

Adventuresome Pair Ready for World-Wide Sailing Cruise

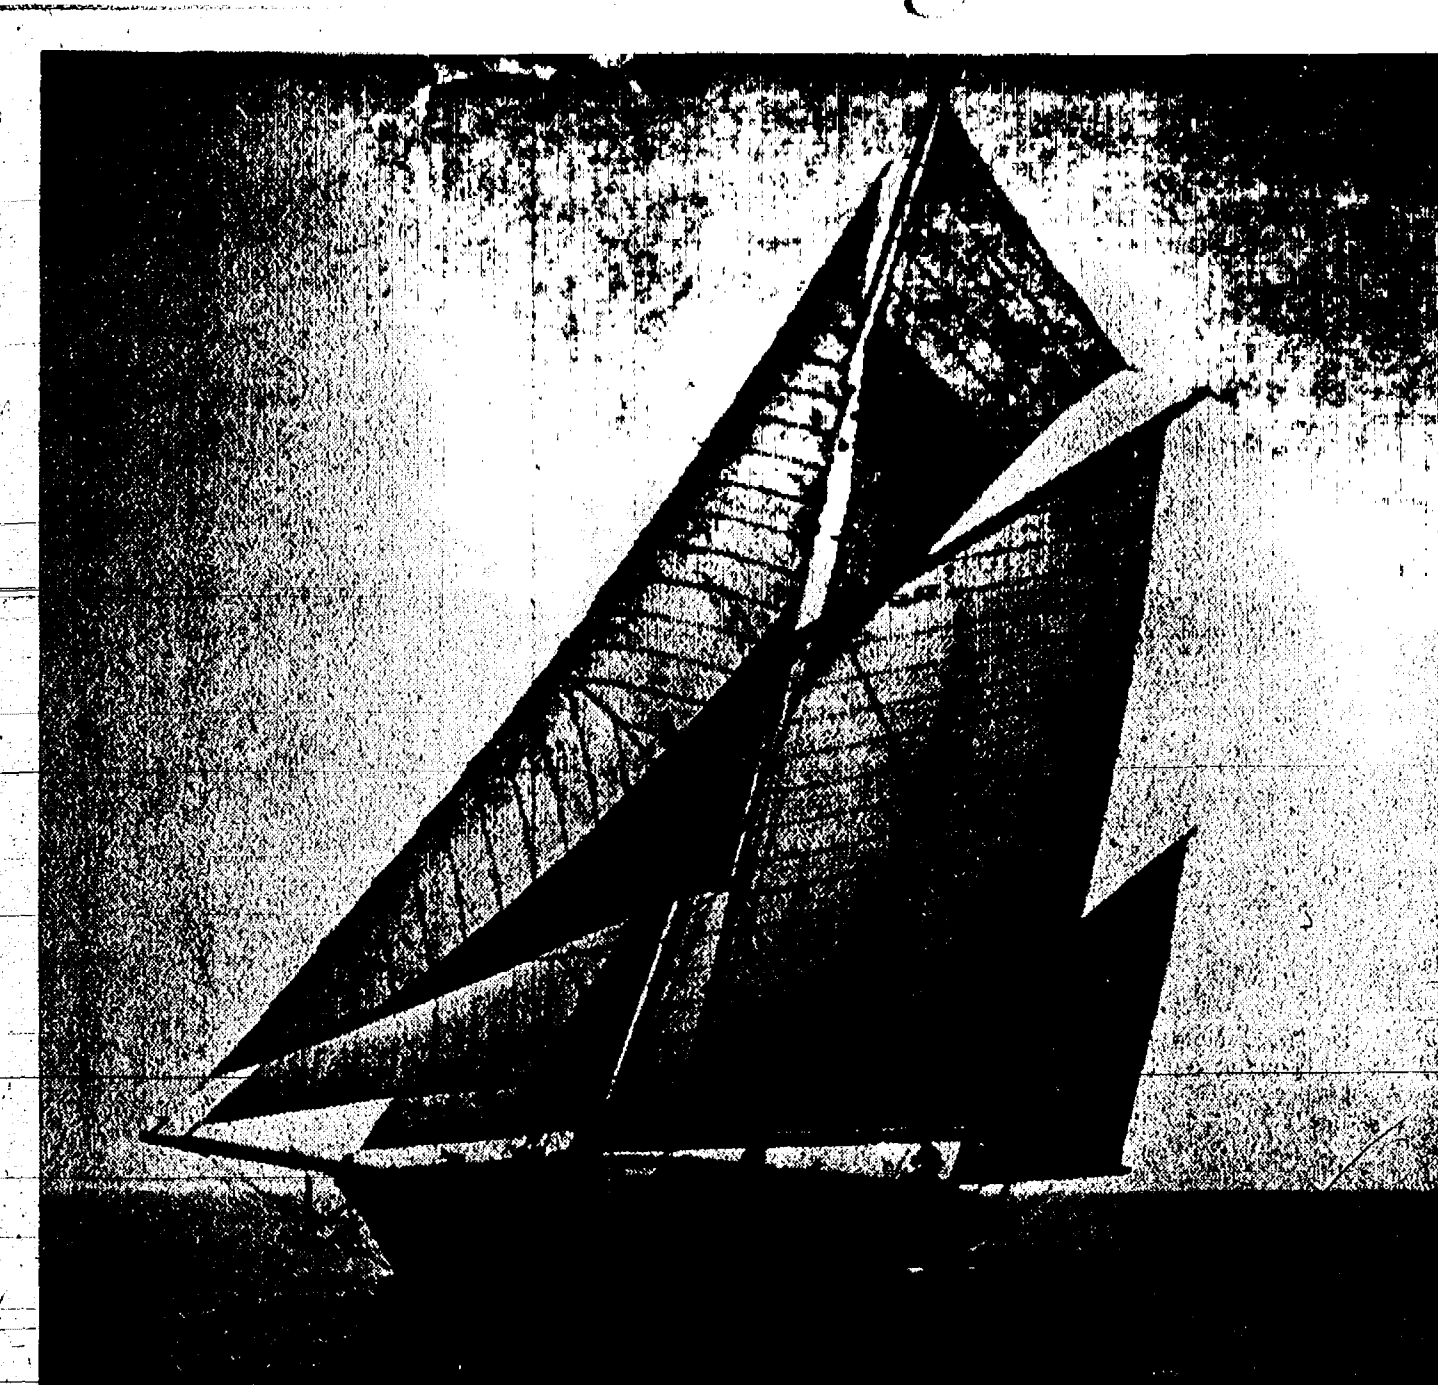

Who would have thought Catherine Lake could be a proving ground for world-wide adventures? Pat Merkel is proof of it. Once a boy skipper, he will soon hoist sail on his 85-foot yawl for a two-year journey around the world. His friend-in-adventure, Eric Saltsburg, have purchased a 78-year-old sailing ship which they hope will take them and their friends on a journey around the world. The two men, who are no strangers to real travel, are now preparing for a year-long hitch-hiking through the Sahara desert, Jordan, Greece and Italy in 1961. Pat took to the road in 1958, traveling by motorcycle for over a year. He is now hitch-hiking through the Sahara desert, Jordan, Greece and Italy in 1961. Pat took to the road in 1958, traveling by motorcycle for over a year. He is now hitch-hiking through the Sahara desert, Jordan, Greece and Italy in 1961. Pat took to the road in 1958, traveling by motorcycle for over a year. He is now hitch-hiking through the Sahara desert, Jordan, Greece and Italy in 1961.

