CHERYL LEE GRAU

Cheryl Lee Grau Wins Coveted U-M Scholarship

Cheryl Lee Grau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton A. Grau, Jr., of 2710 Fletcher Rd., is the happy recipient of a scholarship award given by the University of Michigan. The news was announced this week by Ivan Parker, associate director of student financial aid.

Cheryl Lee stated when interviewed that she will make use of the full tuition scholarship to further her studies. However, she is still undecided about whether she will go into teaching or social services, "such as the Peace Corps."

Cheryl plans to live at home and commute to the U. of M.

Her hobbies are reading, swimming and sewing. "If she has time," her special delight is making posters. Recently, she completed some posters that were used for a production of "Annie Get Your Gun" which was presented by the Chelsea High School senior class.

Students who received the scholarships awards, more than 1,000 Michigan high school seniors, were chosen on the basis of character, citizenship, academic achievement, and potential for success in their chosen field of study.

Most of the awards were provided by the U-M Regents Alumni Scholarship Program. Other awards include those provided by foundations, corporate programs, and friends of the University.

Registration Needed for School Voters

Next Monday, May 15, at 5 p.m., is the deadline for registering for the annual election of the Chelsea School District.

The annual school election is to take place Monday, June 12. In order to be eligible to vote in the school election, qualified electors of the school district must be registered with the township clerk in the township in which they reside.

Registration with village clerks does not apply; voters must be registered with their township clerk the same as for county, state and national elections.

Anyone who is not certain of his registration status should check with the clerk of his township.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lehman and Mr. and Mrs. George Seitz, visited Mrs. Seitz at Huron Valley Rest Home Sunday afternoon.

Entries Due For Road-e-o Driving Event

Final registration time is 7:30 today, Thursday, May 11, for young folks wishing to compete in the Road-e-o Safe Driving Event. Chelsea Jaycees are sponsoring the event.

The latest news from their planning group is that the Jaycees have chosen trophies to be given to the first and second-place winners for boys and girls.

Negotiations have also been completed for cars to be loaned for the competition. Local dealers who are lending cars include G. A. Sales & Service, Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, Palmer Motor Sales, Ford dealer, and Spaulding Chevrolet Sales & Service.

At the final registration time a car safety movie will be shown and entrants will be asked to take a written test designated as a "road-e-o driver's quiz."

Competition is open to high school students who are licensed drivers and who will not have reached the age of 19 years before Aug. 1, 1967.

The boy and girl who are first-place winners in the event here will be eligible to compete for state championships on June 3, at Dearborn. State champions become eligible to compete for national honors.

This year the national competition will take place at Ann Arbor in July—a total of $14,000 in scholarships will be awarded the national winners.

Driving tests conducted at the May 11 road-e-o competition, scheduled to be held at Chelsea High school will include precision driving through a series of five areas, courses to be marked by flags and chalk lines.

Deadline Set For Hobby Show Entries

Chelsea Standard ads really pull! The newly-formed Chelsea Hobby Club advertised last week in The Chelsea Standard for applicants to enter Chelsea's first hobby show, to be held on Sunday, June 4, at Sylvan Town Hall.

To date there have been so many inquiries and offers of display by the many hobbyists in the area, and even as far as Ann Arbor, that they now have to announce a final date for new entries.

Show officials want prospective entries to know that the deadline for new entries will have to be set for Saturday, May 13. For information and entry applications contact Al Foster, 19071 Ivey Rd., on call him at 479-4761.

The scope of the show has expanded to include coins, lapidary, photography, paintings, archery, antique and modern guns, riding equipment, slot car racing, antique autos and handcrafts. It is expected that many more types of hobbies will be entering before the deadline of Saturday, May 13.

Interest in the show has mushroomed to such an extent that the reason for limiting the time for entries is lack of space for the displays at Sylvan Town Hall.

Mrs. Nelson Peterson and Mrs. Clifford Peterson visited with Mrs. Marie Boone on Friday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

HELPING HAND: Mrs. Arthur (Anne) Steinway, Jaycee Auxiliary secretary and chairman of the Helping Hand project, displays the card for youngsters to familiarize them with the symbol. The cards will be placed in windows of homes where children may go for help in emergency situations as they are enroute to and from school. Left to right, are Andrew Weir, Gayle Albrecht, Kevin Edick, Cynthia Welshans and their kindergarten teacher, Mrs. Bernice Packard of the North school.

'Helping Hand' Campaign Intensified in Grade Schools

"Have you met our new friend?" This is the opening line of the "Helping Hand" campaign, which is being intensified in grade schools.

The explanation was combined with a review of safety rules previously set out by the Child Council—Safety pamphlets. Specifically they reminded the students "do not take money or candy from strangers, not to get in stranger's cars, and not to talk to strangers."

Stress was made of the role of the "Helping Hand" as a friend, where help could be obtained if the child were lost, hurt, bullied, bitten by a dog, threatened by a child molester, or in any state of distress.

Junior and Senior High School students are reading self-explanatory posters about the program placed on their bulletin boards.

A program was also presented to the children at St. Mary's School.

Another speaker explained the program to the United Christian Women's Society at Salem Grove church.

The Jaycee Auxiliary will be placing 30 more signs in homes this coming week, and have expectations of placing 400 signs around the community to complete their initial phase of the program.

The names for "Helping Hand" homes are double checked. Once by private prominent citizens, and once by the police department.

The police department will have a complete list of the "Helping Hand" homes, and their locations. Thus, if a child were reported lost by a card holder the police would be able to note the child's whereabouts immediately. This plan will have the added advantage to parents of being a double check to make sure their children are using the correct route to and from school.

The Jaycees are asking folks who are usually home during school days to "volunteer their home as a 'Helping Hand' haven." Mrs. Steinway may be reached at 475-8815 by such volunteers.

