Townships OK '67 Budgets at Annual Meets

Sylvan Cuts Tax Rate by 50 Percent; Sharon Will Assess No Local Tax

The Sylvan township tax rate will be cut in half this year, from 1 mill per $1,000 assessed valuation to .5 mill. The action was taken at the annual meeting of the township, Saturday, April 1.

Approximately 40 residents attended the "Freedom" township meeting. A budget of approximately $10,000 was discussed. Paying of 4 of a mile of Reno Rd. was a major topic of discussion at the meeting.

Sharon township, which has no budget and assesses no township taxes, had 10 residents in attendance at the annual meeting. A suggestion was offered to consider a memorial for the township hall. The memorial would honor former Supervisor Elmer Mayer and the Building Committee.

AIR MAKE-UP UNIT: One of the four large heating and cooling units now installed on the roof of the new Dana Corp. plant on Sibley Rd. was inspected earlier this spring by a group of company officials. Residents of the area complained at the last meeting of the village council that the units create excessive noise. A company spokesman said that the units are used to circulate air inside the building, reducing fumes from manufacturing processes, and thus reducing the health hazard for employees. The units eliminate the need for noisy, producing furnaces because they operate with infrared heaters. The large units pre-heat the air before it enters the building. Inspecting the unit are, from left, Carl Shomberg, chief engineer for building construction; Robert Wagner, engineering and sales manager of the Chelsea plant; Lee Hess, plant manager; Richard Boss, plant controller; and T. J. Fairhurst, general manager of the local Power Take-Off Division.

THE LANSING REPORT

GIL BURSLEY

Fiscal reform was defeated in the first round in the Senate by a vote of 23-11. I was one of the 11 all-Republicans voting for Governor Romney's program.

Six Republicans voted against it. Some of them campaigned last fall against an income tax. I respect their beliefs. Some were afraid of what voters would say and do unless they voted against taxes.

All 17 Democratic senators voted against fiscal reform. Again, some are sincerely opposed to a state income tax. Others—perhaps most—are partially motivated in not wanting to give Romney credit for a major victory. But some Democrats do recognize the need for a more equitable tax structure and hopefully will vote for a fiscal reform program incorporating some of their ideas.

The next round will obviously be a bipartisan try-it-is-to-get-off-the-ground.

If no tax action is taken there will be at least a 15 percent cut-back in services, including school aid, and this will precipitate a crisis at the local level.

I feel that those legislators who voted for increased spending last year—mostly Democrats—and thereby used up the surplus and created the present fiscal crisis should now be man enough to vote for the necessary taxes.

Personally, I did support increased school aid last year as well as the general appropriation bills.

I felt some of these programs, besides being necessary, would shift some of the tax burden from the local property tax rolls. And I did vote for the Romney tax program to pay the bills.

There are doubtless ways to improve the tax proposals presently before the legislature. I am still confident that we will work out a constructive solution.

Michigan cannot afford the pay-less pay-day atmosphere of 1959. Nor can we fail to meet the needs of our school children, the sick and the needy. Our population is still increasing rapidly and conditions and needs do change.

The legislature has a continuing responsibility to ensure that no special interest groups gain undue advantage at the expense of the taxpayers and that our citizens get the maximum value out of every tax dollar collected.

Lack Controversy
Abortion and sterilization should be very controversial subjects. But Michigan lawmakers find, so far, this has not been the case.

When State Sen. John E. McCauley, D-Wyandotte, introduced a bill to legalize abortion and sterilization under specified circumstances there was brief argument over whether the bill could be considered this year.

Sen. Robert Richardson, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, to which the bill was assigned, said his group already had a full calendar. The committee probably would not have time to properly study this measure because it would draw so much controversy, he stated.

Richardson suggested it be sent to the Health Committee, which has fewer bills. His idea was turned down.

McCauley's proposal, patterned after similar laws in other states, would permit abortions upon recommendation by a county prosecutor and three physicians if the pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

Sterilization of either men or women would be allowed because of physical or mental health reasons.

Legislators who face the full problem of both expenditure and income honestly are of infinitely more value to the people they represent. This is the more difficult way, but it is the way which has a significance for the state.

