

Washington Report

by Congressman

MARVIN L. ESCH

Twenty years ago Congress created "impacted aid" to assist local school districts in the cost of educating young people whose parents are employees of the federal government. Due to the proximity of many government installations this has become a major hardship across the country. But, like so many Federal programs, this one grew "like topsy" and failed to hit the mark due to the formula devised for allocating funds. This formula actually has resulted in channelling most of the funds to schools that are well-off financially, while not adequately assisting poorer ones.

Payments are made to the school districts in two classifications (A's and B's). The A students are the sons and daughters of parents who live and work on military or other government installations. This assistance, in my opinion, should continue, since these parents do not pay local taxes and their presence in a particular community is because they are employees of the Federal government. The B students are the children of those parents who live in the community, but not on the base or installation. For all intents and purposes, these families establish and own their own homes, pay local taxes, and become full fledged local residents. It is here then, that the program could stand reform.

For example, one of the wealthiest suburbs in the country is Montgomery county, Md. Because so many residents are government workers, it receives $6 million in payments from the Federal government for impact aid. That sum is difficult to justify. Montgomery county's affluence is because of the Federal government, not in spite of it. Its taxpayers would have no difficulty supporting their own schools. The $6 million it receives from the Federal government would be put to far better use in schools within the inner city, or in rural areas.

President Nixon, like every American President since Truman, is attempting to reform impact aid so that we direct educational funds to the school districts with the most pressing needs. His special revenue sharing proposal on education, I am told by the White House, will almost certainly contain a plan to shift funds for the B students into a state's revenue sharing pool, providing the states with greater leeway in deciding how the money is to be distributed. I am inclined to support such a move, when it comes before the House Education and Labor Committee, of which I am a member.

Whatever happens to the revenue sharing package, it is particularly important that Congress move toward a consolidated approach and reform impact aid. This is easier said than done, since many school districts across the country have a fond attachment for their unearned largesse.

In my opinion Congress must keep faith with the American people, not only by breaching the gulf between the various school districts, but by making absolutely certain we get the maximum value for every dollar spent.

This program is in need of reform. It has more weaknesses than strengths.

Tough Fight Ahead

Though they have finally won a victory in the Michigan Senate, backers of the drive to reform Michigan's century-old abortion law know they are far from final victory.

"Only half congratulations are in order now," was the way Mrs. Lorraine Beebe of Dearborn put it when a bill to allow any woman to receive an abortion for any reason during the first 90 days of pregnancy cleared the Senate.

"Full congratulations will be in order only when a bill has been passed by both houses," she said.

It took three years to get a bill of some sort through the Senate, and the makeup of the House indicates it may be an even tougher fight there than it was in the Senate.

Mrs. Beebe, a former state senator from a heavily Catholic district is believed to have lost her bid for re-election last year because she supports abortion reform, says supporters who work even harder now that they are near success.

"Now that we've been given some hope, I know the women throughout the state will be working harder than ever," she says. "This proves that if you work co-operatively through the legislative process you can get things done."

With matters such as the state financial crisis confronting the legislature, it will probably be months before the House tries to come to grips with the abortion question. When it does, the one thing that seems certain is that there will be just as much emotion expended there as there was during the three years the issue was agonized over in the Senate.

One factor in the debate which has proved both antagonizing and irritating to many women pushing for abortion reform is this: the decision is made in a legislature made up almost entirely of men.

Since Mrs. Beebe's defeat, there are no women in the Senate; and there are only seven in the 110-member House. The women feel since they are the ones who are involved most closely with the question, they should have more of a say in it.

But Mrs. Beebe, as ardent a feminist as any working on the issue, says she thinks the men neighbor's mules. He told the judge the neighbor had stole his wife and he took the mules to git even.

The judge ruled that a wife that would run off weren't worth much to start with, and he ordered the feller to give back one of the mules. I reckon our courts can use more of them kind of judges.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

supporting reform "are to be commended."

"I know some of them struggling with their own conscience considerably," she said. "They have come to see that we're not trying to tell people they have to get an abortion. We're just trying to give people a choice."

If you have had the impression the streets and highways of the state are getting more crowded, you're right.

Increased Social Security Benefits To Arrive in June

The first checks to include the new 10 percent monthly benefit increase authorized by Congress this past week will reach 26 million Social Security beneficiaries, on June 3.

Robert A. Kehoe, district manager of the Ann Arbor office, said today that the regular June 3 checks covering benefits for the month of May will reflect the new higher monthly amount.

Separate checks, scheduled to reach Washtenaw county's 19,500 beneficiaries later in June will cover the amount of the increase for January through April. 1,125 of these beneficiaries live in Chelsea and 671 live in Dexter.

Kehoe emphasized that it is not necessary to get in touch with a Social Security office to get the raise. The payments will be mailed to all beneficiaries automatically.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MINISTER EDITOR:

I recollect a feller said once that the only way to make shore that crime don't pay was to let the Government run it. With all them millions being made off

Army PXs and little odd jobs like the Supreme Court judges take to "advise" big companies and the stocks all them cabinet members have in outfits they beg Congress to give money to, it looks like even the Government can make a go of crime.

