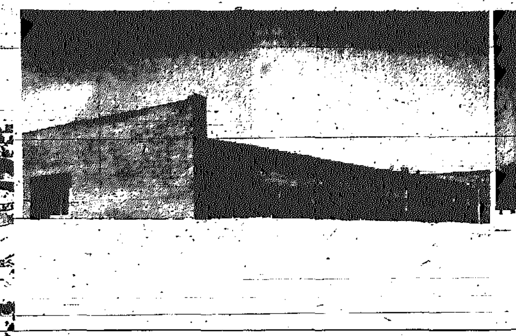
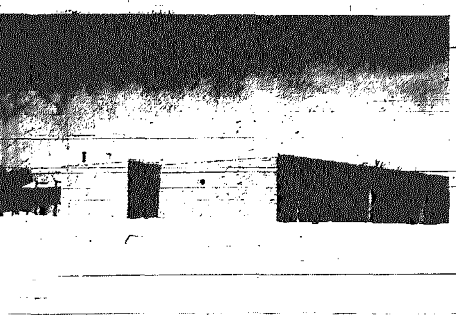
JUNIOR HIGH CONSTRUCTION: A …ner of the new Junior High foundation is …spected by school business manager Fred …ills. At least two of the five sections of the structure are now above ground level. Construction is now proceeding on schedule, with completion scheduled by late 1967.



THE ADDITION to South Elementary school now has a lived-in look, with children's drawings on the walls and books filling the desks. Fourth and fifth grade classes moved into the addition after the Thanksgiving holiday. In addition to classrooms, this new wing also houses a library and reading room.



THE HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION will be occupied over Christmas vacation. Here an unidentified man inspects the addition through the windows. The building includes 10 classrooms: two commercial rooms, one special education room, one language laboratory and six general classrooms.

Junior High Construction On Schedule

The foundations of the new Junior High school are appearing above ground. Construction is now on schedule and the major part of the site development is completed. (See photo above).

Fred Mills, business manager for the Chelsea schools, explained recently that tests on the gravel fill used on part of the site revealed that the fill is nearly 100 percent compact—as opposed to a previous estimate of 90-95 percent.

Mills emphasized that the fill was part of the original site plan and is not an additional cost.

Both the architect and the construction firm are pleased with the site and progress made, Mills said.

The foundation construction is above ground in at least two of the five units of the school. The Junior High units are not separate, but rather form wings around a central unit.

Forty-one acres of the approximately 51-acre site have been set aside for development into an outdoor nature lab to be used by both school classes and community groups. Plans for the lab include three ponds, one stagnant and two running. Nature trails with labeled trees and plants will be developed. Areas for soil study, stone collection and plantings to encourage animals and birds to live in the lab are also planned.

Since the Junior High site is within walking distance of the high school, planners hope the lab will be used extensively by high school classes.

Two other school building projects have already been completed. The addition, to the high school will be occupied during the Christmas vacation. School business manager Fred Mills reports that the building is actually ready to be occupied now, but that the difficulties of moving some equipment from old rooms to new make occupation over the vacation impractical.

The addition to South Elementary was recently completed and classes moved in a week ago. The addition now houses fourth and fifth grade classrooms, a library and a reading room.

CHS Home Basketball Starts Friday

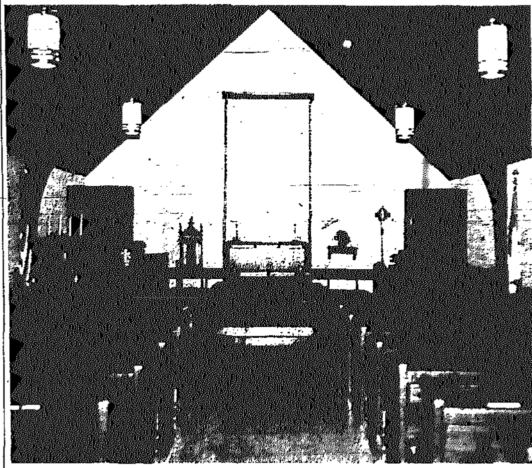
Tuesday night the Chelsea Bulldogs travelled to Onsted and proceded to absorb their "lumps" at the hands of the Onsted Wildcats by the score of 78-57.

Inexperience was evident on the part of the Bulldog squad. Being behind the entire game—at halftime 35-26, the Bulldogs pulled within one point of Onsted, 44-43, in the third quarter before the "roof fell in."

Costly, ball-handling mistakes and fouls allowed Onsted to reel off 14 straight points before the Bulldogs could score again.

Scoring for Chelsea found Jeff Hitchingham getting 16 points and 12 rebounds; Jack Risner, 10 points; Larry Gaken, 7; John Lixey, 6; Kim Flintoft, 6; John Freeman, 6; Wes Stinehelfer, 5; Larry Porath, 1; and Jim Lyerla, 1.

Friday night Dec. 9, the Dundee Vikings invade the Bulldog lair for the first conference game. Dundee's record is 0-1, having lost to Tecumseh, 75-59.



NEW FURNISHINGS: St. Barnabas Episcopal church members are justifiably proud of the new interior furnishings with which the church is now outfitted. The new wooden pews replace folding chairs which had been used temporarily since the church was built in 1960. Finances for the refurbishing were raised by the members themselves through bake sales, bazaars and similar activities.

