'Close Race' Predicted in Village Voting

Independent Slate Is Only Party Listed on Ballot with No Opposition

Village elections will be held this year on Monday, March 8, at the Sylvan Township Hall. Independent party candidates are the only selections on the ballot, but they must, nevertheless, be duly elected by the approximately 840 registered voters in the village.

Seven candidates seek the seven positions of village clerk, assessor, three trustees, and two library board trustees.

Only new face on this year's ballot is that of Richard Keith Borton. He is running for the position of village trustee. Borton, who is 32 years old, lives at 315 Garfield St. He was born in Hudson, and graduated from Ypsilanti High school. He attended BMU, and was graduated from the University of Michigan dental school.

Dr. Borton and his wife, Diane, have four children. They are members of St. Paul United Church of Christ where he has served as youth supervisor. A member of the Kiwanis Club, Chelsea Rod & Gun Club, and the American Dental Association, he has worked as a fund raiser for the Boy Scouts, and for Spaulding for Children.

The local Chelsea dentist served two years in the U.S. Air Force as a captain.

Among the incumbents, seeking re-election, is Thomas C. Smith, who is seeking election as assessor for the coming year. Smith has been Chelsea's village assessor for the past 11 years, and was formerly village clerk in the village of Hartford, where he graduated from high school.

He is married and has two grown children, and has been self-employed as a builder for many years in this community.

Richard E. Harvey, present village clerk, and office manager of the Chelsea Electric & Water Department, is seeking re-election to the post he has held for the past two years. Harvey is 27 years old, and married to the former Virginia LeVan. He is the father of three children, and a member of St. Mary church. A graduate of Chelsea High school, he attended Jackson Business College, and is a member and secretary of the Chelsea Auxiliary police force.

Eldon C. Gorton, a resident of Chelsea, for the past 19 years, has served on the village council for the past three years. Gorton is employed by the Michigan Gas Storage Co., as compressor station supervisor. He served in the United States Army during World War II, in the Pacific theatre. He is 44, and a native of Remus.

Arden A. Musbach, third candidate for village trustee, is also an incumbent. Musbach, who is 38, has been employed by the Chelsea Spring Division of North American Rockwell for the past 17 years. He is a sales representative for NAR. Musbach is the father of two children, and is married to the former Ruth Ann Staphis. He graduated from Chelsea High school in 1950, and spent two years in the Army, serving in Korea during the Korean Conflict. He has been active in Chelsea's community affairs over the years.

Incumbent library board trustees Catherine Wagner, and Robert Merkell, are seeking re-election to three-year terms as members of the board.

Those village officials whose terms do not expire this year are A. E. Fulk, village president; Wallace Wood, treasurer; and trustees William Chandler, Keith Boylan, and Tom Dmoch.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Church Women Collecting Clothing for Needy Persons

Church Women United of Chelsea are uniting to start a project to benefit needy families in the surrounding community, and across the county. The CWU is organizing a project to collect, mend, and sort through used clothing, which they will gather through periodic clothing drives to continue throughout the year. The clothes, which will be sorted, mended in the basement of the Congregational church, will be sent to the House by the Side of the Road, a used clothing distribution center in Ann Arbor.

This "House" is presently located in one of the county-owned buildings of the former Holy Ghost Seminary. It has used clothing, which it distributes free to those who are needy. Candidates for the free clothing are determined through referrals from social workers, agencies, and local doctors.

The Chelsea group plans to fix up the used clothing from this area, and take it into Ann Arbor for distribution. The House by the Side of the Road, has very limited space, and much of the mending, and sorting of donated clothing is done at the House, thereby putting quite a strain on their facilities. The CWU felt that the "rehabilitation" of the clothing from this area would help the "House" in two ways.

Chelsea's needy will benefit from this program also, CWU explains, as they will permit Mrs. Henry (Katie) Harat, the local representative from the OEO (Office of Economic Opportunity) to select from the items collected those clothes which her clients could use, before they are sent into Ann Arbor.

First organizational meeting is to be Tuesday, March 9 in the Congregational church. Representatives from all the area churches will attend this meeting to make plans for the group's first clothing drive. That drive is scheduled to take place Tuesday, March 16. Details will be announced at a later date, CWU representatives claimed.

After the drive, the women will plan to work one day per month sorting out and labeling clothing. Mending of the clothes will then be done in individual homes.

Children's clothing is mostly needed the women claimed, although all discarded clothing will be more than welcome. CWU urges local residents to start their late-spring clothing inventories early this year, and scout for items that are no longer needed by the family. Perhaps a needy child somewhere else would just love last year's Easter dress!

'South Pacific' Cast Working Diligently

Opening night for the Chelsea High school production of the musical "South Pacific" is just two weeks away, and members of the cast and crews are all a-flutter with excitement as the date draws closer.

This week's "progress report" on the development of the production spotlights several of the valuable people that will not be seen, except indirectly, when the curtain opens Thursday evening, March 18.

Judi Blaess, a junior at Chelsea High school, has designed the many sets this production calls for. Last year's platform has been drawn into service again, which alleviated some of the work, but she still has had to fill in the spaces with palm trees, and benches!

Rick Smith, who leads the construction crew, is working diligently to turn the stage into the islands in the South Pacific, which Judi has dreamed up.

Working in conjunction with Rick is senior Darlene Beeman, who is responsible for props. She has had to drum up such items as garden furniture, in the dead of winter, grass skirts, and a shrunken head, among other novelties.