Clubs or groups wishing to know more about the "Helping Hand" program may also contact Mrs. Steinway, who will make arrangements for a speaker.

THE LANSING REPORT FROM
GIL BURSLEY

The most important single piece of legislation which I have introduced this year is Senate Bill 559, the Metropolitan Transportation Council bill. It would name six of the Authorities Act.

It enables urban counties or groups of counties to create metropolitan transportation authorities to plan and coordinate the operations of bus systems and any rail service that proves feasible. It specifically creates a Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority embracing Wayne, Monroe, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties. Any of these counties may withdraw by a majority vote of its board of supervisors during the first year. After that it would take a two-thirds vote.

Authorities would be governed by seven-member boards, appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. As soon as a Council of Governments is created—which is imminent in southeastern Michigan—such a Council would name six of the seven.

Powers given on authority are to plan, acquire, construct, operate, maintain, replace, improve, extend and contract for public transportation facilities within the geographical jurisdiction of the authority and for a distance of 10 miles beyond such borders. The authority will have the right to use space and areas over, under and upon the public streets and highways to carry out its duties. It may institute condemnation proceedings under the applicable laws of the state. It may contract with private enterprise for the operation of transportation facilities.

An authority may not levy taxes nor pledge the credit or taxing powers of the state or any political subdivision. Facilities may be financed by:

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Pressing Question
Is it much ado about nothing or very little? This is the question in minds of many newsmen in discussions regarding pre-trial publicity.

The State Bar of Michigan arranged a May 2 meeting of lawyers, police and court officials, and representatives of newspapers, radio and TV to discuss this topic. Further Attorney General Frank J. Kelley called a small group of media representatives for a similar discussion. The only thing certain is that there will be more meetings between bar, police, and media groups before the subject is considered closed.

There is no problem. This is the opinion of many newsmen and some from other fields. The Attorney General stated on several occasions that his office was not concerned with pre-trial publicity. He stated that his office was not concerned with pre-trial publicity. He stated that his office was not concerned with pre-trial publicity.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I was telling you here a while back about that country editor in North Carolina that was getting into the mainstream of Government red tape. This Washington-column writer said he got a news item from the U. S. Civil Service Commission. I copied the news item down for my little piece this week and here it is:

"The United States Civil Service Commission announces the cancellation of Amendment No. 2 to Announcement No. DE-27-10 (1966) for identification and condition verifier W-7 issued Feb. 27, 1967."

"Receipt of applications for this examination was suspended until further notice effective Feb. 27, 1967, as a result of an amendment issued Jan. 23, 1967."

This column writer said he gave the news item to Senator Dirksen and asked him if he would get it touch with the Civil Service Commission and find out what they were trying to announce.

He got the word back that they was going to hold a examination for a clerk—but was announcing it had been called off.

And you think you got red tape troubles, Mister Editor?

I ain't saw but one item out of Washington this week that I could understand. This item said the Veterans Administration had 29,700,000 names on file and they had completed a study to see which was the most common names in this country. They run in this order:

- (1) Smith, (2) Johnson, (3) Williams, (4) Jones, (5) Brown, (6) Miller, (7) Davis, (8) Anderson, (9) Wilson, (10) Thompson.

I was a little surprised, Mister Editor, that Jones and Brown wasn't running in the two and three spots, but the Veterans Administration has spoke.

And speaking of Government Red tape—once more, I was reading where a "White House Spokesman" said the destruction of the Viet Cong infrastructure was succeeding. If anything in Viet Nam was succeeding I wanted to know about it so I went over to Ed Doolittle's house to look in his dictionary and see what "infrastructure" meant. It wasn't in Ed's dictionary and I still don't know what we've got over there that was succeeding.

When you get through with your Zip Code chaps this week and get your papers sucked up and sent west, please find out what "infrastructure" means so I can tell the fellers at the store Saturday night about our new success.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Although a dog quarantine is now in effect, there appears to be little indication on the part of dog owners to confine their dogs, Archie Wilkinson reports that on Monday a procession of 15 dogs in one group crossed his property and on Tuesday he sighted eight more. It is hoped that for once a quarantine will be enforced and that dogs will be tied or otherwise confined by owners or "quarantined" by enforcement officers.

A meeting was held Tuesday at the Tower Cafe by representatives over the past quarter century, a remarkable trend when it is realized that the Detroit Times and Grand Rapids Herald, both large dailies at the time they suspended publication, left a large total which had to be offset by smaller increases in many newspapers all over the state.

Inflation of the currency will help Michigan farmers, Congressman J. C. Lehr believes. In discussing President Roosevelt's program for inflation of the currency and revaluation of the gold content of the dollar, Congressman Lehr stated that in his opinion the plan will prove of even greater benefit to the farmer than the adoption of the agricultural relief bill to which it is attached.

Nearly 61 per cent of all-traffic deaths studied by Automobile Club of Michigan during the height of Michigan's tourist season last year occurred south of the dotted line. That was 264 out of 435 fatalities in counties that as a whole are not regarded as part of Michigan's main tourist area. Note also the heavy concentration of fatalities running from the metropolitan Detroit area through Saginaw County.

Auto Club Suggests Actions To Curb 'Problem Drivers'

The Automobile Club of Michigan today suggested a mandatory chemical breath test—followed by medical and psychiatric examination—for drinking drivers. Stiffer penalties for "high-point" drivers, a temporary 50-mile speed limit on two-lane county roads, and re-evaluation of the speed capabilities of two-lane roads.

The suggestions, based on findings in the Club's unique survey of 303 fatal accidents last summer, are intended to cope with the causes of traffic fatalities, said Fred N. Rehm, Auto Club general manager.