St. Barnabas Church Has New Interior Furnishings

St. Barnabas Episcopal church, has an entirely new interior.

The church, designed by architect Charles D. Scott, and built in 1960 by the Chelsea Associated Builders, in consultation with the Toledo, O., firm of Sanzenbacher, Miller and Brigham, Engineers, had its new interior design entirely planned by the parishioners themselves.

However, the story behind the refurbishing of the six-year-old mission, soon to be a parish when complete financial stability is attained, is something of a small miracle.

One year ago, a group of women composed of Mrs. Edwin W. Eaton, Mrs. Edward Shippy, Mrs. William White and Mrs. Jerrold Beaumont met for the first time as the Furniture and Pew Fund committee, with Mrs. Eaton serving as chairman.

Determined to replace the folding chairs and other makeshift devices which had been an integral part of the little church since the new building was erected, they, with the Episcopal Church Women, planned bake sales, ice cream socials, bazaars and various other projects, each small in itself, but which, otgether, have yielded in less than a year a sizable fund. Aided by a most generous bequest from the estate of Mrs. Hugh Green, until recently a resident of the Methodist Home, other memorial funds, a few outright gifts as well as igfts of labor too numerous to mention, the fund grew large enough to finance the new interior, on which work was completed last week.

One's first impression upon entering St. Barnabas is entirely unexpected.

A small compact building, modern in exterior design, the interior is a testament to what ingenuity can create.

Against the lights walls, dark stained pews, which will adequately seat 104 persons, and altar woods give an impression of spaciousness, carried upwards to the paneled roof and heavy interior beams.

Long Gothic-inspired wrought iron and translucent glass lamps hang from chains over the nave. Rich red carpeting on the sanctuary contrasts with the dark beauty of the wood.

An antique Bishop's chair, upholsted in deep blue velvet is a dark foil to the heavy ivory brocade dossal curtain edged in blue panne velvet scroll, seven feet across, which descends from nearly ceiling height to the floor of the sanctuary. The curtain, a gift of the Edwin W. Eaton family, was purchased while they were traveling in England, the home of the Anglican church, from which the Episcopal sect is descended.

Directly in back of the choir pews, on either side of the altar, fretwork screens, also in a dark wood, enclose the organ and console. Various brass fixtures, including a standing cross complement the purple velvet pulpit hangings now being used.

Jerrold Beaumont, chairman of the Bishop's committee, and principal lay reader since the church has been without a vicar, stated that progress is being made in the plans to obtain a new vicar.

He also said that St. Barnabas plans its formal dedication ceremony sometime in the near future.

Wrestlers Win Season's First Match

Last Friday night, the wrestling Bulldogs of Chelsea High school came from behind to defeat Vandercook Lake, 24 to 21.

In the early moments of the meet, Vandercook Lake compiled a 13 to 0 lead in the 95-, 103- and 112-pound weight classes. The Chelsea team then came back to win the 120-, 127-, 154- and 165-pound classes by decisions, with the Bulldogs taking the 133- and 138-pound classes by falls. A draw was registered in the 180-pound class and Vandercook took the 145 and heavyweight classes by decisions.

In the 95-pound weight class, freshman Tom Tirb opened up the Chelsea wrestling season with the first match of his career, but lost a 10 to 5 decision after losing a 5 to 0 first round lead.

John McKeighan, Chelsea's 103-pounder was forced into a predicament from which he could not escape and lost by a first round pin.

Jim Williams lost a 5 to 2 decision to a more experienced Kinney of Vandercook Lake in the 112-pound class.

Outstanding Young Lady Is Selected

An Outstanding Young Woman award to honor women for their community service in hopes that recognizing them will inspire others to serve, will be presented by the Jaycees Auxiliary to Mrs. Arthur (Anne) Steinaway, 1792 McKinley, in a ceremony to be held at Inverness Country Club on Dec. 17.

A graduate of Chelsea High school and Jackson Business University, where she was a member of Alpha Iota Society and 1957-58 Conclave Queen, Anne now serves on the board of directors of the Jaycees Auxiliary, is a member of the Child Study Club, and of the First Methodist church, where she teaches a first grade Sunday school class. She has also served as chairman of the church membership and Evangelism committees, and was 1965-66 chairmother.

Several New Classes Slated By Recreation Commission

Richard Bareis, director of the Chelsea Area Recreation Commission, has announced changes in this week's recreation schedule and several new classes for both children and adults.

The Saturday morning basketball classes for boys in grades four through eight have been cancelled for this week only. A High school carnival will be using the gym this Saturday.

The afternoon girls' recreation group will meet as planned at the Junior High school from 1 to 3 p.m.

Bareis reports that little interest has been shown in high school boys' basketball, but the group will meet again this week at the Junior High from 10 to 12 a.m. Any interested high school boys should come to the class.

New ballet classes for children have been organized. Mrs. Marica Kemp will teach ballet, pre-ballet and kinder-dance classes. The kinder-dance class, for 5- and 6-year-olds, will cost 75 cents for each half-hour lesson. Pre-ballet, for 7- and 8-year-olds, will be $1. For 45-minute lessons. Ballet class, for those 9 and over, will last an hour and the cost per lesson will be $1.25. At least eight students should register for each class. The classes will begin the second week of January.

