Freedom OK's Building New Township Hall

A decision has been made by the Freedom Township Board to erect a new Township Hall at Lima Center and Pleasant Lake Rds.

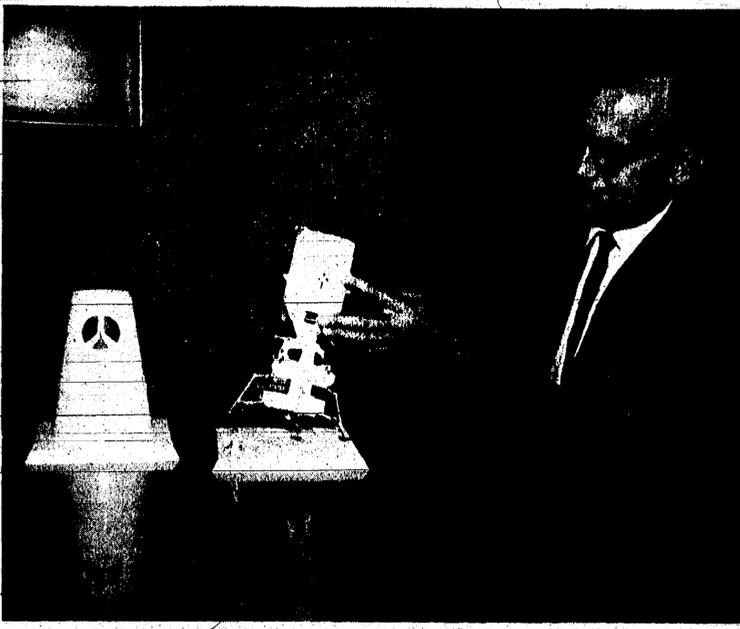

The decision passed with a majority of 36 to 26 at a special July 17 meeting, with an allotment of $32,000 for the construction.

The new hall will serve as a community center as well as a place for township meetings.

Construction will take place as soon as possible, but because it is a public building, the township must advertise for bids and wait for estimates.

At a special meeting Wednesday evening, the board appointed a committee to organize the procedures. Those appointed are Supervisor John Miller, Neil Stierle, Armin Haeussler, Clarence Schneider, and Luther Schible.

The present township hall is an old brick structure without plumbing, built in 1878.

LUNAR LANDING—A 21-inch scale model of Apollo 11 was put together by Robert D. Rudd, a local space-huff who has a more than passing interest in this week's voyage to the moon. Rudd is plant manager at the North American Rockwell Corp. here, whose sister firm in California assembled the Apollo 11 command module, which is seen in the top half of the photo. At bottom is the lunar module, which reached the moon last Sunday.

Sgt. G. Kuhl Chosen Airman Of the Month

Former Chelsea resident, Sgt. Gregory A. Kuhl, has been selected as Minot Air Force Base "Airman of the Month."

Sgt. Kuhl, 882 Supply Squadron, attended Chelsea High school and was employed with Chrysler Corporation Proving Grounds before entering the Air Force in April, 1966. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. Kuhl, 4902 M-52.

His wife is the former Diane Solper of Bottineau, N. D., and they have two children, Alan Lee, 2 years old, and Michelle Renee, 5 months.

In charge of individual equipment issue unit, Equipment Management Branch at the Base in North Dakota, Sgt. Kuhl works in a unit which supports 5,100 military personnel in their clothing requirements.

He is responsible for maintaining personal clothing records for each item of apparel issued and insuring that everyone assigned to Minot AFB has adequate gear.

In addition, he has the demanding job of supplying all tactical crew members with adequate flying clothing and appropriate gear.

A three-year Air Force veteran, he is completing his fourth year at Minot, having been assigned to his basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas in 1966.

Colonel George E. Porter, 882 Combat Support Group, noted of the sergeant, "He accepts all assignments and insures that his subordinates complete them thoroughly and in the shortest possible time."

"Sergeant Kuhl," he also states, "performs duties that are certainly demanding and require constant hard work and sacrifice on his part."

The "Airman of the Month" program was instituted in February by Brig. Gen. Ralph T. Holland, 810th Strategic Aerospace Division commander.

"It means a lot to airmen at Minot," commented Sgt. Kuhl. "It lets them know someone cares about the job that we're doing."

"It makes them want to excel in their duties and I personally received great incentive in striving to be selected," he concluded.

As July's "Airman of the Month," he will receive four certificates from businessmen in Minot, a pen and pencil set engraved with his accomplishment, a week-end in Minot at a bridal suite for him and himself, cinema passes for two, $10 in cash, $50 government savings bond, and free use of an automobile with reserved parking for a month.

Chelsea Residents Voice Approval of Lunar Voyage

Chelsea residents — most of them glued to their television screens during the historic moon landing of Apollo 11 astronauts earlier this week — shared in the nation-wide excitement over the 500,000-mile space voyage, which is scheduled to end with a splash-down in the Pacific sometime today.

Most local residents interviewed by the Chelsea Standard this week expressed wonderment over the successful space odyssey of U.S. astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Mike Collins. Several residents here spoke of the long-range scientific benefits of the voyage, and only a few mentioned the tremendous cost of financing the mission.

Mrs. Doreen Freeman of 805 W. Middle St., said the lunar voyage was "almost beyond belief."

"I can't understand how they did it," she declared, "but I guess nothing is unbelievable with modern science."

At North American Rockwell Corp., a local automotive spring manufacturing company whose sister firm in El Segundo, Calif., assembled the command module which will return the astronauts to earth, plant manager Robert D. Rudd called the venture a "great step into space."

"It's probably too early to tell of the scientific benefits of the voyage," he said, "but the mission could be considered a stepping-stone" to similar trips to other celestial bodies.

Rudd, a space-huff last winter had constructed a 21-inch model of the lunar module and the command ship used in this week's voyage.

Chelsea Village Administrator Frederick A. Weber called the lunar voyage "tremendous," adding that he and his wife sat in their back yard watching the moon landing Sunday night. "It seemed impossible," he said, "that men had actually landed there."

Gen. Dwight Beach, who returned to his home at 11350 Jackson Rd. several weeks ago after 36 years with the U.S. Army, hailed the lunar landing as the "start of a new era" in technology and space exploration.

He remarked that although there might not be any immediate gains from this and other space ventures, the long-range effects of the U.S. space program — which is costing about $24 billion a year — will be "well worth it."

Alex Mshar of 742 Boon St., an employee of Federal Screw Works here, called the lunar voyage the "best thing the U.S. has ever done" and added that he was "thrilled to pieces" by the mission.

"Quite a few people are concerned about the money expended for the trip, but I think it was worth it," he said.

Mrs. E. W. Eaton of 160 E. Middle St., a senior citizen who serves as president of the Chelsea Library Board, had this to say about the voyage:

"Of course, at my age, I don't expect to see many of the benefits. But I think it will be a great thing for future generations."

Another local resident commented that there were two ways of looking at the voyage. On the one hand, he said, the trip will supply scientists with valuable information about the moon and the balance of the solar system. But on the other hand, he said, "it's an awful price to pay for a bunch of rocks."

Aug. 4 Election Date Near for Millage Vote

School Personnel Busy Trying To Explain Needs for Coming Year

Chelsea residents will vote Aug. 4 on a revised 1969-70 education budget that would hike the local school tax by 2.83 mills over tax-ers last year.

Local education officials say this tax increase — which would bring in a total of about $195,000 in additional revenues for the coming school year — will be spent largely for increases in teachers' salaries, the purchase of two new school buses, and a general increase in school operating costs.

