Congressman Wes VIVIAN
Reports from WASHINGTON

Congress presently is considering two proposals by President Johnson to temporarily tighten our corporate income tax laws to help alleviate the inflationary pressures besetting our rapidly expanding economy.

The first measure would be a temporary suspension of the accelerated depreciation allowance for new business enterprises; the second a temporary suspension of the investment credit incentive. These measures would tend to reduce new commitments by business for additional buildings and equipment until the backlog of orders now on the books had decreased and inflationary pressures eased.

Currently, hearings on these two proposed actions are being held by the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, which has control over tax legislation introduced in the Congress. Most members of the Committee agree to feel that a temporary suspension of these tax incentives will slow the economy adequately for the next few months, and it is likely that the proposals will receive a favorable report.

I have been trying, however, to convince the Committee to adopt one very important amendment to the legislation proposed by the President to continue incentives

History Fight

Within the next few years a decision must be made regarding the focal point of Michigan government, the 87-year-old State Capitol building.

Before that decision is final, Michigan residents are likely to see a big fight as one tax question after another is produced.

The question will be: Should we retain the present building and add to it to meet increasing space demands or should we tear it down and start anew, presumably with a considerably more modern architectural base?

Opposing forces will be debating the historical values of the building as it stands versus the safety and convenience of the legislative and executive branches of government.

Original cost of the construction in 1879 was about $1.5 million. Legislative proponents of a new building say it would cost considerably more than this to do an effective renovation to make it fully useful and safe. Several areas on the fourth floor are closed off because of fire hazard and inaccessibility if escape became necessary.

Historical buffs will argue on behalf of the more than 100,000 people who visit the Capitol annually and see the strange contrast between the old, ornate domes and chandeliers and the new, neatly partitioned offices remodeled in the last few years for more efficient use of available space.

School Bus Stops

Early fall days of school usually provide a visible warning signal to motorists for extra care on streets where small children might be crossing.

State law requires all traffic to stop in both directions when a rural school bus is stopped and its flasher lights are blinking.

On a divided highway, however, only those cars going in the same direction as the school bus must be stopped.

Wants Complaints

Few state government workers complain about lack of work, but one man in Lansing is doing just that.

He is Gordon Alexander, who was named a few months ago to the post of ombudsman in the Secretary of State's office. This position, defined largely as the citizen's spokesman in the department, is unique in the U.S., although it is used in several countries abroad.

Essentially, Alexander holds down an office, for some months without secretarial assistance, to hear complaints from private citizens which come within the Secretary of State's jurisdiction.

At $10,500 a year, it is doubtful that Michigan's ombudsman is earning his keep, although this can hardly be blamed on him.

He was appointed in July, but didn't tell anyone about the new post for three weeks. Even then, the word apparently didn't get around as well as it might have.

And after three months, Alexander has heard from only a handful of citizens. Some of the complaints which reached him were entirely outside his department's domain, dealing instead with the responsibilities of local government or other state units.

Effectiveness of the ombudsman over the years will depend essentially on citizen use of his services.

First, with Alexander dealing

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows at the country store Saturday night was so full of what-ole-Dizzy-Denn-used-to-call "stables" that I was afraid the sparks was going to set the store on fire.

First off, Clem Webster of the Great Society, brought out a newspaper clipping showing where the Postmaster General had ordered all post office workers to start using rubber bands instead of twine to tie bundles of mail. The piece said they had conducted a survey and found bands would last longer and would save $4 million a year. Clem claimed this was the beginning of a big economy wave in the Great Society.

Ed Doolittle, that still carries Goldwater's button in his pocket and Abe Lincoln's picture in the back of his watch allowed as how it probably cost $4 million to conduct that survey and they wouldn't be no savings for the first year! Furthermore, said Ed, that time the twine lobby in Washington would have took a few Senators to some horse races and another $4 million survey would show rubber bands wasn't strong enough to do the job.