Spotlights, and lighting are under the direction of Ed Wade. His job is especially difficult this year, as special additional lights must be installed for this performance. Ed's life lately has been filled with worries about such tricky matters as making sure that the black-outs are timed correctly.

Jim Hercules has the job of making the airplanes take off, and dropping the bombs. He also makes the tropical birds sing. Special effects for this play call for quite a bit of time and patience, as they are not common sounds, easily found on the streets of Chelsea! Hercules has had to find the necessary unavailable sounds, and record them on tapes, and then co-ordinate his tapes with the action of the play so that a bomb doesn't explode when the birds should be singing.

Costumes for this year's production have been rented, saving a great deal of time and expense for the crew—as they will not have to come up with costumes for the many nuns, marines, seaboys and nurses which "people" the larger scenes. MaryLu McClear, a senior, has the responsibility of ordering costumes for the 40 cast members. Armed with her faithful tape measure, she has canvassed all the cast for sizes and hopes that no one gains or loses too much weight between ordering time, and curtain time! She also has the job of making sure each Marine gets the right pair of combat boots—a complicated (Continued on page five)

High School Assistant Principal Relieved of Duties at End of Year

Stolen Car, Driver Picked Up By Police

A stolen car, reported shortly after midnight, Tuesday morning, March 2, in Ann Arbor, was apprehended, with its youthful driver, and passengers, later that morning through the efforts and fast moves of the Chelsea police.

Chelsea police officer McDougall was alerted by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department early that morning that a light blue 1966 Ford Mustang had been stolen in Ann Arbor, and to be on the look-out for it. As is the custom of the Chelsea PD in such cases, all service stations along the expressway were notified of the theft.

Shortly after 3 a.m., one of the stations notified the policeman that the car in question had just refueled at his place, and was headed east on I-94.

McDougall relayed this information, and then was told to follow the car into Ann Arbor, to provide rear support, in the event the driver should try to make a break.

The sheriff's department and the Ann Arbor police then established a road block on the other side, at Ann Arbor, where they were able to apprehend the vehicle, and its driver.

Driver of the car was a male juvenile from Ann Arbor. He was accompanied by two young 17-year-old girls, Linda Weaver, and Sylvia Crawley, both of Ann Arbor.

Board Acts Unanimously After 2 Special Sessions

Nature of the series of mysterious Board of Education meetings that were held the week of Feb. 15-20 was revealed Monday night at the Board of Education meeting, with the reading of the minutes from those meetings.

The hush-hush, hurry-up special sessions held Thursday night, Feb. 18, and then again Saturday morning, Feb. 20 were to formulate, discuss, and adopt a resolution to terminate the contract of Assistant Principal Bryce Fauble at the end of this year.

Prior to the adoption of the resolution, at the Thursday evening session, Principal Alson Conklin, of Beach school speaking on behalf of all the principals, addressed the board. Reliable sources indicate that Conklin spoke in Fauble's favor, urging the board to reconsider before they took action. Nevertheless, at the Saturday morning session, the following resolution was adopted.

"Resolved, that the Board of Education of the Chelsea school District, Chelsea, Michigan, hereby finds that the work of Bryce Fauble as Assistant High School Principal under his contract of May 18, 1970, to be unsatisfactory, and that the Board of Education hereby terminates his status as Assistant High School Principal under said contract, effective as of the end of the present school year;

"Be it further resolved, and it is hereby resolved, that Bryce Fauble shall be notified by delivery to him personally, or by certificate as of the end of the present residence, of the decision of this board by written notice together with a true copy of this resolution."

The resolution was passed with all eyes. Present at that meeting were President Irwin, and members Storey, Haselschwardt, Hopkins, and Smith. Members Koenig, and Powers were absent. Peter Flintoft, attorney for the board, was listed as a "guest" at that meeting.

Bryce Fauble came to Chelsea in the fall of 1969, with five years of teaching experience, and several degrees behind him. He is a 1965 graduate of Adrian College, where he was a member of the college football team, with a BA in physical education. He has a master of arts degree from the University of Michigan in secondary education, and is presently enrolled in the University's doctorate program in secondary school administration.

Fauble taught for three years in the Adrian Senior High school, one year at Kearsley Junior High school in Flint, and one year in Archibald, O., elementary schools, prior to his coming to Chelsea. He was under a one-year contract with the school system for his first year, which was renewed in May, 1970, for another two years. That contract expiration day is May, 1972.

The assistant principal, who is also athletic director at the high school, is married, and has a one-year old son. He declined to state any future plans which he may have at the moment.

Bulldog Cagers Lose Thriller in Final Game

Dexter's Dreadnaughts came to town Friday night, hoping to go home with at least a share of the Southeastern Conference championship. And they did. Chelsea, also was hoping to gain a share of the title, but it was Dexter who came out ahead in the hard-fought game, by the close score of 62-60.

The early part of the game found the Bulldogs a bit nervous and Dexter got off to a 10-1 lead. After a time-out, however, Chelsea began to roll, but at the end of the first period, Dexter still led, 17-9. Opening quarter lead scorers for the Dreadnaughts were Jim Aseltine, with 9 of his 18 points.

The second quarter belonged to Chelsea as the fired up Bulldogs quickly caught the Dreadnaughts and raced to a 33-31 half-time lead. The Bulldogs were led by their hustling defense in which Jeff Hughes, and Ron Sweeney stole several Dexter passes. Jeff Hughes, Howie Treado, and Jim Wojcicki each put in six points, and the Bulldogs were off and running.