There can be little doubt that Michigan citizens will be paying more in taxes in 1967 than they did in 1966. The question is how it will be collected, and when the collection will be accelerated.

The bigger question is whether some sort of fiscal tax reform will come to Michigan this year. The legislature has been wrestling with the question for 10 years. Previously they have come up with a patchwork of tax solutions. Only a little time will tell what happens this year.

Richardson was first concerned that his committee could not give proper attention to the proposal because of its controversial nature.

The concern in many quarters now is that Richardson's committee will bypass the measure this session because there has not been adequate public sentiment.

Taxes Certain
Michigan's income tax, if one is signed into law, will probably be accepted reluctantly by the state's citizens. It might be some consolation to know that they have company among citizens of other states.

According to a study of the State Revenue Department, 35 states now have an income tax. All except that in Indiana are on a graduated scale with the percentage of tax increasing as income increases.

Of the graduated programs in other states, some start as low as 1.5 percent and some go as high as 12 percent. Variations in exemption and deduction allowances make the taxes nearly impossible to compare in any general way, the department study emphasizes.

There is consolation in the knowledge that 26 states and the District of Columbia have both sales tax and income tax.

The real issue is that Michigan simply needs more money than present programs generate if the state is to function at the level its people indicate they expect.

Who wants to reduce substantially the funds for schools, both at local and college level? Who wants to relieve the state of its welfare responsibilities and dump these back on individual counties? Who wants to lose ground in treatment of mental health? The answer seems to be "very few."

Yet nearly 75 percent of state budget is made up of these three categories. Lawmakers are faced with the very real problem of raising money to finance the expenditures which they have authorized. And much of the funds authorized have been approved following pressure from citizens and citizen groups.

One can judge the conscientious legislator as compared with the more politically motivated by watching the voting record. A man who votes for all the expenditures and none of the taxes leaves something to be desired when he is measured for responsibility.

This is the easy way, for it permits him to tell one group of constituents that he voted for what they want and another group that he voted for no taxes.

MIMISKIRTS IN SAIGON - Although the traditional dress of Vietnam is the conical hat, skirts are catching on. The skirts are mighty "mini" and cause heads to turn, boys to goggle and the oldsters to shake their heads in disbelief.

VATICAN RULES ON JAZZ - Vatican City - Pope Paul VI has changed the rules for Roman Catholic Church music, which will open the way to the use of beat rhythms and jazz in sacred services. The new rules are expected to revolutionize the music of the 2,000-year-old church.

TB Testing Scheduled for 9th Graders

Ninth grade students and adult school personnel in all Washtenaw County public and parochial schools will have the opportunity to receive tuberculin tests during the last two weeks of April.

Testing in Chelsea High school will be conducted Wednesday, April 19.

The annual tuberculin testing program, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Health Department in co-operation with the County Medical Society and the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Association will be extended this year to offer this service to adult personnel of all county nursery schools and Head Start programs according to Dr. Otto K. Engleke, director of the Health Department.

Parents of ninth grade students will receive further information and registration cards through the school. They are requested to sign the registration cards and return them to the school. Head Start and nursery school personnel will be given registration cards to sign at the time and place of the testing.

The Southeastern Michigan Tuberculosis Detection Program, supported by five southeastern counties, provides a trained team who do the testing and reading.

The tuberculin test is a simple skin test on the left forearm which shows whether a person now has or has had living tuberculosis germs in his body. The results of the skin test will be read two or three days after the tests are given. A positive result does not mean that a person has active tuberculosis. It does mean that further studies are needed. Arrangements for further examination of children with positive skin tests and follow-up of their families will be made by the Health Department. No charge is made for the testing.

According to Dr. Engleke, major tuberculosis control efforts on a nation-wide scale are being directed toward protecting children from tuberculosis infection and disease. Recent Michigan legislation requires that entering school children be tuberculin tested. Local physicians are co-operating in implementing this law by incorporating the tuberculin test as part of the pre-school physical examination.

Such testing of children for exposure to tuberculosis and taking immediate measures to prevent the disease, along with investigation of possible sources of infection in their families, may someday result in a population free of tuberculosis infection. Other recently enacted legislation is directed toward insuring that those adults who work with children are free from active tuberculosis.