Eric Saltsburg, John Stutheim and Sandy Dorr will complete the crew. Eric has been employed by TALUS, the study committee for regional planning under the auspices of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. Pat has just returned from a tour of duty in Vietnam. He plies the trade of the carpenter when he is home. Eric and John have been teaching history and English in Detroit. University Hospital will lose one of their nurses when Sandy Dorr packs her seabags. The lovely lady on which the voyage depends is Katherine II, a wooden yawl originally built as a sloop in 1891. She is one of a fleet of 12 constructed in Boston to provide a class for an annual race that was the big yachting event of the year. The Governor of Maine was her first proud owner. In 1904 she was converted to a gaff-rigged yawl and came to the Great Lakes, where she holds title as the largest and oldest pleasure boat on the lakes. Now a quarter of a century later, her fourth owner intends to return Katherine II to salt-water sailing. She has been preserved in her original running condition. Her skipper is taking her out without the aid of 20th century devices, such as winches to raise her canvas sails. "It takes four strong men to raise the mainsail," said Pat. She does include an auxiliary diesel engine for docking and emergencies. A radio will provide some contact with the rest of civilization and weather forecasts.

The sturdy ship was built of longleaf pine with a tall pine for a mast. She draws nine feet of water, is 65 feet long on deck and has a broad 14-foot beam. Her lead keel brings her weight to 33 tons. She has berths for 15 crew members and Pat is hoping to sign on a few more members to help on board. The group has been diligently practicing on week-ends in preparation for their departure on Oct. 18. They plan to cast off from the Detroit Yacht basin that Saturday and make quickly for Chicago. They will cross the Mississippi River through the Illinois-Calumet River canal and sail for New Orleans. A six-week berth in New Orleans will be needed to ready the Katherine for her long voyage. The skippers and the crew will do all the repair work themselves. Pat's carpentry handcraft will be particularly useful in this crucial task. "Eric and I have had experience repairing our other yawl," said Pat. "It will be hard work; we have to scrape the hull as well as make sure everything else is shipshape." He admits that the age of the ship makes it a bit of a gamble, but he believes that the ship's excellent performance on the lakes is borne out at sea. After stocking a two-week supply of food, the sailors begin the first lap, breezing through the Gulf of Mexico to the Caribbean Islands. The Katherine will sail the Pacific Ocean for the first time after crossing the Isthmus of Panama through the canal. The Equadorian Galapagos Islands will be the first port on the Pacific route, with Tahiti being reached by June. The crew is packing little American food and plans to eat the cuisine of the countries they visit. They will store flour and biscuit mix courtesy of Dudley Holmes at Chelsea Milling. They are canning other dry provisions at Fred Wagner's cider mill in Dexter. But fresh fruit and protein staples will be purchased along the way. After enjoying the South Pacific, a two- or three-month layover in Australia will be necessary. The typhoon season in the Indian Ocean that time of year prevents any travel under sail, even for a large ship like the Katherine. When they again hoist anchor, the crew will take in the Far Eastern islands and peninsulas of Malaysia. These include the ancient "spice" capitals of Borneo, Java, and the city of Singapore. After a stop at the island country of Ceylon, the continent of India will provide the next strange shores for exploration. If any of the exotic foods or sights create adverse effects for their partakers, the nurses on board will have recourse to the medical supplies and advice Dr. Bruce Stubbs is shipping along. Since stomach problems are almost a certainty from the alien edibles from which the crew will live, as well as the danger of accidents, the Doctor's help may prove invaluable. Mombasa in Kenya will be the first port-of-call on the African continent, where a glimpse of the few wild beasts that have escaped the hunter's ravage may be seen by the sailors. A swing around the Cape of Good Hope will bring the Katherine into Capetown, capital of the apartheid country of South Africa. A long stretch of ocean later, the ship will dock at Liberia on the oil-rich western coast. If they aren't too short on funds by this date, sometime in 1971, the now salty crew will cruise around the Mediterranean. This Latin sea will no doubt seem a puddle to the ocean-going sailors. "Whether we add another leg to the trip," said Pat, "will depend a lot on how we're getting along by then." They will certainly have had behind them many nautical miles to test their compatibility. Will the stalwart group be travel-weary by this time? We (and they) will have to wait two years for an answer, until they head across the Atlantic to Boston to a homecoming for the old yawl. A trip up the St. Lawrence seaway will bring the sailors home to their starting point. After such a long absence, they may find as many strange sights as in the places they will have visited. The pollution may be so thick by then in the Detroit harbor that they may be reluctant to drop anchor. As Pat acknowledges, "It will be difficult to buy a house and settle in one place when I get back." But right now, the eager group is hardly thinking about their return with the task of setting sail just about to begin.

THE KATHERINE II, the 85-foot yawl shown above, will sail Pat Merkel and his friends on a two-year trip around the world.

Bulldogs Post 29-13 Victory Against Milan

The Chelsea Bulldogs kept up their no-loss record Friday in a 29-13 victory over the Milan Big Reds. The first quarter saw both teams score at their first opportunity. Milan received the kick-off on their 17-yard line and moved 88 yards in 12 plays to score. The extra point was kicked. The Bulldogs' Jim Wojcik took the next kick-off on their 15-yard line and raced 48 yards to Milan's 39-yard line. Larry Gorton in three moves and Wojcik in one, moved the ball to the six-yard line. Fullback Tim Orbring then drove in for the Bulldogs' first touchdown. Orbring kicked the extra point and the game was seven-all. Defensive end John Porter quickly returned the game to Chelsea by recovering a fumble on Milan's 26-yard line. Gorton then pushed six, five and 16 yards for a touchdown. CEA Says Teachers Will Not Report If Contract Is Not Signed

School Board Statement on Contract Issue

The Chelsea School District Board of Education's position regarding the current status of negotiations with the Chelsea Education Association is as follows in a statement released Wednesday evening. 1. The Chelsea Education Association has requested fact finding. 2. The second hearing of the requested fact finding is scheduled for this Friday, Oct. 10, at 3:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium before the factfinder. 3. The Board of Education must, by law, present its position to the factfinder at this public meeting. 4. The CEA has given the Board an ultimatum that, if there is no settlement by Monday morning, Oct. 13, the teachers will strike. This position by the CEA is completely inconsistent with its request for fact finding. 5. The Board wants the citizens of the Chelsea School District to know that it intends to weigh and consider the report of the fact finder. 6. The Board wants the citizens of this school district to know that it is a violation of the law for teachers to strike ("withhold services"). 7. The position of the Board is that there shall be 180 days of school in the Chelsea School District (one full year). 8. The Board has submitted the eight items, to be included along with the original four, to the current fact finding to preclude them from being brought up after the fact finder leaves. 9. The four items originally submitted to fact finding are a clause in the proposed contract on academic freedom and the personal life of teachers outside the classroom, the order of reduction of staff in event of a financial crisis, the grievance procedure including binding arbitration and the term of the contract. 10. The eight additional items recently submitted include professional and business days, Association and teacher's rights, sick leave, curriculum committee, leaves of absence, sabbatical leave, student-teacher assignments, and student discipline and teacher protection. 11. Board Refuses To Accept 'Unreasonable Demands'