The third period was evenly played. Chelsea maintained their lead throughout the period, holding on to a 46-45 lead at the end of the period. Neither team was able to mount a consistent offensive attack, but each team played well defensively.

Chelsea's one-point lead which they took into the final period, was short-lived, as Dexter quickly took the lead. The Bulldogs came back on a basket by Todd Sprague to regain the slim margin, but the game remained "nip and tuck" the rest of the time. With two minutes, 30 seconds left in the game, the score was tied, 56-56. Ron Sweeney hit on a jumper to put the Bulldogs ahead by two points, but Dexter came back on a basket by Mike Kinaschiuk, and two free throws. Jim Wojcicki knotted the score again 60-60 with two free throws, with a little over a minute left to play. Dexter called time and decided to stall out the clock for the last shot.

Chelsea was reluctant to come out after the ball, and Dexter was able to score with only two seconds left on the clock. Chelsea set up a play, but the shot fell short, and Todd Sprague's rebound basket was ruled too late, as the Dexter fans poured onto the floor.

Dexter finished the regular season with a fine 12-4 record, and a share of the league championship. (Continued on page five)

Three Chelsea Attorneys Honored

Three Chelsea attorneys were honored at a dinner hosted by the Washtenaw County Bar Association Thursday evening, Feb. 25 at Weber's Inn.

The three were among a number the Bar Association cited for practicing law for 40 years or longer. Gerald Grohnert, senior member of the law firm, Grohnert & Parker, and Harold Jones, of 701 Glazier Rd., were cited, along with Chandler Rogers, of 82 Cavanaugh Lake Rd.

Grohnert, who lives at 7125 Bush Rd., is a graduate of the University of Detroit Law school. He was admitted to the Bar in Detroit on March 17, 1927, and he practiced law in that city for 20 years. He moved to Chelsea in 1947, and shortly thereafter established his local practice.

Harold Jones is originally from Charlotte, where he graduated from high school in 1917. He attended Olivet College for a year and a half, and then transferred to the University of Michigan, where he obtained his AB degree in 1921, and his JD in 1923. He was admitted to the Bar on Oct. 18, 1923. Jones practiced law in Detroit from 1923 until 1942, when he came to Chelsea to be executive vice-president of Central Fibre Products. He retired in 1969. From 1964 until 1967 he was General Counsel for the Avis Industrial Corp.

Chandler Rogers, third local man honored at the dinner, is a graduate of Chelsea High school. He and his wife, Ethel, returned to his home town in 1951, following his retirement from Federal Motor Truck Manufacturing Co., Detroit, after 31 years of employment with that company. At the time of his retirement he was secretary-treasurer, and director of the firm. He received his law degree from the Detroit College of Law.

Rogers is probably well known to many area citizens, as he was

Justice of the Peace for Sylvan township from 1959 until 1969. He is well known for his daily walks in the vicinity of Cavanaugh Lake, which comprise several miles or more each day.

Also honored at the ceremonies at Weber's Inn were Judge John Conlin, and Roscoe Bonisteel, Sr., both of whom are well known throughout the county.

TROPHIES were awarded to the Chelsea High school students for their performance Saturday, Feb. 27 at the Brighton Invitational Forensics tournament. Receiving speakers trophies were, front row, from left, Chick Lane, who took a second place in the area of extemporaneous speaking, and Dwight Bolanowski, first place in humorous reading. "Inherit the Wind," a group reading presented by the boys in the second row, from left, Ed Koenig, Jon Schenk, Tom Hubert, Larry Jones, Glen Musolf, and Ric Foytik, also gleaned a second-place trophy for the team. The Chelsea Forensics team also received a second-place trophy for their team's efforts in the entire tournament, and won the tournament's Sweepstakes trophy for gaining the most speaker's points. Washington Report

by Congressman

ed bills introduced into Congress. The year 1970 was a year of increasing concern for the environment with over 4,000 bills introduced into Congress. Fortunately, two key organizations were established at the federal level to fight the pollution battle and both are already working aggressively. One of them, the Environmental Protection Agency, has already taken strong action against pollution in the air and water, and on land. The President's budget for next year for this agency is $2.4 billion, nearly twice what it received for fiscal '71. The other important arm of government working in the battle is the Council on Environmental Quality in the Office of the President.

While 1970 was a year of progress, it is important that we improve on what has already been done. President Nixon has proposed a comprehensive program, the first time in our history we have had such a demonstration of earnest concern from the heart of the American leadership, the Presidency.

The environment issue is surely one which lends itself to rhetoric rather than action. Fortunately, the President has made explicit proposals which back up his expressed ecological concern. His program will be implemented in 14 bills sent to Capitol Hill.

The Nixon proposals are too lengthy to be fully described in this report. However, major features are as follows:

Measures to strengthen pollution control programs

Charges on sulfur oxides and a tax on lead in gasoline to supplement regulatory controls in air pollution; a $12 billion national water pollution program; improved pesticide control; and a federal procurement program to encourage recycling of paper.

Measures to control emerging problems

Includes regulation of toxic substances, noise pollution and controls on ocean dumping.

Measures to promote environmental quality in land use decisions

A national land use policy, expanded recreation program, more urban parks, preserving historic buildings through tax incentives, expansion of wilderness area preservation system, and regulation of underground mining.

