Washington Report by Congressman MARVIN L. ESCH

The widespread rioting which followed the tragic and senseless murder of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., has brought about a reevaluation to do something to prevent a long hot summer of intensified civil unrest.

Solutions to the problems of riot control and the problems that cause the riots have been offered and re-offered in great numbers since last year. Yet little has been accomplished and, as the riots of last year faded into memories, the sense of urgency once felt was dissipated. A fortified spring has changed this and has reawakened the sense of urgency and refocused the attention of the nation on the need to do something.

In general, our task must involve a new emphasis on the reevaluation of law and order, the development of better methods of dealing with riots, a creation of programs to get at the root causes of unemployment, poor housing, and inadequate education, and the implementation of these programs.

Throughout the last year, a great deal of my attention and study has been directed towards the realization of these goals. From this work, and that of my colleagues, a series of proposals have been offered which we think will bring us closer to the day when riots are a thing of the past.

Among these which I have given my strong endorsement are:

- Federal aid to state and local government to upgrade their law enforcement capabilities and to provide training for effective riot control.
- The emphasis of such legislation must be on better training so that police forces can be more effective.

—A manpower omnibus bill to create tax incentives to private industry to train and employ the untrained and undereducated of the nation. It will also establish a community service and training opportunities in health, public safety, education, recreation, and neighborhood improvement, insofar as possible.

Costs of Quackery
 —Deaths—Americans pay to health quacks, reports the Michigan State Medical Society. In terms of death—it is estimated that many Americans lose their lives each year to quackery than to all crimes of violence put together. In terms of dollars, the figure approaches $3 billion a year, more than $100 million in Michigan alone.

MSMS notes that quackery exists in many forms. Most prominent benefits for real or imagined problems. Their first targets are quacks who play upon the "fear" of death. They are the "miraculous" cures for cancer, heart disease, and other ailments. They are the "miraculous" cures for cancer, heart disease, and other ailments.

"Cures" the quack might advance involve drugs and medicines, mechanical devices, special foods, and psychic treatments. Red and serum and cricket legs may sound phony to many people, but to a chronic asthmatic patient this "cure" may be the only hope left.

Elimination of quackery involves many problems. A legal definition of a "quack" may be the most difficult.

Where does one draw the line between "quackery" and the sale of vitamins, patent medicines, cosmetics, and health foods? Is the definition of "quack" limited to the careless physician whose poor judgment causes the death of a patient? Or is it broader?

Prosecution of quacks is often difficult because victims do not sign complaints. Some are too embarrassed; some are dead.

Another difficulty arises when patients are "cured" through the efforts of a quack.

On the Congress sets up an agency for a special purpose, they stay on the Government payroll forever, long after the need for the agency has disappeared.

I recollect back during World War I when we was using a lot of wood in our airplanes, they set up an agency to by the proper kind of wood. In about two years we switched to airplanes made from metals and did away with the wood requirements. But this wood-buying agency hung on for years, with nothing to do, but drawing down fancy pay all the time.

I ain't got no way of knowing the details, but I'd guess we got agencies in Washington that has outlived their usefulness years and years ago but that was still on the Government payroll at fancy salaries.

It's hard for me to figure why our Congress allows this to go on all the time. But, for a country-feller like me, it's hard to figure out a lot of things going on in the Congress. But, anyhow, Mister Editor, I hope Bug gets on this SAGB agency. He might find a communist hiding under the country store.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

I recollect, Mister Editor, when this board was set up. It was back during the days when Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin and everybody was scared we had a Communist hiding behind ever bush. If I recollect correct, this was back about 1956. It turned out that SAGB wasn't needed too bad, so they just been holding on all these years, drawing their pay and doing nothing and holding no meetings.

That seems to be the pattern for all our Government agencies.

Thursday, April 16, 1964—

The group known since its inception a year ago as Chelsea Alumni Memorial Education Fund committee, at a meeting held Tuesday evening to establish the committee as a legally-registered non-profit corporation, decided that the name should be changed to Chelsea Community Educational Foundation. The change in name was suggested because of the committee's feeling that the designation "alumni" might, in some way, limit the realization of the program's full objectives.

Two Chelsea high school seniors are listed among the 805 seniors from 449 accredited high schools of the state who will receive Regents-Alumni scholarships to the University of Michigan this year. The Chelsea recipients are Michael Scholtens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Scholtens, and Susan K. Schroen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schroen.

Six of the folding plastic "Paradome" outdoor camping houses manufactured in Chelsea by Outdoor Fibre Products Co. are among the many relief supplies sent to Alaska following the Good Friday earthquake.