Definite times and places have not yet been established for these classes. Anyone who would like to register for any of the ballet classes or who would like more information on them should contact Mrs. Kemp at 663-5010.

Several adult classes have been organized. A women's physical education class will be taught by Mrs. Nancy Picklik. The classes will begin on Wednesday, Jan. 11 and will run for eight weeks. The cost will be $5 for all eight sessions. The group will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the High school gym. Interested women should pre-register before Jan. 15 by contacting Mrs. Picklik at 475-8328.

A men's physical-education class will also meet Wednesday nights in the High school gym, beginning on Jan. 11. This class will meet for 10 sessions and will be taught by Richard Dusseau. The classes will cover basketball, volleyball and other physical education activities. Men interested in this class should also contact the instructor before Jan. 15. Dusseau may be reached at GR 5-8081.

A knitting class will be taught by Mrs. Clara Ewald. The class will meet for 10 weeks beginning Thursday, Jan. 5, at 7:30 p.m. The two-hour class will be held in the home economics room at the High school. At least 10 people should register for the class to be held. The cost will be $7.50 for all 10 lessons. Intersted persons should register with Richard Bareis at the Junior High or his home (GR 9-7466).

A typing class will meet for 12 weeks beginning Monday, Jan. 9, in the High school typing room. The classes will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and cost will be $6 plus book rental. Mrs. Scoville will teach. Those interested in the typing class should also register with Bareis.

Modern Math for adults will be taught by Robert Purcel. Classes will begin Wednesday, Jan. 11, and last for 10 weeks. Cost will be $5 plus books. The group will meet in the High school math room from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Other classes are being developed for guitar, foreign languages, Saturday night square dancing, sewing, and art, Bareis reports. Anyone interested in any of these areas should contact him immediately. If these classes do not have enough interested adults by Jan. 15, they will be dropped, Bareis says. He also announced that he would be able to organize a stocks and bonds class any time at least 10 persons want to attend.

Anyone who has other specific ideas about adult classes is welcome to suggest them to Bareis.

More and More

Demands upon education at all levels are increasing at an alarmingly high rate and give no indication of slowing down in this world of rapid change.

"The school building is becoming the focal point of the community problems, and a training Public Instruction Ira Polley. "It may be the domain of the youngster during the day but it becomes, in the evening, a center of continuing study for mother and dad, a forum for discussing community problems, and a training center for acquiring new skills."

This change has occurred, Polley notes, with the realization that a fixed amount of knowledge and one set of skills is no longer always sufficient for a lifetime.

Combined with this trend toward continuing education, Michigan and other states now find themselves challenged to take over some of the moral and social guidance of young people, tasks once reserved for the family or community.

Then there is the demand to serve the gifted and the mentally handicapped; the wealthy and the poverty-stricken; the physically normal and the physically handicapped.

Polley contends the teachers in Michigan schools are ready to meet these various demands but that community members must reciprocate with financial support for the kinds of programs these demands dictate.

"Education in the breadth and depth necessary to give Michigan residents full opportunity for self-development and fulfillment will require a greater investment than we have previously been willing to make in dollars and effort, but such an investment is within our means.

"The one thing we cannot afford is the appalling toll of ignorance," contends the education chief. "Ignorance is a negative influence that can only empty our minds and our pocketbooks."

Use of computers as teaching machines is seen as one part of the answer of meeting these increasing demands on education.

In some parts of the country, "talking computers" are being used already in experiments to teach reading at the earliest levels of education.

In Michigan, research in this field is being concentrated at the university level but researchers believe it can be adapted for use at all levels.

Quick-Slow Learners

A major research project under way in co-operation among the state's Big Three universities is geared to the two extremes of learning: the students ready for advanced work and those requiring remedial help.

Teachers usually are prepared to deal with the average needs of the student body, but time demands have frequently limited the attention available to extremely fast or extremely slow learners.

Researchers emphasize computers can never replace teacher-student contacts, but, rather, can supplement these with individual attention, although on an impersonal basis.

Use of computers which can lecture to students aloud, ask questions and receive typed or electronically marked answers marks a revolution in the education process, no doubt.

Dr. Frank Marzocco, director of Michigan State University's Human Learning Research Institute, argues that computers will not, however, dehumanize education.

"Behind every computer there is a real professor," he notes.

State Policewomen

Equal employment laws enacted recently had nothing to do with it, but Michigan's State Police will soon be a co-educational force.

Gears started moving this Fall to add two women to the force, primarily to deal with community relations and juvenile case work.

Appealing as the jobs might sound, at salaries ranging from $6,300 to nearly $9,000 annually, policewomen are difficult to find.

College education is required for police work by women in most jurisdictions, including the new state posts.

Dedication to hard, sometimes mentally frustrating work also comes in handy. Police departments which have employed women in the past note it is difficult to keep the female contingency up to full force.