A better world environment

Greater international co-operation and a World Heritage Trust to preserve parks and other areas of cultural value throughout the world.

Much of the President's message repeated proposals he made in his 37-point program a year ago on which Congress failed to act. But he plowed some new ground on noise, toxic substances, sulfur emission, pesticides and ocean dumping. In addition, the Environmental Protection Agency would be given greater muscle to enforce water quality standards with authority to impose administrative fines up to $25,000. Citizen suits against water polluters such as those presently allowed against air polluters would also be permitted.

It is true that certain members of Congress are more interested in getting credit than in clean water and clean air, but if we are to get about the task of building a better environment, it is high time that we insist on the public welfare coming before self-interest.

President Nixon, I believe, put it well in his message to Congress when in calling for support to restore the environment he said:

"Together, we hold this good earth in trust. We must—and together we can—prove ourselves worthy of that trust."

It is time for the Congress to act.

Crime Clear But

Culprit Not Identified

Hickory Corners — Freshwater scientists attending a recent symposium at Michigan State University's Kellogg Biological Station disagreed on the villain.

Some said it was carbon compounds. Others blamed phosphates.

"All recognized the evil deed, however—the premature aging of lakes and streams due to waste effluents flowing into them from industry and households.

The effluents accelerate the growth of weeds and algae, which in turn die and leave deposits in the lake. The lake fills up. More organisms die for less oxygen. Fish die. More algae, more sediment, less room—no lake!

The program would be administered by a compensation board of three members, who would hear claims from victims of crimes and would decide whether they deserved compensation. Financing would come from the state general fund.

Among the conditions imposed upon payments would be:

—the crime would have to be reported within 48 hours.

—the victim, including policemen, would have to suffer personal injury or death as a result of a crime.

—the victim and his assailant could not be members of the same family nor could they have a close or intimate relationship with each other.

—no payment would be made if the victim's conduct contributed to the infliction of his injuries.

—no payment would be made if the out-of-pocket loss was less than $200 or if less than three weeks' earnings were lost.

A spokesman for Kelley says there is no way to estimate how many persons would qualify for compensation.

He estimated first year costs for setting up a program would be about $500,000.

Since 1966, New York, California, Hawaii, Maryland and Massachusetts have enacted crime compensation laws similar to Michigan's proposed law, and they have paid out a total of $1.8 million to 1,000 claimants.

Long Lines Feared

The same frustration his predecessor, James Hare, felt in dealing with license plate buyers is bothering the new Secretary of State, Richard Austin.

Hare recently pleaded with car owners not to wait until the last minute to buy their license plates, and yearly he lost.

"I hate to keep harping at people to get their plates, but I also hate to contemplate the shoving, tugging matches and the raveled nerves if they wait until the last minute to buy their 1971 plates," Austin said recently. "But if business doesn't perk up soon, last-minute buyers will find themselves in the most colossal lines in history if they wait to buy plates just before the March 31 deadline."

Human nature being what it is, they'll probably wait anyway.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Its another case of the hurrier we go the behinder we git, and I can't help but think about Brer Fox trying to git loose from the tar baby every time I read somebun about Louse being the way out of Asia.

Clem Webster spoke on this subject during the session, and he was asking how you tell the difference between a invasion and a incursion. The Nixon Administration is calling what we're doing in Louse a incursion, Clem allowed, but it looks to him like we're jest getting stuck deeper in quicksand.

Clem, that actual has stood up fer President Nixon onct or twict, said he reckoned that is like a deficit of strength that President Kennedy use to talk about. When you go in debt on purpose its strength, and when you invade so you can withdrawd its incursion, was Clem's words.

Talking about deficits, Clem reported where he had saw where this column writer says Nixon's next budget will run $20 billion in the hole, nearly double the $1 billion that turned into $10 billion this year. Clem was of the mind that they ain't going to be a heap of surplus in Washington to send back to the states if things go like this feller is predicting.

Farthermore, Clem said, Nixon is taking credit instred of blame fer his budget being bad in the red. The way he tells it, a balanced budget would stunt the economy growth, but a deficit stimulates it. Clem said he heard somewhere Nixon had come around to a spend the country back in shape way of thinking, but this was the first time he had ever heard a Republican President sound like a New Deal Democrat.

That brought Ed Doolittle to his feet, but when he got the floor he allowed he hadn't done his homework as good as Clem. Ed allowed that Clem is bad to complain about the heat in the summer and the cold in the winter, and he recalled that back when President Johnson was spending money like a drunk trying to drink hisself sober Clem was even sneaking into the Republican corner on money matters.

General speaking, Mister Editor I would agree with Ed that the average American is getting more wispy washy all the time. He use to be a pritty solid feller, but he's been bumbuzzled, pushed around so much til nowadays he's got a lot of give in him.

Like the feller said, it's hard to tell if the early bird gets the worm or the early worm gets the bird.

Clem said he heard somewhere Nixon had come around to a spend the country back in shape way of thinking, but this was the first time he had ever heard a Republican President sound like a New Deal Democrat.

That brought Ed Doolittle to his feet, but when he got the floor he allowed he hadn't done his homework as good as Clem. Ed allowed that Clem is bad to complain about the heat in the summer and the cold in the winter, and he recalled that back when President Johnson was spending money like a drunk trying to drink hisself sober Clem was even sneaking into the Republican corner on money matters.

General speaking, Mister Editor I would agree with Ed that the average American is getting more wispy washy all the time. He use to be a pritty solid feller, but he's been bumbuzzled, pushed around so much til nowadays he's got a lot of give in him.

