Council Okays Plan for Removal of Phosphates

At Tuesday evening's Village Council meeting, April 6, a motion was approved authorizing the consulting engineering firm of Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout, to draw up plans for equipment the village will need to remove phosphorus from the Village's waste water.

According to Fritz Weber, village administrator, the Water Resources Commission has ruled that 80 percent of the phosphorous found in the waste water of sewerage treatment plants must be removed. This action has been pending by the Commission for the past three years. Until this time, Chelsea has had no provisions to remove phosphorous from the Village's waste water.

Weber stated that the new equipment will take approximately four to six months to install, and will cost the village approximately $10,000 to purchase and $10,000 to operate throughout the year.

Most of the phosphorous found in the village's waste water is from the use of high phosphate detergents, and household cleaning products. Weber further noted that many communities, faced with this same ruling by the Water Resources Commission, have passed ordinances which restrict the buying and selling of such products within their limits, or the use of such household products. He said no such ordinance is being considered in Chelsea at this time.

Melvin Leach manager of the Village Sewage treatment plant said that Chelsea presently has about 12 parts per million of phosphorous in the waste water, which he claims is normal for a municipal area. The phosphorous is primarily from household detergents, although run-offs from the soil, and the use of artificial fertilizers contributes some.

Phosphorous has a fertilizing effect, and causes vegetation and algae to grow in streams at a fast rate, disturbing the balance of nature.

Arden Lane, owned by William Wade, of Butternut Ct., was reported on fire.

At 4:40 p.m. the Chelsea Fire Department was called by the Waterloo Recreation Area headquarters to assist with a grass fire that occurred at the Portage Lake State Park. More than 60 acres of grassland were burned over in the fire.

At 6:45 p.m. Charles Slocum, 17800 M-52, reported a grass fire at his residence.

Chief Gaken commented that most of the fire calls resulted in minor fires, and that one or two trucks were dispatched at each call. In each case he said, the fire was controlled within 15 minutes. Needless to say, the firemen were happy to see the rain come Monday evening, and bring some wetness to the local ground.

Kiwanis Speaker Discusses High Insurance Cost

A total of 56 Kiwanians, and several visitors from the Dexter Kiwanis Club attended Monday evening's meeting, to hear the address by Eugene Smith, of the Jackson office of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Smith showed a slide presentation entitled "Why Auto Insurance Keeps Going Up," and spoke to the members on the modified fault auto insurance plan. The new plan is a proposed change in the auto insurance program to allow for more prompt payment of insurance claims in the event of an accident where fault can not be readily determined.

Smith, who is a graduate of WMU, has been with the Auto Club for 41 years. Prior to entering the insurance field, he was a school teacher.

Monday, at 12:50 p.m., Mrs. Harold Harrison, 1185 Chelsea-Manchester Rd., called in a grass fire, and at 2:40 p.m. land on

Grass Fires Signal Arrival of Spring

It was not a good Friday, Fire Chief Jim Gaken decided this past week, nor was it a good Easter week-end.

Numerous grass fires, due to the advent of the warm dry weather, kept the fire department hopping all week-end as they raced from one grass fire to another.

First call came in at 9:35 Friday morning, from the Duane Luick residence, at 12980 Old US-12. Then at 12:20 p.m. Robert Robbins, at 12250 Gene Dr., reported a grass fire at his residence. Shortly thereafter, at 1:40 p.m. a fire was reported at the Christmas Seal Camp, and at 2:04 the Ernest Cameron property on 17397 Cassidy Rd. reported a fire.

Saturday, April 10, a tract of land on Sylvan Rd., owned by Tom Hekerson of Ann Arbor, was reported in flames at 11:21 a.m., while at 12:55 p.m. a grass fire at 465 Freer Rd., the home of Steve Pawlowsky was reported.

Mrs. Cathy Reynolds, 13662 North Lake Rd., called in to report a fire at her home at 3:20 p.m.

Easter Sunday, at 2:07 p.m. Donald Copin, 16744 Kilmer Rd., reported a grass fire at his residence.

Monday, at 12:50 p.m., Mrs. Harold Harrison, 1185 Chelsea-Manchester Rd., called in a grass fire, and at 2:40 p.m. land on

Four Injured In Collision At Intersection

Dale LeRoy Robinson, 26, of 198 Van Buren St., and his 19-year-old wife, Barbara, were injured Sunday evening, April 4, in an automobile accident at the corner of Cavanaugh Lake and Pierce Rds.

The accident occurred at about 9 p.m. as the couple headed eastward on Cavanaugh Lake Rd. A second car, driven by Labe Dudley Minix, 36, of 18345 Garvey Rd., was headed west on Cavanaugh Lake Rd. Police records state the Minix vehicle attempted to make a left hand turn onto Pierce Rd., failing to yield right-of-way to the Robinson car. The Robinson car hit the second vehicle broadside.