Voters will also be faced with a separate ballot item calling for a school board's capital improvement budget. This item, if approved by the voters, will finance the demolition of the old Junior High school and the paving of the Chelsea High school parking lot, and elementary school playgrounds.

In two previous budget referendums — both of them rejected by Chelsea voters — costs for capital improvements were included in the total school budget package, bringing the proposed tax hike to 3.83 mills.

According to Frederick A. Mills, school business manager, projected increases in salaries for teachers and other school personnel (including administrators, bus drivers, custodians, cafeteria personnel and secretaries) account for most of the requested budget hike. Recent statistics reveal that staff salaries comprise about 82 percent of the Chelsea School District's operating expenses.

Teachers' salaries, now the subject of negotiations between the school board and the local teachers' union, the Chelsea Educational Association (CEA), are likely to be settled before the opening of the school term in September.

If approved by the voters next month, the proposed 2.83 millage increase will bring local school taxes to 27.70 mills. This means Chelsea property owners will pay $27.70 in school taxes for each $1,000 worth of assessed property value (the assessed value of a property is set by law at 50 percent of its market value).

If the capital improvements budget item is also approved by the voters, school taxes here will reach 28.70 mills, or $28.70 for each $1,000 worth of assessed property value.

Under last year's school tax rate, home owners paid 24.87 mills or $24.87 on property with an assessed value of $1,000.

According to this school tax formula, approval will mean that a Chelsea resident whose property is assessed at $10,000 will be paying $277 in school taxes this year, compared to the $248 he paid during 1968-69, approximate 11 percent increase.

Business manager Mills and other school officials who have been explaining their revised tax proposal to local discussion groups recently say the total school income, including state aid, will amount to $1.6 million for 1968-70, an increase of $195,000 over last year's budget.

School officials note that Chelsea, in comparison with the nine other school districts in Washtenaw county, ranks eighth in the amount of revenue spent for the education of each pupil.

Voting will take place Aug. 4 at the Dwight E. Beach Junior High school from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Absentee ballots are available at the high school administrative offices.

Dexter Boy Wins Soap Box Derby

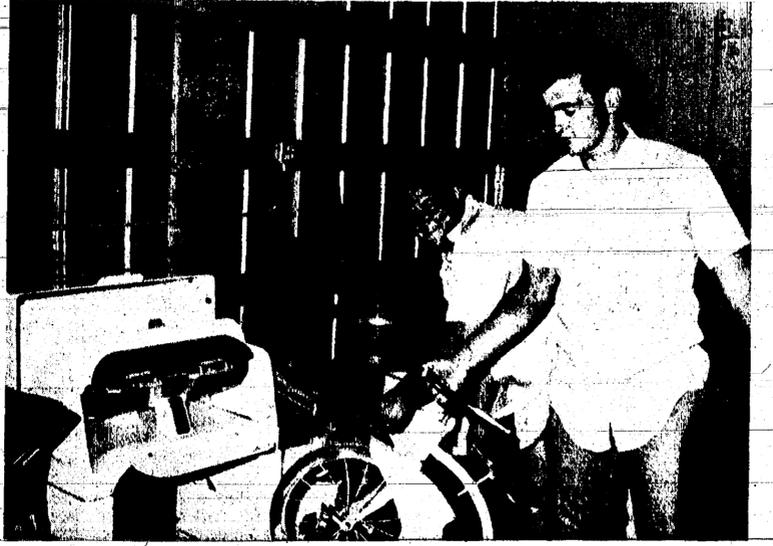

A 14-year-old Dexter boy streaked across the finish line in the 80th and final heat of the Ann Arbor Soap Box Derby Sunday and captured first place.

David Kemble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Klinke, 3638 Inverness, received a $500 savings bond, a first-place trophy, a plaque, and an all-expense-paid trip to Akron, O., to compete in the national derby Aug. 23.

David has competed in derby races since 1966, and the car he raced for the win is the same one he used last year except for a few modifications.

Chelsea boys participating in the race were Ken and David Buxton, 8405 Werker Rd., and William Aldrich, 221 E. Middle St.

Mrs. Charles Allen is a patient at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, room 722. She had major surgery on Monday, July 14.

DAN EDER and Mike Eubanks, foreground, have been devoting much of their spare time lately to picking up, sorting and preparing useable materials contributed for the Jaycees Auction Rummage Sale. The annual fund-raising event of the Jaycees will be held Saturday, Aug. 9, at Chelsea Fairgrounds.

Jaycees Gathering Useable Items for Rummage Sale

Chelsea Jaycees are urging all residents to look through their closets, to clean out garages and attics of all unneeded but useful articles, then give them a call. The articles will be picked up and used for their annual Auction Rummage Sale Aug. 9.

To arrange for a pick-up, any one of the following persons may be called — Mike Eubanks at 479-

7137, Dan Eder at 475-2668, or Mitchell Zink at 479-6540.

The rummage sale is the solution to the problem of what to do with those articles no longer needed, but which could be used by others.

The Jaycees hope to have a successful sale, as the proceeds are used to support projects for the community, but they need more articles than what have already been collected.

Pick-ups will be made until Aug. 6, so residents are urged to sort out their items as soon as possible.

The Auction Rummage Sale will be held at the Chelsea Fairgrounds on Aug. 9, only three weeks away. George Staffan has been appointed auctioneer.

Washington Report
 by Congressman
MARVIN L. ESCH

The American public is becoming increasingly concerned about rising taxes—federal, state, and local. There is also, quite appropriately, increasing interest in precisely how the tax dollar is allocated.

It is surprising to many persons to learn that 53 percent out of every federal tax dollar goes directly for defense purposes. This amounts to more than $80 billion annually, which is a sum greater than the total federal expenditures for the first 135 years of our country's existence. This is more money than is spent for all other government programs together.

Another 11 cents goes to pay the interest on the national debt, most of which debt was accumulated for defense spending during World War II.

The other figures, compared to defense spending, are low. For natural resources we spend 1 cent. For housing and community development we spend 2 cents. Education receives 4 cents. Health programs such as Medicare and Medicaid—so vital for our older citizens—account for 3 cents of our federal tax pie. Other social services receive just 1 cent. This includes 64 cents for juvenile delinquency programs and 61 cent for mental retardation programs.

Our foreign assistance programs, including defense-related military assistance, cost 2 cents. Of this amount, 1 cent goes to the Peace Corps, which has done so much to spread good will for the United States in underdeveloped countries.

Some efforts cost 3 cents, agricultural programs another 6 cents and 6 cents goes for commerce and transportation programs. Veterans receive 3 cents of the tax dollar.

I believe those figures indicate that the priorities of this nation are in need of critical review. There is no question that we must maintain the military strength needed to provide national security, but I have serious reservations about the rapid growth of the military budget in recent years and recent reports of military budget cuts.

Too often in the past, military appropriations have sailed through Congress, almost without question. I think it is time for the same scrutiny by Congress that is given to all other programs. Waste and inefficiency are no more excusable in defense programs than in any other type of public spending.

I strongly support efforts in Congress to cut back non-essential defense outlays, so that a larger percentage of the federal tax dollar may be channeled into programs designed to meet the crucial environmental, educational, and social problems that are facing this nation today.

Too Much Sun Worsens Many Skin Diseases

Ann Arbor—Grandma may have looked silly, but she wasn't stupid.

On hot summer days, she wore a sunbonnet or wide-brimmed hat, a veil, and long sleeves. Grandfather donned a straw hat, a banana around his neck, and a long-sleeved work shirt.