"It is, to our knowledge, the first time a state traffic safety program has been designed to fit a set of specific facts," Rehm said in the foreword to the Club's just-published 61-page report, "How to Bring More Back Alive!"

The Club's report and suggestions were turned over recently to the Senate Highway Committee and the House Committee on Public Safety and Roads and Bridges.

Club investigators found that drinking was involved in some extent in at least 44 percent of the fatalities. Most drivers with high-point records caused a disproportionately large number of fatal accidents and that nearly 70 percent of these accidents occurred on two-lane roads.

Based on its findings, the Club also suggested closer parental supervision over the Under-18 driver for the first year he is behind the wheel, uniform state-wide driver licensing under the Secretary of State, an increase in the size of the State Police force, in-service training for local police officers and further study of the use of state highways by motorcycles and motor bikes.

The Club suggested that the new State Police vehicle safety check lane program be given a chance to operate "before making any move toward a universal compulsory vehicle inspection system."

Auto Club investigators, "although they admittedly are not automotive engineers, could not find any positive evidence that vehicle defects caused accidents," Rehm said.

To cope with the drinking problem—probably the largest single factor involved in traffic fatalities—according to the report—the Club suggests:

"A Drinking Driver Law should be passed, requiring a mandatory chemical breath test for alcohol for any driver charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence.

"The test should be a condition for holding a Michigan driver's license. The motorist so charged should be allowed to refuse. . . . If, with his refusal, he should surrender his right to hold the license. This suspension should be for some realistic period of time and subject to review by the courts.

"Besides present penalties, the law should require the first offender—once he is convicted—undergo a medical and psychiatric examination of his fitness to drive."

To protect the innocent, the report said, "a police officer would be required to have reasonable cause to believe the driver is under the influence. He would have to charge him with the offense before demanding that the driver leave the station for a test."

Since the point system is spotlighting the problem driver without taking him off the road, the Club suggested the following:

—Mandatory suspension for 12 points in two years (not now mandatory), for three moving violations, or three moving violations in one year.

—In order to get at the driver who manages to keep his point total just below the 12-point level every two years, mandatory review by the Secretary of State for any driver who accumulates 30 points in five years—unless he already has had a suspension in that period.

—Increase in the point penalty for repeats of like violations (for example, more points for a second conviction of speeding than the first).

—Mandatory license suspension for the driver who is called in for three re-examinations in nine years (three successive license periods).

—Jail sentences for driving with a suspended or revoked license, or outside the limits on a restricted license.

The Club also suggested new thinking on the practice of returning a driver's license on the plea of job necessity. Some of the drivers who caused fatal accidents last summer had their licenses returned on that plea.

Since nearly 7 out of 10 of these fatal accidents happened on two-lane county roads or rural roads, the Club suggested that a temporary speed limit of 50 miles per hour be established on all two-lane county roads not already posted.

Scientific speed studies then should be conducted to determine at what maximum speeds the roads can be negotiated safely. Some 20,000 miles of county roads are involved.

The Department of State Highways already is resurveying thousands of miles of roads under its jurisdiction and adjusting speed limits to fit road capabilities.

To maintain such a program, the Auto Club suggested that every county or group of counties (depending on population size, or be provided by the highway department, a full-time traffic technician or traffic engineer. Only four counties—Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee—now have such engineers.

Each of the 14 counties with populations of more than 100,000 (excluding the Metropolitan Detroit area) should have one engineer or technician. The 28 counties with 25,000 to 100,000 population should have one engineer or technician for each two counties. In the remaining 38 counties, one engineer or technician could serve three counties.

For the young driver—who was much over-represented among the drivers at fault—the Club suggested:

—Requiring a parent or guardian to accompany the under-18 age driver behind the wheel at all times for the first 90 days after receiving his first license.

—Requiring a parent or guardian to accompany the same driver after dark for the rest of the first year.

—Prohibiting all persons under age 18 from operating motorized cycles after dark.

Other suggestions in other areas included:

—Increasing the size of the State Police force by 400 men by 1970.

A state-wide training program on traffic-related problems, drafted by State Police and adopted by all police agencies.

A written examination at every license renewal.

The Auto Club studied, in depth, every fatal accident on the three summer holiday week-ends and every fatal accident in the months of July and August. The 363 accidents killed 435 people and involved 504 cars.

Investigators studied police reports on each accident, probed the record of each driver involved, and visited the scene and interviewed police officers and witnesses.

Controversial Russian Poet Slated for Sunday TV Show

East Lansing — "Sunday Showcase," a series of programs dealing with the performing and fine arts, premieres with "Yevgeny Yevushenko in Person," Sunday, May 14, at 1:30 p.m. on WMSB (Channel 10), Michigan State University television.

The first two programs in the series dramatically contrast the creative framework in which the Soviet artist functions today. Yevgeny Yevushenko, the controversial Russian poet, has risen to fame and gained influence through his critical writings, notably his "Baby Yank." On "Sunday Showcase," he conveys the excitement of his poetry in a reading of his most famous works.

Other WMSB-highlights include: "Assignment 10" considers the role of school boards in determining curriculum materials, teacher recommendations, teachers' salaries and instructional policy of the School Board Decides, Monday, May 14, at 8:30 p.m. and Tuesday, May 16, at 12:30 p.m.

Leslie Beiderman, a Detroit teacher who recently resigned his post after being suspended for producing a play considered unfit for junior high students, defends the right of teachers to experiment with curriculum material to reach individual groups of students.

Other guests on the program are Hugh Whipple, professor at Wayne State University and author of the play produced by Beiderman; Ed Simpkins, representative of the Detroit Federation of Teachers; Pat Basil of the Detroit Education Association; Dr. Thomas Robinson of the Detroit School Board; and Margaret Smith, president of the Jefferson Junior High PTA in Detroit.