Tensions are mounting in the continuing struggle between the Board of Education and the Chelsea Education Association over the settlement of their 1969-70 contract as the strike deadline is approached. Dr. William Gould is scheduled to continue the fact finding of the issues in the conflict tomorrow afternoon. The first session of fact finding Sept. 25 was adjourned before summations of positions could be presented by teacher and board negotiators. The CEA last week chose Monday, Oct. 13, as the day they will withhold services unless prior settlement is reached. The board did not comment at the time of the move but last night prepared a statement for publication in The Standard. In door-to-door distribution Saturday, the CEA directed a letter to citizens of the Chelsea School District. The letter announced their decision to strike after they learned of the board negotiator's intent to keep the conflict open after the fact finder's report. The board negotiator, Thomas Nordberg, had told the teachers that he would use eight items, which had been verbally agreed upon, as leverage should the fact finder come out with a report the board could not live with. The CEA has since submitted the eight items, to be included along with the original four, to the current fact finding to preclude them from being brought up after the fact finder leaves. The four items originally submitted to fact finding are a clause in the proposed contract on academic freedom and the personal life of teachers outside the classroom, the order of reduction of staff in event of a financial crisis, the grievance procedure including binding arbitration and the term of the contract. The eight additional items recently submitted include professional and business days, Association and teacher's rights, sick leave, curriculum committee, leaves of absence, sabbatical leave, student-teacher assignments, and student discipline and teacher protection. Washington Report by Congressman MARVIN L. ESCH

Debate in the House of Representatives this week on the future of military appropriations highlighted a number of startling facts about the enormity of the U. S. budget.

—Last year, the United States spent more money than any country in the world on military programs.

—The United States has more men under arms than any country in the world.

—48 percent of each federal taxpayer's dollar is devoted to military-related spending.

—We spend $980 for each man, woman and child in the United States on defense—the highest per capita expenditure of any nation in the world.

—A cut of only 45 percent in the over-all defense department budget would yield more savings to the taxpayer than a complete cancellation of all Federal activity in the fields of education, mental retardation and juvenile delinquency control combined.

—One out of every 16 military-age males (18-65) in the United States is on active military duty.

This does not include those who are in the Reserves or National Guard.

—Nearly 10 percent of our total Gross National Product is spent each year on the military.

In short, Defense Department expenditures have a tremendous impact on American life. In the years since the Second World War, expenditures by the military have rarely been closely scrutinized by the Congress and the Administration.

Waste and inefficiency which would not be contained in any other budget, pervade the Defense Department budget. Ever since I came to the Congress three years ago, I have been deeply concerned about the lack of Congressional activity in this area, and I have consistently supported efforts to examine the budget more carefully.

This year for the first time in many years, Congress is studying Defense Department requests carefully.

The effort to pare waste from the Defense Department budget is not an anti-military move. Clearly, it is vital for the nation and the entire Free World to maintain a strong national defense. In our effort to cut federal spending, we must never endanger vital defense programs. However, I believe that the movement to cut waste and non-essential spending in the Defense Department can be extremely productive both in total dollar savings and in bringing new efficiency to the military.

Interest Up

When the legislature lifted the ceiling on interest rates before the regular session adjourned in July, observers were unsure what the effect would be on the rates themselves.

The ceiling had remained at 7 percent for years and the prospect of suddenly removing it completely scared some who feared a skyrocketing of rates.

It appears now that fears of outlandish rates were unfounded, however, as the rate has climbed to between 8 and 8 1/2 percent and stopped. Money is still tight, to be sure, but the supply has loosened somewhat in the home loan field.

The removal of the ceiling is in effect until Dec. 31, 1970. Observers say it is doubtful, however, that any new ceilings will bring the rates back to the 7 percent rate. They say a rate ceiling of around 9 percent is more realistic and more logical.

The raising of the limit was more apparent than real in most instances anyway, since most persons were paying a higher rate than 7 percent on home loans through various other charges.

In fields other than home loans, rates higher than 7 percent have prevailed for years.

In some instances, such as loans granted to corporations, there never was a ceiling established, this being under a theory that corporations are smart enough in money matters to fend for themselves.

Charitable corporations also have been able all the time to waive the ceiling on loans of amounts larger than $250,000.

Small loan companies have been permitted by law to lend up to $1,000 with a maximum interest rate of 30 percent per annum on the first $300 and 15 percent on the rest of the loan. However, if such a company loaned more than $1,000, the entire loan had to be charged at 7 percent.

Other exemptions come for persons such as pawnbrokers, who are permitted to charge 8 percent per month computed on a monthly basis, though they may not compound loans or discount them.

Automobile dealers may charge from 9 percent to 12 percent per year on a loan, depending on the age of the vehicle sold.

Such loans, however, actually are at a true annual interest rate almost twice the amount specified. A car financed at a rate of $9 per $100 per year and paid off in installment payments actually involved an interest rate of nearly 12 percent.

Credit unions also are permitted to charge a maximum of 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance.

Heat Not Harmful

A researcher at Michigan State University says thermal pollution—the name used when an electric plant powered by nuclear energy uses water to cool machinery and as a result heats the lake on which it is located—isn't necessarily bad.

James Woolley, who works in the school's Department of Resource Development, says the location of a nuclear plant determines whether the heat it gives off has a bad effect on the environment around it.

He said a generator plant situated on one of the Great Lakes, should cause no adverse effect, so long as there is not an abundance of the plants, because of the amount of water in the lakes.

But, Woolley says, if the plant is located on a smaller lake it may heat the lake to a point where damage can be done.

Interstate Grows

The interstate highway system, scheduled to be more than 25,000 miles of total highway when it is completed, is growing rapidly across the country and Michigan is one of the leaders.

The latest figures show 915 miles of interstate highways are open to traffic in Michigan, giving it one of the biggest amounts of mileage in the country.

The remaining mileage is expected to be completed by the mid 1970's.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store put wimmen on the agender agin Saturday night. It were Zeke Grubb that said he had got a look at his old lady's fall and winter order books, and he wanted to know what kind of fashion wimmen will come up with when their hair gets longer than their skirts.

Skirts is getting shorter ever season, Zeke allowed, and what little wimmen wears with 'em you can see thru.

Zeke reported he had saw by the papers where this feller that runs a rag company was agin miniskirts cause they ain't enuff cloth in 'em to make a decent wipey, this feller said he lost money trying to clean and resell miniskirts for cleaning cloths, and Zeke added that wimmen that buys 'em for clothes lose money in the first place.