But today's sun-bronzed gods and goddesses eagerly seek the tanning rays of the sun without stopping to consider that by middle age they may be wrinkled as a prune or covered with blemishes.

Dr. William Taylor, professor of dermatology at the University of Michigan, says sunlight causes a host of troubles. Strong sunlight exposure may cause severe sunburn, hives, itchy bumps, pre-malignant horny excrescences, pigmented spots, white thickened spots on the lips, wrinkled degeneration of the skin, and cancer of the lip. Sunlight provokes lupus erythematosus, porphyria cutanea tarda, Davier's disease, melanoma and other diseases.

Without going into details, it may be said that all these medical names stand for unpleasant or dangerous afflictions.

Sunlight is generally beneficial for some skin diseases such as psoriasis, acne, seborrheic dermatitis, para-soriasis, eczematosis, and pityriasis rosea," said Dr. Taylor. "However, 10 percent of psoriasis are made worse by sunlight, and tropical acne is the worst kind of acne."

Certain drugs are notorious for making light-sensitive eruptions, according to Dr. Taylor. The wonder drug Chlorothiazide, which many thick-legged women in the United States take in the belief that it will thin their legs, frequently causes an eruption on the areas exposed to sunlight. Pregnant women, and those taking birth-control pills get brindle-brown patches around their faces wherever exposed to sun.

Often locally applied perfumes, face jubes, or certain plants and drugs cause brown stains in light-exposed areas. These brown spots usually last up to six months before they disappear by themselves.

And, finally, there is cancer of the skin.

"The cancer-causing effects of sun on skin is cumulative over a lifetime," said Dr. Taylor. "It is not only how much exposure you receive in one year, but how much you have had since childhood."

In the United States, the evidence of skin cancer varies directly with the amount of sunlight in the area. The susceptibility could be with every 250 miles as one approaches the equator.

"People with fair skin, fair or red hair, and freckles are particularly vulnerable to the cancerous effects of a glaring sun. Black or dark-skinned people, except for albinos or those with vitiligo (white spot disease), seldom develop cancer of the skin."

"More Curbs Possible"
 Cigarette advertising and the regulation of it has been the concern of Congress and the Federal government up to now.

But a member of the Michigan Senate says he is going to attempt to impose a partial ban on the advertising of cigarettes in Michigan when the legislature convenes again next January.

William Faust, a non-smoking Democrat from Westland, notified his fellow-senators of his intentions during a recent Senate debate of a bill to outlaw advertising indicating discrimination in the sale or exchange of real estate.

Faust proposed an amendment to the bill to require cigarette advertising to describe the "harmful effects of smoking" as well as urging customers to purchase the particular brand being advertised.

The proposal received instant support from another non-smoking senator, Anthony Stamm, a Republican from Kalamazoo, who said it was a "progressive step."

But the manager of the bill being considered, Coleman Young, a Democrat from Detroit, told Faust he didn't want to lose the bill because of the amendment and told him to wait until next January.

Immediately Faust withdrew his proposal, saying "I didn't want it to come to a vote yet, so I withdrew it." But the Westland lawmaker said "I am serious, though, and this serves notice on everyone that next January I will sponsor a bill."

The proposal to have such advertising tell the "harmful effects" of smoking would be an effort to comply with federal regulations, he said. In that way, the media wouldn't be deprived of freedom of speech, but no positive advertising would take place, he said.

If Faust is successful in his attempt, Michigan would be the first state to impose restrictions on the advertising of cigarettes, a subject which has received much attention from Congress and several regulatory agencies up to now.

At present, the only restriction on the sale or advertising of cigarettes is a requirement that each pack sold in the United States include the statement: "Caution, Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to Your Health."

The Federal Communications Commission has ruled that broadcast stations must also give time to anti-smoking commercials sponsored by the American Cancer Society and other national health groups.

Other proposals include such extreme measures as a complete ban on cigarette advertising, a step which has been taken in several European countries.

The National Association of Broadcasters' Television Code Review Board recently made a voluntary recommendation that all cigarette ads be eliminated from television by Sept. 1, 1973. The Board also recommended prohibiting cigarette commercials in or adjacent to any program primarily directed to young audiences.

A gradual phase-out of the advertising to be in next January was included in the recommendation.

"Unsolicited Goods"
 Michiganders who have been unsure of how to handle unsolicited goods they receive by mail now have some guidance in the matter from the state's lawbooks.

Gov. William G. Milliken recently signed into law a measure providing that unsolicited goods which come in the mail will be considered unconditional gifts from now on. The law says the recipient may either refuse to accept delivery, may refuse to accept any obligation for returning them or may dispose of them any way he wants to.

Ladies Everwhere
 SEAM, The Society for the Emancipation of the American Male, is a new organization in Ann Arbor. According to a story in the New York Times, the group has as its purpose "to restore the American patriarchy" and return men to their positions as heads of their families.

Guess what the organization has picked up already? A ladies auxiliary.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

There was this piece in the paper the other day that said one out of ever five women in this country is a widow. I don't know how many folks saw it, Mister Editor, but Bug Hookum shore did. He come to the session at the country store Saturday night with a head-full of questions about all them widows.

"First off, he wanted to know why the piece didn't say nothing about widowers. He was of the strong opinion they is more to this man and women numbering business than has come out. Bug said he was never much for them statistics, but he has his own ideas about people.

Most of them Government reports, allowed Bug, reminds him of the feller that thinks that if it is 130 degrees by the stove and 20 degrees over the winder the whole room is a nice 75 degrees. When you use them statistics on folks they jest don't stack up, was Bug's words.

Wimmen may be natural longer-livers than men, Bug said, but that don't make no case for so many 35-year-old-widows, cause most husbands make it to 50 or so. Bug figured the piece didn't consider them that has buried one wife and married another one. General, Bug said, wimmen ain't as likely to get married again as men.

Clem Webster said in the first place he couldn't see why Bug was so concerned about the report, and in the second place the reason for the 35 year old age was simple. That was as old as any of the wimmen would say they is. In the third place, Clem allowed, he personal was more worried about wimmen of all ages taking over everything in this man's world.

For instant, Clem saw where this woman in New York had gone to court cause she couldn't get hired for a baseball umpire. Clem said that was as far as wimmen could go in the wrong direction. He said if it took his old lady as long to call a ball or strike as it does to pick which hat to wear to church, they never would get a ball game played, and this serves notice on everyone that next January I will sponsor a bill."

State Urges Care In Surfacing Lots

Lansing—Owners of property along state highways are urged to use care in applying oil or other surfacing materials to their parking lots and driveways so that the materials can't be "tracked" onto the highways.

The Department of State Highways said the materials can cause slippery conditions on the highways, a potential hazard for motorists.

 The peak of the 1954 wheat harvest here was reached last week-end, but the customary long lines of trucks waiting to unload were not in evidence as in former years. At Blass Elevator at Four Mile Lake, all committed storage wheat is already stored or in the process of being stored. Many farmers are holding their wheat, apparently following a wait and see policy in hopes that the price will reach a higher level than the present quotation, $1.32 for No. 1 wheat.

REGIONAL OFFICES NAMED

President Nixon has relocated government regional offices handling urban and social problems making it possible for citizens as well as state and local officials to go to central offices for help with problems involving the national government. Each office will handle from two to eleven states.