State Police administrators are hoping the relatively good pay, rather liberal age and education specifications, and a stipulation that either married or single women may work in these posts will enable them to get and keep a reliable female unit on the employment rolls.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

As my Pa used to say, I ain't been feeling too jubilant for the last few days. The bad news was running ahead of the good news in the papers all week. But I reckon all of us has them sad spells at times. I was reading this piece where some Guvernment expert said they was days when even the bumble bee don't feel like bumbling. It probable cost us taxpayers a heap of money to git this information but it was worth it.

Speaking of such items, I was reading where one of them science fellers has got a Guvernment research grant of $28,400 go to out in the sandy country near Palm Springs in California and learn how the desert cockroach lives and what it eats.

I brung this matter up at the country store Saturday night and Zeke Grubb was of the opinion, judging from what it cost, Lyndon had ought to give us a daily bulletin on this project.

Ed Doolittle claimed this daily report wasn't necessary, that when the feller got through the Guvernment would git out a pamphlet on it, the U. S. Department of Agriculture would git out some pictures, and it would be wrote up in the Congressional Record, all of it maybe costing less than a measley $25,000.

Josh Clodhopper erported he had the answer fer all our modern problems. He said he had ordered hisself a pair of rose colored glasses out of his mail order catalogue and when they got here he aimed to wear 'em all day and quit watching television at night.

Josh Clodhopper reported he had ter Editor, that don't talk much but he has got a straight answer fer everthing and thinks he knows it all. Them fellers that thinks they know it all is special annoying to us that do. Personal, I think we was living in a age when they ain't no plain yes or no answers to nothing no more. About all a feller can do these days is to figger things out on a "maybe" and "perhaps" basis. That is, of course, fer everthing except higher taxes.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with me in this matter, told the fellers Saturday night his preacher warned the congregation Sunday again holding to half-truths on account of maybe they was holding the wrong half.

Clem Webster said it made him recollect the story about the two kids that was going to school and watching the cars whiz by. One kid ask the other: "What do you want to be when you grow up—if you grow up?"

Incidental, Mister Editor, the storekeeper is staying open a alf hour later on Saturday nights. He told the fellers he had saw where Americans now owe 1 trillion, 267 billion and 500 million dollars and it comes to $6,670 fer ever man, woman and child in America. He said he had to git busy on his $6,670.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

You'd apologize if you bumped her in the elevator. You'd feel terrible if you stepped on her toe. And you'd rage at anyone who threatened her safety. But what about you . . . when you are the threat? Like when you lead-foot at speed limit plus ten. Or beat the traffic light. Or fake out all those guys at the intersection. When you have the wheel, are you matching the automakers' all-out effort to keep her . . . and you . . . safe? Are you?

CHS Student Carnival Slated For Saturday

Proceeds from Gala Event Will Purchase New Furniture for Lounge

Saturday, Dec. 10 the Chelsea Senior High School Student Council is launching its biggest project of the year, the Holiday Carnival.

In recent years the Council has sponsored a Nickel Carnival with various clubs and organizations participating in this money-making project. This year's Council decided to sponsor the entire carnival. Instead of clubs individual students will donate their time.

Fourteen booths are to be supplied by Capitol Toy Co. of Lansing, along with all prizes needed for the games. This is the first year the games will not be handmade or created by the individual clubs. The prizes vary from all sizes of stuffed animals to transistor radio's and home applicances.

The following booths were ordered by the Student Council: Plush Jarco, Transistor Jarco, Yum Yum Tree, Loop-O, Fish Pond, Over 12 Game, Roll-a-score, Cane Pitch, Clown Face, Teddy Bear Pitch, Tic Tac Toe, Crazy Ball, Skillo, and the Milk Can Game. The refreshment stand and the stockade are two additional booths.

The Carnival will start at 1 p.m. in the Senior High school gym. There is no admission charge.

As in the past, money will have to be handled at one specific boot where tickets may be purchased. No money will be handled at any of the booths other than the ticket booth.

Two giant bulldogs will be awarded some lucky persons.

Santa Claus will make his grand entrance at 2:30 p.m. On his arrival, children will have the chance to tell Santa of their Christmas desires. Free candy canes will be handed out.

As a finale to the day's festivities, Student Council is sponsoring a dance for all senior high school students. Beginning at 8 p.m. "Dance Under the Big Top" will feature the crowning of the "Queen of the Carnival."

The queen candidates representing the four classes are: senior, Rebecca Freeman; junior, Kay Gebot; sophomore, Kathy Wescott; freshman, Jill Lantis.

The Student Council heartily urges all townsmen, children, and students to attend the Holiday Carnival and help promote its success.

Blood Bank Clinic

The American Red Cross will hold a Blood Bank Clinic at its headquarters at 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor, on Friday, Dec. 9 from 2 to 7:30 p.m.

Blood may be credited to a particular patient, or to the Chelsea Blood Bank.

For the donor's convenience, appointments may be made by calling 662-5546.

Post Office Schedules Extra Hours

Postmaster Richard Schaules has announced that the Post Office will be open until 5 p.m. on Satuday, Dec. 10, and Saturday, Dec. 17, for the convenience of patrons.

The postmaster suggests that mail of all kinds be brought to the Post Office early in the day. This is important throughout the year, but is particularly so during the holiday rush.