The fellers was agreed with Zeke that skirts is gone as high as they can go without being belted, and it were Bug Hookum that said it's jest a matter of time afore some slick feller with a wax mustash in New York City figgers this out. Then, deardd Bug, they's going to be a full reverse in fashion and skirts probably won't stop til they is down around the ankles.

When the skirts is going up, said Bug, wimmen that's got more style than money can trim off a inch or two ever season. But when the hems is going down they ain't nothing to do but buy new ones. Course, Bug went on, wimmen throws away everthing now. He said he had saw where the Salvation Army reported they is gitting more fur coats and near new evening dresses give to 'em than ever afore. Wimmen in this country has got more money than they got sense, no matter how pore they are, was Bug's words.

That was when Clem Webster got the floor and said he had saw by the papers where that Russian spacwoman, Valentiny somepun, had come out with another one of her wise sayings. She said natural wimmen would go into space with men cause without wimmen there could be no ords. Clem said Valentiny might of meant ordering the men around, but he figgered she was talking about keeping things organized. Clem was of the mind that Valentiny's idee of order in space or on earth makes as much sense as wimmen's ideas on fashion.

Practical speaking, Mister Editor, they ain't no use to give wimmen our ideas on clothes. Who ever said wimmen dresses for men didn't know wimmen. They dress for each other and the men pays the bills.

Personal, I am of the mind the fellers might as well of spent the season talking about the national debt for all the good they done. A feller has got as much chanct talking to a woman that's made up her mind as he has stopping a hen that's trying to set.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Seitz and end Len Kozma blocked the way clear for the runner that sent in the TD. The quarter ended with Chelsea leading, 13-7.

In the second quarter, Milan was able to keep the Bulldogs bottled up in their own territory.

The second half opened with Chelsea receiving the kick-off but unable to gain a first down. Chelsea punted to Milan and pushed them back two yards in three attempts for a first down. The Milan punt was received by Gorton who handed off to Glen Wilkerson. Wilkerson ran right and behind a wall of blockers to race 55 yards for Chelsea's third touchdown. His path was prepared by the blocking of Porter, Keith Guster, and Rod Powers.

The Bulldogs bounced back to hold Milan after the kick-off. Milan fumbled and linebacker Keith Guster recovered for Chelsea.

Gorton and Guster took turns running the ball behind the blocks set up by guards Richard Bollinger, Tim Colvia, center Jeff Bust, and tackle Karsten Kargel and Seitz. Chelsea drove to the one-yard line and Guster ran in for the fourth touchdown. The extra point was kicked by Orthing. Orthing completed the scoring for Chelsea by kicking a 21-yard field goal at the end of the game.

Coach Bareis noted that the Chelsea defense came to life in the second half, shutting off Milan's moves on the ground. But the offense, he was glad to observe, carried the game this week, controlling the ball well and coming up with some big plays.

The Bulldogs meet Lincoln tomorrow for Chelsea's homecoming game. The event begins at 7:30 p.m.

Michigan Joins in National 4-H Week Event

East Lansing—Corn-raising to computers marks the evolution of 4-H youth programs in Michigan as depicted during this year's National 4-H Week, Oct. 5-11.

"Membership in Michigan 4-H Youth Programs has grown from 5,920 in 1916 to more than 100,000 participants this past year," says Dr. Gordon Beckstrand, director of the state youth program.

The idea of 4-H started with a corn-raising club in Cicouph, Ill., in 1899. In 1913, the 4-H idea was first introduced to Michigan under the direction of Michigan State University, then known as Michigan Agricultural College.

Although some 4-H members still raise corn, many others study electronics, collect insects, learn engine repair, train dogs, learn child care and how to sculpture.

"Next year, some Michigan 4-H members may be building their own computers," notes Beckstrand. He explains that extension specialists working with Michigan 4-H Youth Programs have developed a computer that a group of youths can build with about $50 worth of materials.

"But the 4-H projects are really vehicles that aid the personal development of the young person," he says. "Working on 4-H projects aids decision-making, promotes co-operation among young persons and helps them learn to establish standards and values."

Beckstrand predicts the 4-H youth programs will continue to change to keep pace with space-age demands. "Besides the well-known 4-H clubs," he says, "our programs involve schools, churches and other youth agencies in an attempt to reach and serve Michigan's young people."

The 4-H program is designed for young people between 9 and 18 years of age, and new programs are being developed for those younger than 9 years of age. These boys and girls conduct meetings, elect their own officers and work together. Young people plan and evaluate their own projects and activities under the guidance of 15,000 volunteer adult leaders in Michigan.

James A. Purcell is representative for Dana Group.

James A. Purcell has been named sales representative for Dana Corporation's Power Equipment Division, Truck Equipment Products Group. The announcement was made by J. E. Henricks, sales and planning manager.

A native of Pine Grove, Pa., Purcell joined Dana in February of 1967. Prior to this announcement he was scheduling supervisor for the Power Take-Off Division in Chelsea.

Purcell will have territorial sales responsibility for Chelsea Power Take-Offs, Dana Road Speed Control, Dana Hydraulics and Chelsea PTO Joints.

Learning experiences and leadership training play an important part in 4-H youth programs, says Beckstrand. He emphasizes the impact of the programs by noting that more than 27 million Americans are 4-H alumni.

President Nixon recently commended the nation's three and a quarter million 4-H members. He said: "Your theme, 'Opportunity for All,' is timely and important as you strive to extend the benefits of your 'learn by doing' educational program to increasingly more youth everywhere."

National 4-H week climaxes the 4-H Expansion Drive by Michigan 4-H members. This expansion drive seeks to increase participation in 4-H by youth and adult volunteer leaders, to show that 4-H is an all-youth program for both rural and urban youth, and to expand county and national 4-H youth facilities and program opportunities through fund-raising. Michigan 4-H Youth Programs is a three-way partnership between Michigan's Co-operative Extension Service and county and federal governments.

More information about 4-H, or National 4-H Week, is available from any county extension office.

Teacher Strike

noted that the question of salary was not involved in the dispute and stated that the teachers were seeking goals that would improve students' welfare and teacher morale. The CEA asked citizens to attend the Oct. 8 school board meeting and ask the board members to make a work stoppage unnecessary.

More than 100 citizens attended the board meeting Monday night in the auditorium. Observers variously reported that between 80 to 40 of those present were teachers or families of teachers.

During the regular business meeting, Donald Irwin, president of the board, noted the CEA request for fact finding and the letter of strike notification sent to the board. He stated that the board will wait for the recommendations of the fact finder and take action at that time but did not address himself to issues involved in the contract dispute.

After other business, the board opened the floor to questions from the audience. About five persons directed questions to the board, asking clarification of the board's position on various items up for fact finding. Board members declined to answer questions concerning the contract and adjourned the meeting at 9:50 p.m.

After the board adjournment, several of the CEA members including Leonard Solomon and Donald Young, negotiators for the CEA, and Lawrence Lonsway, CEA president, held an informal discussion with the audience that remained. They answered questions from various citizens explaining their position in the dispute and their decision to strike.

The CEA said that they are setting up a telephone recording, reached by dialing 475-8974, that will give people the latest on the situation in negotiations. "The recording will also serve as a message relay for the teachers until a settlement is reached."