Like the feller said, it's hard to tell if the early bird gets the worm or the early worm gets the bird.

Clem was of the mind that they ain't going to be a heap of surplus in Washington to send back to the states if things go like this feller is predicting.

Farthermore, Clem said, Nixon is taking credit instred of blame fer his budget being bad in the red. NORTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NOTES

KINDERGARTEN—

Mrs. Packard, teacher

We have finally finished our health books and taken them home. We had many interruptions. Everyone was so interested in the moon landing we took several days discussing these events and learning about the equipment. Many interesting books were brought in by the children to share, since Mrs. Raduazo's first grade was interested in the same things, we shared many things between our two rooms.

Our Ripples television program, was all about astronauts this week. It answered some of the questions we had and weren't sure about.

We had a new teacher come and teach us about sounds. Her name is Mrs. Carpmen. While she is here Mrs. Packard is out of the room so the children enjoy learning new things and testing later to see if Mrs. Packard can guess what they have learned.

Now that the sun is out melting the ice and snow it is very difficult keeping out of all the mud and water. We hope lots of parents will come and take part in the North School Boosters project to make new equipment for and help improve our playground. It would be much nicer having things to keep us busy and have some of our mud holes filled in.

FIRST GRADE—

Mrs. Raduazo, teacher

With Valentine's Day-over the first grade seems to be back into routine of lots of fun reading and writing special stories. We especially enjoy our days at the library because there are so many wonderful books we find we can read.

Our Valentine's party was a great success thanks to Mrs. Ackley and Mrs. Wirtz, our room mothers. Their treats were delicious.

We have been very busy writing our own stories and reading them to the class. Many stories have been about favorite animals or just special things that we like. Our room was especially interested in the Apollo 14 moon shot. We collected all of the news from the paper about our astronauts. We all wish that we could have gone along and chased golf-balls.

In February we have three birthdays: Brian Smith, Melinda Miller and Kathy Duhamel. Brian's birthday was the same day as Abraham Lincoln's.

Mrs. Stein, Mrs. Coelius, teachers

First graders are very interested in last week's parent-teacher North School Booster meeting concerning playground equipment that can be made. We, too, feel a need for more challenge and healthy activity on the playground.

JV Cagers Lose Final Game to Dexter

Chelsea's JV basketball team lost their season's final game, 59-53, to Dexter, Friday night, to finish the year with an 8-8 record, 7-7 in the Southeastern Conference.

Chelsea jumped off to a 19-9 lead in the first quarter, mainly on the strength of an aggressive man-to-man defense, and on Dan Bertke's six points, and the four points contributed by Jeff Sprague, and Tim Treado, respectively. Dexter caught fire in the second quarter and outscored Chelsea, 19-13, to trail the Bullsups by only four points at the half. Half-time score was 32-28.

Dexter continued their momentum in the third quarter, and held a 44-42 lead at the end of the quarter. They were able to stretch their lead to six by the end of the game.

Chelsea outscored Dexter by one field goal, but was outscored by eight points from the foul line. Line score:

Chelsea 19 13 10 11—53
Dexter 9 19 16 15—59

Chelsea finished the season with their best record in several years, 10-6.
In other SEC play this week-end, Saline romped over Ypsilanti Lincoln, 65-57, while Milan defeated Dundee, 84-78. Novi finished the season with its only win, defeating South Lyon by a score of 61-46.

Final league standings saw Dexter and Milan in first place, sharing 11-3 records, followed by Chelsea and Lincoln in second place, with 9-5 standings. Dundee followed with an 8-6 record, followed by Saline, South Lyon, and Novi.

Grass Fires Herald Approach of Spring

Spring is here! That is, it's here as far as Chelsea Fire Chief Jim Gaken is concerned. The fire chief reported that two minor grass fires which occurred this past week touched off what he claims is the yearly grass fire season. One fire, which occurred last week, along the railroad track caused little damage, and was extinguished within five minutes.

A second minor grass fire occurred Tuesday afternoon, March 2 at the farm of Don Pierce, 172 Jackson Rd. It also was extinguished within a few minutes.

The fire chief cautions residents against this yearly spring problem and asks that people be extra specially careful about burning trash, and tossing away matches and cigarettes.

In other fire action recently, the Chelsea Fire Department was called to the home of Vernon J. Satterthwaite, 1465 Jerusalem Rd., at 6:10 Sunday morning, to assist when Satterthwaite's furnace failed.

functioned. Three trucks, and 14 men were called to stand-by while oil, which had been pumped into his furnace, without igniting, was lit. The power had been shut off earlier, but the oil continued to pour into the furnace.

No problems resulted from the fighting of the oil, firemen reported, and they were allowed to return home and go to bed 20 minutes later.

A minor house fire occurred Monday night, Feb. 22 in the home of Russell G. Hoffman, 1760 Rank Rd., Grass Lake. Hoffman put in a call at 7:24 p.m., and three trucks, and 15 men responded immediately. The fire started in an upstairs bedroom, and was confined to that room.

No special equipment was needed for the blaze, and firemen had the fire extinguished within a half an hour. The entire room and its contents were destroyed, fire officials reported. Hoffman was the only person home at the time of the blaze.

job, even in the Armed Service, where the people are experts.
Lisa Peppers is chairman of the make-up committee. Her job is to turn the 40 average American cast members into such exotic types as Polynesian princesses, and nuns.