Zeke Grubb, that votes either way, depending on how farm prices was at election time, said he was agin the fellows bringing all them newspaper stables to the Saturday night sessions, but on account of he didn't want to get marked absent, he had brought along a little one himself. Zeke's piece reported they was 12 doctors, 11 lawyers and judges, 40 gas station operators and 40 telephone workers, a total of 109, but every 10,000 American citizens, 27 more than all the doctors, law-

Council Briefs

The invocation at the Sept. 20 Village Council meeting was by the Rev. Charles E. Hardin of the Chelsea Assembly of God Church.

Discussion was held with Tammie Picklesimer regarding a request by ASECO for a strip of land one and one-half feet wide along the northern edge of Monroe St. No official action.

Discussion was held with Bob Rudd, representing the Chelsea Planning commission, after several studies, recommends to the council that an amendment be made to Article 3, Section 5 of the Village Zoning Ordinance, which will require side, front and rear yards to act as a buffer strip between industrial and residential areas. The Council will take the proposal under study and will contact the Village Zoning Consultant in this regard.

A discussion was held regarding the Van Buren St. fire whistle. After a thorough investigation it was determined that no advantage would be gained by moving the location from its present location to beneath the Federal Screw Works tower. For the time being the whistle will remain at its present location. An investigation will be made to check into the feasibility of raising the height of the whistle to lessen noise in the immediate area.

Discussion was held regarding the township and village fire agreements. A meeting will be held with the township supervisors and the council representatives in the near future.

Motion to appoint Thomas Smith as special assessor for curb and gutter constructed on Grant St. in 1966.

Resolution was approved to make application to the state highway department to relocate and improve the driveway entrances to Pierce Park.

representative stone collection; botanically-keyed tree plantings; a soil profile for the study of erosion, gully and weathering; and plantings of vegetation and shrubbery to provide habitats for native birds and animals.

Other possible inclusions might be weather stations, bird feeders, a sidewalk with the solar system or other scientific data designed in the cement, a sundial, a telescope for the study of astronomy, bee hives, a soil plot for the study of soil types and effects.

The lab will be for kindergarten through twelfth grade use, she added, as well as for church groups, scouting groups, and the whole community — a "community-use" area, not just a school area.

John Traxdorf, Washnaw County soil conservationist, said that a soil map of the site has been completed and that the map will be used in laying out walkways through the area and in the proper planning of shrub and tree plantings. He said the small plots of various small grains and corn would be planted to provide food for small animals as well as for classroom observation and experimentation.

An inventory already completed on the site has revealed a great deal of wildlife and a variety of tree and shrub existing on the site.

The Greenspan project was hailed as a milestone in many respects including the fact that it is the first Greenspan project in the state, that two young people from the schools participated in the planning, and that the townspeople and the community were also drawn into the project.

A copy of the portion of the recently completed village aerial survey map showing the 41-acre site was offered to the committee by Donald Baldwin, village president.

Attending the Monday ceremonies at the Chelsea Junior High building site were Holger Carlson, of Jackson, the ASCS representative; the Washnaw County Board of Education; and Raymond Girbach, of Sable, members of the Washnaw County

ASCS committee. Mrs. Carolyn Stamp, office manager of the Washnaw County ASCS office; Jim Cooper, ASCS area conservationist; George and Leigh Palmer, both of Chelsea, who were introduced as the former owners of the farm land.

Charles Lancaster, representing the Chelsea School Board, and Fred Mills, Chelsea schools business manager, were also introduced.

Members of the Outdoor Nature Lab committee present in addition to Mrs. Steinbach, committee chairman, were Donald Young, sixth grade science teacher; Terry Pokela, high school biology teacher; Trona Bentley, student representative from the Junior High school; and Kathy Fuhs, student representative from the high school.

In addition to the Greenspan grant, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is providing $600 in cost-sharing assistance for installing the conservation measures the land will need in its new use.

The Junior High school site is within easy walking distance of the High school. The center will continue to develop through the years.

In addition to nature study classes, the center will provide a recreational area for ice skating in the winter and other sports, and would be an ideal place for art class sketchings or painting.