Chelsea won its first baseball game of the season Friday at Ypsilanti Lincoln with a score of 12-4. Gary Dresch pitched "all the way" and struck out 13 batters.

Central Fibre Products Co. has announced the purchase of the Production Machining Co. building and property at 324 N. Main St. Tentative plans for use of the Production Machining plant will permit possible expansion for Outdoor Fibre Products, manufacturers of the Paradome camping "home away from home."

SUNDAY'S SERMON

SUNSHINE
Once, so a mountain story goes, a coal miner was trapped deep in a shaft by some fallen debris. He was reached quickly enough, but the efforts to free him from the material which covered his feet took some time. Would-be rescuers brought down water, food, chewing gum, and assorted items as rescue efforts continued. Then, someone shouted from above, "Need anything else down there?" "Yes," the imprisoned miner shouted in return, "Send down a ray or two of sunshine."
Food and water had been welcome. Yet, what the miner really wanted, perhaps, was assurance that the world was still the same and that his life would still be a part of that world.
We are all very much the same. If our world turns dark or we become trapped by difficult circumstances, we yearn again for the days of sunshine, for the free and easy days, the happy days.
Life, of course, is not perfect. We must take the bad along with the good, making the best of things as we can. The worst will never be too bad, so long as we always look for that little ray of sunshine.

FARM POPULATION
The number of Americans living on farms declined last year to 10,817,000 the Census Bureau reported.
This estimate is 778,000 lower than the 11,595,000 persons the bureau estimated lived on farms in 1966.

57 Boys, Girls Complete Gun Safety Course

The first Jaycee Gun Safety program concluded its activities for 1968 last Thursday evening, when the 57 area boys and girls who completed the 14-hour, seven-week course held in the Chelsea Junior High school gymnasium were given certificates of merit, brassards (arm patches), and wallet cards. Organized for boys and girls from ages 7 to 14, the course stressed gun safety and basic marksmanship. These six, plus John Storey, Debbie Wisniewski, Stephanie Aldrich and Terry Ellenwood, were chosen to compete for a place on a five-member team which will participate in the Michigan State BB-Gun Championships at Milford, May 4. Instructors for the gun safety program were James Branham, Charles Miller, Lloyd Swan, Art Steinway and Tony Wisniewski. They were presented with special certificates by David F. Martin, program chairman, who also awarded certificates of merit to the following 57 boys and girls completing the program: Stephanie Aldrich, Donald Aldrich, Wil-

Time and Taxes

It now appears there may be a referendum on the November election. One, for certain, will be a possible return to the Standard time for our state and the other may challenge the state income tax. Most Michigan farmers have their minds made up on both. They give strong support to the state income tax, being the most fair method of providing state revenue, and they that voters do away with the "double-daylight" saving time, returning Michigan to Eastern Standard all year around. Farmers make the point that when Michigan first moved to Eastern Standard time in 1948, although 90 percent of the state was in the Central time zone, the state had already moved an hour ahead of the sun.

To permanently accept another one-hour move ahead on the last Sunday of April every year, as is now required by federal law, could mean a two-hour loss for farmers and an exceptionally short work day. Dealing directly with nature as they do, they find it hard to believe that others cannot understand the hardships that "fast" brings them. Surrounded by those who have the problem of every morning dews which, under a new time, do not disappear all 10 to 11 a.m. Dizziness is necessary for hay-making, berry-picking, and most harvests. Do they desire to take part in the social life of the community, farmers force themselves to use night hours, and along with thousands of others in our state, end up feeling perpetually tired.

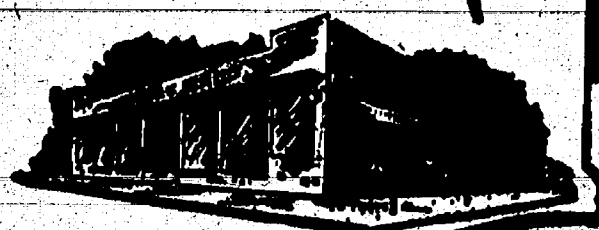

This November, all citizens will have a chance to vote to accept Michigan from the federal law and return the state to Eastern Standard time, year-round.

There is also a possibility that a referendum on the state income tax portion of last year's tax farm package will be subject to the same close voter-scrutiny. Would the tax be repealed. Michigan farmers predict that the state will be in deep financial trouble, with no chance of balancing soaring costs other than to again increase the present burdensome property taxes.

Wind Gusts Are Damaging To Topsoil

This is the third of a series of five articles from the county Extension office on wind erosion in Michigan.