At a meeting Tuesday, night, the CEA voted to allow the teachers who are presently coaching an athletic team to continue their team functions in the case of a strike. They said they felt that to "discontinue team functions might penalize the child who had been chosen for an athletic scholarship with a State institution or other institution of higher learning."

In addition, they felt that discontinuation of the athletic program would leave it damaged ir-reparably at the conclusion of the strike.

Solomon said that the position of the teachers toward maintaining an Oct. 13 deadline for settlement has not changed. If anything, he said, the teachers have become more unified by the actions of some of the school administrators during the last few days and the board's treatment of the issue at their meeting Monday night.

"The board's refusal to answer questions is typical of their position that they will not commit themselves or talk to people about the issue," said Solomon. "Under these circumstances there is little hope for settlement."

He said also that misinterpretations of various CEA contract proposals were being circulated.
One item, arbitration of teacher dismissal, was being rumored to put the board in the position of not being able to fire a teacher if they committed rape or something of the sort, he said. Such a rumor, Solomon explained, is ridiculous and has no basis in fact. "If our proposal were adopted, the board would have the same right to suspend or dismiss any teacher they wanted to, he said. "The new proposal would merely allow a teacher the right to seek arbitration of his dismissal, which would ask the board to give their reasons for the dismissal."

The fact finding session is set for 3:30 p.m. Oct. 10 in the high school auditorium. The hearing is open to the public and is expected to be the final session before the fact finder issues his recommendations.

LANGUAGE OF THE LORD

The spoken language of Pal-western Aramaic. Of the three dialects of this language spoken in Galilee, Samaria, and Judea, Our Lord spoke the Galilean, recoggutturals. Western Aramaic survives today in only three villages along the Syrian-Lebanese border.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By LOUIS BURGHARDT

Do you remember the wide publicity given the letter President Truman wrote in anger to the music critic who criticized his daughter's voice? As time went on, we are sure Truman in his inner thoughts, regretted the letter was mailed . . . The incident illustrates a point . . . There is a right way and a wrong way, a right time and a wrong time to write a letter . . . At no time, should a letter be written and mailed in anger, annoyance or abuse (even to politicians).

In personal relationships, nasty letters can and do break up families; ruin friendships . . . Write down your resentment if you must; get it off your chest. But DON'T mail it. DON'T write and mail a letter written with rage or wrath. Such letters gain you nothing.

Writing a letter can and should be a thrilling experience. A nice, friendly letter written by pen, pencil or typewriter, on any kind of paper, to family and friends ALWAYS brings a thrill to the person you write to. And, invariably, when you write a nice, friendly letter, you get a nice letter back. That's a thrill too. Isn't it? Why not thrill someone today? . . . Band Booster Volunteers Complete Sidewalk Project

Chelsea Band Boosters have been hard at work this week and last installing a sidewalk on the high school grounds. The sidewalk will provide easier access to the band room. The Village and the school have co-operated with the Boosters in realizing this long-discussed project. The sidewalk crosses an area where musical equipment must be loaded on buses for band functions, and is often muddy and impassable.

For his superior operation of the dealership's service department this past year, he has been awarded membership in the Citation Circle of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division's Service Managers Society and invited to its annual business meeting and seminar.

The group will meet at Lodge of the Four Seasons, Lake of the Ozarks, Mo., Oct. 12-15.

The seminar will explore such subjects as: the need to provide better service; how to meet the challenge of the growing car population; what to do about providing more and better service facilities, and how to recruit and train more mechanics.

It takes two nations to fight, but it takes many more to keep peace of the world.

Chelsea Social Service Makes Plans for Year

Chelsea Social Service Board reviewed the work of last year at a luncheon meeting Tuesday and planned activities for the coming year.

The treasurer's report, prepared by Mrs. Leroy Hoffman, showed expenditures virtually the same as a year ago with income principally from the Community Chest, and additional funds from gifts of clubs and individuals. The income has been sufficient to meet the need in the present state of the economy.

The director's report showed the agency has now served a total of 449 families or single persons since it was opened on Nov. 1, 1956. Of the 83 units served this year, 32 were new to the agency, while 51 were known to the program in years past.

Personal interviews were held with 289 during the year. Of these, 178 were people seeking help and 109 were persons interested in the problems of clients.

A part of the meeting was taken up in consideration of a letter designed for service clubs and persons whose work or interests bring them in contact with the needy. The letter outlines the services offered by the Chelsea Social Service and urges greater use of the Community Chest supported agency.

The letter points out that there are agency funds available to meet cases of emergency need when other means are lacking. This money supplied by the Community Chest is limited in amount but frequently helps through a crisis, enabling persons to avoid seeking public assistance or to manage until public assistance is available. The letter also describes the clothing depot operated to provide proper school clothing for children.

The Christmas program was described with an invitation to anyone knowing of needy families to refer them for help at Christmas.

Chelsea Social Service maintains an office on the second floor of the Municipal Building where anyone may come for counsel, or referral to other agencies if the problem is not one adapted to the structure of the Social Service. Office hours are from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The meeting closed with election of officers, as follows: Louis Burghardt, president; Mrs. Arthur Schmunk, vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Riethmiller, secretary; Harold Jones, treasurer; Mrs. E. W. Eaton, Mrs. Leroy Hoffman and Charles Lancaster comprise the other members of the Board. Mrs. Louis Kamp continues as director with Mrs. David Colquhoun as assistant.

No Classes in School Next Wednesday

Students in the Chelsea Public Schools are reminded that there will be no school Wednesday, Oct. 15. This is MHA In-Service Training Day. School will be held Friday, Oct. 17, a change from the calendar which was printed previously.

Why Food Prices Have Increased . . .

you—come again? reads in large black letters on the door of the corner grocery. They are as customers give it less than a glance as they exit, but they're still trying to remember the shock of their bill.

That prices of food are up is no news. There's nothing new about that state of affairs. It is also true that the living has increased. And the cost of living affects the farmer, the processor, and the cost of grocerying.

What's the rise in costs? Each year in your family is in higher prices people must pay to stay in and to care for their too.

men for the grocery point out that labor costs more than 100 percent in costs of containers and material are up 40 percent the same period. Overhead such as rent are up, 90 percent.

to blame? Press reports that the farmer is not named by many consumers in the weekly grocer. There have been price flares on meat prices, housewives rightly blame as the chief villain behind market basket costs. Farmer, for example, is getting two cents more of the dollar in 1969 than he did in the farmer's share of the dollar now is 41 cents, while he is getting 59 cents. 41 cents, farmers are still 18 cents ago when they 10 cents of the food dollar.

ers should note that percent of their income is being paid for food. In 1940, it was 25 percent. In 1960, it was 25 percent. In 1969, it was 25 percent. Often the grocery bill unknowns are inflated with the purchase of non-food items. Why not during the next visit to the supermarket?

SUNDAY'S SERMON
A perfect life challenges the frailties of human nature. If we strive to do that which is right, we make the effort. But, if we think that we have achieved a perfect relationship with God and with our fellow man, we have settled too easy. We have given marks for the good things done and ignored the good things which might have been done. We cannot achieve a perfect life by doing good on a selective basis and leaving all other good works to someone else.