The fellers took up this matter of everybody thinking these days that laws of God and man is made for everybody else. What got em started on the subject Saturday night at the country store was this piece Zeke Grubb had saw in the paper about a civic club was holding Crime Prevention Week. Zeke reported where this piece said the club was putting on a feed and inviting all the law in the county to help celebrate Crime Prevention Week.

Zeke said after he read the piece all he could think of was what his preacher told him once about the church being fer sinners. Zeke took this to mean that the folks that go to church general ain't they ones that need it the mos. He allowed that the same attends Crime Prevention Week feeds. Wonder how many crooks is celebrating the week, Zeke wanted to know.

Ed Doolittle said he was of the mind that the civic club was jest telling the police they was behind the law. Ed said about the only way you can prevent a crime is not to do one, but being agin crime in public is like being agin bad weather. We can talk, but they ain't a heap we can do, was Ed's words.

The trouble, allowed Ed, gits back to having respect for the rights of others. The police can't do a think afore the crime is done, Ed said, and they are pritty tied up about what they can do after. If a man's got mean doing in his heart they ain't much we can do afore he does it, allowed Ed.

(Actual, said Clem Webster, that had listened as long as he could without gitting in his dime's worth, the courts don't help none even after the police catch em. The court throws the case out on some legal point, or gives out suspended sentences that jest puts the crook on the loose agin. Course, Clem said, this could be cause the jails is full.

Mister Editor, the fellers don't buy none of that about a jame in the body making a man be a crook. But their talk about courts reminded me of the time this feller was up fer stealing two of his

GUEST SPEAKER at Monday evening's 47th Birthday celebration of the Kiwanis Club was Dr. Hoover Rupert, right, of Ann Arbor. He spoke on the topic, "Up Is Up," which dealt with handling life's many situations. He was introduced by Kiwanian William Rademacher.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Jeff Reed is a Chelsea high school student who tells it like it is. In his recent letter he changes the community is insensitive to the social needs of its teen-agers. His is not the first such complaint from a teen-ager. Others have been printed and ignored.

What he is saying is that Chelsea should provide a place where a young person can rap with his peers, where he can enjoy folk singers or ragtime piano, or dance to the rhythm of rock. In short, have fun.

Isn't it time that our young people find self expression and entertainment right here at home, rather than be compelled to drive miles to distant places?

Given proper support, a youth center is a real possibility. Let's look into it.

Ft. Bragg, N.C.—Army Sergeant Michael L. Wackenhut, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Wackenhut, 11730 Waters Rd., Chelsea, Mich., recently completed special forces training at the U.S. Army Institute for Military Assistance, Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Students, who are now prepared for assignments with one of the seven operational special forces units around the world, received their first four weeks of training in map reading, patrolling and methods of instructing native personnel.

The Green Beret students then received instruction in one of the five basic skills found in a special forces detachment—medical, communications, intelligence and operations, engineering and demolitions and weapons.

They concluded their training with a six-week course in special forces tactics and techniques and in the uses of intelligence and psychological operations.

Discussion on Brutality in Sports Slated on TV Program

East Lansing—Geraldine Page, Keir Dullea, Kack Albertson, Rip Torn, Hurd Hatfield and Earl Holliman star in Lillian Hellman's suspense-filled drama "Montserrat" on Hollywood Television. The show is at 10 p.m. Sunday, March 28, on WMSB (Channel 10), Michigan State University television.

The highly charged two-hour production is set in Venezuela in 1812 during the Bolivar liberation movement. In the story, Monserrat, a young officer in the Spanish occupation army who has transferred his allegiance to Bolivar, is forced to choose between revealing the rebel leader's hiding place or the deaths of six innocent people.

Keir Dullea is cast as Monserrat with Rip Torn as Izquierdo, the Spanish colonel who is determined to extract Bolivar's location from the young officer by any means necessary. Realizing that Monserrat cannot be made to talk to save his own life, the Spanish colonel plays on Monserrat's humanity by ordering the execution of six citizens seized at random from the town square.

The six hostages, including Geraldine Page as a young mother and Jack Albertson as a wealthy merchant, have their own deep and personal reasons for wanting either to live or die.

In previews, the production has already received wide acclaim from the press, including that of Bettelou Peterson, Detroit Free Press television critic.

Other WMSB highlights include:

CHANGING WORLD OF SPORTS
Does a sport like football build character, sportsmanship and self-discipline or does it develop the baser elements, for example, the killer instinct? A number of former sports professionals express their feelings on brutality, racism and drugs in the sports world as Reality's presents "Take Me Out of the Ball Game" at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, March 28.

Dave Meggys, who spent six years as a linebacker with the St. Louis Cardinals, leads off the series of filmed interviews, contending that football "reflects the ideology of the death culture in this country."

George Sauer, New York Jets wide receiver for seven years, shares Meggys's aversion to violence in sports and disagrees with the idea that man's aggressive nature should be vented on other men.

