnus who keeps in touch with his former teachers came to visit the school sometime after Lester's telephone call. He was able to verify the story with the best sort of information—he had seen the check. It was no surprise to him: "When that cat came from Washington Town," he told us, "everybody knew Lester going to be the man."