DiAnn L'Roy is director of this year's play, and is the person primarily responsible for the coordination of these youngsters' efforts. Helping Miss L'Roy is student director, Tina Orbring, who has the task of making sure the proper character is on the stage at the right moment. She also serves as a combination guardian and "cue-card."

The play, "South Pacific," by Rodgers and Hammerstein, has an entertaining plot, and familiar music. Old favorites such as "Bali H'ai" and "Some Enchanted Evening," were introduced when the play was first performed on Broadway. Other fun scenes and songs include "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair," and "There Is Nothin' Like A Dame."

Chelsea High school students claim that this production is rated "G"—which stands, they claim, for "great!" Tickets for the whole family may be purchased at Chelsea High school, or by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Tickets," Chelsea High school, Washington St. There will be three 8 p.m. performances on March 18, 19, and 20. Tickets should be purchased soon, the high school warns, as all seats are reserved.

This year's Cub Scout Fishing Derby of Pack 455 was held Saturday, Feb. 27, at Pierce Lake. Although the wind was blowing the boys and their equipment all over the lake, it was one of the best outings in recent years.

Parli Pro Team Wins Regional Competition

Chelsea's FFA parliamentary procedure team competed at Litchfield, Thursday, Feb. 25, in the Regional Leadership Training Contest. The Chelsea team received a gold award for their demonstration, and placed first in the contest. Teams from North Adams and Sand Creek received silver ratings, advisor Doug Davidson commented.

In the Farm Forum contest, Sand Creek, Manchester, and Saline all received gold awards, while Sand Creek will represent the region in state competition. Waldron received a silver rating. The public speaker from Pittsford won that contest with a gold rating. Speakers from Blissfield, Dexter, and Saline all received a silver rating.

Saline's demonstration team rated gold in winning the demonstration contest, while Litchfield received a silver rating.

Each of the winners at the Regional level will now compete in state contests, which will be held at Michigan State University, on Thursday, March 25. This will be a part of MSU's celebration of Farmers' Week, which Davidson indicated a large number of local FFA members and farmers plan to attend.

Team members for Chelsea's "parli pro" are Marty Straub, chairman; Dan Gaunt, vice-chairman; Neil Bollinger, secretary; and Mike Bristle, Ted Hinderer, and John Stineheiser.

The Chelsea Chapter will hold a slave sale Thursday, March 11, at 8 p.m. in the Agriculture room at the high school. Davidson announced. All FFA members will be sold for a day's labor. The scheduling will be worked out between the buyer and the slave as to when the work should be performed. Proceeds will be used by the chapter to finance various trips the team plans to make.

Bonnie Wengren Ties CMU Fieldhouse Mark

Bonnie Wengren, and some of her teammates from the Wolverine Track Team, traveled to Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant, Friday afternoon, Feb. 26, to compete against the CMU women's track team.

Bonnie placed second in the 50-yard dash event, running the race in a time of 6.3 seconds, which equals the fieldhouse record. Mary Howkanson Littlabrant, a teammate, ran the race in 6.2 seconds, to set a new CMU fieldhouse record.

The fleet-footed Chelsea runner also ran the 880-yard run, for the first time in competition, placing second in that event. Bonnie ran that race in 2:28.6 minutes, while her teammate, Jackie Ford, took first place with a time of 2:28.5 minutes. Jackie Ford holds the state indoor 1500 meter record.

Bonnie also ran in the winning four lap relay, Coach John Bauer said.

Next race for Bonnie will be the State Indoor Championships, which will be held at Cobo Hall in Detroit, March 21 through 28.

School Bands Prepare For District Festivals

Three of the four Chelsea school bands will be participating in the District Band Festival to be held this Saturday, March 6, while the remaining band's District performance will be the following Saturday, March 13, band director Warren Mayer indicated this week.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

Most men shie away from the dubious distinction, "Jack of all trades, master of none." Very few men are qualified to master a trade in numerous fields. It is truly significant that throughout history, only one Man has had recognition as Master of all trades. Tradesmen all over the world pay Him tribute in their own fields and bestow fitting titles to Him for His handiwork. Here are just a few examples—

As an architect, He is the Corner Stone . . . As a baker, He is the Bread of Life . . . As a biologist, He is life . . . As a builder, He is a Sure Foundation . . . As a doctor, He is the Great Physician . . . As a farmer, He is the Sower . . . As a geologist, He is the Rock of Ages . . . As a philanthropist, He is the Great Giver . . . As a servant, He is the Master of Perfection . . . As an educator, He is the Great Teacher . . . Yes, and even as a Funeral Director, He is the Great Comforter . . .

In all this world wide recognition, isn't it a shame there are still many people to whom He means nothing? . . . BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR 5-4141.

Kiwanians Will Hear 'Case for Draft Repeal'

Program committee of Kiwanis Club of Chelsea and local church committees on social concerns have invited Frederick W. Lord of Berkshire county, Mass., to speak to Chelsea audiences on the evening of March 8.

Lord will be guest speaker that evening at the regular Kiwanis meeting, where he will present the topic, "The Case for Draft Repeals Now." Following his appearance, there will be a public meeting at 8 p.m. at the Congregational church where the subject of his informal talk will be, "Conscription in a Free Society."