EDUCATION — "N.E.T. Journal" probes the parochial school system, educational home of six million American children, on "Every Seventh Child," Sunday, May 14, at 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, May 17, at 12 noon. This documentary depicts the conflicts and contradictions with the Catholic movement and raises the issue of Federal finance as an aid in meeting the rising costs of parochial education.

The question of whether the parochial system is consistent with the spirit of "Vatican II" expressed most pointedly by Jacqueline Gren-

SPORT FOR THOSE WHO THINK YOUNG: Michigan's regular trout fishing season which opens April 29 casts a sort of magic spell over anglers of all ages. It whisks the young boy into the man's world of exciting adventure. For the man, it recaptures the thrills of his childhood when he, like this youth, tasted his first delicious dose of trout fever. A unique shared experience for a dad and his boy, this trout fishing is. It gives them something special in common: a special rapport with each other, the out of doors, and the wonderful world of sport. The father who shares all this with his boy doesn't have to ask "What is this new generation coming to?" His son and those with fathers like him will grow up with a deeper respect for their outdoor heritage, with a high code of sportsmanship. And for the boy who learns these things and the father who instills them in him there will be a lot of good times together along the way.

Washington Report by Congressman MARVIN L. ESCH

Senior citizens are going to find that there's been a thief in their pocketbooks when it comes time to pay income taxes next year unless Congress acts soon.

This year elderly people who filed income tax returns were allowed to deduct the full cost of drugs and medicines, "doctors' bills," and other medical expenses to the extent that these expenses were not reimbursed. But what many do not realize is that, unless the law is changed, they will not be allowed to deduct full medical expenses when they make out their 1987 returns next year.

At the time Medicare was passed the right to deduct full medical expenses was repealed because it was felt that it would no longer be necessary. Medicare, however, does not provide for payment of any drugs except those administered in hospitals. The senior citizen who has to pay for costly drugs cannot look to Medicare to pay even part of these costs. Under the voluntary portion of the "plan doctors' bills" may be paid, but even here an elderly person must pay a deductible of $50 and 20 percent of the cost.

Many senior citizens will find themselves heavily penalized if the present income tax provisions remain unchanged. That's why I have recommended and am working for the restoration of the right previously granted elderly people to deduct full medical expenses.

Should Congress not act in this regard the additional tax bite on senior citizens will be had enough.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

What's your hurry? Seems like every one is in a hurry to get some place. Yet, in spite of the spirited razzamataz, we often have a rush of remorse because we don't know what to do when we get there—or we are bored when we get there.

Some one once wrote, "Take time to THINK, it is the source of power... Take time to PRAY, it is the greatest power on earth... Take time to be FRIENDLY, it is the road to happiness... Take time to WORK, it is the price of success... Take time to PLAY, it is the secret of perpetual youth... Take time to READ, it is the fountain of wisdom... Take time to GIVE, it is too short a day to be selfish... Take time to LOVE and to be LOVED, it is a God-given privilege."

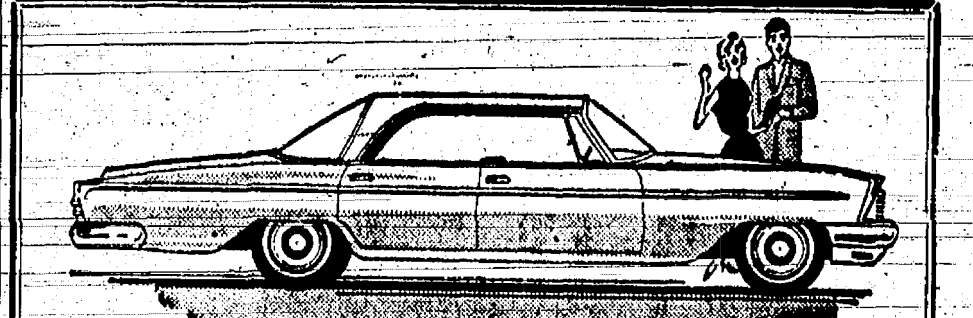

When you think about it, those very thoughts show why moral chaos, misery and evil result from hurried, hurried days. Let's slow down. We will live better—and longer. Want proof? Ask any clergyman, or your doctor... BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 211 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR-5-4141.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

DEN 2, PACK 455—

Cub Scouts of Den 2, Pack 455, after their regular meeting Wednesday, May 3, went on a nature hike under the leadership of Den Chief Paul Prinzinger. The hike route was along the old Boland right-of-way and to a wooded area along a creek. They found various interesting items, including squirrels and birds nests, etc.

International Postal Rate Increase Effective May 1

An increase in international surface and airmail rates went into effect Monday, May 1. Postmaster Richard Schaules announced this week.

The new international rates, he said, will not apply to mailings for members of the Armed Forces overseas. Domestic postage rates are applicable to mail addressed through APO's and FPO's.

The rate increases for both surface and airmail—averaging 13 percent—were first proposed Jan. 24 and publicly confirmed March 1. The Department explained at that time that they were needed to help offset a deficit of about $10 million in international mail operations.

Specific information on the new international rates may be obtained from the service window at the post office, Postmaster Schaules said.

This was the first general increase in international rates since July, 1961.

The increases are:

1. Airmail letters to Central America and Caribbean area from 12 cents a half ounce to 15 cents.
2. Airmail to the rest of the Western Hemisphere remains 15 cents a half ounce, except for Canada and Mexico.
3. Airmail to Europe and Mediterranean Africa from 15 cents a half ounce to 20 cents.
4. Airmail letter rates to the rest of the world remain unchanged at 25 cents a half ounce.
5. Aerogrammes and air post cards increased 2 cents each from 11 cents to 13 cents.
6. Items sent by air, other than letters and parcels, such as small packages, books, periodicals and other printed matter increased 10 cents per piece to all countries except Canada.
7. Most letters going by surface transportation to all nations (excluding Canada and Mexico) increased from 11 cents to 13 cents. Post cards raised from 7 cents to 8 cents.