In another area, Harry Edwards, leader of the Olympic Project for Human Rights which staged protests at the 1968 Olympics, discusses the lack of progress in eliminating racial discrimination in sports.

Jack Scott, former track star at Syracuse University and now director of the Institute for the Study of Sport and Society, adds his comments on the concept of discipline as it is practiced in sports.

MELINDA MERCOURI
Melinda Mercouri, the vibrant star of "Never On Sunday" and passionate crusader for Greek liberation, is spotlighted on Fanfare at 9 p.m. Sunday, March 28.

In an hour program filled with Greek songs and dance, cameras follow Miss Mercouri during her travels and performances in New York, Boston, Stockholm, Paris and London.

The irrepressible and volatile actress relates her opinions on the ruling Greek junta and how the political upheaval in her native land has caused her to change from an actress and sex symbol image to an ardent political activist.

In other segments, she is seen singing a Greek song in Stockholm while tears run down her cheeks, dancing and singing at a concert in Boston, and entertaining at a freedom rally.

KEN MAYNARD RIDES AGAIN

The first singing cowboy, Ken Maynard, grabs his guitar and saddles up on They Went That 'a Way at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, March 28.

Though Maynard was the first of the Western heroes to try singing, he was far from an outstanding vocalist. The advantage which Maynard had over other cowboy competitors was his horsemanship. Before his entry into films he had been a world champion rodeo rider. His skill on horseback and his ability to do his own leaps and falls gave his films added impetus of close-up action shots.

Maynard's career spanned the transition from silent to sound films, and excerpts from both types are shown on the program.

BAND BOOSTERS Don Schoenberg, (from left) Don Pierson, and President Ed Alkin were present Saturday morning to present three percussion cabinets to band leader, Warren Mayer. The cabinets, which were constructed by Schoenberg and Pierson, both professional carpenters, were made with materials purchased by the Boosters. They are fashioned of solid core mahogany, with mahogany veneers, and blue carpeting on top to cut down on the noise factor during concerts. According to Mayer, the cabinets, one for each band, may be rolled onto the stage during concerts, where members of the percussion section may find their necessary music, and any assorted small instruments at any time. The boxes may be locked to help cut down on damage to the instruments, Mayer claimed. Among other recent Boosters projects was the presentation to the Junior High school band of 30 new band jackets to help suit next year's eighth grade band—which will be even larger than this year's! Next project on the docket for this ambitious group is to provide the bands with a set of tape recorders, two monaural, and one stereo, with all necessary recording microphones, and speakers. The "mono" machines will be to record practice sessions, while Mayer claims he will use the stereo recorder to tape band concerts.

The forum is to include a panel discussion that will point to an open dialogue on the conservation needs of Esch's district, and conservationists from throughout the entire second district are being urged to attend.

Forums of this type have been presented by Congressmen Esch in the past for conservationists and other interested persons from Southeast Michigan. This year's event will be held at the Botanical Gardens, at 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., in Ann Arbor. Within a short period the names of the participating panelists will be announced by Esch's office.

The agenda on the 27th will include opening remarks by the Congressman, as well as a presentation on the outlook for federal legislation being proposed in Congress.

The hours will be from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and it is not open clinic but rather one for Chrysler employees and their families who will benefit from this drive.

CARD OF THANKS
In this small way I wish to thank the Chelsea Blood Bank, and all who called on me in the hospital, and to the Chelsea Farm Bureau, Salem Grove Church, and relatives and friends for the flowers and gifts.
Clifford Heydlauff.

THANK YOU
A thank you note for all the cards, gifts, visits and prayers during my stay in the hospital from all my friends, neighbors, relatives, and a special thank you to Mrs. Barnes.
Douglas Hansen.

THANK YOU
I want to thank all my friends and relatives who sent me flowers and called at the hospital. Thanks especially to the Altar Society, and to the VFW who sent me the plant, and especially my daughter Pat, and Bruce, for looking after Mr. Bycraft.
Mrs. Charles Bycraft.

THANK YOU
I would like to thank all my friends, relatives and neighbors for the many cards, calls, and visits while I was in the hospital, and since my return home. All these acts of kindness were greatly appreciated.
Norman Hinderer.

GARY MONTANGE, left, is Chelsea's co-captain of the wrestling team this year. The senior grappler has wrestled only since last season and managed to advance to State competition which was held several weeks ago in Sturgis. The 132 pounder had a 17-10-2 record going into the state meet. Gary placed first in the district competition, and took a third place in the regional meet. Gary is an outdoorsman, and loves all kinds of outdoor sports, hunting, fishing, horseback riding, and swimming. Recently he has added snowmobiling to his list of favored activities. Although he is presently undecided about which college he would like to attend, he is aiming for the smaller school. His ambition is to follow a career in conservation. He is a member of St. Mary Catholic church. Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Montange, 1964 Ivey Rd. He has a brother, Ronald, who is married and lives in Ann Arbor, and a sister, Kathy, also in Ann Arbor. A younger brother, Mark, lives at home, and is also a member of the wrestling team. Mark accompanied Gary to the state meet, where he placed second.