Mrs. Robinson received a broken ankle, and leg lacerations, in the accident, while her husband was badly bruised, and suffered a possible broken nose. They were both taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for treatment.

Minix and a passenger in his car, Lewis Bach, 27, also of 18345 Garvey Rd., both received bruises and blackened eyes. They were taken to the Chelsea Community Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Viola Knoll visited her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Kibot over the Easter week-end. They all visited Mrs. Kibot's parents at Northeast Grand Rapids.

Washington Report by Congressman MARVIN L. ESCH

ed Washington report Chelsea and Congressional attempts to reassert the leadership of Congress in the area of foreign relations are well-known. Indeed, in the last year or so, this has increased. Now, Congress is looking hard at another one of its powers seen ebbing away. This is the power of the purse strings.

A Senate subcommittee has been holding hearings on the impoundment of funds by the Executive. Impoundment comes from a desire by a Chief Executive to avoid spending money which Congress has already directed be spent for specific purposes and programs. Frequently this practice touches vital and sensitive needs, like education, the special milk program, housing, highways, water and sewers. By freezing this money, a President can actually reshape or negate Congressional intent. When a President impounds appropriations, the separation of powers principle, a basic governmental infrastructure, is both thwarted and threatened with extinction.

History will show that every recent President has impounded funds. The precedent dates back to the early days of the Republic. Each has had his own reason. To make out that this President is an ogre for doing so, is unfair and misleading. In fact, Congress must share the blame. For example, there is no mandatory language anywhere that says a President must spend the exact amount appropriated. With the practice of impoundment having been followed down through the years, it is almost ludicrous for members to act shocked when the President freezes money. Furthermore, Congress has already placed a limit on what this President may spend.

Why then do we have all this handwringing? First, it is tempting for the outside to criticize the ins, particularly when there are some crying domestic requirements in the nation. Secondly, whenever one single practice strikes at the heart of the Constitutional principles on which this country was formed, then it is both fitting and proper that we undergo a painstaking examination of the problem. Third, Congress has its pride, and is protective of each and every function. To put Congress in the position of having to lobby the White House on laws it has passed and funds it has appropriated is embarrassing to say the least.

This is a legitimate area of debate. It would be my hope that the Committees involved make firm legislative recommendations. Perhaps we need to raise the spending limitation. There very likely will be worthwhile proposals. But to merely call witnesses, drag the hearings on for weeks, and decry this practice, is not the kind of constructive response our founders would have envisioned.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

You can mark my word, this feller Nader has plowed up a bed of snakes fer shore this time. I see by the papers where he is investigating the way property is valued, and that he says they is unequal methods of figuring what a piece of property is worth.

If ain't never been to strong in this matter, Mister Editor but I know enuff to know that Nader is right. I figger they is as many ways as they is valuers, and ever one of em uses different ways in different places. I allus wonder, fer instant, if a farm is worth the same fer a four-lane road to be build acrost it, as it is fer farming. Fer deced it, as it is sudden worth a heap if a gas station wants to go up on a acre or two after the road is cut thru.

I don't know how fer Nader plans to take his study, but it ought to give us some interesting reading. He goes into how all the Governments sets value on land fer tax purposes. They git some experts to ride around and decide what the country is worth, then they set the tax rates based on these market prices. But they use all kind of per cents fer taxing purposes, so a feller has to be a Philadelphia lawyer to figger how much tax he actual pays on how much value.