NEW SWITCHING CENTER: Michigan Bell Telephone Co. began using a new "satellite" switching center housed in this three-story "bomb resistant" concrete building Sunday at Plymouth. The giant switching machine handles long distance calling for more than 370,000 phone customers in Plymouth, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and areas west and southwest of Detroit. By fall, when fully placed in service, the $25 million facility will add 8,100 long distance circuits to the nation-wide communications network. The new facility will ease the call-handling burden of the state's largest long distance center in downtown Detroit. The addition of the Plymouth center to the network will vastly improve calling for the entire Detroit metropolitan area.

Michigan Bell Starts Using New Long Distance Switching Center

The new Plymouth long distance switching center is virtually a small, self-contained city. Robert E. Morrison, district switching systems manager, estimates that employees could remain in the three-story building for two weeks or more if the need ever arose. The windowless building, which is "bomb resistant," is constructed of monolithic concrete.

The primary function of the building is to house a huge long distance switching machine that will handle the long distance calling needs of more than 370,000 telephone customers in the area. Later this year the installation of 124 consoles of a new Traffic Service Position Systems (TSPS) will begin. These new cordless positions feature pushbutton operation and will gradually replace conventional switchboards in the future. The TSPS units permit operators to speed the handling of such special calls as person-to-person, credit card and conference calls.

By 1971, the Plymouth building will house about 400 employees, including several hundred additional operators and some Port division administrative personnel. Included in the building at 1300 Ann Arbor Road near Sheldon Road are a kitchen and cafeteria. Sufficient provisions will be kept on hand to last two weeks, and longer with rationing.

The building, measuring 204 by 156 feet, contains 118,000 square feet of space. Architectural design was by Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, Inc. of Detroit. Davin & Armstrong, Inc. of Detroit was the general contractor.

The entire switching system project, including long distance circuitry and connecting cable, represents an expenditure of nearly $25 million. The project is the largest single investment to date by Michigan Bell and the second switching system of its kind in the nation. The first in the United States to be equipped with an Electronic Translator System was put into operation this spring in Grand Rapids. Both projects are part of the record-$230 million construction program for 1969 by Michigan Bell.

Thursday, July 25, 1935 - Village President Roy Harris and Peter Boehm, manager of the Chelsea Electric & Water Dept., were in Ann Arbor Friday evening where they made definite application for work-relief projects for the village. Projects applied for include lowering the water main on Madison St., and installing copper service pipe, installation of a new surface sewer on N. Main St., to Mill Creek and cleaning out of Mill Creek for approximately 4,000 feet.

At the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Washtenaw Gas Co., held Friday, Charles R. Henderson, formerly vice-president and general manager of the company, was elected president.

At the organization meeting of the Board of Education, School District No. 3 Fr. Strieter; trustees J. L. Fletcher and J. N. Dancer.

The experiment which has been tried by the village to chase starlings from trees on Congdon St., has proved very successful. In addition to electric lights placed in the trees a noisemaker was fixed up with a small motor and chains and tin can. The birds have practically all vanished from the trees on Congdon and so far no complaints have been heard from residents in other parts of the village.

Paul C. Maroney of Chelsea was elected commander of the Second District American Legion at their quarterly meeting Sunday. The district includes Washtenaw, Lenawee, Jackson and Monroe counties. More than 100 delegates from the four counties attended the meeting.

Rejection of DST Reduces Michigan Deer-Car Crashes

Ann Arbor—One benefit Michigan may have reaped by rejecting daylight saving time is a reduction in car-deer crashes. A University of Michigan graduate student, analyzing figures for 10 southern Michigan counties, found that such crashes increased by 104 from 1966 to 1967. Ninety-seven of those 104 additional crashes—93 percent—came during the six months of daylight saving time in 1967. In 1966 Michigan was on standard time. This year the state returned to standard time.

The increase in 1967 "is attributed to increased traffic volume following the supper hour which carries over into the twilight period when deer activity is greatest," according to scholar Ross E. Allen.

Allen, of Northwood, N. H., has just earned a master's degree in wildlife management from U-M's School of Natural Resources, while working under a fellowship from the University's Highway Safety Research Institute.

In writing his thesis he examined the police records of 2,500 car-deer collisions in the counties of Barry, Calhoun, Eaton, Ingham, Ionia, Jackson, Kent, Livingston, Tuscola, and Washtenaw. These counties have only 15 percent of Michigan's deer population, but account for half of the car-deer crashes.

In 1966 there were 1,231 deer killed by cars in the 10 counties, and in 1967 there were 1,335 killed. In the six months of daylight saving time in 1967 there were 509 killed. In the corresponding period a year earlier 412 were killed.

Although he didn't examine this closely in his study, Allen noted in an interview that in the southern part of Michigan's lower peninsula, "it would appear that deer-car crashes kill more deer than hunters do."

In this region, deer-car crashes have increased greatly in the past few years, reflecting increases in both traffic volume and the number of deer.

"Most accidents occur in the evening hours," Allen said, "rising just prior to sunset and reaching a peak two to three hours afterward. The number of car-deer accidents correlates directly with traffic volume between 6 p.m. and 7 a.m., indicating that deer activity is relatively constant throughout this period of the day. Accident numbers are low during the day (8 a.m. to 4 p.m.) even though traffic volume is high."

Most of the crashes occur in fall, he reported, as the early arrival of dusk—a rising period of deer activity—coincides with peak homeward-bound traffic. Also at this time, deer are stirred by hunting activities and the rutting season.

Contrary to popular belief, Allen found most deer-car crashes occurred in areas of crops and fields—not woods. Only six percent of the crashes in these 10 counties occurred in wooded areas.

Most accidents occurred during the night in the fall season," Allen said, "indicating that rutting and hunting activities make the deer more less during the day and more active at night."

"Fewer accidents occurred during the late spring and summer, even though traffic volume is highest at this time of year. This is probably due to the good food supply and adequate cover as well as the small amount of human disturbance."

He found accidents high on Saturday and Sunday and low on Monday, probably because of the relatively high traffic volume in the evening hours of the week-end compared to the volume on Monday.

Allen found more accidents occurred in the speed range between 50 and 60 miles an hour than any other 10 mph speed range—probably, he said, because 70 percent of the deer-car crashes occurred on two-lane paved roads where speed ranges are likely to average 50 mph or more.

But on divided highways, accidents were few in relation to traffic volume. Besides the heavier flow of traffic, fencing along such roads was believed to be a factor in keeping the deer crash rate lower.

Of the 2,566 accidents he studied, Allen said one-fourth of the cars involved had to be towed from the scene. In spite of this, there were relatively few personal injuries—just under four percent.

deer is blinded by headlights. When he finally jumps, he's likely to jump into the only area he can see—that lighted area directly in front of the car. "If the deer jumps in front of you, it could be more dangerous to swerve to avoid it than to hit it. The fatal accidents occurred when people lost control of the car trying to avoid the deer," Allen said. "The deer weighs only about 100 pounds," he noted. "If you hit him, he'll move. If you hit a tree, it won't."

Allen noted that under Michigan law, car owners may keep deer they kill with their cars, if they obtain a permit from the local conservation officer. But with damage to cars costing $500 or more, that's a pretty expensive meat.