LARRY JONES, wrestling at 126 pounds, is a junior on the squad. He ended the season with a 14-6-2 record. Larry took a third place in this year's district meet, to finish the season on a fine note. This is his third year on the team. Other sports which interest him are water-skiing, and "sand-lot" football. He likes to swim, and loves all kinds of water sports, as his family owns a boat. He also likes to camp on family outings. Larry builds model cars in his free moments, slot cars, and regular models, and races them. His favorite hobby during wrestling season, though, he claims, is eating! And now that the season is over, he is most likely doing a lot of that! His 126 pound category has been abandoned this past year on several occasions as he has had to wrestle at weights as high as 138 pounds. His career goals include architecture, and Larry does a lot of drawing. He lives at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Jones, 6051 Sibley Rd. He has one sister, Terri, who is in the eighth grade.

Red Cross Starting Program Of Entertainment for Hospitals

Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross is sponsoring a new program which will provide entertainment for area hospitals. All people, whether young or old, who possess the talent for entertaining are invited to participate in this rewarding service.

Singing groups, soloists, and instrumentalists will have the opportunity to move from room to room and perform at small get-togethers of patients. From time to time, variety shows will be held in which many of the groups will be able to perform in front of a large audience.

Participants should be able to volunteer a few hours a week and will be asked to perform at various hospitals in the Ann Arbor area. Anyone unable to entertain on a regular basis but who would enjoy participating occasionally, should not hesitate to inquire about this program. If they possess any ability to entertain others, they will find this

THANK YOU

I would like to thank all my relatives, for the pretty flowers, and all good care they gave Mr. Reed, while I was in the hospital, the VFW for their lovely plant and card, and for all the nurses and the aides that were so good to me, and a special thanks to Dr. Fisher for all his visits at the Chelsea Community Hospital in Chelsea.

Mrs. Frank Reed.

Drag Club Sees Movie on Auto Safety

Palmer Ford Drag Club had the largest meeting of the season Wednesday, March 10. Main feature of the program was a discussion with Cpl. Robert Fitzgerald of the Jackson State Police post. He showed a movie concerning auto accidents, their causes and the results. He also discussed safety requirements on all cars, and a new speed-trap system.

Plans for the Road Rally to be held April 18 were discussed. The route will cover 50 to 60 miles in the surrounding area. All proceeds of the rally will be given to the United Fund.

Richard Bollinger, program chairman, is responsible for the establishment of the route for the event, which is open to the public as well as club members.

A dozen more club jackets have been ordered for club members, the club reported.

It was announced that the next meeting is to be Wednesday, April 14 at 7:30 p.m. Jon Brantmeier, national chairman of the FMA will discuss the regional drag meeting, which is to be held on May 8 at Milan, Dragway. Prizes valued at $1,500 will be available at this meet, which will draw competition from Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Eastern Pennsylvania drag club members.

Brantmeier will also discuss plans for the Ford Motorsport Association National Event, which will be held June 11, 12, and 13, at Dearborn. This event covers all 50 states, and will feature every kind of racing event, drag, road racing, funkanas, and sports car rallies.

Marie Smith, a member of the local drag club, will be the club's photographer at all of the upcoming events in which the club will participate.

All interested persons are invited to attend Drag Club meetings. Next meeting is April 14, at 7:30 p.m.

DONT LITTER TRAILS

A good conservation tip! "Don't litter along our Nature Trails," says William F. Hopkins, chief naturalist for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. There are HCMA Nature trails at Metropolitan Park near Milford, Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park near Ann Arbor and Lower Huron Park near Belleville.

Farm Program Set-Asides Established

Farmers who choose to participate in the 1971 farm programs will have an acreage set-aside in each program they sign up for—20 percent of their feed grain base and 75 percent of their wheat allotment.

These set-aside percentages, which were announced as tentative prior to the special January survey of farmers' planting intentions, have now been established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Raymond Gimbach, chairman of the Washtenaw County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

Under the new farm programs, participants will make their set asides, maintain their farms conserving bases, and be free to use the rest of their cropland as they choose, except for crops under marketing quotas or other controls—peanuts, rice, tobacco, extra long staple cotton, and sugar cane.

The ASC committee chairman pointed out that in this respect the setaside farm programs are quite different from any previous farm programs. "For the first time, the allotments and bases for a farm do not dictate to a farmer the number of acres he is allowed to plant to a specific crop. Allotments and bases are used to figure the setaside acreages and price-support payments, not to limit production of any one crop," Gimbach said.

The set-aside principle is based on the fact that U. S. farmers are able to produce more farm products than the market will absorb at good prices. By using set aside acreage to limit overproduction generally, the programs leave individual farmers free to grow the crops which give them the most net profit. Crop-by-crop acreage restrictions are no longer in effect for wheat and feed grains.

Sign-up for the feed grain and wheat programs opens March 1 and continues through April 9 at ASOS county offices. Notification of farm allotments and bases has been mailed to producers, along with informational material on the 1971 programs.