The orchard is located on land formerly farmed by Dr. Webb's parents, the late Mr.

Webb Homestead Converted Into New Apple Orchard

A contemplative farm located at 13620 North Territorial Rd., has been converted into an apple orchard by the third generation of the Webb family.

H. J. Webb, present day owner of the property, played the role of a modern-day Johnny Appleseed by planting nearly 1,000 trees on the site. Most of the trees were planted in 1962.

A Detroit dentist, Webb started the orchard with the hopes of someday retiring to the site.

Area residents remember the farm as the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Webb, who lived on the farm all of their married life. Webb says that he likes to think of the trees as a living memorial to his mother and father.

Richard Webb was the first of the present owner's family to own the property. Although Webb does not know exactly when Richard Webb purchased the property, he says he does know that it was more than 100 years ago.

The trees which Webb planted four years ago are producing their first real crop of apples, and the tree boughs are straining under their loads. The semidyant varieties include Ida Reds, Jonathans, McIntosh, Red and Yellow Delicious, Connel Blaze, Lodi and Tydemane Reds.

Peach trees occupy a portion of the 10-acre orchard.

Webb, a 1921 graduate of Chelsea High school, has built an office on the orchard site. The orchard is on North Lake.

Dedication of the new church is set for Sunday, Oct. 23, with open house following a special afternoon service. Guest speaker at the dedication service is to be Dr. Gerhard Grauer, pastor emeritus of St. Paul church in Chicago and a former moderator of the United Church of Christ.

Architect for the new church is A. James Smith of the Tecumseh firm of Smith & Gardner. The plan combines strength and openness through the construction medium of poured concrete, a comparatively new concept in church construction in this country.

Kiwanians Briefed on Computers

William F. Storey, data processing specialist with the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., told Chelsea Kiwanians Monday evening about the role of data processing in order taking, billing, inventories and production control.

He traced computers from their crude beginning in 1650 through the big developments made through the years by Burroughs, Remington, Rand, Univac and others to the modern, especially in the past 10 years, raw facts and timing information is placed in computers and decisions are made and questions accurately answered by the computers.

Last year, 30,000 computers were placed in operation and this year 40,000 are expected to be placed in service, according to Storey.

In other business, Wallace Wood, past president, presided at the meeting due to the absence of President Floyd Fowler and Vice Presidents Paul Schaeble and Clare Warren, who were all at the Kiwanis State Convention in Grand Rapids.

For the next two weeks, we will be reporting on legislation which pertains to local units of government passed by the Legislature in 1966.

PUBLIC ACT 35—provides that a township board may order the construction of sidewalks in any area, after a public hearing, and assess the costs payable over a five-year period to the owners of the property or allow the property owners to have sidewalks constructed at their own expense according to township specifications.

Before sidewalks are constructed on the right of way of state highways or county roads, approval must be obtained from the state or county highway authority having jurisdiction. (Effective 5, 26, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 36—authorizes a political subdivision which maintains a retirement system for its employees to elect to come under the statute authorizing the investment of public employee retirement systems or plans created and established by the state or any political subdivision. (Effective 5, 26, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 44—provides that township officers elected at each even numbered year shall take office on April 10 of the following year. Justices of the Peace whose terms of office end before Dec. 31, 1968, shall continue in office until Dec. 31, 1968, the date on which the office is abolished under the constitution. The act also removes members of the board of review and commissioner of highways from the township ballot. Members of the board of review are now appointive and the duties of the office of township commissioner of highways are now handled by the county highway commission. (Effective 5, 26, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 46—allows a county board of supervisors to create a county economic development commission. A separate agency or the existing county agency may be designated as the commission. The board of supervisors of two or more contiguous counties may create a regional economic development commission. The commission shall consist of at least three but not more than eleven members. Membership of a regional commission shall be apportioned according to the population of the member counties. (Effective 5, 26, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 47—lengthens the term of office on a county library board from four to five years. (Effective 6, 9, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 74—brings the social welfare act into conformity with the executive reorganization by changing the county department of social welfare to the county department of social services. (Effective 6, 10, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 88—allows members of a board of county institutions to receive per diem compensation and other expenses for attending up to 24 meetings a year. The previous law allowed compensation for 14 meetings. (Effective 6, 14, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 91—provides that any county planning commission or department created or existing under the provisions of the act to provide for county planning may be placed under the jurisdiction of the county board of auditors in counties with a population between 650,000 and 1,000,000 (Oakland County) by resolution of the board of supervisors. (Effective 6, 15, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 94—allows townships which have abolished their annual meeting to determine the salary of township officers at any time. (Effective 6, 16, '66)