Patrons also are asked to separate their Christmas cards in bundles for out-of-town and local delivery, and use the special labels provided by the Post Office to mark each bundle.

The postmaster is asking that all outgoing mail include the local ZIP Code in the return address. "This is the best time of the year to update mailing lists. Remember to check the ZIP Codes on all incoming mail and add them to your address book," the postmaster advises.

restlers Win First Match

Young gave Chelsea wrestans the first victory of the with a 5 to 0 victory over rcook Lake's 120-pounder. Hendricks defeated Virgil k of Vandercook Lake with third round reversal in the und category, for a two- victory.

Stahl gave Chelsea its first the year at 4:43 of the 133- class. Stahl's pin made the score 13 to 11 with Chelsea only two points behind and coming up fast.

Mark Lancaster gave the fans an exciting contest in the 138-pound weight class. Lancaster and his opponent kept the crowd on their feet in a fast moving match that ended with Lancaster scoring a fall victory with 43 seconds left in the match.

Going into the 145-pound class, the Chelsea team held a three-point lead over Vandercook Lake, which made the team score: Chelsea 16, Vandercook Lake 10.

Freshman Tim Colvia, wrestling his first match in the 145-pound class, lost a tough 6 to 3 decision to Vandercook Lakes senior conference champion. Tim is the brother of Neil Colvia, who once wrestled for the Bulldogs in the 165-pound class.

Lauren Boyer won a close and high scoring match which was not decided until the last 20 seconds of the match. The final score of Boyer's (154) match was 8 to 7.

Senior Paul Lancaster getting the take-down early in the first round, kept his opponent under control throughout the match for a big 11 to 2 victory.

Ray Worden came through with a 2 to 2 draw in the 180-pound class. Worden was behind by two points until the third quarter when he came back for his two-point draw. Worden's draw clinched a victory for the Chelsea team and ended any hopes Vandercook Lake had for a victory.

Sophomore Mike Gaken lost a 7 to 4 decision to Vandercook's heavyweight. Gaken was outweighed by 68 pounds and had to put up a spirited fight to avoid being pinned by his oppenent.

With this victory behind them, the Chelsea wrestlers should be on their way to an outstanding season if they can improve in their inexperienced weight classes.

Chelsea's next match is tonight, against Adrian Madison at Adrian, at 7 p.m. A week from today, the Bulldog grapplers go against the Michigan Center team at the Michigan Center gym. Chelsea does not have a home meet until Jan 5, when they go against Boysville in a Mid-5 league meet. This meet will also be at 7 p.m.

The second group will meet at 11:00 a.m. in the orchard of Robert Schlupe, 8225 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor, located between Baker and Parker Roads, on the south side, about 6 miles west of Ann Arbor.

An old orchard, recently purchased, Schlupe's contains many varities of apples, and about 125 trees. The orchard has a number of problems which will be discussed.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

A personal letter at a time of bereavement can mean a lot. This letter shows you why—

"Words sound and seem empty. But even so, I'll try . . . In the pattern of life, a person's mettle is measured when compelled to face a very realistic decision of a Higher Power. We are proud of you; proud of your courage, your fortitude. We're proud of the way you handled and conducted yourself during the tough and trying ordeal of these past several days, as well as in the preceding months.

"A beneficient and kind Creator has given all of us many blessings. You have a rare blessing in the precious possession of pleasant memories. We, too, are grateful for our blessing that allows us to share at least some of the memories with you. You don't have to be told. You know we are and will be thinking of you always."

This letter proved to be a tonic to the person who received it. The recipient graciously suggested the letter be published here in the hope that others may write appropriate letters to those in sorrow . . . BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 E. Middle St., Chelsea, Mich., Phone 475-4141.

Please accept our sincere gratitude for your consideration in sending a copy of your Chelsea Standard with the article on Mr. Turner's Alaska Travels.

I shall frame this page and display it in our new Information Center for all your Michigan tourists to view in 1967.

Remembering Mr. Turner brings to mind a kind gentleman with an unsually refined composure for one travelling extensively; and orderly keeping notes of his views. A most enthusiastic cameraman to say the least.

We hope to see him again and many of your people for our Centennial Year.

Rolling Brass Make Hit at Young People's Church Party

By Ron Watkins

"Somethin's comin', somethin' good," that was the theme of the Rev. Martin Bell's folk sermon at "Club 12" an experiment in youth entertainment at the new St. Paul United Church of Christ.

Last Sunday evening, Dec. 4, the lower level of St. Paul's new building was transformed into a swinging coffee-house by the artistry of a decorating committee which included Debbie Kuhl, Mike Eisemann, John and Sandy White and Tim Meininger. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dietle "rode herd" on the group as counselors with the help of John and Sandy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland White.

Flickering candles kept the small tables in semi-darkness and added to the Bohemian atmosphere. Appropriately, the entertainment leaned toward folk and popular music. "Club 12" produced four types of music: Rock and Roll and Pop music were presented by the "Rolling Brass," a solid combo of young musicians patterned after the popular Tiajuana Brass sound. The Rolling Bras is a local group led by Mike Funderburgh, the lead trumpet. Bob MacDougal and Gordon Beeman are also on trumpet, and Russell Maurer is on trombone to round out the brass section; while Ken Blaess on drums, Tim Meininger on string bass, Russell Beeman at the piano, and Ron Watkins on guitar kept the group on top of the beat.