The 20 percent set-aside requirement for feed grain establishes a preliminary payment of 32 cents per bushel for corn and 29 cents per bushel for grain sorghum times the yield established for the farm times one-half the corn and grain sorghum base. Participants in the feed grain program will be guaranteed a national average of $1.35 a bushel on production from half their corn base, and $1.24 a bushel ($2.21 a hundredweight) on half their sorghum base.

Payments to participating feed grain producers will begin as soon as possible after July 1.

The certificate payment for wheat will depend on the July parity price for wheat and the national average market price received during the first five months of the marketing year. The loan level for wheat will be $1.25 a bushel, national average. Producers will receive preliminary payments equal to 75 percent of the estimated face value of the certificate soon after July 1. The remainder will be paid after Dec. 1.

Eaton Rapids School Children Visit Chelsea

Raymond Dove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dove, of Eaton Rapids, and approximately 100 classmates from the Eaton Rapids Elementary school visited the Chelsea Milling Co., and the North American Rockwell plant in Chelsea Friday, March 19.

Raymond, who is 11, was born in Chelsea, and lived here with his family until October, 1970, when they moved to Eaton Rapids.

One sister still remains in Chelsea.

Primary purpose of the youngsters' trip was to see the machines in the two plants in action, in conjunction with a subject they are currently covering in science class. They were accompanied on their visit by their teacher, Mr. Coglianese.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

An atheist says there is no God because he has no God in his heart. He does not recognize God's presence because he has no sense of His presence. He responds to anti-God propaganda but refuses to listen to those who try to change his opinion.

Simply put, there are believers and non-believers. Only one can be right. The other must be mistaken. Both face an unpredictable future but both know there will be a natural course in life's termination. When this happens—for the sake of illustration—let's suppose the atheist is right. Let's suppose there is no God; let's suppose there will be no eventual confrontation with God. In that case, what has either the believer or the non-believer lost? The answer is obvious. Nothing. On the other hand, let's suppose there is a God; let's suppose the believer and the non-believer both face an eventual confrontation with Him. In that case, what does the believer stand to gain, the non-believer stand to lose? Without presupposing the magnitude of God's mercy, or how He will exercise it, doesn't it seem logical the believer will lose less and gain more than the non-believer? Does this make sense? We think it does . . . BURGHARDT

TRAVEL SERIES FEATURE: The Yankee, a specially designed ship which is a cross between an ancient sailing galleon, and a modern motorized yacht, is capable of sailing almost anywhere. Some of the Yankee's ports of call will be shown Saturday evening, March 27, at the Kiwanis Travel Series at the High school auditorium, at 8 p.m.

Waterways Tour of Central Europe Shown in Travelogue

Captain Irving Johnson, internationally known author, sailor, and lecturer, will present Saturday evening's continuation of the winter 1971 Kiwanis Club travel series on March 27, at 8 p.m. at the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Captain Johnson's travelogue, entitled "Yankee Sails Inland, Mediterranean to the Baltic," will follow the travels of a remarkable and interesting ketch of Johnson's own design through the canals and rivers of central Europe. Scenes of France, Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland, Germany, and Denmark will be included in this unusual film series.

Johnson's vessel is a cross between an ancient sailing galleon and a modern motorized yacht. It is able to sail almost anywhere, and the Johnson family has taken this ship across Europe 18 times, and a similar vessel around the world seven times.

Born on a farm in Massachusetts Johnson started his interesting career by sailing a four-masted bark, "Peking," round Cape Horn in 1929. In 1930 he was mate of the "Shamrock V" an America's Cup challenger, on its return crossing to England.

During World War II, he served with the United States Navy and is now a member of the Navy Reserve with the rank of Captain.

Johnson and his wife have co-authored many books, among which are "Around the Horn in a Square Rigger," "Shamrock V's Wild Voyage Home," "Westward Bound in the Schooner Yankee," "Sailing to Sea," "Yankee's Wander World," and "Yankee's People and Places." A series of OES specials for the National Geographic Society has made them a world famous husband and wife sailing adventure team.

FLOWER GARDEN
Planning is important to a successful flower garden. Some things to consider: type of bloom, height, type of branching, speed of multiplication, sunlight requirements, color and texture of flowers and foliage, size of bloom and susceptibility to insects.

Anything worth having is worth going after—start today.

Planned Parenthood Start Drive for $47,000

Planned Parenthood week is March 21 to 28. At that time, the program will conduct a drive to meet a needed $47,000 goal. The agency, which is supported largely through research grants, fees from those patients able to pay, a fund-raising campaign, and, since 1966, a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, has a wide variety of services.

An "outreach" clinic is sponsored in Chelsea, Milan, Ypsilanti, and Ann Arbor, to provide services that include taking information into the homes of women, telling them about the availability of family planning methods, making appointments for them at clinics, and helping them with transportation to clinics.

Follow-up of patients with visits to their home is also included, made by neighborhood aides, and/or a nurse to make sure each patient is satisfied with the birth control method she has chosen, and understands how to use it.