FREeways LOADED

Michigan's 1,382 miles of freeway can be deceptive to the average motorist. The freeways constitute only about 15 percent of Michigan's state highway system, but they carry 35.5 percent of the traffic.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

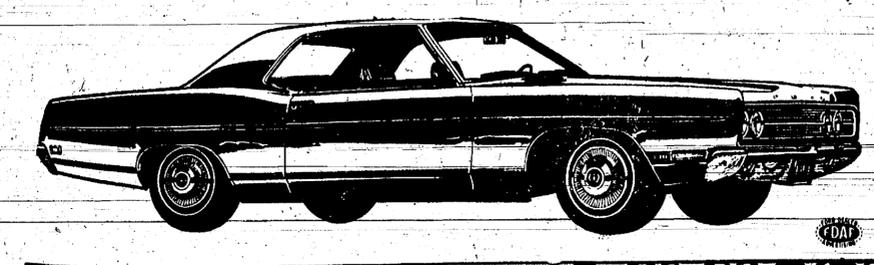

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

We have an abundance of federal, state and municipal laws with unimaginable numbers of litigants and lawyers seeking restrictions or permissions in almost every phase of present day living. . . . Naturally, no society of people would be safe or able to live in reasonable harmony without a system of law—but we wonder . . .

We wonder whether the laws of man will ever be put in proper perspective. We wonder why people think man-made laws can ever control, or even partially control man's thinking, his behavior and conduct. We wonder why people think the CHANGEABLE laws of man can ever be as meaningful or as effective as the UNCHANGEABLE laws of God. We wonder if man will ever realize that when he increases his desire to adhere and live by the UNCHANGEABLE laws, he will minimize his need for man-made changeable laws. Yes, we wonder . . . and wonder how many other people wonder too. . . . BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR 5-4141.

In addition to electric lights placed in the trees a noisemaker was fixed up with a small motor and chains and tin can. The birds have practically all vanished from the trees on Congdon and so far no complaints have been heard from residents in other parts of the village.

H. Carpenter Sought on Bench Warrant

The Chelsea Police Department has issued a bench warrant for Hilbert Carpenter, 19, sentenced by Judge Patrick Conlin Monday, July 14. Hilbert disappeared again.

Escorted to Ann Arbor's American Legion Hall Wednesday, July 16, for preliminary induction into the U. S. Army, Carpenter completed it and took the bus to Fort Wayne for official induction.

He never appeared at Fort Wayne, and was not heard from until Tuesday, when the Ann Arbor Draft Board received a phone call requesting that he be allowed to return to Chelsea and pick up his belongings without being arrested. In return for this privilege, he said he would report to Fort Wayne and complete his induction.

The draft board called Chief Meranuck and asked if this was possible. According to the chief, with a bench warrant issued, if Carpenter is seen in Chelsea he will be arrested immediately and will have to serve his six-month sentence.

Carpenter is expected to report to Fort Wayne regardless on Friday at 9 a.m. If he is not there, the matter will be immediately turned over to the FBI and he will be considered draft delinquent.

Chief Meranuck said that one man in jail with Carpenter told the police that Carpenter had said he had no intention of going through with his induction in the first place.

Because Hilbert did not fulfill the requirements set by Judge Conlin when he was sentenced by reporting to the draft board and going through induction proceedings, he is now considered in contempt of court.

Originally his sentence would have been suspended had he complied with these requirements. Now, even if he is inducted in the Army, and even if he is discharged honorably he will have to appear before Judge Conlin when his service time is over for a review of his sentence and his case.

Dairy Farming Changes Even More Drastic

Dairy farming has changed drastically in recent years, but the shifts in the next 10 years will be even "more drastic," according to C. Ray Hoglund, Michigan State University agricultural economist.

Hoglund says that even though dairy farm numbers in Michigan decreased from 48,000 in 1955 to less than 18,000 in 1968, a large percentage of today's dairy farms are still too small and inefficient to provide a satisfactory return to labor and management.

He predicts that "in another 10 or 12 years, the major portion of our milk will be produced by farms which will have 60 or more cows. We can expect to see a disappearance of most herds with less than 30 cows and the doubling of herds with 50 or more cows.

Dairy housing will undergo significant changes, Hoglund says. "More than half of today's dairy farm buildings and equipment could be considered obsolete and high labor users, based on the more efficient free-stall housing and narrow milking systems used on large farms.

"Even with all of the changes we have seen to date, two-thirds of the cows are still housed in stanchion barns," the MSU agricultural economist points out. "By 1980 we expect less than one-fifth to be in stanchions. Loose housing started to replace stanchion housing 10 years ago."

Hoglund believes that during the next 10 to 12 years, 40 percent of all dairy cows will be housed in free-stall, open-lot systems.

MILK SHELF LIFE BY TEMPERATURE

Michigan Department of Agriculture Consumer Protection Bureau

Ideal storage temperature for milk and milk products is between 33 and 40 degrees (F). As the temperature rises, average shelf life declines rapidly. This chart is similar to one the Michigan Department of Agriculture is distributing to retail milk outlets throughout the state.

Cold Milk Will Keep Up to 24 Days

"Proper temperature control is essential in the storage of milk and milk products for longer shelf life," according to B. Dale Ball, Director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Ball announced the department will distribute a thermometer chart to retail milk outlets throughout the state showing ideal, caution and danger storage temperatures for fluid milk and such fluid milk products as half-and-half and chocolate milk.

The purity of Michigan milk is assured by constant inspection of milk and milk products from cow to consumer by the department's Dairy division. Sanitary conditions and a clean, wholesome product allow milk to keep many days when stored at the proper temperature.

Ideal keeping temperature of milk products is between 33 and 40 degrees (F). At these temperatures, milk will stay fresh up to 24 days. Caution is urged in storing milk between 40 and 45 degrees. Storage above 45 is dangerous. Average shelf life at 45 degrees is 10 days; storage at 45 degrees reduces shelf life to 5 days.

"In addition to temperature, age of the product affects keeping quality," says Kenneth Van Patten, chief of the department's Dairy division. "Proper rotation in the dairy case plus storage at ideal temperatures means wholesome products for the consumer."

Michigan law requires milk and milk products be stored below 50 degrees until sold, but Van Patten urges storage between 33 and 40 degrees for best product protection.

Freeway Ramps Safer If Driven At Proper Speed

Lansing—Even with years of freeway driving, many motorists still don't understand the purpose of acceleration and deceleration lanes at interchanges, the Department of State Highways reports.

Some drivers, entering freeways at interchange ramps speed at 25 or 30 miles an hour, attempt to "merge" through traffic traveling at 60, 70 or even 80.

Others, approaching an interchange, slow down too much or too soon in traffic lanes, instead of using the extra deceleration lane provided ahead of the exit ramp.

The result is too many accidents at interchanges. Traffic engineers urge that drivers look for the safety features built into Michigan freeways and make proper use of them.

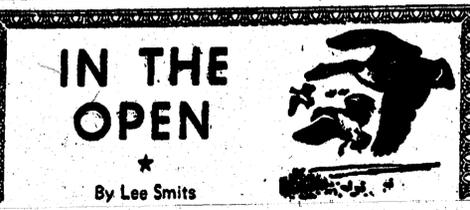

When entering freeways, traffic back-for-a-gap in oncoming traffic and speed up quickly on the acceleration lane until you can slip into the gap without forcing other cars out of line.

When leaving freeways, pull over into the deceleration lane before applying the brake. A recent survey showed one car in six traveling at more than the legal freeway speed of 70 miles an hour. So look back. Someone may be gaining on you.

PAINT IN DRY TIME

The best time to paint the exterior of your home is during a relatively dry time of day. Morning dew should have evaporated. The temperature should be above 40 degrees. Your task will be pleasant and the quality of the paint job improved if you start on the coolest, shadiest side of the house and paint around your home, staying in the shade as much as possible.

A hard task is eased by the application of immediate energy.

About Your Social Security

By Robert A. Kehoe Social Security District Manager Q. My wife is almost 62 and will be applying for benefits on my social security record. Will this mean my check will be less?