Lord is a member of the Peace and Education Section of the American Friends Service Committee, New England Regional office. He received his BA degree from Dartmouth, and MBA from Harvard Business School. He served as an ensign in the U.S. Navy Supply Corps with sea duty in the Pacific. Presently the director of the Berkshire Theatre Festival in Stockbridge, Mass., he is a trustee of the Charles Playhouse in Boston. He has made 30 television appearances in New England alone.

The present draft law expires June 30, 1971, and President Nixon has asked for a two-year extension. Hearings are being held by the Armed Services Committees and bills introduced in Congress for a variety of changes in the present selective service system, so Lord's presentations are of timely interest to all concerned citizens.

There will be no admission charge for these talks, but officials claim, the opportunity will be given to "share in the expense."

3 Wrestlers Qualify for State Meet

Six wrestlers from Chelsea High school attended the Regional wrestling meet held Saturday in Comstock. The boys placed 11th overall from all 33 schools attending the meet, and three Chelsea wrestlers qualified to go to the State wrestling meet which will be held this week-end, Friday, and Saturday, March 5-6, at Sturgis.

To enter state competition, a wrestler must place in the first four places in regional. Mark Montange, 98 pounds, took a third place, which permitted him to advance, while his brother, Gary Montange, co-captain of the team, wrestling at 132, also placed third. Jim Wencel, co-captain of the team, placed fourth in the 119-pound class.

Other wrestlers who competed, but were unable to place were Mike Spence, 112, Dale Poertner, 105; and Tim Lancaster, 138.

'No Account' Check Passed By Stranger

A stocky man of medium height, described to be in his 50's entered Heydlauff's Appliance store Jan. 27, to buy a radio. He picked out a deluxe model radio, portable, Model J202, AM-FM, in grey. When it came time to pay, he asked if he could cash a personal check made out to himself in the amount of $50.

Mrs. George (Wanda) Heydlauff, who was waiting on him, had several other customers waiting for her, and she was very harried. She looked briefly at the check, which was made out, in sloppy printing, on paper—that wasn't standard check paper, to A. Rogers—and accepted it. The check was from the Union Bank of Streator, Ill., and was signed by H. W. Peterson.

When Mrs. Heydlauff handed the check to her husband, manager of the store, shortly after the fellow left, he was most upset. The check looked flimsy, and hardly official. He immediately took it to the bank which confirmed his suspicions. They claimed the check appeared to be a "no account" check, and sent it to the Streator bank for confirmation. The check returned this past week stamped "no account."

Chelsea police did some checking into the matter, and through the names used on the checks, they were able to trace it to the work of a known offender of the law. He was recently released from the Ohio State Penitentiary, and his present whereabouts are unknown.

In the meantime, Mrs. Heydlauff, and others at the store, are being a bit more careful about the checks they accept from out of town.

About 28 million children have been vaccinated against rubella, more commonly known as German measles.

Chelsea Listed as 'New Town' of 75,000 To Ease Urban Sprawl

Chelsea has been making national news recently. In last week's issue (March 1, 1971) of Time magazine, in their opening section, entitled "The Nation," and earlier, in the Detroit Free Press of Sunday, Feb. 20, Chelsea was listed along with the communities of Whitmore Lake, Belleville, Carlton, White Lake, Novi, Scripps-Keatington, Paint Creek, New Baltimore, and St. Clair as future sites of a plan to "de-centralize" Detroit's inner city.

The plan, which was developed by the Metropolitan Fund of Detroit, a non-profit research corporation in Southeast Michigan, calls for the pairing of nine inner-city areas with these 10 suburban areas. The "paired-town concept," would promote the development of new single family homes, townhouses, and garden-type apartments in the suburban town family, while homes and apartments within the city could be rehabilitated or built over, to attract and provide better inner-city housing for residents living presently within the city, or in the out-lying areas.

The two sites would be linked politically, socially, and economically—through shared government systems, and similar industries attracted to both sites. They would be linked with a system of mass rapid transit. Dr. Hubert G. Locke of Wayne State University, directed the 18-month study on the feasibility of the program, for the Metropolitan Fund, Inc. The study was financed by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Kresge Foundation. It is expected to cost $1 billion to effect. Gov. William Milliken has voiced his approval of the project.

Among the facts which the study brought out, which Time magazine brought to light, was that the suburban sites would cover between 3,600 and 8,000 acres, and would each house 75,000 people, with "generous green space, and good low-rent housing."

Moon Rock On Display At U. of M.

Ann Arbor—A six-ounce rock from the moon went on free public display Tuesday, March 2 at the University of Michigan.

The display will continue through March 14 in the U-M Exhibit Museum, corner of Washtenaw and North University Avenue, in Ann Arbor.

Exhibition hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 1:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Sundays.

The lunar sample was among 75 pounds of rocks collected on the moon's Ocean of Storms in 1969 by Apollo 12 astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Alan Bean. The explorers picked up the rock about 200 miles from the spot where Apollo 14 astronauts Alan Shepard, Jr., and Edgar Mitchell landed on Feb. 5.

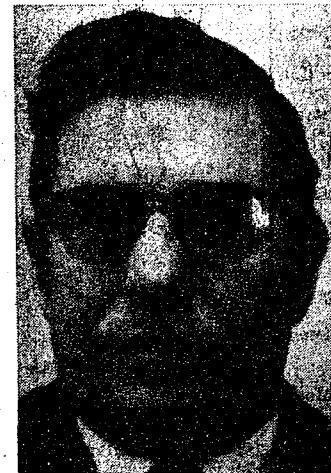

The lunar rock is among several being displayed in traveling exhibits sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The U-M display was arranged through the office of A. Geoffrey Norman, vice-president for research.