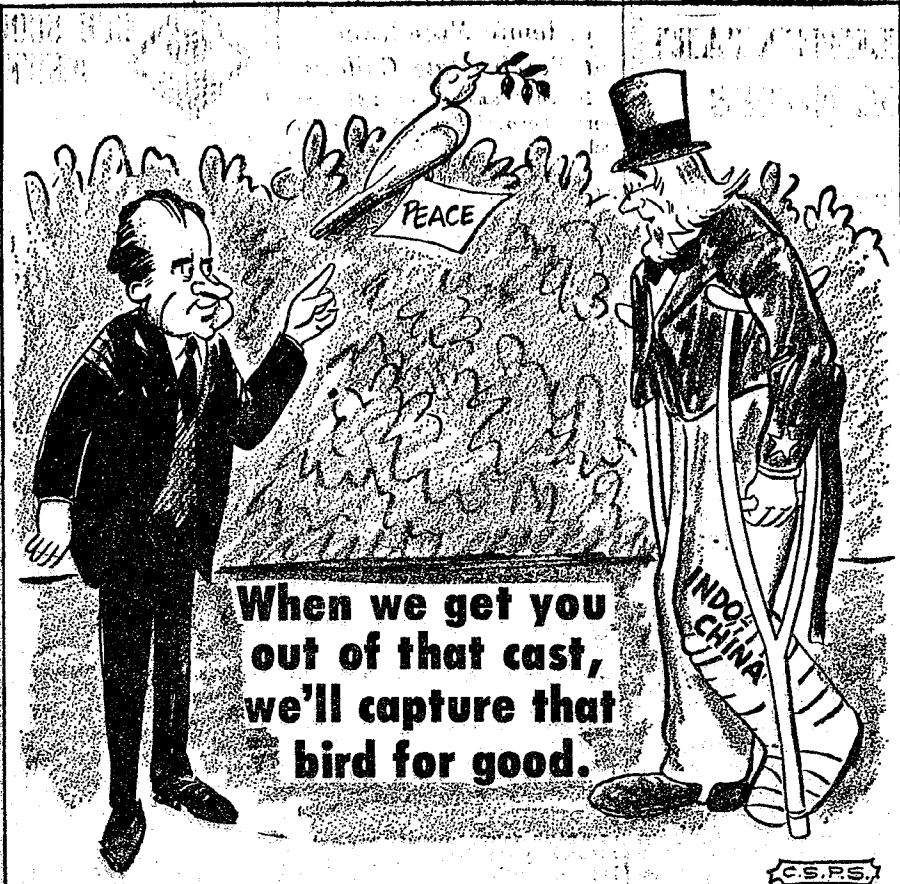

Actual, Mister Editor, I give up trying to understand the ways of Government a long time ago. It has got to the place where dealings with Government agencies is like the newspapers getting a picture of Howard Hughes. You got to git em both stopped afore you can do much with em. And what makes it worse fer Government is that the more they try to make things simple the harder it is to make sense out of em.

I recollect onct where this plumber figgered out that hydrochloric acid would clean out drain pipes, and he wrote to the Department of Agriculture about it. He got a nice letter back that sounded to him like his idea was good. He wrote 'em back and thanked em. It was a long while and a lot of letters afore somebody that hadn't been working fer the Government long got ahold of his letter and wrote him not to use the acid, cause it would eat up the pipes. The plumber said that was the first thing he had ever understood in a Government letter.

A few weeks back when that national alert went out by mistake, I thought about how the more we think we know the more danger we're in. With all the fancy alert equipment we got we still had a human man hooking up the wrong tape recording that sent out a real alert instead of a test.

We ought to keep in mind that Government saying, "What is past is Prologue." I hear that translates "Brother, you ain't seen nothing yet."

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Welfare Costs Rise

Regardless of one's philosophical viewpoint on welfare, it is an incontrovertible fact that a great deal of the state's current fiscal troubles have been produced by welfare spending.

The introduction of new welfare programs such as Medicaid, the increase in benefits paid to recipients and the increase in the number of recipients has been snowballing at a seemingly uncontrollable rate.

For example, in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1969, a total of $466 million was spent by the State Department of Social Services. Of this, $244 million was in state money taken from the general fund. The general fund is the fund into which un earmarked tax dollars go and which is used for operation of the government.

For the fiscal year to begin July 1, Gov. William G. Milliken has asked for $468 million in state funds, alone, and projected a total budget of $919 million, nearly double the totals of only three years ago.

If past years are a guideline, it will take more than that before the year is completed.

The legislature originally budgeted $844 million in the current fiscal year for welfare costs. But it recently was told it will need another $50 million to finish the year, and legislative money men are saying privately that even $50 million won't cover everything.

That $50 million is one-third of the total money shortage which the lawmakers were forced to cover to keep the state in the black.

The problem isn't one which could be solved by merely cutting back on funds, however, unless the welfare setup were thrown out entirely.

The federal matching funds, which pay almost half of the welfare costs in the state, are provided by Congress with definite restrictions. Benefits must be as high as Congress says, and all recipients which Congress okays must be given benefits.

If the state tried to cut back on some benefits, all federal funds would stop. It then would be faced with the dilemma of financing a welfare program all on its own—a staggering financial burden.

"We've got the proverbial tiger by the tail," grumbles one powerful legislator. "And we'll be damned if we can figure out what to do with it. We can't afford to let go, but we can't afford to hold on forever to the current situation either."

A special task force appointed to study the state's welfare situation by Gov. William G. Milliken came up with the same conclusion.

"Federal changes in policy over the past six years have nearly eliminated Michigan's ability to deal with caseload and cost increases," it said. "The federal government mandates change but there is not an increase in federal financial participation."

It said Congress should increase its share of Medicaid payments from 50 percent to 72 percent, a change which would have saved the state $200 million during the coming fiscal year.

Another point needs to be made to keep the matter in perspective.

Despite the feelings of many that many welfare recipients could be working but are just lazy, the report said only 8,200 of the 447,888 persons on welfare of some type in Michigan last June were employable fathers.

(Almost half of the welfare recipients, 221,000, were children under the age of 18 months and another 72,181 were mothers receiving aid to dependent children payments.)

So the question isn't a simple one of getting costs under control by putting all recipients to work or rooting out any corruption which exists. And that's one of the reasons those who have to work with it day in and day out get so frustrated.