Adolescent children, due to rapid changes in their bodies with the approach of maturity, have a higher risk of active infection with tuberculosis than do younger school-age children. For this reason the United States Public Health Service recommends tuberculin testing of students at the ninth-grade level. For the past nine years the Washtenaw County Health Department through an annual county-wide program has been offering tuberculin tests to this age group and to school personnel.

Former Chelsea Woman Honored by PTA at Grand Rapids School

Mrs. Elmer J. Bigford, the former Edith Schanz of Chelsea, was honored by the PTA of Zinner school, Grand Rapids, on Feb. 16. A $500 scholarship award was established in her name to be given to a deserving student of the district. She was made a lifetime member of the national PTA and a bronze plaque with her name engraved on it will hang in the school hall.

She was presented with a Distinguished Service Award pin for many years of outstanding service to the school and community. Mrs. Bigford's affiliation with the PTA began as a kindergarten room mother in 1941. She moved on to be vice-president and then was president of the school's PTA from 1943-45. Her help with fund-raising projects of the PTA in those years was deeply appreciated by the parents. PTA leaders said in presenting the award.

She was cook for the hot lunch program at the school from Sept. 1959 to June 1966, when she retired. Not only the children and personnel of Zinner school but the administrative staff of other schools in the district enjoyed the hot lunches, complete with "made from scratch" breads which she served. No holiday or special day on the calendar went by without a specialty on the menu, PTA leaders said.

Mrs. Bigford, a widow since 1953, lives on Werner Ave. in Northwest Grand Rapids. She is the eldest of 11 children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schanz of Chelsea.

Management Expert Says Many Office Workers Lag

Ann Arbor — Out of every 100 office workers in America, the equivalent of 20 to 40 people produce nothing.

Management consultant Bruce Payne, writing in Michigan Business Review, a publication of the University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration, says the efficiency of the average office today is seldom higher than 80 percent and may be as low as 60 percent.

Payne, whose consulting firm has offices in New York, Boston, and Los Angeles, suggests the use of labor measurement techniques (such as time and motion studies) to improve office procedures and production.

"Today less than 5 percent of the total clerical work force in the United States is measured against accurate standards of a 'fair day's work'." On the other hand, more than 80 percent of the blue collar workers are working under some form of modern work measurement system," he writes.

By 1970 it is expected that there will be 37 million white collar workers, compared with 30 million blue collar workers, says Payne, who adds:

"This constitutes a self-evident opportunity for management to turn its attention to this important and mounting cost of doing business—office labor—and reduce its cost."

It is now possible to measure and control office and clerical work accurately and economically, the consultant explains. And because the office has had little attention from the time and motion study engineer, the results now being achieved are substantial.

Generally, offices using the new tools of clerical work control are reducing their labor costs by at least 20 percent and more in many instances.

Payne cites five main reasons why it has taken so long for productivity measurement techniques to be used in the office:

1. "Hindsight, Ill. — Dr. Charles L. Dale made a study of 1,002 persons who attended stop-smoking clinics and reports that more men kick the cigarette habit than women. A year later, 37.9 percent of the men and 29.4 percent of the women had stopped smoking.

An executive is one who cannot work unless he has assistants.

CHEAPER MONEY

The Treasury Department reports it is saving money on the cost of printing it. More than 2,000,000,000 bills were printed last fiscal year at a cost of less than nine-tenths of a cent per note. Fifteen years ago the cost was almost exactly one penny per note.

You can't be sure of a deer's age by the number of points on his antlers. Tooth succession and wear are the best indexes to its age.

As factory productivity improved, the growing relative cost of the office and clerical operation slowly began to be recognized by much of management, but no immediate solution came to mind. Some managements thought the computer would take care of all the excess labor in the office. This proved not the case, and in many companies the staff tended to remain the same, or even increase in some instances.

The original technique of predetermined time developed in 1948 could easily measure the repetitive motions carried out in a manufacturing operation, but could not economically measure and control the more complex and diverse tasks performed by people in the office.

There was no proven total approach to controlling white collar labor that would produce lower costs and still gain complete employee acceptance.