However, popular music didn't completely dominate the scene. Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic made a recorded appearance via Columbia Records with a classical jazz selection entitled "Improvisations." Bruce "Mr. Music" Galbraith, Chelsea High's band director, loosened up the audience with a comedy routine and introduced the Rolling Brass.

After the band played a few numbers, "Mr. Music" did an interview with Tim Meininger, the Rolling Brass' mighty bass man. The Rev. Warner H. Siebert, pastor of St. Paul then introduced the Philharmonic who made their appearance in what he termed a "really wild" jazz arrangement.

The Rolling Brass took over again until the Rev. Bell appeared on the scene. The Rev. Bell is program director at the Canterbury House, a coffee house on the U. of M. campus in Ann Arbor. The Canterbury House is part of the Episcopalian Campus Ministry, utilizing a staff which inclues a full time psychiatric counselor, the optimism of the Hebrew peo- The Rev. Bell gave a sermon on ple using the title song from "West Side Story," "Something's Coming The hipster style used by the Rev. Bell in his sermon greatly enhanced the force of his message. His ability to communicate made his act a hit.

Folk songs written by Gordon Lightfoot, a personal friend of th Rev. Bell, also won the acclaim of the more than 130 in the audience. A history of Rock and Roll with an imitation of Elivs Presley brought laughter, loud and long. The Rev. Bell's last song, "Turn Around," was an expression of his idea of youth.

According to the Rev. Siebert, "the program was good, the atmosphere was one of genuine fun and good humor. "Club 12" is an experiment was a howling success. A return engagement for "Club 12" is in the near future." In Rev. Bell's own words, "It was a gas!"

THE ROLLING BRASS appear at St. Paul United Church of Christ's youth entertainment on Sunday evening, Dec. 4.

AN INSTANT SUCCESS at "Club 12," an experiment in youth entertainment at St. Paul United Church of Christ Dec. 4 was the Rev. Martin Bell, program director from the Canterbury House, Ann Arbor.

TIPS for your TOP from

TODDY and FRAN

We don't mean to nag—but there are lots of things to be done this time of year, like buying stocking fillers, getting your hair done for parties, hinting to hubby that you don't want another bottle of Chanel No. 5 until you've used the bottle he bought last year and the year before and . . . Well, you know how it is. Christmas comes but once a year, and thank goodness for that. However, we can help. For instance, call for an appointment now for each party date in advance. While you're here, pick up a handful of unique beauty gifts for those stockings, and maybe figure a way to get a gift certificate blank into your beloved's hand that will buy you a wig or a permanent or a whole year of standings . . .

The President's limousines have been equipped with tiny microphones to allow him to hear the response of the crowd. If he hears cheering and shouts of approval, like any politician, he knows he will get a warm reception for many unscheduled speeches.

Questions & Answers

How much butter should be used to dress vegetables?

There is, of course, no set amount of butter to be used in dressing vegetables, but minimum amounts may be suggested. Most vegetables will be greatly improved with an addition of at least one teaspoon of butter to each half cup of vegetable. Some vegetables, such as Irish potatoes, Hubbard squash, and yellow turnips, particularly when these vegetables are to be served mashed, will benefit from greater quantities of butter. For these a minimum of one and a half teaspoons of butter for each half cup is suggested.

Michigan Traffic Toll Headed for All-Time High

Michigan traffic deaths numbered 188 in November, 20 or 11 percent more than 168 in the same month a year ago, according to State Police provisional records.

The November deaths brought the year's accumulated toll to 2,029 which was 146 or 7.7 percent higher than 1,883 in the same period in 1965.

The 11-month total is just 100 below the count of 2,129 for all of last year which was the third worst annual toll in state history. The two higher losses were 2,175 in 1937 and 2,133 in 1941. If December's deaths approach the month's average of 178 of the last five years, Michigan will reach a new high this year in traffic fatalities.

The November count was 27 greater than the average of 161 for the month in the five years of 1961-65. High November toll was 219 in 1941, low was 87 in the following war year.

Compared with corresponding months in 1965, there have been six months showing increases in deaths this year, five with reductions.

What men call failure may often be what angels call success.

Rural Postal Patrons Urged To Keep Snow Cleared to Mail Boxes

Postmaster Richard Schaules enlists the co-operation of road authorities and patrons in keeping roads passable and approaches to mailboxes open during the winter months.

Highway officials are responsible for keeping roads in good repair. After heavy snows, highway crews should clear roads as soon as possible to permit travel by rural and star route carriers.

Patrons are responsible for keeping approaches to boxes clear of all obstructions, including snow, which may make delivery of mail difficult or at times impossible. Patrons are informed that unless approaches are promptly opened after heavy snows, it may be necessary to temporarily withhold delivery of mail.

Rural and star route carriers are not required to perform service on foot when roads cannot be traveled with the vehicles normally used.

If excessive detours are necessary, patrons should temporarily relocate their boxes on the line of travel, arrange to [illegible] their mail through other [illegible] boxes, or make other suitable arrangements for their mail [illegible] travel on the blocked roads [illegible] resumed.