A. No, the amount of your benefit check will remain the same. Q. I will be 72 in August. I am not now receiving social security because I have never worked or paid social security contributions. Will I be eligible for social security at 72?

A. No, a person who reaches 72 this year needs social security credit for at least six calendar quarters—a year and one-half—to receive the special age 72 benefits.

Q. I am working and earn about $3,500 a year. I will be 65 this year. Will I be eligible for social security?

A. You will be eligible for hospital and medical insurance under Medicare. You may also receive some cash benefits. However, this will depend on the amount of your benefits as well as your earnings and how steadily you work. Be sure to visit your social security office two or three months before you are 65 to discuss your situation.

Michigan Among Leaders in Total Highway Travel

Michigan is one of nine states in which motorists drove in excess of 30 billion vehicle miles in 1968, the Department of State Highways reports.

The nine states accounted for half of all highway travel in the United States, which for the first time exceeded one trillion vehicle miles.

Motorists drove a record 48 billion miles in Michigan, seventh in the nation. California led the 30 billion plus states with 106 billion, followed by New York, 62.3 billion; Texas, 62.2 billion; Pennsylvania, 56.9 billion; Ohio, 52.8 billion; Illinois, 52.1 billion; Michigan, 48 billion; New Jersey, 47.7 billion; and Florida, 34.8 billion.

Alaska, with 908 million, was the only state below a billion miles. Vermont had the least number of miles among the 48 contiguous states with 2.4 billion.

UFO Expert Raps 'Saucer' Writers

FLYING SAUCERS ARE serious business—for charlatans, who profess belief in order to collect royalties from writing and fees from lecturing," says a scientist at the University of Colorado. He said a recent Air Force-sponsored study of unidentified flying objects found "no evidence of their extra-terrestrial origin." He also assailed teachers who encourage their pupils to believe in flying saucers, noting that in the last three years more than 40,000 school children had written to the Air Force asking for UFO data.

INSECT HORMONES may one day be used to control the same cotton pests they now enable to grow into maturity. A team of Louisiana State University entomologists have found that laboratory-produced juvenile hormone substances can prevent worms from reaching maturity. By applying minute drops of this material to the larva the entomologists cause the formation of a larval-pupal stage in which the insect lies dormant and eventually dies.

A NEW TECHNIQUE that is said to show promise in controlling leukemia has been developed by researchers at the University of Utah and will be tried for the first time on humans later this year in Mexico City. This method attempts to "trick" the cancer cells in the blood into "synchronizing" cell division, and then destroys them with drugs during their most vulnerable period.

SUPPLEMENTAL OXYGEN systems in single- and twin-engine

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, an inflammation of the kidney's filtering system, may be caused by an immune reaction reports a Stanford University medical research team. Experiments have shown that the kidney disease is caused in rats by an antibody directed against the specific streptococcus protein that has been associated with the disease in humans. They say it may be possible to synthesize that protein and use it as a vaccine to stimulate antibody response to prevent the disease. However, this is a step that will require further research, the investigators said.

The ruler is actuated off a reflector to be placed on the moon's surface by Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. July 20. Instruments for generating the beams are now being installed at the University of Texas' McDonald Observatory atop Mount Locke in west Texas. Senior Citizens Awards Slated By State Fair

It's time to enter the competition for the two Senior Citizen Awards to be presented by the Michigan State Fair. E. J. (Jeff) Keirns, general manager, said that entry blanks and guidelines have already been sent to more than 450 senior organizations throughout the state.

One award will be given for outstanding leadership in the organization of senior citizen groups and activities and one for the senior citizen who has given outstanding community service during the past year. The two winners will be selected by a committee of Directors of Senior Citizen groups. The awards will be presented on Old-Timers-Day, Monday, Aug. 25.

Highway Travel Higher Than in '68 Throughout State

Lansing—Travel in Michigan in the first third of 1969 increased 7.6 percent over the same period of 1968, the Department of State Highways reports.

The biggest gain was 10.4 percent in the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula, due in part to reduced fares on the Mackinac Bridge. Other increases by region were 10.5 percent in southeastern-lower Michigan, 8.7 percent in the south central and Thumb area, 4.7 percent in the western half of the Upper Peninsula, 3.9 percent in northern lower Michigan, and 3.2 percent in southwestern lower Michigan.

By the month, travel was up 3.4 percent in January, 15.3 percent in February, 13.3 percent in March and 6.7 percent in April. The Department's travel reports are based on gasoline tax collections, and on traffic counts at 52 permanent locations on state and local highways.

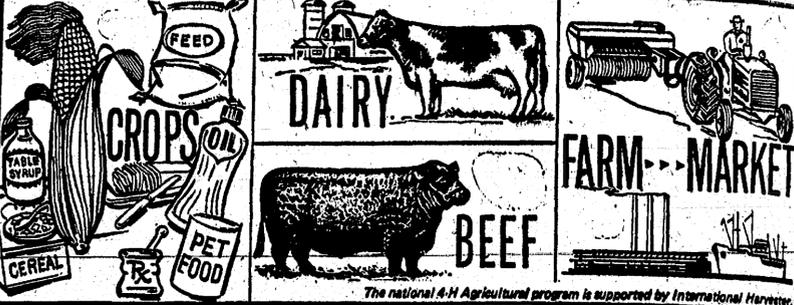

Highway Patrolled By Man, Horse

Mackinac Island—You will not find their names in any guidebooks, but Mervin Morrow and his friend Hecktor (cq) should be mentioned as one of the attractions of historic Mackinac Island. Morrow is the only hostler employed by the Department of State Highways. Hecktor is his horse, the last vestige of a highway maintenance force that relied heavily on horse power in its literal sense when the automotive age was just beginning.

Autos are banned on Mackinac Island, a refuge of peace and quiet far from the din of the cities. There's a need, nonetheless, for a highway to accommodate the horde of vacationers who walk, pedal bicycles or ride in horse-drawn carriages around the eight-mile circumference of the island.

M-185 is the only state highway that excludes motor vehicles, and therefore the only one not maintained with gas and weight taxes. The narrow, blacktop road is important enough to tourism, Michigan's No. 2 industry, to rate the modest expense it requires. Every day during the tourist season, Morrow and Hecktor patrol M-185. Morrow repairs washouts and picks up trash, manure and stones, piling them onto the rubber-tired wagon drawn by Hecktor.

Dana, Frigid Products Teams Battle for Little League Title

The baseball teams sponsored by the Recreation Department, under the direction of program manager Paul Geyer, are looking forward to the last few games of the season, and that important All-Star Game July 31.

Little League has two games left. Tonight Palmer Motors vs. Murphy Barber Shop will be at Field A at South school. On Field B at the high school tennis court the Chelsea Jaycees will be playing Frigid Products. At the high school football field, Field C, North American Rockwell will play Dana Corp.

There is a close race for first between the Dana Corp. team and Frigid Products. The outcome will be decided at the final games. These games will be played Tuesday evening, with North American Rockwell hosting Frigid Products on Field A. Dana Corp. will play Murphy Barber Shop at Field B, and on Field C, there will be a game between Palmer Motors and Chelsea Jaycees.

Throughout the summer the Arts & Crafts department has experimented with many different art forms. The children have done plaster sculpture, montage work, collages, and sand casting. They have also experimented with a number of watercolor techniques, and have made paper mache jewelry.

Future plans include decorating stones for paper weights, mobiles, and creative work with the new dippy glass, a liquid plastic that has a glass-like quality when dried.