If we would live a better life, we should not stop to count the things we have done. Instead, we should look about for the good things that are yet to be done. We cannot expect to achieve a life so perfect that it is free from doubt, free from struggle, and without some hard work. We need only remember that the most perfect life upon this earth was a life of struggle and sacrifice that ended in death upon a cross at Calvary.

AMERICA'S SHAME
Seventy-nine percent of reservation Indians still haul water from outside wells for household use, 75 percent obtain this water from potentially contaminated sources, and 77 percent have inadequate waste-disposal facilities, or none at all. Nearly 60 percent of all reservation housing is substandard. Nearly 50 percent of all employable adults living on reservations are unemployed.

Don't expect everyone to agree with you, variety of opinion is what makes the world interesting.

SOUTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NOTES

KINDERGARTEN
Teachers: Mrs. Bower, Mrs. Hodgson, and Mrs. Michelson
Rooms 1, 3, 5
During the first few weeks of kindergarten we have been very busy. We have spent a great deal of time making new friends and learning to get along with others. Our lessons have been on shapes, colors and listening skills.

We have had many interesting items brought to our room. Room 6 has an aquarium with tadpoles, snails and turtles which were all contributed by members of the class. We are all watching caterpillars' cocoons to see what will happen.

Brownie, the guinea pig, came back to Room 3 to be the children's pet. Tony Klobuchar and his mother took care of Brownie over the summer. The big white rooster that visited Room 1 was a little yellow chick in kindergarten last year. We are practicing safety in our rooms, on the playground, on the buses, and walking to and from school.

FIRST GRADE
Room 8
Teacher: Mrs. Morgan
We have 26 students in our room this year. There are 13 girls and 13 boys. All the children were in school here last year except Cheryl Marshall who is new in the system. Everyone had a good summer and is happy to be back with his friends.

Room 4
Teacher: Mrs. Stewart
There are 27 busy first graders this year in room 4—15 girls and 12 boys. We are busy reading all about Sally, Dick and Jane and Learning about sets, numerals and numbers in arithmetic. We are busy learning the alphabet and printing our letters. We enjoy our television lessons and music seems to be our favorite. We take time off from our work and are learning new songs; from Miss Baur and Mrs. Stewart. We know most of our color words and had fun learning them. We are going to be busy during October decorating our room for Halloween.

October birthdays are: 3rd, Chris Kvarnberg; 14th, Karl Sohenk; 18th, Troy Satterthwaite; 27th, Brian Dault; 29th, Janine Osborne.

Room 5
Teacher: Mrs. Thodeson
Reporters: Betsy Hall and Maleeya Morley
September has been a busy month. Our circus clown is teaching us our color words, and Elly Elephant helps us remember the other new words we have had in our reading stories. We have finished our Readiness Book, Before We Read. We have a new book, Read and Write.

We are working with numbers from one to five. In science, we learned about energy and about insects. Some pets visited our room. Jamie and Betsy brought turtles. Edin brought her puppy, Joel his kitten and Betsy her rabbit. On Sept. 21 Joel Krichbaum was 6 years old. He had a birthday party at school. One day we took our lunch to Pierce Park. We were glad that some mothers came with us.

Room 2
Teacher: Mrs. Thornton
Reporters: Darla Walz and Steve Adkins
September birthdays: Robert Schulze and Susan Siebert. October birthdays: Kimberly Harvey, Melanie Schneider, Timothy Roy.

TV 'Black Journal' Program

Features Interview With Cleaver

East Lansing—A serialized version of John Galsworthy's epic, following the eventual lives of a half a century, premieres on "The Forsyte Saga," Sunday, Oct. 12, at 8:30 p.m. on WMSB (Channel 10), Michigan State University television.

Spanning more than a half century, the "Saga" follows the lives of the property-minded Forsyte family, which is torn asunder by passion and rebellion beneath a facade of respectability.

In the leading roles are British Film Academy Award-winner Kenneth Moore, the Royal Shakespeare Company's Eric Porter and New Zealand film actress Nyree Dawn Porter.

Imported from Britain, the 26-part series twice led the BBC ratings—once when originally run and again when repeated. The series drew such a large audience that controversy arose among the English clergy over whether evening services should be conducted earlier so parishioners could be home in time to see the beginning of each episode.

PAN-AFRICAN CULTURAL FESTIVAL—Exclusive interviews with Eldridge Cleaver and Stokely Carmichael are featured on "Black Journal," Sunday, Oct. 12, at 4:30 p.m. At a visit to the first Pan-African Cultural Festival, held in Algiers this past July, the telecast includes interviews with the guests who attended.

Sponsored by the 41-member organization of African unity, the festival involved some 4,000 Africans who took part in 12 days of performances and discussions and listened to speakers. Among the speakers' key themes were unity among African states and aspects of the cultural heritage of Arabs and black Africans.

Cleaver, minister of information of the Black Panther Party, and Carmichael, recently resigned prime minister of the Black Panthers and a former director of the Student Nonviolent Co-ordinating Committee, are the featured speakers on the broadcast.

REMBRANDT—NET pays a two-program tribute to one of the greatest painters the world has ever known—Rembrandt Van Rijn—on the 300th anniversary of his death.

"NET Festival" broadcasts an hour-long special, "In Search of Rembrandt," a documentary narrated by James Mason, which includes hundreds of the Dutch master's pictures culled from museums all over the world, Sunday, Oct. 12, at 1:30 p.m.

"NET Playhouse" follows with "Rembrandt," a new production, staged especially for television, of the famous Carl Zuckmayer 1936 movie about the painter's life.

"In Search of Rembrandt" was filmed on location in Holland, where, in pursuit of the elusive truth about the master, NET cameras visited The Hague, Leyden, where Rembrandt was born, and traveled the length of Amsterdam, photographing Rembrandt's house, the Rijksmuseum and Jodenbreestraat in the Jewish quarter.

"Rembrandt" stars Richard Johnson, one of the most versatile and talented actors on the British stage. Jill Bennett, wife of playwright John Osborne and one of Britain's busiest stage, screen and television actresses, stars as Geertje, the role which Gertrude Lawrence played on the screen.

JAZZ—The Four Dimensions provides a jazz concert, Thursday, Oct. 16, at 7 p.m. Members of the group are Ed Joplin on tenor sax; Dave Ferguson, trumpet; Eddie Hollis; piano and Clifford Williams, drums.

Musical selections include "T.F.D." "You Know It's Love," "Your Heartbeat," "La Bossa May" and "Lady Pate." Most of the

About Your Social Security

By Robert A. Kehoe
Social Security District Manager

Q. I was 18 years old in May, and I graduated from high school in June. I am receiving survivor benefits from social security now. I am planning to attend the area community college for two years beginning in September and then go on to the State University. Will social security help me?

A. You can continue receiving social security payments until you are 22 provided you attend an accredited educational institution full time and are not married. You would qualify for payments as a full-time student at either a community college or State university. Be sure to notify the Social Security Administration of your school attendance beyond 18.