National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test Scheduled

Registration for the 13th annual National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test will be accepted by counselors at Chelsea High School from Dec. 5 to 12. The test will be given on Feb. 28, and is offered to any high school junior who registers on time. The test fee is $1 to cover the cost of materials and reporting of test scores. The fee should be paid when the student registers for the test.

Any junior "who has the remotest idea that he may attend college" should take this test, says Helen Walton, counselor at the High school. She explained that not only the National Merit Scholarships but many privately sponsored scholarship funds require this test of their applicants. Several of these private scholarships are open to applicants from the Chelsea area. Mrs. Walton specifically mentioned Chrysler and Michigan State scholarships among these.

The National Merit test is also recommended for students who plan to enter junior colleges or community colleges such as the new Washtenaw Community College, Mrs. Walton said.

After the test scores are ranked, several semi-finalists will be chosen in each state. These students will then compete for the National Merit scholarships. The student who doesn't end up as a semi-finalist will also gain a great deal from the test, the counselor said.

She explained that the test "will give students an idea of the kind of competition in which they will later be involved." The experience of taking the test is also important, she said. "Any long two to four hour exam is an ordeal. Most colleges now require some kind of entrance exam, and all the experience the student can get before he takes that entrance exam is helpful."

The scaled scores will become part of the student's high school record which colleges receive Mrs. Walton said.

Just A Minute . . .

By the Rev. James A. Craig

A restless world always in search of the peace it so much desires isn't given much chance to find it. Each time has had its turmoil, its refugees, its hatreds, its wars.

Whether at the command of an emperor to return to one's home village for addition to the tax rolls or running from the threat of a hostile army, people have been refugees. They are still.

Hardly anywhere in the world is there a place where refugees are not found. In America they have come from all sections of the globe—more recently in large numbers from Hungary. In the Middle East they run from both Arabs and Israelis. In Asia they run from armies and from famine, hoping to find relief over the next hill or around the next bend.

The dispossessed of the world are still with us.

What we may have forgotten is that one family of the dispossessed came from a small village in Palestine and returned to another only when it was safe for them to do so.

From the child born to that family the Christian religion has taken its name. Looking around now you would hardly be aware of the low estate of Christianity's beginnings.

The Church is hardly a refugee today. If anything it is part of the establishment — that [illegible] able element of society co[illegible] for others though not one[illegible] "others" itself.

Perhaps in the rush [illegible] Christmas season we may [illegible] er once more where we are [illegible] we are going, and how [illegible] to get there. Refugees [illegible] oppression of comfort to [illegible] pression of joy.

Why is it that nation[illegible] rapidly improving standar[illegible] living are now harvesting [illegible] crop of violent, restless, [illegible] ial children.

Robert Lambert Wins Top Adult Honor from Boy Scouts

Robert E. Lambert of Dexter last week awarded the highest honor the Portage Trails Boy Scout Council can bestow upon an adult Scout leader.

He accepted the Silver Beaver Award at a Fellowship and Appreciation dinner on Tuesday, Nov. 29 in Ypsilanti. More than 300 Scout and community leaders from Livingston and Washtenaw counties, which make up the area of Portage Trails Council, attended the ceremonies.

The Silver Beaver Award is presented for outstanding, long and devoted service to boyhood. In presenting the award for the Council, Circuit Court Judge James R. Breakey, Jr., himself a former recipient of the Silver Beaver, said:

"This recipient has served scouting in many capacities, starting in 1939 as a camp counsellor in wood crafts. In the past 15 years, he has worked in scouting as Cub Scout committeeman, assistant cubmaster, Boy Scout committeeman, merit budge counselor, assistant scout master, scoutmaster and district counselor, assisant scoutmaster, scout master and district commissioner.

"He is an active member of his local PTA, St. Joseph Catholic church, Knights of Columbus, and the American Legion.

"As a scoutmaster, it was directly due to his enthusiasm and leadership that a large proportion of his troop had many adventurous activities. These included trips to the Region Seven Canoe Base and to Philmont Scout Ranch. He served as scoutmaster of a 1964 Council Jamboree Troop from this Council. He has repeatedly taken advantage of opportunities for training himself and has passed along his knowledge and enthusiasm in the training of other leaders. It is a pleasure for the Portage Trails Council to present the Silver Beaver Award to the Commissioner of District Four, Robert Lambert."

Lambert is employed by the University of Michigan, and works in administrative research there. He lives with his wife, Donna, and five of their six children at 2250 Central St. in Dexter. Their oldest son is serving in the U.S. Air Force.

He was scoutmaster of Troop 428 in Dexter and also of Troop 465 of Chelsea. He is still active in both troops.

The first Silver Beaver Award in this area was presented to the late Fielding H. Yost in 1931. Mrs. Yost was present at the ceremonies last week and received a standing ovation.

In 1960 the late Alfred D. Mayer became the first Chelsea resident to recive the award. Last year Harold Baker a Chelsea scoutmaster, was awarded his Silver Beaver. The only other Dexter resident to win the award is Donald Hackney who recieved it in 1964.