Many of the patients of Planned Parenthood are referrals from other health and social agencies. Aides are kept busy making appointments and helping patients with referrals to other agencies for various kinds of problems including family service, clothing needs, mental health and camperships.

Through the efforts of Planned Parenthood, 94 families were directed to private doctors or hospitals, 114 families to the public health department, 58 to Legal Aid, 103 to County Social Service, 85 for emergency housing, and 277 to other agencies, in the past year.

Also, more than 2,769 patients were seen during this last year by the various clinics at least once, for a pelvic examination, cancer test, and prescription for contraceptives, diaphragm, oral pill, intrauterine device, and so on.

A new direction for the organization during the past year has been the establishment of the nation's fifth male sterilization clinic. Opening June, 1970, the clinic has had an amazing response. To date, about 500 vasectomies have been performed, and the waiting list reaches from 350 to 400. At the present time, the clinic performs about 30 such operations per week, on an out-patient basis, at their regularly scheduled clinics.

Mrs. Pauline Hines, Community Relations Director, is presently working with Planned Parenthood, to help organize a program with the local unions in the area, to

Tree Windbreaks Improve With Age

By Clark A. Eacker
District Conservationist

Some things improve with age. The older they get the better they perform. This is true of tree windbreaks. As the trees in a windbreak grow taller they provide more effective wind protection.

Windbreaks can reduce wind currents up to a distance of about 20 times the height of the trees. A windbreak 30 feet high would protect an area 600 feet wide.

Tree windbreaks have a variety of uses. They may be used as field windbreaks to reduce soil blowing on cropland. As living snow fences they can hold snow out of roads and driveways. When planted around homes and buildings they can serve as effective barriers to high winds and cold wintry blasts. Studies show that windbreaks can reduce home fuel costs by 15 percent or more.

Evergreens such as pine and spruce make excellent windbreaks. They afford year-round protection and are usually long-lived. During the wintry month of March, a good dense tree windbreak around a home site can really be appreciated.

It is wise to do some careful planning before planting a tree windbreak. The location of the windbreak is very important. If it is established too close or too far away from the area to be protected it will not be very effective and may even prove to be a hindrance.

Consideration should also be given to the site on which the wind-results, tree species used should be adapted to the soil and site conditions on which they are planted.

If you would like more information regarding tree windbreaks, contact the Soil Conservation Service office at 6101 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor, 48103. The Soil Conservation Service stands ready to assist you in planning and laying out your windbreak plantings.

Rotate Cans of Stored Food To Prevent Possible Spoilage

Ever wonder if those aging cans of food in your cupboard are still safe to eat? If they are more than one year old, the safest thing is to toss them out, according to B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

What often appears to be a perfectly sealed container may have developed pin holes from rust, or inside. Sometimes, even a scratch from acid eating away at the can or dent in a container can break the seal and allow air to enter.

"When air seeps into the container, microbial action produces spoilage within a very short time," Ronald M. Leach, food inspector chief, said. "If the ends of the can are swollen or bulged, it is a good indication the item has spoiled and is producing pressure in the container."

Some vegetables and fruits are high in acid content and have a much shorter shelf life than canned milk products or other processed foods. All canned foods should be stored in a dry place at a temperature of 70 degrees or less, Leach said.

Rotation of canned goods can prevent loss due to spoilage, Leach added. Fruit juices should be rotated every three to six months, and prepared foods every six months to one year. If you have a question about canned or processed food, contact your local Food Inspection office or the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Food Inspection division, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

Out-of-State Insurance Companies Licensed To Operate in Michigan

Lansing—Two out-of-state insurance companies have been authorized to do business in Michigan, the Insurance Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce announced recently.

The Insurance Bureau announced that it has authorized St. Paul Title Insurance Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., to sell title insurance and Employers Casualty Co. of Dallas, Tex., to sell automobile and workmen's compensation insurance.

Erosion Control Discussed In Soil Conservation Bulletin

Much of what the Soil Conservation Service has learned about erosion and sediment control on farmland in the last 30 years can be applied to urban land development, says a new USDA Publication, "Controlling Erosion on Construction Sites."

Erosion from urban land development is about 10 times greater than on land in cultivated row crops, 200 times greater than land in pasture, and 2,000 times greater than land in timber. Much of the eroded soil becomes sediment, the nation's largest single pollutant of water.

The new bulletin, by USDA's Soil Conservation Service, points out that erosion and sediment formation can be greatly reduced by the following methods:

—Use soils best suited for the proposed development.

—Leave soil bare the shortest possible time.

—Reduce the velocity and control the flow of run-off.

—Detain run-off on the site to trap sediment.

From Eva Raniere, Chicago, Ill.: I remember having my skin stick to the outside pump handle, in zero days, when we needed water for our large family. When our new home was built, only the kitchen of the old log house remained to cook in for our family, plus the carpenters, so we all slept one summer in a granary, and mother was pregnant. I used to set traps for rabbits, as each of my older brothers did. Each morning, before walking two miles to school, we would go out into the woods in the wintry cold to see if we had been lucky enough to catch something.