In order to understand how wind erosion occurs, we must first understand something about wind movement. Donald Johnson, extension agricultural agent, Washtenaw county, explains that surface winds over two or three miles per hour may be "turbulent," meaning irregular in velocity and occurring as gusts. These gusts are responsible for starting the movement of soil in the wind erosion process, he said. When surface wind velocity reaches eight to 10 miles per hour, wind erosion may become severe.

A Michigan State University soil conservationist, Russell G. Hill, has defined three basic kinds of wind erosion. The first kind he calls saltation. Wind bounces medium sized soil particles one to two feet in the air. When they fall back to the surface again, they knock other particles loose to bounce. "This hammering effect is increased because the soil particles are spinning at a speed of 200 to 1,000 revolutions per second," Hill said. These bouncing soil particles also move forward with the wind and may accumulate as drifts.

The second kind of wind erosion is called the movement of soil in suspension. As the bouncing soil particles hit the surface, shifting, light particles of organic matter, silt and clay, are knocked high into the air.

These particles, which usually contain the most soil nutrients as well as organic matter, are picked up by the wind and may be carried miles away.

The third kind of erosion is called "surface creep," he said. Grains of soil that are too heavy to be blown into the air are pushed along the surface by the striking force of bouncing particles. This creep of soil is responsible for the major part of the cutting off or shredding of surface vegetation. It also causes soil deposits in ditches and along roads.

It is this surface creep that occasionally causes the destruction of an entire field of small, tender plants," Hill said.

"This is the problem—its causes and effects. There are, however, certain ways to control wind erosion. These will be discussed next," the agricultural agent said. Next Week, "Tillage Practices Can Control Soil-Blowing Problem."

What Readers Like To See In Newspaper

A newspaper editor in Montana placed his tongue firmly in his cheek the other day and composed a list of answers to questions naive on what a weekly newspaper subscriber would like to read.

Here are the responses to what the average reader desires to see:

1. My name.
2. A front page article showing how crooked the city government is most of the time.
3. My wife's name.
4. A feature article showing 25 ways on how to cheat on income tax forms.
5. My kids' names.
6. A local item about the affair my neighbor is having.
7. A classified ad offering a new home for sale for $4,000.
8. More news about lawbreakers.
9. Less news about lawbreakers. I was picked up last night and I should not have to pay a fine.
10. An editorial condemning high school teachers for being too liberal with "F's."
11. A wedding picture of the groom instead of the bride when he is more handsome than she is pretty.
12. A sports picture of me when I bowled 183.
13. More advertisements on things that merchants are giving away.
14. A front page picture of my neighbor being hauled out of the bar by his wife.
15. A front page spread about the defendant who lives across the street from me who just had his car repossessed.
16. Forget the last one. I just got word from the finance company that they're coming after my car.
17. More letters to the editor naming the crooks we have in town.

PORTRAIT OF A YEAR A Study of Michigan's 1967 Auto Injuries and Fatalities

THIS MAP illustrates Michigan's pre-eminent safety position in 1967, when it led the nation with the largest traffic accident reduction of any large industrial state. The map is taken from the cover of "Portrait of a Year," Automobile Club of Michigan's study of 1967 traffic injuries and fatalities. To be published soon, it is a companion to Auto Club's 1966 "How To Bring More Back Alive" fatality study.

Michigan's Auto Drivers Led Nation in Safety for Last Year

If Michigan can cut last year's highway death total by five (a month from April on, this state may keep its 1967 title as "Safest of the Big Eight States," according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Michigan drivers led the nation in traffic safety during 1967, but are 44 deaths ahead of last year's first quarter," states Auto Club General Manager Fred Rehm.

For the first three months of 1968, 420 persons have died in Michigan traffic as compared with 376 for the same period last year.

From a record 2,226 deaths in 1966, however, Michigan reduced its 1967 traffic fatalities to 1,988, a drop of 11 percent. (Both figures are taken from a nationwide compilation. Michigan State Police figures, which take into account delayed and late-reported deaths, are higher.)

Rehm added that Michigan also reduced traffic injuries by 3.3 percent in 1967.

In comparison, the nation as a whole remained unchanged—both in injuries and deaths, according to a state-wide traffic study to be released soon by Auto Club. In 1967, Michigan had 4.7 deaths per 100 million miles traveled while the nation averaged 5.6.

The study, called "Portrait of a Year," probes more than 1,600 injury accidents which happened last summer throughout the Lower Peninsula. It will be a companion study to Auto Club's 1966 study, titled "How To Bring More Back Alive," which covered 20 percent of the year's traffic fatalities.