Two other Portage Trails Council memebrs received Silver Beaver awards last Tuesday. They are James Young, Howell scoutmaster, and Eugene B. Calder of Ypsilanti, president of the Portage Trails Council.

Wendell Young of Whitmore Lake, who has worked extensively with Troop 428 in Dexter and with Explorer Scouts in the Portage Trails council, was awarded a wood badge. This is a special award made to scout leaders who have gone through a pioneer-type training course and prepared a research project.

Several other scout leaders from the area Iriquois District received awards at the same dinner. Ralph Frisch of Chelsea was presented with the Scouter's Key. James Klapperich and Wendell E. Young, both of Dexter, received Scouter's Awards. Alice Atkinson of Chelsea, Ruby Scholosser of Manchester and Dorothy Thomas of Milan were presented with Den Mother's awards.

SILVER BEAVER AWARD: Robert E. Lambert received the coveted Silver Beaver Award on Nov. 29. He has been active in both Chelsea and Dexter scouting, and is now District Commissioner for the Iroquois District of the Portage Trails Boy Scout Council. The Silver Beaver Award is the most important award the Boy Scout Council can give to an adult.

Why Farmers Quit Dairying In Michigan

Why did about 25 percent of the dairy farmers in Michigan quit from September 1963 to September 1966?

More than half of 600 who answered a Michigan State University survey related the key reason to a combination of "high investment, low returns, long hours, low prices." Another 13 percent said they could not hire labor while 20 percent tied the reason primarily to age and health.

What kind of farmers are quitting?

Analysis by Dr. Glynn McBride and C. Ray Hoglund, MSU Economists, shows 60 percent or more were farming from 100 to 150 acres and only 27 percent tilled less than 100 acres. More than 70 percent were milking no more than 30 cows. Dr. McBride says there are indications that most of the producers at one time had milked more cows than they were at the time they quit entirely. "This suggests that the process of exit from dairy production is not a hasty one, but involves some degree of herd reduction before final departure," the ag economist concluded.

About 65 percent of those quitting dairying were over 50 years of age with the average age of all who quit being 54 years. More than 40 percent were over 60 years of age and nearly 2 percent of those who quit were 90 years of age or older—no doubt tired of twice daily chores.

More than 20 percent of those who quit had been shipping milk for 30 years or more and 65 percent had been producing milk for more than 15 years.

The appeal that "farming is a way of life and living and working in a rural area had value" may be losing out, Dr. McBride believes.

The former dairymen expressed concern with low returns on investment and greater interest in "shorter hours, free week-ends and vacations." Although reasons were economically grounded, this may mean that a change is taking place in the value system of the farmer.

Because of the high investment in land, equipment, machinery, improvements and livestock necessary for an economical and profitable dairy farm interprise, and if a sociological revolution is taking place in the value system of the farmer, the agricultural economists think this may mean that the organization and structure of our dairy farms of the future will be substantially different than those of the past.

Chelsea Elementary SCHOOL NOTES

On Friday, Nov. 18 the three fifth grades from North Elementary visited the University of Michigan Museum. We boarded two buses at 12:30 in the afternoon.

We visited three floors at different times. On the first floor we saw prehistoric animals and fungi. On the second floor we saw several different kinds of animals and their homes. In the third floor there were displayed many types of Indians, their clothes and homes. We also saw rocks and minerals. We got back about 3:30.

When we were settled down a bit, we talked about the ideas we picked up for our habitats. In all it was a wonderful trip.

Snow, Ice Make School Lose 3 Days

Chelsea schools were closed Wednesday and Thursday of last week and again on Monday, Dec. 5, because of hazardous road conditions following heavy snow and ice on roads.

Storm alerts were broadcast late Tuesday and motorists were advised to be extremely cautious if it was necessary to drive. Schools here and at Dexter, Manchester, Milan, Saline, Whitmore Lake, Willow Run, Scio, Lyon, Brighton and Clinton also were closed because buses could not make the trips over their regular routes Wednesday because of snow and ice.

Freezing rain hit the area Sunday night and buses were kept off the roads Monday with Chelsea schools again closed for the day. Temperatures eased about noon Monday, melting the ice and rain and drizzle continued Monday night and all day Tuesday with more of the same predicted.

Schools here were in session Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hearing Set In Rape Case

A 17-year-old Belleville youth, Milton J. Davis, had no response to his arraignment Dec. 1, in Ann Arbor Municipal Court, to the charges that he kidnapped and raped a University of Michigan coed on Nov. 20.

Judge Edward D. Deake ordered the youth held in the County Jail under $10,000 bond and set Dec. 8 for a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court.

With three other teen-agers Davis is also facing charges that he raped a Chelsea girl on Nov. 27.

New Water Main Bursts Under Test

A new 12-inch water main being installed between Sibley and the water plant to serve the new Dana Corporation plant, burst on Dec. 2 as the fire department pumped water into it to test the pipe. State law requires that water mains withstand a pressure of 200 pounds per square inch before being approved.

Installation is being done by the firm of Ayers, Lewis, Norris & May, Ann Arbor. Louis Goldstein, a company engineer, placed the blame on the manufacturers of the pipe.

Businesses succeed when somebody attends to the small details that the average boss is too busy to fool with.