From Freda Albert, Andover, O.: I remember in the early 20's when we children used to walk nearly two miles to the one-room country schoolhouse.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER:

"I have this problem. I'm going steady with one boy. We've been going together for two months. I like him very much. There is another boy, who is one of my best friends. We have been friends for eight years. I found out today that he likes me. We were talking in the hall at school. He said he was very hurt because he liked me and I liked someone else. He also said that he would not talk to me any more because of this. I love the guy I'm going with and I don't want to break up, but also I don't want to lose the other guy's friendship. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: The choice really belongs to your older friend and you should let him make it.

Simply tell him that you are sorry he feels that way and hope that he can change his mind and remain friends. If you were nothing more than friends, he has no right to insist that you be his friend and his alone. Put it to him in this manner. He may be unhappy for a time, but if he is your friend, he'll get over it.

If you have a teen-age problem you want to have discussed or an observation to make, address your letter to "For and About Teen-Agers," Community and Suburban Press Service, in care of this newspaper.

new REGULATIONS ALLOW more favorable HOME MORTGAGES

Newest regulations have broadened lending policies permitting us to offer more favorable home mortgage terms. Interest rates have apparently passed their peak and we feel that now is a good time to go ahead with plans to build or purchase a home. Housing costs, including labor and materials are increasing at a rate of about 8 percent a year.

A HOME IS ONE OF THE BEST BUYS. The mortgage interest rate is much lower than the cost of borrowing money to buy a car or a color TV set. Bargains are available today, particularly in the existing home market and builders are trying to satisfy the demand for basic values with new models that are long on square footage and short on frills.

WE HAVE MORTGAGE MONEY AVAILABLE. More than any other financial institution in the area, because the primary investment of our monies goes into home loans. We offer conventional, HUD (FHA) and VA mortgages. We're interested in helping you to buy or build now under the most favorable mortgage terms available.

TEACHER TOPICS

A CASE FOR FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Let's face it! Most colleges and universities are dropping foreign language as an entrance requirement. Kids claim that foreign language is no longer "relevant"—and to some extent they are right! Why then should a child take either Latin or French when he goes to Chelsea High school?

The most obvious answer is that a foreign language helps the child understand his own language better. Linguists have shown that in order for a person to begin to understand a foreign language, he must understand his own; therefore, the child is compelled to sort out his own language in his mind as he learns the foreign language. Naturally, the foreign language has added many terms and expressions to our own language so the foreign language is an aid in vocabulary expansion. Latin, for example, is widely used in medical, legal, and governmental fields. Terms like "habeas corpus," "et cetera," and "persona non grata" are typical expressions used even today. French, also, has provided us with often used expressions such as, "coup d'état," "à la carte," "joie de vivre," "suspense du jour," "chercher la femme" and "eau de Cologne."

We can even understand why the first Michigan settlers called their towns Detroit, Au Clair, Grosse Ile, and Cadillac when French is studied. A better appreciation of our own heritage and culture is just one of the "by-products" in a foreign language class.

Another advantage to learning a foreign language is that of becoming acquainted with another people and another culture, thereby considerably broadening a student's horizons. A people is reflected in its language; the fact that the Romans had hundreds of words for war and as few as five for peace indicates the warlike nature which built the largest empire the world had then seen; they also had many words to describe their republican forms of government but fewer than 10 to describe the imperial government.

Modern foreign languages are now being taught via a "cultural approach." Grammar, then, is not the main focus in the classroom.

Everyday life, as lived by a Frenchman becomes the central classroom topic, as well as the various regions of France, Canada, and other French-speaking areas of the world. In this way, foreign language and culture are learned simultaneously.

Every person who travels abroad becomes a sort of "mini-ambassador" from his native country. Each year hundreds of Americans travel to foreign countries with the idea in mind that everyone there speaks English. Many misunderstandings do occur as a result of this misconception, and in this respect, our country's "ambassadors" fail miserably. Courses in foreign languages not only provide an alternative to these failures, but can also afford a more meaningful and enjoyable trip abroad as far as an appreciation of the people and their culture is concerned.

In being introduced to a new people, there is a new literature and body of ideas to be exposed to. Some of the world's greatest men—like Voltaire, Rousseau, Cicero, and Horace, can only best be understood and appreciated when one also knows and understands the language in which they wrote. No English translation can ever do them justice as some ideas simply are untranslatable in English as it does not have adequate tools to do so.

Finally, quite a few people feel that studying a foreign language has a great deal of "snob appeal." The ability to speak another language becomes, in their eyes, a social status symbol. We feel that when all the facts are considered, the study of a foreign language is not a status symbol, but a necessity.