On Monday the T-Ball league will play their last games, and

Mastitis Control Best Effected In Dry Period

The best time to control mastitis in dairy cattle is during the dry period, according to Don Johnson, Washington county extension agent. He says that if a cow freshens with a healthy udder and is properly protected, mastitis likely can be controlled throughout her milk production period.

The agricultural authority recommends that a veterinarian be called to check animals that are constantly having problems with mastitis. The procedure that has resulted in good control, the agent says, is to treat the animal 10 days after she has been "dried up" from her lactation preparatory to calving. The animal should then be treated again 10 days before calving.

Health Career Awards

After the animal is put into the milking good milking and sanitation should be followed the animal in good health.

Health Career Awards offered by many March chapters as "starter" for careers in medicine, therapy, nursing, medical work and occupational.

FAMILY POT LUCK

The backyard chef who wants to be different may find just the thing in "Beef Teriyaki", a specialty of Japan Air Lines chefs. Ingredients are 2 to 2 1/2 lbs. of minute steak or other cuts of beef (for six servings); 1/2 cup Shoyu (Japanese Soy sauce); 2 tbsp. Japanese sake (or dry sherry); 1 tsp. ground fresh ginger; 1 clove of crushed garlic; 1/4 tsp. monosodium glutamate; 4 tbsp. sugar; 1/4 cup water. Combine ingredients except meat in mixing bowl, place beef into the sauce and marinate for one hour. Broil over hot charcoal. Meat less than 1/2 inch thick is usually preferred and will cook through in about five minutes. Take care not to overcook. Baste with the sauce while cooking.

Sardine rolls are a new taste treat. Remove crusts from thin slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle each slice with salt, pepper and grated cheese. Lay two Norway sardines, dovetail, on the end; add dab of mustard; roll firmly, tell-roll style. Stick with toothpicks and dot with butter. Set close together on baking sheet. Toast in hot oven until lightly browned, serve piping hot.

GLAZED LEG OF LAMB
(Serves about 6)

1 leg of lamb, boned (5 to 6 lbs.)
1/2 cup orange marmalade
2 cloves garlic, mashed
2 tsp. butter
2 tsp. A.1. Sauce
2 tsp. lemon juice

Have lamb boned without cutting through meat. Insert 2 skewers through meat on either side, crossing in center. Place fat side down on grill over medium hot coals. Make mixture of other ingredients and heat in pan. Brown lamb on both sides, using skewers to turn, and then brush with glaze. Meat will be medium rare in about 45 minutes. To carve, start at one end, and cut across grain into desired thickness. Serves about 6.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From A. Smith, New York, N.Y.: I remember many things from my boyhood days in the rural south, but most of all, I suppose, I remember people.

I remember that "friends and neighbors" was much more than an expression. People worked together in the old days...at harvest time, when a new home needed building, when there was sickness, when disaster struck anywhere in the community.

I remember that people worked hard, prayed often, and gathered together for good clean fun when there was no work to be done. I remember that children, for the most part, were kind and generous and respectful of their elders. They were told, and they believed, that ambition, effort and energy are keys to any achievement.

I remember that children were subject to their parents; and that parents fulfilled their responsibilities. Such thoughts are mine whenever I hear anyone talk about the "good old days."

ELIMINATING AIR-BUBBLES

Air bubbles in varnish makes it almost impossible to obtain a smooth finish. Here's how to avoid the bubbles. Don't stir the varnish. When loading the brush, do not drag bristles across the rim of the can to remove excess varnish. This will cause tiny air bubbles to form under the tips of the bristles. Instead, tap the bristles lightly against the inside of the container just above the surface of the varnish.

Every person reaches the stage, somewhere in life, where he realizes the real values of society are different from what he thought they were.

Happiness adds up to different things for different people.

Time To Spare

By RICHARD ANDRUWO - Retirement Adviser

A Model as a Business

Most of us model ourselves in one way or another, a fact that I've discussed in the past.

However, some retired men have left that particular field. Why?

The problem, as I see it, comes down to the different types of models one has to choose from. The individual who makes a success at our time of life usually has a place with help. He hires a staff to take some of the labor off his back.

That means, ordinarily, a motel of some size. Which, in turn, implies possession of capital at the start. For the proprietor, the business may be mainly a matter of public relations and record-keeping.

Ironically, it's the smaller motel owner who can run into real trouble.

To begin with, work never really ceases at a motel. A guest may become ill during the night. Others may arrive or leave early in the morning. Short circuits in the electrical system may occur at any time.

All this has to be accepted with good grace as part of the business. And that's not always too easy when you don't feel up to par.

In a small motel, you probably won't have to worry about serving meals. But the beds have to be made, and the rooms have to be cleaned.

After all, people are your business.

You can't afford to have them leave dissatisfied—gives the commitment a bad name. You want them to spread the word that your motel is a good place to stop. Otherwise, you may have empty rooms on your hands.

What I'm saying is that running a small motel yourself requires a certain amount of physical energy plus psychological stability in dealing with customers.

I'm not saying that seniors should rule out this business. Lots of us have made it. But it's desirable to consider the cons along with the pros.

Traffic Light OK'd At Intersection of M-52, Austin Rd.

A flashing caution and stop light will be installed soon on M-52 at Austin Rd., east of Manchester in Washtenaw county, the Department of State Highways has announced.

The light will show yellow for traffic from the west and red for traffic from the south and east.

The decision to install the light was made after several motorists from the south ran an existing stop sign and went off the road on the north side of the T intersection.

The Highway Department will pay two-thirds of the cost of the light and the county will pay the balance.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER:

I am the mother of a girl engaged with one child, everything was tearing her teens. Since babyhood she has had a difficult time making and they united against her. As time went on, the girls became more tactful, ignoring her, or making faces to one another if she approached. She says she has friends at school, but she is left out of outside activities.

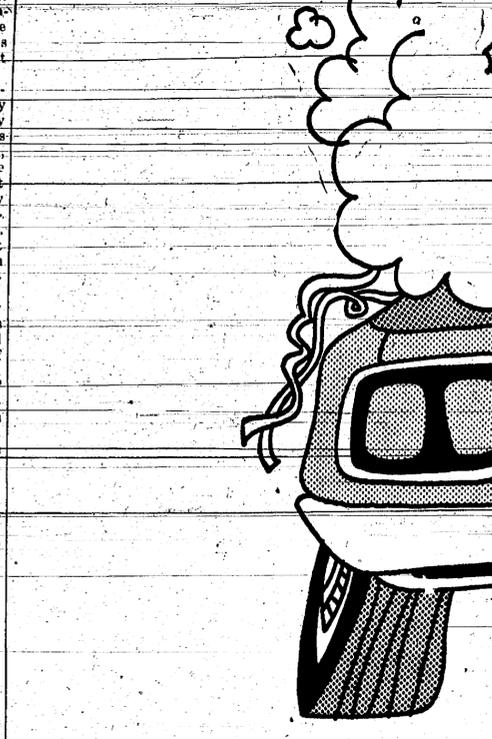

Many of the girls "talk" behind her back. She had a party and some of the girls made silly excuses for not coming. She is generally not invited to parties, but went to one recently. She came home in tears. My heart nearly broke along with hers. My daughter makes a neat appearance, dresses well and is friendly. She goes to events which do not require an invitation. Can you tell me what makes her an outcast?