Throw Them Out

Housewives should get rid of any canned goods in their cupboards if they've had the can more than one year, according to State Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball.

What often appears to be a perfectly sealed container may have developed pin holes from rust, or acid eating away at the can inside, he says. Sometimes even a scratch or a dent in a container can break the seal and allow air to enter.

"When air seeps into the container, microbial action produces spoilage within a very short time," he adds.

NORTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NOTES

THIRD GRADE—

Mrs. Edmonds, teacher, Reported by Danny, Linda and Felicia

Isn't the weather nice? Cathy brought some Easter lilies that made our room look nice. Kevin brought a salamander which we kept for awhile. We still have Mary Beth's aquarium and John's fish.

We did a play "Winnie, the Pooh" for the first grades. David Morris was Pooh, Cathy French was a rabbit, Felicia was the woodchuck, John Dunn was Eeyore, Kelly Krieger was Christopher Robin. Relatives were Mary Beth, Dawn, Linda, Brad, Barry and Sandy was Piglet. We hope we get to do more plays. It's fun!

In science we're learning about plants. In social studies we're learning about the Mississippi River. Miss Fawcett let us borrow her record about the great river.

THIRD GRADE—

Mrs. Edmonds, teacher Poem by Michal Benedict "The Circus"

The Circus is a lovely place Full of ladies in pretty lace Where lions roar and popcorn galore The circus is a lovely place

I love the lions To watch them roar To watch children scream Listening for some more I love the lions Clowns! Clowns! Clowns! Some running around and upside down Clowns! Clowns! Clowns!

Miss Fawcett, teacher Reporters: Terry Cameron, Judy Norris, Eileen Musolf and Randy

We finished our report on the Mississippi. We had different groups, some of them were floods, boats on the river, cotton, Stephen Foster and others. We put up murals. Stephen Foster's group sang songs Oh Susanna, Old Black Joe, Old Folks at Home and Way Down Upon the Swanne River. They dressed up in long dresses. They were Eileen Musolf, David Boyer, Tina Cross, Judy Norris, Alice Erke, Jim Fitzsimmons and Brenda Clark.

The boat people wrote about tugboats, keelboats, and the River Queen. The floods people made a mural. The people who made the mural were Mark Barnes, Henri Van der Waard, John Drieman, Debbie Collinsworth, and Terry Cameron. Hope you have a good Easter!

Mrs. Hire, teacher Reporters: Karen Updegraff and John Thornbury

We are having a play of Winnie-the-Pooh. Our class is making books about animals. We've made Easter bunnies and straw paintings. When you do a straw painting you can't blow too hard or it will splatter all over you. We made fish out of tissue paper and black paper and put them on the window. When you make an Easter bunny you stuff it with cotton.

FOURTH GRADE— Mrs. Hafer, teacher Reporters: George Bently Kevin Clark and Bobby Poisson

In science we are studying birds. We have been doing a lot of bird watching and we are making bird books. Our books will have 32 pages when we finish. Later we are going to dye rice and make rice birds.

We decorated plastic eggs this week. We used braid, glitter, sequins, etc. They are now hanging on our Easter Egg tree.

We have a new boy in our class. His name is Jeff Stirling and he is from Wisconsin. We hope he will like North School.

Our ceramics have been fired once and now we are ready to paint them.

Nikki Cordin was sick for three weeks and was in the hospital. She is back in school and we hope she stays well.

In social studies we have finished studying Holland and Belgium. Now we are studying Great Britain. Colleen Miller and Marleyn Seitz did our bulletin board on Holland.

Our three reading groups have all finished their books.

We had two magic shows and the people who participated were: Dan Gray, Mark Bear, David Cross, Kelly Gaudet, Mary Noah, Pam Gilbee, Colleen Miller, Michael Smith and Tina Brown.

The birthdays this month are Mitchell Smith, Billy Moore and Ben Kincer.

We have some people traveling for the Easter vacation. Ben Kincer has gone to Arizona, Mark Bear is going to Missouri, Nikki Cordin is going to Chicago and Jeff Eibler is going to Canada.

Mrs. Paplawsky, teacher Reporters: Myra Heard and Becky Dawson

We are doing story problems and division in math, and they are very easy for us. Cindy Bare is brought a cocoon in for the class to see and it hatched on Monday, April 5th, into a beautiful moth.

Mrs. Paplawsky brought in some brine shrimp for us to see, and they hatched.

Bill Kilpatrick helped to make the class news last time, but his name was left out.

Veronica Satterthwaite brought in some little ivory birds. They were very easy to break.

Mrs. Paplawsky said "if 15 people got 100 in spelling we would have a party" and we did! In social studies we studied the Netherlands. It is very interesting.

We have no birthdays this month.

FIFTH GRADE Mrs. Crouch, teacher Reporters: Cheryl Lowry and Gail Erke

Thursday, we are making sand pictures for art.