Most printed matter, including publications, increased one cent a piece. For second class publications to Canada only, the one-cent increase will be deferred for six months to become effective Nov. 1, 1967. Also the present bundling rate which permits postage to be computed on the bulk weight of packages of publications addressed to Canadian post offices will remain in effect until Nov. 1, 1968, at which time it will be discontinued.

Surface parcel post rates to all nations increased 20 cents a parcel, an average of seven percent.

Postage rates for surface first class letters and air letters and surface third class type printed matter to Canada and Mexico correspond to U. S. domestic rates, which are set by the Congress and are not being changed at this time, Postmaster Schaules said.

LAD HELPS DAD
Quebec, England—John Ramballine, a mechanic, told his wife they ought to get rid of their 1958 sedan and buy a new car. Four-year-old Bruce got a box of matches, set the car on fire and told his mother, "I've done what daddy wanted." The car was a total loss.

★ 'Really Clean' Hospital Seen . . .

BIOENGINEERS at Georgia Tech are discovering what is really "cleaner than clean." Their meticulous investigation, and similar experiments going on throughout the country, will probably influence how future hospitals are built. The major concern of the Georgia Tech research is control of microorganisms called staphylococcus that contaminate hospital operating rooms. Inside a white airtight room the scientists have been experimenting with various types of ventilation systems that provide sanitary air.

INDUSTRIAL use of argon, a colorless, odorless gas that makes up about one percent of the earth's atmosphere, is increasing. National Cylinder Gas, Chicago, reports that applications include uses as an inert-gas shield in LUNAR CRATERS and other features could have been produced when gases from within the moon, escaping along fracture channels, erupted into the vacuum of space, says a University of Wisconsin geologist. Using a vacuum chamber to simulate the space environment, finely-ground rock to imitate lunar dust, and a drop of water as a source of gas, he was able to create a variety of craters with a strikingly "lunar" appearance. Even the central cones of the craters, as well as terraces and rays, were reproduced in the experiment.

Early cut alfalfa hay produces up to 18 percent protein, while late-cut hay contains only 12 to 14 percent protein.

Dairyman should get equipment ready and start hay making when buds of alfalfa plants start opening, the dairyman concluded.

Michigan dairyman as a group can make a total of more than $18,000,000 by early hay harvest, Hillman contended. "MSC experiments show early harvest is the most effective single operation to produce high quality forage."

Cutting alfalfa hay at bud to one-tenth bloom stage of maturity—about June 1 in southern Michigan—saves protein and milk-producing leaves. Delay until full bloom may get more hay but it is stemmy, leaves drop during harvest and the quality goes down, the dairyman concluded.

Farm Families Eating Better Than City Cousins

Farm families consume more milk, grains, sugars and fats than their city cousins. And the difference is not only in quantity, say Michigan State University scientists.

For example, the farm family uses nearly a quart more of milk and milk products per person a week. Since they home-produce 66 percent of their milk, say the researchers, they use a large proportion in its original form and less as processed milk or cheese than families who generally buy their milk.

Rural families not only have considerably more grain products in their diets, but they also use a larger proportion as cereal or as flour-for-home-baking.

The MSU scientists add that farm families also use more eggs, but city families consume about one-half pound more per person of meat, poultry and fish.

Non-farm families use more vegetables, fruit and potatoes than farm families. But the latter, with their home food production and preservation, eat proportionally more fresh vegetables and more home-canned or frozen vegetables.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Wood

★ Bye Bye Blackbird!

Who, in his right mind, could be against blackbirds? Farmers — could — farmers who lose from 50 to 100 million dollars yearly from their depredations.

Yet, in their own way, blackbirds are beautiful. A blackbird balancing on a cattail in some low-lying pasture area is a delight to behold. His song may be topped by more brilliant warblers, but in its own distinctive fashion, the call of the blackbird is refreshing.

Right now, the call of the red-winged blackbird (Agelaius phoeniceus) is heavy over the land, with an estimated half-billion of the birds scattered throughout all states, with the largest concentrations in the lower Mississippi valley.

Michigan farmers note that their numbers are on the increase with a sharp rise in crop damage. Blackbirds feed on a wide variety of fruits, vegetables and grains. A Wildlife Service report shows that blackbird damage to corn in the milk stage is severe. Fruit-crops are particularly vulnerable in Michigan and fruit growers in the southwest part of the state claim an annual loss of about two and one-fourth million dollars from bird damage.

Last year 15 state Farm Bureaus passed resolutions urging help with bird problems. "Blackbirds, starlings and other destructive wildlife" were cited by Michigan farmers in an appeal to the Michigan legislature for funds to be appropriated to control them. "This action takes advantage of the matching funds available from the federal government," the farmers wrote.

As a result of such requests, the United States Department of the Interior has a current budget request of $818,000 for bird control research. This sum will continue a number of present projects, with the House Appropriations Committee recently directing the Department to use the major portion to help solve the blackbird problem.

Besides the obvious loss of food crops badly needed by people, it is recognized that blackbirds and starlings are a major carrier of livestock and human diseases, and there is evidence that they may be carriers of "red stripe," a serious disease of corn.

ON POSTAL INCREASE

President Johnson has asked Congress for a postal rate increase of $800 million a year. The proposed rate would range from letters to books. Officials report that except for first-class mail, all other classes of mail are operating in the red.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Michigan's reaction to tornadoes which struck parts of the state this spring is one of the finest demonstrations of utilizing all of our resources in a co-operative effort.