Irving Reimann, director of the U-M Exhibit Museum, said the lunar display will include photographs and color slides taken during the Apollo 12 mission.

INDEPENDENT PARTY PLATFORM

1. To continue to promote well qualified candidates for public office.
2. Recent events have made it obvious that major revitalization of the Village electric system is now necessary. The Independent Party is in favor of carrying forward the plans which have been developed during the past year by the electrical engineers for the Village Council. We favor a program that will allow financing these improvements entirely with Electric Department funds.
3. The Independent Party will continue to work for the improvement of the present sewer system to relieve present overloads so that the moratorium on sewer extensions can be lifted. We continue to believe that the improvement of the present system is the responsibility of the residents of the Village but that extension of the system is the responsibility of the developer.
4. The Independent Party is in favor of a cooperative approach to the problems of recreation and supports the Village's participation in the coordinated group effort to draw together all of the local groups and agencies interested in recreation for the Chelsea area residents.
5. The Independent Party is in opposition to the proposed Mill Creek Metropolitan Park as now contemplated by Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. This park offers little, if any, benefits to the local area residents. It will probably cause many problems for the area and added costs to the local taxpayers.
6. The Independent Party is in favor of continued support of the Village Planning Commission and of its concern for more and closer cooperation and coordination with the surrounding townships to further local area planning.

Farmington Wins State Cage Title

An estimated 600 to 700 people from across the state of Michigan were in Chelsea this past week-end to attend the Jaycees State Basketball Tournament. Thirty teams, and their assorted families and fans arrived and left all day Saturday, as Chelsea's Jaycees hosted a one-day marathon double-elimination tourney to decide the state Jaycee roundball champs.

Dave Clark and Tom Steele were co-chairmen of this project, which solicited support from all local Jaycees and their wives. The women cooked food all day, and the men either played on Chelsea's team, or helped with the myriad of "administrative details."

Chelsea's cage team played six games, the last three "back-to-back" before they were finally eliminated, far from the first place position they were "shooting for." Members of that team included Tom Steele, Dave Clark, Charles Matto, Jim Cameron, Curt Farley, St. Hopkins, Dan Parsons, Gary White, Dennis White, and Charles Koenn. Walter Brown was coach.

Two junior high school cheerleaders, Becky Taylor, and Judy Grau cheered the Chelsea team on.

While their men were on the courts, the women were, as is usual, in the kitchen! Jayceettes reported they served a total number of 250 hungry cagers and fans for lunch, and they lost count of the breakfasters! More than 17 gallons of orange juice were served, along with 500 5-ounce cans of tomato juice, and the women put out more than 40 dozen donuts for the hungry crowd. The teams drank 150 quarts of milk, and polished off 12 pounds of coffee.

Following the final game, which started at 9:30 p.m., however, the women could take a break, as a celebration catered roast beef dinner was held at the end of the evening to climax the events. Approximately 90 persons were fed the dinner, after which the awards presentation was made. The team from Farmington won the day's contest, as they defeated Redford, 57-37, in the final game for top honors and took home a trophy. Greg Sliwka, a member of the Farmington team, was voted the most valuable player for the day, and was also presented a trophy. Ed Greenleaf acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet.

All meals and the awards presentation were held in the Beach school cafeteria. Following the dinner, Jaycees, and their wives stayed around to clean up the cafeteria, and all the schools in which the teams had played games.

There were no difficulties encountered during the hectic day—aside from quite a few cases of exhaustion. Chelsea's Auxiliary Police force who were on hand to take care of any problems that came up, reported no major traumas.

According to Art Steinaway, Jaycee president, however, at the end of the day, when all the local group left, shortly after midnight, they knew they'd had a busy, although exciting day!

The only regret that Steinaway expressed was that more Chelsea people didn't turn up at the games—not just to cheer on the local team, but to watch some of the games. There were more total hours of live basketball being played in Chelsea this week-end, than could ever be seen in one day on the television!

KIWANIS CLUB PRESIDENT Walter Zeeb, and Adon A. Gordus, professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan, exchanged conversation prior to the Monday evening meeting of the club, at which Adon was a guest speaker.

U-M Professor Describes New Technique of Neutron Analysis

Adon A. Gordus, professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan, addressed Chelsea Kiwanians at their Monday evening meeting.

Prof. Gordus was born in Chicago, Ill., and attended public schools there. He received his bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Illinois Institute of Technology, and his PhD in radio chemistry. He came to the U. of M. as a post-doctoral research associate in 1956, and has remained since that time. He was appointed professor of chemistry in 1970.

Prof. Gordus helped develop the technique of neutron activation analysis. He began applying this analysis to problems other than those traditionally considered scientific in 1965 when Prof. James B. Griffin, director of the University's Museum of Anthropology inquired about the feasibility of determining the geological origins of the obsidian artifacts found in the "Mid-west in the 2,000-year-old Hopewell Indian Mounds.

Gordus' technique has now expanded research in many regions of the world. Recently, however, it has received notoriety for its application in the courtroom, as Gordus was one of the men called in to testify in the John Norman Collins murder case this past summer. He was one of the researchers to try to trace the hair found in the basement of Collin's uncle's home to those found on the body of Karen Sue Beineman.

The professor's talk to Kiwanians centered on the Collins case, and hair identification in general. He also discussed a way in which they are using this process to identify antique coins as real or fakes.