Mid-East War Seen As Unlikely Prospect

East Lansing—A Michigan State University Middle East expert predicts the recent end of the cease fire between Israel and the Arab nations is not likely to bring open warfare.

"Israel has nothing to gain by attacking the Arabs except more land that it would probably have to give back later anyway," Dr. Edward Azar, assistant professor of political science, said recently.

The miracle man of today has the ability to keep appearances up and expenses down.

Government Grain Bins Offered at Sale in St. Johns

Nick Smith, chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced the first of several public auction sales in Michigan of government-owned grain bins and equipment.

On Monday, April 26, starting at 12:30 p.m., two flat storage bins with a capacity of approximately 40,000 bushels each, 17 round bins with 3,250-bushel capacity each, and one round bin with 2,250-bushel capacity, will be offered for sale by public auction, Smith stated.

Also included at this sale will be many miscellaneous items such as: aeration equipment, electrical equipment, adders, etc., he said.

This sale will be held at the Elsie binsite, Clinton county, located at the north city limits of Elsie, and details of the sale may be obtained by contacting the Clinton County ASOS office, 400 S. Ottawa St., St. Johns 48879. Each purchaser of a bin will be required to certify that the bin will be used in connection with the storage or handling of agricultural commodities or, if purchased by a non-profit agency or organization, an authorized official must certify the bin will be used for the purpose of such agency or organization, Smith stated.

Farmers may finance the purchase of these bins through the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program provided they meet eligibility requirements; however, the prospective purchaser must bring a memorandum from his home county ASOS office so stating his eligibility, Smith advised.

Danny Allen Promoted To Staff Sergeant

Danny D. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Fouty, 18671 Riker Rd., and Ira Allen, Battle Creek, was promoted to staff sergeant (E-5), on April 1. Allen is presently stationed at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., where he is finishing his enlistment.

He is married to the former Sandra Knoll, also of Chelsea. They are residing at 1000 E. Carey, Apt. C, North Las Vegas, Nev.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By LOUIS BURGHARDT

Do you ever wonder why our most deserving minority group have such few spokesmen and sponsors? Every middle aged man and woman are prime prospects for early induction in this minority group—whether they like it or not. This minority group is composed of our elderly people, often referred to as "senior citizens." Only occasionally do you hear a voice speaking up in their behalf.

Regardless of capacities and capabilities, these people are being 'put to pasture' in mandatory and shameful fashion. Lots of them deserve preferential consideration for continued employment but rarely receive even equal rights. This represents a horrible waste of valuable manpower. More importantly, it is disgraceful from a moral viewpoint to deny people with vigor, ability and know-how—the right to work. These same people are urged to take advantage of our superb facilities to increase their life span. What good does it do to add years to life without adding zestful, useful life to the years? Why is it not realized that age, in terms of years, should be a boon, not a bust, for those who have what it takes and are able to deliver? ... BURGHARDT FUNERAL HOME, 214 East Middle St., Chelsea, Mich. Phone GR 5-4141.

JENNIFER TROYER, who visited the Kingdom of Laos, and Thailand over Christmas vacation, posed in front of this baby elephant while touring the Thai city of Bangkok. 3rd Grader Spends Holidays With Grandmother in Laos

Eight-year-old Jennifer Troyer visited the Kingdom of Laos over the Christmas holidays, accompanying her aunt on a visit to Jennifer's grandmother. Her aunt, Miss Christina Lundberg, who is working with the Head Start program in Jackson, Miss., took Jennifer along as she visited her mother, Mrs. Athalie Lundberg in Vientian, Laos.

Mrs. Lundberg is presently working with the Dooley Foundation in the country's capital. A registered medical technologist, she is teaching men and military personnel the basics of medical technology, blood matching, and urine tests. She has been in the country for more than a year, working on an 18-month program, which she expects to renew in June. As a member of the Dooley Foundation, she receives room and board, and $100 a month stipend. Jennifer and her aunt left Detroit on Dec. 19, and flew by jet to San Francisco, Anchorage, Tokyo, Hong Kong, and then Bangkok. Mrs. Lundberg met them in Bangkok, and the three spent a few days seeing Thailand.

They then boarded a train for Laos. The group spent the remainder of the time visiting the various hospitals established by the Dooley Foundation all over the tiny country. Jennifer accompanied a small boat, sponsored by the Foundation, as it made its way down the Mekong River to the many villages along the river, stopping for a "sick call" at each village.

Since she was the first American child which many of the Laotians had ever seen, she caused quite a stir among the natives. The Laotians have seen many American military personnel, but had never seen a white child.

Returning Jan. 9, the eight-year-old returned to her third grade classroom, filled with memories and souvenirs to show her classmates. She is a student in Mrs. Hannuksela's class at South school.

Jennifer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Troyer, 16345 McClure Rd. She has a younger brother, Doug, who is 6, and a sister, Bethany, 11.