Actions by the state, local officials, private organizations and individuals all were finely meshed into an operation which held the loss of life and physical injuries to a minimum.

It is amazing that Michigan survived the tornadoes with the loss of only one life.

Special congratulations are in job.

order for all citizens of the affected areas and for all public and private agencies who responded quickly and effectively to the needs of the areas.

The State Police Civil Defense network, in conjunction with the Executive Office, put into immediate operation well-developed plans for such an emergency.

Police, local officials, the Red Cross, utilities, contractors, laborers, volunteer workers, insurance adjusters, communications media — all did a highly commendable

They drew upon past experience to quickly resolve major problems of the moment.

The experience demonstrated the value of continually reemphasizing the procedures which should be followed in such emergencies.

No wind on earth is more violent than a tornado, and nothing in nature can produce more destruction in so short a time.

When weather conditions are ripe for generation of a tornado, the Weather Bureau issues a tornado watch.

A tornado watch is the first alert for a specified area to be on the lookout for tornadoes.

When a tornado is actually sighted or indicated by radar, a tornado warning is issued. This means emergency precautions should be taken immediately.

When a tornado watch is issued, you can continue normal activities but remain alert to the weather outside and stay near a radio or television set for further information.

If a tornado warning is issued, you should seek inside shelter, preferably in a tornado cell, underground evacuation, or steel-framed or reinforced concrete building. Stay away from windows.

If you are in office building, stand in an interior hallway on a lower floor or basement. Factory workers should post a lookout and move to a section of the plant offering greatest protection.

In homes without tornado shelters, the basement usually offers greatest safety. Seek shelter under heavy furniture in the center of the house if you have no basement. Keep windows open, but stay away from them. Do not stay in house trailers.

In schools, go to an interior hallway or basement shelter, avoid auditoriums, gymnasiums and other structures with wide, tree-span roofs.

If you see a tornado — and if there is time — report it to your local Weather Bureau office, or to law enforcement agencies.

By following these procedures, we were able to keep the toll down when tornadoes struck parts of the state in late April. But we cannot afford to forget the procedures now.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

ATTITUDE

You'll find the world to be a much better place if you begin each day with a smile. Try it. When you brush your hair or straighten your tie, smile at the image in the mirror — and observe the smile that you can see.

Carry this smile with you as you go about the business of the day. You will be greeted by more smiles than came your way yesterday.

There is no magic about it. It is really a simple thing. The world reacts to you. Your attitude, the air that you have about you, the way that you meet the world; here is influence, here is force, positive or negative, that causes the world to react in kind.

Carry a smile with you wherever you go. A smile may — or may not — open up new doors for you. But one thing is certain. It will make the world a happier place, wherever you happen to be.

MORE FUNDS RELEASED

The Administration has released $1.1 billion of funds which President Johnson ordered frozen last year as an anti-inflation measure. The additional release of highway fund balances and others is expected to aid the present sluggish economy.

LIFELINES PICTURES

Two little girls were talking. I paused to listen in. Said one, "I'm learning to dance real well, and I'm only ten. I probably shall go on stage later on, and I'll be an actress guy. Maybe I'll be a movie star; Mother says I may."

I will go to all the night clubs then, and wear an evening gown. Drink champagne, smoke a lot, and really do the town. What are you planning when you grow up? Don't you envy me?"

The other child stood thinking a bit. "I really don't know," she said. "But I'm learning to cook, iron and sew, and also make my bed. Mother says it's wrong to dance, also to smoke and drink. I'm taking music though each week; I play hymns nice, I think."

As they skipped away, they didn't know that a picture bright and free, they painted with words vivid and plain. Or their mothers for me to see.

"Who can find a virtuous woman? For her price is far above rubies." Proverbs 31:10.

"Her children arise up, and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her." Proverbs 31:28.

Mailbox Improvement Week Scheduled by Postal Department

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said today national "Mailbox Improvement Week" will be observed by the Post Office Department from May 15 to 20.

The Department, O'Brien explained, has sponsored similar observances for many years. They have been very helpful in encouraging postal customers to maintain their mailboxes in good condition with resulting greater security for the mails, he pointed out.

Various employee organizations have traditionally joined in the observance of Mailbox Improvement Week as part of their civic programs to make their communities more attractive, the Postmaster General said.

Mailbox Improvement Week is designed to call attention to the need to provide mail receptacles that will help protect the mails against weather, and the necessity of locating boxes at convenient locations where they will not constitute a traffic hazard and will be readily accessible to the carrier. Improved appearance is also stressed.

The observance has stimulated organized activities in many communities to develop more attractive boxes, surrounded by flowers and the addition of color, metalwork, etc.

In recent years, the Postal Department has encouraged manufacturers to develop boxes of new designs, and homeowners are offered a large variety of new and traditional types.

The boxes are served along 31,000 rural routes over the country, and are also used in some suburban areas where curbside delivery is provided.

ON GOVERNMENT PAY

President Johnson has asked Congress to increase the pay of civilian workers, and military personnel an average of 4.5 percent. The increase—proposed in a three-stage plan—is aimed to give government workers pay equality with private industry.

State Police Warn on Child Molestation

With recent Michigan experience stressing the dangers of child molestation, Sgt. Jack Bronard of the Jackson post of the State Police, in an annual reminder advises parents and guardians to caution their youngsters against going for walks or rides with strangers.

A number of molesting cases already have been reported in the state this spring, one tragically involving a slaying.

State Police records show that there are many hundreds of child molesting sex offenses committed each year and they are most frequent in the spring and summer months when youngsters are outdoors.