Q. I guess you can't help me, but I thought I'd ask anyhow. I'm 28 years old and haven't worked for the past nine months because of injuries. I got in an auto accident, I worked steadily from the time I got out of college, when I was 22 until the accident. But I haven't worked the full five years which I understand is required before you can get social security benefits. Isn't that so?

A. Not quite. Young people who become disabled before 31 need to have worked only one-half the time between age 21 and the time they become disabled. You certainly have met the work requirement and, if you will not be able to go back to work for another three months, I'd suggest you get in touch with the social security office right away to apply so you won't lose any benefits.

Congregational Young People Collecting Funds For Children's Hospital

The Youth Fellowship of the Congregational church will be conducting a door-to-door fund drive Sunday, Oct. 12. Donations from the vanister drive will benefit the St. Jude Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The children's hospital cares for children 16 years old or under regardless of race, religion or color. Anyone wishing to participate in the drive should arrive at the church by noon Sunday. Any teenager who helps will receive a complimentary ticket to the Fellowship dance at the Farm Bureau Building Oct. 26. The Correlations will play at the dance. Proceeds from the dance will also be donated to St. Jude Hospital.

Songs are original compositions by members of the group.

MUSIC—Tenor William Cochran, one of the leading young singers on the musical scene, performs on "Young Musical Artists," Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 7 p.m.

He is accompanied by pianist William Hughes in a program of songs and arias by Handel, Scarlatti, Wolf, Strauss, Wagner, Mascagni and Leoncavallo.

Debate Team Preparing for Busy Season

William Coelius, debate coach at Chelsea High school, has been energetically preparing his nearly all-new team for their crowded fall schedule.

The 1969 debate team has only two members with any experience. Sharon Heydlauf and Cindy Sawyer are juniors who claim a half-year of training. Other junior team members are nna Thomson, Patrick Pluck, and Jackie McClain.

Bob Wojcik, Charles Lane, Ric Foytic, Joann Piat, Keith Pfeiffer, Jackie Schiller, and Kathryn Schafer join the team as sophomores. Freshmen are Patty Ball and Dennis Cosgrove.

The proposition that will be debated nationally this year is the resolution, "That Congress should prohibit United States unilateral military intervention in foreign countries." Many areas of discussion are open in such a broad topic, including U. S. military commitments, dynamics of Communism, CIA effectiveness and the Russo-Chinese conflict.

The Chelsea team traveled to Mt. Pleasant Sept. 24 to participate in a debate clinic. Authorities in high school debate demonstrated winning techniques in this oldest of school competitions.

On Sept. 27 the team met at Wayne State University for a clinic and tournament. This all-day affair saw Chelsea debating three other high school teams. The Chelsea team came out on top over Roseville but failed to conquer a Flint team and Garden City High.

Coach Coelius said that it is usual to debate up to six teams in a one-day tournament. College professors or high school debate coaches judge the tournament matches.

Last Saturday, the Chelsea team gathered with debaters from all over Michigan for a clinic at the University of Michigan. This large clinic is one of the more extensive and valuable sessions of the year.

In addition to their external schedule, the Chelsea debaters meet every night after school for hour-long practice sessions covering techniques in reasoning, delivery, evidence and persuasion.

The team plans to participate in the State Debate League tournament in December as well as the Jackson League for beginners, the ABC League. They will later be meeting other teams for tournaments at Ypsilanti, Flint, Michigan State University and Kellogg Community College.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

DEN 1, PACK 455—Cub Scout Pack 455, met at the home of their Den Mother, Mrs. Mary Anne Burgess, on Taylor St. The theme of the month is Buceaners Days.

The meeting opened with the flag ceremony and the Pledge of Allegiance. We played indoor games and enjoyed treats brought by David Baldwin. The meeting closed with the Living Circle.

DEN 2, PACK 455—Cub Scouts of Den 2, Pack 455 met Oct. 1 at the home of the den mother, Mrs. Sumner Oesterle.

James Bollinger, with the American flag, and James Alexander, with the den banner, were in charge of the opening flag ceremony.

New members at the meeting were Douglas Nutt and Mike Waldeck.

Discussion was held about the October Cub Scout theme, "Buceaners" and a uniform inspection was held. Instead of a game, the den mother took Jon Oesterle into another room and changed the parts of his uniform to make it incorrect and when he came back the boys had to list all the things that were wrong.

They worked on a papier mache project, had refreshments brought by Lance Fletcher, and closed with the "living circle" ceremony.

News Flashes from Area College Campuses

Many of Chelsea's young residents are attending colleges around the country. Sandra Eisla is a sophomore at Michigan State University this year. Her address is 225 W. Holmes, East Lansing.

Jim Boylan was erroneously reported two weeks ago in The Standard as studying math and science. He is attending Kalamazoo College but is enrolled in their program of liberal arts. His address is Hoben Hall, Room 225; Kalamazoo.

Tom Thomson is also a first-year student at Kalamazoo College and is majoring in math or science. He may be written at Box 99, Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo.

The Standard will publish a round-up of all 1969 Chelsea High graduates and their present activities if their parents will phone GR 5-5581 with the information. Parents of earlier graduates may continue to inform us of their son's or daughter's progress.

OLD FIGURES—About 4,000 years ago an Egyptian temple scribe named Ahmes the Moonborn produced a book on arithmetic, written on papyrus and showing examples of fractions, linear equations, and basic geometric measurements.

FARM INCOME DOWN—The Agricultural Department has reported that prices farmers receive for their products dropped one percent during the month ending August 15. Lower prices for cattle contributed mainly to the decline.

4-H Clubs

FREE ACRES

Free Acres 4-H club met Sept. 29 at the home of Mrs. Robert Daniels. Summer activities such as fair entries and placements, a sewing class at Faber's taken by several of the girls, and Wendy Wards Modeling course completed in June by four others, were the main topics of interest and discussion.

Proposed plans for the October and early November meetings were discussed, with Lori Schiller and Sheryl Cantrell organizing a "quick baking" event for Oct. 13, a demonstration of pattern place-ment and cutting given by the leader and a member to be selected on Oct. 20, which will also be the business meeting.

The Oct. 29 meeting is a make-up and skin care group partici-pation demonstration.

Several service projects were suggested and consideration is being given to Spaulding for Chil-dren Volunteer Program. A pine cone craft project "for fun" was also planned.

Everyone enjoyed the game of "Who, Where, What." Refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned.

GINGHAM BELLES

The Oct. 2 business meeting was held at the home of Beth and Karen Tobin. Lori Klink was co-hostess. Barb Boylan demon-strated how to cut and trace a pat-tern. Mary Wood and Debbie Akin demonstrated trims for dresses and pressing a garment.

The next meeting will be held tonight at Marsha Therrian's house. Erin Headrick is co-hostess. The club will work on bazaar ar-ticles.

Cathy Clark, secretary.

WILLING WORKERS

Willing Workers 4-H Club was called to order by the president, Cindy Baird, for the Oct. 6 meet-ing at the home of the leader, Mrs. Gladys Baird.