PUBLIC ACT 96—allows the civil service commission of a city, village or municipality to waive the one-year residence requirement in cases of inability to secure competent applicants for examinations for firemen and policemen. All applicants must have resided in the state one year prior to their application.

PUBLIC ACT 105—adds cities with a population of less than 15,000 to the act which now permits townships and incorporated villages to contract for fire protection services. The bill also stipulates that no township, incorporated village or city with less than 15,000 inhabitants shall use this act in any way to lessen the number of paid full-time firemen in their respective communities. (Effective 6, 22, '66)

REPORT from LANSING

State Representative

Thomas G. Sharpe

Driver Failure Emerging as Cause of Most Holiday Deaths

Driver failure is emerging as the main cause of most of the 28 traffic accidents which resulted in 39 deaths over the 78-hour Labor Day week-end, according to an on-the-spot investigation being conducted by the Automobile Club of Michigan. Driver error was also the proximate cause of most Memorial and July 4 week-end deaths.

High speed and drinking were involved in most of the accidents, points, and on July 4 week-end, no obvious mechanical defects have yet been found which could have caused the accidents. But bald tires on several cars could have contributed to them.

Four of the 38 drivers involved were not Michiganians. The 10 lists of the drivers had an average of 10 points—since driving records have been kept.

"This is much worse than the average driver on the road," said proved by their past records that they are unfit to drive. Some must be done that is not now done to take them off the road permanently before they badly injure or kill someone.

Twelve of the accidents involved a single-car run-off-road, 11 wrecks, three involved pedestrians, one was a car-motorcycle crash and one car hit a train.

Eighty percent of the drivers involved were within 25 miles of home, not on vacation.

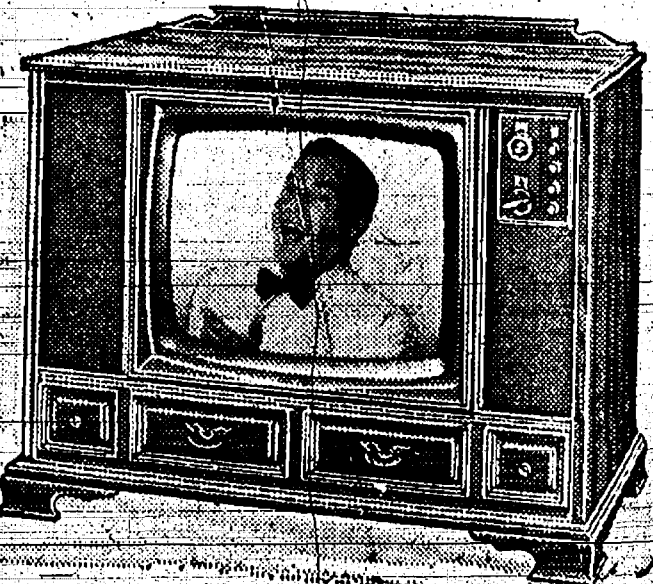

"This is despite heavy vacation travel on Labor Day week-end," Rehms said. "On Monday of week-end, traffic volume was less in heavy on Michigan roads with three traffic jams stretched from 12 to 20 miles and lasted from one to four hours. They were on I-75 from near City to Flint, on US-24 from Standish to on I-54 to it ends at the Indiana border."

"Our analysts have studied scenes of most of these accidents and we feel Michigan's present traffic safety will be changed by what they are finding," Rehms said.