Sergeant Bronard said any incidents of molesting children or circumstances indicating possibility of this danger should be promptly reported to police for investigation. The State Police stress that reluctance to report offenses gives molesters the opportunity to continue their criminal activities. Names of minors and parents in molesting incidents are not made public unless abduction or murder is involved.

Sergeant Bronard offers these guidelines to parents:

Instruct youngsters to flatly reject any stranger's offer of candy, money or gifts as a lure to go for walks or rides.

Insist that youngsters be in company at all times with other children where there is no adult supervision. A child alone on a playground, exploring a vacant building or loitering in an alley may too easily become a molester's victim.

Use protective discretion when having children run errands in the daytime. Never send a child alone on an errand at night.

Be concerned as much for the safety of all children as you are for your own. Co-operate with other parents in your neighborhood in safeguarding the welfare of youngsters.

Demand that your children keep you informed of their whereabouts when at play. See that they have your permission first for any unusual trips.

Urge your youngsters to report any questions regarding their safety to you, their teachers or the police.

REPORT from LANSING

State Representative

Thomas G. Sharpe

In a one-day flurry, House and Senate Committees reported nearly 250 bills just before the April 13 deadline for reporting bills for floor consideration in the house of origin. House committees reported out 144 measures for consideration by the full membership in the final day. Those bills reported out will be carried over to the 1968 legislative session. Appropriations and lower court reorganization bills were not affected by the deadline.

The House Judiciary Committee reported out a restricted version of a witness immunity bill that had been requested by Attorney General Frank Kelly, but the committee withheld another bill requested from Kelly which would provide subpoena powers to local prosecutors and the Attorney General's office. Judiciary also reported out bills to impose stricter controls on public employees' strikes, and to allow free transfer of information between grand juries.

The House Education Committee passed out a bill recommending an $83 million school-aid appropriation. This is some $62 million more than proposed by the Governor in his budget. Another bill reported out by Education would give the State Board of Education authority to establish rules for use and evaluation of psychological and personality tests in public schools.

Several bills in a package designed to improve the State's housing regulations cleared committee, but others are still pending and will be studied further.

Also reported out in the House was a bill to establish a highway route arbitration panel to decide roadway issues in cases where cities and the Highway Department are deadlocked.

The House State Affairs Committee, of which I am chairman, withheld a bill that could lead to the merger of the MD and Osteopathic professions in Michigan. The committee will give the bill detailed study during the summer. A measure to allow dog racing in Michigan failed to clear State Affairs, but a similar measure made it to the floor of the Senate and could possibly reach the House this session.

The House Liquor Control Committee declined to report out bills that would allow sale of liquor on Sunday, but two Sunday liquor bills were reported out in the Senate. Supporters of Sunday liquor in the House were turned back in an attempt to attach the proposal to another bill. Other bills still in committee are measures to provide for a state-wide presidential primary, establish licensing procedures for hospitals, and place stricter controls on trading stamps.

Another Senate bill, one of the most controversial of this session, will not reach the House for consideration this session. The measure, which would legalize abortions in certain cases, was not reported out by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The next deadline facing the Legislature is April 28, the final day for passage of bills in the House of origin, with the exception of taxation, appropriations and lower court reorganizations bills.

With hundreds of items pending before the House and Senate, House members went into exhaustive floor sessions in an effort to clear the calendar. More than 20 bills had been passed in the week prior to April 19, almost as many as had been passed in the rest of the session up to that time.

Implied consent was the major issue passed last week. Also passed in the House were measures to require outside rear view mirrors on all motor vehicles; all pension payments to widowers of state policewomen; require surrender of dead persons' drivers' licenses; and to permit transfer of mental patients between institutions before admission.

Among measures defeated by House members were bills that would have given pedestrians the right of way at crosswalks and intersections; and a bill that would have reduced from five years to four the required time to transfer retirement benefits from one unit of local government to another.

This week was saddened by the sudden death of my colleague Jim Nunneley last evening. He had just returned from dinner when he was stricken, in spite of the efforts of Bob Stites and Allen Rush to save him. We will all miss him a great deal, and feel very sad to have him taken from us.

ETHICS FOR HOUSE

The House voted unanimously for the creation of an ethics committee. The committee made up of twelve members will be named. The Committee on Standards of Official Conduct will draft standards of official conduct for members, officers, and employees of the House.

PROPOSES STRIKE MEASURE

Senator Jacob Javits (R., N.Y.) has proposed legislation that would strike that create national emergencies. The Senator said potential labor disputes in basic U.S. industries could "interfere with our efforts in Vietnam."

Nearly 275 college and university students from across the nation will study foreign languages and political science in the American Language and Educational Center (ALEC) program, offered by Michigan State University in Europe this summer.

Bonnie Bethke, Jay Livingston Wed in Grand Haven Ceremony

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert Livingston and their son, Kent, were in Grand Haven on Saturday, May 6, to participate in the wedding of their eldest son, Jay, to Bonnie Bethke, of that city. The wedding took place at 4 p.m. in the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. Livingston performed the ceremony.

There were approximately 200 relatives and friends of the couple attending the wedding.

Jay's brother, Kent, was the best man, and his cousin from Maryland Howard Sharpe was one of the attendants. Dave Wood, the bridegroom's friend from Chelsea, and Jay's roommate from Western Michigan University, Richard Kuhn, also attended the bridegroom. Ushers were Richard Reed, of Chelsea, and Bruce Bethke, the bride's brother.

The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Robert W. Livingston, from Arlington, Va., had the thrill of seeing her son, the Rev. Robert Livingston, perform the double-ring ceremony. One of the unusual features of the wedding was the fact that the bride couple made their pledges to one another without prompting.