Management has always been fearful of developing human relations problems in the sensitive area of the office.

However, over the last four or five years, a number of progressive managements have found their indirect and office costs mounting when compared with factory costs, and have entered this area of study, the author points out.

Payne says work measurement studies of office workers have not resulted in dismissals in most cases beyond the normal attrition rate, but cost and production improvements have been dramatic. Such measurement must be done by experts, he adds, but when used fairly and accurately will allow managements to reduce clerical costs by 20 to 25 percent.

Jealousy and envy affect nations, as well as men and women.

Vo-Tech Education Study Group Hears Jackson Report

Harold Matthews, dean of vocational-technical education at Jackson Community College, spoke before members of the Washtenaw-Livingston County Vocational Education Study Group Monday evening.

Matthews reported that the "Jackson Plan" is working out well as a solution to vocational-technical education for high school students. This year, 160-12th grade students from 14 school districts in Jackson county are attending vocational classes at the community college on a half-day basis.

Robert Hanlin, co-ordinator of secondary education at Jackson Community College, reported that only one 12th grader enrolled in the vocational program has dropped out of school during this school year. Approximately 30 percent of the 160 seniors have definite plans to continue at the community college as full-time students after high school graduation, he added.

Next year the college expects to have approximately 300 11th and 12th graders enrolled in vocational classes. Total enrollment in all programs at the college is 2,400. Lloyd Grau, Robert Kushmaul and David Wolfgang are members of the Citizens' Advisory Committee to the study from the Chelsea area. Arthur Stoll and Fred Mills are area representatives to the Policy Committee of the study.

Building Permits

Building permits issued recently in the area included a permit to Robert Shears, 8312 Werkner Rd. to build a $33,000 home at 8344 Werkner Rd., Lyndon township.

James McLaughlin of 66 Cavanaugh Lake was issued a permit to construct a $4,500 office and garage at that address.

UNDER PAINT
Solvent-thinned rubber base paints are recommended for painting iron and slag blocks. Acidity, iron content and alkalinity must all be considered, and the rubber base paints are the best insurance against future staining.

BILL KELLER, JR., right, co-driver of a Plymouth Valiant Six in the Mobil Economy Run, is shown with driver of the car, Bob Checkley. Cars in the Run will pass Chelsea on I-94 about 10:50 a.m. Sunday, April 9. The Run began in Los Angeles Tuesday and will end in Detroit later Sunday.

Cub Scout Pack 415 Has Inspection

Cub Scouts and parents of Pack 415 met Tuesday, March 28.

A uniform inspection including den mothers, cubmasters and the assistant district commissioner, was conducted by District Commissioner Robert Lambert of Dexter. Lambert also introduced his guest, William Bernard of Manchester.

A nail driving contest followed uniform inspection. Winners from each den competed in the finals, with David Clouse, Danny Cobb and Tim Haas winning nail driving honors.

Fathers also had a chance to demonstrate their nail driving abilities, and Raymond Steinbach was the adult division victor.

Cubmaster Cecil Clouse presented the following awards: Mike Seyfried and Joe Branham, Bobcat pins; Tim Edick, wolf patch; Mark Seyfried and Victor Steinbach, bear patch, lion patch and gold arrow; Tim Haas, lion patch and promotion to Webelos; Doug Schrotenboer, gold arrow and two silver arrows; Danny Cobb, silver arrow; Carmer Slocum, Webelos patch; Mark Seyfried, recruiter patch.

The cubmaster passed out "rugged road" patches to the boys. These are temporary patches and may be worn on the pocket of the uniform for the rest of the year. Commissioner Lambert announced that there will be a combined round-table and annual banquet honoring William Winkle, scout executive, who has taken a position in Port Arthur, Tex. He and his family will be moving soon. His wife, Alice, is a den mother.

"Cubby" was won by Den 5 again this month. He is 3 feet tall and made of various shapes and sizes of tin cans, painted like a Cub Scout. The den with the highest percentage of parents at the pack meeting receives him for their den until the next pack meeting.

A pack leaders' meeting was also held April 3 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carmer Slocum, Cavanaugh Lake.