THE LANSING REPORT

FROM

GIL BURSLEY

Before the current session of the legislature reaches final adjournment, it may well go down in history as the "year of the tough decisions."

Normally, three or four tough decisions—exclusive of taxes, which is always a hard decision—are par for the course. But this year the agenda is filled with several of those emotional issues bound to generate hard feelings no matter which way the vote goes.

The Senate already has taken action on at least four "toughies." They include liberalizing of abortion laws, state employees' raises, lowering of the legal alcoholic content of a driver's blood, and extending the coyote bounty.

The bill to liberalize the state's abortion laws which I sponsored, passed by the slimmest majority of 20 votes after heavy pressure from both sides of the highly emotional issue. Because of the make-up of the house leadership, the bill is expected to encounter formidable procedural roadblocks, which may even prevent a house vote on the issue.

When the people of Michigan adopted their Constitution in 1963, they made it virtually impossible for the legislature to do anything but accept civil service commission recommendations for pay raises of state employees. They did this by requiring a two-thirds vote of the legislature to override the commission. Despite demands by the Governor that the commission's recommendations be overturned, the proposal to slash pay increases for state employees received far fewer than the required votes to override in the Senate. The recommended raises were less than those provided in most industrial contracts negotiated this year and less than several substantial raises given members of the governor's staff. Largely because of pressure from northern areas of the state, a bill to end coyote bounties in Michigan failed to pass despite strong backing from the Department of Natural Resources and most conservation interests in the state. Similar bills are still alive in the Senate Conservation Committee, however. One of these bills I am sponsoring.

State safety and law enforcement officials were pleased at Senate passage of the bill to lower from .15 to .10 percent the alcoholic content of a motorist's blood on which legal assumption can be made of driving under the influence of intoxicants. This is expected to result, if approved by the House and signed by the Governor, in more effective enforcement of laws involving drinking drivers. I strongly support this measure.

Many other issues of importance lie ahead, several of which may be expected to generate much "heat" before they are settled. They include:

Legalizing dog racing in Michigan.

Increasing the gasoline and diesel taxes to help provide money for a mass transit system in southeastern lower Michigan and to speed highway construction in other parts of the state.

Increasing the sales tax one cent and earmarking the funds for anti-pollution projects (this would ultimately require a constitutional amendment and a vote by the people at a general election, if approved by the Legislature).

Tightening regulations governing operation of snowmobiles in response to many complaints from people about property damage and excessive noise.

Forcing motorists to strap themselves in seat belts and shoulder harnesses.

Lowering voting age and age of majority generally to 18 years to coincide with federal regulations.

Permitting 14-foot wide mobile homes to be transported on highways, which allow them to extend two feet over into the second lane of a normal two-lane highway.

Transferring of $45 million from the uninsured motorists' claims fund to the general fund to help make up a $150 million budget cutback caused by an economic slowdown and the 67-day General Motors strike.

Protecting farmers from confiscatory assessments on property in urban areas that is assessed at potential use, such as industrial or housing developments, instead of actual use, such as farming. Increasing the income tax starting next January to meet rising costs of state government.

Meeting pressures of teachers' organizations for vast increases in school aid funds, which now are almost $1 billion a year.

These are just a few of the knotty issues looming on the horizon. As the session progresses, other "hot potatoes" are almost certain to surface.

My position on some of the leading controversial issues before this year's legislature is as follows:

Abortion Law Reform: I am the principal sponsor in favor of this measure. It has passed the Senate (S.B.3) and is in the House Committee on Social Services and Corrections.

Coyote Bounty Repeal: House passed bill was defeated in Senate. I am sponsoring similar Senate measure. Hope we can get votes for its passage next time.

"Monster" Trailer bill: Measure to permit dangerously wide mobile homes on our highways passed Senate. If it passes House I will urge Governor in strongest terms to veto it.

Mandatory Special Education: This is an important measure for the state's many handicapped children presently receiving inadequate education. I support it but the cost will be a limiting factor.

Bank Holding Companies: I introduced SB 21 which would permit corporations to own bank stock—and thus form holding companies. Michigan is presently

A Mississippian writes: "I would postpone retirement if my company would permit me to do so. All it will bring to me is trouble. I have made plans for years, have acquired a truck-camper, charted a two-year itinerary, set money aside and have just been waiting for the day. Now, my wife says she doesn't want to the only state in all 50 with this ban. Properly regulated bank holding companies could provide additional services to the public and further stimulate the economy. Bill has passed Senate.

Assessment of Farm Land: I support legislation where owners of farm land will be assessed on the value based on its present use. Bills are under consideration.

School Finance: This is perhaps the most important major problem before us. Many solutions are being weighed. As chairman of the Senate Education Committee I am devoting major attention to all aspects of K-12 and higher education.