The rest of the "Big Eight States" were far behind. Michigan's 1967 highway record. Here's how Michigan stacked up in comparison with the seven other largest states (in terms of auto registration):

Michigan, down 11 percent; Ohio, down three percent; Illinois, down one percent; Texas, down one percent; California, down less than one-half of one percent; Indiana, up less than one-half of one percent; New York, up one percent; and Pennsylvania, up seven percent.

In fact, Rehm points out, Michigan was behind only such low population states as Alaska, down 21 percent; South Dakota, down 16 percent; Utah, down 14 percent; and Nevada and Arizona, both down 14 percent.

In the cities category, Flint and Grand Rapids led the nation in traffic fatality percentage reduction for most of 1967, with 28 and 24 percent reductions, respectively, in their category.

Detroit, with an 18 percent reduction, placed 11th among 78 cities reporting late last year.

However, Rehm said that traffic deaths began to climb before the end of 1967 and have continued climbing since.

He pointed out that travel was up 9.4 percent in January and 12 percent in February this year as compared with 1967. Deaths dropped four percent in January and jumped 35 percent in February in 1968 as compared with these months in 1967.

Cutting Buried Phone Lines Raises Havoc

Dig-ups of telephone cable, occurring on the average of twice a day, are presenting a serious service problem to the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and its customers.

Last year contractors' trenching machines, power shovels and bulldozers sliced into underground telephone cable 735 times, causing service disruptions for thousands of phone users.

"The problem is particularly acute in the Detroit metropolitan area where building excavations and construction of sewer lines, highways, and water mains pose almost a constant hazard to underground phone lines," said J. W. Allen, general plant manager of Michigan Bell's metro area.

Allen attributes most of the problem to digging by contractors and builders. He urges contractors and equipment operators planning to dig to call the telephone company's repair service. "The company will tell contractors, builders and home owners where telephone cable is buried," he said. "In critical locations, a telephone man will be sent to the site to show cable routes."

The cable dig-ups are costly. Michigan Bell spent more than $100,000 last year to repair the damage. Far more important, however, is the fact that service interruptions caused missed messages and inconvenience to telephone users when the cables were broken, Allen pointed out.

A cable break can cut off a town or area completely from long distance calls for several hours.

The problem could worsen in the future unless those who dig for a living exercise more caution, Allen said. Michigan Bell is committed to a policy of burying or placing more and more cable underground.

Allen said that in 1960 Michigan had 9,017 miles of cable underground. The company now has 19,236 miles of cable beneath the surface.

Michigan Bell takes extensive precautions to safeguard buried cable. It erects warning signs above buried cable. Visits are made to contractors, builders and excavators. Checks are made of construction permits and efforts are made to warn contractors in advance of digging.

Allen said home owners planning to erect a fence or plant a tree in areas where telephone facilities are buried underground are urged to call repair service before digging. Generally, he said, phone lines lie in a direct path from terminals in the rear of the property to the point where the wires enter the house. Home owners can avoid cutting off their own phone service by making themselves aware of this stretch between the backyard terminal and the location where telephone lines enter their home.

Those who dig up telephone facilities are liable for the cost of labor and material used in the restoration of service. When such payments, however, cannot begin to compensate phone users for the inconvenience.

In most instances, dig-ups can be prevented by first telephone repair service, Allen said. A number is listed in the front page of telephone directories.

One of the difficulties of modern life is to arrange your affairs so someone else can dig up your phone lines.

NORTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NOTES

KINDERGARTEN—

Teacher: Mrs. Packard

Our potato plant has bloomed and we can see a little part of potato peeking up near the surface.

All have planted fruit seeds and have small plants that have gone home to get tender care. Jeff brought Murtle the Turtle to school and she crawled about until recess. Since she was too big to take home on the bus, we took her to the creek and watched her swim away.

Our room is hopping with Easter rabbits, eggs, egg carton trucks, and Easter excitement.

Everyone made an Easter Basket and dyed his own egg to put into it to take home. We also had a special Easter treat at milk time.

FIRST GRADES—

Teachers: Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Horning, Mrs. Staffan

We have been very busy in First Grade. We took a nice field trip to Hickory Ridge Farm Dairy. We saw the cows being milked, the milk being bottled, and being prepared for delivery. Each of us was given a treat.

On April 9 we had a program for our parents. We had fun showing our parents all the games we have learned.

Our rooms are full of spring. We have made a chart of what we have seen or discovered about spring. We have also decorated our room with chicks made of crepe paper.