TIPS for your TOP from

TODDY and FRAN

A wig is probably the most inexpensive beauty item you can buy. It lasts lots longer than cosmetics, so the per-minute-of-wear price is relatively minimal. And the value it adds up to when you figure in terms of the self-confidence it gives you, makes its worth incalculable. Going to a job interview, for instance, with the confidence of a model going on stage can mean you'll get the job—you wouldn't get it without that same poise. How valuable is having a wig in that case? Consider the hidden value of your wardrobe—then call us for a fitting. OK?

served a very elaborate dinner for their parents Tuesday evening, March 23, at the Middle school. In a gala showing off of their newly acquired cooking skills. Mrs. Barbara Brown is director of this club, one of the many at Beach Middle school.

Boys Learn Delicate Art of Cooking in Junior High Class

Boys Cooking Club, one of Beach school's many club groups available to all the students, is a very popular activity at the school. Meeting once a week, during activity period, the group learns how to eat the proper meals, and how to cook nutritious "basics." An added attraction is that the boys get to eat everything they cook—and not all that they cook is grouped into that sometimes boring category of foods that are "good for you."

Mrs. Barbara Brown is the leader of this club, and she says the boys' enthusiasm runs high in the activity. According to Mrs. Brown, the boys learn, at the first meeting, the necessity of eating balanced meals, and what the nutritional requirements of boys their age are. They then learn, at future meetings, how to fix these meals. Thus far, Mrs. Brown's group has made hot dog recipes, and hot sandwiches. They have learned how to cook eggs five ways, and have spent one week each on cooking vegetables, making four kinds of salads, and one week on desserts. They have learned such complex things as how to make a pie shell.

At present, there are approximately 26 boys in the class, although every nine weeks there is a turnover, as an new series of activities begins, and the boys must select another.

This past Thursday, the boys in Mrs. Brown's club had a chance to "show-off" for their parents. They cooked an entire elaborate meal for the folks, which included appetizers, meat loaf, twice baked potatoes, vegetable, an orange sherbet salad, cherry pie, and fresh baked bread—made by the boys themselves!

At a future meeting these ambitious new cooks will try a Mexican theme, making a variety of Mexican foods, including chili. Mario Trevino, a member of the group, of Mexican origin, promised to give a demonstration of this topic.

Incidentally, according to Mrs. Brown, turn-about is fair play at Beach. With the admission of boys into the home economics rooms, it would not be fair to ban the ladies from the shop rooms. She indicated that at present, there are a number of girls at Beach school, who are currently enrolled in some of the school's shop courses, to learn the manly (?) arts of building.

Scout-O-Rama Show Slated for April 24-25

"Save Our Earth," the third annual Scout-O-Rama, sponsored by the Portage Trails Council of Boy Scouts, will be presented April 24 and 25, at Yost Field House on State St., in Ann Arbor. Doors open Saturday, from 2 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. and on Sundays, from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Richard Kennedy, secretary to the President of the University of Michigan, and chairman of this year's event, stated, "Scout-O-Rama" serves two purposes. It gives boys in all levels of Scouting a chance to demonstrate their skills and knowledge, and it also gives the public a chance to see what the Scouts are doing."

According to Kennedy, last year's event included Indian dances, pinewood derby races, first-aid demonstrations, Scout cooking skills, and Cub Scout and Webelos projects.

Scout crafts seen at this year's Scout-O-Rama, are not for sale. Kennedy added, although many of the crafts will offer free samples of their work, ranging from leather bookmarks, to hot doughnuts.

Tickets are being sold by all local Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and Webelos. Boys selling tickets will receive special prizes, he claimed. Any scout selling 10 tickets, for example, will receive a patch to wear on his uniform, while other prizes include a knife, canteen, watch, and a sleeping bag.

Forty percent of all ticket money will remain in the individual units, Scout officials claim. This money will go toward the purchase of equipment, subscriptions to Boy's Life, or to be used on trips, and other Scout-oriented purposes.

Mill Creek Council Members Present Data to HCMA Board

Mill Creek Research Council members traveled to Detroit on Thursday, March 11, to attend the monthly meeting of the Huron Clinton Board of Commissioners at the Law Center building. Nine members attended the session.

Dave Bacon, chairman of the Research Council Board of Directors, presented HCMA with copies of a summary of agriculture production, and economic impact studies recently completed. The studies cover some 14,000 acres in the Mill Creek Basin, upstream from the proposed Guenther Rd. impoundment.

Donald DuRussell, Ralph DuVulder, and Sylvester Webber spoke briefly of their concern regarding changes in drainage.

Huron Clinton has arranged to have Ernest Brater, professor of hydraulic engineering at the University of Michigan, make a study of possible changes in the water table and flow rate both upstream, and downstream from the impoundment. This is to be done in May and June, at a cost not to exceed $4,000. HCMA has also met with the State Soil Conservation Office in Lansing on the same problem.

One of the commissioners stated that even though such studies showed probability of undesirable changes in drainage, and water flow, it did not necessarily mean that plans for the park would be dropped.

Also attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. William Van Riper, Mrs. Frank Messman, Mrs. Fred Powell, and Mrs. Harold Sias.

The Mill Creek Board of Directors is planning for the annual meeting to be held March 30, at 8 p.m. at the Lima Community Hall.

Election of a new board of directors, and up-to-date reports on the activities concerned with the proposed park are on the agenda.