School Bus Transportation: I am sponsoring legislation to provide for transportation of all K-12 children living over 1 1/2 miles from school building regardless of where city limits lie. Cost factors will restrict adjustments that we can make.

(As Assistant Majority Leader I am participating every Tuesday morning in joint House-Senate Republican leadership discussions geared at maintaining a forward flow of constructive legislation.

leave the old homestead—we have a small farm, only minutes from town. We've talked about taking a trip for years, but when I told her of the plans I have made, she balked. She thought since I have used the camper for week-end fishing trips, we would still take the short trips after retirement. Shouldn't a man who has always made the family decisions continue to do so in retirement years?"

Big decisions, in retirement years, just as in the years before, should be made together. Asking a woman to leave a comfortable home for life on the road is asking a lot—unless she is the outdoor type and really goes for this type of activity. In truth, few women do—the "little" things they do around the home each day are important things because they are things a woman likes to do. When a man retires, he has no further job responsibility—yet his other responsibilities remain. He must continue to provide and protect. He must remember that marriage is a partnership and that each member has responsibilities that must be met in the spirit of cooperation and compromise.

Retirement doesn't bring an entirely new life, with complete freedom from responsibility. Retirement is a period of change and adjustment because there is a new supply of time. It is, for many women, a difficult period, because it brings a change in her pattern of living. But, where

A report of milk production levels attained by dairy cows in the area has been received from Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The actual food production output, recorded in the DHIR program, by these local Registered Holsteins is:

Both are included in the herd tested for Lowell Spike, Manchester. (These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 6,821 lbs. The average homemaker's budget isn't much easier to live with after hubby receives a raise. The reason, one survey concludes, is that Americans tend to spend more as they earn more. Raises are spent on durable goods, or the big purchase to be paid on the installment plan, or placed in a savings account. Additional funds are not channeled into the daily budget.

PEWTER CARE

Pewter is a soft metal and cannot be subjected to harsh polishes and scouring powders when cleaning. For routine care, wash pewter pieces in warm water and mild detergent. Rinse and rub dry. When you feel that polishing is needed, use a silver polish or a commercial cleaner made especially for pewter.

A Chance To Play

By Patrick J. Clarke
Beach School Teacher

Every boy deserves a chance to play organized sports at some time. Not a chance to be just a member of the team but a chance to be a playing part of the team.

The above statement expresses my own personal philosophy on sports in general and particularly on junior high athletics. In thought it is a noble ideal but in reality it is seldom realized.

In the past, as junior high basketball coach, I have attempted to let as many boys as possible play while still attempting to play a game of basketball. The task proved difficult to say the least. Even using a two platoon system involving five different boys a quarter I still had times when 20 to 25 boys were still primarily bench-sitters.

The word bench-sitter has never been an accepted word to me since at junior high age I, myself, because of small size was usually pre-ordained a bench-sitter.

This past season I decided the time had come to make an attempt at a better system for junior high basketball. Two teams of 35 boys each was totally inadequate for about 25 of the boys. My idea was an intramural program for all interested 7th and 8th grade boys, not just the basketball elite.

We started our junior high basketball program this season with 36 7th graders and 35 8th graders out for basketball. The boys practiced for two weeks all together just as they had done in past years. At the end of these first two weeks the more highly developed boys, basketball wise, were assigned to two varsity squads of 15 boys each. The remaining boys needing sometimes just a little more work, but definitely deserving a chance to play were assigned to an intramural league.

The varsities would practice four days a week, while the intramural league would play on Fridays.

After proceeding this far all I needed was some help to run the program. Since no funds were available, all help that was received must necessarily be voluntary. Polling the faculty I was indeed fortunate to find four dedicated individuals to coach intramurals: Mr. Waller, Mr. Lauhon, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Thompson.

The first day of intramurals 55 interested boys showed up for team assignment and practice. These boys made up five teams that played 12 games each over a 10-week season for a grand total of 30 games. A league rule required all boys to play at least one quarter of each game.

Throughout the season the amount of development was truly amazing. The first week two teams were lucky to score 30 points between them, but the last week three players scored 20, 23 and 33 points by themselves.

The following evidence seems to relay the value of and need for intramurals in the junior high. Hopefully this program after having proved itself this year as both popular activity and a valuable learning experience will, with proper financial support, continue and expand to give all the students of the junior high a chance to play.

Water Shortage Cited For U.S. in Near Future

East Lansing—It takes 110 gallons of water to produce one breakfast egg, and nearly 3,000 gallons to produce the food required to feed the average American for one day.

These are a few of the statistics cited by Dr. Georg Borgstrom, professor at Michigan State University and an internationally known geographer and food scientist.

Dr. Borgstrom reports that lack of water will be the most limiting factor in trying to feed an expanding population. However, he discounts desalinization of sea water because of problems of disposing of the salt and transportation of water inland.

Dr. Borgstrom says that the present hydrological cycle can support only about 50 million more people in the United States.