During the September work-month the club had elected offi-cers as follows: Cindy Baird, pres-ident; Debby Rooke, vice-president; Margaret Haworth, secretary; Col-lette Wright, treasurer; Kim Dresch, reporter.

At the conclusion of the busi-ness at Monday's meeting, the president called for a motion to

Taxes Affect Decisions in Plant Site Selection

A look at how state and local taxes affect food processing firms in 28 states is provided in a new 56-page report entitled "The Ef-fect of State and Local Taxes on Profits in Food Processing."

Prepared by Dr. W. Smith Greig, Michigan State University agricul-tural economist, the report points up the wide variance among states in local property taxes, and in state income, gross receipts, fran-chise, and other taxes paid by three model processing firms—a fruit and vegetable processor, a dairy processor and a grain mill products processor.

Dr. Greig explains that due to recent increases in local and state taxes, the tax factor has become an important consideration in sel-ecting a plant site. The report does not contrast services which a firm receives for the taxes it pays, e.g., school systems, hospitals and highway, etc.

Copies of the publication may be obtained by writing to: Dr. Kim Dresch, reporter.

Something New from MARATHON

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

To a taxpayer who attended the School Board meeting of Oct. 6, it seems that there is a power struggle between the school board, the teachers and the administration. The school board is the employer and as such must have authority over the administrators which they have employed to operate the school system. This must be done in a fair and impartial manner.

The teachers should be recognized and be treated fairly and reasons for dismissals should be clearly understood, and the teachers should be backed by the school board on disciplinary problems.

I do not understand why the school board could not express facts to impartial questioning by a taxpayer at the meeting, yet said they would give the facts privately. Also, who is the school board's advisor to discontinue certain programs when a millage is defeated, if under present conditions the board cannot express facts to taxpayers and teachers at open meetings without consent?

A concerned citizen and taxpayer

Easter Lilies Flourish At Methodist Home

Mrs. Jennie Nutter at the Methodist Home has pointed out that the Sibert's garden isn't the only Chelsea spot blooming like springtime. Mr. and Mrs. Elbie Sainorson, she notes, have 17 Easter lily plants with two or three flowers each, at the Home. The lilies have been blooming for some time and appear ready to carry on until frost. Mrs. Nutter extends the invitation to visit the Home and view this unseasonal breath of spring.

Dear Editor:

This is directed to a number of Chelsea's young drivers who prefer parking on the west side of the high school. Apparently these students do not realize Flanders St. is not a drag strip. Nor do they realize there are over 30 grade and pre-school children who live on Flanders St.

We are sure these drivers are bright, honest kids who have been brought up with good sense and judgement, but do not realize how unfortunate it would be if someone were injured in an experience which would live with them forever as a result of an instant of foolishness.

There are authorized stripes where you can burn off steam if you must, but please hear this plea and slow down.

While this isn't intended to cause anyone any embarrassment or unnecessary expense the following cars will be given a few days to COOL IT (slow down): Chevrolet, white 1964, NG-5958; Dodge, turquoise, FE-4578; Chevrolet, lt. green and white, 1957, FE-4887; Chevrolet, tan, FK-6742; Dodge, lt. blue, NG-1468; Jeep, red and black NG-6203; Plymouth, dk. blue, NG-2390; Pontiac, dk. blue, NG-6737; Ford, lt. green and black, NG-8592.

We have your names and we personally will sign complaints against each of you. Please don't make this necessary.

It is difficult to understand why the police who "patrol" the area after school have not noticed even one of this list of 10 violators. It would seem that five full-time and three part-time police officers could find time to help us protect our children.

Worried Mothers.

Junior Varsity Gridders Shut Out Milan, 40-0

The Junior Varsity football team swamped Milan Thursday, 40-0, to maintain their record of consecutive shut-outs for the season.

The first quarter saw Mark Collins sweep 29 yards to score a touchdown. A fumble cost the extra points. Ron Swenson connected with a 21-yard pass from Wayne Welton to score a second TD. The two extra points were saved this time on a power play by Collins to set the score at 14-0. In the second quarter, Collins scored again on a one-yard power play. Welton passed to Dave Lukaskiak for two points. With two seconds remaining in the half, the play was repeated for 36 yards to raise the score to 28-0. Lukaskiak for two points. With two seconds remaining in the half the play was repeated for 36 yards to raise the score to 28-0. Lukaskiak intercepted a pass and returned it for 32 yards. Collins followed with an interception and a return of 24 yards.

The second half opened on a positive note with Lukaskiak returning an interception 50 yards for a touchdown. The third quarter closed with a score of 34-0. Ralph Stewart swept two yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter but the attempt for the extra points failed. Welton returned an interception 15 yards with Collins repeating for a three-yard return. The game ended with a score of 40-0.

On the record chart, Welton completed five of eight passes, scoring two touchdowns and two extra points. Stewart hit three for three to pick up 13 yards. The strong defense sent Milan to the air where Chelsea picked off five passes. However several lapses showed in long gains by Milan of 38, 35, and 27 yards. Outside of these, their longest gain was four yards. Coach Schaffner noted that Milan was a better ball club than the score indicated since Chelsea worked very hard to score as high as they did.

Tonight the junior varsity team travels to Ypsilanti to meet Lincoln High at 7 p.m.

If I switch from oil heat to gas, I'll save money. Right? Wrong.

Consider these costs: You can pay hundreds of dollars to convert. Your pilot light can cost about $10 a year. You can be penalized for late payment of gas bills and pay hidden taxes. You have none of these costs with oil. But more important, what do you gain? Switching fuels won't make your heat more modern. Switching oil heat service and equipment will. Change to Standard Oil Hot Line Service. Our service and home comfort equipment is as modern, or more so, than gas or electricity. Wouldn't you rather put that "gas" money into a car or color TV or something you really want? Call Hot Line for the facts.

Don't buy the "gas line" until you call Hot Line.

Frosh Grid Team Troupes Milan, 30-6

The freshman football team at Chelsea High came on strong last week, after a disappointing tie in their first game, to push over Milan, 30-6.

Chelsea broke into the scoring column early in the first quarter when Jeff Daniels slanted over right end for 15 yards for a touchdown. Quarterback John Mann took the ball for two extra points to set the score at 8-0.

Four plays later Chelsea took the ball again and added four more plays including a 25-yard run by Bruce Guster. With this set-up, Daniels made his second touchdown of the game.

Chelsea scored once more before the half on a 40-yard run by Tim Lancaster. A two-point conversion by Guster brought the score to 22-0 at the half.

The second half seemed a replay of the first, with Lancaster immediately running 44 yards for his second touchdown. However, the last period was marred by a single mistake by Chelsea's defense that gave Milan its only touchdown to make the final score, 30-6.

Coach Tallman felt his defensive ends Dan Schulze and Tim Wilkerson did an especially fine job in containing the Milan backfield. He said he was very pleased with the great team effort that turned out this substantial ball game.

IN-PLAIN LANGUAGE

A young nursery school teacher was complaining about how hard she worked. "And the hours!" she grumbled. "Do you know what time I get up in the morning? When the big hand is on 12 and the little hand is on 6."