The bridegroom's mother's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Sharpe, from Maryland, attended as well as a cousin of Jay's from Virginia, Miss Sandra Bates, who works for the State Department. Frank Wimer, from Olympia, Wash., was also able to be present. The photographer was a long-standing friend of the Livingston family from Buffalo, N.Y., James Shimwell, who brought his wife and two daughters, Connie and Ellen, with him for the occasion.

MOTHER

By James Mullen

Amid anxiety, pain and fear,
She gave us life that we hold dear,
She watched us open baby eyes
And crooned us restful lullabies.
Our moods and smiles she understood
And saw us pass from babyhood
Into the realm of budding years
With mingled joy and pride and tears.

She taught us little words and talk
And coached us as we learned to walk,
She kissed our little bumps and aches
And eased our hearts of fancied breaks.
Our way she smoothed with dotting care,
As we climbed upward life's great stair
And gazed in awe at all the world,
As, lo! its wonders were unfurled.

Then, as in years we older grew,
Her guiding hand was present, too,
And when our urge arrived to mate
And build a home beyond her gate,
She sat alone with memories
Of romping tots and pleasant days,
And then, content—her life complete
She journeyed on, her God to meet.

Chelsea Area Native Still Writing Poetry at Age 87

James Mullen, more familiarly known to his friends as "Frank," is the author of the Mother's Day poem which appeared in this paper last week.

A native of this area, he was one of a family of six brothers and sisters born in Lyndon Township to James and Mary Breitenbach Mullen. He attended Chelsea High School, numbering among his classmates (although they were younger than he was) Paul G. Venable, Leigh Palmer, Ralph Holmes, Frank Penn, Edith Bacon, Warren Boyd and others whose families were prominent in the community. His younger sister, Inna Mullen, was also in the same class.

He himself, however, had left school periodically to work for awhile and for this reason he was older than the other students. He left school permanently before graduation and went to work as a clerk in the Beissel & Staffan grocery store which was located at the southeast corner of Main and Michigan streets.

After moving to Detroit, Mullen became a traveling salesman and remained in that work until his retirement.

Writing verse has been his hobby for many years and a number of his poems have been published.

Until recent years Mullen visited often at the home of his sister, Mrs. Fred Barth, the former Ann Mullen, 1110 Jerusalem Rd., Mrs. Barth's son, Harold, now goes to Detroit often to see him and brings him home for occasions such as Thanksgiving, Christmas and special family gatherings.

Mrs. Barth said that in his retirement her brother mentioned a club formed by a number of high school students which was given the name Youth Club. None of the members would reveal what the club represented but later, upon inquiry after the club was disbanded, some said the name was Youth Club. Whether that was the case or not, Mullen was not a member of the club. Mullen wrote a poem dedicated to the club at the time he was in the service in 1918.

92-Year-Old John Lindow Undergoes Heart Surgery

John Lindow, who celebrated his 92nd birthday last November, is reported to be "recovering satisfactorily" at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, after undergoing surgery during which a cardiac Pacemaker was implanted on Wednesday of last week.

The Pacemaker is described as a miniature "energy pulse generator" for the correction of heart block or other condition which slows the pulse rate to a dangerously low number of beats per minute. In Lindow's case, his family said, the pulse rate had reached a low of 28 and he was too weak to move about.

A description of the Pacemaker states that it is a silicone rubber enclosed device weighing approximately five ounces; is 2.5 inches long, 2.25 inches wide and one inch thick. Two specially assembled lead wires almost 22 inches long are suited into the unit for attachment to the heart. Each wire on the lead cable (which is only 0.015 inch in diameter) is made of numerous individual wires less than two-thousandths of an inch in diameter and the whole is insulated with layers of silicone rubber. Surgical needles are connected to the ends of the wires to facilitate attachment to the heart.

Energy for the unit is supplied by five tiny mercury batteries. The unit is implanted under the skin in the armpit making it easily accessible should the long-lasting batteries weaken and need eventual replacement.

The General Electric Co. makes the Pacemaker used here. It was developed in conjunction with Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz of Maimonides Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Lindow looks forward to being able to move about comfortably when he has fully recovered. He said he was willing to undergo the surgery, even though he was warned of the risk posed by his age, in order that he could again walk around the yard and go to the barn to see how things are progressing on the farm that has been his home for 40 years.

The farm, located at 600 Freer Rd., is operated by his son, Elmer, with some help from the latter's son, Kenneth, who lives in Chelsea. Elmer's brother, Herbert, who formerly lived on the farm, also is now living in Arizona for health reasons.

The elder Lindows and Elmer and his wife, the former Viola Krumm, have made their home together in the big home on the farm since the younger Lindows' marriage.

His 89-year-old son, Mrs. Lindow, who is invalid the past two years. She and Mr. Lindow observed their 50th wedding anniversary five years ago. His general physical condition is good for a man of his age.

justifying the surgery to help the heart action as recommended by his doctors.

Mrs. Elmer Lindow said yesterday that the family hasn't been told just when the senior Lindow will be coming home but they are hopeful his good progress so far is an indication he will soon be well enough to leave the hospital.

Adrian Senior Class Making 50-Mile Hike To Hell Saturday

The Satan's Holiday western style square dance will be held on Saturday, June 24, and reservations are now being accepted by the Chamber of Commerce.

The Rev. Bud Spriggs, plans to open the "Tour Thru Hell" exhibit late in June. He opened a similar show at Gatlinburg, Tenn., on May 1 and reports it has been a huge success.

ALCOHOL TESTS FOR DEAD

London—The Home office has announced that coroners must make blood alcohol tests on all pedestrians killed on British roads to determine if they had been drinking. Last year a similar order was made to test motorists and motorcyclists involved in fatal accidents.

Those who make on-the-spot opinions usually have to correct a lot of them.