Dana Corp. Shows Drop in Sales, Profits

Dana Corp. has reported sales of $287,600,000 and profits of $9,100,000 for the first six months of fiscal 1971. This compares to sales of $347,600,000 and profits of $18,000,000 for the same period of fiscal 1970.

Earnings per share were 66 cents compared to $1.31 last year.

J. E. Martin, Dana Board chairman, pointed out that although the figures showed a decline from the first six months of last year, there was a marked gain over the first quarter of the current year.

Profits of 37 cents per share for the second quarter compared to 29 cents per share for the first quarter indicate improvements that should continue as the industry returns to more normal volumes, Martin stated.

The Dana chairman expressed optimism for continued improvement during the balance of the year as most indicators show an expansion in the economy with resulting good impact on the transportation industry.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In behalf of the Mill Creek Research Council, we wish to thank the Farmers in the up-stream area of the Mill Creek proposed park for their co-operation in the recent survey which we made of the production of that area.

A special thanks to Frank and Betty Messman for their many hours spent in compiling and typing the figures.

Of the 61 farmers interviewed covering 14,956 acres of farm land, there was a total annual production of $4,839,380.30 (on-the-farm value), table value, $33,879,022.10.

A survey of 3,845 tillable acres in the park area show a total annual production on the farm value of $471,020. A special thank you to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCalla for compiling and typing these figures.

By these surveys we hope to be able to convince the Huron Clinton Park Authority that they should not take this good productive farm land for a park when we have so much other land not suitable for farming that will make just as good a park. It has meant a lot of work but your co-operation has made it pleasant for us.

'70-'71 Winter Sets All-Time Northern Snow Records

Lansing — Southern Michigan residents may lament that their tulips are up only three inches, but Upper Peninsula residents would have to dig through three feet of snow just to find the frozen turf, following one of the most severe northern winters in history.

During the first week in April, many Upper Peninsula areas still had 39 or more inches of snow on the ground. As one Department of State Highways official stationed in northern Michigan put it: "Winter is far from over up here."

As if to bear out the comment, made April 1, as much as 15 inches of new snow fell on Gogebic county and other U.P. areas on April 2-3.

Put bluntly by Rep. Russell Hellman of Dollar Bay (in hard-hit Houghton county), "We don't have any place to put it—hell, our snow budgets were exhausted in January!"

While the 1970-71 winter has been comparatively mild in southern Michigan, the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula are still digging out from one of the most oppressive and long-lasting snows on record. Some counties have obliterated snowfall records that had stood since records were first kept.

As of April 1, average accumulated snowfall for some U.P. counties, compiled from U. S. Weather Bureau figures, was: Keweenaw, 256 inches; Gogebic, 256; Ontonagon, 241; Houghton, 240; Luce, 239; Baraga, 235; Marquette, 217.

Even Delta county, the so-called "banana belt" of the Upper Peninsula, posted an apparent record. Unofficial tabulations in March showed accumulations of 107 inches at Escanaba and 120 inches at Rock.

Accumulated snowfall in populous Wayne county (Detroit) for the same period was just 34 inches. Winter-long snowfall in some other southern counties was: Macomb, 49 inches; Ingham, 27; Monroe, 26; Washtenaw, 20; Lenawee, 18; Jackson, 16; and Hillsdale, 14.

Winter also clobbered most of the northern Lower Peninsula, where 200 inches of snowfall in Antrim county broke all records. Other counties that set new snowfall records this winter included Charlevoix with 196 inches; Otsego, 194 inches; Presque Isle, 181 inches; Emmet, 174 inches; Alpena; 162 inches.

Not only did the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula receive much more snow than southern Michigan this year, but the entire northern area was hit harder this year than for the past 15 to 20 years.

Compounding the situation, lack of a traditional January thaw has created a condition in which water storage, in the form of snow, is at an all-time high. Some state officials are concerned that a sudden thaw might create an all-time record for water elevation in Lake Superior.

Highway Department officials report that the record snowfall, combined with extraordinarily and sustained high winds, resulted in the most severe blizzard conditions in history. Blizzard conditions were blamed for 13 Highway Department snowplows being struck from the rear this winter—another all-time record. In many areas, the same snow had to be removed from the highways several times.

The 1970-71 winter also will be remembered as the one that forced the closing of the Mackinac Bridge for the first time since it was opened in 1957. It was not the heavy snowfall, but the blizzard conditions resulting in zero visibility that halted bridge traffic.

Another record set by the 1970-71 winter—and it's not over—is cost. While cost totals are not yet in, the $10.2 million budgeted by the State Highway Department to maintain "bare pavement" on its 9,251 miles of highways already has exceeded by an estimated $3 million.

Fred Day, who operates the U.S. Weather Station at Sault Ste. Marie, probably expressed a northern Michigan consensus when he said, "It's been a hell of a winter!"