GRAD FOUR—

Teacher: Mrs. McCullough

Reporter: Robert Wenk

Our class is planning a field trip to Dearborn, to see the Ford Motor assembly line and we will see how steel is formed into shapes and sizes.

Like other people we are looking forward to spring vacation. We saw a movie on the book Pongo by Holling Clancy Holling. That started us on making our own books. Some people have finished.

We have been doing ceramics. Many people have done pots and people. Tuesday and Thursday we painted our ceramics with glaze.

SECOND GRADE—

Teacher: Mrs. Hakala

Reporter: Susan German

We have been studying about the Coal Ages. We learned that coal was formed from giant ferns that had died. All the plants grew from spores, not seeds. Today, ferns, mosses and horsetails grow from spores. Cockroaches were as big as mice. Dragonflies had wings that were two feet across. We know these things happen because fossils have been found.

FIFTH GRADE—

Teacher: Mrs. Cox

Reporter: Danny Foytik

We are now studying verbs, such as present is, do, past is did, and with helper form is done. We are also taking notes for the states.

In science we are still on weather, but now we know the types of clouds in the sky. Matt Marzee made an experiment with making a cloud bottle. In reading we're doing two plays: "Vistas" is a play called "Time Cat." "Wide Horizons" is a play called "Mister Mysterious."

Teacher: Mrs. Maxwell

Reporter: Bob Hercules

We were going to go to Greenfield Village but Mr. Benedict thought it wouldn't be safe near Detroit. Our class newspaper is having its second edition on May 3. We gave reports on famous inventors. They were very good.

Teacher: Mrs. Winkle

Reporters: Dan White, Ron Kiel

The 5th grade had its Achievement Test. We started working on Monday and finished it Wednesday. We worked on it for three days. Some people in our room also brought in some new plants. Ann Kalmbach brought in a snapdragon. She planted it March 31, and it came up April 8. We also have two Venus flytraps. Mrs. Winkle's "Punch-n-Grow" is about 1 1/2 inches high.

STAMP CLUB NEWS

Reporter: Mike Keller

At 1 p.m. the stamp club met at Mrs. McCullough's house. It was decided that the club shall meet the second and fourth Saturdays in each month. We will meet one hour and will bring a penny dues. It was also decided that since Mrs. McCullough is going away in the summer, we should have a list of members and when you feel like trading, call them up.

The door prize was won by Mike Keller. We each got a balloon with a stamp in it. We had to sit on them to get the stamp out. We also tried to get three balls through a hole in cardboard.

Michigan Traffic Death Toll Down for First Time in 6 Years

Showing an annual reduction for the first time in six years, Michigan's 2,123 traffic deaths in 1967 were 175, or 7.6 percent, fewer than the all-time high of 2,298 in 1966, according to final figures compiled by the safety and traffic division of the State Police.

Persons injured numbered 151,297, a decrease of 3.4 percent from 156,894 the year before, and the first reduction in nine years. Total accidents tallied 289,004, down 1.3 percent from 302,880 in 1966, the second successive annual decrease. Of the accidents, 1,834 were classified as fatalities, 97,143 as personal injury, and 200,027 as property damage only.

The death toll was the fourth in a row—and the seventh on record—to exceed the 2,000 mark in Michigan.

Exposure factors showed increases from 1966: Estimate travel mileage of 45.05 billions was up 2.5 percent from 43.9 billions. Licensed drivers totaled 4,929,020, or 2.4 percent more than 4,812,816. Motor vehicle registrations numbered 4,161,573, a rise of 0.7 percent from 4,133,190. The 1967 totals are new state highs. Despite the exposure gains, the death rate per 100 million vehicle miles dropped to 4.7, or almost 10 percent less than 5.2 the previous year. The state's lowest death rate of 4.6 was set in 1962, the highest on record was 16.8 in 1935.

Another reduction was in the estimated cost of accidents, $405 millions, which was 2.4 percent less than the state high of $415 millions in 1966.

DDT Not Recommended For Mosquito Control In Michigan After May 8

The pesticide DDT will not be recommended for mosquito control on the labels of insecticide containers in Michigan after May 8. This is because research has proved that mosquitoes can be controlled effectively by other chemicals with less residual effects. This does not affect other DDT uses.

Announcement was made recently by Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture which is responsible for the registration of pesticides in the state. Formulations registered with the department's Laboratory Division last some 5,000.

On April 8 manufacturers of pesticides were notified they would not be permitted to recommend DDT use for mosquito control on the label of their products. They were given 30 days to revise their labels. After May 8 manufacturers will be guilty of misbranding in Michigan if their labels still recommend DDT for mosquito control.