TIPS for your TOP from TODDY and FRAN

With vacation time at its peak, you'll want to look at the peak of perfection at the drop of a hat; an old friend drops in from across country, and you want to look as young and pretty as when you saw her (or him) last; the gang gets up an impromptu party; you get a sudden invitation to visit friends for the weekend—meanwhile, you've been sunning and swimming and transporting kids to the park and your hair looks like it. If you have a wig at your fingertips, you're all set—if you'll excuse the pun. Let us help you be "all set" here at the shop when you can—and all set at home all of the time, with a wig on hand.

Spectrums TV Program Reports Results of Planned Exercise Test

East Lansing—"Spectrum" reports on an experiment to determine whether exercise can reduce the chances of heart disease on "Running for Life," Sunday, July 27, at 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday, July 29, at 11:30 a.m. on WMSB (Channel 10), Michigan State University television.

In the experiment, hundreds of middle-aged men prone to heart ailments participated in a two-year program of planned exercise, which proved helpful to their over-all physical condition.

The experiment was undertaken jointly by the University of Minnesota, the University of Wisconsin and the University of Pennsylvania.

Other WMSB highlights include: CONCERT—Soloist Andre Watts prepares and performs Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 24 in C Minor with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, under the direction of Zubin Mehta, on "NET Festival," Sunday, July 27, at 1:30 p.m.

On the first half of the 90-minute special, the 22-year-old Watts, described by The New York Times as an "extraordinary young pianist," discusses the interpretation of the concerto with conductor Mehta.

They then prepare the work together and rehearse it with the orchestra, ending the program with a complete performance at the Los Angeles Music Center.

WARFARE—"NET Journal" reports on the disturbing and little-known development of chemical and biological weapons and their awesome potential on "A Plague on Your Children," Friday, Aug. 1, at 7 p.m.

The avowed purpose of this program is to publicize research and developments in chemical and biological warfare being undertaken in virtual secrecy by many nations, including all of the leading powers. These weapons have an awesome potential for killing incredible numbers of people and also for leaving large areas contaminated and uninhabitable for centuries.

Cameras visit defense laboratories in England and Sweden for a painful look at the effects of injury and psychochemical gases and anthrax germs on animals, including dogs and rabbits.

DRAMA—"The Idealists," the second in Ken Taylor's dramatic trilogy, "The Seekers," on the theme of man and his beliefs, appears on "NET Playhouse," Sunday, July 27, at 12 midnight.

The play is set during the French Revolution and deals with the rising of La Vendee (a counter-revolutionary insurrection) against the Republican government.

Actor Michael Bryant stars as Gerard, a young captain, who has a terrible decision to make about the 200 prisoners under his surveillance.

Gerard is an idealist who cannot square his conscience either with the decisions of the Republic or with the principles of his time, the "Age of Reason."

MUSIC—Tenor Patrick Gallo and bass-baritone Edward Crafts, accompanied by pianist Craig Sheppard, perform on "Young American Musicians," Wednesday, July 30, at 7 p.m.

The three young musicians are former students at the Curtis Institute of Music, where Gallo and Crafts studied with noted French-American baritone Martial Singer, and Sheppard with Mme. Eleanor Sokoloff.

The recital includes operatic duets and songs by Verdi, Tosti, Thomas and Bizet.

Blueberry Season Arrives

Mid-July is the beginning of the wild blueberry season in southern lower Michigan. From now until mid-August blueberries will be ripening. Of course you know them as huckleberries. For many, the two terms are interchangeable.

To freeze, simply pack them dry in fruit jars and place in the refrigerator, will last a month or more. If you pick more than you can eat in a month, they are easy to can or freeze.

To freeze, simply pack them dry in covered containers and place them in the freezer. Frozen berries, when defrosted may be used exactly as you would the fresh fruit.

Canning is almost as simple as freezing them. Pack the berries in jars, cover them with syrup made from four parts water to one part sugar, seal and process in boiling water for 20 minutes. Check the seals and store them away.

Blueberries are delicious in pies, bread, muffins, pancakes, waffles, jam, and a host of other foods. Enough to keep you busy experimenting until the next blueberry season comes along.

The club discussed their plans for their float in the Chelsea parade, and Aug. 11 was set as the date for their softball game with the Wide Awake chapter.

Preparations were made for the cook-out held today.

Terry Lutovsky and Lou Ann Bankerd then gave a demonstration on measuring, and the lesson was studied.

The next meeting, July 24, will be a 6:30 p.m. cook-out at Proctor's.

Cushions Being Tested To Reduce Injuries In Case of Accident

Lansing—The use of "cushions" to reduce injuries and deaths in traffic accidents is being studied by the Department of State Highways on northbound US-10 at M-102 in Detroit.

A cluster of the cushions, each measuring six inches in diameter and up to 40 inches high, and filled with a salt water solution, has been attached to the base of a bridge abutment, scene of numerous accidents.

If everything goes as planned, the year-long study should prove that the cushions will soften the blow for errant vehicles.

The March of Dimes works with health departments and civic organizations in many communities to establish or improve neighborhood prenatal care clinics.

School Signs To Be Erected On Main St.

School crossing signs with flashing caution lights will be installed soon on M-52 in the vicinity of St. Mary's and South Elementary schools.

The signs will serve to alert motorists that they are approaching a school crossing, while a crossing guard will continue to assist pupils at Pierce St.

The sign for southbound traffic will be about 250 feet north of Summit St., approximately at the Chelsea State Bank. The sign for northbound traffic will be about 250 feet south of Pierce St.

The cost of installation will be divided equally between the State Highway Department and the village. The total cost is estimated at $1,110. The State Highway Department will provide all mechanical and routine maintenance, while the village will pay for the operating costs.

Operating costs will include a Bell System lease line which is proposed as a means of coordinating both signs. The cost of this line would run the village $5.80 per month. The purpose of it is to enable both signs to be turned on by the same signal.

Costs will also include a minor sum for the electricity to operate the signs.

The village administration hopes to have the signs installed before school begins, dependent upon the schedule of the Highway Department installation crews.

Bats Found In County With Rabies

A second case of rabies in bats has been discovered in Washtenaw county within the past few weeks.

Dr. Otto K. Engelke, county health director, has been notified by the Michigan Department of Public Health Laboratories that bats submitted from the Whitmore Lake (Northfield township) and Ann Arbor township areas were found positive for rabies.

The seriousness of this discovery lies in the possibility of transmission of rabies from bats to domestic animals, especially dogs. An unvaccinated dog may become rabid and bite human beings. Rabies in humans can result in painful death.

Dr. Engelke asks that all known bat roosts be reported to the health department and cautions parents to make sure that their children are instructed not to handle bats if they are found. If a bat is discovered and it acts peculiar or becomes involved with other animals it should be carefully captured in order to avoid the risk of bite and placed in an escape proof container. The animal may then be submitted for laboratory analysis.

Teen Band Contest Slated At State Fair

The "Battle of the Bands" will be in full swing again this year at the Michigan State Fair. And teen visitors to the fair will love every minute of it.

E. J. (Jeff) Keirns, general manager, announces that any Michigan teen-age group is eligible to audition for the band contests. Competition will be divided into two groups, Rock and Soul. Entries must be received by Aug. 1. Auditions will be held the week of Aug. 4 at the Fairgrounds.

36 bands will be selected to compete in the contests which will be held during the fair in the "Teen Scene" area. Trophies and cash prizes will go to first and second place winners.

Groups wishing to try out for the competition should contact Clighton Mullin, supervisor of entertainment and special events, at the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 48208, or telephone (813) 368-1000.

The fair opens Friday, Aug. 22, and continues through Labor Day, Sept. 1.