Search Starts For Product Of the Year

In 1963 Chelsea won state and national recognition through the selection of one of its products as Michigan's Product of the Year. The product, the Paradox Portable Building of Outdoor Fibre Products was selected above all other entries in the entire state.

In connection with this program John R. Wotring said, "Chelsea is a dynamic village with a great past and an unlimited future. As Michigan Week awards chairman for Washtenaw county I would like to challenge Chelsea to once again produce Michigan's Product of the Year."

The deadline for cities in the Washtenaw county contest is April 17. No enterprise in this area is too small or too large to compete for honors in the annual Michigan Week Product of the Year awards program.

The product competition is open to companies and business enterprises with manufacturing facilities in Michigan. The entry must be a consumer product made in Michigan. A consumer product is defined as any product made available for sale to the public, either as individuals or business firms, through normal distribution channels.

It can be either an end product or an accessory that is itself sold to the general public. The product must be a relatively new product with a record of outstanding development recently. It could represent present or potential gain to the economic welfare of the community or area. A product entered in any previous year is eligible for re-submission.

Anyone who knows of a local product that should be entered in the county contest because it would be worthy of carrying the county's honors in the regional contest, which follows is urged to contact the Chelsea Michigan Week chairman.

It is not a simple matter to live a simple life.

Kensington Park Maple Sap Exhibit Ready for Tasters

The maple sap is running! Residents of southeastern Michigan can see it on a maple tree on Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford. Park naturalist Lee Curtis has devised a "Paste It Yourself" exhibit on a maple tree. By turning a small petcock, visitors can let a few drops fall into their mouth.

Persons who have never tasted maple sap before may be surprised to learn that it is not really very sweet. Only after the water is boiled off does the maple sap become syrupy and taste sweet.

This exhibit will be in place only as the sap flows, which may be two or three weeks.

Naturalist Curtis says that "No pancakes are furnished!"

Conservation Dept. Wants Reports on Collared Deer

Lansing — With southern Michigan deer breaking out of their winter concentrations, they are becoming more evident in fields and along highways.

The Conservation Department, in its deer research, has attached blue, yellow, red and green collars on many animals in areas throughout the southern part of the state.

People who see these collared deer are asked to report to the nearest Conservation Department office or field office the color of the collar, the approximate location and the date seen.

This information is used by the Department as part of its continuing study of the habits of deer. From this research will come recommendations for quotas, areas and other regulations aimed at providing deer hunters with a maximum of enjoyment season after season without material damage to Michigan's deer herd.

Medic Alert Tags Offered By CB Group

Chelsea Citizens Band Emergency Service has announced that members of that organization are sponsoring locally a program of the Medic Alert Foundation, based in Turlock, Calif., which makes metal emblems available to persons with hidden medical problems which should be known in an emergency.

Blanks to apply for membership in the Foundation and for purchase of the metal emblems are available by contacting Jim Versailles at GR 5-8336.

The Medic Alert Foundation is a non-profit organization and contributions for membership and purchase of the tags are tax deductible.

The emblems are designed to alert persons giving medical care to first aid to hidden medical problems of an injured person. The tags also bear a phone number for the Foundation's central answering file, which provides information such as the wearer's name, the name and address of his physician, and the name of persons to be notified in case of emergency.

Membership blanks are available at no cost, although there is a fee for membership in the foundation and purchase of the emblems.

Professional golfer Arnold Palmer tested the Bolens Husky on the toughest proving ground he knows... the golf course near his home at Latrobe, Pennsylvania.

The Husky met the challenge head-on. It cut a close 42-inch swath through the fine and coarse textured grass. Clung stubbornly to steep-sided hills, steered easily, braked firmly. Mowed an acre and a half in 56 minutes flat!

The Bolens Husky wasn't built specifically for golf courses. The Husky was designed and engineered to perform your lawn and garden projects.

See it. Ask to test ride it. It should convince you easily... it did Arnold Palmer. And he's no amateur.

Four models to choose from: 7 to 12 1/2 Horsepower with Bolens Extras that you don't pay extra for:

- Fast-Switch Power-Lock Hitch
- PTO (no belt) Drive
- Controlled Differential
- 2 Speed Ranges (Infinite on Husky 1250)
- Equipped to handle full range of year round attachments
